KING'S, LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—An enthusiastic holiday audience extended a hearty welcome to Mr. Huntley Wright on his first visit here as a star. The principal piece of the evening is the three-act farce entitled The Mountain Climbers, and in this Mr. Wright was intensely funny as the sham mountaineer. Miss Kate Mills was excellent as the admiring wife, whose enthusiasm for her husband's bravery leads to all the mischief. Her two daughters, Alice and Betty, were charmingly played by Misses Christine McGill and Dora Barton, and their respective admirers by Messrs. Montague Elphinstone and Eric Maturin. Mr. Algernon Newark and Mr. Scott Craven made a picturesque couple of Swiss guides as the Rheinthalers, father and son. Miss Ivy Hertzog acted excellently as the Swiss girl, Lena; Mr. W. R. Staveley was well suited as Samuel Midgham. The play was preceded by a first-rate little comedy with a touch of pathos throughout, The Little Father of the Wilderness, and in this Mr. Huntley Wright demonstrated that his abilities are by no means confined to comic parts, his acting as the little priest being admirable. Mr. Eric Maturin, Mr. W. R. Staveley, and Miss Christine McGill gave able support.

PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—A Sailor's Sweetheart is this week being presented by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. Mr. Alfred Goddard is manly and powerful in the part of the hero, Lieut. Charles Clive; Miss Molly Pearson as Grace Mayland gives a charming and sympathetic representation; Mr. Arthur Elwyn shows himself quite equal to the part of Philip Pemberton; Mr. E. Bulwer Pitt as Captain Mayland, and Mr. D. Johnstone as the Rev. Robert Clive do commendable work. The comic element is well looked after by Mr. W. Fixott as Tim Kelly, Miss Minnie Raynor as Phœbe Pembury, and Miss Ida Ernest as Mrs. Pembury.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Strong dramatic fare is provided here in A Wrecker of Men, which Mr. C. Watson Mills' company is playing this week. Miss Rosalind Tate gives a powerful rendering of the part of the scheming adventuress, Risca Mallison; Mr. C. Watson Mill appears as Jim Murley, and is a big favourite with the audience.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—The popular musical comedy, The New Barmaid, is providing the attraction at Govan. Mr. Chas. Edward's company, including Mr. Joseph B. Montague and Mr. Alexander Loftus, fill the parts. Mr. Montague in his old rôle of Bertie White is as good as ever. His local hits are well received. He is ably assisted by Mr. Loftus in the part of William White, and the pair are responsible for most of the humour. Miss Maisie Ellinger in the title-rôle sings and acts throughout in pleasant fashion; Mr. Leslie Austin, in the part of Captain Lovebury, is also well received. Other parts are well played by Miss Hilda Blanche (Brenda Louth), Miss Violet Osmond (Dora Heather), Miss Winifred Preston (Lady Moulton), Mr. W. E. Chewd (Mons. Bonsor), and Mr. Jas. Grant (Colonel Claymore). The lady dancers assist in making an attractive production.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Limited; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Mussett.—The Craggs give their smart acrobatic sketch in the Channel Queen scene from Laughter Land, and show wonderful agility; J. F. Elliston and company appear in the popular old farce His Last Legs; Camille D'Alberg and company give excellent point to that thrilling little French play La Main, their dumb-show being most expressive; James Stewart, the tramp at the piano, is as clever as ever, and his musical eccentricities are much enjoyed; Luigos Sextette are clever singers and dancers; Florence Deighton (ballad vocalist). Alf Bishop, and Fred Lincoln (comedians), and the Trapnell Family in their neat and clever acrobatic speciality complete a varied programme.

ZOO-HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—After a successful week at the Coliseum Mr. George Gray and his company have been transferred here, and The Fighting Parson has proved a strong draw. The Steinway Quartette illustrated naval and other maritime deeds in their fine vocal entertainment, Songs of the Sea, in delightful manner; and George Tacius, who has a phenomenal vocal organ, is one of the successes of the evening. The Warsaw Bros. are as clever musicians as they are comedy artists. In equally complimentary terms we may note the ventriloquial display by Mr. David Poole; and notable successes are attained by Miss Gracie Grahame, a comedienne of much ability and charm of presence; Bert Byrne, stuttering comedian; and Allan Hanbury, comic vocalist, are also included in a capital programme. The American bioscope pictures are to the fore, as usual.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—A specially good company is here this week. Mignonne and company (including Alma Mary) give some clever dancing of various styles; Atalanta is an attractive young lady, who gives a novel and daring performance on the wire; Kitty Clover and company present a lively farce, entitled Mr. There's Heir. The Eight Lancashire Lads are strong favourites, and their clog-dancing evokes hearty applause; Bosanquet's violin playing is wondeful, and his ingenious instruments enhance the novelty of the turn; Harry Cleff contributes a most enjoyable vocal turn, in which he is artistically helped by the Pavilion permanent choir of ladies. Daisy Martell as a dancer and Winnie Scott as a coon impersonator contribute clever items, and Jack Hylton, Will Johnston, and Harry Nelson all do well as comedians.

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—Miss Marie Loftus is the chief attraction this week. She provides a most versatile turn, her many impersonations being extremely clever. The Artois Bros. go through some clever tricks on the triple horizontal bar; Burnetti, the impersonator of musical comedians, shows both cleverness and originality; Elsie Molly's company, in The Lady Bankrupt, gives a sprightly performance of the musical comedy order; Albert and Edmunds Troupe, in A Trip to Boulogne, give a clever interpretation of a humorous sketch. Other acceptable turns are provided by Sam Soda, the effervescent comedian; Herbert Shelley, who sings some clever songs of his own composition; and Canty's Grotto, a most artistic show. The Urban bioscope concludes an enjoyable programme with the very latest animated pictures.

PALACE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Rich. Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—An excellent entertainment is provided here this week. The principal item consists of Fred Karno's absurdity, Our Annual Social, presented by Lee Simpson's company. Another notable turn is that of Downes and Langford comedians. The other artists include Garden and Zesch, society entertainers; Nash and Noel, comedians; Rumbo Austin, acrobat; the Three Mays, comediennes and dancers; Effie White, mysterious fire dancer; Alethea, contortionist; C. Whittle, comedian; Polly Heath, comedienne and dancer; and the animatograph with a capital display of pictures.

QUEEN'S.—Lessees, Messrs. Colquhoun and Armstrong; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. M. Armstrong, jun.—Will Godwin, in a clever sketch with songs introduced, gives a good turn here; J. A. Cassels, the popular Scotch comedian, is a big favourite; Maude Edwards makes a hit as a ventriloquist; boxing bouts form a considerable portion of the programme.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Mr. B. M. Armstrong.—Much interest is taken in the gigantic film shown on the biograph here depicting the Britt v. Nelson boxing contest in California. The film is about a mile and a quarter in length, and shows with wonderful clearness all the movements of the boxers and the animation of the audience. Descriptive remarks by an American lecturer enhance the interest considerably.

GLOSSOP.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—This week Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Spenser's own company in Nell Gwynne; or, Sweet Nell of Old Drury, is at the theatre. Miss Lizzie Hall (Mrs. Sydney Spenser) in the title-rôle gives a delightful performance; Mr. Sydney Spenser as King Charles submits an excellent portrayal; Mr. Fulton Atherton makes a capital Duke of York; Mr. Jno. Templar Ellis is effective as Sir Edmund Godfrey; Mr. Charles Yorke contributes a powerful reading of Lord Rochester; and Miss Kathleen Magee as the Duchess of Portsmouth acts with ability. Mr. Clifford Marl dexterously handles the part of Roland Graeme; Mr. Wilton Marsh as Anthony Doublechick is worthy of praise; Mr. Edwin Ramsdale provokes merriment by his humorous impersonation of Bellicose Betterton; Mr. Leonard Humphries is capable as Matthew Gole; and Mr. Edward Allardice does well as the French Ambassador.

GLOUCESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Owners, C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. Rea.—This week a variety programme is the attraction, and at the head of the bill is the renowned Chung-Ling-Soo, who is proving a great draw, his illusions causing wonderment and applause. Other artists engaged include the Three Schaffers, in gladiatorial pastimes; Miss Ida Ross, Tyrolean vocalist; Mr. Bob Hamilton, Scotch comedian; Messrs. Starr and Jerome, duettists; Frank Keegan and company, in a laughable cycling performance, entitled Everyday Cyclists; Miss Cissie Curlette, mimetic vocalist; the Five Zerbinis, spectacular musical fantasia; and Les Rallis, in The Artist and the Monkey; and Lestrel, a clever juggler, completes a capital bill of fare.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Crowded houses are nightly delighted with the tuneful numbers and mirth-provoking episodes in a Chinese Honeymoon, as represented by Mr. George Dance's principal company. Mr. St. John Hamund is admirable as Hang Chow, Mr. Percy Russell is excellent as Chippi Chop, Hi Lung is well played by Mr. Jack Lisle, Mr. L. Bullock-Webster sings expressively and acts naturally as Tom Hatherton, and Mr. Foster Courtenay's Mr. Pineapple is a humorous and clever assumption. Miss Poppy Wilkinson is good as Mrs. Pineapple, Soo-Soo is charmingly represented by Miss Ada Watson, Miss Edie Ross is capital as Mrs. Brown, and Miss Minnie Leslie as Fi-Fi keeps the audience laughing uproariously at her oddities and eccentricities.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert.—A capital programme of varieties is provided for Easter week. Harry Friskey is a great success as a comedy juggler; the Four Musical Palmers supply a clever turn; Rex Fox proves himself both an expert wire-walker and an amusing ventriloquist; "Mystery Jauze" wins loud applause by his singing; the Akimoto troupe of Japanese give a wonderful display of balancing and water-spinning; the Francis troupe of male and female acrobats contribute a good show; Carl Lynn gives marvellously correct imitations of "animal language"; and various other artists are well received.

GREENOCK.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—This week's attraction here is Mr. Alfred B. Cross's company with The Manxman. Mr. Sydney C. Kearns is an excellent exponent of Philip Christian; Mr. Cross's impersonation of Pete is a first-class piece of acting; Mr. David Phillips is well suited as Cæsar Creegan; Mr. George Marriot, jun., deserves praise for his embodiment of Ross Christian; and Mr. Arthur J. Moss is a capable representative of Tom. Miss Mena Spearing does well as Miss Christian; the part of Nancy finds an admirable representative in Miss Nancy Mitchell; Miss Minnie Watersford gives a thoughtful study of Kate Creegan; and the other parts are all in safe hands.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—The principal turn here is by Hall and Earle, eccentric comedians, who prove very amusing. Other good turns are Harry Carmen, vocal comedian; Master Hastings, boy soprano; Paul Hesse Trio, acrobatic wire performers; Daisy Lane, comedienne; and the Brothers Gardiner, midget wrestlers and boxers.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Lessees, the Greenock Pavilion, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Wild, Willie, and West head the bill here, and their comedy turn is amusing. Others items of a good bill are Robbins and Collier in a comedy act entitled The Lady and the Porter; Fred Keeton, comedian; the Crystals, vocalists and dancers; the Melroses, who appear in a comedy duologue; J. P. Hope, vocalist; and La Paloma, vocalist and dancer.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Although it has been here many times, The Silver King has not declined in popularity one whit. In Mr. Herbert Ford a new Wilfred Denver is seen, and he worthily upholds the traditions of the character. Miss Daisy Scudamore is no less successful as Nellie Denver. Mr. A. J. Hicks makes an ideal Spider, and Mr. Arthur Wright as the bland but wily Eliah Coombe, Mr. Jas. L. Power as the timid Henry Corkett, and Mr. W. Thompson as Cripps are capital exponents of the Spider's accomplices. Miss C. Wynter is quite equal to the part of Olive Skinner, and Mr. Edward J. George is again seen as the faithful Jaikes.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Sam Elton, although he never utters a syllable whilst on the stage, causes roars of laughter each evening; Herr Fritz presents a wide variety of mystifying illusions; Addie Dorina's monologue, in which she represents several characters and accomplishes some wonderful quick changes, is received with special favour; and others contributing are Bessie Travis (ventriloquist), Frank Coyle (comedian), Linton (a skilful wire-walker), the New Hulines (musical clowns), and George Adams (a pleasing baritone).

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—Hanvaar and Lee's golfing speciality, besides displaying humour, includes smart club manipulation; J. B. Preston is an amusing Scottish comedian; and the upside-down boxing act of Hector and Lauraine is a decided novelty. The quick-change turn of Baroni and Kemp is particularly acceptable; Yorkshire Tom's animal mimicry is realistic; Elsie Earle proves a charming burlesque actress; and an excellent musical speciality is contributed by the Elgars, operatic duettists.

THE EMPIRE (CLEETHORPES).—Proprietor, Mr. J. Carter-White.—The Empire was opened for the Easter Holidays, the show principally consisting of animated pictures, a large number of novel films being exhibited.

HALIFAX.—GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—A gigantic vaudeville programme is headed here this week by Richard Sawade's tigers, dogs, polar bears, and lions—the most astounding wild animal act yet seen here. Another good turn is submitted by Cliff Ryland, an unctuous comedian; Mabel Field and Daisy Yates are amusing; Zetta is seen in a graceful cake-walk on the wire; Will Souls submits some excellent comedy; and Penistone and Tsaou-ngo, new Chino-American magicians, and the Clavers share in the honours bestowed.

THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—A delightful holiday attraction is Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush, which is making its initial appearance before the Halifax public. The finest piece of acting seen here for years is undoubtedly Mr. Wm. Mollison's interpretation of the old Highland sheep farmer, Lochlan Campbell. The interesting character of Tammas Mitchell is finely drawn by Mr. Kendal Chalmers; Mr. F. M. Paget is impressive in his original creation of the Earl of Kilspindie; Mr. A. Chappell does sterling work as Lord Hay; Mr. Durward Lely is very convincing as the Rev. John Carmichael. Miss Evely McNay as Flora Campbell fairly enthralls the house with her pathos in the character. A Happy Pair precedes the principal attraction.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. K. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Ed. Harrison.—The Empire Comedy Four, America's leading singing comedians; Lade Henderson, character vocalist; Jenny Reeve; Bros. Zampah, the Continental one-legged equilibrists; Les Frasettis, violin, 'cello, harp, and xylophone soloists; Walker and Lake; Hughes and Elliott and Voy's Juveniles, in their new comedy scena, Life in the Slums, are delighting crowded houses here.

HANLEY. — ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard. — Mr. George Dance's company opened here on Monday in The Orchid. Mr. Bertie Wright as Meakin makes the most of the part; Caroline is played by Miss Florence Vie in a manner which is highly effective and successful; Mr. Harry T. Bulter as Zaccary sings well and acts creditably; Lady Violet finds an admirable representative in Miss Chrissie Ralland; Mr. Alfred Bennett as the Honourable Guy is distinctly successful; as Zelie Rombert, Miss Elsa D'Usez acts well; Miss Rubie Garman as Thisbe portrays the part daintily; Miss Ida Chichester as the Countess is refined and stately; Dr. Ronald Faussett finds a manly exponent in Mr. C. Stone; Mr. William Benson scores in the part of de Cassignat, and is ably assisted by Mr. Cecil Frere and Mr. Buchanan Wake. Mr. F. Attree as the Registrar is most diverting; Josephine Zaccary in the hands of Miss Mamie Stuart is excellent.

GRAND.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes. — The Ergotti and King Luis Troupe of Risley performers contribute a truly wonderful acrobatic turn; the Aurora Troupe of acrobatic cyclists are well to the front in their marvellous performance, which is both daring and clever; Dome, the artist in clay, is a turn of much excellence; the Harvey Boys in the boxing act are clever and amusing; Nellie Coleman, comedienne, is distinctly successful in her songs; J. W. Hall is as funny as ever in his songs; Juno Salmo does some marvellous bending; Woodhouse and Wells are an entertaining pair, with funny patter; the pictures are well up to date.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock.—The Vaudeville success, The Catch of the Season, is the attraction here this week. Miss Maie Ash is charming as Angela; Mr. Frank Lincoln as the Duke of St. Jermyn's is a capable artist; Miss Alice Lethbridge, as usual, dances gracefully. The other members of the company are all suitably placed. Mr. Ernest Vousden has his large chorus and augmented orchestra well under control, and the dresses and mounting are very elaborate.

THE KURSAAL.—Manager and Musical Director, Mr. C. L. Naylor; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—This week's programmes are all very entertaining. In addition to the municipal orchestra, Mr. Charles Sullivan (bass), Mr. Harold Scott (pianist), Miss Elsie Jones (soprano), the Gems concert company, and the bioscope form the attractions.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Councillor Everton and Mr. J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—The holding capacity of this house was tested to the utmost at both performances on Monday. Premier position in the bill is occupied by the Alexandroff Troupe of Russian singers and dancers; Troba's performance as a cannon-ball manipulator is interesting; Edie Grey and her white coons discourse some sweet harmony; Gillin in ventriloquism is clever and humorous; Cecilia Maude, vocalist, is well received; and Will Russell, comedian, Will Walton, comedian, and the pictures are attractive numbers.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—This week Mr. R. C. Carton's farcical comedy Public Opinion holds the stage here, being played by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Mr. George Giddens, the original exponent of Horace Wibsey, repeats his amusing assumption of the rôle; Mr. William Hargreaves (Mr. Justice Mulley), Mr. George Mallett (Sir Babbington), Mr. Harold West (Viscount Pomfey), Mr. Ernest Ruston (Spencer Traughton), and Mr. Templer Powell (Lord Percy) are respectively very entertaining in their search for the incriminating love-letters. Miss Emma Hutchison adds greatly to the success of the farce by her assumption as Lady Diana, Miss Lilian Hallows is smart as Pansy, whose maid Charlotte is well impersonated by Miss Alice Bunnett, and Miss Mary Mallalieu is graceful as Phyllis Dagenham. A cleverly-acted comedietta, The Stratagem, precedes the farce.

HIPPODROME.—Resident and General-Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams.—The holiday programme contains the names of some good artists. Miss Millie Denham is an attractive vocal comedienne, Mr. J. W. Ellison (the swell vocalist) is accorded a hearty reception, Miss Nelly Lewis (burlesque artist) contributes a good turn, the Cotton Blossom Quartette in their drawing-room entertainment achieve success, Tyrola gives some capital examples of Tyrolean singing, Will Poluski (comedian) proves exceedingly amusing, Queenie Leighton sings some capital songs, and a clever turn is given by the Four Athos. The Hippodrome bioscope still retains its popularity.

PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—An Easter burlesque, entitled *Bluebeard, Esq

Lester Carey a creditable Tom Everleigh. Miss Nellie Hodgson plays with acceptance as Mlle. Julie; Miss Gwennie Harcourt's portrayal of Ruth is a meritorious performance; and Miss Lucia Collins makes a charming Norah. Mme. Ilma Norina gives an adequate rendering of Mrs. Honeycombe. A speciality dance by Miss Ducie Sanderson is much appreciated.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietors, Morton's, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. George Morton.—Her Luck in London, presented by Mr. George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil, is playing to crowded houses here this week. The principal rôle of Nellie Harborne is undertaken by Miss Neil, whose powerful acting is the great feature of the play. Valuable support is rendered by Mr. Chas. A. Leicester as the Hon. Gerald O'Connor, the hero, and Mr. Stephen Crossley, who skilfully portrays Richard Lenowen. The part of Stephen Harborne is capably presented by Mr. Tyrone Power; and Mr. Douglas Tremayne as the Rev. Lionel Strong is also well suited. Miss Ella Vane and Miss Frances Waring do good work as Ruth and Lilian Harborne; and Miss Florrie Groves as the maid is also deserving of special comment.

Ilkeston.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The attraction for the holiday week is Mr. Reginald H. Adair's company in the drama The Luck of Life, in which Miss Isabel Marte is highly successful as Réne Bazilovitz. The part of George Stanhope is well sustained by Mr. Norman A. Overton, and that of Bahadur is admirably embodied by Mr. H. Hesslegrave. The comedy is entrusted to Mr. George Davis as Simon Stanley and Miss Dora Huggett as Laura North, both artists being worthy of great praise. The Misses G. Bonser and F. Russell as Countess Vlarne and Vivienne D'Artois are capable exponents of their respective rôles, Messrs. E. Turner and A. Cuthbertson as Count Petroff and Ivan Polowski are suitably placed, and Mr. Roland Yorke as Michael Bazilovitz, the villain, is an actor of merit.

Queen's Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Knightall.—The Terrys, facial impersonators, are at the head of the bill, and are well received. Algernon is good as a tramp contortionist, Belle Leaburn is a commendable descriptive vocalist, and Florrie Wright (vocalist), Jack Truman (tenor), T. W. Lenner (comedian), and Alice Ashby (serio) are also very praiseworthy.

Ipswich.—Lyceum Theatre.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. C. Jennings.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company occupies the boards for Easter week. On Monday The Taming of the Shrew was presented. Mr. Henry Herbert made a spirited representative of Petruchio, and was ably supported by Miss Gertrude Scott as Katharina. Miss Kate Turner as Bianca was satisfactory, and the other parts were adequately filled. Macbeth, Twelfth Night, The Merry Wives of Windsor, and She Stoops to Conquer were also presented during the week.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. H. E. Bostock.—An attractive programme has been presented here for the holiday week. Wieland, an American juggler, made a decided hit on Monday with his neat and clever tricks; Stewart and Morgan rendered some well-known Irish melodies, Avon and Crest were well received, and other turns included the Two Errolls (comedians), Oakdene (an accomplished ventriloquist), and Miss Daisy May.

Jarrow.—Royal Albert Hall.—Manager, Mr. L. F. Sanderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Wallace.—This week's company includes Fred Cary, comedian; Cavalli, juvenile juggler; the Sisters Volbecque, comedy duettists; Cliff and Kean, comedians and dancers; Milstead and Bell, in a musical comedy scena, entitled The Belle of Arizona; Carson Hicks, buck dancer; Clicquot, sword and arc-lamp swallower; W. G. Webber, basso; and Payne's Bio-Photoscope with a fresh set of pictures.

Jersey.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson and company commenced their biennial visit here on Saturday night with Julius Cæsar. Mr. George Buchanan gave a dignified and well studied rendering of the name-part; Mr. F. R. Benson displayed considerable rhetorical ability as Marcus Antonius; Mr. B. A. Piltar's presentation of Brutus deserves warm praise; as Cassius Mr. Cyril Keightley proved himself a finished actor; Miss Leah Hanman did well as Lucius; Miss Tita Brand undertook the rôle of Calpurnia; and Mrs. F. R. Benson picturesquely portrayed the part of Portia. The piece was well staged. Much Ado about Nothing, King Lear, Henry V., The Taming of the Shrew, and Hamlet are also in the week's programme.

Kendal.—St. George's Hall.—Mr. Charles Clifford and company are appearing here this week in that powerful drama On Circumstantial Evidence. Mr. Clifford, who is the author of the play, is a capable actor, and in the character of Captain Hamilton, a renegade British officer, serving with Garibaldi in that leader's fight for freedom, earns unstinted praise. Mr. Wilson Brash ably fills the part of Jack Ogilvy, the hero, in a most manly and inspiriting fashion, and is well supported by Miss K. Wigney as Violet, his wife. The humorous element is in capable hands, Mr. Newton Pearce as Jeremiah Tobin and Miss M. Stewart as Polly Smithers evoking peals of laughter from a delighted audience. A special feature of the performance is the appearance of the local volunteer band, who naturally add to the military flavour of the play.

Kettering.—Avenue Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Payne.—Mr. E. Oswald Brooks' company is here with The Trail of the Serpent. Mr. Hobson Asche gives a good performance as Gerald Kingston; Mr. Willford Cheetham portrays the evil nature of Ralph Hammond in admirable style; Miss Marjorie May is successful as Ethel Maynard; and the comedy characters of Higgins and Rose are well presented by Mr. Vincent Kelway and Miss Gladys Newcombe.

King's Lynn.—New Royal Theatre.—Lessees, J. Bannister Howard, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Herr B. Pareezer.—Mr. Tom H. Taylor's strong company is presenting The Worst Woman in London here this week. The drama is well staged and acted. As Frances Vere, "The Worst Woman," Miss Florence Dalton shows herself a capable actress, and well portrays the varying moods of the rôle. Mr. Wallace Campbell is good as Jack Felton, and Mr. H. H. Barrington is natural as James Milford. The part of Milford's daughter Ruth is gracefully acted by Miss Effie Bartlett, Mr. Percy Dawson makes a lively Bob Goldfinch, and the part of Hugh Drayton, the father of Frances Vere, is well acted by Mr. H. W. Monte. Philip Armstrong is forcibly presented by Mr. Leonard Booker, and Miss Florence Lovell is humorous as Matilda Packer. The part of Vincent Lyle is well sustained by Mr. Paul Barry Lowers.

Lancaster.—Athenæum.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hy. Wilkinson.—Mr. Smith has proved a big attraction for the holidays, opening on Saturday evening to a crowded house. Mr. Smith was remarkably well acted by Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart, who has an aristocratic appearance and a pleasing manner. Mr. William Dunlop as the Duke of Angleland gave an admirable interpretation of the part, and the Earl of Oxted had a sympathetic exponent in Mr. Sydney Price. Mr. Herbert Graham's impersonation of the Milwaukee millionaire was in every way admirable; an earnest embodiment of Jack Berkeley was contributed by Mr. Austin Spencer; and Mr. Rupert Stutfield was an efficient Hon. Dudley Dysart. Miss Mary Relph made an excellent Duchess of Angleland; a pretty and artless Lady Mary Hildergate was Miss Ethel Milton, whose impulsive acting was both winning and effective. Miss Phyllis Relph was exceedingly good as the American lady, and Mrs. Alfred Davis gave an excellent portrayal of Mrs. Smith.

Palace.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. W. J. Fergusson and J. Porter.—The last week of the season is announced at this bijou palace, and a capital holiday programme has been arranged. Marie San Toi and company are paying a welcome return visit, and have a great reception. George French, comedian, is an old favourite with Lancastrians, and brings down the house with his eccentricities; and Levarni is smart on the tight wire. Another capital turn is that of Renson and Waite, vaudeville entertainers; Chas. Deaton, comedian, sings well; and Edie Endon merits rounds of applause for her clever dancing. Miss Lilly Currie, vocalist, is well received; and Walter Payne's animated pictures complete the bill.

Leamington.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Mr. Herbert Ralland's principal company is here this week appearing with conspicuous success in the popular comic opera, La Poupée. Miss Dot Stephens gives a clever impersonation of Alesia; Mr. Fred Seymour as Pilarius has made the part his own. His business never strikes one as forced or mechanical; it is full of those little surprises and odd, unexpected effects which prevent an audience from being surfeited. Mr. Arthur Cozens successfully appears as the novice, Launcelot; Mr. Walter Balfour as Father Maxime is a dignified head of the monastic fraternity; Mr. Fuller Allen and Mr. Arthur Dennis respectively play the parts of the Baron Chanterelle and Loremois in creditable manner; and Miss Doris Dickens makes the most of her opportunities as Henri; Miss Edith Hunter as Madame Hilarius being also very good.

Leeds.—Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—A brilliant revival of San Toy is Mr. John Hart's holiday attraction. The cast includes many popular favourites, notably Mr. Frank Danby, whose quaint drolleries as the wily Li are a source of continual merriment. Yen-How, as presented by Mr. John Humphries, is a very amusing personage; and Mr. Alfred Clark makes the Emperor quite a merry monarch. Mr. Dennis Drew evinces vocal and histrionic abilities in his portrayal of Captain Bobby; and the peppery Sir Bingo is a characteristic effort by Mr. W. J. Manning. In the rôle of Fo-Hop, Mr. Frederick Hobbs does well in a vocal sense, the duet with Chu-San (ably interpreted by Miss Louie Collier) being one of the most admired features. A charming San Toy is Miss Fanny Dango; a graceful presentation of Poppy Preston goes to the credit of Miss Rhoda Gordon; and the Dudley of Miss Maud Darling is a sprightly and pleasing personage. Mr. Jocelyn Hope, Mr. George Taylor, and Miss May Gould are also filling prominent parts.

Theatre Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—Stirring drama is always a popular holiday attraction at the Royal, and this week's entertainment, Life's Sweetest Sins, is playing to crowded houses twice a night. The heroine is played with charm and sympathy by Miss Marie Daventry; a most effective presentation of the villain, Dr. Colbrooke, is contributed by Mr. Oswald Douglas; and other big parts are capably handled by Mr. T. Arthur Jones, Mr. Robert Sawin, and Miss Mary Ainsley. Some welcome comedy is infused into the piece by Mr. Edgar Morgan and Mr Henry Martin.

Queen's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—Miss May Austin brings her talented company on a most welcome return visit with The Cotton Spinner. The accomplished actress impressively sustains many dramatic situations in her portrayal of Margaret Prescott; and bluff old John Prescott is faithfully enacted by Mr. John S. Haydon. Mr. Edwin F. Fysher and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds, in the parts of Lord Northbury and his son Arthur respectively, show conspicuous ability. Mr. Ernest G. Edwards, Mr. Charles F. Wilton, and Miss Bella Power also do good work.

Empire Palace.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—That drollest of comedians, Wilkie Bard, leads the fun here, and his quaint methods arouse the liveliest merriment; the veteran Horace Wheatley is also very entertaining with joke and story, and nimbleness of foot; and still another smart and successful comedian appears in Walter Stanley. Fred Russell is giving a ventriloquial turn; comic juggling is the feature of Derenda and Green's turn; the Sisters Jonghmanns are favourites; and there are three clever lady artists in the bill—Daisy Mayer, Gladys Mavius, and Nellie Stratton.

Tivoli.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; General Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—The Colberg Family head the holiday programme with an effective musical speciality. That clever comedian, Whit Cunliffe, is on an early return visit; the eccentricities of Regan and Ryan and Rastus and Banks are very popular; and Chas. F. Best scores with his comic speciality. A clever company does well with Fred Moule's screamingly comic episode, The Battle of the Belles; the Sisters Cora distinguish themselves in a vocal speciality; Nina Elmo is a charming comedienne; Geo. Grogie, the country yokel; Harry Vardon, ventriloquist; and Anthony, the mysterious gentleman in white, also make successful appearances.

City Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Charles Morritt is here with a series of illusions; Bromley and Fontein ably bottom the bill; Marstro and Mlle. Oretta present an entertaining speciality; the Bros. Corcoran score with a musical show; Ryder Slone makes a popular reappearance; Edgar Budden, skating expert, has a big reception; and Boy Glen, juvenile raconteur, and the Sisters Walmsley, in song and dance, are other strong items.

Leicester.—Royal Opera House.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company in the sensational melodrama A Sister's Sin forms the attraction here this week. Both Mrs. F. G. Kimberley (the authoress) as Minnie Hastings and Mr. F. G. Kimberley as Larry Murphy play with great success. Mr. William Vane is good as Harold Raymond, and Mr. Ernest Fare as George Oakley, Mr. Charles Locke as Walter Hastings, Mr. Ernest Frere as Ikey Moscs, and Mr. Horace Custins as Theophilus Hope are also to be complimented. Mr. G. E. Liddle is amusing as Billy Smart, Miss Augusta Tulloch as Charzel and Miss Violet Langley as Redempta (two gipsies) are excellent, Miss Elsie May as Jack is greatly admired, little Dorothy Vivian is capital as May Raymond, and as the rival lovers Floss Perks and Nell Stubbs, Miss Jenny Clare and Miss Alice Granville are humorous.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—The holiday attraction here is provided by Messrs. Darcy and Little's company with On the Stroke of Twelve. Mr. W. Matthews as Jack Rutledge and Mr. Fred Guinness as George Bainbridge do well, and Miss Bertha St. Ruth and Miss Nellie Moore as Doris and Jess are capital. Mr. R. A. Greene is a success as James Horton, being well seconded by Mr. Syd Russell as Moses Levi; Miss Florence Trevor does well as Marie Begerre, and Mr. P. Palmer as Henry Rutledge, Mr. W. H. Burton as Van Dyke, and Mr. Thomas Young as Keeper Dole are also commendable. Mr. Fred J. Little as the coloured man Jasper is amusing. Specialities are a feature of the play, being introduced by Messrs. Bass and Guinness, patterers, singers, and dancers; Miss Nellie Moore, soubrette; Syd Russell, eccentric comedian and dancer; Miss Bertha St. Ruth, ballad vocalist; and Fred J. Little, musical comedian and laughing negro comedian.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews.—The enormous holiday audiences here are loud in their praise of the fine programme submitted by Mr. Oswald Stoll, included in which is Cruikshank, the delightfully funny singing clown, whose quaint drolleries and songs are accorded quite an ovation. La Berat, "the mystic fire maiden," is seen to considerable advantage in various dances; Brett and Orford, the versatile couple, score a well-deserved success; the Ten Genis submit a remarkably clever Risley performance; the Wolkowsky Troupe of Russian singers and whirlwind dancers are very smart; the Sisters Klos are seen in some pretty and astounding feats of strength; Alf. Chester proves a popular turn; Eugen Joly delights all with his finely-rendered cornet solos; and the bioscope, as usual, throws on the screen a selection of the latest subjects.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—A good all-round programme is presented here, included in which are: The Brothers Ashley, with their comedy sketch Next, Please; Tod Lowan, comedian; Lillie Lassah, a vivacious and popular comedienne and dancer; the Darrell Trio of musicians and vocalists; Rita and Roma, with their high-class vaudeville act; Martin Henderson, the blind musician; Mantell and Oval, eccentric acrobats and knockabout cyclists; and Walter H. Pallister's bioscope.

Temperance Hall.—Joseph Poole's combination opened their season here on Monday afternoon. Well-chosen variety is again a characteristic of the programme, which is contributed to by Felix de Marce's performing ponies, dogs, and baboons; Felix Somers in his entertaining People We Know, the Abadaroff Troupe of acrobats, the Vernons (lady dancers), Miss May Finch (characteristic vocalist), the Cameos (patter comedians), and Mr. Nat Abatt, the guide, who describes the various pictures in a delightfully telling and humorous manner. Animated pictures are also shown.

Leigh.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Dewhurst.—Mr. Ian Maclaren's Shakespearean and Répertoire company is appearing here this week. Hamlet was selected for Monday. Mr. Maclaren was responsible for a masterly impersonation of the title-rôle; Miss Gertrude Gilbert gave an artistic rendering of Ophelia; Horatio found a good representative in Mr. Stanley Roberts; Mr. Aubrey Mather submitted a careful study of Claudius; Miss F. Glossop Harris contributed a commendable exposition of Gertrude; and Mr. F. Robertson filled the part of the Priest most effectively. Wednesday was set apart for a grand complimentary benefit to Mr. J. Dewhurst under the distinguished patronage of the Mayor and Mayoress of Leigh, when Mr. Dewhurst undertook the part of Othello and Mrs. Dewhurst Desdemona. David Garrick, As You Like It, The Merchant of Venice, and The Three Musketeers are also billed.

Leith.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—No Wedding Bells for Her is being presented here by Frank Bateman's company. The cast, which is a large one, includes that well-known and talented emotional actress, Miss Lizzie Montague, who sustains with much force the part of Lola Delaspierre. Miss Ida Mackay plays the rival actress and heroine, Doris Fane, very nicely indeed; and Miss Alice Mattin makes a capital study of Peggy. Mr. G. C. Doughty is excellent as Delver, the detective; and Mr. Stuart Lomath makes an admirable clergyman. Mr H. J. Walton and Mr. Will Skelton also figure to advantage.

Limerick.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Robert Fogerty.—Mr. Roy Jackson's dramatic company is here this week, and on Monday night appeared in the pathetic drama, entitled Oliver Twist. Fagin, the Jew, had an exceptionally clever interpreter in Mr. Roy Jackson; and, as Bill Sikes, Mr. Edwin Beverley was very clever and truly realistic. As Monks, Mr. Lawrence was good; whilst Mr. Brownlow was well portrayed by Mr. C. Allister. The Artful Dodger was delightfully acted by Mr. R. Wood; and Charley Bates had a clever exponent in Mr. Stewart. The parts of Giles, Grimwig, and Bumble were excellently played by Messrs. E. Hayes, A. Beaufort, and C. Duval; whilst the rôle of Tom Chitling was forcibly sustained by Mr. P. Stevenson. The rôle of poor little Oliver was pathetically portrayed by Miss Florrie Hayes; and as Mrs. Bedwin, Miss Townsend was very artistic. Mrs. Bumble had a good exponent in Miss B. Richardson; and Miss V. Lesborough was charmingly graceful as Rose Maylie. That clever actress, Miss Kittie Douglas, forcibly acted the ill-fated Nancy. On Tuesday night a good performance of Trilby, with Mr. Roy Jackson as Svengali, and Miss Douglas in the title-rôle, was given.

Lincoln.—Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank King.—A very well-written piece is Mr. Smith, which was heartily acclaimed on Monday. Mr. Walter Reynolds has sent a capable company, including Mr. Stephen T. Ewart, as the much-discussed Earle Godwyn Smith; Mr. W. E. Holloway is very good indeed as the profligate duke; Mr. C. P. Band ably plays the part of Dysart; and Mr. H. Carter Bligh makes a strong character of Berkeley; the Earl of Oxted has an efficient representative in Mr. Russell Norris; and Mr. Fred Darrell is amusing as Anheuser. The ladies all carry off high honours. Miss Elspeth Dudgeon is admirably effective as the duchess, and Miss Daisy England is an excellent contrast as the homely Miss Smith. Miss Elsine Gaunt is as charming a Lady Mary as could be imagined; and Miss Fyfe Alexander wins favour as Ruth.

Palace.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Arthur.—The King's College Boys present an effective act, giving a musical turn based partly on concerted work in airs from The Bohemian Girl, Faust, Trovatore, &c., while the soloists are exceptionally good. Janet H. Reynolds is a serio of merit; and May Moodie deserves praise for her piccolo solos. Lee and Kingston are successful comedians; Edna Latonne renders her songs in good style; and other entertaining items come from the Raymond Trio, Mersano, Francisco, and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

Liverpool.—Royal Court Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The Prince of Pilsen paid a return visit to the leading theatre this week, and was welcomed by large holiday audiences. Mr. Geo. Musgrave's company, that presented the merry musical comedy, was a capital one. Mr. Edwin Adeler appeared in his original part of Hans Wagner, providing most of the fun; as the Prince Mr. Stuart Alexander sang and acted most agreeably, a charming Nellie Wagner was submitted by Miss Ruby Verdi, Miss Nellie Cozens made a sprightly American widow, a pleasing Edith Adams was portrayed by Miss Mildred Baker, and every satisfaction followed the efforts of Mr. G. Villiers Arnold as Tom Wagner, Mr. Lawrence Wensley as Arthur Willoughby, and Miss Clara Stanton in her delineation of a New York girl.

Shakespeare Theatre.—Lessees, The Shakespeare Theatre Company, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—The management of this popular theatre has had the honour of introducing to Liverpool the successful drama Leah Kleschna, which throughout the week has been played before delighted audiences. The company sent by Mr. Charles Frohman is in every respect admirably fitted to realise the strong points of this fine work. Miss Haidee Wright distinguished herself in the title part, and earned rounds of applause; Mr. Robert Pateman's assumption of Kleschna was generally regarded as the finest thing that clever actor has ever done, his naturalness as the hunted burglar being a wonderful exhibition of histrionic skill; Mr. J. Graeme Campbell presented a perfect Paul Sylvaine, handling his somewhat difficult part with that discretion which marks the true artist; Mr. Cyril Harcourt, in the unpleasant rôle of Raoul, acquitted himself creditably; every praise is due to Mr. E. H. Brooke for his excellent character of Schram; and the minor parts were held by very competent exponents—Mr. Kenneth Rivington as General Berton, Mr. Roland Daniel as Valentin, and Miss Haidee Hemsley as Claire. The scenery was particularly effective, and that of the last act, showing the acres of lettuces, so natural that the rising of the curtain was the signal for prolonged applause.

Rotunda Theatre.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—When Woman Hates, presented by Miss Nettie Ware's company, has been a strong holiday attraction here. Miss Mabel Mannering as Cora Daintry played with much dramatic power, a strong supporter was Mr. Charles Herberte in the rôle of General Rokeby, whose son, Lieut. Rokeby, found in Mr. Jerrold Heather a worthy exponent; Miss Maude Townsend afforded much satisfaction as the latter's wife; as an assistant to the villainous Cora, Mr. J. G. Maine presented an excellent Godfrey Lawton, and other able artists were Mr. Alfred Grenville as the Colonel, Miss Violet Leal as Nellie, and Miss Gladys Lloyd as Edith. The scenery was very appropriate.

Lyric Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—The programme arranged for the holiday week is giving great satisfaction. The New York Comedy Four are always welcome, and their reception has been most gratifying; the Brothers Bellong give a daring cycling act, and are loudly applauded; another clever gymnastic turn is that of the Morchanis, who are deservedly applauded. The Kimberley Boys are amusing, the Sisters Terry are well received, Paul Vandy's juggling is good, Harry Bancroft has a fine voice, the Brothers Easdale are clever comedians, and Miss Frances Haskoll's electric novelty is duly appreciated.

Star Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The stage is occupied here this week with Mr. Harry Foxwell's company in An Abandoned Woman. Miss Georgette Thierry in the title part played with much effect, displaying considerable ability; Mr. Wolston Foster made a manly Captain Seaton, a deal of humour resulted from the efforts of Mr. Harry Foxwell as an Irish policeman, Mrs. Harry Foxwell tenderly portrayed Eleanor Dean, Mr. George Gormley afforded satisfaction as Sir Marmaduke Seaton, Mr. J. W. Butler made a sufficiently villainous Phillipe Malvoisin, and good support came from Mr. Nelson Ford as Robert Saunders, Mr. Norman Morbis as Pierre, and Miss Ruby Roma in the rôle of the housemaid.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. F. L. Arthur.—A company, under the direction of Mr. P. Howard Sturgess, has this week been presenting A Queen of Villainy. Miss Edith Blande as Cora Granville acts with her well-known ability, Mr. Edward Heanley is effectively villainous as Stephen Faucit, Mr. Chas. Stirling does justice to the rôle of Dick Leinster (the escaped convict), Miss Shirley Dalton is a sympathetic Rose Delmayne, as the waif Kit Mr. Lawrence Stevenson proves pleasing, Mr. Arthur Beverley presents a well-finished Alec, one of the best-drawn types of character is that of Sally Chimes, by Miss Amy Ross Clyde, and a deal of humour is provided by Mr. Cecil de Lee as the policeman and Mr. Charles Rogers as Timothy Kodac.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—Mike S. Whallen, the versatile comedian, is foremost here this week with a lot of new songs and talk; his reception has been very gratifying. Menetekel, introduced by Mr. and Mrs. Berob-Ronorah, has proved very mystifying; Percy Honri, a humorous concertina player, provoked much laughter; Terry and Lambert, a smart pair of comedians, were very diverting, and loudly applauded; a capital turn was provided by Morton and Elliott, paper-tearers, vocalists, and instrumentalists; Kyoto caused great laughter with his comedy Japanese box; a very comic trifle was Fanny's Flat, played by Elsie Hill and company; Helen Mar told a number of witty tales, and others who appear are May Geraldine (comedienne) and Mattie Wilkes (coloured vocalist).

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Principal here this week is Arthur Roberts, who has been heartily welcomed. Along with his company he has been causing great laughter by producing The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife. Another good turn was that by Herbert Lloyd and Lillian Lilyan in Jack of All Trades; Master of None. Some capital clog-dancing is executed by Frank Leon, Helen Lambert and Fred C. Glover have a farcical duologue, some neat singing and dancing come from Nancy St. John, the playette His Birthday by Mr. and Mrs. Royston Dene and company is much enjoyed, Dave O'Toole affords satisfaction as a comedian, as does Harry Lawson in the same line, Ailsa Douglas contributes some taking songs, and others in the bill were Alix Lukos (mimic) and Mamie Cannon (vocalist). On Easter Monday an extra matinée, well patronised, was given.

New Parthenon.—Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—At this popular house Shawlene, a remarkable whistler, is paying a return visit, and is received with much acclamation; Tom Colins, light comedian, gives an excellent turn; the dancing and singing of Beatie Kent gains appreciation, as comedy duettists the Carney Bros. afford every satisfaction, Nellie Swage is a dainty vocalist, and Harry Hale acquits himself well as a comedian.

Royal Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The holiday attraction here this week is Frank M. Thorne's dramatic sketch Her One Great Sin, in nine tableaux. Mr. Percy Boucher is a humorous Jerry Jumble; Miss Lina Nazeby (an accomplished actress) plays with much credit the rôle of Grace Warhurst, Mr. Harry Tresham is an admirable Reuben Warhurst, Mr. Cecil Ravenswood (an experienced actor) handles the part of Jack Hundle with effect, the character of Bet Hundle is ably presented by Miss Sara Blumenthal, and Miss Beryl Ravenswood makes a good Nancy Wympenny. Some interesting pictures are shown by the bioscope.

Paddington Palace.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—W. L. Lee and company are paying a return visit here with the domestic sketch, in six tableaux, A Life of Sin, which is well put on. Sive Selé, with his mystifying feats in an Indian temple, proves a most interesting turn; Madge Roberts sings and dances in pleasing style, and Hattee Hall, as a manipulator of many instruments, shows great skill. The bioscope is not the least interesting part of the evening's entertainment.

Park Palace.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—A full programme is presented here this week, at the head of it being Gus Harris, Hebrew character delineator, with his latest vocal scena The Synagogue; the Mannikins Haydees provide a beautiful and artistic act, Hector and Paulus are a smart pair of society gymnasts, Tom E. Johnstone (a comedian) has several good songs, J. P. Boston gives an acceptable show as an English and Irish entertainer, The Military Band is an enjoyable trifle by the Bros. Adderley (duettists and mimics), Violet Ashcroft sings with taste, Emmie Ames distinguishes herself with the scena Emmie's Christmas Tree, and Rose Leslie (comedienne and dancer) also appears.

Westminster.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Foremost here this week is J. A. Wilson, the black oracle, with his lively negro entertainment, in which appears the intelligent dog Towser; as comediennes the Sisters Russell (Ida and Lill) are deserving of praise, Caselli and James give a capital exhibition of banjo playing, L. B. Athol has a pretty vocal trifle Dreamland, Mlle. De Rose, "the lady Foli," possesses a remarkable baritone voice, and J. W. Hawtrey, actor vocalist, and Jennie Reeves, comedienne, are also in the programme.

Olympia.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—Included in the attractive bill put forward here this week is Joe Elvin and his company of comedians with the exceedingly funny 'Appy 'Ampstead, which has been richly enjoyed; the Lukushima troupe of Japanese acrobats provide an excellent entertainment, Spessardy's trained bears and ponies are watched with the keenest interest, an amusing comedy incident Cora's Visitors is presented by Ruby and Laws, smart whistling and dancing by the Brothers Dean prove an enjoyable turn, Virto (assisted by Irene and Venita) has a refined musical act, a deal of laughter follows the "bullfighting" tricks of the Two Bostons, and Jessie Merrilees does well as a comedienne.

Llandudno.—Grand Theatre.—Responsible Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Commencing on Saturday, April 14, and playing throughout Easter week, Mr. Norman Macowan's London company occupied this theatre with Monsieur Beaucaire and A Soldier of Fortune. As Monsieur Beaucaire Mr. Norman Macowan is excellent, fully justifying all that has been previously said of him. He is capitally supported by a thorough company of artists, the Captain Badger of Mr. P. Ramsey Forman being all that could be desired. Miss Marguerite Collier as Lady Mary Carlisle gives an accomplished portrayal. The scenery is good, and the pieces are in all ways staged well.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Clay; Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. R. Chaplin.—Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday saw Mr. Charles Carey's company in the musical comedy, After the Ball. The musical and comic portions of this were received by large audiences with frequent outbursts of applause and laughter. The drolleries, facial expression, and comicalities of Mr. Victor Widdowcombe as Colonel Joseph Merit fairly convulsed the house, whilst the "truths" of Messrs. Walter Halliwell as Halliwell Merit and Mr. Buckstone Clair as Martin were excellently explained. Miss Florence Smithers as Nancy caused roars of laughter with her songs and grimaces; Miss Nellie Groves as Nellie Mather and Miss May Florence as Ruth Gay well sustained their respective parts. The dancing of the Gibson Girls was very pleasing. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday Faust, Bohemian Girl, and Maritana were presented.

Londonderry.—Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Payne Seddon.—Mr. Edmund Tearle, with Miss Kate Clinton, is here for the Easter week, producing Ingomar, Jeannie Deans, Three Musketeers, Hamlet, and Othello. In Jeannie Deans Miss Kate Clinton in the title-rôle gave a fine rendering of the part, and Miss M. Campbell was successful as Effie Deans. Mr. Edmund Tearle played the part of Counsel for the Defence capitally. Mr. James Skea as David Deans was excellent, and Mr. Vernon Crabtree embodied the Duke of Argyll very finely. Miss Esther Tearle scored as Madge Wildfire.

Loughborough.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—Mr. John Gerant's company in the successful military drama, At Duty's Call, is the attraction this week. As Harold Allison, Mr. John Gerant proves himself an actor of ability, and Mr. Leonard Williams makes a manly Captain Allison. Mr. Harry Ugar causes plenty of laughter by a droll impersonation of Terry O'Halloran, and he receives excellent support from Miss Harlington, who creates much amusement as Mary. Miss Edith Knight makes a sympathetic Dora Drummond, Mr. Ernest St. John a dignified General Gordon, Miss Georgina Hamilton a clever Salema, while Mr. Ivan Mavis is good as Joey Trot.

Lowestoft.—Marina.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Excellently staged and dressed, we have this week a welcome return visit of A Message from Mars, well presented by Mr. Fredk. Mouillot's company. Mr. Cyril Austin Lee appears to advantage as Horace Parker, and submits a really finished piece of acting. The messenger is capably undertaken by Mr. W. H. Broughton; and other parts are carefully portrayed. Miss May Saker is well placed as Minnie Templar, and Miss Parker finds a capable representative in Mrs. Edward Saker. Mr. Bruce Lindley gives an admirable character-study as the tramp.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Miles Gilbert.—The bill for the holiday week includes Harry Tate's Motoring; Leslie and Player; Reg. Bolton, comedian; the Two Eltons, bar performers; Mlle. Sara's marbiesque trio; Tom Culeen; Master Jamesie; the Three Rickards, &c.

Luton.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Business-Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—A Traitor Prince is being presented here this week by Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's company. Prince Rao Dalmirez is well interpreted by Mr. G. M. Montanini, Lieut. Derrick is in the capable hands of Mr. Ernest Duval, humour is supplied by Mr. Edmund O'Grady and Mr. Edward Fenton as Bobby Bright and Vavasour Dalrymple respectively, and Vashti, the Indian snake charmer, is admirably portrayed by Miss Nita Langford.

Macclesfield.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Mr. Alfred H. Cook's company, in The Prodigal Son, opened here on Monday. As Jack Fanshaw, Mr. Ellerslie Pyne portrays the part with earnestness. Mr. W. A. Buckstone as Harry Fanshaw is well placed; Bill Burke finds an able exponent in Mr. Ambrose Horton; Mr. John Bryce proves himself a capable actor as Ralph Marsden; Mr. J. S. Chamberlain as Larry M'Gehan causes roars of laughter, and he is ably seconded by Miss Rosie Kearns as Mary. Miss Marion Forrester is very good as Margaret; Miss Nora Bedford as Nelly Burke is a pleasing portrayal; Miss Nellie Hook as Dick is praiseworthy.

Maidenhead.—Pavilion Pleasure Gardens.—Proprietor, Mr. G. Gude.—These Gardens are open for Bank-holiday week, and immense crowds are attracted. There are various improvements since last year, and the entertainment provided is first-class. For Easter Monday the G a very smart comedy and clog-dancing performance; Florrie Cooper is a pleasing vocalist; and a good turn is that of Les Rupertos, equilibrists.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Richard Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Gus Flanagan.—Miss Grace Warner's company is here this week in an interesting and sensational drama, The Scarlet Clue. Miss Grace Warner herself sustains the important rôle of Sal Scarlet (a part of various aliases) with considerable power and effect, and she is vigorously supported by Mr. George Gordon as the rascally Michael Stanton, with whom Mr. Horace Roseby works well as Croker. Mr. Reginald Brown has good opportunities in the dual rôle of Jack and Harry Esmond; and among others in a well-chosen and commendable cast Mr. V. T. Raymond gives an entertaining depiction of Billy, the burglar. Several songs are sung in the course of the action, and the piece is well and sensationally staged.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A capital attraction here this week is the novelty drama, The Life of a Showman, in which Mr. George Testo Sante appears as Brien Leader with remarkable success. This admirable actor athlete is supported by a very clever company, of whom Mr. Logan Darra is excellent as Hendrick Marais; Miss Amy McNeill gives a fine interpretation of Agatha Winter, the unscrupulous housekeeper; Mr. Edward Warden plays well as the Chaplain; Miss Enid Trench is very good as Lena Hartland; Miss Mary Warden acts with sympathy and naturalness as Lynette; and Messrs. Frank Sante, J. G. Sante, and Ernest Turner portray incidental characters in admirable style. The play was well received by a good house on Monday, and is full of varied entertainment.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—The large audience which assembled here on Monday to witness the performance of Mr. William Greet's company in The Sign of the Cross testifies to the popularity which this well-known play still enjoys. Mr. William F. Grant gave a very strong rendering of the part of Marcus Superbus, and Miss Marie Leonhard played Mercia with a well-sustained, emotional effect. The scene between these two in the third act was especially well done. Miss Ivy Millais gave a praiseworthy rendering of Stephanas; Mr. Frank Wood was seen once more in his old part of Glabrio, which he played with much humour; Mr. Charles Aldred made an impressive Tigellinus; Mr. Harry Jones acted well as Philodemus; Mr. J. Boyd Pearson was grimly forcible as Nero; and as Berenice and Dalia Miss Nellie Bonser and Miss Alma Bolton gave each a clever rendering. All the remaining parts were well filled, and the performance as a whole was greatly enjoyed and applauded. Mr. Flanagan's revival of Cymbeline came to a close on Saturday evening last, amidst a scene of enthusiastic appreciation of the splendid success achieved by the producers and the company.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Sam Mayo, the Immobile One, tops the bill here this week, and is a big attraction. Charming Lilia Roze presents with much success her new quick-change musical scena entitled A Dressing-room Dream, consisting of four or five pleasing songs and a dance; highly successful also are Tom Craven and Stephen Adeson and company in an amusing comedy sketch, The Lady in Red; considerable laughter follows the efforts of that curious comedian W. O. Wills; Dandy George and his canine companion, Rosie, provide a good turn; Tray and Rich have some smart patter; Lily Soutter is a dashing comedienne; Phil Herman, the well-known Anglo-Teutonic comedian, sings characteristic songs; and Charles Cardow is entertaining. The Palace Pictures, as usual, are good.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Managers, Messrs. H. Hall and H. Pryme.—The star attraction here this week is supplied by Lew Lake and company in their character comedy sensation, The Bloomsbury Burglars. A novel and highly enjoyable vocal turn is that of the Sarnthaler Troupe of Tyrolean Singers and Dancers; Dainez and his comedy circus are well applauded; Abel and Welsh give a really comic and wonderful acrobatic turn; Alice Maydue does excellently in character dialect songs; Ian Colquhoun, baritone, has a good voice, and is highly appreciated; the Haydas give a well-conceived mixture of comedy acrobatics; Sylvesta experiments agreeably in conjuring; and Marie Weston is a very clever dancer, banjoist, and vocalist. The Bioscope Pictures are entertaining.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—The Svengalis are to the front here this week in a most wonderful show of mimicry, music, and mystery, and are warmly received. Denton and Rowland's company, including Marjorie Lawrence, present a song-scena, The Punch and Judy Girls, in fine style, the songs being most tuneful and the dancing excellent; Clown Barker and Miss Rozsika introduce some wonderfully clever dogs, the Clarkes, banjo experts, play several delightful selections; Walter Wallis and company are heard to advantage in an excerpt from The Lily of Killarney; Sherlock and Van Dalle do some excellent dancing in their fantasy, The Mummy and the Undergrad; Arthur Gill is a capital mimic; "The Village Blacksmith" is nicely rendered by the Choir; and the Athlones give an effective exposition of strength. Madge Robertson, assisted by the Choir, sings "In Dreamland," a song drolly illustrated, and the American Bioscope shows "Those Boys Again."

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—The week's programme here is headed by La Belle Estellita, Spanish singer and dancer, who gives a nice turn, and is very well received. May Moore Duprez, America's jolly Dutch girl, is quaint, original, and pleasing; the Two Bees are seen in their latest comedy creations; a clever and amusing turn is that of the Lowenwirth Brothers, Hebrew dialect comedians; D. W. Watson is a highly accomplished cornet soloist and coach-horn artist; and other pleasing items are contributed by Lil O'Gorman (vocalist and dancer), the Sisters Redfern (banjoists), Tom Dunmore (comedian), and Margaret Radcliffe (vocalist and burlesque artist). Raymond's Vivagraph completes.

KING'S LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Harry Roxbury and company head the bill here this week in a musical mélange in three scenes, entitled The Prince of Monte Carlo, and cause no end of laughter. Mr. Roxbury himself is vastly funny as P.C. Longfellow, and very charming is Miss Ethel Bryant as Lady Carr and Miss Vashti Wynne as Denise. The scenery and dresses are excellent. Minnie and Harry Groves go through a surprising ring act; the Great Levano throws side somersaults in a most marvellous and daring manner; Lily Gaston is a smart all-round dancer; and good turns are also those of Babs Grimshaw (a most juvenile male impersonator, who shows very great promise), Fred Mason (whistling comedian), Jacko (the man monkey), and George Raply (a quaint comedian with some smart patter). "The Race for the Grand Prix" at St. Cloud is realistically depicted on the bioscope, and concludes an excellent performance.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A Motor 'Bus Outing is a funny fancy presented here this week with plenty of go by Mr. C. H. Mannon and company, and is received with much laughter. The Two Callos offer a refined musical entertainment; Farr and Farland are good banjoists; the Three Esmonds are eccentric comedians and dancers; Sam Jesson's Merry-Makers contribute a pleasing musical sketch; an excellent acrobatic turn is given by the Four Charles; Leo Tell is as good as ever in his clever imitations of birds, animals, and sounds in general; Sandy and Carl are very good speciality comedians; and Harry Hayton is an acceptable humorist. The Sisters Petram manipulate some marionettes in a lifelike manner as an extra turn, and are well received, and the animated pictures are good.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—For a third week Casey's Court is in Manchester, and the midget mimics are as successful as ever in providing a thoroughly enjoyable performance. Madge Gray, "the Lancashire Lass," is also very popular, her funny stories of little children being most amusing; Bert Williams, that very smart ventriloquist, with up-to-date quips, is well received; and some quick-change burlesque business by Grapho and Jackson is greatly appreciated. Good items are also provided by the St. Johns in their refined comedy, musical, and dancing act; Stanley and Vandyke in sketch, A Broken Promise; Annie Cohen, comedienne; Frazer and Haley, harmonising vocalists; and Bert Kemp, lightning cartoonist. The Bioscope Pictures of "The Train Wreckers" complete a capital holiday programme.

MANSFIELD.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Morella and Jennings; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. Jennings.—Crowded houses have been attracted this week by Rass Challis's play The Curate, performed by Miss Hettie Jeffries' company. Mr. Arthur Mervyn as the Rev. John Audley acts in first-class style. Mr. Whitmore Ledger displays his capabilities as an actor in the part of Gilbert Westwood, the spy; Dick the Trumpeter (Miss Hettie Jeffries) enlists the sympathies of the house throughout. The rôle of Mabel Verner is in the capable hands of Miss Rosa Mervyn. Mr. Frank Stuart is a gallant and amusing Sergeant Snipe, and Mr. Clifford Spencer causes roars of laughter in the part of Simon Peter Muggs.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Lessees, Midland Theatre Company; Manager, Mr. J. P. Hickey.—The place opened as a variety theatre on Monday night to good audiences. Ben Hur, the clever athlete, topped the bill; Mahatma succeeded in mystifying the audience, and received applause; Frank Cummenger gave a smart dancing turn; Helm and Cozens caused much amusement in their sketch The Doctor and the Patient. The Sisters Bronson gave some charming duets and dances; Barry Gilmore was amusing; Alfred Paynton received applause for his protean act, entitled A Few Moments with Celebrities. Vesta Whelan, juvenile serio, gave a good turn, and an interesting series of pictures was shown on the bioscope.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Exclusive Manager, Mr. Edward Michael.—The holiday attraction here has been the production by the Resident Stock Company, under the direction of Mr. Austin-Leigh, of Sutro's Walls of Jericho. Mr. A. Austin-Leigh gives a striking picture of Jack Frobisher, his ease of manner lending considerable weight to the part, whilst he delivers his lines effectively; as Lady Alethea Frobisher Mrs. Curling presents a clever and finished study of a Society woman, and hits off the type of character to a nicety; Mr. Percy Goodyear is amusing as the Marquis of Steventon, and a neat picture of the rough diamond, Hautley Bannister, is furnished by Mr. O. P. Heggie; Miss Lilian Rogers is particularly entertaining as the light-hearted Lady Lucy Derenham; the bridge-playing Duchess of Skye is well presented by Miss Madge Herrick, and Miss Maud Creighton is capital as Tiny Mornington; Lady Westerby is ably played by Miss Emmie O'Reilly, who is remarkably well suited to her part; Mr. R. Henderson Blond has an unsympathetic rôle as Harry Dallas, but handles it so neatly as to make one overlook most of its shortcomings. Mr. Farringdon Stuart has only a brief appearance as Lord Drayton, but does the little he has to do well; Mr. J. E. Savery is good as the epigrammatic Hannaford, and the remaining parts are all satisfactorily filled.

THE HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—The holiday programme here has been a most attractive one, and crowded houses have been a rule at each performance. A very smart troupe of gymnasts, whose performance is quite out of the ordinary run, is La Faille Troupe, who are making their début in England after a run of continued success on the continent. The Marconis, the electrical wonders, who have been here before, are as great a draw as ever, and their performance awakens a good deal of wonderment; Mlle. Eldef pives a picturesque performance, entitled "Poses plastique"; and other contributions to an all round good programme include Blanche Marion (comedienne and an excellent dancer), Russell Carr (the military ventriloquist), Maggie Carr (comedienne, banjoist, and dancer), and the Hippodrome pictures, which are, as usual, amusing.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson.—On Easter Monday Mr. Frank E. Burdett's company opened here to holiday audiences in The Indian Mutiny, which is well mounted and played. Miss F. Melrose Millett submits an intensely realistic performance of Greznah, a Brahmin Princess; Mr. George Steel plays with vigour and energy as Lieut. Manley, Major Ingleby and Ensign Blake have excellent representatives in Mr. John Davidson and Mr. G. Birch, much humour is imparted to the character of Terry O'Brien by Mr. George Scully, Mr. Villiers Stanley presents an excellent study of Nebu Singh, Mr. J. S. Shedden acquits himself admirably as Abul Khan, and Mr. Ernest Keand does good work as Ka Goonga. Mrs. Major Ingleby and Miss Kate Ingleby have suitable representatives in Miss Kate Bruce and Miss Lillie Grey.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—Animated Pictures forms the principal attraction in the holiday programme at this hall. The performance is diversified by a number of clever turns by a talented variety company.

LORD GEORGE SANGER'S CIRCUS visited this town for the holidays. On Easter Monday large audiences patronised the show.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—A variety combination, under the management of Mr. George Burton, is the attraction here this week. A capital programme is given by the following artists:—Abex, the miniature Hercules; Mlle. Florence, rolling-globe walker; Harry Daubney, ventriloquist; the Astley Bros., comedians and patterers; Miss Freda Tudor, male impersonator; Wallace Whitney, character comedian; Miss Beattie Foster, serio; Fred Tenby, comedian; Acme, musical comedian; and Peace and Ward, duettists, patterers, and boxers.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Charles Imeson.—Mr. Douglas Bruce's company in the drama The Girl Who Lost Her Character has proved a great attraction. Miss Madge Haines in the title-rôle leaves nothing to be desired; Miss Ethel Bracewell fills the part of the heiress with considerable success; Mr. Frank Adair gives a fine impersonation of the scoundrel Captain Caversham; Mr. Henry Herne is a typical clergyman; Mr. Wingold Lawrence is good as the discarded son; Mr. Hammond Asquin and Miss Daisy Maynard are responsible for much laughter; Mr. Albert Clarke is exceedingly good as James Sutton; Mr. John Wilson is excellent as George Purvis, and Miss Marie McAuley plays the adventuress with considerable success.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. R. Chatto.—The holiday attraction here this week is Mr. Arthur Shirley's popular drama The Midnight Mail, which is being played under the direction of Mr. Jas. Willard by Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company. The part of Harry Steyne is sustained by Mr. George Harvard with considerable success, while Miss Grace Lester acts admirably as the wife of the engine driver; Mr. Fred G. Evison gives a fine depiction of Billy Brewer, the drunken stoker, and Miss Mildred Carr is clever and entertaining as Nancy Brewer, the stoker's wife; Mr. Harry Emmerson gives a fine impersonation as Jasper Thornleigh, and Mr. Alfred Warne is exceedingly good as the magistrate.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles Rembges.—An excellent programme is submitted here this week. Datas, the man with the marvellous memory, is paying a return visit, and though plied with questions on every conceivable topic, has always a ready answer. Joe O'Gorman delights his hearers with some racy anecdotes, whilst Radford and Valentine are both clever and amusing in their juggling act; Martini and Son, song illustrators, are exceedingly good, and the Three Clarions cause roars of laughter in their absurdity The Would-be Tenor. Rosie Boolett (vocalist), Jessica Grace (comedienne), and Ruby Aston (comedienne and dancer) also contribute acceptable items.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf Graham.—For the third consecutive week Harry Tate is appearing here, and his absurdity Fishing evokes roars of laughter; the Five Olracs, a troupe of comedy acrobats, provide a distinctly interesting turn, their tricks being both smart and daring. Other notable appearances are J. P. Carroll, the Three Sisters Silcott, the Paulo Bros., Paline Zaro, and Barney and Kennard.

MORECAMBE.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General-Manager, Mr. C. M. Julian.—Easter holiday makers have been attracted by The Duke of Killicrankie and Sowing the Wind, as presented by Mr. Leigh Lovel's company, and both pieces have been well received during the week. Mr. Lovel has been excellent as Pit Welby in the first piece, and Brabazon in the second. Miss Octavia Kenmore has proved herself a clever leading lady, and Miss Celia Gordon is also very good. Mr. Guy Cary, Mr. J. Poole Kirkwood, Mr. Arthur McCulloch, and Mr. Richard Vane have parts to which they are well suited. The scenery is excellent, and the dressing of the productions leaves nothing to be desired.

WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Atkinson.—A capital programme at Morecambe's premier house of entertainment has been headed by the Six Brothers Luck in their Demon of the Cellar sketch. Chanti, in his mechanical protean act, has proved a most popular turn. Mdlle. Lumière's fairy grotto is a charming act; Amy Anderson and company are seen to advantage in a typical coster sketch; the Ladderites and the Three Zaracs are both acceptable numbers in the programme, which also includes the Solari Duo, vocalists and instrumentalists; the Ringling trio of eccentrics, whose stilt work is capital; Walter Wade, mimic; and Annie Nelson, soprano.

ALHAMBRA PALACE.—Manager, Mr. John Gardner.—A good bill-of-fare has been thoroughly enjoyed here, the various turns having been the Four Avocas, in their dramatic act, The Reckless Miner; Bros. Onda, triple bar and acrobatic comedians; Madie Scott, a neat and clever comedienne; Les Louberts, in their comedy act Uninvited, in which they do some good work; the Bensley Evans sketch company in Sally's Dilemma, a clever composition, and in which Miss Olive Lanty is seen to advantage as Sally; Bros. Brooks, comedians; Will Onda and company, motor-maniac; Takio, a clever mimic; and Silbon's circus, introducing several highly-trained ponies, &c.

CENTRAL PIER.—Manager, Mr. E. Hill.—The Hartley Wonders, with their barrel leaping and jumping, have met with success hehe, and Maggie Walsh, the singing mill girl, pleases the people. Magna poses with effect, and Rodin is a capital exponent of the trick cyclist's art. Capital banjoists are the Vekeys; Harry Morris is a capable comedian; Bendene, contortionist, does not do at all badly; and Captain Devereux, with his well-trained dogs, provides, as usual, a turn which takes.

WEST END PIER.—Secretary, Mr. E. Barton.—The chief attraction has been the fine band of the Irish Guards, conducted by Mr. C. H. Hassell, M.V.O., an engagement which has attracted crowds of people. Miss Maud Thornton, Miss Beatrice Willan, and Madame Tuite have been amongst the vocalists retained.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. W. Davies.—Mr. Walter Melville's company is this week appearing in A Girl's Cross-Roads. As Barbara Wade Miss Beaumont Collins may be congratulated on a performance of sterling merit. Mr. Charles Franmore gives a careful study of the old farmer, Meadows, his daughter Nellie having an apt exponent in Miss Nannie Mead. Jack Livingstone is suitably played by Mr. Frank R. Robertson; Mr. Walter Johnson scored as the delightfully boyish Dr. Weston; Miss Elsie Saville was a sweet and sympathetic Constance Cornell; Mr. Roy Fortescue was sufficiently villainous as Cuthbert Lumley. The humorous business was in the able hands of Mr. Fred Ingram and Miss Lena Delphin, in their respective rôles of Toby and Tilly.

NELSON.—NEW GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft; Business-Manager, Mr. George E. Mudd.—A rich musical treat has been provided here this week by the engagement of the Moody Manners Opera Company, which opened on Monday with Faust. Miss Ethel Cadman as Marguerite was in every way successful, her singing and acting being of the highest order; Miss Rosina Beynon as Siebel sang with delightful expression; and Miss M. Goodwin was satisfactory as Martha; Mr. Charles Carter as Faust was worthy of the highest praise; Mr. Frederic Erle acquitted himself admirably as Mephistopheles; Mr. Marshall Vincent made an effective Valentine, and Mr. L. Alexander was trusty and reliable as Wagner. The chorus and orchestra rendered valuable aid. Maritana, Il Trovatore, Carmen, Lohengrin, and The Bohemian Girl are also in this week's programme.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. F. C. Sutcliffe.—Peter Pan, in its second week's stay at the Tyne, has done exceptionally good business, and the large audiences have expressed their utmost pleasure with Mr. J. M. Barrie's delightful extravaganza.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—This week Mr. Edward Compton is paying a visit with his comedy company. On Monday night Davy Garrick was presented, and in the title-rôle Mr. Compton gave the audience a rare treat. He played with his wonted ease and power, the dinner scene being particularly attractive. As Violet, Miss Mackenzie gave a charming study, and invested the part with a winsomeness which was highly pleasing. Mr. H. Crocker's impersonation of the worthy old Alderman was excellent, and met with well-deserved applause; while Mr. A. B. Imeson gave a praiseworthy rendering of the part of the Hon. Tom Tallyhaut. Davy Garrick was preceded by The Desperate Lover, in which Miss Mackenzie and Mr. Imeson are seen to advantage. Money, To-morrow, The School for Scandal, New Men and Old Acres, and She Stoops to Conquer are the remainder of Mr. Compton's répertoire.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clarke.—This week Her Second Time on Earth, by Mr. Walter Melville, occupies the boards. Miss Hilda Beverley in her original part of Dora Grey plays with rare ability and power. The other principal parts are in the capable hands of Mr. George Gaisford, Mr. Henry Lonsdale, Mr. Willie Reid, Mr. Alec Williams, Miss Agnes Rose, Miss Dora Hargreaves, Miss Dorothy Hildebrand, Mr. Wm. Porter, Mr. A. Fellows Bassett, and Mr. Paige Lawrence, whose efforts meet with the success they admittedly deserve.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Mr. Eade Montefiore is presenting his well-known musical drama, entitled The Streets of London, here this week. Mr. Henry Moxon is throughout prominent by an earnest and intelligent rendition of the rôle of Gideon Bloodgood; and Mr. Ian Lloyd Mackenzie gives a good account of himself as Paul Fairweather. The part of Badger affords Mr. William Rokeby ample scope for the display of his comedy talent, and that clever comedian, Mr. Jose Bracewell, is responsible for a fine character-study as the "'tater" man, Jonas Puffy. Mr. H. Douglas Cottell proves a capable exponent as Mark Livingstone. Miss Edith Goodall as Lucy Fairweather, Miss Octavia Noel as Alida Bloodgood, and Miss Helena Rigby as Mrs. Puffy all display commendable skill in their respective parts. Variety is lent to the production by an exhibition of the Terpsichorean art by the Four Fiorellas.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy.—Edouin and Edwards, in their playlet entitled A Bachelor's Dream, top an attractive programme here this week; the Brothers Egbert, in their well-known speciality, are responsible for much hilarity, and prove immense favourites; Max York's performing dogs execute some remarkable feats; and Amy Russell is as successful as ever as a vocalist. Edwin Barwick displays considerable talent as a character comedian, and the trapeze performance of the Lios Alfa Sisters is characterised by neatness and grace. The New Macs are a couple of droll comedians, and the Dorrells win favourable comment as duettists and dancers. Dora Lyric is a captivating comedienne, and Forrest and King are contortionists much above the average.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Large holiday audiences have packed the Pavilion to its utmost capacity this week, the bill of fare being contributed to by Howard and Harris, whose trifle, entitled The Adventures of a Happy Tramp, results in loud and spontaneous mirth; "Teddy" Lewis, phrenologist, recalls happy memories, and reminds one of his Anthony Tweedlepunch in Florodora; Rhyls Thomas and Minnie Hunt are here once again, and afford much pleasure with their sketch, Her Birthday; George Ripon is in capital form, and his songs are favourably received; and a like comment may be given to T. B. Fayme, comedian. The Sisters Poole, Society entertainers, have a very pretty act; and Lillian gives a particularly neat exhibition as a trick cyclist. Harry Brown is happy in his efforts as a coloured comedian; the eccentricities of Tate and Tate are greatly enjoyed; Dan Thomas has an excellent dame song, and scores a big success as a petticoated comedian; a sprightly dancing exhibition is given by the Society Quartette; and Elverton, the spinning marvel, and the Barrascope are both enjoyable items.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's excellent company in The Little Bread Winner is here this week. The title-rôle is admirably sustained by little Emmie Thomas; as Ruth Cherry Miss Emmie Litchfield gives ample proof of her ability; Miss Jenny Bostock as Bridget O'Flannagan has made a delightfully sweet, elderly spinster, and Miss Maud Buchanan does well as the scheming woman Kate Cherry; as Bobby Trott Miss Lissa Young acts with spirit, and Miss Maud Hastings is successful as Margaret Daventry; Mr. D. Gordon gives a forcible and consistent impersonation of Richard Lawrence; Mr. J. A. Campbell is a dignified Lord Wm. Dorrington, and Dr. Chadwick is in the capable hands of Mr. Wallie Prior; Mr. Allen Charles as Chas. Prior is responsible for the comedy element, and Mr. Scott Leighton plays the part of the scheming secretary Joseph Prior.

EMPIRE (Moss' Empires, Ltd.).—Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—The holiday bill here includes Tom Owen (a typical Welsh comedian), Josephine Sabel (burlesque artist), the Four Skandias (a clever quartette of gymnasts), and Miss Madge Carlyle (an artistic singer), Ethel Ra Leslie sings very daintily, the Manigos (equilibriste) do some clever feats, and Geoffreys and Benson (comedians) play Spoofed, a smart bit of comedy. Unthan, the Armless Wonder, gives a marvellous performance, and "Electra's Bower," in which Alma, Abdullah, and La Superbe appear, is a remarkable spectacle of electric lights.

TREDEGAR HALL.—Poole's Myriorama is drawing crowded houses over the holiday season. A very pretty set of pictures are shown, and there is a very creditable variety crowd attached to the show.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Nearly eighteen years have elapsed since Mr. Wm. Calder brought here the American drama, entitled Shadows of a Great City (which the management have revived this week), and it therefore possesses the charm of novelty to the present generation of playgoers. Miss Marie Auckland, pathetic and refined as Annie Standish and showing a light-hearted and buoyant spirit as Nellie, has carefully embodied the characteristics of mother and daughter; Bidda Roonan, a true-hearted daughter of the Emerald Isle, finds a good representative in Miss Louise Millward; Mr. Magill Martyn is manly as the hero, Tom Cooper; Mr. Frederick Harker is satisfactory as George Benson; Mr. Edward Swinton is an amusing Jim Farren; Mr. Faucett Lomax is a typical Jew as Abe Nathan, and Mr. Charles L. Ludlow carefully plays the detective Arkwright. The duties of stage management are ably carried out by Mr. Harry Esden, under whose personal direction the piece was produced.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—The Ten Loonies provide a mad musical mélange that is a big laugh-producer from start to finish; Miss Annie Casey is a dashing serio; Miss Flo Warner is a dainty vocalist with a charming presence; Montefiore and company appear with success in a pathetic little sketch, entitled The Little Colonel; Ted Cowan, comic singer, and Chas. Chard, comedian, are both successful with their songs; the Venola Brothers are on a welcome return visit; Mignon furnishes some musical selections, and the Palace pictures this week are of the best.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Mr. W. Reuben Payne's company opened here on Monday with The Orphan Heiress (written by Mr. Arthur Jefferson), which was as warmly greeted as ever by a large audience. Mr. Henry Willis gave a capital portrayal of Lord Warwick Ainsley; Mr. Charles Boult played Douglas Kingston in a masterly manner; Mr. W. Vincent Carlyle made the most of his opportunities as Laurence Gordon; Mr. T. H. Solby caused hearty laughter as Ginger; Mr. Cecil Morand achieved success as Jenkins; as Mabel Ainsley Miss Rosalie Heath gave a delightful impersonation; Miss Constance Medwyn displayed much talent as Edith Mowbray; Miss Beatrice FitzHugh gave a satisfactory rendering of Lady Laura Ainsley; Miss Edith Halford ably filled the rôle of Olive Kingston; and Miss Cora Duncan was all that could be desired as Betsy Buggles.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—This week's attractions include Mr. Albert Brady and company in Turning the Tables, which has been well received; Messrs. Alf Bishop and Jess Vale, eccentric comedians and dancers; Little Martha, juvenile vocalist and dancer; Mr. George Young, concertina soloist; Mr. Leo Traynor, comedian and mimic; Miss Lottie Harland, comedienne and dancer; the Pollards, speciality artists; and the Bio-Photoscope.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. S. Golden.—The Easter attraction here has been Mr. Junius Booth's company in Dumas's celebrated costume play Monte Cristo, and a complete success was scored. Edmond Dantes, Count of Monte Cristo, is a part which Mr. Junius Booth's artistic versatility is particularly well adapted to bring out the strength of; Miss Joan Ellis achieved a complete triumph in her thoroughly natural rendering of the part of Mercedes, and Miss Kate Maynard as La Carconte was exceedingly well placed. Mr. E. Howard Templeton undertook the dual parts of M. Nortier and Abbé Farid in a manner which left nothing to be desired; Mr. Alfred Terris did very well as Baron Dauglers; Mr. A. T. Gullifer enacted the part of Lieut. Alberte de Morcef in a thoroughly capable manner, and Mr. Chauncey Morris, who is the stage manager, gave an excellent presentation of Caderousse. The tour is under the able direction of Mr. C. G. Griffin.

THE ROYAL PIERROTS CO.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Smethurst.—The Pavilion was packed to its fullest capacity on Monday, when a goodly array of talent was presented. Chant and Chant were highly appreciated in their song and dance turn; Sarco was amusing in his ventriloquial entertainment, and Harry Alberry, eccentric comedian, was the cause of roars of laughter; Miss Jeannie Mackay is the possessor of a sweetly brilliant soprano voice, and sang her songs admirably; Miss Gertie Fraser, contralto and soubrette, was also very successful, while the singing of Mr. Glanmore Jones seems to lose none of its attractiveness.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Dr. Thompson, the medical attendant at Thorpe Asylum, near this city, has again formed an amateur opera company, the members of which are entertaining numerous audiences at this place of amusement for the benefit of the funds of the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital, and are giving a capital rendering of the charming comic opera Utopia (Limited).

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—The holiday programme presented this week is a fairly good one. Mdlle. Rosina Caselli, with her troupe of Chihuahua dogs, heads the bill, and their performance shows marvellous training. The Villions are clever cyclists; Sydney James's Strolling Players, in their pastoral sketch and singing, are much appreciated; Vanola, the Mexican antipodeste, shows great dexterity on revolving globes and barrels; the Lorrisons, eccentrics, are a good turn; the Brothers Lang score as knockabouts; Bouverie Pleydell is a charming comedienne and dancer; whilst Howe and Ardie are amusing in their speciality Up in a Balloon. The Bioscope pictures are up to the usual standard.

AGRICULTURAL HALL ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Mr. Jury's animated pictures continue successful here. The variety turns include Mr. E., the up-to-date joker; the hoop droll Also; and the Evalos in their comic juggling and gymnastic mélange. Mr. E. Edmund Peterson and Mr. G. Egerton Burnett are the able managers.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The Freedom of Susanne occupies this stage here. Miss Beatrice Lindley has charge of the title-rôle, and gives a finished performance. She is well supported by Mr. Herbert J. Bentley, who as Charles Trevor acts well and makes up excellently; Mr. F. G. Thurstan's portrayal of Fitzroy Harding causes a great deal of amusement; whilst Mr. Wm. Mallalieu is successful as the family solicitor. Mr. R. Harley West makes a very good Lord Dachet, and the dashing Captain Cecil finds an admirable exponent in Mr. Townsend Whitling. Mr. Archie Selwyn also does excellently as Tommy Keston; as the aristocratic Lady Trevor Miss Emily Patterson is thoroughly at home; and Miss Charlotte Mead as Fanny Minching deserves every commendation. Miss Violet Ley portrays Lady Isabel Bury in a convincing manner, whilst Miss Annie Stalman makes a satisfactory Mrs. Tustail, and Mrs. Mallalieu works well as Mrs. Putnam. The remaining members of the cast, Messrs. Frank Lee, Bruce Smith, and Edward Sidney, fill their parts creditably. The comedy is preceded by the one-act episode, Two in a Trap.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles P. Cooke.—The romantic play The Midnight Wedding proves a great attraction, being presented by a well-balanced company and staged in an effective manner. The portrayal of Paul Valmar by Mr. Alfred Paumier is a powerful piece of work, and well worthy the actor's reputation, while the acting of Miss Annie Saker, who doubles the parts of Lieut. Helsburgh and Princess Astrea is admirable. The rôle of Crown Prince finds an excellent exponent in Mr. Fred W. Freeman, and Messrs. Sydney Lynn and Clinton Baddeley realise in an artistic manner aristocratic German officers. Miss Florence Hunt is satisfactory as Rozel, and Miss Ada Champion works hard as Kathie; whilst Miss Prudence Laurence looks sweet as Marie. Mr. Fred Constable, Mr. Reginald Payne, and Mr. Algie Spalding make up well as soldiers, and Mr. W. S. Hardy does good work as Father Gerrard.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—The Face at the Window comes as the holiday attraction, and is being well patronised. Mr. E. Hoggan Armadale as the dreaded Le Loup is convincing, and Mr. T. W. Dunscombe submits an excellent representation of Gouffet, the detective. The rôle of Cortier is supported by Mr. Gilbert Hall with a good deal of power, and Miss Thorne Hallam as Marie de Brisson plays up to him very efficiently. Miss Gwynne Warren is at home as Babbette, and Miss Elaine Grant acts admirably as Le Pinau. Mr. Alfred Warne makes an excellent banker, and as the mad doctor Mr. George Phythian gives a carefully-considered rendering.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—Mr. Fred Storey as Rip Van Winkle, supported by a goodly company, occupies the principal place on the bill this week. Mr. R. H. Douglass is always welcome in Nottingham, and never fails of a great reception. Marzella's birds are well trained, and Mason and Bart are comical gymnasts, whose turn elicits rounds of aplause. Marie Collins is her usual light-hearted self, and Frank Dunlop causes lots of fun by his quaint singing and patter. Lady ventriloquists are not always thoroughly successful, but Fauntleroy, with her dummy Dan, is an exception, and provides a highly-appreciated ventriloquial turn. Burt Shepard has a fund of drollery and comic songs at his command, and Mora and Lola in a novel musical act are well worthy the applause they evoke. The bill is completed by Manning's Entertainers in a second edition of their comical sketch, The Hotel Boots.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS CO., LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. A. P. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Miss Lena Stanton's pantomime company opened here on Monday with Robinson Crusoe, which has proved an excellent holiday attraction. Miss Stanton makes a first-rate Crusoe, Miss Minnie Melbah does well as Polly Perkins, Mr. Will Terry shows consid Beast. As Beauty, Miss Dolly Dodds is first favourite, taking her part in a fascinating manner; Prince Charming is ably impersonated by Miss Kitty Hewitt; Miss May Gibson is a success as Silver Star, the witch is cleverly presented by Miss Beattie Townsend, and Master Will Orston ably acts the part of the beast. Masters F. Bentley and F. Ellis are responsible for a lot of comedy as the sisters Dressalinda and Marigolda, being ably assisted by Paddy Mills and Jack Harrison. Master Will Kay also does well as the Baron. Georgie Wood is also a great success.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Howgate.—Morris Cronin and his talented troupe are at the top of the bill here in a very smart turn, Tom Foy and company in the absurdity, A Yorkshire Lad in London, create roars of laughter; the Five Foys in The Excursion Depôt, keep up the merriment; Richard Corbin's dog circus gives a good show, the leaping dogs being especially interesting; W. H. Downes has a cordial reception in his songs, and the Three Rubys achieve success in their trapeze act. Mark Merry (quaint comedian) and Flo Chevalier (comedienne) are also applauded. Dot Stanley did not appear on the evening of our visit, and Jack Ross deputised for her.

Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Nuttall.—Casey's Court, by Mr. G. Casey's Midget Mimes, heads the bill, and they give a really capital entertainment. Amandus in his impersonations of celebrities is clever. Gus Balsiger, the funny little man, keeps up his reputation, John Ross, a local turn, is heard to advantage in his songs, and Musical Rosina, expert instrumentalist, is responsible for some attractive selections. Mozetto, with juggling feats, and the Mimosa Trio, vocalists and dancers, also appear. Winter sports in other lands are being shown by the Dottoscope, and another attraction is found in Jackson and Lutner, weight lifters.

OXFORD.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott is here this week with his company in A Wife's Triumph, which was heartily received by the usual crowded Bank Holiday audience on Monday. Mr. Abbott is seen to great advantage as Frank Wilton, and gives a convincing and effective performance throughout; Messrs. W. H. Garbois and W. Ross furnish a pretty pair of scoundrels as Jordan and Hartman, betting men; Mr. E. Keene is brimful of humour as Ben Bradford, and sings some capital songs; Stubbs, Rylan, and Lopez find capable exponents in Messrs Davis-Brown, D. Pentland, and F. C. Roper; and Mr. D. C. Phelps gives an invigorating and natural rendering of Robert Dewhurst. Miss Ada Abbott submits a powerful and sympathetic performance as Bessie Dewhurst; Miss Kathleen Stewart is a capital Alice Wilton, Miss Marjorie Tennant is full of fun, and provokes genuine laughter as Margery, and Miss Elsie Yohe is an interesting Little Frank. Mr. Abbott's company perform Trilby here for the last half of the week.

Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. G. P. Wells.—Mr. S. Smith's company is here with A Sister's Devotion. Capt. Thornton is carefully played by Mr. Sidney Ernest; Mr. Rex Willoughby makes an effective Col. Saunders, and Mr. Arthur Bell is well suited as Brian O'Connor; Mr. Barney Doreen interprets Larry O'Malley with considerable verve and power, and is well supported by Mr. George Harvey as Jerry Rooney. Miss Edie Desmond makes the most of Kathleen O'Connor, Miss Fanny Harvey is natural as Edith Saunders, and Miss Connie Arden makes a lively Molly Rooney.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile. — Go-Won-Go-Mohawk, the American Indian actress, is here this week with her own company, and the play, Wep-Ton-No-Mah, is realistically presented. The title-rôle is played by Miss Go-Won-Go-Mohawk in excellent style; Mr. C. W. Charles submits a finished portraiture of Colonel Stockton; as Manuel Lopez Mr. Edward Leroy acts powerfully and skilfully; Captain Franklin is finely interpreted by Mr. Ike Shawcross; and Mr. Theo. Alker makes a clever and attractive Chief Ga-Na-Gua. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr. Guy D. Hackney as Sam White and Mr. Dan Ryan as Garry Cullen; while Miss Dorothy Neville is to be complimented on her mirth-provoking presentment of Miss Matilda Shiffles. Miss Minnie Goopel plays in a graceful and charming manner the part of Nellie Stockton; and others in the cast who play successfully are Messrs. W. H. Killey, Lew Ripley, Bennie Doctor, and Albert E. Simms. The picturesque scenery is generally admired, and of great interest to the play is the introduction of two beautiful and intelligent Indian ponies and a well-trained dog.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr. Delno Fritz.—A capable company this week includes Ponto Dixon, boxer; Will Bell, Irish comedian; Ida Dalton, serio; Arthur Elvy, vocal comedian; the Schallers (Arthur and Pam), in their original comedy act; Nellie Dunbar, comedienne and dancer; and Chorley and Connor, comedians.

Transfield's Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. G. Transfield; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Tony Transfield. — An attractive programme is being submitted at this house. Besides the usual equestrian performances, there are turns by Miss Western, vocalist; Sterling, with his clever dog; Cavallottis, in a musical performance; Owen Moran and party, boxers; juggling by Dolf, and a gymnastic performance by the Reays. A new series of pictures on the bio-tableaux is well received.

PERTH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—Mr. F. Marriott-Watson's company is here this week in the drama A False Wife. Miss Florence E. Florence in the title-rôle displays power, Mr. George Langham is well adapted to the part of Sir Colin Mansfield, Mr. W. Howard Barlow as Lieut. George Mansfield gives an excellent impersonation, and Mr. Elton Morgan is diverting in the part of Ben Rattler, as also is Mr. Owen Edwin in the rôle of Archibald Downtee (the village constable). Mr. Frank Strickland is seen to advantage in the heavy part of Jean Berand, Mr. Harry Dunham is a favourite as Inspector Fulton, Mr. John Cecil ably depicts the mad wizard, Zorak, and Mr. Fred Levine makes an admirable William Marlow. Miss Ellen Armor's winning sweetness makes her an especial favourite as Agnes Weyland, and Miss Nita Imeson is a vivacious Bessie.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Langdon Lee.—Mr. Wilson Barrett's ever-popular Claudian is at the Royal this week. Mr. William Maclaren in the title-rôle gives a powerful rendering of the character; Miss Lily Bandmann as Almida evinces a careful study of an impressive rôle; Mr. Wilson Howard makes a strong Tetrarch, and the ironworker is well sustained by Mr. Geo. Austin. The parts of Belos the farmer and Edessa are respectively taken by Mr. Chas. Chaloner and Miss Carlotta Anson in a manner that affords welcome relief after the heavier scenes. Mr. A. G. Carr as the hermit Clement pronounces the curse in the prologue with thrilling effect.

Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Grant.—Uncle Tom's Cabin, popular as ever, was played on Monday to a large Bank Holiday audience. Mr. Dock Watson makes a venerable Uncle Tom, and Miss Irma Farington as Eva moved a large section of the feminine portion of the audience to tears; Mr. Cecil Gray has a difficult part as Legree, but proved equal to the task. Other noticeable parts were those of Eliza and George Harris, respectively undertaken by Miss Emma Barton and Mr. Edward Lloyd.

Metropole Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr. Mitchell.—Sutton Vane's exciting drama The Span of Life is the attraction here, played by Mr. Carlton's own company. Mr. R. S. Trelawney makes a very good villain, the part of the hero being in the capable hands of Mr. Sanderson Moffatt. The formation and utilisation of the "human bridge" by the Almo Trio was watched with breathless interest. Miss Phyllis Hamilton is the heroine. Other members of the company are Miss Kitty Russel and Mr. Walter Dale.

Palace of Varieties. — Managing Directors, Messrs. Livermore; Manager, Mr. S. Field.—The Bransbys have a cleverly-written coster sketch, entitled 'Arf a Quid, in which they introduce some smart East-end patter; the Haytors submit an acceptable turn combining plenty of fun with some marvellous contortionist business, and Selby and Myers are a finished pair of dancers; Breton's company in A Trip to the Isle of Man work hard to make their turn a success, and George Reeves has a funny skit on conjuring. Vernon's animated pictures have a fine film of the All Black v. Glamorgan match, and Fred Clements completes an interesting programme.

Promenade Pier and Pavilion.—This, the favourite summer resort of Plymouthians and visitors alike, opened for the season on Easter Monday. The Smart Set (Walter George's Light Opera Singers) were the attraction, the spacious pavilion being packed both at afternoon and evening performances. Mr. Walter George and Miss Georgie Martin supply the comedy element in a humorous yet refined manner well suited to the tastes of a cultured audience; Mr. Arthur Court is possessed of a mellow tenor voice, and Mr. Chas. Howard's deep bass voice is heard to advantage in some excerpts from standard operas; Miss Lena Hutchings is a first-class soprano, and Miss Ethel Wilford is at her best in clever monologue. Miss Hilda Light also comtributes.

PORTH.—Poole's Opera House.—Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—The special dramatic attraction here is The London Fireman, which is being presented to capital houses by Garside and Knowles's company. Mr. J. Forbes Knowles is successful in his representation of Colonel Fleming; Hal Curtis is ably portrayed by Mr. Edward L. Garside. Miss Florence M. Daly acquits herself creditably as Grace Curtis; Miss Nellie Shirley is decidedly good as Ida Curtis; Mr. Oliver Birrell gives a satisfactory account of Viscount Fleming; Mr. Joe Rockley is a capable representative of Captain Langton; Mr. Charles Preece is an amusing Nixey Stringer, and Miss Nellie Garside does remarkably well as Polly Bramble.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Bell.—Mr. Frank Curzon's principal company with The White Chrysanthemum is the attraction here. Mr. Fred Ralph is a first-rate Admiral Sir Horatio Armitage, K.C.B., investing his part with much humour; Mr. F. Pope Stamper as Lieut. Reginald Armitage, is smart and capable; the part of Lieut. Chippendall Belmont is well taken by Mr. Davy Burnaby; Sin Chong, the Chinese cook, is admirably impersonated by Mr. E. O. Lonnen, and Private Perks is capably played by Mr. Harry Paulton, jun. Sybil Cunningham, the White Chrysanthemum, is very daintily portrayed by Miss Ruth Lincoln, her singing being very pleasing. Miss Maud Harvey is bright and refined as Betty Kenyon, and Miss Isabelle Dillon, in the part of Cornelia Vanderdecken, is most vivacious.

Prince's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Miss Marie Menzies and company are here with A Rogue's Daughter. Mr. Reg. Gordon gives a dignified rendering as Sir George Mynard, Mr. F. V. Fenn, as Frank Tyler, acts consistently and well, Colonel Foster, an adventurer, is cleverly undertaken by Mr. Richard Ferris, and Isaac Isaacs, in the hands of Mr. William Plimm, is a capital character study. Miss M. Devereux, as Letty Grey plays most effectively, Miss Marie Menzies, as Lady Mynard, fills a difficult part with skill and judgment, and Miss Violet Leader as Dicky, a waif, is successful. During the play specialities are given by Miss Marie Robertson as Priscilla Jenkins, Mr. Tom Taylor, as Ebenezer Dunnem, and Mr. A. Hall Menzies as John Gibbs.

Empire Palace.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—This house was packed to its utmost capacity both at matinee and evening on Easter Monday, the management having provided a most inviting bill. Cassie Walmer, the dusky queen of comedy and dance, had a most flattering greeting, her well selected numbers being decidedly good. Narrow Bros., comedy and knockabout cyclists, are a hard-working pair, their show being much appreciated; Mlle. Kloet, with picturesque posing, is most pleasing; Wyotti, comedy juggler, is clever; Vasey and Ramsey are two eccentric and capable dancers; the New York Quartette of vocalists and acrobatic dancers, are smart and painstaking; Dan Conroy, character comedian, causes plenty of merriment; Bertha Norwood is a pleasing soubrette, and Arthur Boyne, vocal comedian, and Payne's Bio-Photoscope, with some capital new pictures, complete a successful programme.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company, in Mr. Weedon Grossmith's comedy, The Duffer, occupies the boards here this week. Mr. E. H. Wynne's assumption of the title-rôle is a finished performance, and shows a true appreciation of the varied phases of bohemian artist-life; Mr. Pennington Gush is a manly and sympathetic Charles Chester; Mr. Whitford Kane, as Paul Martin, presents a careful study of a difficult part; and Messrs. Warringay, Fordlace, and Pearce give a carefully-restrained interpretation of their respective characters. Miss Margaret Montrose as Lady Amelia Gainshays, is piquant and refreshing; and Miss Mabel Taylor as Mary Hillier acts with delicacy and feeling. Miss Nellie Griffen's presentation of the part of Miss Bide is an excellent foil to the rather tragic note of the play, and is, in itself, a capital piece of acting.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—This week Mr. G. Carlton Wallace and company has been here in the well-known romantic play, The Love that Women Desire. Mr. J. O. Stewart gave an excellent impersonation of Squire Abingdon; Miss Alice N. Livesey as Madge Abingdon left nothing to be desired; Mr. G. Carlton Wallace as Richard Abingdon ably sustained a difficult part; Miss Lalla Stanhope as Sybil Thornburn won the entire sympathy of the house; Mr. David G. Noble was distinctly successful as Philip Carnaby; Mr. Frank Fuller infused a strong dramatic interest into the play in the rôle of Frank Hardy; Mr. John Hignett was a mirth-provoking Dennis O'Rourke; Miss Maud Stuart made a charming and demure Pattie Swift. The play was handsomely and effectively staged.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—Enigmarelle, the wonderful mechanical figure which walks and cycles, is the chief attraction here this week, and its manipulation by Mr. Frederick Ireland causes the greatest interest. Harry Tomlinson is an accomplished character vocalist; Fred Harrison's catchy songs are very popular with the audience; the Andreassens provide a clever acrobatic act; Jessie Albini, comedienne, scores a success; the singing of the Four Lancashire Mill Lads is well appreciated: Ben Harris's Nippers give an amusing display of boxing; and Hess and Lisbon are very funny in their comic skating act.

RADCLIFFE.—Grand Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—This week we are favoured by Mr. Andrew Melville with the celebrated drama Driven from Home. Mr. Felix Pitt in the part of Anthony Raybrook gives an able rendering; Mr. Morley Carroll is excellent as Walter Hatherleigh; Mr. Ernest Owttrim as Willie is quiet and effective, and Mr. Alick Macmillan contributes a meritorious impersonation of John Anderson; Mr. Harry Cornwall is particularly well suited to the part of Jabez Thomas; Miss Frances Ruttledge as Laura Raybrook and Walter Hatherleigh, the younger, displays considerable talent, and Miss Evelyn Marrable is an acceptable Margaret Bayley.

RAMSGATE.—Amphitheatre.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. H. Bowman. — The Walls of Jericho, put on in really artistic style by Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company, has formed the Easter week attraction here. Miss Amy Ravenscroft brilliantly impersonates Lady Frobisher; while the Jack Frobisher of Mr. Herbert Bunston is a notable exhibition of histrionic talent. Miss Helen Haye does well as Lady Westerby; while Miss Nona Wynne, with charm, sustains the rôle of Lady Lucy Derenham. Lord Marchmont finds a capable representative in Mr. W. S. Lane; and Mr. A. S. Barber is eminently successful as Hankey Bannister.

RAWTENSTALL.—Grand Theatre.—Co-proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller.—Mr. Gus Levaine's pantomime company opened here on Easter Monday with Aladdin. The piece was well played, and merriment reigned supreme all the evening. Miss Mabel Harding makes a dashing Aladdin, and her songs are well rendered: Miss Florrie Gibson is a charming Princess. Messrs. Joe Wallace and Cecil Barry are smart knockabouts, and as Widow Twankey Mr. Charley Arnett is decidedly clever. Mr. Arthur Collins is good as the Emperor, and Mr. Robert Williams is successful as Abanazer. Among the specialities are Leon and Leoni (musical experts), Phil Rees (double-voiced vocalist), Watty Griffen (a marvellous contortionist), Mlle. Alberto (a clever wire artist), Cyrus Bell (a musical comedian of ability), Mlle. Pardo (a charming dancer), Robert Williams (a wonderfully expert swordist), and the Baden Troupe of Dancers.

ROCHDALE.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague. —Leah Kleschna is proving an immense attraction here this week. On Monday a fine performance was submitted by Mr. Chas. Frohman's capable company. Mr. George Ingleton impersonated the criminal Kleschna to the life; Mr. Percy Rhodes submitted a life-like portrayal of Paul Sylvaine; Mr. Cyril Rawdon was prominent with a capital portrayal of Schram; Mr. Leslie Lees was good as General Berton; and Mr. Harold Weston made a most effective Raoul Berton. Miss Mary Barton gave a delightful delineation of Madame Berton; Miss Lillian Locke was bright and vivacious as Claire; and Miss Pearla Gardner acted with telling effect the part of Leah Kleschna.

Circus and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Lee.—A highly-attractive holiday programme drew packed houses here on Monday evening. The Three Brothers Huxter perform some remarkable feats of jumping; Jack Truman is a tenor vocalist of exceptional merit; Mill May, singing protean artist; Mlle. Theresa, castanet player; the Paolias, in classical pictures; Charley Dixon, comedian; Kate Lynd, comedienne; Curtis and Vanity, comedy duo; and Vernon's Bioscope complete the list.

Empire Theatre of Varieties. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—The Kellinos, in A Fête in Venice, perform some remarkably clever feats, à la Risley; other excellent turns include Edna Cragge, burlesque artist; Kendrick and Laura, drawing-room entertainers; Les Bollingers, rag painters; Jack Pardoe, "the man on the clothes line"; Victor Vernon, comedian; Rose and Lewis, the Yankee-doodle duo; and the Empire Bioscope.

ROTHERHAM. — Theatre Royal, Limited. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—The special attraction for Easter week is being provided by Mr. E. Lockwood and company, with Sergeant Brue. Mr. J. Harold Carson gives an excellent portrayal of the title-rôle, being ably seconded by Mr. Frank Wilson as Michael Brue. Miss Gertie Fawcett is very pleasing as Aurora Brue; and Miss Amy Vivash is a smart Daisy. Mr. Cecil Strickland is deserving of mention as Matthew Habisham; Mr. Vernon C. Booth scores as Gerald Trehearne; Mr. Harold Godwin is a capable Inspector Corringe; Miss Kathleen V. Gray a vivacious Mabel Midget; and Miss Raydon Dallas a charming Lady Bickenhall. Mr. Edwin Thornton is an able director of a greatly augmented orchestra.

RUNCORN.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. H. W. Craddick.—The Easter holiday attraction was a return visit of Mrs. R. A. Cuthbert's company in the Black Bishop. Mr. Bartram Gascoigne gives a very fine interpretation of Vaughan Rejoine, Mr. J. Kinsley Roydon is a capital Sir R. Strathcoat, Mr. Charles Coventry is decidedly to the front with a smart rendering of Captain Keilcript, and Brank is skilfully acted by Mr. Frank Hudspeth. Miss Jennie Marquise plays the dual rôles of Marion Strathcoat and Kate Marne in a way that arrests the attention of the audience, Miss Isabel Norman gives a clever portrayal of Ruth Oldbury, Miss Madge White is cordially received as Hannah, and Miss Madge Turner depicts Little Ruth in a charming manner.

RYDE.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees and Managers, J. Bannister Howard, Ltd., Business-Manager, Mr. Wm. Martin.—The Easter attraction here has been the performance of Mr. A. Hamilton Warden's company of A Woman's Past. Bessie, the heroine, was portrayed by Miss Maisie Hanbury in a style which won all hearts; Mr. Horace E. Herbert, who undertook the part of David Heath, was responsible for some excellent acting; Mr. Oswald Cray's interpretation of Uriah Craven commanded admiration; the rôle of Clara Darrel was exceedingly well handled by Miss Gertrude Harrison; and Mr. Charles V. Sandford, as Frank Dellanoy, was a success. Mr. Hamilton Warden gave a finished portrayal of the character of Clement Harper. On Wednesday afternoon The Idler was ably presented by a specially selected London company.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—A Gambler's Daughter, by Clarence Burnette, is being presented here this week, by Miss Adria Hill and Robert Ayrton's Company. As Desmond O'Dare, Mr. Robert Ayrton is very successful; Miss Adria Hill has a dual rôle of mother and daughter (Mildred and Miriam Grant), which she skilfully sustains; Mr. Alfred Sanders as Solomon Solomons, and Mr. H. Lloyd as Stephen Brand strongly portray those characters; Mr. Richard Pitt as John Grant makes a good impression; and Mr. Victor Millard does well as Jack Grant.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Sec., Mr. J. C. Patterson.—The Club Raid, by Harry Pleon, is a well-acted sketch, by Collinson and Co., and meets with much applause; Sable Fern is a pleasing singer; roars of laughter greet the Sivronis, in their comical act; Sid Cotterell and Co., in The Substitute, also get much laughter; a pretty scena. "The Daughter of the Regiment," is given by Agnes Molteno; Adeline Yohle is a charming ballad vocalist; and Dan Fielder, comedian, also comes in for a share of appreciation.

Royal Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—Haley's Prize Juveniles in their carnival scena get much applause; Sam Shipley, eccentric character comedian, is very comical; Lilian Dorie does some graceful trapeze work; Rice and Rudge are a comical and a clever pair of skaters and cyclists; and the other turns include Witty Watty Walton, comedian; Beatrice Worth, burlesque actress; Kempton and Murdock, Yankee comedy couple; James, banjoist and bone soloist; and Rosa Finlay, skipping rope dancer.

SCARBOROUGH.—Londesborough Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Waddington; Manager, Mr. Carpenter.—Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark's company in Bluebell in Fairyland is the attraction here for the Easter holidays. Miss Gladys Cooper in the part of Bluebell shows ability; Miss Muriel Juin, as the reigning queen, contributed "Cupid," an up-to-date song, in good style; Mr. Lawrence Emery as Dicky is very popular, and Messrs. H. C. Moston and Ernest Cossart as Blib and Blob create much fun. Mr. David Cruikshanks as Jopling, the reigning king and stage manager, has his time well occupied; Miss Ruby Carter as Will of the Wisp is agile and amusing, Mr. Percy Ferrimond has a capital voice, and Mr. Fred Allen as P.C. I.C., and Mr. Stanley Crisp as Peter, the cat, are funny.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietress, Mrs. Henry Mayhew; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred P. Morgan. —As a special atraction for Easter, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey's Irish musical costume play, The Wearin' o' the Green is here. Mrs. Chalmers Mackey is prominent with a clever portrayal of Norah M'Grath, Mr. Chalmers Mackey as Barney O'Hea is a big success in a difficult part, Mr. Chas. Homer as Shamus M'Dermott interprets his part faithfully and sings well. As Biddy M'Ginn Miss Nana Flensberg plays with ability, Mr. David McFarlane as Connor Martin acts his part in an accomplished manner, and as Michael Kenny Mr. Haughton McCauley proves himself an actor of exceptional ability. Mr. John St. Stuart as Gerald Courtenay is clever. The part of Sir George Courtenay is ably sustained by Mr. H. Stainsbury, and Miss Adele Liddon, an old Scarborough favourite, takes the difficult part of Mrs. M'Dermott in her usual clever style.

People's Palace and Aquarium.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman.—Mr. Ernest Lord's Excelsior Light Opera Singers are making welcome appearances here with a large and varied programme, which includes selections from the various operas. Miss Alice Singleton, with a powerful contralto voice, hits off the peculiarities of man to advantage in "Men": Miss Ona Ashton delights with "Il Bacio." Mr. E. Edmondson has a well cultivated and powerful bass voice, which is heard to advantage in a fine song, entitled "Asleep on the Deep"; Mr. G. Harker Holt sings "Ailsa Mine" with great tenderness; and a humorous contrast is given by Mr. Stanley Burrows, who renders the "Cats' Serenade" in a very ingenious and comical way. Mr. Ernest Lord ably accompanies all the artists on the piano. Atroy, society juggler, is a master in the art of manipulation; Mlle. Viola, instrumentalist, submits some agreeable performances on a variety of novel instruments; Robb Gilmour, comedian, is always welcome here; Denby and Dent in their comedy act, The Singing Barber, keep the audience amused; Herr Cronow, facial expert, also appears. In the swimming bath Prof. Syd Jones shows every likelihood of being endowed with the many abilities displayed by his late father, Prof. Jones. He is accompanied by a fine troupe of lady swimmers.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. George Zalva.—That Mr. Zalza intends to be up to date is evidenced this week by the fact of Miss Fanny Wentworth heading the bill. Miss Went worth's efforts receive unstinted applause. Mlle. Gatley is a skilled wire artist, T. W. Barrett is undoubtedly Scarborough's favourite comedian, Miss May is a smart comedienne, and the animated pictures form a special feature of the programme.

SEACOMBE.—Irving Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Councillor James Kiernan.—Messrs. Arthur Whittaker and Clifford Stacey's company provide an agreeable change here this week with The Hindoo's Revenge, a drama that includes some clever and daring feats in pistol markmanship by Miss Lilyan Lait in the part of Diana Strong. Captain Bruce Glenister is capitally played by Mr. Cyril W. Mackay; Captain Stephen Glenister, the villain, finding an able exponent in Mr. Frank Ridley; Mr. Arthur Willerby gives a good study of Dr. Ulysses Murphy, and Mr. Clive Ross presents a good military Major General Sir Victor Strong. Miss Daisy Snowden's impersonation of Sylvia Glenister is natural and unaffected, and Mr. Hamilton Travers does justice to the part of Count Polskoff. Kumar Nana (Mr. E. H. Dobell) and Zephan (Miss Ethyle Murray) are both satisfactory.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. C. Harrison.—The Branded Woman was presented on Monday by Messrs. Stillwell and Teulon's company. Philip Maurice, the artist, and Zarka, the hunchback, are effectively portrayed by Mr. J. Stillwell, whose quick changes completely bewilder the audience. Baron Hauber finds a skilful exponent in Mr. Ed. Fryer, Louis Duroc is played with distinction by Mr. Paul E. Teulon, Dick Brown is presented with much dry humour by Mr. Becket Bould. Genevieve is admirably sketched by Miss Renée Glendower, Marie is sweetly played by Miss Katherine Barnett, Miss Kitty McPherson is a dashing Jacqueline, Miss Lena Lattridge a satisfactory Madame Crevier, and Rudolph is played with much skill by Miss Hilda Townsend.

SHEERNESS.—The Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton.—Additional attractions are provided in this week's bill for the Easter holidays. The Wade Comedy Trio submit a humorous sketch, which is enthusiastically received; the Franco Midgets, juvenile conjurors, are clever; Robbie Roy scores as a Scotch comic; a clever contortionist act by Mlle. Sylvesto is also much appreciated; the Sisters Valli, in a musical melangé, are much enjoyed; Hetty Leo proves herself a successful comedienne; and Jenny Hartley, soubrette and dancer, is much admired. Tommy Dodd, comedian, also scores. An excellent display of pictures by Ruffel's Bioscope completes an entertaining programme.

Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. P. Reymond.—Amongst the newcomers for this week are Dray and Usher, negro comedians and dancers, who create much hilarity in their farcical act The Doctor and His Boy; Miss Alice, ballad and descriptive vocalist, is highly successful, a similar compliment being likewise due to Miss Frances (L.C.M.). Mr. Tony James is an amusing eccentric comedian, and Mr. Harry Merson, comedian and banjoist, is well received.

SHEFFIELD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont. — A large audience on Monday gave a hearty reception to A Country Girl, which was performed in a vivacious manner by Mr. George Dance's company. As the irrepressible and nimble Barry, Mr. Jack Crichton kept the house in roars of laughter; Mr. F. J. Rooney was quietly humorous as Mr. Raikes, and his topical song was well received; Mr. J. Warren-Foster looked smart, and acted and sang agreeably as Geoffrey Challoner; Mr. Arthur Jackson was good as Sir Joseph Verity; Mr. Burgess Barratt proved successful as Douglas; and a good little character study was the old Mummery of Mr. Arthur Leyshon. Miss Nancy Rossiter was the incarnation of dainty femininity and girlish charm as Marjory; Miss Daisy Davies looked a picturesque Melanah, and she acted and sang with dramatic expression; Miss Maisie Gay made a handsome Nan, and she was soon on good terms with the audience; and Miss Addie Leonard was first-rate as Sophie.

Theatre Royal. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. W. Turpin.—The picturesque drama, Ben Ma Chree, was played here on Monday, by Mr. Arnold Bell's company. Mr. Bell repeated his powerful impersonation of Dan Mylrea; Mr. John Belton was excellent as Ewan; and the part of the Deemster was carefully represented by Mr. W. G. Gregory; Miss Frances Campbell acted with sympathetic earnestness as Mona; and the other characters were in capable hands.

Alexandra Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—A Woman's Revenge has met with the warm approval of Mr. Forsdike's patrons. As Frank Drummond, Mr. Henry L. Osmond acts with sincerity; Mr. Elmore Frith submits a good sketch of the crafty lawyer; Miss Winifred Chalmers makes a tender and pathetic Mary Lonsdale; the part of the handsome adventuress is ably played by Miss Maude Yorke; little Ivy Rochefort is good as the child, Mary; and other parts are cleverly acted by Miss Mabel Tremere, Mr. H. Cook, and Mr. Frederick Biron. The piece was carefully mounted.

Empire Palace.—Proprietors, the Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan W. Dunbar.—The scheme of entertainment drawn up for the delight of Easter holiday-makers was, as usual, on a generous plan, the pièce de résistance being the wonderful transformation scene, invented and performed by the Staleys, in which the interior of a cooper's shop (with musical coopers at work) is changed suddenly to a grand drawing-room, with splendid appointments. Mdlle. Celeste does a graceful act on the tight and slack wire; and the juggling of the elegant and talented Mdlle. Olive is enthusiastically cheered; Harding and Ah Sid are two original and most diverting drolls; the Misses Florence and Lillian, in their refined drawing-room entertainment, are thoroughly appreciated; Miss Venie Clements is a clever mimic, and she meets with general approbation; the Lunelle Sisters are pretty and talented duettists; and Miss Belle Braham, vocalist; Miss Mabel Hind, comedienne; and the Bioscope complete the company.

Grand Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—The following artists appeared on Easter Monday: The Donatos, one-legged clowns; Miss Hettie Lee, serio and dancer; Mr. George Prince, vocal comedian; McCann's leaping dogs; Miss Flo. Wood, burlesque actress; Gray and Welford, comedians; Mr. Harry Zetter, comedian; and Pallister's Pictures.

Albert Hall.—West's popular animated picture entertainment, "Our Navy and Army," under the management of Mr. Richardson, is paying a return visit here, to the delight and instruction of large audiences.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—Empire Theatre, Ltd.—Sole Owners, The Southend Theatre Company; Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is drawing large audiences in Oliver Twist. Mr. D. Lewin Mannering gives a fine portrayal of Fagin; Sikes is represented by Mr. William H. Kemble with dramatic force; Mr. Charlie Clark as the Artful Dodger, and Mr. R. C. Hunter as Charlie Bates, respectively act exceedingly well. Miss Edith Anton Laing as Nancy, a clever actress, takes a difficult part with marked success; and Miss Dorothy Marsdin in the title-rôle is in every way an actress of resource and ability.

Pier Pavilion.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. H. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—The Easter attraction here is provided by Mr. Harry Reynolds, who, with his celebrated minstrel troupe, is presenting a really first-class entertainment. Part I. is devoted to coon and humorous songs, ballads, and vocal marches, the patter being of the best, and is concluded with the screamingly funny absurdity entitled The Rival Telephones, Messrs. Harry Reynolds, Gavin Wood, and Dick Tubb being the exponents. In Part II. the Two Monetas (Harry and Carl) please immensely in their famous acrobatic speciality; the Alabama Quartette sing glees in creditable style; Mr. Harry Reynolds creates merriment in his oration, "I am here for that purpose"; Mr. Dick Tubb is a quaint comedian and burlesque actor; Mr. Norman Russell wins favour in his musical act; Mr. Wallie Scott is a speciality dancer; Messrs. Chas. Wiles and T. Kelly introduce a novel speciality; and Messrs. Harry Moneta, Wallie Scott, and Carl Moneta are heard to advantage in their plantation scena, Essence of Old Virginny. The capital entertainment terminates nightly with a humorous sketch.

The Kursaal.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. J. Bacon.—Enormous attractions are provided here for the holiday week. In the Hippodrome, which is under the direction of Mr. Dave Hyman, the Indian Hercules causes quite a sensation with his weight-lifting; Clivetta is a clever Continental juggler; a refined musical act is given by the Gartell Trio; Clown Holder and his well-trained canine troupe are interesting; and Zarinella is a wonderful contortionist. In the Variety Theatre some good talent is displayed, those contributing being Miss May Tyler, a dainty dancer; Miss Lena Willard, coon singer; Miss Nellie Navette, comedienne and danseuse, who is a great favourite; the Lyric Quartette, with glees; Jack Sheppard, a handcuff king; and Little Zola, who pleases immensely with his songs and patter. Other attractions of considerable interest are Mrs. Steve Cooke's famous Cosmorama; Mons. Fredericks, card manipulator; Princess Gooma and her Amazon Warriors, including the great Fire King; entertainments in the Café Chantant; dancing, and pictures on the Bioscope.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House and Winter Gardens.—Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—Mr. George Dance's premier company in the brilliant musical comedy The Duchess of Dantzic, has furnished an entertainment for the Easter holidays of more than usual attractiveness, crowded audiences being the rule. The principal part of Sans Gêne was cleverly and artistically depicted by Miss May Glenn. Mr. Arthur Paterson gave a fine display of comedy in the part of Papillon the Pedlar, which he portrayed with rich humour; the Vicomte de Bethune was capitally impersonated by Mr. J. H. Gold

Kaufmann. As Capt. Hustle Mr. Mark Practice provided plenty of fun, as did also Mr. B. Leighton as the Hon. Bertie Fairlox. Miss Edith Claris as Susan Scrubbs, Miss Lily Seymour as Rebecca Gentle, and Mr. Chas. H. Burns as Hans Winklepump completed the cast.

STAFFORD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—Visitors to this theatre on Monday were delighted by the performance of Facing the Music, by Miss Dorothy Casey's company. Mr. Wentworth Fane made a typical Rev. John Smith; Mr. Charles Windermere as the other Mr. John Smith kept the house in a continuous roar of laughter; Mr. Harry Averell as Dick Desmond played with spirit and humour; Mr. J. Knox Orde was a capable Col. Duncan Smith, and Mr. Henry Nelson a good Sergeant Duffell. Miss Claro Manifield made a vivacious and interesting Mabel; as Nora Miss Dorothy Casey proved herself an actress of ability; and Miss Mildred Hodson as Miss Fotheringay and Miss Evelyn Shelly as Mrs. Ponting contributed to the success. Clause Number Six preceded.

STALYBRIDGE. — GRAND THEATRE. — Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Mundill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eugene E. Hardie.—Mr. Fred Jarman's company is appearing in the sensational drama depicting Russian life, entitled Under the Czar. Mr. James Hare undertakes the character of the persecuted Nicholas Yerosleff, the chief of the Russian police. Mr. J. Leicester and Mr. W. H. Riley score heavily in the parts of Egar Gregorovitch and Zakhar Kovesky. Mr. Louis Weston as Paul Ignat, a genial landlord, and Mr. Lawrence Brien as Alexis Petroff, a professor of medicine, are responsible for the chief comedy element, and receive assistance from Miss Linda Riley. Miss Poppy Carewe, as the Zara Bhura, a Kirkese gipsy, appears to advantage. Miss Cathleen Cavanagh, in the leading rôle of Sonia Gregorovitch, gives a very fine impersonation of a true-hearted Russian girl.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—On Monday Mr. E. Lockwood's company in Sergeant Brue, under the direction of Mr. P. McLeod Foster, made its appearance here. Mr. Arthur Reynolds in the title-rôle was excellent, and kept the audience in a continual state of merriment. Mr. Percy Rogers sang and acted exceedingly well as Michael Brue; Mr. Charles McLagan was highly amusing as Crookie Scrubbs; Mr. Arthur Stroud was well suited as Gerald Treherne, and Mr. Henry Chichester made a capital Mr. Crank. Miss Lily Lingard (Lady Bickenhall), Miss Eva Weigh (Aurora Brue), Miss Eliza Earle (Daisy), and Miss Aileen Macdonald (Mabel Widget) were all good. The chorus and augmented orchestra under the bâton of Mr. Norman Lathom rendered excellent service.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. V. Parnell.—An attractive programme here this week includes the Smythsons, who are creating roars of laughter with their sketch The Lie Alarm. Mr. Harry Taft wins laughter and applause with his songs, patter, and whistling; and other capital turns are contributed by Mr. James Newry (comedian), Miss Marie Dane (vocalist), Mr. George Edney (character-vocalist), Fredrica's dogs and pony; Mr. Harry Bent (vocalist and mimic), Ray and Miles (comic jugglers), and Craig, Rose, and Craig (gymnasts).

STOCKPORT.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—A packed audience on Monday accorded a reception of the heartiest character to Mr. Frank Lindo and company in Home, Sweet Home. The author, Mr. Frank Lindo, gave a powerful impersonation of Stephen Armitage, Mr. J. W. Henson's portrayal of David Armitage was a realistic one, the Duke of Ancaster was made a thoroughly pleasing character in the hands of Capt. Gerald Gambier, Lucas Lyle (the villain) was played to perfection by Mr. Chas. H. Lester, Mr. George Overs performed impressively as Dick Redmayne, and as Joan Miss Marian Wakeford acted sympathetically.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, the Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. William Black.—The Six Æolians, in their pleasing and clever comedy and vocal act, head the bill. Among others are the mirth-provoking stump orator Billy Richardson; Barney Vox, whose ventriloquial entertainment is amusing; the Sisters Selwyn, captivating vocalists and dancers; Florence Ellis, vocalist; E. J. Wilkes, comedian, and his cleverly-trained dog Woof; Charles Milner, eccentric comedian; and Marguerite Ismay and her "peerless picaninnies."

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—The historical and romantic drama entitled Napoleon the Great, is here this week. An effective Napoleon is Mr. Hugh Montgomery; whilst the author of the play, Mr. Frank Thorne, is seen to advantage as Pierre Pomponnet. The other parts are well sustained.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Austin and Cowan, Australian vocalists, top the bill here, and sing well; Barton and Ashley make a great hit in Canal-Boat Sal; the Mayvilles are clever novelty artists. James de Voye's horse Billy is a well-trained animal; Bennett and Martell appear in their successful sketch The Shipwreckers; J. W. Bray (vocalist), Lily Morris (comedienne), and Bert Woodward (cycling coon) complete an attractive programme.

HIPPODROME THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. George and Robert A. Nicholson; Manager, Mr. William Ainsworth. — John Marx, the modern Hercules, heads the bill at this hall, and performs marvellous feats of strength; Arthur Kenny, described as the world's wonder on wheels, does some clever tricks; Agnese and Arthur Lynch, with their picture songs, take well; the Llewelyns, operatic artists, are well received; and the Wallys, jugglers; George Daunton, vocalist; Lily Wright, dancer; and Andie Caine, comedian, are included in a fine programme.

STOKE.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—A packed house on Monday greeted Chas. Fisher's Pocket Opera Company in their selections from grand opera, which were admirably sang and much appreciated; the Pender Troupe, in their absurdity, Hands Up, are exceedingly amusing; the Continental stilt-walkers provide a turn of much interest; Chas. Tempest is a comedian of merit, his songs being rendered in a manner which was truly artistic; Ida Fair sings her songs with taste, and is much appreciated; Kioto as a balancer has but few rivals, several of his feats being most exceptional; Lee and Arden in the sketch, The Scotchman in London, are capital; Wake and Dean, in their patter turn, are above the average; and the pictures are quite a feature in the programme.

SUNDERLAND.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company is appearing here this week in Sunday. Miss Emelie Polini has plenty of scope for her abilities in the title-rôle, which she plays in excellent style; as the boys, Messrs. William Lockhart, Sydney Rennef, T. Norman Walker, and Arthur Vezin could scarcely be improved upon; Mr. Leonard Pagden makes the most of his opportunities as Colonel Brinthorpe; and the Tom Oxley of Mr. Ernest A. Douglas leaves little to be desired. Miss Rosalind Ross is a pleasing Mrs. Naresby, and Miss Muriel Pope is seen to advantage as the nun.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hemingway.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company with the play In Holy (?) Russia is here. Mr. Tom G. Warry gives an admirable rendering of Count Gregori Petrolski; Mr. Carl Rovinelli acts with power as Laurice Steragoff; Michael Natolski finds an apt exponent in Mr. Louis Norman, and Mr. Arthur Stratton is a clever Col. Richard Forrest; Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy is a capital Renee Rubinoff, and Miss Beatrice Western scores as Catska Lavotski. Miss Evie Norman is a pleasing Natalie Natolski.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. John H. Stringer; Treasurer, Mr. Alfred Browne.—Florrie Forde, the popular burlesque actress, received a hearty welcome on Monday, when Mr. Sidney Bacon's combination in an exciting episode, entitled The Maniac, with Mr. Melville Bickford as Nathan Black, proved to be most interesting. Horton and Linder (in a bar act), Annie Laurie (comedienne), Bliss and Bliss (comedians), Russell Wallett (a clever comedian, billed as "The Lady in Black"), Speedwell (portrait painter), the Wedburns (comedians), and Vernon's animated pictures are also attractions of the programme.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Captain Clayton; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—The holiday attraction here is Mr. Henry Bedford and company in Gipsy Jack. In the title-rôle Mr. Bedford plays in good style. The cast, which is a large one, is well chosen, and those who call for special mention are Mr. Alex Alexander as Gerald Skinner; Mr. Walter H. Domoney as Mr. Skinner; Mr. Cecil B. Churton whose impersonation of the Rev. Francis Harvey is a good piece of work; Mr. Sid Bedford, who is well suited as Joe Banks; and Miss Bessie Bedford, who plays in pleasant fashion as May Harvey.

SWINDON.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Mr. George Dance's The Cingalee company, under the business direction of Mr. W. Wright, commenced its first visit to this town on Monday. High honours must be awarded to Miss Edith Harmer, who plays the part of Nanoya with fascinating freshness; Miss Eva Stevens undertakes the rôle of Lady Patricia with exquisite grace and finish, Mr. A. Wortley Drewitt as Harry Vereker scores an unqualified success, and Mr. F. Sutton deserves much credit as Boobhamba. Mr. Scott Cullen is seen to advantage as Bobby Warren, and Mr. Eric Fenton is effective as Sir Peter Loftus. A prominent feature of the piece is undoubtedly Mr. Tom Payne, a comedian of remarkable versatility, who is great as Chambhuddy-Ram, and with the support of Miss Minnie Muir, most pleasing as Peggy, he keeps the audience in roars of laughter. Miss Cynthia Norman as Angy Loftus also deserves special mention for her graceful dances.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. J. Gunnell.—The Lady of Ostend, played by Mr. Lawrence Brough's excellent company, was the Bank Holiday attraction. Mr. Brough's impersonation of the Baron is as successful as ever. Mr. Henry Hampson furnishes a humorous study of Whortles, and Mr. Charles Groves, jun., scores as the father-in-law; while Mr. James Skea as Tobie Crockitt keeps the audience fully amused; Mr. Harold M. M'Nay as the manager of the cinematograph, Mr. H. Douglas as Thompson, the clerk in Whortles' office, and Mr. Hewson Elliott as the butler, all contribute their share to the fun of the evening in a very able manner. Miss Daisy Cook is a charming impersonator of the title-rôle; Miss Molly Tremaine displays much excellent comedy as the maid; while special praise is due to Miss Kathleen Coleman, who as Mrs. Whortles is admirable, and to Miss Dorcas Corsbie, who makes the most of the mother-in-law; Miss Edith Ormonde also gives a successful study of the niece.

TYNEMOUTH.—PALACE-BY-THE-SEA.—Proprietor, Mr. J. H. Graham; Manager, Mr. Lindon Travers.—This popular North-East Coast resort re-opened for a ten days' season on Good Friday. On Monday night, when the vast auditorium was filled to its utmost capacity, Salida and Vone, American Rag-time dancers and coon vocalists, contributed an excellent turn; the Cumberland Troupe of trick cyclists performed some remarkably smart feats; Alberto, magician, caused much amusement; Richardson Taylor proved to be a versatile entertainer; the Haydn Opera Singers pleased in their various items; and the Royal Roumanian Band pleased with their selections. In addition there is an up-to-date show of animated pictures.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—This week's attraction is furnished by Mr. Morris Prendergast's company in the drama A Woman of Pleasure. Lord Carlingforth is well interpreted by Mr. Jerrold Ord; Mr. H. T. Wood is good as Rev. Luke Goddard; Mr. Fred Norbury is successful as Commandant Deuch; Mr. Arthur Gilroy gives a manly rendering as Major Burrows; and Mr. Deane Cliffe is capable as Bobby Bumpwell. Miss Theo Henries depicts with taste and ability the rôle of the Countess of Carlingforth; Miss Carlotta Blanche is well placed as Mrs. Bumpwell; and Miss Dolly Gilroy is chic as Dolly Dimple.

HIPPODROME. — Lessee, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucas.—Mr. Charles Dillon, comedian, makes a hit; the Rizareiles are a couple of clever juvenile gymnasts; Geo. Bernard, character-vocalist, sings well; the Summersons (Will and Maggie), comedy duettists, cause merriment; Nelson and Thomas, sketch artists; the Sisters Stratton, duettists; and Vivian Dell all merit appreciation; and the Ruars are smart in an acrobatic turn.

WALSALL.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. R. A. Roberts, the clever protean actor, in his self-sustained sketch, Dick Turpin, is an undeniable attraction; Lily Esplin, comedy artist, is charming; and Fred Bronte, actor-vocalist, is smart. The Reed-Oetzmann Troupe; Kate Traill, with song at the piano; the Two Hiltons, in a horizontal bar act; the White Mahatmas, in their second-sight act; and some interesting pictures, are other attractions.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood. — This week Miss Emma Litchfield's company, under the direction of Mr. Stuart Cleveland, occupy the boards with the drama, A London Actress. Mr. John C. Carlyle gives a capital portrayal of Sergeant-Major Crawford; Mr. Arthur F. Dudley does well as Lieutenant Kingstone; Captain Mannering has a clever representative in Mr. George H. Doyle; Mr. John Hitchins makes a comical Pat Maloney; Miss Maud Steeples ably enacts the part of Phyllis Crawford; and Miss Emma Litchfield gives a fine portrayal of Hilda Mannering.

WALTHAMSTOW. — KING'S THEATRE. — The holiday season here was celebrated by the production of a merry little pantomime on the subject of Jack the Giant Killer, performed by a clever company gathered together by Mr. H. A. Langlois. Mr. John Maxwell looks imposing as King Go-Easy, speaks his lines with commendable distinctness, and sings well; a very popular character is that of the Widow, played with much humour by Mr. E. C. Matthews, who may be said to make a speciality of the distressed mothers and widows of pantomime; Mr. T. May is alert and amusing as Buttons, contributing not a little to the fun of the piece; Miss Amy Robson is bright and merry as Jack, looking well and acting with point; Princess Blushrose has a charming exponent in Miss Georgina Oliver; Miss Julia Gwynne is a good Prince Racket and Miss Doll Bell very fetching as Charley Cholmondeley; Miss Mary Poole is a handsome and clever Titania, and Mr. H. A. Langlois throws a great deal of humour into the "big" part of the play, Giant Blunderbore. Other parts are sustained by Messrs. Geo. Francis and Ed. Leigh; Miss Nell Dalton, Susan Granby, Dora Morgan, and Jeannie Lawson.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—A capital bill of fare was provided by Mr. Potter for his holiday patrons, and on Monday evening a full house received with every sign of approval and enjoyment the excellent performance of The Earl and the Girl, given by Mr. William Greet's company. Mr. Alfred Donohoe is amusing as the dog trainer Jim Cheese; Mr. Leslie Gaze plays well as Dick Hargreave, and renders his songs with taste; Mr. Thomas Kennard does well as the Hon. Crewe Boodle; and Mr. Greville Hayes as A. Bunker Bliss, Mr. Percy Bronson as the voluble American solicitor Downham, and Mr. Sam Lysons as Mr. Talk, all give excellent contributions. Miss Hylda Dugdale is a dainty and charming Elphin Haye; an excellent character sketch of Liza Shoddam is given by Miss Lina Hicks; and Miss Beatrice Anderson is imposing and appropriate as the strong lady Mrs. Shimmering Black. Miss Ida Stratham is chic and engaging as Daisy Fallowfield. The augmented orchestra and chorus under the direction of Mr. W. Stephenson do commendable work.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmot.—Arthur Milton, who is one of the most popular of comedians with Warrington audiences, is a great attraction at the Scotland-road house; Luigo's Sextette Serenaders also make a big hit; and capital turns are supplied by Fred Horsfall, comedian; Maxford and Cheil, patterers; Nora Hildon, comedienne; Gus Garrick, comedian; Three Symons, jugglers and gymnasts; and the Royal Bioscope pictures.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manager, Mr. W. J. Cranston.—Mr. Gus Levaine's and Clayton's comic pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, is attracting crowded houses here. The part of Robin Hood is ably rendered by Miss Jessie Lindsay; as Maid Marion, Miss Lizzie Levaine leaves little to be desired; excellent comedy is contributed by Mr. Fred Fosco, and Mr. Dave Anderson, as the two robbers, Weary Willie and Tired Tim. The Babes are artistically portrayed by Miss Lilly Belle and Miss Madge Bingham; Miss Kate Travers makes an ideal Fairy, her songs being received with enthusiasm; the specialities include, Percy Victor's wonderful dog orchestra; Mons. Foxo, harmonicaphist; the Valmores, in their vocal and sand-dancing performance; the Ruby Quartette of lady dancers; and Eddie Clay, American tramp musician.

WEST BROMWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore.—Julian Malvern's powerful company opened here on Monday with the drama I Defy the World, under the direction of Mr. Chas. M. Julian, who gave a fine representation of the part of Samuel Wozzle. Mr. Lewis Gilbert was well received in the character of Leon Darville, Mr. Horace Booth did well as Count de Beaulien, as did Mr. Charles Conway as Laroche; Miss Trixie St. Albans was all that could be desired as Pauline Delaporte; the Marie Wozzle of Miss Maude Lilian was ably portrayed; Miss Maude Malvern gave a clever embodiment of Blanche Darville.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—Messrs. Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod's company, in The Prodigal Parson, is the attraction this week. Mr. W. V. Garrod fills the title-rôle with conspicuous ability; Miss Bertha Kingston sympathetically portrays the character of the heroine; Miss Gladys Conover as the little blind daughter is winning; in the heavy work, Mr. Fred Northway and Mr. Frank Dallas show themselves to be competent actors; and Miss May Grayce quickly wins her way to favour as a German lady. Mr. A. W. Avery brightens the play with his humour; and a pleasant diversion is given by the Radium Girls (dancers).

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—Bonnie Goodwin and her Apollo piccaninnies are delighting crowded audiences; Wallau is enjoying immense popularity in his juggling; Chas. Faning's turn is distinctly funny; Jock Walker's Scotch humour is highly appreciated; Frances Drew contributes popular songs; Raymond's Biotableaux are particularly attractive; the Albano Troupe of instrumentalists give an enjoyable show; and other acceptable turns are contributed by T. W. Royal (clog dancer) and Johnny Walker (comedian).

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—This week Mr. Charles Otley's company is here in Our Boys and Caste. The former piece was presented on Monday. Mr. Charles Otley as Perkyn Middlewick gave a highly artistic and extremely humorous interpretation; Mr. F. Stuart Willson was successful as Sir Geoffrey Champneys; Mr. William Allison was a praiseworthy Talbot Champneys; and Mr. Herbert Robinson was decidedly good as Charles Middlewick. Miss Ethel Verne did well as Violet Melrose; Miss Edith Heron Brown made a delightful Mary Melrose; as Clarissa Champneys Miss Amy Coleman did excellent work; Belinda found a droll exponent in Miss Maria Jonquil.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. James Kiddie.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company with A Royal Divorce is the Easter attraction. Mr. Frederick Moyes gives again his famous delineation of the Emperor Napoleon, Mr. H. Gray Dolby is an excellent Talleyrand, Mr. Henry Ludlow does good work as the Marquis de Beaumont, and Mr. C. Lionel Brocknor is admirable as General Augereau. The Marshal Murat of Mr. P. W. Ford is a virile piece of acting, Mr. Dennis Bryan handles the part of Grimaud very well indeed, and Mr. Charles Stanley draws a vivid portrayal of the ill-fated Ney. Miss Lilian Dundas, although suffering from a severe cold, acts sympathetically as the Empress Josephine, and Miss Muriel Thompson as Marie Louise is decidedly impressive.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—A capital holiday attraction has been furnished by Mr. Frank Bertram's powerful company, in the romantic drama, The Breed of the Treshams. Mr. Henry Belding plays the part of Lieutenant Reresby with considerable dash and humour; and, as Colonel Hungerford, Mr. Hamilton Deane portrays the characteristics of the "villain" of the piece with exceptional ability. Mr. M. Wetherell as Captain Stanhope, and Mr. Wilson Blake as Captain Rashleigh, give admirable representations in their respective rôles; and Mr. Cecil Klein is an excellent exponent of Cornet Tresham. Margaret Hungerford is ably impersonated by Miss Florence Tressillian; and Miss Celestine Bertram assumes the male part of Batty with naïveté and personal charm.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Selma Braatz is a lady juggler who performs her marvellous feats with great neatness and dexterity; and Henri Bekker, illusionist, displays the art of conjuring in a very pleasing form. The D'Arcs Marionettes are cleverly made to represent the chief artists on the music hall stage; and other capital turns are furnished by Tom Moy, Lancashire comedian; Emma Don and company, in a musical mélange; Kloof and Ramsay, in a musical novelty burlesque; Minnie Fenton, Scots comedienne and dancer; the O'Learys, burlesque comedians; and the Brothers Obo, laughing comedians, &c.

WOLVERHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Lessees and Managers, Mr. E. H. Bull and Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Percival. —Mr. Cyril Maude's company is this week appearing here in Beauty and the Barge. The piece is admirably played. Mr. Harry Ashford is particularly good, and quaintly funny as Captain James Barley; Mr. Percival Knight gives an excellent interpretation as Lieut. Boyne; Mr. Percy Marmont does well as Herbert Manners; Mr. Walter Pemberton is a vigorous and capable Major Smedley; and Mr. J. Wheatman is a capital John Dibbs. As Ethel Smedley Miss May Fairclough is smart and vivacious; Miss Mary Pemberton is a pleasing Lucy Dallas; and Miss Mary Griffiths gives a clever portrayal as Mrs. Baldwin. The play is preceded by That Brute Simmons, in which Messrs. J. Wheatman and Fred Paul and Miss Harriet Trench are seen to advantage.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—The holiday attractions at this house consist of the two little friends, L'Homme Miniature and the Young Colossus; Billy McClean's coloured sextette in The Hottest Coon in Dixie; Duncan and Godfrey in their coster act; Florence Watson, comedienne; Fred Curran, vocal comedian; Fred Cullane's comedy trio, in The Lady's School; Barratt and Knowles, comedians; and the Bros. Durant, gymnasts.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lennox Barry.—For many years known as the Prince of Wales's Theatre, afterwards as the Star Theatre, the Bilston-street establishment, after the fire there many months ago, has now been rebuilt and reconstructed, and was opened as a variety house of entertainment under the above title on Easter Monday. The week's programme includes Captain Max Gruber's elephant, horse, and pony; Charles Ulrick, barrel manipulator; Fred Nieman, ventriloquist; Lieut. Charde's canine circus; Arthur Croxon, humorous entertainer; Lilian Barry, vocalist; Orpheus, instrumentalist; Arabella Allen, the Dickens girl; Creo Bros., acrobatic comedians; and the Hippodrome pictures.

WORCESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. Le Wards.—The Executioner's Daughter is proving attractive to holiday folk this week. Miss Isa Grant in the title-rôle achieves artistic success, and as the girl's father Mr. Duncan Bell provides a clever character-study. Mr. W. S. Stevenson is admirably suited as Kretch; and two capable impersonations are Mr. Julian di Alberte's Felix Marius and Mr. Stapleton's Vivian Ormonde; Miss Beatrice Moore is a pathetic figure as Christina, and Miss Evelyn Robson makes the unpleasant part of Felice a strong one. Paul Robel, in the hands of Mr. Victor R. C. Moore, is a strong part; and the comic element is capably provided by Miss May Rosine and Mr. Willie Hicks as Sally King and Tom Helmes respectively.

WORKINGTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—On Monday Mr. Harry Starr's company presented Otto the Outcast to a crowded house. Mr. Starr was given an enthusiastic reception in the title rôle, playing with his usual ability; Mr. D. Cowell Clarke proved excellent as the villain, Mr. E. Firth was good as the detective. Mr. F. W. Graham as Carrotte was humorous, and he was well partnered by Miss Elia Crossley as Susette, and Miss Katie Norris was sympathetic as Lara. As Corinne Miss Madge Blundell gave a strong delineation.

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Old Heidelberg is being presented here this week, and was thoroughly appreciated by a crowded house on Monday. Mr. Robert Minster is excellent as Karl Heinrich, as is Mr. J. Nelson Ramsay as Dr. Juttner; Mr. Lionel Gadsden deserves special commendation as Lutz; Mr. A. M. Moore is diverting as Ruder, and is ably assisted by Miss Rose Helene as Frau Ruder; Miss Irene Lavington leaves nothing to be desired as Kathie. The remaining characters are well placed.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This hall was re-opened on Easter Monday, after being closed for three weeks for re-decoration. The chief attraction was Mr. Tom Herman's naval and military spectacle Defending the Colours. Alec Kendal, comedian, made a welcome reappearance, and Dene and Dawson, in their comedy skit Stage Aspirants, and Miss Lillie Coleman, comedienne, did well. The animated tableaux still prove an attractive feature.

YORK.—OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Sidney Brooke.—This week the company is the strongest seen here for a long time. The Selbinis head the bill, and their reception is most cordial. Charley Harvey is a comedian whose humour is never forced, and is therefore all the more acceptable; Lilian and Vera are expert rifle shots; Carr and Rose in their sketch are clever; some amusing business is indulged in by the American Comedy Four, and Mlle. Leola, a dainty lady juggler, never fails to please. Little Ada and the Bioscope are also in the programme.

BELFAST EASTER PANTOMIME.

On Saturday, April 14,

entitled,
"DICK WHITTINGTON AND HIS CAT."

Dick Whittington ..... MISS HARRIETT FAWN
Thomas, the Cat ..... MR. TOM GILMORE
Alderman Fitzwarren ..... MR. FRED ACTON
Alice ..... MISS WINIFRED PREECE
Julia ..... MR. WALTER NUGENT
Captain Kettle ..... MR. FRED O'MALLEY
Ben Bobstay ..... MR. BILL BROWN
Lieut. Mainbrace ..... MISS ELVIRA VINCENT
Polly Perkins ..... MISS LOTTIE VINCENT
Muley Ben Whac ..... MR. HERBERT PEARCE
Princess Dainty ..... MISS MARIE GERRARD
Idle Jack ..... MR. NEIL KENYON

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

On Saturday, Mr. Fred W. Warden, in conjunction with Mr. Edward Marris, produced his annual Easter pantomime, and, judging by the reception accorded by an ever-critical Belfast public, a decided success has been achieved. The book is by Mr. Edward Marris (who, it appears, is also responsible for the lyrics), and, while it is true that very few local topics have been introduced, yet it must be conceded that the dialogue is very smartly written. The plot is on the traditional lines, and all of course ends happily for the hero and heroine. The music, which is most delightful, has been arranged by the talented and gifted resident musical conductor, Mr. Samuel P. Swanton, and the various catchy songs introduced, especially "I've built a bamboo bungalow," will soon be heard all over the city. The costumes, by Baruch and Co., Mme Marie Beck, &c., won much admiration; and the scenery, by Mr. William Wells, Mr. Thos. Holmer, Mr. W. F. Robson, and Mr. G. Jansen, is certainly beautiful. The nine scenes represented are Outside Fitzwarren's Shop, Interior of Fitzwarren's Shop, On the Road to Highgate, Highgate Hill, On Board the Lively Polly, The Valley of Palms, The Emperor's Harem, Street on the Way to Guildhall, and The Guildhall Gardens, London. As usual, Mr. Warden has been fortunate in securing a capital cast, and in engaging the services of that well-known Scotch comedian Mr. Neil Kenyon he has displayed excellent perspicacity. It is not too much to say that Mr. Kenyon in the rôle of Idle Jack is the premier success of the pantomime, being the life and soul of every scene in which he appeared. Whether in song or story, Mr. Kenyon is simply irresistible, his comedy, which is always humorous, but never obtrusive, having the faculty of keeping the audience in perfect shrieks of merriment. He sang a number of songs which were repeatedly encored. Mr. Kenyon must be heartily congratulated on his success. In the title-rôle, Miss Harriett Fawn was dashing and accomplished, acting with much spirit. She sang "Riding on top of the car," receiving a double encore, and was no less successful with "My Irish Lily" and "Good-bye, good old London Town." Miss Winifred Preece is a dainty and bewitching principal girl, and in the part of Alice she won all hearts with her charming interpretation. Her songs, "A cup of tea," and "I've built a bamboo bungalow," took well; but perhaps the greatest song hit was Miss Florrie Gallimore's catchy item, "Remember me to mother dear," which was loudly redemanded. Possibly the most accomplished vocalist in the whole pantomime is Miss Mary Gerrard, who was a beautiful Princess Dainty, and received a well-merited encore for her rendering of "You must guess, little boy." Much praise is due to Mr. Fred Acton, who, by his humorous acting, contrived to keep the fun going merrily as Alderman Fitzwarren, and in the comic duet, "Good-bye," with Mr. Walter Nugent, he made a hit. Mr. Walter Nugent had a difficult rôle to sustain as Julia, the cook, and must be complimented on his unexaggerated impersonation. Messrs. Fred O'Malley and Billy Brown were a jovial Captain Kettle and Ben Bobstay, creating much merriment with their funny patter and original business. Their songs and dances won a capital reception. Miss Elvira Vincent and Miss Lottie Vincent were captivating and exceedingly attractive as Lieutenant Mainbrace and Lieutenant Turner. Their duet, "Rufus Brown," and smart dancing, gained the heartiest approval. Mr. Herbert Pearce had little to do as the Emperor of Morocco, but acquitted himself well; and no one could desire a better impersonation of the cat than Mr. Tom Gilmore's. Among the specialities may be mentioned the Lohrenz Quartette of dancers, whose fine exhibition was received with enthusiasm. The Thalian Glee Singers sing in excellent taste, and one would fain hear more of their vocal efforts. Too much praise cannot be accorded Mr. Fred W. Warden (managing-director of the Royal) for his indefatigable efforts to make the pantomime a success.

THE Duke and Duchess of Connaught were present at the Vaudeville Theatre on Tuesday, and witnessed the performance of The Belle of Mayfair.

MR. CHARLES HYLAND, the indefatigable manager of the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, was accorded a complimentary benefit on Saturday, when the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. A feature of the excellent programme was the appearance of Mrs. Michael Gunn, so long associated with dramatic achievements in Dublin, who sang "Dinah Doe" and won an undeniable encore. Mr. Barton McGuckin was similarly honoured for "The Minstrel Boy," and the programme also included, among other items, the performance by the members of a literary and dramatic society of the drama In the Eyes of the World. Mr. Hyland received a warm welcome when he came forward to thank the audience, the artists, and the directors, whose lease, he reminded his hearers, terminates in a few weeks' time, when the theatre would go back to Mrs. Gunn. It was, he supposed, not much of a secret that he was to remain on the bridge and help to navigate the good ship Gaiety into the Port of Success, where she had been running with fair winds and good weather since her launch some thirty years ago, and he was hopeful of the same prosperity attending them in the future as in the past.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN.—THURSDAY, April 19.—Die Jagd Um's Leben, a "free adaptation," in eight scenes, by MM. Fox and Gradl, of Sherlock Holmes, was produced at the Carl Weiss on Sunday. It was just the right kind of entertainment for a Carl Weiss audience on a holiday night, and the adventures of the famous English detective—played by Herr Stuenkel—kept the hearers spellbound. The incidental music is pretty and effective, and the cast was a good all-round one. The piece was received with the utmost cordiality, and is filling the bill this week to the exclusion of all else.

THE Schliersee company have removed from the New Royal Opera to the Berliner Theatre, where they will remain for a fortnight. The clever artists have produced several novelties already, the piece which has caught on most being a farcical volks-play, entitled In der Sommerfrisch'n, by Herren Rauchenegger and Conrad Dreher. It was produced on Easter Sunday, and the crowded house received it with enthusiastic applause. The chief rôle was taken by Herr Terofal, the star of the company, and he had every opportunity for displaying his inimitable humour. He has the part of a city man, who, in his holidays, raves about the country to such an extent that he imitates the Tyrolean mountaineers in every particular; he wears their costume, jodels, attempts their wooden-shoe dances, and makes himself generally ridiculous. There are many such persons, be it said, in Germany; the case is a parallel one to that of a "schwärmerisch" cockney in the Highlands, and the idea—in a farce—is provocative of much fun. The artists and authors were applauded to the echo. Herr Dreher is, by the way, manager of the company, and has been frequently signalled out by the Kaiser for special honours.

A SECOND novelty of the Schlierseers was the four-act volks-play Der Chinakrieger, by Herren Neuert and Lauris. This, too, met with a very cordial reception, Herr Terofal taking the name-part—the "warrior" from China. The hero is a Tyrolean Munchausen; his deeds of prowess exist only in his imagination, but he succeeds in making them accepted by his countrymen. Ferdl, a knife-grinder by trade, is a very good fellow, in spite of his flights of fancy, and the rôle is a grateful one. Another new piece is announced for the end of the week, of a serious character this time.

AT the Royal Schauspielhaus Ernst von Wildenbruch's patriotic play Die Quitzows has been revived. It is a somewhat heavy work for the hot days we have been favoured with, but the Berlin people love historical pieces—dealing, nota bene, with their own history—and this is powerfully written and full of multi-coloured scenes. It was well acted and much applauded.

"HILLE BOBBE" is the name of a new one-act comedy, produced with good results at the Kleines Theatre last week. The author is a Swede, Herr Adolf Paul, but he lives in Berlin, and writes in German. The plot is risky, and not to everyone's taste, while the language descends to the verge of coarseness at times; but the amusing "situations" provoked a good deal of laughter. Frau Hille, nicknamed "Hille Bobbe," is a Dutch woman, whose daughter was lady's maid to Frau Pletchikoff—a resident in a Russian provincial town. The maid died, and as it was her great wish to be buried in her native country, Herr and Frau Pletchikoff send the corpse by a friend—Marmeladoff—who is willing (his expenses being liberally paid) to take charge of it. Arrived in Petersburg, Marmeladoff spends all the money in the fascinations of the metropolis, and sells the corpse to the "Anatomie" to pay his hotel bill. To pacify the m

THE WALDORF.

On Saturday, April 14,
Revival of the Comedy, in Four Acts, by Robert Marshall, entitled
"THE SECOND IN COMMAND."

Lieut.-Col. Miles Anstruther, D.S.O. ..... Mr. Eille Norwood
Major Christopher Bingham ..... Mr. Cyril Maude
Lieut. Sir Walter Mannering ..... Mr. G. M. Graham
Lieut. Peter Barker ..... Mr. Chas. Maude
Medenham ..... Mr. King Fordham
Hartopp ..... Mr. Ralph McKie
Sergeant ..... Mr. Owen
Corporal ..... Mr. H. Cannon George
Orderly ..... Mr. Edmund Lea
Mr. Fenwick ..... Mr. F. Percival Stevens
Hon. Hildebrand Carstairs ..... Mr. A. Vane Tempest
The Duke of Hull ..... Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton
Muriel Mannering ..... Miss Sybil Carlisle
Lady Harburgh ..... Miss Ada Ferrar
Norah Vining ..... Miss Madge Titheradge

All the enthusiasm of a first-night was manifested at the Waldorf on Saturday, when a crowded house welcomed Mr. Cyril Maude in a character with which his later fame is intimately associated. Captain Marshall's comedy, the long run of which, on its original production at the Haymarket, in the autumn of 1900, was not sufficiently extended to satisfy popular appreciation, is an admirable example of the brilliant author's dramatic gifts. Sparkling with gems of humour, it possesses also a story of sentiment which provokes unceasing interest, and the approval of the audience on Saturday was expressed in hearty cheers, which necessitated the raising of each act-drop half-a-dozen times. Mr. Cyril Maude, who received an ovation at the first rising of the curtain, acted in his sunniest style as Major Christopher Bingham, whose ill-success in love has a certain compensation by his triumph in war. The happy faculty possessed by the actor of investing every line with humorous significance is agreeably evident in his impersonation of the generous-hearted "Binks," and every phase of humour in a deliciously droll conception was followed with endless mirth, except when an occasional touch of pathos brought the audience into complete sympathy. With four important exceptions, the cast of the present revival is entirely different to that of the original production. One of those happily retained is Mr. A. Vane Tempest, who, by the conclusion of the run of Captain Drew on Leave, is enabled to repeat his unconsciously funny embodiment of the Hon. Hildebrand Carstairs. Mr. Tempest is one of the two mirth-moving figures of the piece, and commands laughter whenever he is present. His humour is of the passive rather than the active description, but there is a wealth of comic suggestion, and the less he seems to do as the simple-minded descendant of a line of celebrities, the more effective do his efforts become, irresistible laughter being compelled by his appearances, both as the mild son of an assertive mother, and as the meekest member of the Imperial Yeomanry. Miss Sybil Carlisle displays once again as Muriel Mannering her sterling gifts of emotional acting, made additionally impressive by a graceful carriage and a mellifluous utterance, which captivates the ears. The feelings of the young girl who awakens to a sense of her love for one man after her hand has been promised to another, and the subsequent agony with which she relinquishes her new-found happiness, are realised with a truth and fervour which charm by their refinement and finish. Mr. G. M. Graham succeeds to the part of the impulsive Lieut. Sir Walter Mannering, and gives a skilful study of the remorse-stricken young spendthrift, who has to undergo so much humiliation at one period of his career. A stalwart and dignified Lieut.-Colonel Miles Anstruther is presented in the person of Mr. Eille Norwood, who obtains quite the "Kitchener" expression in his assumption of the commanding officer, but reveals a depth of tenderness when required, and makes completely manifest the chivalry and honour that belongs to the character. Miss Ada Ferrar, who never wavers in her dignified serenity and composure in the part of Lady Harburgh, is an admirable exponent of the part, and the humour of the scene in which her sense of rectitude is so greatly shocked by the wild dissipation of her nephew Hildebrand is added to valuably by the exercise of her ripe comedy talents and excellent delivery. Miss Madge Titheradge enters thoroughly into the exposition of the part of Norah Vining, and plays with engaging vivacity and charm. Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton gives a smart and concise rendering of the Duke of Hull, acting with the dignified alertness which sets the royal seal upon it. Mr. Chas. Maude plays Lieut. Peter Barker in a dandified style, and with a dash and buoyancy that make the character agreeably conspicuous. Mr. Fenwick is neatly depicted by Mr. F. Percival Stevens, whose make-up as the moneylender is not the least of the good points which the performance contains. The two soldier servants, Medenham and Hartopp, are smartly played by Mr. King Fordham and Mr. Ralph McKie, who vary the haut ton of the piece by a little low comedy which is greatly appreciated. Mr. Owen supplies a characteristic impersonation of a sergeant, and with Mr. H. Cannon George as a corporal and Mr. Edmund Lea as an orderly makes the cast complete. The scenes are splendid examples of artistic skill, some exquisite blendings of colour and shading being obtained in the various sets.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, April 16,
the Play, in Five Acts, by Geo. R. Sims and Arthur Shirley, entitled
"TWO LITTLE VAGABONDS."

The two little vagabonds, although they have led a comparatively long stage life, have certainly not outgrown the popularity which they won at a very early period of their existence; and their adventures are followed with intense interest by a new generation of playgoers. The marked success which attended the production at the Princess's Theatre of Messrs. George R. Sims and Arthur Shirley's adaptation of Les Deux Gosses is a matter of theatrical history, and during the intervening years the drama has been toured with the most profitable results through the length and breadth of the land. Its selection as the holiday attraction at the Marlborough Theatre has been quite justified by results; Hardie and von Leer's company having met with a most favourable reception from well-pleased audiences.

Miss May Hollom displays ability in her portrayal of Wally, the pale-faced, consumptive boy whose pitiable condition in the early part of the play never fails to excite the keen sympathy of the audience; and their feelings are again moved when the lad discovers that Mrs. Thornton is not his mother as he had been led to suppose. Miss D. Rosslyn Vayne as Dick also plays well as the strong, hearty boy who protects as far as possible the weakly Wally. Miss Valerie Crespin as Marion Thornton expresses the acute feelings of the wife and mother in a manner that deeply impresses the audience, her outburst of despairing grief when she finds that Wally is after all not her child being extremely natural and effective. Miss F. Russel Spiers gives valuable assistance as Barbara Scarth; and Miss Muriel Clay is good as Sister Randall. Mr. William D. Fazan is a forcible representative of George Thornton and Mr. Sidney Vautier as Captain Darville, and Mr. Dunstan Haye as John Scarth make good use of their opportunities. Mr. John F. Traynor deserves to be complimented on his capital portrait of Bill Mullins, otherwise known as "The Gaffer"; Mr. Frank Gordon supplies a clever sketch of Dido Bunce; and Mr. Fred Archer neatly hits off the characteristics of the rough who rejoices in the nickname of "The Coughdrop." Miss Marie Pritchard effectively embodies Biddy Mullins; the drunken scene being well acted. Mr. Frank G. Kent is successful in his embodiment of the soldier servant Leeson; Mr. Marston Moor, as Hargitt, landlord of the Chequers, Mr. Thomas Blakeman as Dr. Lynn, Mr. Hugh Holliman as Joe Gargoyle, a sexton; Mr. Henry Buckland as Whiffin, a village constable; Mr. W. T. Harris as a haughty footman; and Miss Lonna Vernon as a maid-servant, all contribute to the success of the performance. Mr. E. P. Clift is the general-manager for the company.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, April 16, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"KITTY GREY."

A decidedly popular attraction for the Easter holidays is Kitty Grey, and the King's has, in consequence, been satisfactorily filled each evening by wholly delighted audiences. For Kitty Grey is a taking musical comedy, the story being simply and pleasantly told and the music catching and tuneful. In addition to these, we have Mr. C. St. John Denton's talented and hard-working company, and it is no wonder that Kitty Grey continues to be one of the most successful pieces on the road. The title-rôle is rendered in excellent style by Miss Hilda Guiver, a young lady of great personal attractions, bright in manner, and the possessor of a very effective singing voice. Lord Plantagenet finds an exceedingly droll representative in Mr. H. E. Garden, who keeps the audience in rare good humour; Mr. Robert Hyett plays Sir John Binfield with any amount of assurance, and sings well; a dashing performance of the rather naughty King of Illyria is presented by Mr. Lauri Lisle; and the Comte de Trenitz is capably handled by Mr. Stanley Ravenscroft. An altogether bewitching impersonation of Lady Binfield is given by Miss Marie West, a young artist who should be heard of again, and soon. She is a distinct acquisition to the company. Mrs. Bright is a most amusingly-drawn personage by Miss Nellie Lauraine, whose song "The feeling's just the same" proves very acceptable to the house, judging from the numerous encores it receives. Highly pleasing is the Sadie de Poulson of Miss Gertrude Page. The ladies and gentlemen of the large chorus show to much advantage, and the scenery and dresses could not be bettered. The orchestra is well handled by Mr. Forbes Russell.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, April 16,
the Drama, by G. R. Sims, entitled
"THE LIGHTS O' LONDON."

Mr. Robert Arthur's engagement of Mr. Herbert Hollister's company for the holiday week is proving most successful, for Mr. G. R. Sims's old drama, The Lights o' London, is apparently as big a favourite as ever, and its drawing powers have in no wise diminished. Miss Jeannie Burgoyne is again seen as the unhappy Bess, playing the part in a pathetic manner, and enlisting all the sympathy possible. Miss Burgoyne has played this part some hundreds of times, but her grip of the character is as firm as ever. Mr. J. Edward Pearce makes a fine, manly Harold Armytage, his vigorous manner and earnestness being admirably suited to the rôle. Seth Preene, perhaps the best-drawn character in the play, is capitally handled by Mr. Herbert Hollister, who scores a big success by his forcible acting. The scheming Clifford Armytage is admirably portrayed by Mr. Riddell Robinson, who contributes a finished piece of work. That amusing old couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis, the travelling representatives of the drama, are delightfully played by Mr. W. E. Passmore and Miss Violet Temple, while their budding genius of a son, Shakespeare, is brightly depicted by Miss Gladys Murray. Mr. F. V. Lloyd makes the most of his chances as Marks, the old lodge-keeper, and Mr. Herbert Morgan does well as Squire Armytage. The voluble and lively Philosopher Jack needs no better exponent than Mr. George Wallace, and Percy De Vere as played by Mr. H. Pettitt causes much mirth. Miss Constance Davey makes an acceptable Hetty Preene, and Miss Ida Murray is good as the street arab. Mr. Tom Raymond gives a neat sketch of the Man in the Park, and Mr. Reginald Holmes is smart as the detective. The various other minor characters are without exception capably filled. The drama is well staged.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, April 16,
the Play, in Five Acts,
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."

Mr. W. W. Kelly's company has been here this week with A Royal Divorce, and the crowded house which assembled here on Monday night, despite the fine weather, was a decided tribute to the reputation both of the play and of the theatre. Napoleon finds a capable representative in Mr. Frank Lister, whose rendering, while commendably conventional in bearing and gesture, is sufficiently original in conception and execution to give a powerful impression of the personality of the "Man of Destiny." Miss Edith Cole is particularly well suited as Josephine, bringing out fully the fine traits of the character, and, especially in the scenes with Napoleon, acting with great force and feeling. In the by no means easy rôle of Marie Louise, Miss Elizabeth Watson shows herself possessed of considerable histrionic ability, and is perhaps at her best in some of the more emotional passages. Miss Clara Earle makes a charming Stephanie de Beauharnais, and Miss Irma Foldi and Miss Violet Furnival ably second her as Blanche and Angelique respectively. The young King of Rome is cleverly portrayed by Miss Marian Rider, while Miss Loyale Frere makes the most of his gouvernante. A painstaking study of Talleyrand comes from Mr. F. Joynsen-Powell; Mr. George W. Cockburn gives a powerful rendering of the Marquis de Beaumont; Mr. George Howard is impressive as General Augereau; Mr. T. P. Haynes is very amusing as the Innkeeper at Genappe; and Mr. Percy H. Vernon is particularly successful as Lord Keith. The small parts are carefully handled, and the drama is exceptionally well mounted and staged, worthy of special mention being the tableau in the fourth act, which was received with much applause.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, April 16,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by the late Chas. Reade, entitled
"IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND."

The series of sterling melodramas which Mr. William Bailey is reviving at the popular house in Edgware-road is proving powerfully attractive, and crowded houses throughout this week have been moved alternately to tears, laughter, and indignation by the fine old piece It's Never Too Late to Mend, in which the maladministration of prison laws is so strikingly denounced. The play, which is produced by Mr. John M. East, is ably acted by a company admirably suited to their various rôles. Tom Robinson is portrayed by Mr. W. S. Hartford, a capable actor and practised elocutionist, who shows an appreciation of grim humour in the part. He acts with real dramatic power, and delivers his lines with vigorous force and emphasis. The rascally governor of the gaol is made duly brutal and relentless by Mr. J. C. Thompson, who quite succeeds in making the character contemptuous. A bold and unflinching George Fielding is found in Mr. Horace Hunter, who looks the part of the intrepid young farmer to perfection, and delivers his lines with spirit and energy. His brother William has a satisfactory representative in Mr. Abel Rogers, who creditably assumes the attributes of the part. A finished and effective rendering of Susan Merton is given by Miss Lily Hammersley, whose comeliness, sincerity, and dramatic skill combine to ensure a perfectly satisfying performance. Mr. J. A. Rosier makes a benign parson as the Rev. Francis Eden, and his excellent methods of delivery give every value to his stirring lines, which are invariably greeted with cheers. Miss Jessica Black is a pathetic and gentle Josepha, and wins general expressions of pity and regard by her sympathetic portrayal of the poor waif, though her manner is a little too refined for a boy brought up under such circumstances as those which environ the London street urchin. Mr. Harry Buss, whose comic resource in infinite, is cast for the part of Jacky, the Aborigine, and though his chances of fun-making are more limited than usual, the laughter is loud and hearty while it lasts. There is humour also in the Peter Crawley of Mr. W. P. Sheen, who may be especially commended on his grotesque make-up, and as Mr. Meadows Mr. Fred Dobell is intense and unwavering in his depiction of villainy, his sound performance adding greatly to the effect of the play. Mr. Kenneth Black gives a meritorious impersonation of Isaac Levi, and Mr. Seaton is to be commended for his rendering of Mr. Merton. Humour marks the performance of Mr. Adams as the turnkey Fry, and as his confrère Evans Mr. George Claremont is well placed. Messrs. C. M. Thomson and H. Smith are entrusted with the parts of bushrangers; Mr. Tom Ellison is the village constable; and the cast is completed by Miss Clarke and Mr. C. Clive. The drama is mounted with care, the scenes of the "model prison" and the Australian diggings being effectively realised.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, April 16,
the Drama, in Five Acts, by G. R. Sims and Henry Pettitt, entitled
"IN THE RANKS."

Notwithstanding the far from theatre-going weather which prevailed on Monday, large and enthusiastic audiences gathered at this well-known drama house at both the afternoon and evening performances. The play selected by Mr. John M. East for this week is the well-known Sims and Pettitt military drama In the Ranks. As the hero, Mr. Ernest Leicester is again warmly welcomed, giving a manly and soldierly portrayal. Mr. Alfred Harding as Gideon Blake has no difficulty in securing the cordial hatred of all present. Mr. Talbot in the somewhat thankless part of Captain Holcroft is quite successful; as Joe Buzzard Mr. Teddy Coleman supplies ample comic relief; and the hop picker, an important character, which he had undoubtedly carefully studied, is very ably portrayed by Mr. J. P. Dryden. Mr. J. M. East is a smart representative of Sergeant Searle; as Farmer Herrick Mr. Edwin Boddy is very effective; and Mr. George Travener is duly gruff and bluff as Colonel Winter. In other male parts in the long cast Messrs. E. Godfrey, Ellis, Paul Peters, Ernest, Alfred Owen, and Baddage deserve mention. As the heroine Ruth Herrick, Miss Catherine Clarke is charmingly unaffected, and in her pathetic scenes is eminently successful. Miss Agnes Paulton as Barbara is delightfully fresh and girlish. Miss Johnstone as Mrs. Timmins, and Miss Blanche Stanley as Mrs. Buzzard, do good work. Other parts are well placed in the hands of Miss B. Douglas as Mrs. O'Flanagan, Miss Warwick as Mrs. Wimple, Miss Douglas as Dinah, and Miss F. Green as Polly. The piece is well staged, the scene of the village church, with the villagers in old-fashioned country dress, being very effective.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, April 16, the Musical Comedy, in Two Acts, written by Owen Hall; Lyrics by Boyd Jones and Paul Rubens; Music by Leslie Stuart, entitled
"FLORODORA."

The attractions of Florodora appear to be as evergreen as the foliage of the island which gives the name to the play, for Mr. Bannister Howard's No. 1 company has been delighting crowded holiday houses, whose vociferously-demanded encores testified to their satisfaction. The company form a united band, each member loyally supporting the other, and the merriment is genuine and infectious. Miss Gwladys Elvey as Dolores reached almost to tragedy in the more serious parts, and her singing and acting were of a high order. Lady Holyrood, with up-to-date verses in her songs and a pleasing crispness of style, was agreeably acted by Miss Kate Leicester; and Miss Florence Hersee as Angela Gilfain became an immediate favourite by her vivacity and charm. Her interpolated song in the first scene of the second act, "My Starlight Queen," was twice encored and then loudly re-demanded. Miss Bessie Nunan as Maude Milton, Mr. Gilfain's typewriter, and Miss Daisy Allen as Valleda, Lady Holyrood's maid, are well suited; and a bevy of tuneful and fascinating damsels appeared as Florodoreans, English ladies, and Welsh peasants. In the part of Anthony Tweedlepunch Mr. Gus Danby has succeeded in giving fresh point to all the older wheezes and grafting on some most amusing business of his own. He was ably seconded by the mellow humour of Mr. Edward Chester as Cyrus Gilfain; and Mr. Harry Perry made a sprightly Captain Arthur Donegal, with some especially good dancing. As Frank Abercoed, the hero, Mr. Edward Crosland was in excellent voice, each of his songs going well, and encores being well deserved. Mr. C. A. James was a saturnine Leandro, looking the part well, and the clerks were adequately represented by a smart assembly who had unlimited encores in the "Tell me, pretty maiden" concerted song in the second act. The scenery was specially painted for the production and the management is to be congratulated on securing so good a company for the Easter week.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

On Monday, April 16,
the drama, in Four Acts, by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE PRODIGAL SON."

Mr. Bennett has secured a particularly strong attraction for the holiday week in the shape of a visit of Mr. Arthur Collins's company in the latest Drury-lane success The Prodigal Son. More than adequately mounted, and played by a clever and carefully-selected company, Mr. Hall Caine's dramatisation of his novel has proved highly attractive to the patrons of the Alexandra during the present week. The company includes that sterling actress, Miss Alma Murray, whose pathetic and womanly embodiment of Anna, the mother of the prodigal, is the most striking performance in the piece. Another exceedingly clever and highly creditable piece of work is the Helga Neilson of Miss Cecil Cromwell, and Miss Lily Hall Caine appears as Thora, and afterwards as Thora's daughter Elin, with conspicuous success, especially in the former rôle. Mr. Henry George is manly, straightforward, and sincere as Stephen Magnusson, the Governor-General of Iceland, and a small sketch that stands out by its excellence is the Eric Arnasson of Mr. P. Gromer. Mr. Norman Partreige handles the part of Oscar with tact and skill, and in the third act his playing reaches a high level of excellence. Mr. Henry Renouf is most impressive as the sullen and stern Magnus Stephensson; the factor, Oscar Neilson, is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Frank Collins, who also undertakes the duties of stage-management; and the part of Doctor Olsen is quite safe in the keeping of the veteran Mr. Howard Russell. The little comedy contained in the piece is provided by Miss Mima Renouf, who speaks the lines allotted to Margret Neilson with due point and effect. Other parts adequately filled are those played by Messrs. Phillips, Herbert Hewetson, Fred Grove, Byron Daly, and Misses Fisher, Emily Grove, and Kathleen Kellie.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, April 16,
the Comic Opera, in Three Acts, entitled
"VERONIQUE."

Mr. George Dance's principal company in the delightful comic opera, Veronique, is meeting with great success at the Shakespeare this week. The play is beautifully staged, and the acting and singing all round are thoroughly satisfactory. Taking full advantage of every opportunity, the members of the company quickly rouse the enthusiasm of the audience, and at the final fall of the curtain the applause is very pronounced. Miss Rita Leonhardt makes a charming appearance in the title-rôle, and wins scores of admirers by her clever acting and singing. In her admirable rendering of the "Swing Song" Miss Leonhardt scores a triumph. Miss Florence Aylwin cleverly assumes the part of the Countess de Champ d'Azur, and contributes a performance of which it would be difficult to speak too highly. The song allotted to her in the last act is sung with much expression and sweetness, and gains a well-merited encore. An ideal Madame Coquenard is found in Miss Florence Lee, who looks the part to perfection, and acts it with marked ability. Miss Neste Laurel as Denise plays with charm and intelligence, and Miss Patty O'Hanlon is satisfactory as Aunt Benoit. The parts of the Florists are creditably sustained by the Misses Winnie Gordon, Clarice Carter, Nan Holmes, Brownie Hodson, White, and Graham. Mr. Roland Bottomley as Florestan de Vallancourt gives a very natural representation, and acquits himself with great success. A full share of the musical honours falls to Mr. Bottomley, who delights the audience with his excellent singing. Mr. Ellis Holland as Mons. Coquenard keeps the house in a constant state of merriment, and not a dull moment intervenes whilst he is on the stage. He is well supported by Mr. Ivan Berlyn, who causes much amusement by his quaint impersonation of the bailiff, Mons. Loustot. Another good performance is that of Mr. Tom Shelford, who does all that is possible with the part of the groom, Seraphin. Mr. Frank Sealey as Octave and Mr. Miller as Felicien are good in their respective parts. The minor characters are all well played, and the chorus is of the best quality. The augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Leonard Leslie, and Mr. Harry B. Earle is manager for Mr. George Dance.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, April 16,
the Comedy, in Three Acts, by Brandon Thomas, entitled
"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

Mr. Brandon Thomas's company have bobbed up with the perennial Charley's Aunt to keep Bank Holiday audiences good-tempered and amused. This wonderful old lady still retains her pristine vigour and charm, and attracts large audiences just in the same sweet way as when she first arrived from Brazil. Mr. Brandon Thomas repeats his excellent assumption of the generous-minded Colonel Sir Francis Chesney, Bart., late Indian Service. Mr. Stanley Cooke is as brisk and incisive as ever as the irrepressible little Lord Fancourt Babberly, and avails himself to the full of all the comic opportunities which the part presents. Mr. Hastings Lynn as the resourceful and strong-minded Jack Chesney, and Mr. R. B. Mason as his more malleable chum, Charley Wykeham, do excellent service. Miss Lena McNaughtan makes a handsome and commanding Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez, and Misses Marion Ripley, Dorothy Deacon, and Gladys Storey as the three charmers who win the hearts of the young undergrads of St. Olde's College, Oxford, do all that is required of them very commendably. Mr. Sydney Compton repeats his admirable embodiment of the college scout, Brassett, and Mr. Walter Beaumont is amusing as the unctuous Stephen Spettigue. Charley's Aunt is preceded by Brandon Thomas's one-act play A Highland Legacy, in which Mr. Thomas plays his original part of Tammy Tamson with all his customary adroitness. Mr. Hastings Lynn is good as Gordon MacDonnel, and Messrs. S. Compton as the retired stockbroker Dobson, W. Beaumont as Cavendish Howley, an actor, and C. B. Keston as Job Fixem, a lawyer; also Miss Katherine Vereker as Mrs. Butler, Gordon's landlady, and Miss Ruth Suffield as Clara, Mr. Dobson's daughter, lend valuable assistance.

THE STANDARD.

On Monday, April 16,
the Drama, in Five Acts, by Mr. Frederick Melville, entitled
"HER FORBIDDEN MARRIAGE."

It is a well-known and firmly-established fact that the name of Melville, used in conjunction with a drama, is a certain key to success. This has been testified again and again, and on Monday last was once more proved beyond all doubt, when Mr. Frederick Melville's attractive drama, Her Forbidden Marriage, was staged at the Standard. Although this is by no means the first time this play has been seen here, its drawing power is still very much in evidence, so much so, in fact, that a crowded house is the result each night. Every appreciation was shown by the enthusiastic audience present at both the afternoon and evening performance on Easter Monday. The scenes were artistic examples of brushwork, and the staging certainly left nothing to be desired. Mr. Louis Hector showed considerable ability in his delineation of George Maddison, the inventor, displaying both manliness and vigour. The villainy of Charles Devereux was pictured with striking force by Mr. Lionel D'Aragon, who ably emphasised the callous nature of the man. Geoffrey Broughton was acted in an effective manner by Mr. Holland Day, who certainly made the most of every opportunity offered. Mr. Geo. Littleton, jun., supplied a capital impersonation of Joe Lambkin, a very much-married man; whilst Mr. Geo. Elsworthy was in every way satisfactory as Benjamin Wardle. A dignified and impressive performance was contributed by Mr. Eric Campbell as Sir George Lancaster. This drama, like others from the pen of the same author, is enlivened at the right moments with abundance of comic element. This was adequately attended to by Mr. Fred De Vere as Timothy Tuttutt, who scored a huge success in the part, and never failed to raise a hearty laugh just where it was most needed. He was very suitably assisted by Miss Sybil Hammersley as Pattie Lovejoy, who played with energy and skill. Miss Isla Garnet Vayne made a charming Lucy, and sustained the rôle with such sweet pathos and feeling that she soon became a decided favourite with the audience. The malicious nature of Lady Lucretia Lancaster was made to stand out in bold contrast to the foregoing character by Miss Eugenie Magnus, who deserves a word of praise for her lifelike portrayal; and Miss Barbara Gott as the Mother Superior played with decided force, and was impressive in the highest degree.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, April 16,
the Russian Drama, entitled
"THE PRICE OF HER SOUL."

The holiday attraction at the Dalston Theatre is the Russian drama, by William Hibbert, entitled The Price of Her Soul. Members of Mr. John B. Shinton and Mr. Alexander Greenwood's company are responsible for the representations, which are, speaking generally, effective, inasmuch as the performance rivets the attention of the audience from first to last. Mr. John B. Shinton undertakes the part of Lord Rolf Mandeville, V.C. The representation of such a character as this is no mere child's play. There is hard work to be done in depicting various moods, the influence of passion, and the maintenance throughout of a dignified bearing. It is only fair to Mr. Shinton to say that he comes out of the ordeal very well indeed. Miss Ada M. Ryder also has a difficult part to play as the Countess Inez Steinmitz, and she succeeds in gaining the sympathy of the audience. Mr. Archie Gear as General Demetrius Lanovitz and Miss Mona Gray as Olga Lanovitz represent the opposing element against the Countess; and Mr. Annesley Hely appears as Major Ivan Skoboloff, who shares with Lord Rolf, but with vastly different spirit and intention, an infatuation for the same distinguished lady. Mr. Murray Yorke gives quite a character-sketch as Captain Sergius Petruski. A strong contrast to this hard-hearted personage is provided by Mr. Edwin Coates as the foppish Hon. Algy Fraser. Mr. Will Percy as Pat Murphy, and Miss Tina Frank as Polly Perkins, help to support the comedy element. The cast also includes Miss Ina Mervale, Mr. R. Taylor, Mr. J. J. Harbin, Mr. L. Goulding, Mr. Maurice Le Sage, Mr. S. Rose, Mr. F. White, and little Ida Thompson, who plays intelligently the part of Vera, the juvenile daughter of the vindictive Olga.

GRAND THEATRE, ISLINGTON.

On Monday, April 16,
the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled
"THE BELLS OF HASLEMERE."

For the holiday attraction at this theatre Mr. Samuel James selected the above drama. Always popular by reason of those sensational episodes so dear to the heart of the lover of popular drama, the wisdom of the choice was justified on Monday, a good house witnessing the performance. For the performance of the play Mr. James has wisely relied on his excellent stock company, who have to be congratulated. Mr. Beresford Whitcombe as Frank Beresford gave a manly and convincing portrayal, which was very favourably received. As John Silkstone Mr. Montague Turner was good; Mr. Keith Fraser as Captain Vere submitted a satisfactory performance of that somewhat singular personage; Mr. George Ellis was commendable as Matthew Brookfield; Mr. Charles Cecil was amusing and clever as Reuben Armstrong; Mr. Fred May as Joseph Thorndyke gave a sound performance; Mr. George K. Ashley as Patrick Desmond deserves praise, as does Mr. Manville Morton as Captain Salem. As for the ladies, Miss May Seton gave another pleasant and attractive reading of the character of Norah Desmond; as Dorothy Tremble Miss Mary Stafford Smith contributed in no small measure to the humour of the lighter scenes; Miss Florence Creagh gave a praiseworthy performance as Evelyn Brookfield; and Miss Beatrice May as Mary Northcote was excellent. The remaining smaller parts were all in good hands, and the scenery and mounting were, as usual, above reproach. Mr. Gliddon's orchestra is still a feature of the evening, and Mr. Maurice is most courteous in the front of the house.

THE BRIXTON.

On Monday, April 16,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Frank Lindo, entitled
"HOME, SWEET HOME."

An excellent holiday attraction is being presented this week at Brixton. Mr. Frank Harding's company is playing Home, Sweet Home. The piece is well acted, and the interest is well maintained throughout. Mr. Albert Ward as the hero, Stephen Armitage, gives a well-thought-out study of the fisherman; Miss Agnes Imlay plays sympathetically as Joan, her spirited acting in the third act calling for special mention; Mr. Charles Dodsworth as David Armitage is excellent; Mr. C. B. Vaughan as Lucas Lyle submits a capital impersonation of the unscrupulous private secretary; Mr. J. C. Aubrey plays the part of the Duke of Ancaster with the necessary dignity; Mr. Richard Cruikshanks is natural and effective as Dick Redmayne; Mr. W. Dempsey plays with skill the character of Solomon Keary; a really good character-study of the Gaffer is presented by Mr. Lionel Scudamore; Mr. S. W. Carlton displays sincerity in the small part of Dr. Granby; Mr. James Gray is good as Lord Silvermore; the aristocratic and haughty Lady Summerton is made sufficiently overbearing by Miss Kate Maynard; and a delightfully refreshing performance of the child Dora is given by Miss Jose Archer. The comedy is well sustained by Mr. Harry Barford as the Hon. Percy, and Miss Jennie Armstrong as Sybil Fay, a music-hall artist, who introduces some good songs, and keeps the audience in roars of laughter.

GRAND THEATRE, FULHAM.

On Tuesday, April 17, the Domestic Drama, by Maud Hildyard and Russel Vann, entitled
"THE GREAT AWAKENING."

The attraction at the Fulham Grand this week is the powerful drama The Great Awakening, presented by Miss Maud Hildyard and a very strong company. Miss Hildyard as Lola Selby, alias Lady Merton, an unprincipled adventuress, has a part in which full scope is given to her abilities as an actress. The character of James Selby, Lola's convict husband, is capitally portrayed by Mr. A. C. Hardie. The parts of Sir Henry and Jack Merton are admirably taken by Mr. Bernard Copping, who displays great power in his mad scene at the end of the third act. The rôle of Guy Rogan, Lola Selby's companion in crime, is adequately filled by Mr. Charles Vivian. The hero, as presented by Mr. Herbert Evelyn, in the character of Capt. Harry Lambert, is manly and vigorous, and he is well supported by Miss Doris Digby in the part of Molly Merton. Comic relief is ably supplied by Mr. Willie Scott and Miss Isa Bellington in their respective characters as Billy Brass (Capt. Lambert's servant) and Selina Warts (Molly Merton's maid), who cause great merriment. The other characters are well portrayed, and the play fully deserves all the applause it receives. The scenery gives complete satisfaction.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, April 16,
the Comic Opera,
"THE LITTLE MICHUS."

Mr. Cecil Paget has secured a great attraction here for Easter week in the pretty persons of the two little Michus. The popular opera is capitally rendered by Mr. George Dance's London company, and packed audiences have applauded the pleasing music, and roared at the many comicalities of the piece. Miss Alice Coverick sings sweetly and acts daintily as Marie Blanche Michu, and Miss Gracie Sinclaire wins all hearts by her taking portrayal of the demure little Blanche Marie, the general's daughter. Mr. Leslie Holland causes much merriment by his clever acting as the eccentric General des Ifs, and Mr. Cecil Clayton as Bagnolet, the general's smart servant, dances neatly, and also contributes much to the comedy of the production. Mr. T. E. Conover gives a clever character-sketch as the much-worried Pierre Michu, and the foolish Aristide Vert is well played by Mr. D. Fitz Gibbon. Mr. George Sade makes a good deal of fun out of the small part of the Market Man. Miss Florence Hylton is excellent, though perhaps too youthful in appearance, as the domineering Mme. Michu. Mr. Gerald Clifford makes a manly lover as Gaston Rigaud, and sings very tunefully; and Mlle. Marjorie contributes some graceful dancing as Mlle. St. Cyr. There is a full chorus and augmented orchestra, under the able leadership of Mr. Victor Champion. The scenery, dresses, and effects are all admirable.

"THE WHIRLWIND."

A Play in Three Acts, from the French of Henry Bernstein, adapted by Harry Melvill, Produced at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, on Monday, April 9.

Mrs. Guy Rushcliff ....MISS MABEL BEARDESLEY
Lady Langerman .....MRS. C. BRADLEY

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Whirlwind, which it may be said without hesitation was received with general favour throughout, is very well suited for the display of Mrs. Patrick Campbell's talents, and the adapter may be commended for the facility with which he has transferred his characters and situations to English soil. The play has for its motif the secret passion of Lady Ellingham for her father's friend, Hugh Carlton. Lady Ellingham, to satisfy her father's social aspirations, has entered into a loveless marriage, having previously been engaged to a cousin, one Joseph Locksley, who, however, develops Socialistic tendencies. This engagement having been brushed aside by her opportunist father, we see Sybil installed as the Countess of Ellingham, regarded as a woman of immaculate reputation and no emotions. Then her lover, for whom she has entertained an all-absorbing passion for three long years, appears on the scene. This man, Hugh Carlton, is a gambler, who in a weak moment, to cover heavy losses, has committed embezzlement, which necessitates his leaving the country. Thus he calls on Lady Ellingham, presumably for a last interview and farewell, albeit he hopes to hide from her the cause of his departure. She, however, with her woman's instinct, perceives he is in trouble, surprises his secret, and, imploring his confidence, learns all. Thirty thousand pounds is the full amount of his liabilities, which should be met by the morrow. Lady Ellingham's offer of help is refused, likewise her proposal to accompany him in his flight. Then, in a frenzy of passion, she threatens to avow their guilty relations should he persist in his refusal. A hurried assent on his part, and they are joined by the guests, the curtain falling on a most effective curtain. In Act II. we are taken from the drawing-room to the boudoir, where Lady Ellingham is seen seeking to raise the necessary money on her jewels with the aid of a dealer, one Leonard, who, however, is not equal to the emergency. Next she essays to gain the help of the aforementioned cousin Joseph, whose price is, however, too high, and not to be tolerated. Then she appeals to her father, Sir Henry Langerman, who, after gaining her secret, refuses his help except on impossible conditions. Nevertheless, to avoid a scandal he is willing to concede a point. All this was very clever acting, the daughter's dissimulation and the parent's vaunted righteousness being vividly expressed; and when the latter, striking his daughter, had quitted the scene, excitement was at its height. This was another effective curtain, artistic and clever, and the cloth had to be raised again and again. In Act III. we find Hugh Carlton at his flat, to which comes the dealer, Leonard, at Lady Ellingham's beck, proposing means of extricating Carlton from his embarrassments. Lady Ellingham appears anon in the temporary absence of Carlton, and announces to Leonard that she can now dispense with his pecuniary assistance, having procured the full amount from her cousin at a price. Carlton returning, she appeals to him to fly with her; and, appearing to consent, he, on a visitor being announced, bids her go into his room. The visitor is none other than Sir Henry Langerman, who has come to discuss terms with Carlton, who refuses them in toto, and threatens to end his life with a bullet-shot. Langerman, after attempting to dissuade him most strenuously from such a desperate course, departs, having arranged to meet his daughter at a café where Lady Ellingham has been in the habit of dining with her lover. On Langerman's departure his daughter, Lady Ellingham, emerges from Carlton's room, and an appointment is made to meet at the café. As she departs she says she is about to leave the old life for the new, with him, mischievously taking up and retaining a door-key as she does so. Being left alone, Carlton, after dispatching his servant on his last service, enters his private room, and silence reigns for some moments, when Lady Ellingham returns; and, there being no response to the bell, which she has rung thrice, she, accompanied by Mr. Leonard, enters by means of the key she had retained. Then, as she calls "Hugh!" she hears the report of the revolver from within her lover's chamber, and with a wild and despairing cry she falls to the floor prone.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell in this rôle has excellent scope for the exercise of her rich powers, the cold and listless woman of society and the passion-swept woman of love being limned with perfect art. Mrs. Campbell conveys a world of meaning with a single gesture and look, and in portraying the highly-strung, hapless, and unhappily-married woman, Lady Ellingham, she often reaches the pinnacle of her art. More than once or twice the audience was held breathless and spellbound, and at the end the recalls and compliments were numerous and sincere. Mr. Julian Royce played the part of the lover, Hugh Carlton, with much polish and restraint, and preserved to himself an air of mystery which added to the fascination of the rôle. No calamity seemed sufficient to disturb his admirable self-possession, and his scene with Sir Henry Langerman was excellent, down to the minutest detail. Mr. Oscar Adye, as the father who sacrifices his daughter to his social ambitions, acted with a true understanding of the rôle, neither over or underdoing the part, but displaying the insistence of the character with telling and suave effect. Mr. Scott Buist, as the intolerable and caddish cousin Locksley, gave an excellent account of the rôle, conducting himself with an assured air that befitted the part admirably. Mr. A. G. Poulton gave a fitting and highly successful reading of the dealer, Leonard. Mr. George Bealby was truly clever and successful in depicting the undesirable qualities of the Earl of Ellingham, qualities which would be calculated to grate on such a woman as Sybil, Lady Ellingham. Mr. Reginald Dance was fluent and fervent as General Brand, and Mr. Lloyd Lowndes acted with admirable sang-froid as Captain Carysfort. Mrs. C Bradley, in the subdued rôle of Lady Langerman did her share of the acting well; Miss Mabel Beardesley was properly vivacious as Mrs. Guy Rushcliff; and Miss Nelly Mortyne lent a dignified air to the character of Lady St. Austell. Messrs. William Burchill as Grone and Mr. Noel Pemberton as the Butler were satisfactory, and the play was well staged.

MESSRS. F. W. BOLAM AND SIDNEY BACON, the proprietors of the Queen's Theatre, Gateshead, have secured a long lease of the Grand Theatre, Newcastle, and the Metropole Theatre, Gateshead. Mr. Bacon has long been identified with the management of these theatres, and it may confidently be anticipated that the new lessees will spare no effort to induce the best possible companies to visit them. Meanwhile, the Queen's Theatre, Gateshead, is to revert back to variety business, so that the Metropole Theatre will be the only dramatic house in the town.

"THE GOLD DIGGERS; or, THE GIRLS FROM UTAH."

A new Comic Opera, in Three Acts, written by Walter Wadham Petre and Claude Aveling, with Music by the first-named.
Produced at the Theatre Royal, Bath, On Monday, April 16.

Sir Joseph Pickles .....MR. ARTHUR STIGANT
Jacob Henry Brewgood..MR. FRED EASTMAN
Terence Rainford ....MR. HARRISON BROCKBANK
Alphonse Comte de Beaucoup
MR. W. H. POWELL

Deborah .....MISS LILIAN POLLARD

Described as a comic opera, this new production is nearer akin to modern musical comedy, and as such is likely to gain much favour throughout its tour of the principal cities of Great Britain. The scene is laid in a mining district of Kangaroona, where a number of miners have gone in the character of bachelors, leaving their spouses at Brisbane, to seek their fortune. At the inn where they congregate, the landlord runs a matrimonial agency, and he is the means of importing a bevy of Mormon widows from Salt Lake City; but the real wives also put in an appearance, so that plans and intentions are quickly frustrated. The necessary love interest is centred around Terence Rainford, a young mining manager, and Mildred Bumble, who, with her mother, the wife of an ex-M.P., likewise visits the colony. Mrs. Bumble has determined that her daughter shall marry Sir Joseph Pickles (of the Legislative Council), so as to comply with her late husband's will, the stipulation being that Mildred must become allied to a titled gentleman. As usual, the course of true love does not run smoothly. The young couple, after arranging an elopement, get separated for a time by the vigilance of Mrs. Bumble, and Mildred is compelled to promise her hand in marriage to Sir Joseph. In the last act the bridal feast is prepared and the guests have arrived, but instead of the ceremony taking place, Terence receives the intelligence that he has come into a title, so that Mrs. Bumble's objection to the young miner being removed, and with a shuffle of partners, the lovers become united, which enables Sir Joseph to marry Suza, a bright girl, who has been posing as a boy miner, Mrs. Bumble falling to the lot of Brewgood, and Alphonse, an amorous Frenchman, obligingly looking after the Utah widows.

The music, which is by Mr. Walter Wadham Petre, is particularly melodious, many of the airs being pleasing to the ear, while much of the concerted music reminds one of the charming work of the late lamented Sir Arthur Sullivan, the unaccompanied quartette in the second act, excellently harmonised, receiving an unmistakable encore. Mr. Petre, together with Mr. Claude Aveling, is also responsible for the lyrics and dialogue, and congratulations are deservedly due to them for the crisp and amusing lines throughout the three acts. The cast, which is first-class, includes that popular and accomplished comedian Mr. Fred Eastman as Jacob Henry Brewgood, and when one remembers this gentleman's performance of Tweedlepunch in Florodora, it is easy to imagine what capital fun he can make as the matrimonial agent. He has several good songs, and when he has settled down into his part he can reckon on having added another to his many successful comedy impersonations. Mr. Harrison Brockbank is seen to great advantage as Terence Rainford, his fine baritone voice and cultured vocalism creating a pleasing impression. One of his happiest efforts is "Just a song of hope," while he also gives a rousing toast-song, "For King and Queen," with chorus, in the last act that is sure to become popular. As the Frenchman Alphonse, that clever actor Mr. W. H. Powell is well placed, his pidgin-English sayings creating endless hilarity. He has his best chance in a ditty "The Ladies," which he gives with great gusto, his dancing proving as agile and clever as anything he has yet done. Another comedian who could easily be given more to do is Mr. Arthur Stigant, but he makes a hit in his topical song "What are you going to do?" containing innumerable Parliamentary tips evidently much to the liking of the audience. Another gentleman who won great approval by his pleasing bearing and capital voice is Mr. Howard V. Cropton as Billy (a gold miner). The ladies are all excellent in their respective rôles, a personal triumph being won by Miss Kate Vesey as Suza. She has several of the most taking songs to render, such as "From Borneo," "Billy and Nanny Goat," which, with her accomplished and graceful pas seuls, bring down the house. Mrs. Bumble, a sort of character with which Miss Connie Ediss's name is associated, is played in a confident style by Miss Florence Parfrey, her vocalism also proving of much assistance in the concerted numbers, besides which she renders her solos with success. Mrs. Bumble's daughter Mildred is charmingly impersonated by Miss Nora Brocklebank, her high soprano voice being displayed to advantage in the pretty ballad "'Tis of thee," and also in association with Mr. Brockbank in the duet "Coo-ey," a real tit-bit of melody. The chorus, composed largely of pretty and imposing ladies, is deserving of cordial recognition. Mr. Geo. M. Saker is the musical director, and right well does he undertake his duties. The new scenery is from the brush of Julian Hicks, the costumes are designed by Robert Crafter, and executed by the firms of Hugo Baruch and Co., and Elkan Bros. The wigs are from the well-known Clarkson establishment. Finally it remains to record that the piece is produced by Mr. Walter McEwan, who must be highly complimented on the smooth manner in which everything went off on Monday evening, when the large audience accorded the piece the heartiest of receptions. Mr. C. Finch Hatton is the acting-manager, and Mr. Charles A. James undertakes the onerous duties of stage manager for the tour.

BROADWAY THEATRE.

On Monday, April 16,
the Musical Comedy,
"LADY MADCAP."

The holiday attraction here is the delightful musical play entitled Lady Madcap, which is admirably interpreted by Mr. George Dance's company, the members of which all work loyally together, and are each and all exceptionally good. Mr. Alex. Chentrens (Count de St. Hubert), Mr. Ray Russell (Bill Stratford), Mr. Fred Payne (Posh Jenkins), Mr. Lyall Grant (Count Layton), Mr. Frederick C. Leistar (Major Blatherswaite), Mr. Robert Cranny (Captain Harrington), Mr. E. Whitlock (Lord Somerset), Mr. Louis du Cane (Lord Framlingham), Mr. Vincent Rene (Corporal Ham), Mr. Ralph Holland (Palmer), Mr. Percy Barrett (the old huntsman), and Mr. H. V. Surrey (Oroya Brown), are all remarkably good in their respective parts. Miss Kathleen Ronayne is a charming Gwenny Holden, Miss Peggy Primrose a vivacious Susan, Miss M. Johnstone a pleasing Mrs. Layton, and Miss Vera Vere a fascinating and delightful Lady Madcap. The chorus is capital, and the dresses are charming.

S. FEINMAN'S historical operetta, The Viceroy, as presented by the talented members of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company, at the Pavilion Theatre, was so successful last week that a repetition was given on Easter Monday evening to a packed house. During the week admirable performances have been rendered of The Star of Jerusalem, The Parents' Trouble, The Sulamite, Seider Night, and Moses the Tailor.

MR. DAN ROLYAT.

AS JOE IN "THE DAIRYMAIDS" AT THE APOLLO THEATRE, LONDON.

A FEW PRESS OPINIONS.

A new comedian has come to town, and he is very welcome indeed, for the number of mirth provokers is very limited, and has apparently but little power to add to its number. When he made his first appearance in The Dairymaids at the Apollo Theatre last Saturday night Mr. Dan Rolyat was unknown to most of us, but after we had seen and listened to his Joe Mivvens for a few minutes we all made up our minds that he was distinctly novel and good, and one to be treasured here in London and made much of. Mr. Rolyat got no reception from the audience on making his first appearance, but he did get a reception every time he came on afterwards, and that is a very remarkable thing. His part is not a big one. I would respectfully suggest to the powers that be that it should be at once greatly increased, but he makes it stand out because he is a really funny comedian, with a genuine sense of humour, and what, to us at least, is a new way of doing things. Mr. Rolyat is a find, and now that he has come to London he has got to stop there, &c., &c.—The Pelican.

But if the production had done nothing else it deserves to be remembered as having given to the London musical comedy stage a new comic actor of great gifts in Mr. Dan Rolyat; his part is a comparatively secondary one, but from the first minute he took the fancy of the audience. His method defies description, its coolness and quietness are delightful, and the certainty with which the audience took up every one of his points showed that Mr. Rolyat has the knack of pointing his meaning without the exaggerated emphasis deemed necessary by less gifted comedians. It is quite time he came to town, and Londoners will be making a mistake if they let him leave them again in a hurry.—Daily News.

The sensation of the evening was the great success of Mr. Dan Rolyat; he is quite original in his methods, and acts with ease, and can make everybody laugh by his way of saying the most ordinary things, &c., &c.—Evening Star.

The hits of The Dairymaids are really . . . and Mr. Rolyat, the new comedian; he is very welcome. Mr. Rolyat has a real sense of fun, which relies largely on the quiet hiatuses of American humour, &c., &c.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Mr. Rolyat's contribution to the fun of the evening was perhaps greater than that of any other performer, &c., &c.—Morning Post.

Mr. Dan Rolyat, the new comedian, proved a great success; his triumph was undoubted, &c., &c.—Westminster Gazette.

Of the men of the company probably the greatest success was gained by a newcomer, Mr. Dan Rolyat, &c., &c.—Morning Advertiser.

There is a comedian of absolutely the front rank in Mr. Dan Rolyat, an acrobatic sailor servant, whose merest gesture was sufficient to send the house into paroxysms of laughter.—Daily Mail.

Perhaps the biggest success falls to Dan Rolyat, &c., &c.—Sporting Life.

But Mr. Dan Rolyat was the man who did the hat trick and got always applauded, &c., &c.—Sunday Observer.

The surprise of the evening was doubtless supplied by Mr. Dan Rolyat; his success was instantaneous, &c.—News of the World.

Mr. Dan Rolyat is a decided acquisition to the London stage; the engagement of so alert and entertaining a performer may indeed be accounted a capital move on the part of the management. People like to be amused, and Mr. Rolyat as the volatile sailor-man is quite irresistible. To the success of The Dairymaids he contributes largely, &c.—Telegraph.

London playgoers are rendered the happier by the acquisition of a new comedian, for Mr. Dan Rolyat, who secured the lion's share of laughter and applause in The Dairymaids, is a genuine humorist, whom the audience at once took to its arms, &c.—Birmingham Daily Mail.

A special welcome is to be given to a new comedian, for London is sadly in need of such. Mr. Dan Rolyat comes from the provinces, a deadly sin in the eyes of the average London critic, who heartily praises only the fashionable favourite, and who never likes to be asked to laugh in a fresh way. And he had not been on the stage five minutes before he had his audience roaring at every quip; he has the faculty of making every word and gesture tell, and he richly deserved the applause the audience lavished upon him.—Birmingham Daily Post.

The most whimsical character however was surely that of Joe Mivvens, who made what was undoubtedly the hit of the play by the originality of his methods, &c.—Nottingham Guardian.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. George R. Sims's new drama, produced on Monday, was received by a holiday audience with every sign of appreciation, auguring well for a successful future, under the able and energetic management of Messrs. Hardie and Von Leer, who are commencing an extended tour with the new play.

For Life—and After is an echo of the famous Maybrick case, and shows how Marion Grey is accused, on circumstantial evidence, of a crime of which she is innocent, and for which she is sentenced to death. The sentence is, however, commuted to penal servitude for life, and on regaining her liberty after fifteen years' imprisonment, with wealth at her command, she is eventually able to prove her innocence to the world.

The play opens in Henley Regatta week, when a gang of thieves have been able to secure a fine haul, under the disguise of "Mysterious Musicians." The leader of the gang is Jack Huggett, alias John Dyson, who has discovered that Marion Grey, now living happily at a riverside cottage at Henley with her husband, Richard Grey, and little daughter, Dora, is no other than the young girl to whom he himself had been married under an alias and false pretences nine years previously. Immediately after the marriage Dyson had been arrested on a charge of forgery, and at the trial, a previous conviction having been proved against him, had been sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. Marion had kept the terrible secret, and looked upon her marriage as illegal, as she was a minor, he had obtained her consent by fraud, and had married her under a false name. Having convinced herself that the marriage was not a legal one, she had fallen in love with Richard Grey, a young actor in the same company, to whom she was married, but hesitated to tell the man she loved that she had been the dupe of a criminal undergoing penal servitude. She was happy in her married life, a baby had been born, and she had subsequently come into a fortune left by a relative in Australia, which made the couple independent, and they had settled down at Henley-on-Thames. Dyson, having discovered the whereabouts of his former wife, decided to make use of the discovery by blackmailing her, and wrote to her to meet him at night at the "Cottage," where the Masked Musicians had taken up their residence for the Henley week. The note was delivered by Rube Hexham, another member of the gang. Marion decided to keep the appointment, as her husband was away, but as a precaution took with her a phial of poison, so as to make him believe that in a fit of desperation she would rather destroy herself than face the life-long torture she knew he would inflict upon her. The interview took place, Black Rube being a concealed witness. Marion threatened to destroy herself rather than submit to blackmail, when Jack Dyson wrenched the bottle from her, and, in a very dramatic scene, it was eventually arranged that for the child's sake she would send him a remittance of two hundred pounds every three months. Not thinking it advisable to disclose his own address, he gave Hexham's, and Marion then departed. Hexham, who had been a concealed witness of the scene, at once decided to secretly empty the contents into a tumbler from which Jack Dyson was drinking, as by getting rid of him there would be no one to prevent his receiving the money himself. Dyson lifted the tumbler and took a deep draught, reeled across the room, and staggered dying to the ground. Rube Hexham took to flight, and at this moment the police entered the room to arrest Dyson for another crime which he had committed, and discovered that their prisoner was lying dead on the floor.

Suspicion at once fell on Marion, as the letter to her was found, and the phial of poison was traced to being in her possession; and she was tried and sentenced to death. A respite was, however, granted, and in the second act we are taken to the Female Prison at Aylesbury, on the day on which Marion and a fellow-convict, Loo Hexham, are to be released. The subsequent acts are devoted to Marion's efforts to prove her innocence, which she is eventually able to do, and also that Dyson had been previously married. Finally, Rube Hexham is denounced as the murderer.

The play is very melodramatic, and the interest is sustained throughout. Miss Grace Heywood acts most sympathetically as Marion Grey, whose daughter Dora is very feelingly impersonated by Miss Muriel Dean, some pretty love-scenes taking place between her and Gilbert O'Neil, a London surgeon, well impersonated by Mr. A. E. Melborne. Mr. Vernon Sansbury gives an able rendering of the character of Richard Grey, who in the later acts develops into a dipsomaniac. Mr. Frank Harrison is forcible as Rube Hexham. Mr. Henry Hare plays the part of Jack Huggett (alias Dyson) in good style; Mr. Henry Hare is a veritable hooligan as his scapegrace son Jim Huggett. The comedy element is well supplied by the old Punch-and-Judy showman and his wife, who are capitally represented by Mr. Chris Mason and Miss Evelyn Shaw. Miss Emil Leslie acts powerfully as Loo Hexham, and the other parts are well rendered. The scenery is very effective, particularly the Henley scenes, the prison scene, the garden at Epsom, and the final scene at Epsom Downs on the Derby Day.

PRESENTATION.—On Good Friday, April 13, Mr. Lyndon Greenwood's birthday, the staff of the Islington Empire presented him with a marble timepiece, suitably engraved, and a pair of exquisite vases. Mr. Greenwood gracefully thanked the donors.

MR. AND MRS. KENDAL have accepted a new three-act comedy by Herbert Swears, entitled A Tight Corner, which they will produce at the Theatre Royal, Portsmouth, on Wednesday, May 9.

PRESENTATION. — Mr. Rex Sugden, the much-respected manager of the King's Theatre, Kirkcaldy, was presented by the theatre staff and a few friends on Saturday afternoon with a handsome smoking cabinet; while Mrs. Sugden was the recipient of a beautiful umbrella. Mr. Sugden, who has acted as manager since the theatre was opened two years ago, is leaving the town, and his departure gives general regret.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A very enthusiastic reception was given by a crowded audience in the Grand Theatre, Brighton, last Monday afternoon, to the new drama, The Spider and the Fly, which was produced by Mr. Ernest Carpenter, the popular managing director of the theatre. The authors may be warmly congratulated upon the excellence of their work. The story is interesting from start to finish; the characters are well drawn; several of the situations are powerfully effective; and yet, in striking contrast to works of a kindred character, the drama is one without an actual murder, and the villain does not covet his neighbour's wife. The serious phases of the piece are admirably varied by pleasing light comedy, and the drama should have a long and prosperous career.

Welby and Cyril Girdlestone, half-brothers, have sown their wild oats together in London. Welby, the elder, has influenced the younger man towards an evil and dissolute course, one of the consequences being that Cyril has married Lola Gray, a woman whom they met at a night club in Soho. Welby by this means hopes to induce his father to cut his younger and favourite son out of his will. Cyril soon discovers the mistake he has made, separates from Lola Gray, and goes abroad, where he hears that his wife, on her voyage to America, has been drowned. Cyril meets a young lady, Edith McAllister, governess in an English family, and daughter of a clergyman who lives in the old sea-girt village of Undercliff, in Yorkshire, falls in love with her, and is accepted by her. The young man is seized by sudden illness, and the girl nurses him. Edith consents to marry the dying man, and the ceremony is performed in the sick room by the Mayor of the French village. Cyril recovers, and when the play opens at the Vicarage of Undercliff the young couple are celebrating the anniversary of their wedding. Their happiness is short-lived, for Welby, the evil genius, by accident finds his brother, and tells him that his first wife, Lola Gray, was not drowned, and, in fact, is in the village at that moment. Edith overhears this, and, broken-hearted though she is, when Lola Gray confronts her and demands her rights Edith is equal to the occasion, and, in order to save Cyril from the prison with which he is threatened for bigamy, she declares she is not Cyril's wife, but only his mistress. This stirring situation closes the first act.

In the second act we find that, in consequence of Edith's admission, she and her father are compelled to leave the village of Undercliff, and go to London, where they are found in poor lodgings. They have a hard fight for life, and but for the friendship of an early admirer of Edith's—David Strong, a fisherman—times would be hard indeed; for Cyril, on the day that Edith had saved him from prison, had been trapped by his half-brother, and taken to a lonely house near London, where he was being kept half-starved and slowly poisoned. To this place, in the course of her business duties, Edith comes, escorted by David Strong. By accident, and while waiting to see the mistress of the house, she discovers her husband. In her effort to rescue him she is caught by Welby and Lola, and but for the opportune appearance of David Strong would be condemned to the same fate as Cyril.

In the third act we realise that Cyril is saved, but that Edith, resolute in her determination that he shall not be charged with bigamy, still lives apart from the man she loves, though, for the sake of their year-old child, she accepts his assistance. Cyril and David have gone abroad; but the villainous Welby and Lola make a desperate effort to get rid of Edith and her child, so that at Cyril's death they can divide the inheritance between them. Learning from a newspaper that Cyril is returning home, they decoy Edith and her child under the pretext that Cyril is at death's door on a vessel lying in the Thames, so that they can drown the mother and babe, but Edith is rescued by Cyril, and her child is also saved. By the confession of Remus Roe, formerly a waiter at the club in Soho where Cyril met the adventuress, it is proved that Lola was never Cyril's wife, and that his marriage with Edith is perfectly legal. In the last act a final and desperate effort is made by Welby and Lola to gain their ends, and, though Edith is confined in one of the secret cells in the Old Moat House, she is rescued. Welby and Lola are baffled, and complete happiness is restored to Cyril and his devoted wife.

Mr. Stanley Gordon gave an excellent impersonation of Cyril Girdlestone, his acting being easy, natural, and convincing. The villainous Welby Girdlestone found a forcible and very capable exponent in Mr. Beresford Innes, while the adventuress, Lola Gray, was skilfully portrayed by Miss Daisy Halling. Miss Nina Vaughton invested her representation of Edith McAllister with graceful and sympathetic acting; Mr. H. Joye made a capital Rev. Mr. McAllister; Mr. Cecil G. Calvert was a manly and popular David Strong; Miss Amy Rogerson was excellent as the warm-hearted Maria Nibbling; and Mrs. S. Halling submitted an admirable character study as the lodging-house keeper, Jane Ellen Scriver. Much amusement was furnished by Mr. Fred Terriss (Romulus Roe) and Mr. Edgar Morgan (Remus Roe), whose eccentricities kept the house rippling with laughter while they occupied the boards. The minor characters were satisfactorily sustained.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, April 16,
the Irish Drama, by Dion Boucicault, entitled
"THE COLLEEN BAWN."

There was a typical Bank Holiday audience at the Kingston playhouse on Monday evening to greet the reappearance of this old and favourite drama, which has occupied the boards there during the week, and although it must have been seen several times before by many of those present, there was no visible indication that the play had lost any of its old charm. Thanks to the capable company which Mr. Frank Harding has got together, ample justice was done to it histrionically, and the influence of the scenic artist was also an element in a successful production. Mr. Lytton Grey plays the part of Myles-na-Coppaleen, which he succeeds in investing with a breeziness that is racy of the soil; Mr. Harding gives a fine conception of the scheming Danny Mann; Mr. Cecil Melton acquits himself well in the part of Hardress Cregan; Mr. Orlando Daly scores as Kyrle Daly; and an impressive Father Tom is presented by Mr. Charles Langley. Amongst the lady artists premier honours are won by Miss Marie Wright as Eily O'Connor; whilst Miss Victoria Addison as Anne Chute, Miss Dora Heritage as Mrs. Cregan, and Miss Annie Brophy as Sheelah, each assisted materially in the success of the production.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree's Shakespeare Festival will share with Miss Ellen Terry's jubilee the dramatic honours of next week. During that period six different plays are to be staged at His Majesty's, Monday being devoted to The Tempest. Then follow Henry IV. (Part 1) on Tuesday, repeated at the matinée the following day; Twelfth Night on Wednesday, Hamlet on Thursday, The Merry Wives of Windsor on Friday, Hamlet again on Saturday afternoon, and Julius Cæsar in the evening. The performance of The Merry Wives of Windsor will stand out from the rest as being the play in which Miss Terry will appear in celebration of her fiftieth year on the stage, and for that occasion every bookable seat has been secured.

"Colonel Newcome," which is to be Mr. Tree's next production at His Majesty's, has been cast in part, among those to whom characters have been allotted being Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Mr. Norman Forbes, Mr. Basil Gill, Mrs. E. H. Brooke, and Mr. Lyn Harding. With such a competent body of performers Mr. Tree is already assured of invaluable support.

Mr. E. S. Willard, breaking through his rule not to act on Sundays, has determined to give a special performance of The Middleman to-morrow (Sunday) night in aid of the sufferers by the San Francisco disaster. The performance will be given in the Colonial Theatre, Chicago.

The secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund asks us to acknowledge the following amounts which he has received for the benefit of the fund during the past week—viz., £5 5s. from Miss Phyllis Dare and £5 4s. 6d. from Mr. George Alexander, both sums having been collected by means of their autographs. Mr. Wilfred Stanford has forwarded £2 13s., that amount having been collected in the Fund's box at the Camden Theatre.

Mr. G. P. Huntley, we are sorry to hear, has lost his little son, John Guy Patrick, who died on Monday, at Kensington House, Kensington Court, at the age of eight months.

Mr. Edward Compton and Miss Louise Moodie have been added during the week to the general committee associated with the Ellen Terry Jubilee Fund. The project is exciting the greatest interest in America, and many letters of appreciation of the great actress have been received by the Tribune. Mark Twain sends the following message:—"Ellen Terry: Age has not withered nor custom staled the admiration and affection we have felt for you for so many, many years. I lay them at your honoured feet with the strength and freshness of their youth upon them undiminished."

Mr. Arthur Bourchier and Mr. Charles Frohman will produce The Fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt, the new four-act comedy by Alfred Sutro, at the Garrick Theatre, on Thursday. Mr. Bourchier and Miss Violet Vanbrugh will both be included in the cast, which will further comprise Messrs. Aubrey Smith, Walter Pearce, O. B. Clarence, George Trollope, Charles V. France, Charles Goodhart, Douglas Imbert, and Master Hugh Wakefield, and Misses Norah Greenlaw, Elfrida Clement, Muriel Beaumont, Henrietta Watson, Pamela Gaythorne, Kate Phillips, and Annie Stuart.

Mr. George Edwardes' Lady Madcap company met with a mishap on their journey to Blackpool on Sunday. They were within a mile of Miller's Dale Station when the scenery was ignited by a spark from the engine. By the time the train was stopped the coach was in full blaze, and threatened to set fire to that containing effects of The Coal King company, who were travelling by the same train. The truck was shunted into a siding, and the members of The Lady Madcap company, assisted by that of The Coal King, gallantly tackled the seemingly impossible task of subduing the flames. The fire extinguishing apparatus at the station consisted of one hand-pump, but energy and perseverance prevailed, and the blazing material was at length extinguished, the wardrobes and properties being fortunately preserved.

"The Little Michus" at Daly's will be enriched next week by several new numbers from the pen of M. Messager, the composer, which will no doubt give the delightful piece fresh impetus in public favour. Sardou's opera La Merveilleuse is designed for eventual production at Daly's, but prior to that event a brief revival of The Geisha may be anticipated. Mr. George Edwardes has also in hand a revised version of The Little Cherub, which is shortly to be seen in new attire at the Prince of Wales's.

The success of Mauricette, in which Mr. H. B. Irving, Miss Marion Terry, and Miss Dorothea Baird figure to such conspicuous advantage at the Lyric, has so influenced the management of the Paris Odéon, that Jeunesse, from which Mr. Irving's play was adapted, is to be revived during the week.

Mr. Martin Harvey found time on the 13th inst. to lecture on "Some Thoughts on Acting" at Irvine, under the auspices of the Irvine Dramatic and Musical Association. The favourite actor's address was listened to and warmly endorsed by a large audience, and Sheriff Mackenzie, of Kilmarnock, who was in the chair, took occasion to make some highly appreciative remarks concerning Mr. Harvey's personal art. Mr. Harvey pleaded for greater sympathy towards the actor's art, and dealt with incidents in the lives of Garrick, Macready, and other masters. Mr. Harvey contended that whether an actor gives his best depends on his audience. He believed that an actor could express nothing but himself—a startling remark, he admitted—and that rare heights of tragedy could never be scaled save by those who broke from the placid comforts of the middle course. These rare heights were not for those who walked the comfortable, well-fed valley. Those who had climbed need never mind if, from the pinnacle, they came crashing down again. The crash would teach them patience and humility. Only by these means would tragedy and the capturing of the soul be won.

Rarely in recent years has there been a more enthusiastic outburst than that which occurred on Monday night at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, when Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche and their company presented for the first time in the town Judge Parry and Frederick Mouillot's clever comedy What the Butler Saw. The house was crowded from floor to ceiling, and included many of the most prominent citizens of Manchester. The play early commended itself to the good opinion of the audience, and those present were moved to hearty laughter by the merry sayings of Mr. Rignold and Miss Blanche in the principal characters. The audience at the end of the performance became so enthusiastic that the curtain had to be raised again and again, and Mr. Rignold and Miss Blanche repeatedly came forward in acknowledgment. Cries of "Authors!" were then raised until Judge Parry, who occupied a box, came forward, and thanked the audience by smiles and bows for the kind way in which the play had been received.

Three performances of Maxim Gorky's play, The Bezsemenovs, will be given by the Mermaid Society at Terry's Theatre on the afternoons of Monday, Thursday, and Friday next.

The appearance of Queen Elizabeth in Dorothy o' the Hall at the New Theatre is so exactly like a picture from Hampton Court or the National Portrait Gallery, that it is hard to believe that the character is played by Miss Miriam Lewes. Originally trained as a dancer, she always had a hankering to act serious and comedy parts in real plays, and, thanks to Mr. Louis Calvert, who introduced her to Mr. Fred Terry, her first London opportunity came in The Scarlet Pimpernel, when she understudied Miss Julia Neilson, and played her part for three weeks. She wears magnificent clothes as Good Queen Bess, making her entrance in a riding dress of stiff red corded silk, studded with big rubies; the cloak is plush of the same colour. There is a quaint little pointed hat, the red plume held in place by a rosette of precious stones. Her second costume is even more effective, being old gold and blue brocade, embroidered with pearls, the cobweb ruff fastened by a string of pearls, and the small crown composed of pearls and rubies. It should be remembered that Miss Lewes's face is completely changed by the false nose that adds not a little to the accuracy of the make-up, the red wig, and high-arched eyebrows. Off the stage she is very dark—showing her Russian descent in the colour of her eyes and olive complexion—and very many years younger than Queen Elizabeth is supposed to be in Dorothy o' the Hall.

In compliance with Miss Ellen Terry's own request, the programme at the Court Theatre on the evening of Saturday, the anniversary of her stage jubilee, will not be changed in any way, and Captain Brassbound's Conversion will be performed as usual, with Miss Terry as Lady Cecily Waynflete. A special commemorative autograph programme will be presented to each member of the audience.

Added interest is given to the production of Markheim at the Lyric by the inclusion in the properties and effects of numerous relics of the late Sir Henry Irving, used by him in his various productions. The sideboard from which Corporal Gregory Brewster's breakfast was brought in Waterloo has a conspicuous place, and some necklaces and bracelets used in Macbeth and King Lear, together with the orb Irving bore as the latter sovereign, are also to be seen, as well as an old oak Jacobean chest taken from Sir Henry Irving's rooms in Grafton-street and used in Charles I. The same bells that chime the hour in Markheim aroused the conscience of Mathias in The Bells, and were also used in The Lyons Mail; and the huge iron chest, over which the figure of Markheim bends as he hunts for his murdered victim's money, recalls a former triumph in Louis XI. The helmet, specially designed by Alma-Tadema, was used by Lancelot in King Arthur, and jugs and salvers were made for Peter the Great; mugs, goblets, jugs, and chalices, which have been with Irving to America, and silver ink-pots and bric-à-brac used in Robespierre also figure in Mr. H. B. Irving's staging of this scene, the value of the appointments of which is said to be over £2000.

The Council of the Actors' Association did not hold their usual weekly meeting last Tuesday, as it was Easter Tuesday. The third bi-monthly meeting of the members of the Association will be held in the saloon at 10, King-street, Covent Garden, on Thursday, the 10th prox., at 2.30 p.m., when several matters of importance will be brought up for discussion.

Mr. Seymour Hicks has brought forward the Danby benefit by one week in order to avoid a clash with another bespeak. The event is now fixed to take place at the Aldwych on Thursday, May 17. A number of well-known artists have already signified their intention of giving their services, and the committee of the Eccentric Club have made a donation from their benevolent fund of £25. It may be remembered that the unfortunate comedian recently underwent a series of operations on the jaw, and he will probably be incapacitated from ever following his profession.

Mr. Charles Frohman has commissioned Mr. Seymour Hicks to write the libretto of a modern version of As You Like It, to be produced both in America and England. The lyrics will be supplied by Mr. C. H. Taylor and the music by Mr. H. G. Haynes. The piece will differ materially from the original play, in the sense that the atmosphere is to be quite modern, and Rosalind and Orlando are to discard their mediæval costumes for up-to-date garments. They will travel in motor-car, send love messages to each other through the telephone, and live in a Mayfair flat. There are two scenes, one of which is laid in a rustic landscape at Windsor, and the other in a ballroom in town.

"The Rose-Scented Handkerchief," a little comedy by Baron St. Eon, will be performed by the Harlequin Dramatic Society on Saturday evening, April 28, at the Bijou Theatre, Bayswater. The play will be produced under the stage-management of Mr. Frank Kingston.

"Captain Brassbound's Conversion" was revived at the Court Theatre on Monday evening, with every indication of success. The run is for eight weeks, and the cast is identical with that of the former production. Miss Ellen Terry's impersonation of Lady Cecily Waynflete is a very finished performance, and all the members of the company are happily placed.

Miss May Bensa, niece of W. S. Penley, has successfully passed the advanced Senior Examination in Singing at the London College of Music. This talented young artist also gained the diploma A.L.C.M. for pianoforte playing at the April examinations.

Herr Hans Andresen is including a cycle of Sudermann's plays in his "After-Season" at the Great Queen-street Theatre. The series consists of Die Ehre ("Honour") announced for yesterday; Die Schmetterlingsschlacht ("The Battle of the Butterflies"), to be given this afternoon and evening; Morituri on Friday next; Das Gluck im Winkel ("A Happy Nook") on Saturday; Die Heimat ("Magda") on May 4; and Das Blumenboot ("The Boat of Flowers") on May 5. Magda will be played by Frau Minna Hocker.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Actors' Orphanage Fund was held on Wednesday last at 18, Russell-street, Covent Garden. Present, Mr. C. Aubrey Smith (in the chair), Miss Carlotta Addison, Mrs. Edward Compton, Mrs. Gay, Miss Helen Ferrers, Miss May Warley, Mrs. Mangles, Mrs. Fred Wright, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Rev. A. Brinckman, Mr. Harry Nicholls, Mr. Chas. Cruikshanks, and Mr. E. H. Bull (secretary). The arrangements for the annual general meeting to be held at the Garrick Theatre, on Friday, May 18 (by the kind permission of Mr. Arthur Bourchier), were discussed and settled. Mr. Cyril Maude will preside, and amongst the speakers on the occasion will be Miss Carlotta Addison, Mrs. Edward Compton, Miss Vane Featherston, Miss Helen Ferrers, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, and Miss Eva Moore, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. Harry Nicholls, and Mr. Chas. Cruikshanks.

"The Silver Box," a new play by John Galsworthy, has been secured by Messrs. Vedrenne and Barker for production next autumn at one of the series of matinées at the Court Theatre.

Mr. Michael Connelly, the well-known musical-director, has been specially engaged to arrange the music of Midsummer Night's Dream for the Bessie Comedy Company. He will conduct the performance of it for one night in London, and for six nights in Exeter, commencing on Monday.

Mr. Charles Frohman will shortly replace the triple bill at the Comedy by the American success Raffles, the work of Mr. E. W. Hornung, the English novelist, and Mr. Eugene Presbrey, the American playwright. The comedy-drama is in four acts, and is based upon a series of sketches by Mr. Hornung, entitled "An Amateur Cracksman." The scenes of the play are laid in and near London, and the principal character is a personage who combines the qualities of both hero and villain. He is an educated English gentleman, who becomes a thief simply for the purpose of outwitting the police, returning the valuables after he finds he has succeeded in his design. To Mr. Gerald Du Maurier has been allotted this unique part, and no better choice could be made.

The congratulations of his many friends will be offered to Mr. Norman Macowan, whose wife (Miss Violet Sterne) presented him with a son on the 18th inst. The happy event occurred at 52, Flanders-road, Bedford Park.

The Scala Theatre is to have at Christmas a play of the Peter Pan type, produced by Mr. Marshall Moore, who severs his connection with the Coliseum at the end of May. Mr. Moore has also in hand for production in the early autumn his semi-Scriptural play Hadasseh, adapted from Mrs. Lenty Collins's book of that name. Amongst the most notable scenes will be "The Fall of Vashti," "The Triumph of Esther," and "The Entry into Jerusalem over the hills of Susa."

Master Tonge, a youthful but experienced actor, who was among Sir Henry Irving's company when he died, has been specially engaged by Mr. Tree to play Robin in The Merry Wives of Windsor for the Festival production on Friday. Master Tonge played Geoffrey in Becket at Drury Lane, and his other parts include:—Ib in Ib and Little Christina, Mercury in The American Citizen, and Eigil in The Viking (with Miss Ellen Terry's company).

Miss Rose Moncrieff, the wife of Mr. Newman Maurice, the popular acting-manager at the Grand Theatre, Islington, who was the winner of the Ally Sloper fifty-guinea diamond ring competition, is to be presented with it to-night by the Genial One in person at the Lyric Theatre, Bromley, where she is playing with her company in Fun on the Bristol.

The Grand Master of English Freemasons, his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and Strathearn, has appointed Mr. Charles Cruikshanks Assistant Grand Standard Bearer of England. The present roll of Grand Officers connected with the theatrical profession consists of Sir Squire Bancroft and Messrs. James Fernandez, Henry Neville, Harry Nicholls, W. S. Penley, and Edward Terry.

Mr. Alick Maclean, who won the first Moody-Manners opera prize competition several years ago, had a new work of his composition produced with success at Mayence on Easter Monday. The new opera is entitled Die Liebesgeye, and is founded on François Coppée's well-known story "Les Luthiers de Crémone."

Miss Grace Hampton, who was associated for a long period with the late Sir Henry Irving, has been engaged by Mr. Martin Harvey to appear in his new production, The Rapparree Trooper. Miss Hampton in private life is Mrs. Chas. Dodsworth, wife of the well-known actor. Among her more notable successes with Irving was that of Margery, the country girl, in Becket.

Mr. Hardie and Miss Von Leer's production of Geo. R. Sims's new play For Life—and After on Monday night, at Reading, was attended by every sign of success, the curtain having to be raised again and again after each act. Theatre managers from all parts of the country have witnessed the production during the week, and the piece is being rapidly booked up. Mr. E. P. Clift, we are informed, is at present unable to consider any of the applications he has received for No. 3 and "fit-up" rights.

Miss Dora Gray, as the somewhat luckless heroine of Mr. Sidney Bowkett's sparkling comedy Lucky Miss Dean, is acquiring fresh laurels by her charming portrayal of Acacia. She acts the part, as she looks it, to the life, and not only wears pretty frocks, but knows how to display them to advantage. Miss Gray's ability and her graceful method of expression are agreeably evident in her performance, to which the success of the comedy is mainly due.

The new Joan of Arc play, entitled The Flower of France, by Justin Huntly McCarthy, was recently performed for copyright purposes at the Scala. Following his usual custom, Mr. McCarthy has utilised the material for a novel, which has been published by Messrs. Hurst and Blackett under the same name.

With the advent of the fine weather many touring managers cease from touring, and expenses are at rest. In this respect they are more fortunate than their resident brethren, who must run their theatres right through the summer, or close with heavy charges still running. Under the circumstances managers are compelled to produce for themselves, and such fine plays as The New Magdalen, owned by Mr. Mulholland, become suddenly in great demand for special weeks or stock seasons. There is the added advantage in this that many young actors, who would otherwise be playing only one or two parts all the year round, thus gain valuable experience in a variety of characters.

Mr. Clarence Sounes announces the Drury Lane success, The Prodigal Son, for the attraction during the coming week at the new Prince's Theatre, Poplar. With his strong company and splendid production packed houses will certainly rule. Mr. Sounes has decided to give the weekly matinée on Thursday for the future.

"The Talk of the Town" will make its first appearance on Monday night at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith. The special company is under the direction of Mr. William Greet, who ran the piece at the Lyric Theatre, and it should be interesting to compare Mr. Seymour Hicks's earlier effort with his latest work at the Aldwych. The company is a strong one, and as the engagement is only for six nights and matinée on the Thursday, Mr. Mulholland's spacious playhouse should be crowded.

Miss Mildred Baker, whose charming personality and brilliant vocalisation lend such lustre to her performance of the part of Edith Adams, the Vassar Girl, in Mr. George Musgrove's Prince of Pilsen company, was introduced to the musical comedy stage by the merest accident. An ardent student of the pianoforte, Miss Baker was engaged to play the accompaniments to a famous prima donna at a "function" held at Claridge's Hotel, and graced by the presence of the King. The prima donna failed to appear at the proper moment, and Miss Baker, with great sang-froid, sang the numbers allotted to the absent star with an ease and dexterity which elicited not only the personal approbation of His Majesty, but secured for Miss Baker an immediate offer from Mr. George Edwardes to play Miss Violet Cameron's part of the Mother Superior in The School Girl.

Mr. F. R. Benson examined the pupils of the School of Drama, of which he is president, at the Albert Hall, on the 10th inst. The students were seen in a wide range of parts, including scenes from the Atlanta in Calydon, Alice Sit-by-the-Fire (by kind permission of Mr. Barrie), Dowson's Pierrot of the Minute, which was admirably performed by Miss Vivienne Stuckley and Miss Ruby Ginneo, an old pupil of the school, who had arranged the Moon Maiden's dance. Among the professors of the school present were Mr. Hugh Moss, Mr. Theodore Gilmer, M. Jules Morel, and Miss Elsie Fogerty, the principal of the classes, who stated that out of about seventy pupils attending the school, twenty-five had joined the new artist section. Mr. Benson, in the course of a careful and detailed criticism, emphasised the importance of the training given in the school by Dr. H. Hulbert in breathing and physical development, and of the fencing and dancing instruction. A dancer, properly trained, he said, became incapable of ungraceful movements. He also laid stress on the opportunities of learning from one another in rehearsal classes as distinct from mere individual coaching.

Mr. George Musgrove is to be congratulated upon the verasatility of the members of his Prince of Pilsen company. On Good Friday they gave a sacred concert at the Theatre Royal, Hull, which, under the control of Charles Thorburn, was a great success. After the opening by the orchestra, under Mr. J. Robertson's bâton, three other selections were played by them, Mr. B. T. Little and Mr. Frank Freeman sharing with Mr. Robertson the duties of conductor. Mr. Freeman also appeared as a violin soloist, and won enthusiastic applause. The vocalists were Miss Mildred Baker, Miss Flora Grey, Miss Nelly Cozens, Miss Nell Emerald, Mr. Stuart Alexander, Mr. G. V. Arnold, and the Prince of Pilsen Quartette. They all made valuable contributions to the programme of twenty-four items. Special praise was due to Mr. Stuart Alexander's rendering of "Ailsa Mine" and his duet, "The Birds that Sing," with Miss Nelly Cozens; the duet, "Oh, that we two were maying," by Miss Mildred Baker and Mr. G. V. Arnold; "The Lost Chord," by Miss Flora Grey; and "Tell me that beautiful story," by Miss Nell Emerald. Mr. J. A. Robertson and Mr. Charles A. Wenman were the accompanists. Mr. Edwin Adeler gave two monologues with great dramatic feeling and power.

The Scenic Artists' Association will give their third social dinner on Tuesday at the Adelphi Hotel, John-street. Tickets, which are limited to fifty, can be obtained by any scenic artist, whether a member of the Association or not, of Mr. H. Lawrence Harris, the honorary secretary, by application by post, enclosing a remittance and stamped addressed envelope. Applications must reach him at 23, Whittingstall-road, Fulham, S.W., by the first post on Monday at the latest, and tickets must be bought a day beforehand. The musical arrangements for the evening are in the hands of Mr. H. May Hemsley, several of whose professional friends have kindly volunteered their services, and an excellent programme is anticipated.

Mr. Arthur Stigant writes to say, relative to the Empire Revue Venus, 1906, that a musical comedy of his, produced at the Theatre Royal, Bradford, on Nov. 13, 1903, and provisionally entitled The Time Machine, has a certain resemblance to the Revue which emanates from the pen of George Grossmith, jun., inasmuch as both productions have Mr. H. G. Wells to thank for the main idea (the Machine).

Miss Madeline L'Estrange wishes to to tender her sincere thanks to her many friends for their letters and telegrams of sympathy in her great bereavement. Miss L'Estrange hopes to be well enough to resume work shortly.

Mr. Arthur Jefferson, of the Metropole Theatre, Glasgow, has established a booking agency for recognised successful touring attractions. No commission will be accepted without an intimate knowledge of the production, and a full belief in its "drawing powers," and occasional personal visits will be paid to companies en route for Mr. Jefferson to satisfy himself that each production is being kept up to its original standard.

Mr. Bannister Howard has made arrangements with Mr. Norman V. Norman to produce As You Like It at the Crystal Palace next week, Shakespeare Festival Week. The entire production is under the personal supervision of Mr. Norman, who will play Jaques, with Miss Beatrice Wilson as Rosalind, supported by the members of Mr. Norman's company.

Mr. Norman V. Norman, owing to the very favourable reception given to Messrs. Freeman Wills and Frederick Langbridge's adaptation of Stanley Weyman's novel Count Hannibal, has decided to present the play frequently in the provinces this year.

Fears with regard to the safety of Signor Caruso, Mme. Sembrich, and other members of the Metropolitan Opera Company who were in San Francisco at the time of the disaster, are allayed by the news of their escape. The hotels in which they were staying were utterly destroyed, and numerous jewels and valuables have been lost. Many of the chorus singers who were staying in the poorer quarter are reported missing.

"The Little Stranger," which has made such an extraordinary success at the Criterion, held a reception on Thursday afternoon, the invitations being extended to hospital nurses, who filled the theatre to the number of 600. Every institution of the class in London was represented, and the enjoyment of the piece was thorough and hearty. There was another baby present besides Master Edward Garrett, the diminutive impersonator of the title-rôle. In one of the boxes, nestling in the arms of a private nurse, was the "little stranger" which arrived in the household of Mr. Frank Curzon, the manager of the theatre, last month, and it was in this little baby girl's honour that the matinée took place.

Miss Tita Brand has been engaged to recite Grieg's "Bergliot" under the composer's own direction at the Queen's Hall on May 17, having been kindly released by Mr. F. R. Benson for the occasion. Miss Brand was asked by Dr. Grieg himself to recite the same work in German at Amsterdam on the 26th inst., also under his own conductorship, but as she is acting at the Shakespeare Festival at Stratford at the time, her mother, Miss Marie Brema, will appear at Amsterdam in her stead in the same work.

Mr. Norman A. Overton concludes on Saturday his engagement as lead in The Luck of Life, and opens on Monday in the principal part in Man's Enemy.

"The Rapparee Trooper," the comedy which Mr. Martin Harvey will produce on Thursday at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle, is in four acts, and tells a story of seventeenth century days. Mr. Harvey appears as Brian O'Carroll, the hero, and Miss De Silva as Paudheen, a horse-boy. Supporting Mr. Harvey, will be Mr. Charles Cameron, Mr. Thalberg, Corbett, Mr. Albert Raynor, Miss Kate Rorke, Miss Grace Hampden, and Miss Bessie Elder. The action of Act I. is laid in the Royalist Camp at Ripton-under-Wye; that of Act II. in the Hall of Yarrington Grange, Upper Locombe; that of Act. III. in the Wardrobe Room of Armitage Manor; and that of Act IV. at Marbrook Hall, Lower Upcombe.

Mr. Charles Fry will give his Saturday Shakespearean matinées this year at the Court Theatre, the first one taking place on May 5, when The Winter's Tale will be performed, with incidental music by Arthur Fox. Mr. Fry will appear as Leontes, Miss Olive Kennett as Hermione, and Mr. Patrick Munro as Autolycus.

At the meeting of the Dramatic Debaters at Frascati's on Sunday next, 8 p.m., Miss Italia Conti will open a discussion on "Realism versus Idealism," a plea for the "simple life" of the drama. Mr. Hamilton Fyfe will be in the chair.

By kind permission of his Grace the Duke and of her Grace the Duchess of Sutherland, and under their especial patronage, Miss Italia Conti will give a musical and dramatic recital at Stafford House, on Tuesday afternoon, June 12. The matinée will be under the patronage of H.R.H. the Princess Christian and H.R.H. the Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, and many other distinguished leaders in social and artistic circles.

In the forthcoming revival of Prunella (a pierrot play by Laurence Housman and Granville Barker) at the Court Theatre, the serenade in the second act will be sung instead of spoken, as it was in the original version, the vocalist being Mr. W. H. Penderel Price. There will also be several alterations in the third act.

Mr. James Welch and full company from Terry's Theatre will give a special matinée of The New Clown at the Crystal Palace Theatre on Thursday, at 2.30. Mr. J. Bannister Howard is thus fulfilling his promise to provide leading London attractions similar to those which were such a successful feature of the old prosperous days of the Palace.

The proverb that "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good" was illustrated on Wednesday, when a motor-car broke down on its way through Canterbury. The occupants decided to wait until the car was repaired, and looked in at the Theatre Royal, where the new farce, The Other Man's Business, was in progress. At the end of the play they asked to see the manager, and at once negotiated for the American rights of the piece. The lady and gentleman proved to be a well-known American manager and his wife, and they seemed well pleased with their stay in Canterbury.

Bombay is to be provided with a new theatre, which is to be ready early next year. It will be fitted with all modern improvements, and will have a spacious stage, ample dressing-room accommodation, and electric lighting. The house will seat 1200 persons, representing about £300 per night. Messrs. Soundy and Co., theatre and concert agents, of Bombay, are interested in the scheme, and would furnish all particulars.

Princess Henry of Battenberg has graciously accepted the dedication of a song of love, entitled "Love's Sweet Interpretation," to her daughter, the Princess Ena, in commemoration of the forthcoming marriage to King Alfonso. The song is written by Mr. A. C. Shelley and composed by Mr. Stephen Philpott, the composer of the opera La Gitana, in the Turner Opera Company's répertoire, and many lighter pieces. It is set to a pretty waltz refrain.

Miss Mary Raby has just terminated thirteen weeks' engagement as the Queen in Cymbeline at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester. On the last night of the production, which ran 101 nights, Miss Raby was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan with a handsome silver toilet set.

Mr. Alban Atwood, who will be remembered as an actor of some twelve years' experience, also as part author of Oh, Susannah!, The Lady Dentist, Naughty Rosina, &c., has just returned from a long tour in Australasia.

Mr. Russell Rosse will produce Arthur W. Pinero's world-famous comedy, Sweet Lavender, at the Brixton Theatre on Monday next. A strong company has been engaged, including Messrs. W. H. R. Lancy, Robert Minster, J. Nelson Ramsay, H. Tripp-Edgar, Walter Maclean, Chas. R. Hann, Mmes. Ethel Verne, Eugenie Vernie, Edna Godfrey-Turner, and Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner.

At Marlborough-street Police-court, on Thursday, George Baker, described as a "stage hand," living in Whitechapel, was charged, on remand, with being found in His Majesty's Theatre on the evening of the 5th inst. for the supposed purpose of committing a felony. The evidence showed that the prisoner had been forbidden to enter the theatre, but, to the astonishment of one of the electricians, he was seen on the stage behind the scenes during the performance of Nero. As coats belonging to the employees had been missed, one disappearing on an occasion when Baker was in the theatre, he was given into custody. Asked to account for his presence on the stage, he said he had acted as a "super" at the theatre, and only called for his money. The witnesses denied this statement. A previous conviction for "loitering" at Birmingham with intent to commit a felony having been proved, Mr. Kennedy committed the prisoner for trial.

"Telharmony" is the euphonious name of a new invention by means of which music can be obtained by electricity. The inventor of the system is Dr. Thaddeus Cahill, an American, who claims that by his invention music can be projected to a distance of fifty miles or more. The principle of the invention is that the music is generated in the shape of electricity, sent to its destination by wire, and then turned into sound waves. Dr. Cahill says that the generators produce a constant supply of electrical vibrations, from which the performer draws such as he desires. Similarly, in a pipe organ air is pumped into a bellows; then the player, by pressing certain keys, turns it into different pipes to produce the tones he desires. The beauty of the music depends entirely upon the skill and soul of the performer.

Dr. Cahill is at present engaged with his invention in America, where it is being placed in hotels, cafés, theatres, concert halls, and the large shops. Concerts have already been sent from Baltimore to Washington on leased telephone wires, but when the system is fairly installed the company that has been formed hopes to put in its own wires. The invention will be launched in England some time in the autumn, and Dr. Cahill hopes that within a year Londoners will put it into their homes.

At Bow-street Police-court, on Wednesday, William Cecil Watson, twenty-three, described as an elocutionist, was charged with obtaining £5 5s. by fraud from Mr. Bertram Parker. A detective-inspector said that the accused was arrested at 63 and 64, Chancery-lane, in an office, the door of which bore the name of the International Theatrical Syndicate. When taken into custody the accused turned to another in the room, and exclaimed, "They say it is fraud, Henry. Come along to the station with me, and back me up in this." The detective added that he found in the office some memos headed, "Northern Dramatic Touring Syndicate. Established 1898. W. C. Watson, general manager." The prisoner was remanded, and upon an application for bail, the inspector mentioned that he had already interviewed a number of young ladies in connection with this matter, and there would be a lot of cases against the prisoner of fraudulently obtaining sums of money, ranging from £5 to £10. The application was refused.

Miss Clotilde Graves has grasped the great truth that there is only one way of playing the Dumas-the-elder tune, and that is in the "fair, fearless old fashion." But she has introduced some agreeable variations. Her hero is, as customary, all-conquering; but a pleasant touch of humour is introduced by making him a slight stutterer. There is a certain amount of subtlety, too, in the character of the heroine. She is an epicure in love, and—mark of the self-analysing modern!—is more anxious about the state of her own heart than about that of her adorer's. She secludes herself so as not to mix up common worldliness with the poetry of a fresh fancy; and, like the Lady of the Camellias, when it is put to her by the elderly relative that she is spoiling the young man's life, she promises to act as the good genius of the youth and his family, and keeps her promise. These refinements give an agreeable modernity to the old adventures—the duelling, the troubles with the libertine King, the arrests, and the escapes; and the net result is an active and interesting piece, ingeniously arranged, and written with an admirable combination of intelligence and information. Miss Graves has the history of the period at her fingers' ends; and her dialogue is bright, clear, and always pat to the point.

She starts with a well-known personality—always a great point in a "historical" piece. Most people have a "notion" of Ninon de l'Enclos, chiefly celebrated for the wonderful way in which she "wore"; a fact which has been attributed by some to hygiene, and by others to cosmetics. When the action opens, Ninon is in her bloom, and has captivated, amongst many others, a young Lorraine gentleman, the Chevalier de Bellorme, who, D'Artagnan-like, has come to Paris to enter the King's Musketeers, and by Royal influence secure possession of some family property. In the society of Ninon he forgets both objects. He volunteers, however, in a moment of impulse, for the war which is going on, and induces Ninon to sign a romantic "bond" agreeing to love only the "bearer." De Bellorme pins this document to his breast, and defies the world to take it from him. After he has left her, Ninon regrets having bound herself down in black and white, and sends, first an Abbé, and afterwards three officers to fight De Bellorme, and get back the paper. The Lorrainer vanquishes them all, wounding each of the soldiers slightly. Then, outside Ninon's windows, we hear read out the King's edict threatening with death anyone who shall hurt or kill one of his household troops; and the King, incognito as "Monsieur de Dieudonné," enters, and makes audacious love to Ninon, who fends him off as best she may, sending a female friend to warn de Bellorme of his danger. The message brings back the gallant disguised in the friend's cloak. He finds Louis and the lady together; and there is an explosion, resulting in the Chevalier being arrested and taken to prison. Ninon bets the King a kiss, &c., that De Bellorme will escape and come to supper with her as arranged; and, at a fashionable gathering, "amongst whom," as the reports say, "we noticed" the Duc de la Rochefoucauld, the Marshal de Turenne, Molière, Racine, and "many others," the young man, who has set fire to his prison in order to get out of it, arrives scorched and swooning, and wins his mistress's wager. The King gives him his estate and a commission in the Musketeers; and Ninon restores him virtuously to his friends and his relations, including an insipid little lady to whom he was betrothed in Lorraine, but with whom he had a lover's quarrel on account of an inconsiderate imputation which she made upon his personal courage.

The amount of talent which can be placed at the disposal of a romantic dramatist nowadays was proved by the fine cast to which Miss Graves's piece was entrusted. Miss Ashwell's achievements in previous productions have made for her a reputation far above any to be obtained by her charming performance as Ninon de l'Enclos, which gained immensely by the absolute ease and confidence with which she handled the part. She was the fine lady of the period to the ends of her nails; and her delightful diction, her exquisite grace, and the expressive and dramatic touches which she introduced whenever possible, made her embodiment absolutely satisfying and convincing. Mr. Henry Ainley played the Chevalier de Bellorme with just the needed chivalric elation and romantic ardour, and looked the part excellently; and Mr. H. V. Esmond's Louis XIV. could hardly have been improved upon, so polished and acute was it, and so full of crisp confidence and sharp command. Mr. Frank Tyars was as blunt and sincere as could be desired as M. de Bellorme, and supplied a bold and rugged embodiment of the honest old Lorrainer; and Mr. Edward Sass hit off neatly the traits of the refined valet, La Brosse, Mr. Eugene Mayeur, as Gedoine, giving a neat embodiment of the "fighting parson" of the period. Mr. Vincent Sternroyd, Mr. Stanley W. Ashworth, and Mr. Harry Welchman were entirely satisfying as the three military duellists; and Miss Helen Ferrers played the widow Scarron piquantly, Miss Beatrice Terry being duly naïve and natural as Hélène de Villars. The many distinguished personages of the period introduced wore their sumptuous costumes well, and bore themselves bravely and with grace and discretion. The single scene, a luxurious Louis XIV. interior, was beautifully designed and cleverly painted by Messrs. Hugo Baruch and Co.; and the whole of the splendid costumes were supplied by Messrs. B. J. Simmons and Co., who had carried out a large and important commission with very great taste and liberality. Mr. Percy E. Fletcher had composed a special overture, and some appropriate incidental music; and under the personal superintendence of the authoress and Mr. Edward Sass, the piece went with the greatest smoothness. We must not forget to mention the very pretty performance of the small part of the boy Blouet which was given by Master Herbert Hollom, who showed remarkable intelligence and promise. The Bond of Ninon had a hearty reception; and the audience waited for some time in the hope—which proved to be a vain one—that the authoress would appear and acknowledge their demonstrations.

THE GARRICK.

On Saturday, April 14, Shakespeare's Play, "THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

Shylock ..... Mr. Bourchier
Jessica ..... Miss Elfrida Clement
Tubal ..... Mr. Charles V. France
Prince of Morocco ..... Mr. Lawson Butt
Duke of Venice ..... Mr. Arthur Whitby
Antonio ..... Mr. Charles V. France
Bassanio ..... Mr. Julian L'Estrange
Gratiano ..... Mr. George Trollope
Lorenzo ..... Mr. Walter Pearce
Salarino ..... Mr. Wilfred Forster
Salanio ..... Mr. Douglas Imbert
Salerio ..... Mr. Alfred Bristowe
Launcelot Gobbo ..... Mr. Norman Forbes
Old Gobbo ..... Mr. O. B. Clarence
Leonardo ..... Mr. F. G. Knott
Balthaser ..... Mr. James Adams
Clerk of the Court ..... Mr. Harrison Carter
Nerissa ..... Miss Muriel Beaumont
Portia ..... Miss Violet Vanbrugh

For Easter week Mr. Bourchier revived The Merchant of Venice at the Garrick Theatre, opening on Saturday last with two performances, afternoon and evening. This brief revival has given playgoers another opportunity, not only of enjoying an excellent representation of Shakespeare's play, but of showing their appreciation of the remarkably effective and artistic manner in which the piece has been staged, under the supervision of Mr. Alan Mackinnon. Seldom have the details of a Shakespearean revival been looked after with such an evident desire to secure perfection; and this marked feature of the production last October and the latest revival is deserving of special attention. Take for example the scene where Launcelot hands Lorenzo the letter he has brought from Jessica, and then with a bow takes his departure. Lorenzo, and his companions, Gratiano, Salarino, and Salanio, inspired by the high spirits which accompany youth, resolve to have a bit of fun with the younger Gobbo, and in succession they make him a profound bow, as if he were a most distinguished personage. A capital piece of business this, trifling in itself no doubt, but important in helping to lighten and brighten the play. Then, again, how well-managed is the next scene, before Shylock's house, where the Jew's daughter flees with the gallant Lorenzo. The hurried departure of the lovers by boat, the sudden inrush of a number of noisy, gaily-dressed revellers, and then the silence of the night, broken only by the return of the Jew, who, lantern in hand, makes his way over the bridge which spans the river to the door of his deserted house, where he stands knocking as the curtain falls. The Court scene is another admirable sample of stage-management, all the details having evidently received the most careful attention.

Mr. Bourchier's Shylock remains the sound and satisfying performance which received the approval of the critics when "the Merchant" was revived last autumn. The embodiment of the Jew is marked by a level excellence throughout rather than by any special piece of acting, and the whole bears the impress of much scholarly care and thought. Miss Violet Vanbrugh, happily recovered from her recent indisposition, again gives us a charmingly vivacious Portia, who enters into the scheme to masquerade as the youthful advocate with a girlish enthusiasm that is quite delightful, while her deportment and delivery of her lines in the famous Trial scene are also deserving of special commendation. A few changes in the cast are to be noted. Mr. Charles V. France now doubles the parts of Tubal and Antonio (formerly played by Mr. Jerrold Robertshaw), and is quite successful in both rôles. Mr. George Trollope, the Salarino of the original cast, is the new Gratiano, and is appropriately gay and gallant in his bearing. The Lorenzo of Mr. Walter Pearce is characterised by youthful spirit and gallantry; and Mr. Julian L'Estrange is a handsome Bassanio. Mr. Lawson Butt is an exceedingly fine and commanding Prince of Morocco; and both dignity and calm composure are conspicuous in the Duke of Venice of Mr. Arthur Whitby. Mr. Norman Forbes exhibits genuine humour in his portrayal of Launcelot; and an exceedingly neat and telling character-sketch is the Old Gobbo of Mr. O. B. Clarence. Messrs. Wilfred Forster, Douglas Imbert, and Alfred Bristowe, as Salarino, Salanio, and Salerio, make the best use of their opportunities; and other minor parts are safely entrusted to Messrs. F. G. Knott, Jas. Adams, and Harrison Carter. Miss Elfrida Clement is a graceful and pleasing Jessica; and Miss Muriel Beaumont scores as an attractive Nerissa. The revival has been greatly appreciated by holiday audiences who prefer "the bard" to more frivolous forms of theatrical entertainment.

MISS ELLEN TERRY'S STAGE JUBILEE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I see in your last number a splendid scheme set out to raise a national fund for the above object, and some thirty names underneath, representing most of the heads of the profession; but, alas! I do not see any name standing for opera, and yet one cannot be surprised, and the promoters of this scheme cannot be blamed, for, after all, where is grand opera in this country? And it is only because I might suggest that with grand opera we would associate oratorio and concert artists that I raise my voice for a representative. May I say that, if satisfactory, I should be only too happy to help in any way the committee suggest, and though grand opera in English, in my opinion, is probably about in the same condition, position, and state at present as the drama was some 400 years ago, yet I can assure the committee that there are none more willing to help admirers of Miss Ellen Terry than Fanny Moody and Charles Manners.—Yours faithfully,

CHARLES MANNERS.

Theatre Royal, Birmingham, April 16.

At one time during the Easter Holidays those connected with the theatrical world in Paris were allowed to take a rest. On Good Friday the playhouses were closed, and no manager dreamt of launching novelties at that moment. Things, however, are totally changed. The entente cordiale has sent a large portion of the English population into France. And in order to do honour to their English guests, Paris managers have thrown their doors wide open, and have reaped a golden harvest.

A new one-act play entitled Bathsheba will be produced in front of Facing the Music at the Artillery Theatre, Woolwich, on Monday.

"DOROTHY O' THE HALL."

An Original Romantic Play, in Four Acts, by Paul Kester and Charles Major, Produced at the New Theatre, on Saturday, April 14.

The Earl of Rutland .. Mr. Frederick Groves
Sir John Manners ..... Mr. Fred Terry
Sir George Vernon .... Mr. J. Carter-Edwards
Sir Malcolm Vernon .. Mr. Jerrold Robertshaw
William Cecil ..... Mr. D. J. Williams
Sir William St. Loe ..... Mr. Malcolm Cherry
Perkin ..... Mr. Horace Hodges
Will Dawson ..... Mr. W. A. Haines
Mark ..... Mr. Walter Edwin
Gregory ..... Mr. George Dudley
An Old Retainer ..... Mr. Ernest E. Imeson
Elizabeth Tudor ..... Miss Miriam Lewes
Mary Stuart ..... Miss Adeline Bourne
Lady Vernon ..... Miss Claire Pauncefort
Jenny Paxton ..... Miss Mary Mackenzie
Bess ..... Miss Marion Sterling
Dorothy Vernon ..... Miss Julia Neilson

Messrs. Paul Kester and Charles Major are a pair of skilful playwrights, and they have provided Miss Julia Neilson and Mr. Fred Terry with a capital piece of its kind—an unflagging succession of incidents, an ever-animated combination of comedy and melodrama. And they have made a great deal out of very meagre materials. Upon the mere anecdote of Dorothy Vernon's elopement, upon the traditional charm of the fine old Devonshire mansion, they have hung a tale of treasons and trials, of captures and escapes, of alarms and excursions, which is constantly amusing and exciting. The free and liberal way with which they have handled their work is quite in the spirit of the sixteenth century, when parents scolded, slapped, and starved their daughters into submission, and when the daughters—unruly baggages!—were only to be managed by scolding, starving, and slapping. Taine's view of the Elizabethan temperament is quite endorsed by the authors of Dorothy o' the Hall, in which play the stern father is always on the point of "boiling over," and is only reduced to the "simmering" stage by the authority of a Tudor sovereign. Sir George Vernon, the lord of Haddon Hall, has made a contract with the Earl of Rutland, promising to give his daughter Dorothy to the Earl's son, Sir John Manners, on her majority. Sir George, however, changes his mind, and decides to marry the young lady to her cousin, Sir Malcolm Vernon, who, when the play opens, is expected to arrive and claim his lovely bride. But young Sir John presents himself in the character of Sir Malcolm, and woos and wins the young lady; and when the real "Simon Pure" comes he finds himself forestalled. Sir John's life is in danger—the Vernons and the Rutlands are at deadly enmity—but the ready-witted Dorothy conceals him in the Hall, and leads her father to believe that the gallant has got away.

Now it happens that, in addition to his little love-affair, Sir John is concerned—quite innocently of any treason, be it understood—in assisting Mary Queen of Scots to enter England as a suppliant for Elizabeth's mercy; and Mary is, in fact, harbouring at Rutland Castle. Manners is discovered in his hiding-place by the Vernons; but Elizabeth, who happens to be calling at the Hall, agrees to set him free if Dorothy will extract from him the place of Mary's concealment. To save her lover from the rack, Dorothy does this, and then gets through the guards in disguise, and gallops off to Rutland Castle, to warn the Queen of Scots that Elizabeth and her soldiers are coming to capture her. Sir Malcolm, a thorough traitor, is one of Mary's men, and is plotting to put her on the English throne. He arrives in haste at Rutland Castle, and meets Dorothy, disguised as the Scottish Queen. He thus betrays his treason; and when Dorothy discloses her identity, he is inclined to kill her to secure her silence. But the young lady is a practised swordswoman; and in the bout which follows Malcolm gets the worst of it, Elizabeth's party arriving in time to stop the duel, but not to catch the traitor. In the last act, Dorothy cajoles Elizabeth by persuading the vain Queen that Manners is hopelessly smitten by her beauty, and Queen Bess merely sentences Sir John to a year's exile to Rutland Castle, Dorothy running away with him to be married—as per legend.

Miss Dorothy Vernon has a fine, exuberant temper, and a good many funny feminine idiosyncrasies; and the part permits Miss Julia Neilson to storm and scold after the manner of Katharine in The Taming of the Shrew, to display "amorous propensities" in the most winning and amusing way, to tremble with anxiety, to languish with grief, to lament troubles, to defy oppressors, and to fight a stage duel in the most vigorous and energetic way. It is, as we used to say of a Sarah Bernhardt rôle, toute la lyre; and a more effective part in a romantic costume play has seldom been written. Miss Neilson revels in its opportunities, and sends her audience into transports of delight by her versatile and vivacious performance. It is hardly necessary to state that she makes a beautiful picture in the sumptuous dresses of the Tudor period, her orange wig being especially becoming. Mr. Fred Terry's handsome person is finely embellished by the male dress of the time, and he plays Sir John Manners with a manly boldness and an earnest intensity which render the love-making of the "pretty pair" very agreeable to witness. What with Dorothy's caprice and Sir John's masterfulness, there was certainly nothing mawkish about these passages; and what is a romantic play without plenty of good, hearty love-making? Mr. J. Carter-Edwards, with that mellow, distinct delivery of his, his striking personality, and his ripe experience, was the most violent and imperious of sixteenth century sires, and his strong and solid embodiment stood out strongly from the general canvas. Mr. Jerrold Robertshaw in the unthankful character of Sir Malcolm Vernon acted with his usual conscientious care and steady ability; and Mr. J. D. Williams was a dignified Lord Burleigh; Mr. Frederick Groves being entirely efficient as the Earl of Rutland. Mr. Horace Hodges was fortunate in the possession of such a good part as that of Perkin, and played the faithful jester with all the requisite quaint oddity and half-humorous sentiment. Mr. W. A. Haines was satisfactory as an old retainer; and Mr. Walter Edwin merited favourable notice as the Butcher. A performance really remarkable both for its promise and its achievement was Miss Miriam Lewes's Queen Elizabeth. It was an admirable historical study, the famous characteristics of Queen Bess being quite naturally noted, and the whole reading being imbued with a most commendable assumption of regal authority. Miss Lewes's facial play was capital, especially in the scene in which the Queen was flattered by the artful Dorothy. Miss Adeline Bourne played Mary Queen of Scots with just the necessary touch of mournful resignation, and took full advantage of the few opportunities offered to her. Miss Claire Pauncefort was a most imposing Lady Vernon; and Miss Mary Mackenzie was a pleasing representative of Jenny Paxton, Miss Marion Sterling doing useful work as Bess. The whole production, under the direction of Mr. Fred Terry, was liberal and artistic. Mr. R. C. McCleery has supplied a charming view of the exterior of Haddon Hall—with a profusion of flowers and bowers—and two excellent interiors; and Mr. Raymond Roze has written some very suitable incidental and entr'acte music. Dorothy o' the Hall is likely to be one of the most popular productions of the Terry-Neilson régime. Its reception at the New Theatre on Saturday was ardently enthusiastic.

"THE DAIRYMAIDS."

A Farcical Musical Play, in Two Acts and Three Scenes, by A. M. Thompson and Robert Courtneidge, Music by Paul A. Rubens and Frank E. Tours, Lyrics by Paul A. Rubens and Arthur Wimperis, Produced at the Apollo Theatre, on Saturday, April 14.

We almost ought to begin this notice with a description of the acting; for never was a success more attributable to the efforts of individual artists than was the triumph of The Dairymaids at the Apollo Theatre on Saturday last. Yet we must always remember that, putting plot on one side, the comedian or comedienne in a musical play must have "something to go upon"; and the cleverness of Messrs. A. M. Thompson and Robert Courtneidge, the authors of the book, and of Messrs. Paul Rubens, Frank Tours, and Arthur Wimperis, the lyricists and composers, has been shown in the way in which they have supplied the principals of the company at the Apollo with just enough material to suggest, without trammelling, their individual talents. The librettists have avowedly taken their "notion" from Much Ado About Nothing. The Beatrice and the Benedick of the "story" are O'Bryne, a naval doctor, and Lady Brudenell, whose hobby is "running" a model dairy. Two brisk young men, Sam Brudenell and Frank Brudenell, are in love with Peggy and Winifred, young lady pupils at the farm, who, having offended Lady Brudenell, are sent back to school. Thus the exhibition of an "up-to-date" female gymnasium in the second act is accounted for; and to this establishment Sam and Frank obtain admission, disguised as schoolgirls, the good-natured O'Bryne posing as a widower with two "encumbrances." It is obvious that to create a complicated embroglio has not been the intention of the authors, who have safely relied on simple drollery of dialogue and harmless variety of incident. The naval doctor goes into a field in the first act, tries to milk a bull, and returns with his overcoat torn to ribbons; a common sailor—"Oh! the irony of that word," as applied to Joe Mivens!—has a prolonged wrestle with a wheelbarrow, and a violent struggle later on with a punching-ball, besides coming down a flight of stairs in one glide; and the spirit of the whole entertainment is one of easy, artless jollity.

Much of the success of The Dairymaids must be attributed to the very pretty way in which the piece is dressed and mounted. Mr. Conrad Tritschler is responsible for a "truly rural" set for the first act, with a real modern churn, real hay, and real pigeons; and there is a novel and charming spectacle in the second act, where, after a cleverly-managed quick-change from an officer's mess-room on board a man-o'-war to the female gymnasium above-mentioned, we are allowed to see the young ladies, in becoming light blue suits, doing their Indian clubs and dumb-bell exercises. The hit of the evening was scored by Mr. Dan Rolyat, who has certainly come, been seen by, and conquered a London audience. Mr. Rolyat has a style of his own—a quiet, "pawky" way of making his points, a meek, sleek smile, and a side-long appealing glance, which, combined, prove irresistible. He is, besides, an expert acrobat; and the easy, natural way in which he "throws himself about" creates roars of laughter. The cast includes that delightful comedian, Mr. Walter Passmore. Ludicrous in the extreme is Mr. Passmore's appearance in the second act, attired as an old-fashioned girl with red hair and gold spectacles. There is nothing in the least forced or vulgar about Mr. Passmore's "female impersonation"; and from first to last his performance is in the purest vein of light comedy. His treatment of the ditty, "Dover Street"—a playful satire on a well-known ladies' club—is the acme of dainty drollery. When Mr. Rolyat and Mr. Passmore get together, as they do in a burlesque duet, "Poaching," the result is most comical. Their fooling is the extreme of the absurd, the alert, and the extravagant. Then there is Miss Phyllis Broughton, reviving many pleasant memories as Lady Brudenell, and playing the part with all the necessary aplomb and style; and Mr. Frank Greene, who acts ably as Captain Fred Leverton, and pleases all ears by his agreeable rendering of the song "Dreamland" in the last act. Mr. Ambrose Manning's Dr. O'Bryne is an excellent portraiture of an essentially good-natured Irishman. It exudes amiability at every pore; and is a most hearty and humorous impersonation. Mr. Horace Lane does excellent work as Frank Brudenell, employing ease, activity, and ability. Miss Carrie Moore, radiant with cheerfulness, sly, smiling, and seductive, quick, comely, and clever, wins all hearts as Peggy. Her great hit is made in the song, "The Sandow Girl." Here Miss Moore appears in the light and clinging attire of a female athlete, made familiar by a well-known "poster," and is supported by a quartette of tall lasses, similarly attired. The Dairymaids will chiefly be remembered by this song and its accessories. Miss Agnes Fraser is a bewitching Winifred; and she gets every ounce of possible archness and effect out of a "Little Stranger" ditty, in ridicule of various contemporary precocities. Miss Florence Smithson is the most innocent and imperturbable of ingénues, and well deserves the encore she obtains for a really well-written song, "The Thrush," one of the gems of the score. Miss Smithson sings it very sweetly, showing thorough command of a very agreeable voice. She is equally successful with another of Mr. Tours's compositions, a very pretty number, with the title, "Love among the Daisies." Miss Carlotta Zerbini is irreproachable as the schoolmistress; and that droll and original artist, Miss Gracie Leigh, is cleverly characteristic as Eliza, and brings down the house by her dainty and expert step-dancing. She is well suited with the amusing song, "Mary of the Dairy," and with another of the same character called "Grambles." What a mere description of The Dairymaids must fail to do justice to is the spirit of grace, beauty, and harmless fun which pervades the piece. Dialogue, music, and performers are in the same key of prettiness and pleasantry. A sweet note of rustic freshness is struck in the first act; and a delicate tone of simplicity is secured in the second by the boarding-school business. From first to last, there is not a harsh note or an unsavoury suggestion to be thankful for. To Mr. Wilhelm must be allotted credit for the designs of the costumes; and Mr. Harry Grattan has arranged the dances very nicely and neatly. Mr. Arthur Wood's orchestra is well under the control of his practised bâton; and Mr. Robert Courtneidge's superintendence of the production quite accounts for its completeness. The Dairymaids adds one more to the list of recently-presented musical-play successes.

"MARKHEIM."

A Play in One Act, Adapted from a Story of Robert Louis Stevenson, by W. L. Courtney, Produced at the Lyric Theatre, on Saturday afternoon, April 14.

Markheim ..... Mr. H. B. Irving
A Dealer ..... Mr. D. McCarthy
A Servant Girl ..... Miss Eileen Munro
A Spirit ..... Mr. Leslie Faber

It is a somewhat gruesome "notion" that Mr. Courtney has borrowed from Stevenson. But the adaptor has certainly done justice to the work of the original author, for his one-act play, Markheim, is extremely well written and well constructed. Markheim is one of the world's gamblers. He has become more than that, for into his spirit of gambling has crept the spirit of criminality. He has not been content with merely spending his own money in the most prodigal fashion—he must needs steal valuable curios from his uncle's collection in order to raise money to gratify his passion. These treasures he disposes of to a dealer, a doddering old miser who keeps a curiosity shop. It is Christmas Day, and the dealer has just permitted his servant a grant of absence to see her sweetheart. A few minutes after the girl goes out, a knock is heard at the door, and Markheim is admitted. The dealer anticipates that Markheim has brought some special objet d'art to dispose of, but the latter assures him that his uncle's cabinet is bare to the wainscot, that he has not come to sell but to buy, and that he wishes a Christmas present for a lady. Is a rich marriage a thing to be neglected? The dealer unlocks a drawer, and produces a fifteenth-century hand-mirror. While he is getting it, Markheim swiftly and silently steps behind him with raised hand. His intention is obvious—but for the moment he lacks the determination to carry it out. The hand-mirror will not do. Then, in somewhat strange fashion, Markheim enters into the history of the business transactions which have passed between the two men. He suggests that each take the other into his confidence. A dishonest enterprise is hinted at. The dealer will have none of it, and says Markheim must either make his purchase or walk out of the shop. The dealer goes to select another article; but while his body is bent over a drawer he is stabbed in the back by Markheim, and falls to the ground dead. Markheim is terrified. He sees hideous ghosts in the old portraits, in the china gods, in the chance reflections in the mirrors. And ever and anon, as he is ransacking the chests and drawers, some fresh apprehension thrills and unmans him. He turns his attention to an iron-bound box, and is in the act of unlocking it when the door opens noiselessly, and a shrouded figure glides into the room. It is the Spirit of Right and Wrong. It taunts him with not having found as much money as he anticipated, but proposes to tell him where a hidden hoard can be found. Markheim disdains the offer, and then the Spirit tempts him further. Will not the same dexterity that has rid him of the dealer also relieve him of the last danger in his path—the servant girl? Then he will have the whole night in which to ransack the treasure-house and make good his safety. And yet, in the next breath, the Spirit mercilessly warns him that even further wrong can only afford a temporary relief. Still Markheim refuses to adopt the suggested means of escape. He will meet the fate he has merited by the murder. The Spirit vanishes, a smile of hope and joy and peace illuminating its countenance. For Markheim the night of evil is past. He is about to see the dawn of a better life, even though that life can only be entered into through the gates of death. Some loud raps are heard at the door. Markheim opens it, and admits the servant girl. "You had better go for the police," he tells her. "I have killed your master."

Mr. H. B. Irving gave an intellectual and realistic portrayal of the inner working of a murderer's mind. The look of horror which followed the dealing of the miser's death-blow, the sensation of terror as he imagines he sees witnesses of his deed in the old family portraits, in the bric-à-brac, even in the mirrored reflection of his own face, and the way in which he regarded the bloodstained figure on the floor with a feeling of physical repulsion, made a striking and expressive dramatic picture. It was an awesome and thrilling performance, and one not easily to be forgotten. Mr. D. McCarthy submitted an admirable character-study of the aged dealer, the shuffling movements of the old man and his weak, croaking voice, being well sustained. As the ghostly visitant, Mr. Leslie Faber was very impressive, his lines being delivered in a quiet, unassuming, but none the less effective manner. Miss Eileen Munro had little to do as the servant, but did that little well.

The Paris Folies-Dramatiques have not been fortunate with La Troupe Chambertin, their new farce. It is a very poor production, for which M. Paul Delarey is responsible. The Mayor in a small town in the South is annoyed because so many ladies within his jurisdiction deceive their husbands. He fancies it is because they have not sufficient amusements, and he therefore turns the old market into a theatre, and engages a good company to perform there nightly. But things become much worse, for the respectable citizens now make love to the actresses, and their wives lose their hearts to the actors. The piece is not likely to have anything of a run.

The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd., have decided to return to drama at their Dewsbury house. It will be presented on the two-houses-a-night system, beginning on Monday, with Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's No. 1 company in East Lynne.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA. 1850—1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

OPERA HOUSE, CROUCH END.

On Monday, April 16,
the Play in Four Acts, entitled
"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

As a special attraction for the Easter holidays, Mr. Samuel James engaged Mr. William Calvert, Miss Clara Cowper, and a powerful company, to present The Merchant of Venice. The whole forms an excellent combination, and the play is given in a highly commendable fashion. Mr. Wm. Calvert was admirable as Shylock. He ably depicted the burning hatred and implacable revenge of the wealthy Jew, and was especially strong in the highly dramatic parts of the play. Mr. C. F. Collings was well suited as Bassanio. Combined with grace and elegance, he possesses a fine presence. Mr. J. H. Manley was highly successful as the sorely-tried Antonio. Mr. J. E. Manning as the Duke of Venice made a dignified judge in the trial scene; Mr. Bert Morley as Lorenzo was a manly and interesting lover, and was ably seconded by Miss Sylvia Morris, who as Jessica was bright and charming. Mr. A. P. Kaye, a great favourite at this theatre, was very successful as Launcelot Gobbo, and his acting provided an excellent bit of low comedy. As old Gobbo, Mr. Stockall Ward was very good. His character-study of an old man was realistic. The Portia of Miss Clara Cowper was an able and sterling performance. Her lines were rendered with great care, yet nothing of the charm with which the author has endowed them was lost in the delivery. In the trial scene her rendering of the "quality of mercy" speech left nothing to be desired. Miss Ina Austen was excellent as Nerissa, and enacted the part of the Clerk in the last scene in a very satisfactory manner. Mr. Harry Hiller as Solanio, Mr. F. Castleman as Salarino, and Mr. Edwin Wilde as Gratiano, were all satisfactory in their respective parts; and the same remark applies to the Tubal of Mr. George Freeman, and the Balthazar of Mr. Joseph Lewis. The whole of the original music was specially composed by Mr. Frank Bradsell, the able musical-director of the theatre, and the production reflects the greatest credit on the popular acting-manager, Mr. R. Eldrid.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, April 16, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"THE SPRING CHICKEN."

Appropriately enough, the Easter Monday fare provided at the commodious Borough Theatre was a visit from that ever-juvenile fledgling The Spring Chicken, who has gaily fluttered into Stratford at a season when the "egg theory" is of absorbing interest. With the mounting and dressing on the high standard usually associated with the companies under the régime of Mr. George Edwardes, and the addition of fresh numbers, new "business," and scenic embellishments, there is no wonder that the piece is nightly attracting crowded audiences. Mr. George Gregory's performance as Mr. Girdle is one of the best things this clever comedian has given us, and his evanescent humour and untiring energy in the part add immeasurably to the success of the piece. Mr. L. W. Harris appears to revel in the part of the immaculate Babori, and his smart songs and agile dancing win unstinted applause. Mr. Fred Leslie, jun., plays in bright and exhilarating style as Boniface, and a capital performance as Baron Papouche comes from Mr. Frank Hector. Mr. C. D. Cleveland cleverly impersonates the head-waiter Felix, and Mr. E. G. Woodhouse lends valuable aid as the proprietor of the Crimson Butterfly. Miss Gertrude Glynn acts and sings with much vivacity and charm as Rosilie, and quickly becomes a general favourite. Miss Rita Everard is a dainty and bewitching Dulcie Babori, and her songs, "O, so gently," and "The Game of Love" are delivered with much piquancy and verve; but all too little is seen of her admirable dancing. Miss Irene Verong, in the broad comedy part of Mrs. Girdle, is immensely successful, and her songs—particularly "Regent-street"—go wonderfully well. Miss Gertrude Gilliam contributes a delightful performance as Baroness Papouche, and sings very pleasingly. Miss Amy Bingham is excellent as La Modiste; and Miss Jennie McNulty and Miss Beatrice Dunbar play with entire success as clients of Babori. Emmy Lou and Stephen Henry are appropriately played by Miss Nellie Lonnen and Mr. Nelson Keys; and Miss Queenie Hill, Miss Edith Denton, Miss Dore Dent, Miss Emilie Honsley, and Miss E. Dawsley are well suited in minor rôles. Mr. Clarence Lucas skilfully directs the augmented orchestra; and Mr. W. Hesseltine is Mr. George Edwardes's courteous acting manager.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, April 16,
"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

Les Cloches de Corneville may well be called the musical Charley's Aunt. It has been played by Mr. E. St. Alban's company over 4000 times, and is likely to run another 4000 times if the performance is kept up to the present high standard. As Germaine Miss Marion Ayling took all hearts by storm with her sweet singing and charming appearance, a special encore of her song "Ding, Dong, Bell," being required. Mr. George Fox played the Marquis Henri in a creditable manner, his duets with Germaine being very successful. Mr. William Everard deserves warm commendation for the thorough way in which he acted and sang as Greenicheaux. The humour of the piece was ably sustained by Mr. Fred Dark the bailie, who won ready laughter; and Mr. Richard Martin as Gobo was capital. Mr. St. Alban's Gaspard was a very realistic piece of work, and was greatly appreciated. Miss May Bradbury was a breezy and jolly Serpolette, her singing being often encored; and the chorus worked hard under the bâton of Chevalier Legrand, who had the excellent orchestra well in hand.

"The Era" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. John Fitzmaurice, which took place at the City Hospital, Limerick, on the 10th inst., after a brief illness. Deceased was only thirty-three years of age, and had spent a number of years as stage-carpenter, under the Robert Fogerty management, and in the course of a long and faithful service became a popular and universal favourite with the companies on the road. His funeral, which took place on the 12th inst., was attended by a large and representative gathering, wreaths being received from the following:—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fogerty and family, the staff of the Theatre Royal, Mrs. Hewson and family, the Glee Club, and Mrs. Fitzmaurice. Several local amateur companies marched in processional order to Mount St. Laurence's Cemetery, where the interment took place.

Mr. Poland, who was master carpenter at the Lyceum, has joined the staff at the Coliseum as assistant stage carpenter. Mr. G. Armstrong, who held that position, is leaving to return to Dublin.

Mr. J. White, of the Empire, Dublin, and coach to the famous Empire tug-of-war team, spent the Easter Holidays in town. Mr. White says he hopes to be present at the theatrical sports, but is in doubt whether the Empire team will compete this year.

Mr. Woolcott, who was recently master carpenter with one of Mr. Frohman's touring companies, is in charge of the stage department at the Apollo. Mr. Vallis is the property master, and Mr. Godfrey retains his position of electrician under the new management.

It goes without saying that there are many members of the working staff attached to the theatres throughout the country who would like to contribute to the "Ellen Terry Jubilee Celebration Fund," and no doubt the various branches and societies with which the working staff are connected will take steps to provide facilities for the members of the working staff to take part in this celebration.

The following is a list of the events for the theatrical sports on Whit-Tuesday:—(1) 100 yards running handicap; (2) 100 yards veterans' running handicap (for men over fifty years of age); (3) Quarter-mile runing handicap; (4) Half-mile running handicap; (5) One mile running handicap; (6) 50 yards blindfold race; (7) Quarter-mile obstacle race; (8) 120 yards obstacle sack race; (9) Four lap relay race (open to teams of three men from any theatre or music hall, one to run, one to walk, and one to cycle, for a silver Championship Cup presented by Mr. C. A. Smith. Holders, the Drury Lane Theatre team); (10) 80 yards hopping championship (for silver Challenge Cup. Holder, Mr. G. Harold); (11) One mile walking handicap; (12) Half-mile cycling handicap; (13) One mile cycling handicap; (14) Five mile cycling championship (for the Championship Shield presented by Sir Thomas Dewar, to be won three times in succession. Holder, E. Dawson, who has won on two occasion); (15) Tug-of-war competition (open to teams of five men from any theatre or music hall, limited to 60st., maximum weight of team. One reserve man allowed. For Championship trophy and gold medals); (16) 100 yards race for girls under fourteen years of age (daughters of those eligible to compete at the sports); (17) 50 yards boot race; (18) 100 yards consolation race for those who have not won a prize in other events.

The Sports Committee have decided that the sports shall be open, as last year; but, with regard to the tug-of-war competition, they have fixed a limit to the weight of a team, in order that the teams may compete under more equal terms than has previously been the case. The Dublin team which competed last year exceeded the maximum fixed by about 20st., and if that team decides to compete this year some of the London teams will have a fair chance of defeating these redoubtable Irishmen.

Entry forms for the sports may be obtained from the hon. secretary at 29, Wellington-street, Strand.

SORE THROAT OR HOARSENESS
CURED IN A FEW HOURS.
Sir Morell Mackenzie, M.D., the Eminent Throat Specialist, constantly recommended Condy's Remedial Fluid to be diluted and used as a Gargle for speedily curing Sore Throat or Hoarseness.
Dr. Walford Harris, in his book entitled "The Throat and its Treatment," says: "I have found the 'Condy' and cold water gargle excellent, many cases being cured immediately."
The late Mr. Sims Reeves, the world-famed Tenor Vocalist, wrote: "'Condy' used as a Gargle clears the voice and braces up the uvula."
Condy's Remedial Fluid, sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. Caution.—Insist on having "Condy's."

HOCKEY.

"UGLIEST WOMAN ON EARTH" CO. v. "WHEN WOMAN HATES" CO.

A match was played at Castleford on Thursday, March 29, and won by the "Uglies" by eight goals (Edlin 6, Cross 1, Edwards 1) to nil. Teams:—

"Uglies": — Rita Milman, Nellie Jackson, Beatrice Homer, Margaret Watson, Philip Darien, Leyton Cancellor, Allan Davenport, Claude Wallis, Jack Edwards, William Wallace, Tubby Edlin.

"When Woman Hates": — Mabel Mannering, Maude Townsend, Dorothy Lupone, Eleanor Papera, Jerrold Heather, Alfred Granville, Charles Herberte, Frank Litchfield, Chas. Hughes, R. F. Symons, Millar Anderson.

For the winners, Mr. Darien was prominent, and on the losing side Miss Mannering distinguished herself.

On Friday the "Uglies" played an eleven of Leeds and District, when two goals were scored on each side. For Melville's Eleven, Messrs. Darien and Edlin scored. The actors had hard lines in not winning outright.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.

BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.

Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.
Chapter I.
COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
Chapter IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.
INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.
"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as the "Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters, respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr. J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr. Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise, it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr. A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman.

SHOWMEN AND SELFISHNESS.

The extraordinary eagerness with which people will rush into print when influenced by class feeling and prejudice was exemplified last week in the letter of a correspondent, who, writing to a London "daily," stated that this year, for the first time, the London County Council had given permission to the showmen who visited Hampstead Heath on Bank Holiday to bring their vans and camp for nearly half a week on the Heath. The gathering was described by the writer as "vulgar" and the enjoyment of the masses as "roisterings." The correspondent then went on to say that Hampstead was thronged by holiday-makers during parts of four weeks in each year, and that the result of the Council's new regulation would be to consecrate a large portion of the open space available to the noisiest and least desirable of the holiday-makers of London. Then the writer drew a touching picture of "tired workers" travelling to the Heath in search of a "semblance of country conditions, trees, flowers, and grass, and a free space on which the youngsters could frolic," and finding themselves forestalled by the ever-encroaching colony of showmen, whose army, it was stated, had "brought its heavy vans and cumbrous and ugly paraphernalia, and had beaten down every living thing upon a large portion of the Heath." "London," it was added, "was being robbed of a place of natural beauty"; the Heath was being "desecrated"; and when the showmen departed they would leave behind them desolation in the place of an unique piece of open country.

The statements in the above communication were less offensive than absurd. The writer had evidently no geographical instinct whatever. From the eastern to the western extremity of Hampstead Heath is over a mile and a half. The place occupied by the shows is a narrow strip on the side of East Heath-road and a spot on the north of the Vale of Health. There is also a large show, a menagerie, in the hollow by the side of the stream running from the Vale of Health pond to the Hampstead ponds.

The rest of the Heath—the whole space between the Hampstead Ponds and the Highgate Ponds, including Parliament Hill, the beautiful slope west of the Spaniards Road, and the pretty garden at Golder's Hill—is absolutely unaffected by the presence of the show-folk. If every blade of grass were worn away on their "pitches" it would not affect the enjoyment of a single Sunday visitor. On Bank Holiday you could walk from the Gospel Oak end of the Heath, over the hill, and down to the Hampstead Ponds without the existence of the fair being forcibly thrust upon your senses. The shows were a mere spot on the large expanse of the Heath; and nothing was easier to avoid them if you desired to do so by simply passing to the north or south of the Vale of Health.

It is sad to see the selfishness of people who, possessed of leisure and competence, grudge the hard-working masses their few opportunities of relaxation. "The same things change their names at such a rate," as BYRON wrote in his day. We were walking out on Bank Holiday with a cultured companion, and stopped to watch a couple of factory-girls dancing a "jig" on the pavement. Our ultra-refined friend was disgusted, and was still more scandalised when we pointed out to him the moderation of the girls' movements compared with those of himself and his lively partner in a "cake-walk" at a smart dance last season. Swings and merry-go-rounds are not intellectual enjoyments; indeed, they are about on a par with motoring, the pleasure in which consists simply in rapid movement through the air. As for shooting galleries, is not Lord ROBERTS vainly endeavouring to infect the middle and upper classes with exactly the same instinct which leads the mechanic on Hampstead Heath to put down his pennies? It is not, however, a question of the intrinsic merit of the recreations of the masses. They are the best judges of what suits them, and the showmen merely supply the demand of the public. Their shrewdness is proved by their success. On Bank Holiday the weather and arrangements could only be described as "ideal." It was a perfect realisation of the Fair in Faust. There was room for everyone, and there were enjoyments for all tastes. Children of different growths were delightedly revolving astride of wooden steeds; the crack of the saloon-rifle and the bang of the aimed balls rang out merrily; feats of strength were performed with mallets and punching apparatus; and the lover handed to his lass a trinket won by the skilful casting of rings over uprights. The writer of the letter speaks of these shows as catering for the "lowest public taste." We could only wish that these were the lowest, and then Society would be a great deal more healthy and wholesome than it is at present. We never saw so much harmless enjoyment to the square yard as we did at Hampstead Heath on Bank Holiday.

As our readers are aware, the only difference in the regulations of the County Council this year and last was that this year—as was the custom previous to 1905—the living vans have been allowed to accompany the shows. Up to last year this had been permitted, and the prohibition caused so much inconvenience that a deputation from the Committee of the Showmens' Guild, headed by Lord GEORGE SANGER, waited upon the Parks Committee of the County Council, who were so much impressed by the arguments used that they rescinded their prohibition of the presence of living-vans. In any case, the addition of the vans to the assembly on the Heath could not make any difference in the damage done or the "vulgarity" of the amusements which delighted the holiday-makers.

Ignorance and prejudice are apt to go together, and we are not surprised that the class feeling of the writer of the letter was combined with a pitiful lack of information. It is not, however, by such as he, or by statements such as his, that these and similar matters will be settled in the time that is at hand. The old hide-bound egotisms, the finicking gentilities, the mean selfishness, and the want of human sympathy which have divided class from class in the past are fast giving way to better and broader views; and such people as the writer of the letter are decidedly in the minority.

One of the traditional favourites of the French drama is Pierrot, the sweet, affectionate-foolish fellow in the white smock and skull-cap, a delicate mixture of harmlessness and pathos. It is as Pierrot, travestied as the Count Gabriel Honoré de Beauséjour, that Mr. Harry Fragson is appearing at the Royalty Theatre in Castles in Spain. We accept the personage fancifully, not seriously. A Count who keeps some dozen of attendants and domestics in his suite, dresses to the dernier cri of elegance, never pays a tradesman's bill, cannot do a "dirty" trick, and sentimentalises perseveringly is obviously unreal and poetic. It is, indeed, the fantasy of Mr. Fragson's performance that is its greatest charm. It is entirely original, quaint, and eccentric, especially in the attire, which is extraordinary. Count Gabriel is apparently not quite "right in his head." He composes choruses which he has sung to him by his servants, and he lives entirely on credit, while endeavouring to get a tragedy accepted by theatrical managers. He has tried many ways of making a fortune, and his "castles in Spain" have been numerous. While he is on "his last legs," he is visited by Violet Stanford, a young American girl to whom he has recently paid attention at Monte Carlo. She has escaped from the convent in which she was placed by her father, an American diplomatist, and comes in her innocence—which is astounding—to stay with de Beauséjour at his flat in St. James's-street. This the chivalrous gentleman will by no means allow; and when the parent arrives on other business, and discovers his daughter, there is trouble. It ends in Paul P. Stanford taking his child away with him en route for Madrid, and in de Beauséjour being commissioned by a swindler named Terraro to obtain certain compromising letters which have been written to a popular Madrid opera-singer by the son of an American magnate. Stanford has come to Europe to obtain these epistles; and Terraro, who calls himself a Count and a friend of the King of Spain, has promised to procure them from La Chiquita and pass them to the American. Thus we get the principals to Madrid in the second act. La Chiquita falls in love with de Beauséjour, gives him the letters, and excites the jealousy of Violet, who has given her heart to the chivalrous, if crack-brained, Count. However, the misunderstanding is easily cleared up; and, by handing Stanford the precious documents, de Beauséjour wins the American's gratitude and his consent to the Count's marriage with Violet, Terraro when detected making himself scarce.

Mr. Fragson, whether acting, vocalising, or composing, is always an artist. As the score of Castles in Spain includes the principal numbers from La Gran Via—presumably a Spanish opera—one is ignorant to what extent go Mr. Fragson's contributions to the music; but perhaps we shall be right in attributing to him the air of a very amusing song in the first act, in which the attempts of a beginner to get a play accepted by a London manager are described. This Mr. Fragson renders with remarkable neatness and point, sending the house into roars of laughter. Mr. Fragson has other numbers to his share, notably some sentimental ones, which he treats with the peculiar delicacy which is the great charm of his style. He has a delightful associate in Miss May de Sousa, who is the essence of affectionate ingenuousness as Violet, and acts with an innocent abandon which is quite delightful. Her tact and talent are shown in her treatment of a song entitled "I am thinking," and another equally effective entitled "Love's Fairyland." She joins with Mr. Fragson in two very agreeable and neatly-written duets, "Frou Frou" and "The Cherry," both of which are warmly applauded. Mr. Johnny Danvers's impersonation of the American diplomatist is excellent all through, and he had a very "taking" Yankee Doodle ditty in the second act, which, with its nimble dance, brings down the house. Mr. Ivo Dawson looks the Spanish Swindler admirably well, and the way in which he rattles off the verses of a very "snappy" song in the first act wins for him a well-deserved encore. Mr. Hubert Willis as Jenkins supplies a dryly humorous embodiment of the faithful servant, and sings about "Visions of home" with a clear distinctness and firm point-making which are very acceptable. Miss Mabel Nelson makes a magnificently handsome La Chiquita, and puts a vast amount of fire and feeling into her delineation of the singer's passionate impulses. Her performance is dramatic, direct, and expressive, and she sings a Spanish song capitally. Messrs. Espinosa, Francis Howard, and Roger Alwyn deserve warm praise for the eccentric oddity of their antics as the three subordinate scamps; and Senorita Lola Bernal does some characteristic dances in the second act in the real Iberian style and spirit. Miss Ethel James, Miss Kitty Lindley, and Miss Irma de Langlois make a prepossessing trio of Spanish girls; and Miss Maud Millais is seen to marked advantage as Manuela, Mr. Thornton Wynne being efficient as Charles.

Castles in Spain is remarkably well "put on." The scenery, by Emile Bertin and Smee and Corbay, is bright and pretty, the set for the second act, with its creeping roses and old-fashioned architecture, being especially picturesque. The costumes, designed by Comelli, are very artistic and effective; and a change from darkness to dawn is very adroitly managed. The whole production is bright, active, and stimulating; and every detail is worked out in the most thorough and finished manner. Perhaps there was even an embarras de richesses in the second act, which was not concluded till past the usual hour; but this is a fault which can easily be removed, and then Castles in Spain will appeal with strength to those who like a vivacious, various, agreeable, and amusing entertainment, free from offence, full of movement, and embellished with a profusion of attractions—personal, pictorial, musical, and comic.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, APRIL 19.—The Palais-Royal has given us a new vaudeville by MM. Nancey and Armont. It is called Le Trèfle à quatre Feuilles ("The Four-leaf Clover"), the trade mark of Montmirail, a sardine exporter. At curtain-rise we see M. Lechably, a notary, and his wife receiving their friends, who have come to help to celebrate Madame's birthday. We meet there a M. Muveran, another notary, his wife, and a cousin called Edouard, an idiotic young millionaire with the strange mania for disguising himself as a valet, and running people's errands. The last comer is Montmirail, the sardine man. He does not bring any congratulations; his mission is a more delicate one. He has journeyed to Paris to warn his friend Lechably that Mme. Lechably intends to run off the rails. Many years ago Lechably rendered him the same service, and he is now anxious to show his gratitude. Mme. Lechably, however, has no intention whatever to betray her husband, and Montmirail would have done much better to have remained in Nantes. But he has come to save, as he thinks, his friend, and starts bungling things in a manner that cannot be imagined. Lechably's house is turned upside down. It is invaded by a crowd of unknown persons, among whom are several cocottes. The irrepressible Police Commissary makes his appearance, and we are beginning to doubt whether the authors will ever be able to extricate themselves from the imbroglio. But somehow or other they manage it, and the tom-foolery ends in a general reconciliation. This rather broad farce was fairly well interpreted by the Palais-Royal company.

THE Théâtre de L'Œuvre has also produced several new pieces, among which M. Alfred Savoir's three-act play, Le Troisième Couvert, is the most important. The author could hardly have chosen a more repulsive subject; and, although they made no demonstration, the audience were visibly shocked. The story is as follows. Gabriel, a Government clerk, is the husband of Jeanne. They live in a small provincial town, and Gabriel is anxious to be invited at the house of the Sous-Prefet, where he hopes to meet the chief of his department, who can assist him to advancement. What, however, he does not know is that this very chief is his wife's lover, and the father of the third child she (Jeanne) is expecting. The chief is a callous scoundrel. He knows that Jeanne is poor; yet he refuses to do anything to help her in her present trouble. And when Gabriel learns that he is to expect an increase in his family he is mad with rage and—surprise. He accuses his wife, he accuses himself, and finally declares that he cannot afford this extra encumbrance. In a scene so painful as to defy description he gives his wife to understand that she will have to take the necessary steps to prevent them from incurring this extra expense. Jeanne gives a shriek of horror, and flatly refuses to lend herself to such a manœuvre The child is born, and grows up; but Jeanne has taken an inveterate dislike to the little boy, the cause of all this trouble. She ill-treats him in every possible way until the boy, then about ten years old, commits suicide. The wretched parents are arrested, and Gabriel is almost glad when he is taken to prison, where at last he hopes to find rest. As to Jeanne, she is mad with grief, hatred, and remorse. The author takes care to show us that it is the constant want of money that has demoralised these people. We see them sink lower, until they are led into crime. It is a horrible play, but well written, and it was capitally interpreted.

ALEXANDRA DAGMAR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—We are instructed by our client, Miss Alexandra Dagmar, to ask you to allow us to deny in the columns of your newspaper some very serious allegations that have been made against her by a certain newspaper.

It is alleged by the newspaper in question that Miss Alexandra Dagmar was associated with a troupe which was taken to Calcutta and stranded there, and by misleading representations she withdrew from Messrs. Cook and Son a sum of £700 which had been deposited to bring home the troupe to England.

Now Miss Alexandra Dagmar has never been in India, and has had nothing whatsoever to do with any troupe sent there. She never withdrew from Messrs. Cook £700 or any sum whatever, and the whole thing is a complete fabrication so far as she is concerned.

If the slightest inquiry had been made by the proprietor of the newspaper in question he could have ascertained easily that Miss Alexandra Dagmar had nothing whatever to do with the matters in question.

We need hardly point out the great damage which may be done to our client by these defamatory statements, and we are instructed to take the necessary steps to obtain damages against the proprietor of the newspaper in question. Meanwhile we shall be glad if you will allow us to deny in your important journal these charges in the most strenuous manner possible.—We are, Sir, yours obediently,

GIBBS, WHITE, AND STRONG.
4, Eastcheap, London, E.C., April 19.

SINGERS appear and disappear, concerts are given and forgotten, and the number of teachers is legion; but Madame Kate Flinn can afford to smile at them all. Her enthusiasm, delight in her work that is always fresh, originality, perfect diction, and finished style—in one word, her personality—is the open secret of her great success. She loves her profession, and is a born teacher, quick to appreciate the possibilities of a big voice, and unfailingly optimistic in the development of a small one; and her pupils are to be found among the most promising girls on the stage. Miss Lucy Webling is the latest name on her list, which includes Miss Hilda Trevelyan, Miss Coralie Blythe, and many other well-known artists. We are glad to hear that Madame Flinn intends to give a morning concert at Steinway Hall, on May 15. Her programme is still to be arranged, but there is every probability that such popular "attractions" as Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Mrs. Clement Scott, and Mr. Louis Bradfield will not be lacking. Madame Flinn will herself sing, and she hopes to introduce four new pupils, all to be named as promising, and one in particular, who possesses a beautiful contralto voice, of whom the gifted teacher expects great things.

IT is needless to say that Madame Flinn, in the course of her many experiences, has met with amusing and strange would-be pupils. She is the soul of good nature, but her temper was sorely tried when a certain lady came for a voice trial, and commenced the interview by giving a list of teachers with whom she had studied in England and abroad. Interested and hopeful, Madame Flinn played the symphony of a little French song, and the lady sang the first two lines—on the same note! Madame Flinn turned and stared at her, surprised at what she considered a foolish little joke. The singer, however, was perfectly serious. She had positively no ear at all, and it was half an hour before she consented to go, strongly protesting against the opinion she had frankly asked to have. The same lady, six months later, again made her appearance at the popular teacher's house, but her indignation had given place to a wild desire to take more lessons. Madame Flinn knew it was hopeless—she would never be able to sing—and the persistent lady's lamentations were just as loud and lengthy as her rage and expressions of amazement had been on the previous occasion.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

JOHANNESBURG.—MARCH 17.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE (Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. B. and F. Wheeler).—Messrs. B. and F. Wheeler are to be congratulated on their latest presentation to the above theatre, when on Monday, the 12th inst., they presented the D'Oyly Carte Répertoire Company in Gilbert and Sullivan's delightful opera, The Gondoliers. Mr. C. H. Workman as the Duke of Plaza Toro was superb. His solos were finely rendered, and his powers as a comedian were heartily appreciated. Mr. Leicester Tunks was an excellent Luiz; and Mr. Fred Billington made a humorous but quaintly unconventional Grand Inquisitor. Mr. Pacie Ripple as Marco is the proud possessor of a beautiful tenor voice, which he used to advantage in his song, "Take a pair of sparkling eyes," which elicited great applause; and in Mr. Albert Kavanagh as Giuseppe the company possesses a baritone of exceptional merit, whose clever acting was heartily appreciated. Mr. Fred Drawater (Antonio), Mr. S. Moss (Francesco), Mr. J. L. Campion (Georgio), and Mr. R. Whyte (Ambardo), all acted and sang admirably. It would be difficult to speak too highly of Miss Jessie Rose (Teresa). Her dancing was perfect, and her voice and elocution, combined with her dainty and winsome appearance, scored an instantaneous success. Miss Nancy Fryne as Gianetta possesses a fine soprano voice which she used to advantage. Miss Therese Rassam as the Duchess acted and sang the part excellently; and Miss Mabel Graham as Casilda sustained her part well.

STANDARD THEATRE (Sole Lessee, Mr. James Nelson; Business Manager, Mr. Pierre Cohen).—On Friday, March 9, Mr. James Nelson, so long associated with Mr. Edward Sass, opened the above pretty little house of entertainment with his first American musical comedy company. The first production, The Prince of Pilsen, may be described as a pronounced success. Mr. W. H. Sloan as the Cincinnati brewer presents a most amusing study. His quaint stump-speeches are irresistibly funny, and his whole rendering of the part is one of the drollest Johannesburg has seen for some time. Mr. A. B. Francis in the immaculate attire of Artie, of London, proved himself to be a capable comedian; Mr. C. O'Connor, a quaint character actor and an eccentric dancer, scored heavily as Francois the concierge; Mr. Charles Flynn as Lieutenant Wagner achieved a great success; and Mr. Joseph Roye as Carl Otto, Prince of Pilsen, has a good baritone voice, which is heard to distinct advantage. Miss Eleanor Kent, the prima donna of the company, played the widow. She is a charming actress, and sang with culture and refined taste. Miss Kathleen Clifford made a dainty and vivacious Sidonie. Miss Alice Benton as Edith Adams possesses a lovely contralto voice; and Miss Louise de Salle was exceptionally good in the part of bell boy The dancing of Miss Grace Nile, Miss Maude Connor, and Miss Jeane Raymond, illustrating the various national dances in the song, "The Cities," was exceedingly good.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES (Lessees, The Empire Palace, S.A., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Edgar Hyman).—The new company which was introduced to the large and enthusiatic audience on Monday, the 12th inst., at the above handsome theatre of varieties, included several excellent star turns. Chief amongst the new artists are Pierce and Maizie, American burlesque artists, who are the fortunate possessors of excellent voices. Their turn consists of typically American songs and dances. The lady, Maizie, is pleasing in her quick changes of costumes, besides which she is an exceedingly clever and agile dancer. Another notable turn was the famous Miss Alice Lloyd, burlesque artist, who scored an instantaneous success. She wears some dainty dresses, and her songs are piquant and artistically rendered. Another quaint turn is provided by Mooney and Holbein, who gave a decidedly new and quaint exhibition of grotesque dancing and high kicking extraordinary, the lady singing several songs in excellent style. Miss Georgina Preston scored an immense success with her song, "There is summer in two young lives." The Strolling Players continue to amuse with their ludicrous turn, the ventriloquial entertainment introduced by these perfect artists creating quite a furore. The Bros. Horne and Miss Effie Stuart give their sketch, London Life. They are both clever and mirth-provoking. The Brothers de Wynne present a unique head and hand balancing act, and their billiard-room feats cause immense astonishment. Miss May Evans sings several coster songs in a taking style; and Mr. Walter Emerson, comedian, and the bioscope, under the direction of Mr. Pym, conclude a programme of all-round excellence.

MANAGERS, in their estimates of pieces offered to them, are generally correct. La Griffe, a play in four acts by M. Henry Bernstein, which was produced at the Renaissance Theatre, Paris, on Wednesday, was written a few years ago, and, under the title Ses yeux Bleus, was offered to Antoine, who liked the piece, but refused it on account of the fourth act, which, according to him, brought the work to an unsatisfactory termination. In the meantime the author had it produced at Turin, and on Wednesday it saw the footlights in Paris under the auspices of M. Guitry. It met with an excellent reception, but after the third act, which took the house by storm, the final tableau certainly fell flat and marred the general effect. It is the old story of a middle-aged man married to an adventuress much younger than he, and who, having ruined and betrayed him, seeks fortune elsewhere. Antoinette, the girl, is the daughter of Jules Doulers, an old journalist. When the story opens Antoinette is the mistress of Paul Ignace, but she leaves him to inveigle Achille Cortelon, a widower, an honourable man and owner of a large and important newspaper. Cortelon meets Antoinette, falls in love with her, and marries her. No sooner has Antoinette become Madame Cortelon than she no longer is satisfied with the brilliant position her husband can offer her. Vain, ostentatious, and recklessly extravagant, she forces her husband to sell his services to shady individuals, and to enter into shameful intrigues to become a member of the Cabinet. In the meantime Mme. Cortelon has resumed her liaison with Paul Ignace. She has even other lovers, among whom a certain Nathaniel, a financial agent, mixed up in the transactions into which, at his wife's bidding, Cortelon has embarked, and which have brought him in a large sum of money.

CORTELON'S reputation, however, is hopelessly ruined. His friends have all withdrawn from him, and even Anne, his daughter, refuses to remain beneath his roof. And then comes the catastrophe. Cortelon, publicly accused of malpractices as Minister, is summoned before a Parliamentary committee; and he is preparing his defence when a violent scene with Antoinette takes place. The cruel woman knows that the man's ruin is complete, and she goes away with a wealthy youth. Outside Cortelon's the mob has gathered, uttering threats because he has not come forward to justify himself. The noise outside swells into a roar, and Cortelon's house is invaded by the rabble, who smash the windows and force open the doors. And when at last they enter Cortelon's study they find the unfortunate man, totally bereft of reason, standing on his work-table, swinging an imaginary flag, and singing a revolutionary song he heard when he was a boy. M. Lucien Guitry scored a tremendous triumph in the rôle of the luckless Cortelon; Mlle. Rogers, Mlle. Mellot, M. Arquillière, and M. Rouselle were also deservedly applauded.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mr. Harry Tate's company, which has been playing the famous comic sketch Motoring in America, was due at the Orpheum, San Francisco, now destroyed by the appalling catastrophe, on Monday. We are very glad to hear at the moment of going to press that Mr. Tate has received a cable with the news that the little crowd is quite safe. The Orpheum was the most prominent vaudeville theatre on the Pacific slope.

Sir Edward Moss, looking the picture of robust health, has returned from his cruise to South America. As Sir Edward is an acute observer, we may reasonably expect to see some of his globe-trotting impressions crystallised in the form of something new on the boards.

The coming of age of Miss Assie Randall, Mr. Harry Randall's second daughter, will be celebrated on May 2 by a ball at the Trocadero. A large number of invitations have been issued and accepted, and the Empire Room will be thronged with the friends of the popular comedian and his charming wife and daughters.

Miss Ada Reeve, that magnetic little artist, sails for South Africa to-day by the Kenilworth Castle to fulfil engagements, report says, at the largest salary ever yet paid an artist on the variety stage. She will arrive at Johannesburg about May 10 or 11, and will open the new Hyman Theatre there on the 14th. On her return in August, she has been secured for the Tivoli by Mr. Joseph Wilson, who has induced her to again coquet with her old love—the variety halls. An excellent engagement this.

Mrs. Thos. Barrasford has pluckily carried on for several months now the management of the Lyceum, but the attractions presented have failed to draw. In these circumstances, the notices were posted up last Saturday. Whether the place will close or not this evening had not been finally decided at the moment of going to press.

On July 1, 1905, Mr. Barrasford closed the building for the summer months, and reopened it on Sept. 18 with a revival of the ballet, Excelsior, which did not prove a successful venture. The principal debenture-holders are Mr. William Chas. Hallett and Miss Mary Arnold, who sold the freehold of the Lyceum to the original company—that registered in 1899—for a sum of £120,000, and the debenture-holders accepted 4 per cent. debenture stock redeemable in forty years. There have been further issues of £3,100 and £30,000, both at 5 per cent. interest, making a total capital of £153,100.

The Putney Hippodrome bookings will be in conjunction with the syndicate halls, and Mr. Nelson Francis, manager and secretary of the Brixton Empress, has been appointed by Mr. George Adney Payne secretary to the new establishment.

Mr. John Lawson is appearing at the Empress, Brixton, this week with that powerful sketch, The Monkey's Paw, by W. W. Jacobs and Louis N. Parker. He is supported by Cissie Lawson. It is staged, like all John Lawson's episodes, magnificently. Our readers will be sorry to hear that Mr. Lawson is still suffering considerably from his arm, which he put out two weeks ago at the Palace, Tottenham.

The Water Rats dined together on Good Friday evening, when, in consonance with their pleasant annual custom, some three dozen of the popular fraternity sat down together. Fairy lights and choice flowers decked the banqueting table, and harmony and comradeship prevailed.

The services of Mr. Harry Huntley, who is a nephew of the late Charles Morton, father of the halls, has been secured by the management of the Empire as understudy to Mr. W. H. Berry, who is so successful as the "Labour Leader" and other characters in the new Empire revue Venus, 1906.

The New Palace, Croydon, it has been definitely decided, will be opened on Tuesday, May 1. It is generally understood that Mr. Gardiner Hales, the proprietor, will grant Mr. Walter Gibbons a ninety-nine years' lease of the house, and that it will be run in conjunction with the Gibbons London circuit.

Mr. Harry Lauder, who has had to relinquish his Easter engagements in consequence of throat trouble, has been ordered to his native Scotland, where the air of the heather-clad hills will do much to restore his overworked vocal chords.

The reports concerning the health of Mr. Harry Masters, the popular secretary to Mr. George Adney Payne, are much exaggerated. He is now recovering very satisfactorily from an attack of congestion of the lungs.

Miss Florrie Gallimore has just secured from Messrs. John P. Harrington and Jas. W. Tate a worthy successor to her most popular song "Remember me to mother dear" in the shape of a new number with the striking title "Old Calabar." She will produce this during her present Oxford engagement. The song has already been accepted for immediate production by the Monte Carlo Publishing Company.

Miss Margaret Ashton, who made a welcome reappearance at the Oxford on Easter Monday, met with an excellent reception. The charming American cantatrice, beautifully begowned, appeared in what is really a musical comedy scena of a very attractive nature, and sang of spring fashions and the latest style of hats. The original and extremely artistic manner in which Miss Ashton renders this dainty song has won universal praise.

Little Tich, who is fulfilling his last Stoll tour, will be the principal attraction at the Hackney Empire next week. In describing his first public performance, Little Tich says that it was a solo upon a tin whistle at a place of entertainment in Gravesend, before he was thirteen years old, and this set such a spark to his youthful ambitions that he determined upon the stage as his profession from that moment. "As you may imagine," he says, "in those early days my salary was even smaller than I was; in fact, I used to sing a great many songs for so little pay that they only worked out at about threepence apiece.

Little Tich has a fund of rich stories at his disposal. Concerning his appearance in Lord Tom Noddy, at the Garrick Theatre, he relates the following:—He had been busily engaged rehearsing his part in the piece, and one evening walked across the road to the Alhambra, to witness the performance for a couple of hours. While standing by the side of the stalls, Mr. Tich was passed by a couple of gentlemen, one of whom nudged the other as he went by. "After a time," says Mr. Tich, "one of them quitted his seat, walked out of the stalls, and, on coming back, asked me what time I was due on the stage. I told him that I was not engaged at the Alhambra, and he inquired at what music hall I was performing. 'I am not appearing at any music hall,' I answered; in fact, I have left the halls.' To be candid, I was rather proud to think I was playing at the Garrick Theatre. The gentleman looked down at me, and remarked, 'I hope we are not going to lose you altogether?' I then informed him that I was opening during the following week at the Garrick in Lord Tom Noddy, whereupon he expressed the opinion, 'Oh, well, that's better than nothing at all.' What a blow to my vanity!"

The Wolverhampton Hippodrome was formally opened on Saturday afternoon by Miss Vesta Tilley, who "received" a large number of local theatrical and music hall friends. Amongst them were Messrs. Walter De Frece, Jack De Frece (general manager), Lennox Barry (resident acting manager), Percy Percival, W. H. Lennox, Harry Battersby, and others. Miss Tilley, after thanking the company for a hearty welcome, declared the new Hippodrome open. She was presented with a handsome bouquet. Mr. Walter De Frece also spoke.

Mr. Will Collins, manager of the Ardwick Empire, Manchester, has been appointed district manager for Mr. Oswald Stoll's halls in London, and will take up his duties at the end of the present month. The management of the Ardwick Empire will devolve upon Messrs. H. Hall (of the Manchester Hippodrome) and Harry Pryme (of the Empire) jointly. Mr. Collins has had considerable experience of the managerial side of theatrical matters, including a connection of some years with the stage in South Africa.

The Variety Theatres Consolidated, Ltd., has declared an interim dividend at the rate of eight per cent. per annum for the half-year ended March 31 last.

Mr. Ambrose Thorne's new numbers have been secured by Mr. David Day for publication. They are "The practical, tactical, nautical man," by J. P. Harrington, and "She didn't seem to know just what she wanted," by Frank Redmond, of Mr. David Day's staff. The music in each instance is by J. Airlie Dix, another member of an establishment which includes on its permanent staff such well-known writers as Messrs. Lester Barrett, H. E. Pether, Fred W. Leigh, and Charles Wilmott.

Mr. Fred Leighton, late the popular manager of the Sheerness Hippodrome, who is now installed in a similar position at the Empire, Bristol, made his acquaintance with Sheerness when he went to the Hippodrome as manager to Neilson, who was vanquished by the local wrestler, Teddy Williams. It was not long after that—seven month ago, to be exact—that he took over the management of the hall itself, going there at twenty-four hours' notice from the Holloway Empire.

Born in County Wexford in 1874, Mr. Leighton will be thirty-two next month; he was educated at Gloucester Collegiate School, and after two years spent in comparative ease, a domestic misfortune necessitated his taking up the battle of life in earnest. It was then that he discovered his ability as a conjuror, and he practised as an illusionist on the stage for about five years, taking his first engagement in Belfast. Later he made his mark as a political orator. In the cricket seasons of 1899-90, Mr. Leighton played for Somersetshire, rendering his county assistance both as a bowler and batsman. In 1899 he played for the Chess Championship of Kent at Dartford, and he also played for the City of London Chess Club. As a Volunteer he served for seven years as a lieutenant in the 1st Hants Regiment, a post he had to relinquish five years ago. As a rifle shot he achieved success at Bisley, where in the years 1893-4-5 he won the Holdaway Cup in open competition, the trophy becoming his own property.

As a devotee of the wheel, Mr. Leighton was instrumental in founding the Dartford Cycling Club in 1899; and in the same year he won the 25-mile road race in connection with that club; he is also an ex-member of the N.C.U. His professional career has brought him into touch with several friendly societies of which he has become a member. Mr. Leighton takes to Bristol with him as his assistant stage-manager there Mr. W. Broom, who has acted as stage-manager at the Hippodrome.

The friends of Mr. Oscar Schaller (Eric Brand), recently playing comedy bo'sun in Mr. Paul Pelham's King's Navee, will regret to learn that he is at present lying seriously ill with pneumonia at his home at 183, Stewart's-road, Wandsworth.

Mr. Harry Phydora has had to relinquish his engagement at the Empire, Wolverhampton, through a severe attack of laryngitis and aphoma. He hopes, however, to be well enough to open at the Cambridge on Monday.

Messrs. Walton and Lester, the world's worst wizards, who so happily burlesque the methods of "The Chinese Conjurers" and "The Magic Kettle," have successfully produced a new magic muddle, which is a clever travesty of the society wizard and his impromptu boy assistant. The whole act is full of mysteries and mirth, and bids fair to become one of their most popular productions.

Miss Arabella Allen has been the bright particular star of a capital programme at the Hippodrome, Wolverhampton, this week. The hall was re-opened with big success on Monday night, and the Dickens Girl succeeded in getting her laughs easily enough from a crowded, excitable house. That she should win them to absolute silence during her pathetic impersonations was an even greater proof of her complete success.

No fewer than 3000 people welcomed the opening of the Albert Hall, Southport. The company was headed by the one and only Vesta Tilley, and the stage was under the management of Mr. Will Oliver—once again on the spot.

Miss Fanny Robina, Florry Cooper, and Billie Bint have just finished a successful tour with Messrs. Broadhead, and have been booked to return again March, 1907.

A funny coincidence happened to Billie Bint at the King's Theatre, Longsight, last week. Asked by a few friends to revive his old successful song, "Chuck him out," Bint acceded to the request, and asked one of the attendants at the side of the stage to chuck him out after the last verse of the song. The attendant did his work so well that Billie said, "Why, you do that job like it was done twenty years ago at the old Folly, Manchester. The man was named Harper." "Yes," said the attendant, "I used to watch him do it. He was my father!"

It is now forty years ago since Harry Adams, the well-known writer of Charles Godfrey's famous "Here upon guard am I," wrote his first "swell" song for the great Vance, and he has just disposed of a song of the same class for that swellest of swell comedians, Mr. George Lashwood, for whom he wrote "My Latchkey."

Mr. Sydney Arthur, the able general manager and lieutenant for Mr. Frank Macnaghten, was accorded two crowded houses and a most flattering reception on the occasion of his benefit at the Palace, Lincoln, on Wednesday, April 11. A very strong company appeared, and the best of Lincoln's amateur talent had offered its services, with the result that two long and highly successful performances were given. First place was undoubtedly secured by Miss Florrie Gallimore, rightly billed as Lincoln's favourite comedienne. Sid Cotterell and company in The Substitute presented an extremely funny sketch, and Warden Reed and Glennie were also highly effective with their amusing duologue, Married or Photographed? The Darrell Trio; Josie Delaine, vocalist and dancer; Tiny Arnold, comedienne; the Brothers Ashley, intensely amusing in their boxing turn; Flo Wood, comedienne; and George M. Schilling also entertained. Mr. Sydney Arthur received a great ovation when he came on the stage to return thanks.

The annual general meeting of the Terriers' Association will take place on Thursday next, the 26th inst., at 2 p.m., at the Hercules, Kennington-road, S.E. The president, Mr. Jesse Sparrow, will be in the chair.

Variety circles in South London received a painful shock on Wednesday evening when they heard that Mr. Frank Coyne, the well-known comedian, had been found by his wife with his throat cut at their residence, 28, Wiltshire-road, Brixton. The deceased had been much depressed since his return with his wife (professionally known as Miss Carrie Joy) from a successful tour in South Africa a few weeks since, and was really suffering from mental breakdown. During his engagement last week at the Chelsea Palace it was noticed by the company that he did not display his usual cheerfulness, and he complained of nervous debility.

There were no monetary difficulties, and deceased had no anxieties concerning his engagements, as he was booked up to 1908; but it was stated at the inquest on Thursday before Mr. Wyatt, by Dr. Robertson, that he was suffering from a kidney complaint that would set up depression.

Frank Coyne started life at Derby as a jeweller's traveller, but, possessing a love for the stage, he became a most successful amateur comic singer, and was very popular at local concerts. So encouraging were his audiences that he determined to join the ranks of the profession, and after some experiences in the provinces he came to London. On coming to London he speedily achieved success with a very catchy chorus song, "Come and have a tiddley at the Fountain," which was heard at every street-corner, and speedily found its way into the pantomimes.

Another of poor Coyne's great successes was "The horse the missus dried the clothes on." He was so genial and amiable that he seemed the last man in the world that would take his own life. The greatest sympathy is felt for Mrs. Coyne in such a terrible bereavement. The deceased, whose real name was Josiah Harris, was one of the Rats brotherhood and a member of the Committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association.

On behalf of the Music Hall Sick Fund, Messrs. R. T. Baines (secretary), Mr. Pat Carey (president), and Mr. H. E. High (member) express their sincere sorrow at the death of Mr. Coyne, who was on the committee of that Fund.

The remains will be interred on Monday in Tooting Cemetery. The funeral cortège will leave the residence of the deceased, 28, Wiltshire-road, S.W., at two o'clock.

The Secretary of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund has received the sum of £10 18s. 3d. from Mr. Frank Weeks, collected by him in his pence-box at the South London.

Mr. E. H. Dobson, acting-manager at the Shepherd's Bush Empire, was summoned at the West London Police-court on Wednesday, before Mr. Lane, K.C., for assaulting Walter Howard, an electrical engineer, living at Chesterton-road, North Kensington. Mr. Lane said there was not the shadow of a charge made out against Mr. Dobson, and dismissed the summons.

Miss Ida Heath (Mrs. Joe Archer) presented her husband with a son on the 12th inst., and mother and child are doing well. Mr. Archer, who is as popular with brother artists as he is with audiences, is likely now to revive his well-known ditty "Matrimonial Bliss," as he is blessed with a pigeon pair.

Miss Alice Hollander met with an unfortunate accident at the Tivoli on Tuesday evening, when she fell down a flight of stairs, and was picked up unconscious. She, however, speedily came to herself, and persisted in going to her engagement at the Canterbury. Here she was able to go through her songs successfully, but the effort was too much for her, and she fainted in her dressing-room.

The famous and popular instrumentalist, Mr. Vasco, and his wife and son, sailed yesterday for a voyage round the world, and an agreeable social function—which was much enjoyed by everyone who had the good fortune to be invited—was arranged by Mr. J. Jasper, the proprietor of the Lord Derby Hotel, Woodpecker-road, New Cross, to wish the travellers bon voyage and a safe return. To an excellent musical programme Messrs. W. Bowther, Seeley, West, Bishop, Nice, W. Donovan, Ivatts, T. Bedford, Miss Imhoff, and Mr. Vasco himself contributed. The toast of "Mr. and Mrs. Vasco and Son" was gracefully proposed, and in reply the chief guest of the evening spoke a few felicitous phrases of thanks.

Mr. Frank Glenister will "present" a new Venus at the London Pavilion next Monday, and, from a preliminary exhibition of the goddess which was afforded on Thursday afternoon, it may be anticipated that this addition to the current programme will generally please. La Milo is the designation which the shapely artist chooses to wear.

Mr. Fred Storey, who is billed next week at the New Cross Empire, in his sketch Rip Van Winkle, has a great eye for artistic "interiors," and his home is a good proof of his tastes; but his fondness for old oak and old china makes his touring times much harder to him than to the man who has possibly grown up among inartistic surroundings. Once when on tour with "Rip," Mr. Storey struck in Plymouth a sitting-room of more than ordinary hideousness, and, as the lodgings were otherwise satisfactory, and he was weary after his whole-day journey by train, he decided to brave the terrors of imitation fruit and only too real horsehair chairs and sofas. But by the time supper was ready the chalky china vases, and stags and minstrel boys, and the forests of wax fruit, had begun to play sad havoc with his nerves, so he called the landlady up and asked her to remove them. And how artfully was the favour requested! He told her that if a member of his company visited him, and saw him surrounded by so many beautiful things, stories of the luxuriousness of his lodgings might get about the theatre, and lead to appeals for higher salaries. The landlady was immensely gratified at being taken into his confidence in so pleasant a manner, and removed the ornaments in a basket to—his bedroom!

Mr. Harry S. Hart, the smart and active young manager of Messrs. Pacey and Reeves's agency, is engaged to be married to Millie, one of the beautiful daughters of Mr. Burnett, the well-known tobacconist in New Oxford-street. Mr. Harry S. Hart is the eldest son of Mr. Hart, the proprietor of the Star, Bermondsey.

The Stockwell Angling Society, which numbers amongst its members such well-known artists as Mr. Wal Pink and Mr. Fred Redfern, has moved its headquarters to the Perseverance Hotel, Vassall-road, Brixton. Mr. Arthur Lennard is the society's latest recruit. On the 10th inst. a crowded meeting listened attentively to a paper, entitled "How to Make a Roach Angler," by Mr. W. Eyke, Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter's own fresh-water fisherman. Edgar Bateman is dedicating his new song for Mr. T. B. Dunville to the society. It is entitled "The fish I caught at Brighton," has music by Alf Ellerton, and is calculated to make Ananias turn in his grave.

Mr. Fred Baugh, the popular manager of the Macnaghten circuit, as has already been announced in these columns, is to be testimonialised. Mr. James Fortune, the hon. secretary and treasurer, of 115, Strand, W.C., desires that all Mr. Baugh's friends who wish to subscribe should notify their intention to him before Friday next, the 27th inst.

A number of Japanese Naval men, who have brought their new battleship the Katori to the Mersey from Barrow, have been enjoying the sights of Liverpool during the week, and on Monday evening a large company of them, along with their officers, visited the Royal Hippodrome on the invitation of Mr. Thomas Barrasford. Mr. Hassan, the manager, delivered a speech of welcome to Togo's men, which was received with great applause, the orchestra playing the Japanese national anthem. On Tuesday evening the men accepted an invitation to witness the Empire programme, which they richly enjoyed.

One of the most successful turns in the current Oxford programme is supplied by Miss Winifred Hare, who wins some of the loudest plaudits every evening in her exquisite rendering of John P. Harrington's and the late George le Brunn's charming number "One Little Lonely Star," which will be issued in popular music form at an early date by a young, but particularly enterprising, firm of publishers with whom the author is not altogether unconnected.

Mr. John P. Harrington is remarkably well-represented in West End halls this holiday time, for not only is he responsible for two song-scenas in the London Pavilion programme, viz., Mr. Jock Whiteford's "Bonnie Jean" and Mr. Ambrose Thorne's "Practical, Tactical, Nautical Man," but at the Oxford also no less than three numbers of his are being nightly presented—Miss Winifred Hare's "One Little Lonely Star," Mr. Ernest Shand's "Look at the Weather We're Having," and Miss Florrie Gallimore's "Remember Me to Mother Dear," all being from his facile pen.

The Monte Carlo Publishing Company, of Berners-street, have in the press, and will shortly issue as one of their popular "Sixpenny Successes" series, Messrs. Paul Paulton's and Arthur Van Dixie's daintily-written and tuneful song "Rosie is waiting," so successfully introduced by Miss May Marton at all her London engagements This song should undoubtedly have an immense vogue among seaside entertainers this season.

Miss Louisa Peach, who has been appearing quite recently at Greenwich, Maidstone, and Stoke-on-Trent with her successful comedy sketch, Taming a Husband, will be seen at some of the London halls, starting April 30 at Barnard's Theatre of Varieties, Woolwich. Mr. Wellesley Draper will appear as the husband (Frank Marlow), and Mr. Conrade Clerke as the old bachelor friend, Colonel Adams.

Miss Emma Don for over five and a half years has not had one idle week. She is at present introducing into her act a youthful comedy quartette, consisting of two coloured boys and two white boys, one of whom is a clever comedian.

Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, the well-known trio of mystery, have finished an exceptionally successful engagement of twenty-six weeks in Australia, a dozen of which weeks were a prolongation. They will arrive in England on May 5, and open in London on May 7.

Papa Brown, comedian and variety and dramatic agent, is sixty-four years of age to-day. His telegraphic address is "Jibbers, London." He is in the best of health, with a fine appetite, and, like Victor Hugo, he has mastered the art of being a grandfather.

Mr. Alfred Lee, the veteran composer of "Champagne Charlie" and many other highly successful songs sung by George Leybourne, the Great Vance, Harry Liston, Jolly John Nash, Harry Rickards, Jim Hillier, Alf Walker, and other stars of the variety world of the 'sixties and 'seventies, died on Saturday afternoon last (14th). The immediate cause of death was pneumonia. We are sorry to hear that he leaves a widow totally unprovided for.

The fasting man, Sacco, commenced a 32 days' fast at the Regent, Salford, on Tuesday afternoon, when he took into his "little wooden hut" about 300 bottles of soda water, nearly 1,000 Turkish cigarettes, three dozen boxes of matches, a dozen cigars, some shirts, clothing, shaving apparatus, ink and pens, eau de Cologne, flowers, and a tin of boot polish, with which to occupy his time when he is not copying or composing music or poetry, which he proposes to do.

Mr. Alfred Montgomery, the well-known fête and gala caterer, is suffering from permanent nervous paralysis, and is compelled by his doctor's special orders to retire from his variety agency after forty years. Mr. Montgomery is open to dispose of all his rights, titles, and interests for a small sum to an immediate purchaser. His address is 51, Cornwallis-road, Upper Holloway, N.

"On the Banks of the Rhine," that was sung by Happy Fanny Fields so successfully in this year's Bristol pantomime, has been taken up by Miss Florrie Forde, who declares she has a second "Bull and Bush" in it. Mr. J. Callan is also singing with success this song on the Stoll tour.

This Saturday evening, after playing in the Association Cup Final at the Crystal Palace, the Everton Football Team will visit the Alhambra to witness, in addition to the present excellent entertainment, the cinematographic reproduction of the game by "Urbanora." Everybody who knows the Alhambra knows "Urbanora," and "Urbanora" has done nothing better than its existing travelling menagerie series, to secure which Mr. Charles Urban went for a week "on the road" with a world-famous wild-beast show, and has emerged from that somewhat strenuous undertaking with excellent results.

A site has been secured in a central position in Maidstone for the erection of a new hall, to be called the Maidstone Empire Theatre of Varieties, and plans are being prepared by a well-known London architect. The company has secured the services of J. M. Sylvester as manager, who is manager of the Coventry Hippodrome, and managing director for Fêtes, Ltd.

The latest quotations of music hall shares are as follows:—Alhambra, 1⅞; Canterbury, 1; Empire, (15s. pd.) 1¼, (10s. pd.) 1⅛; London Pavilion, Ordinary 4¼, Preference 4⅞; London Coliseum, 1¼; Metropolitan, ⅞; Moss' Empire, 3⅞, Preference 3⅞; Oxford, 6⅞; Palace, 10s.; Tivoli, 6¼; Variety Consolidated Theatres, 15s. 6d.

Messrs. Leo Dryden and Ed. E. Ford have presented Basil Bright, the plucky coachman whose skill averted a catastrophe in the Brixton-road on Saturday, April 7, with a gold watch and chain suitably inscribed.

The Shapiro Von Tilzer Co. announces that the new coon song, "Moving Day," which Miss Victoria Monks is singing nightly, is a tremendous success, and bids fair to eclipse "Bill Bailey." The firm has had already a big demand from al-fresco artists for this song.

Mr. F. W. Millis (ventriloquist) and Mr. Emile Lazern's Eastern Entertainers having just returned from an extended tour of Australia, New Zealand, India, and the Far East, are open to receive offers for half-an-hour to two hours' show.

The usual budget of summer novelties have just been issued by the popular song providers, M. Witmark and Sons. Their annual Pierrot Book has just been issued, and contains some of the most attractive material for the seaside and al-fresco entertainers.

Miss May Mars, whose appearance at the Oxford in the beautiful song-scena "In the Shadow of the Pyramid" occasioned considerable comment, has been booked by some of the most important managers. The song is another Witmark publication, and the singing rights for the halls has been reserved for Miss Mars.

"Kettles to Mend," sung so successfully by Miss Rachel Lowe during her recent pantomime engagement, had its first London hearing in Easter Monday at the Oxford, Tivoli, and the Chelsea Palace. That the different audiences of these popular halls evinced their warm approbation is a proof positive of the merit of the number. The strain of rehearsal and a matinée on Monday, in addition to four shows at night, proved too much for Miss Lowe, and she was so suffering from her throat that she was obliged to leave the stage of the Oxford on Wednesday night before finishing her number. A night's rest has, however, fully restored her, and she resumed her work last night.

Miss Florrie Forde, at the Regent, Salford, has been singing nine songs nightly; at Aberdeen (one house), seven songs nightly and numerous encores; and at Sunderland, six songs nightly. In the three weeks Miss Forde has sung no less than 135 songs. Messrs. Rosen and Bliss have secured her services for Aberdeen, Dundee, Sunderland, and Gateshead for three years, at an increase on each contract.

"'Appy 'Ampstead" is being played with immense success for the first time out of town by a No. 2 Company, which made an enormous success with this popular Cockney spectacle at Olympia, Liverpool, on Easter Monday.

Miss Florence St. John, the old favourite, will appear at the Shepherd's Bush Empire in My Milliner's Bill, expressly written for the celebrated actress, Mrs. John Wood, by the late Mr. G. W. Godfrey, and produced at the Court Theatre on March 6, 1884. Miss St. John has been before the public for many years, and made her first appearance when a mere child as a ballad vocalist with a diorama company. When she joined Durand's Opera Company her success was assured. She went to the Oxford under the management of the late Mr. Jennings, and sang under the name of Florence Leslie. Mr. Alexander Henderson was looking for someone to play Germaine in Les Cloches de Corneville, and selected Miss St. John.

Her Madame Favart is a matter of history, and the brilliant triumph she achieved placed her right in the front rank of comic opera prime donne. She joined the Gaiety company as Marguerite in Faust Up to Date, and afterwards went to America. She has been associated with many successes at the Gaiety and Savoy, and has also appeared in many works dealing with the famous Nell Gwynne. Some years ago, when under Mr. Henderson's banner, she had the honour of creating the title part in the comic opera of Nell Gwynne. She was christened the Patti of comic opera, and worthily deserved the title.

The 459th meeting of the Committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association was held at the general offices on Thursday. Mr. Albert Le Fre was elected to the chair, and there were also present Messrs. Charles Pastor, Geo. Preston, Arthur Rigby, Albert Voyce, and C. Douglas Stuart (secretary). The minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed. The Secretary reported the death under distressing circumstances of Frank Coyne, a member of the Committee, and it was decided that a letter of condolence be sent to the widow, together with a wreath, and that a deputation be appointed to attend the funeral. The addition to the Committee of Captain Slingsby, the next in rotation at the election last year, was approved. It was decided to send a letter of condolence to Griff, a member of the Committee, on the recent bereavement which he sustained by the loss of his daughter.

A provincial agent wrote complaining that a member wished to place his name on the sheet on Saturday, and when informed that he was too late became abusive. By withholding his name, moreover, he had prevented others from gaining the concession. The Secretary was instructed to express the Committee's regret to the agent, and to ask for full particulars, and also to write to the member in question and ask for an explanation. A letter was read from a member offering to be responsible for a loan obtained by his former partner, who had since disappeared. The Secretary was instructed to find out the whereabouts if possible of the person in question, and it was decided that if he made an application to rejoin it would be refused. Insurance claims and refunds were considered, and a receipt for the £50 paid to the mother of the late Harry Allen was submitted. The addition of thirty-nine new members was reported, and the statement of accounts showed the income for the week to be £39 3s. It was decided that a special reminder be given next week to those members of the Executive in town that the meeting of the Committee begins at one o'clock.

At the meeting of the International Artists' Lodge held on Sunday at the Hotel Provence, Leicester-square, Brother 1,365 was elected to the chair, there being seventeen members present. Brother 1,258 related an unpleasant experience through which he is now passing. He has an assistant whom he has been at much pains to train, and who is now well adapted to the work. Another artist is trying to entice the boy away. The Brother regards this as a most reprehensible proceeding, and thought that the Lodge should reprimand the artist in question. A Brother proposed that a letter should be written asking the Brother to explain his action, and, if still persisting in trying to get the lad away, that he should be called before a Court of Honour.

A Brother also related his experience with an agent. Introduced by the agent to the proprietor of a number of music halls, he was offered a number of dates, but would only accept one week. The agent then declared he would have nothing more to do with him. The artist worked for one week with the proprietor, the said week being booked for him by above agent. Then the artist himself booked four weeks with the proprietor. The agent now claims commission on the whole tour. There was a long discussion on this point, several members giving their personal experience. It was decided that the matter should be put before the Legal Committee.

A Brother reported that Messrs. Cadle, agents, having a case against a member of the Lodge, would like to know if the Lodge would be willing to arbitrate in the matter. Brother 382 proposed, and Brother 1,253 seconded, that a letter be written to Messrs. Cadle to the effect that the Lodge would be willing to do so now or at any time, and that the Lodge meeting would be glad to hear particulars of the case in question. Another Brother then informed the meeting that Mr. H. P. Hyatt, agent, had lately said he had noticed the great fairness of the Lodge, and declared himself willing to leave any dispute which he might have with any member of it to the decision of the Lodge meeting.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

PALACE.

Holiday-makers have lacked nothing in this week's programme at the Palace Theatre, for the quality and quantity of its variety are beyond question. Among the "special additions" to the bill, Mlle. Aurora Castillo, in her "creations internationales," comes first. Mlle. Castillo, whose vivacity and liveliness remind us strongly of Guerrero, delighted the house with her clever imitations of well-known Continental artists, though it must be admitted that the audience do not seem to realise she is giving imitations. Her mimicry of Mlle. Caramba, with a chanson comique, is, perhaps, best appreciated, as in it we get representations of the Italian, Swiss, English, French, and Spanish styles of walking and ways of making love. The song and its accompanying movements are distinctly amusing. Then we are treated to a cleverly executed valse comique—and Mlle. Castilla can dance!—and a couple of songs rendered in exquisite style. Another attractive act is that of the Dumonds, Parisian street musicians. These three gentlemen, who are expert string instrumentalists, provide an intensely laughable act, the facial expressions of the smallest member of the little company, who makes grimaces while his comrades are busy pouring forth harmony divine, being most comical.

Mr. Frank Elliston and company appear in the farcical sketch Aunt Matilda. The story of how an elderly lady is treated by her too frolicsome nephew, who believes her to be a disguised male friend playing a trick upon him, is uproariously funny, and Mr. Elliston plays the principal part with conspicuous ability. The other rôles, too, are in good hands. Mr. Charles Norton is an admirable "counterfeit presentment" of certain well-known music-hall artists whom he essays to imitate. His impersonations of Mr. R. G. Knowles dilating upon womenkind, and Mr. Harry Lauder in one of his "favourites," are a near approach to the originals. The Arleys Combination present an interesting performing dog exhibition, and themselves display great activity and agility in their different feats. Mr. Jack Lorimer makes for merriment with his quaint Scotticisms, and his verses about three jolly Scotsmen are sung in a manner calculated to bring out the utmost essence of humour which they contain. Grant and Grant are highly entertaining with their coon duets, their "Dinah" and "Yankee Doodle Boy" being extremely popular with the gallery.

Miss Millie Lindon, as charming and as refreshing as ever, sings about one Mary, who kept a dairy, after which, in a pretty and picturesque scena, in which Miss Lindon is assisted by the Palace Girls, we get to know a lot about what the people do in Barcelona. Topical allusions abound in the song, and it is rendered as only Miss Lindon can render it. Messrs. Cole and Johnson, the American coloured entertainers, form another outstanding feature of the Palace bill of fare. Their business is somewhat novel. One of the gentlemen sits at the piano, at times sings to his own accompaniment, and at times acts in the latter capacity for his partner. Their brief items, "Mexico," "Oh! Lindy," "A Darktown Elopement," and "Everybody works but father," are treated in their own peculiar style, which receives great favour from the listeners. Messrs. Cole and Johnson may congratulate themselves on having fully won the esteem of the British public. Two eccentric acrobats, whose doings cause no small diversion, are Toch and Tard. Their burlesque wrestling is one of the most absurd things we have seen of late. Miss Hebe Dennis is a talented vocalist, and she gives an excellent account of herself with the song, "Nightingale."

The Eight Palace Girls furnish an agreeable entertainment with their ditties, "As we march along" and "The Japs," and their dancing is as dainty a creation as one could wish to witness. Miss Daisy Jerome shows herself to be an accomplished and versatile comedienne, what with her coon song, "Molly," her pathetic verses about two poor boys, and her amusing lines, "The poor man never had a chance." Miss Gladys Archbutt is another comedienne who compels one's admiration for her rendering of "Push Off" and "Mr. Johnson." The Bioscope concludes what is unquestionably a big show. The films by themselves are a capital programme, for we are taken to see the Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race, the Grand National, Life in India, and the Eruption of Mount Vesuvius. Mr. Herman Finck's exquisite music forms a delightful accompaniment to the cinematograph pictures.

THE OXFORD.

Mr. Fred Karno always shows so much ingenuity in his farcical concoctions that one always looks forward in any new production emanating from him for a feast of fun. In his latest piece of irresponsible frivolity, which is termed a characteristic sketch, not only is there plenty to laugh at, but the opportunities given to a company of excellent comedians can so easily be amplified that eventually The Smoking Concert should pan out into one of the most successful of the Karno farces. Its main idea is to burlesque the amateur vocalist—sentimental and comic—and this opens out the prospect of a wealth of drollery. The scene is the club-room of the Semolina Cycling Club, the members of which have abandoned themselves to conviviality. "'Armony" rules the proceedings, and with soothing weed and "flowing bowl" the merry wheelers give themselves up to the delights of listening to the untutored efforts of their chums. Each contributor to the improvised entertainment mounts a small platform, and, in the case of the vocalists, has a short colloquy with the professional pianist as to pitch and time. There is the sentimental vocalist who gets under way and finds the key too high. This is changed, and it is then too low. When it is properly adjusted to the capacity of his voice, he forgets his words. Then there is the languid, straw-haired young man who is painfully comic, preceded by the little girl reciter, who gabbles pathos that brings the whole assemblage to grief. A couple of jolly old dogs sing an old-fashioned duet, garnished with angular gestures that degenerate into wild gesticulations and ultimate collapse. The assembly have a short way with the amateurs. They chant in chorus, "Sit down." A surprising piece of impromptu conjuring is introduced by a young gentleman who has been living at the country's expense, and who, on removing his overcoat, displays a broad-arrowed uniform. He borrows watches, money, and other articles of value, and conceals himself behind the piano. The harmonic meeting is broken up by the entry of a couple of policemen in search of the convict, and in the midst of an amusing melée the curtain falls, not, however, before we have listened to an excellent parody by the principal comedian of the sentimental vocalist singing "Only to see her face," and to an amusing skit on the "intense" reciter, by "Mr. Martin Harvey Dustbin"—to quote the official announcement of the chairman. The trifle is all fun, just of that extravagant order that appeals—and must always appeal—to the masses. It is a laugh from start to finish, and the holiday audience, kept late on the night of our visit by a programme of prodigious proportions, retained their seats until its conclusion. As it is the last item on Mr. Albert Gilmer's scheme of amusement, this says an immense deal for the potency of its mirth-provoking qualities. The fun is wholesome, and it is sustained by a capital company, which includes Messrs. Albert Weston, George Welch, Fred Palmer, W. Moran, James Fletch, H. Le Fre, Reed Almonti, Jack Lloyd, W. Crackles, jun., Bert White, W. H. Flint, J. W. Bradbury, H. D'Albert, R. J. Holmes, Dick Harcourt, Misses Rosa Mayville, Dorothy Dean, Muriel Palmer, Rose Fenton, Lillian Girvan, and Maud Carlisle. The Smoking Concert should have a most successful career, for its drollery is of the most exhilarating nature, but always wholesome; in fact, it is "Karnomania" at its very best.

The variety bill bristles with the names of stars, and is strengthened by the return of such favourites as Harry Randall, who has been sharing the entente cordiale at Drury Lane, and Mr. George Robey, who has been making himself immensely popular in Liverpool. Mr. Randall has a decidedly successful number in his impersonation of Mrs. Tootles, the wife of a degenerate flute-player, who sails home three sheets to the wind, and wearing "a saloon-bar giggle." Mr. Robey is responsible for nothing newer than "The Dresser" and "Be a man." He will probably wait a few days before he presents "The Beadle." Mr. Gus Elen has an excellent number in his song-scena, "The Unemployed Question." Mr. Elen's "out-of-work" is quite an optimist in his way. He doesn't "worrit" himself about his enforced idleness, and he doesn't become footsore in his search for "graft." As he aptly reasons—

If you don't get work,
Well, you can't get the sack—
That's an argyment that seems to me most sound.
With the swells in Rotten-row
You can sit and take a blow,
And wait till the work comes round.

This is the best thing we have had from the famous coster comedian for some time. Mr. Fred Earle requires nothing better to amuse a holiday audience than his droll song, "Seaweed"; and Mr. Ernest Shand finds hearty appreciation of numbers that have already done him some service. Mr. Harry Tate also has in "Motoring" a sketch that puts the audience in the most hilarious mood. Miss Margaret Ashton, a dainty figure in white, sings delightfully of the rollicking joys of winter, and puts an immense amount of vivacity into her work. Miss Florence Esdaile demonstrates her complete command of a pure and flexible soprano, which is heard to advantage in a medley of bright and catchy airs; and Miss Flo Gallimore gets the ear of the house—which choruses with heart and voice—in the melody of "Remember me to mother dear," the last composition of the lamented George Le Brunn. Miss Winifred Hare, with a dainty style and a voice of considerable range, presents a pretty scena, in which she plays principal boy to a charming partner, whose name is not mentioned on the programme.

Miss Rachel Lowe makes a great hit in her song, "They always went to church on Sunday," and her waif impersonation is both piquant and pathetic. The programme has other successful contributors in Miss Edie King, vocalist and dancer; Griff and Alpha, jocose jugglers; Ike Scott and Son, comedians and dancers; the Poluskis, in "Wibbles and Wobbles"; Clark and Hamilton, musical comedy duo; the Casino Comedy Four, from "Amurrica"; and Mr. T. E. Dunville.

THE EMPRESS.

The keen competition by the clerk of the weather against indoor entertainment on Monday had no effect on the patrons of the elegant hall at Brixton, so ably presided over by Mr. Nelson Francis, and the house at an early hour presented an agreeable appearance of fulness. The centre-piece of the programme is provided by The Monkey's Paw, the "story in three lights" by W. W. Jacobs and Louis N. Parker, which Mr. John Lawson has made so successful at the variety theatres. The little piece manages to preserve a literary flavour without losing its power over a popular audience, and throughout the house on Monday there was every evidence that the house was completely engrossed in the unfolding of the grim story. The acting of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson is of the utmost importance in securing such effective results, and in either case merit of no ordinary kind attaches to them. Mr. Lawson's old man is a piece of acting which has comic and pathetic possibilities, and in both phases of the character he creates a decided impression. Mrs. Lawson, who makes a gentle and lovable housewife in the earlier portions of the play, rises to heights of dramatic fervour in the scene where the frenzied mother endeavours vainly to open the door to her boy recalled from the grave. Mr. E. E. Vincent impersonates the old sergeant-major with his customary cheeriness and the keenest sense of humour, and the little piece aided by a wonderfully realistic set of an interior of an old house in Fulham, makes an unqualified success.

A warm welcome awaits Mr. Arthur Lennard, whose popularity at Brixton equals that so long enjoyed in all parts of the kingdom. Mr. Lennard is among those who have retained the favour of the public for the longest period, and his fame is always sufficient to secure crowded houses. In comedy or in sentiment he equally excels, and nothing more agreeable could be offered to the variety audience than the opportunity to join in his tuneful lays or to smile at his wholesome humour. Mr. Fred Poplar, who is termed the "great drunken comedian," gives an exposition of the different modes of "coming home tight," as favoured by the "Johnnie," the burglar, and the henpecked husband. In all cases Mr. Poplar achieves a large amount of realism, over which the house grows noisily hilarious.

The splendid physique of the Brothers Bright is shown in a series of hand-to-hand lifting feats, which necessitate the employment of great muscular strength and endurance, and evoke enthusiastic recalls. The Astley Troupe turn the paraphernalia of a farmyard to melodious purposes, and at one time are seen extracting music from milk-churns, rakes, and brooms, while at others they perform similar wonders on a windmill and some ivy-clad trellis-work. Their quartet on sleigh-bells affixed to hands and feet is also decidedly quaint.

Arrayed in the traditional scarlet cap and gown, Miss Edie King presents Red Riding Hood, whose determination to beware of the wolf in the form of man is expressed in song, to which a neat pas seul is added. A few dainty steps also supplement her song as "The A.B.C. Girl," to which an arch and vivacious rendering is given. Miss Flo Esdaile, habited in a charming Spanish costume, reveals in her singing a strong and well-cultivated soprano, and her spirited rendering of the Soldier's Chorus from Faust gains enthusiastic cheers. Mr. H. G. Prosper is seen as a comic fireman, in whose song a mock recitation figures effectively; and others in the programme are Miss Millie Lindon; Mr. Arthur Rigby, in his matrimonial mixture, "The March of the Married Men"; Mr. Victor Travers, eccentric comedian; Miss Katie Butler, character comedienne; and Ruffell's Bioscope, on which a fine view of figure drill by the lads of the Reedham Orphanage is depicted, together with some films very humorously conceived. Miss Kitty Wager is also in the bill, but on Monday her place was taken by Miss Flo Morton, who sang of "The dear little lady from Bow" in a way that won her immediate favour. The orchestra is skilfully directed by Mr. Robert Allington, and Mr. Francis Winchcombe's assistance in the managerial department is invaluable.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

When the Clerk of the Weather elects to favour Easter Monday with delightful atmospherical conditions that are said to establish an absolute "record," he provides an anxious time for those whose contributions to the gaiety of nations are of an indoor character. But when, as on Monday, a beautiful day is followed by an evening on which "winter lingering chills the lap" of April, the holiday crowds are glad to finish up their day's pleasure-seeking in the warmth and brightness of a first-class theatre of varieties. Such, no doubt, was the experience of Mr. Arthur J. Barclay on Monday, when, with his able assistant-manager, Mr. Geo. F. Slatter, he found his resources taxed to the uttermost to provide accommodation for the clamouring crowd.

The programme Mr. Barclay has provided at the Walthamstow Palace this week is well supplied with attractive items, and the whole leaves a sense of brightness and mirth behind it when the curtain falls. An unusually good start is made by Hallam and Stanton, a lady and gentleman who, besides being excellent light comedy actors, are gifted with fine voices, admirably trained. The vehicle for the introduction of these attractions is a merry little act, and the whole goes with a briskness and spirit that put the audience into a thoroughly contented frame of mind. The gentleman who is known as Drawee proves himself to be a comedy juggler of exceptional neatness, dexterity, and originality. He is admirably assisted by Frisco and Hambo—a clever young African native and a beautiful dog of the collie breed—but which is Frisco and which is Hambo the audience is left to decide for itself. Both deserve unqualified praise. An eccentric comedian, who on a former visit here made hosts of friends, is Mr. George Antill, whose singing is exceedingly droll, especially in an amusing ditty, "Oh! isn't it joyful being a married man." Another artist who has also before now made himself an immense favourite at this house, although in a very different line of business, is Mr. Leo Dryden, whose handsome appearance and intensely dramatic style are eminently suited to the songs he sings. He first appears in the dress of the "Directoire" period, and gives every effect to a capital song, "The Bachelor's Club," in which a member of the coterie is saying good-bye to his comrades on the night before his marriage. Mr. Dryden's other contribution, "The Prodigal Son," is equally effective, the artist being made up somewhat after the manner of Mr. George Alexander in the Drury-lane play. Full of dash and vivacity the Sisters Caselli sing acceptably, and excel as expert dancers. Their movements are almost bewildering in their rapidity, while their "kicks" are extraordinary, yet never lose grace. A little scena that the audience applauds to the echo, and apparently would like to have all over again, is furnished by Sterling and Love. The gentleman is a master of many kinds of musical instruments, playing each with exquisite precision and a rare quality of tone, while the lady sings with combined power and sweetness. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, with novel films, still holds its own in popular favour. The more solid and substantial dish of the banquet is the new dramatic sketch Lights of the Harbour, in which Mr. Fred Eustace and his company appear. True British audiences will never tire of witnessing plays and sketches that deal with nautical life, and when a handsome, dashing sailor hero is placed in jeopardy by the machinations of an "alien," to be rescued by his "lass" just as things look blackest, we have all the ingredients at hand that make for popular success. Mr. Fred Eustace as Jack Beresford is a fine specimen of the British sailor—handsome, outspoken, and alert. Miss Mary Eustace throws much picturesque power into her impersonation of Grace Darling, who, to save her lover, dons the breeches and goes to sea as cabin boy. Mr. Edwin Bennett is undisguisedly wicked as the villain of the piece, Jacob Krahn; and Mr. David Collins is an insinuating Caleb Crawshaw. A hearty old salt is the Joe of Mr. Ferris Gordon, and Mr. David Curtis does well as Jim Morley. The piece is handsomely staged, the scenery being very effective. Mr. John Grant, of the Palace, is largely responsible for the smoothness of the stage-management.

THE BRITANNIA.

A capital programme was arranged for the holiday-makers who patronised the famous old Hoxton theatre, once the stronghold of melodrama in North-East London, but more recently given up to a lighter and, in many respects, brighter form of entertainment. Not that the scowling villain has departed altogether from the scene where once he held such a prominent position, for quite a typical specimen of the genus takes part in the dramatic episode, entitled Did He Deserve It? the successful production of which at the Surrey Theatre we recently noticed. In this sketch the comedy is very cleverly mixed with the dramatic, and the villain, it is satisfactory to know, has an exceedingly bad time of it. His base designs upon a pretty and innocent little flower girl are thwarted in the most complete and effective manner imaginable, to the unconcealed delight of Hoxtonian audiences, who have always been noted for their theatrical enthusiasm in the cause of virtue versus vice. The villain in this excellent little sketch finds more than his match in the woman he has betrayed—and her dog. Finding himself alone with the little flower girl already mentioned, he grossly insults her, and is about to proceed to violence when he is tackled by "Tiger," a huge mastiff, who seizes him by the wrist and holds on. But this is only the beginning of the scoundrel's punishment. The woman, who is a champion lady boxer, arrives on the scene, and having called the dog off, announces her intention of giving the man a sound thrashing. She is as good as her word. The villain is evidently not a champion at the game; and is floored again and again, until, at length, he is compelled to give in, and is about to make a hurried exit when the mastiff seizes him for the second time. Mr. James Willard, an experienced actor, puts plenty of vigour and energy into his embodiment of the villain; Miss Lydia Hart is a very determined and spirited representative of the boxing lady, who uses the gloves with the skill of a veteran at the game; Miss Violet Carr is pleasing as the flower girl; Mr. Willie Atom is remarkably active and amusing as the page boy, who divides his time pretty equally between catching flies and worrying the villain. As for the dog, he plays his part with an obvious regard for its responsibilities.

The programme contains another sketch, entitled Binks's Blunder, just the kind of piece to afford unqualified delight to a merry holiday audience. We find Mr. and Mrs. Nattleton, a newly-wedded pair, seated at the breakfast table with Binks, their man-servant, in attendance. The couple appear to be an unusually ill-assorted pair, for they disagree on all points, the gentleman declaring that his wife's eternal "jaw" is accountable for his late hours at the club. At length, Mr. Nattleton, producing a revolver, threatens to blow his brains out in the garden, but the lady is in no way perturbed, even when a shot is heard without. But in her turn she puts poison in a glass of milk, and hints darkly at suicide. Her husband, who has meanwhile returned quite unharmed, exchanges the glass for the one which Binks has placed on the floor for the cat. Presently Binks, who was absent when the exchange was made, drinks the poisoned milk, and when he learns the appalling truth his expression of face causes the heartiest merriment, while to save his life the most drastic measures have to be adopted. Mr. Harry Russell is quaintly comical as Binks, and Mr. Ernest Thiel and Miss Verna Reed play briskly as the quarrelsome couple. The little piece, which serves its purpose admirably, is greeted with roars of laughter.

The current bill also includes Susie and Protti, who distinguish themselves in a series of clever dances; Sam Barton, comedian, who sings a parody on "Down the Swanee River"; and Bonetti and Corri, comedy jugglers. The Sisters Sprightly are decidedly successful with their popular ditties, "The Artista" and "All you want is a coon song." Karr and Kooney are a smart pair of comedians and patterers, their parody on "The Little Wooden Hut" causing much merriment. The Deer Family are appearing in the sensational act, Indians of the Past, showing how a family of settlers are waylaid by the "Redskins," a great pitch of excitement being reached when the natives are about to put to death their victims, who are only rescued in the nick of time. The youngest member of the family shows great ability as a sand and buck dancer. Luis Hardt deputised on Monday for Joe Dale with a strong man show. The orchestra play the grand march, "Ophir," by Mr. Carl Hamlin, the conductor, and also a selection from popular melodies.

ROYAL ALBERT.

Looking as radiant and as genial as ever, Mr. Walter Leaver is presiding this week over an admirable holiday programme at the Royal Albert, Canning Town. One of the biggest items on the bill is entitled a Sensational Sketch, by Leonard Mortimer.

"THE STAR OF SINNERS,"

Francis Durham ..... MR. REGINALD WEIGHILL
Detective Chesterfield .. MR. ERNEST WINGFIELD
Charles Peace ..... MR. LEONARD MORTIMER
Herman Krutz ..... MR. WELDON ATHERSTONE
The Faded Lady ..... MISS IDA CLIFFORD
Edith Durham ..... MISS EDITH LEWIS

This piece is certainly one of the most sensational that Mr. Leonard Mortimer has yet given us. It deals, we are told, with "an hitherto unrecorded adventure in the life of Charles Peace." We are afraid there is more than one adventure in it; in fact, the sketch is crowded with exciting incidents. Francis Durham has the idea of going in for a Parliamentary career. He has been receiving a number of anonymous letters hinting at a scandal connected with his wife, who, by the way, is the sister of an abandoned girl whose life Charles Peace has wrecked. Detective Chesterfield is engaged both by Francis Durham and his wife separately. Some incriminating correspondence associated with Mrs. Durham and her sister is taken from the possession of a blackguard named Herman Krutz, and deposited in Durham's safe. Krutz visits the residence of the Durhams, and endeavours to compel Mrs. Durham to hand back the letters to him. She refuses, and during her absence he attempts to pick the lock of the safe. Seeing a man at the window, he darts into hiding, and Charles Peace enters the room with all the implements of a burglar's calling. Charlie soon opens the safe, and extracts money and papers. Krutz tries to get possession of the latter, and a desperate scene between the two men follows. Peace escapes, but is afterwards tracked down after a variety of exciting incidents, and the story ends as the righteous would wish it to end. It is a veritable dare-devil that Mr. Leonard Mortimer presents to us as Charles Peace. His make-up is distinctly good, especially that in which Peace is made to look like a sanctimonious Non-conformist minister, and apparently Mr. Mortimer has studied the existing likenesses of the famous murderer. Miss Ida Clifford is pathetic as the Faded Lady, and Miss Edith Lewis treats us to some excellent tragic acting in her rôle of Edith Durham. Mr. Reginald Weighill is gentlemanly and unaffected as Francis Durham; Mr. Ernest Wingfield gives us a smart detective as Chesterfield; and Mr. Weldon Atherstone makes himself sufficiently disagreeable as a blackguardly German schemer. The sketch is superbly mounted.

A distinct feature of the evening's entertainment is afforded by Mr. Harry Gold. He has a new song-scena entitled The Animated Sovereigns. A black cloth is studded with glittering coins, which are thrown forward, and children's heads appear through the apertures. The youngsters sing the chorus of Mr. Gold's catchy song, "Gold, gold, gold." The effect is most pleasing. Mr. Gold's ditty, "I've got a pal," also meets with the approbation of the audience. Miss Rose Tree is a chic comedienne and speciality dancer, and a very delightful rendering she gives of "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you" and "Bright Eyes." Hans and Lux prove exceedingly entertaining with their comedy patter and lively repartee, and the Three Victorias submit a burlesque singing and dancing turn which is highly appreciated. Miss Belle Meredith, a charming and engaging comedienne and dancer, enchants the house with her special songs and her terpsichorean efforts, and Mr. Will Burton causes roars of laughter with his facial eccentricities and his grotesque dancing. The Kanes have a musical comedy act which is interesting and amusing from beginning to end, and for exquisite vocalism we can commend the Olympian Quartette, whose glees and miscellaneous songs are most popular with East Enders, especially their "Baby Boy" song. Sergeant Pearl, the clever ventriloquist, and Walter Payne's bio-photoscope conclude the programme.

BROTHERS WEBB.

AT BLACKPOOL,
KEEP THE HOUSE IN A ROAR OF LAUGHTER.

At the Winter Gardens, Blackpool, quite one of the smartest turns is that of the Brothers Webb, a couple of clever and brilliantly humorous musical clowns, who keep the house in a constant roar of laughter.—Blackpool Herald, April 17, 1906.

MR. PETER CONROY had a great reception at the Queen's, Poplar, on Monday evening last, when he resumed his post of chef d'orchestre at that hall, a position he vacated in 1888.

MR. TOM LEO, whose interests are now being looked after by Mr. George Barclay, will produce immediately his new comic song, by the author and composer of "Too Lazy to Live," entitled "The Fellow Who Falls in Love."

BLANCHE AND DIACOFF, the tea-cup track cyclists, after a long tour in India, will arrive, per s.s. Orient, from Colombo in Tilbury Docks on Monday.—Myles and May, with their original comedy and vocal costume act, will be coming to town shortly.—Mr. Syd Herman, with his Hebrew parody on "My Irish Molly O," will shortly be seen in London after his provincial tour.

WE regret to hear that Mr. Gordon Wilson, the well-known poet, writer of ballads, and reciter, has been ill for a very long time, and is now an inmate of the Fawler Ward at the Stockton and Thornaby Hospital, county Durham.

MISS MAUD GRUNDY, harpist, who had been engaged for the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, was suddenly taken ill on Tuesday. The doctor on being called in pronounced her to be suffering from measles.

MASTER F. BURNS, one of the vocalists of the celebrated troupe, Tom White's Arabs, was presented on Saturday night last with a gold medal bearing the inscription, "To Master F. Burns, from J. H. P., on his third year with Tom White's Arabs." The lad belongs to Middlesbrough, and Pimple, the popular comedian, and director, is proud of the honour done to a clever member of his company.

PROFESSOR WOOD'S musical and pictorial organisation has been attracting large audiences at the Public Hall, Dudley, this week. A capital series of animated pictures is shown, and in addition there is a specially-selected company of talented artists, including Professor J. H. Maccann, C.A.M., the renowned "Concertina King," who again proves himself a complete master of his favourite instrument, and wins very warm applause.

MR. W. J. RAINE and his vaudeville company, who are in Inverness this evening, will finish at Perth on Saturday next, having had a most successful tour.

THE COLISEUM REVUE.

Fantasy and actuality are happily united in the new Revue at the Coliseum, and the alliance has enabled Mr. Oswald Stoll to present a series of scenes that should delight both the mass of Londoners and the visitors to the Metropolis for months to come. The Revue is indigenous to the boulevards, and bears much the same relation to French as pantomime does to English dramatic art. M. Victor de Cottens, the inventor and producer of the Coliseum novelty, wields a practical pen, being the author of similar pieces at the Folies-Bergère and the Chatelet. He describes the production as a series of scenes illustrating the events of the year in a light comic vein. Politics and social crazes are parodied, and in order to be abreast of the entente cordiale an international character is given to it by the introduction of a scene in Paris, with a typical illustration of a mid-Lent carnival, backed by a panoramic representation of the boulevards from the Porte Saint-Martin to the Opéra. Mr. Arthur Shirley, the English adaptor, has had much experience of Paris and Parisian plays; Mr. Roland Carse and Mr. Arthur Wimperis have fairly well surmounted the difficulties of adapting the majority of the lyrics to foreign melodies; and Mr. Walter Slaughter, who has shown a wise choice in borrowing from lively French and German scores, has also written some excellent numbers himself. The Revue is the most ambitious and elaborate work of the kind that has been seen on any English stage since Dion Boucicault produced Babil and Bijou at Covent Garden on Aug. 29, 1872. This was labelled a fantastical spectacle in eighteen tableaux, and was by that unapproachable writer of burlesque, J. R. Planché, the stage arrangement being undertaken by the popular author of The Shaughraun.

The production, indeed, is on a scale of lavish splendour, and with its magnificent dresses and scenery, its supreme quality of swing and go, and the whole-hearted enthusiasm with which the company enters into its work, it should establish the fame of the Coliseum as a home of spectacle. The compère of the Revue is our old friend Robinson Crusoe, who, waking up after a long Rip Van Winkle, has "left his little wooden hut," and finds himself in a gorgeous apartment in the Louis Quinze style devoted to the soirées of the Actuality Club, where beauty and fashion meet. Robinson, who has seen nothing since he was lost sight of in the Island of Juan Fernandez in 1810, is filled with amazement, but is kindly welcomed by the "smart set," who tell him that Bernard Shaw is Pinero and Shakespeare all in one. Defoe's adventurous hero then finds a guide, philosopher, and friend in the commère, represented on Monday by Miss Billie Burke, late of the Blue Moon company at the Lyric, and on Tuesday by Miss Godwynne Earle, who was suddenly called upon in consequence of Miss Burke's indisposition. "Actuality" is followed by a pretty fantasy of the months, the first scene being wound up by a typical resumé of pantomime, with follies, Punches, columbines, and clowns.

In the next scene, which has much topical interest, compère and commère go Earl's Courting, and merriment and pleasure rule the famous "lamp-lit" ground in the outer western district. Here we enjoy an electric ballet, and Miss Fashion shows us a series of dainty petticoats, to which at a given signal life and "understanding" are given by daintily hosed legs, swinging in rhythmic fashion to tuneful melody, which records the enchanting grace of snowy lace and melodious frou-frou. The faces belonging to the owners of these shapely limbs are not seen. Robinson, the compère, is much impressed with the charm of the tea-girls, but when he attempts to kiss one he is informed that they are not allowed to receive gratuities. An interesting episode at Earl's Court—which, by the way, is admirably realised—is the attempt of a music-publisher—well played by Mr. Charles Trevor—to obtain the arrest of a cohort of music pirates, who are ingenious enough to change their "graft" on the appearance of a policeman, represented in characteristic style by the burly Ben Brown, of Black Justice fame.

The chief characters in Scene 3 take flight to Paris, wherein the topical interest of the Revue is well maintained by a representation of the kissing of the Market Queen by the chairman of the London County Council during the agreeable visit of that body to la ville lumière. The entente cordiale is humorously represented by the canine friendship of a British bulldog with a French poodle. Mr. Arthur Conquest and Mr. Harry Lupino are associated in this scene, and their success is great. A decided hit is also made by the famous Price Troupe of Pantomimists, who give life, colour, and reality to the amusing mid-carnival scene in the Place de l'Opéra, to which reference has already been made.

Perhaps the most appreciated topical item is the duet (words by Roland Carse, music by Walter Slaughter) sung in the Zoo (Scene 4) by Princess Ena Primrose (Miss Queenie Essex) and King Alfonso Pomegranate (Mr. Henry J. Corner). English audiences are always loyal, and the hearty reception given to the number on Tuesday will be sure to grow in intensity during the run.

The Lady Socialists' Meeting (Scene 5) is evidently a parody of a noble Countess's address in favour of a Labour candidate at West Ham. Mr. George Le Clerq, the well-known negro comedian, represents the lady orator with no little command of humour, and the meeting at a theatre (cleverly realised in a built-up scene) is rudely interrupted by Miss Nellie Bowman, who plays the London street boy in very amusing fashion. Mr. Fred Zeitz and Mr. Harry Gardner also assist the fun, which might well be increased here.

The last scene of all is a supper-party at the Trocadero, which serves to introduce several recently popular plays with some successes of the present, and ends with a very gorgeous procession of the Decorations of Nations. Representatives of Italy, Spain, America, France, Japan, Russia, Germany, and England march in stately procession, the glittering and dazzling spectacle culminating in the grand finale, the Jubilee of the Victoria Cross. The note of the production is kaleidoscopic variety and entrancing spectacular effect; and here let us heartily recognise the immensity of the task of the arranger, Mr. Will Bishop, who has done so much for the ballets and special dances, and who has found in Signorina Galimberti a singularly charming prima ballerina, with the true Italian method at the points of her toes. We have mentioned Mr. Arthur Conquest in his impersonation of the British bulldog, but we must not omit to speak of the real artistic excellence of his parrot—a wonderfully natural bit of acting. Miss Queenie Essex shows considerable ability in her various characters, and should prove an acquisition to the ranks of musical comedy actresses. She is always exceedingly bright and animated. Mr. Henry J. Corner does well in his various characters, but will do better when less self-conscious; Mr. William Morgan distinguishes himself in the small part of a gendarme; Miss Annie Braddan makes a popular figure of the Queen of the "Halles," and is also heard to advantage as Miss Fashion in the song of the "petticoat"; Mr. George Lashwood makes an excellent Dandy in the Trocadero scene; and a sensation is caused by the Rocking-Chair Girls, who, after giving reminiscences of "The Cosy Corner Girls," turn over with the seats of their chairs. Propriety is not shocked, however, by this daring display, for not even a frill gets out of place. Miss Godwynne Earle, who played the commère on Tuesday afternoon, may be said to have done well under trying circumstances; but she was obviously handicapped by insufficient preparation, inevitable in the circumstances. Mr. Tom E. Murray, with his familiar chuckle and anecdotes, is funny in a restrained way.

THE EMPIRE REVUE.

Mr. George Grossmith, jun., has been saturated with Gaiety traditions, and what is more to the purpose, he can give expression to the spirit of travesty that possesses him—a fact that will be readily recognised in his latest work, Venus, 1906, which was successfully produced at the Empire on Tuesday evening. It is in four scenes, and we are introduced to Lord Percy Pall Mall in the hall of his house in Park-lane. Percy has statues of Venus Aphrodite and Vulcan standing in the vestibule, and when a Gibson girl, whom he has taken out to supper, comes on the scene, he is bold enough to say that she is more beautiful than the goddess, who comes to life to put in an indignant caveat against such an outrageous statement. She is supported in her remonstrance by Vulcan, who, as a faithful spouse, champions his wife's case in the law courts (Scene 2). Lord Percy is counsel for the Gibson Girl, who claims to be an actress because she has three words to say in a musical comedy—"What price Romano's?" The witnesses in the case include Mr. Onions, Jane Cakebread, and a bookmaker. The Judge—a connoisseur of beauty—after singing an excerpt from Gilbert and Sullivan's Trial by Jury, decides in favour of the Gibson Girl. The Court scene, with its female jury, is very funny. We lose sight of some of the principal characters in the next scene—a compartment in an electric coach on the Underground; but there is plenty of riotous fun in the final tableau, Trafalgar-square, with the Nelson column in the foreground. The Square has been the scene of a meeting of the unemployed, and when the curtain rises a Labour leader is addressing about half-a-dozen loungers and a small boy or two. The audience dwindles to one gamin, who eventually disappears. No sooner has he gone than Vulcan, enraged at the turn things have taken, decides to destroy London by an agent more powerful than radium. The god seems to have seismic force at his disposal, for the Nelson column and Morley's Hotel topple over, the lions trot off, the National Gallery disappears, and that particular portion of London consecrated to living loafers and statues of dead heroes becomes a rocky waste. It is peopled by the characters of the revue in the costumes which Mr. Reed has made famous by his drawings in "Punch." They are pre-historic and scanty.

In a moment we see birds and beasts even more grotesque than Mr. Tree's fanciful fauna in his fine production of The Tempest. The pre-historic waste is peopled by the characters of the revue in skin costumes, and the wildest spirit of travesty pervades the whole scene. Venus 1906 is just the right length, and Empire audiences will discover in it just the right kind of entertainment for the summer months.

The company works admirably together. Miss Sybil Arundale is an exquisite swell as Lord Percy Pall Mall, and has several taking numbers to sing. The chief of these is "The Picture Postcard Girlie," in which various of the ballerine appear as living portraits in frames. The bright and clever young actress, who dances delightfully, is encored invariably, and her success is very great. Mr. W. H. Berry's unctuous humour as the Judge is surpassed even by his drollery as a labour leader, and it is only his due to say that the success of the Trafalgar-square scene, which is the funniest in the piece, is largely due to his efforts. Mr. Harry Grattan may be bracketed with Mr. Berry, and he shows remarkable versatility in his impersonations of the Professor, Mr. Onions, a bookmaker, Jane Cakebread, Arthurius Robertus, and Mr. Nelson, R.N.V. Miss Elizabeth Firth makes a fascinating Gibson Girl, and is lively and spirited in her work; Miss Daisy Cordell is a stately Venus; and Mr. T. Tremayne is well placed as Vulcan. The scenery by Telbin, Banks, and Bruce-Smith is decidedly ingenious, the Trafalgar-square set being especially so; and the music, which for the most part is composed and arranged by Miss Constance Tippett, is catchy and tuneful. Mr. Tom Terriss is responsible for the arrangement of the dances and business, and the swing and go of the whole performance, which is due in great measure to his genius for stage-management, make it very exhilarating. The costumes are cleverly designed by Wilhelm, and Clarkson is responsible for the wigging.

Most of the ante-Easter attractions are found in the variety portion of the entertainment, which has already been noticed at length in these columns.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

Of the glorious Bank Holiday on Monday full advantage was taken by the thousands who frequented the people's grounds and palace at Muswell Hill. The amusements were continuous for twelve hours, and a three-show variety entertainment in the Central Hall attracted large audiences. Amongst the notable turns were the clever and agile Desmonti and Mora, the triple bar performers; the Selton Troupe of comedy jugglers; Arthur James, pedestal skate-dancer; Miss Helen Poppmacher, a singer of more than ordinary merit; Mr. W. L. Cockburn, whose good and powerful voice was well suited to the large building; Hill's Living Marionettes, a diverting exhibition; W. W. Donovan, cornet soloist; and the ever-welcome Hardy, the American Blondin, with his extraordinary feats on the high rope. This intrepid funambulist met with an enthusiastic reception. This is probably his last appearance in England prior to leaving for his native Canadian home for good. Mr. G. D. Cunningham's masterly efforts on the large organ were listened to with intense delight.

At half-past two M. Auguste Gaudron made a high parachute descent from a hot-air balloon, and a right-away ascent at half-past five from the Park. Pain's fireworks on the lake were brilliant specimens of pyrotechnic art. The side shows were apparently doing good business throughout the day, and the indefatigable lion tamer, Captain Henry, gave eloquent explanations in the zoological section, which is placed under his experienced care.

The theatre, notwithstanding the huge crowds in other parts, was largely attended, the attraction being the newest version, which runs all the week, of New Frivolity, the invention of the clever Mr. John Leopold. It is supported by the original members of his talented family. The merriment was kept at bubbling-point from the rise to the fall of the curtain. As Oliver Buckwheat, Mr. Watson Hume was a host in himself, his grotesque make-up and witticisms scoring heavily. Mr. John Leopold, jun., was a distinct success in his delineation of an English student, and earned well-deserved applause. Mr. Wilfred Vaughan did admirable work in his humorous study of the deserted husband, Jules Vermiglio, his assumed ferocity being a commendable feature. Mr. Barry Lupino as Sammy Vermiglio was responsible for a performance that was the acme of eccentricity, and his versatility was recognised by constant marks of approval. Mr. Tom Leopold presented a good embodiment of Professor Fumble, the schoolmaster; and Mr. Willie Leopold as Tickle, a page, was a most desirable acquisition to the company. Miss Marie Ault as Madame Cobweb submitted a pleasing and well-defined interpretation of the schoolmistress; Miss Amy Hall was a piquant Lucy Buckwheat; Miss Gertie Winter was full of jollity and bonhomie as Vinnie Moore; the pretty French waitress, Mananette, had careful treatment at the hands of Miss Queenie Bronte; and the Misses May Gordon and Minnie West respectively well sustained their rôles.

Zarmo, the comic juggler, is going to make a tour around the world, commencing in May, 1907. He is starring at the Hippodrome, Accrington, this week.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

On the first great public holiday of the year no place of amusement round London proved a greater centre of attraction than the Palace which crowns Sydenham Hill; and here on Easter Monday, cheered by an unclouded blue sky, balmy breezes, and pleasant sunshine, a huge crowd spent hours of unalloyed enjoyment in a manner that gave a flat contradiction to the oft-quoted saying that the English take their pleasures sadly.

In the theatre, three performances of Florodora were given by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company, and this favourite musical comedy was greatly enjoyed by the holiday-folk.

In the centre transept was given a capital variety entertainment. The Yags and Mary Trio of trick cyclists appeared in a novel and startling act, which included cycle-somersaulting in mid-air; Les Trois Itrams were seen in a novelty perch and gymnastic pot-pourri act; other attractions that received extensive patronage included Fraulein Angeline, lady juggler and cannon-ball performer; the Mar-Ti-Fi Trio of Montenegrin acrobats; Mlle. Lillie Le Breton, trapeze artist; and Mlle. Louise Raffin's troupe of performing monkeys. In the Chinese Court those curious little people from the forests of Central Africa, called the Pygmies, held frequent receptions, and gave their quaint dances. In the electric theatre Cotes Clark's "Palace of Mystery," an exhibition of scientific creations, attracted many interested in such matters.

The huge holiday crowd were entertained in many other ways; the field of selection was indeed a wide one. One of the special attractions was the latest American sensation, the topsy-turvy railway, which ceaselessly whirled its passengers round the loop. Maxim's captive flying machine was on the move from early morn to dewy eve, and long after; the water chute, the largest on earth, plunged continuous boatloads of excited young people into the receptive basin amidst peals of laughter; the electric canoes took others for voyages on the lake through marvellous grottoes and caves and a perfect fairy archipelago; in the Castle of Trouble people got into an amazing maze, and there were roars of laughter, amidst which all trouble was forgotten; and the helter-skelter slide proved a novel if somewhat undignified source of delight. Other attractive items were two balloon ascents, bicycle and football matches, motor-car racing, palmistry and phrenology by Miss Alice Lee, the electric fish-pond, Hyatt and Brown's rifle range, scientific exhibition of under-water swimming by Miss Kirk, assisted by Miss Sylvia and Miss Violet Saraski, a shooting gallery, open air dancing, a grand evening concert in the centre transept by the massed bands, and, finally, a firework display by Messrs. C. T. Brock and Co. Apart from the delightful weather and the myriad attractions of the Palace, there were special reasons why Monday's holiday crowd was larger than ever. Electric trams were, for the first time, running from the southern districts to its doors, and many thousands reached the splendid grounds after an exhilarating ride who formerly would have found the place inaccessible.

AMUSEMENTS IN BRUSSELS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BRUSSELS, April 17.—Easter and fine weather are a treat for the tourists, and have brought to our town thousands of strangers. Our theatres, in spite of the glorious sun, and thanks to rather cool evenings, have been crammed all these days.

The only novelty of late has been at the Monnaie, a new opera, Deidamia, taken by Lucien Solway from Musset's play, 'Twixt the Cup and the Lips. The first performance was a success for the composer, Mr. Rasse, a local man, and the interpreters, specially for M. Albers in the part of Frank, the huntsman.

The Parc has been reviving Frou-Frou. The Alcazar has secured Mlle. Mistinguette to play La Môme Crevetté in La Dame de Chez Maxim. The Molière, after a very successful revival of La Poupée, has just unearthed Hervé's Petit Faust. The Galeries have sumptuously mounted Javaul and Varney's Pompier de Service, whilst at the Olympia the Parisian success, Triplepatte—that fine comedy by Tristan Bernard, which might be sub-titled The Irresolute—is drawing big and appreciative audiences. At the Alhambra popular opera prevails with a good sound troupe, and the Vaudeville has not exhausted yet the hilarity of the public with Bisson's Surprises du Divorce.

Easter Eve witnessed another important event, the reopening of the Palais d'Eté. Farfalla, a chanteuse; the comic singer, Amelet; the Paulasto Troupe, Follies in a Café Garden; the Three Saytons in their original alligator scene; the Six Rastelbinder in their military evolutions; Alice and Nina, Transvaal sharpshooters; the Samourai, Japanese wrestlers; Harry Rochez, with his trained ponies and dogs; Neuero, the clever juggler with soap bubbles; and Edith Helena, the American Patti, have all caught the favour and the applause of an overcrowded audience.

AGENCY AND THE PRESS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—As a variety agent, I think it is quite time that the public should be informed that such instances as frequently occur of so-called variety agents obtaining fees from stage aspirants by what seems general misrepresentation is not the modus operandi of variety agencies as a body; and the time has now arrived when they have been forced to protect their calling in the eyes of the public by forming themselves into an association to deal with cases of this kind, and such an association is in existence, and doing good work.

It seems an accepted rule with the Press that anything occurring connected with the stage should be blazoned forth in daring type, and here we have headlines such as "A Variety Agent's Misrepresentations," "A Theatrical Agent's Promises"; and it quite seems that we as variety agents suffer the same indignity that the profession does at large when it notices cases in the Police-courts, coloured up and headlined, "A Music-hall Comedian in Trouble," "A Prominent Serio-comic Arrested," &c.; and I say without fear of contradiction that in the majority of instances the profession suffers for the misdeeds of people actually not in the profession, and entirely unconnected with the stage.

This is how the profession suffers in the eyes of the public. It is the old story—the good suffer for the bad; and, speaking as a variety agent, I think the time is ripe for the public to know that these happenings cited in papers are gradually getting "weeded out," and that the variety agent proper is not a person who extorts money by false pretences, that his rate of commission is a recognised one, and that there is not the bad odour about his business that the public may think exists.—Yours faithfully,

WILL DALTON
(Dalton's Agency).

5, Matlock-avenue, West Didsbury,
Manchester, April 19, 1906.

Mr. Lester Barrett has been overwhelmed with applications for copies of America's latest song crazes, "Starlight" and "Just a little rocking chair and you." Mr. Theodore Morse, of "Bluebell" fame, has surpassed himself in the melodies, and Miss Belle Braham and Mr. Hamilton Hill are to be congratulated on being among the first to secure them. Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter have placed heavy orders with their printers for these huge successes.

OPENING OF THE ALBERT HALL WINTER GARDENS, SOUTHPORT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Under the patronage of his Worship the Mayor and Mayoress of Southport (Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bibby-Hesketh), together with 150 of Admiral Togo's heroes from the Japanese warship Katori, who were the guests of the management, the above handsome hall was opened on Saturday evening before an immense audience. The building, which was formerly known as the Pavilion Theatre of Varieties, has during the past few months undergone what may be described as a complete transformation, and no one would now recognise any semblance of the former place of entertainment. The decorations and rich embellishments are on a huge scale, and nothing has been omitted to make the hall (which has accommodation for about 3,000 people) one of the most up-to-date, comfortable, and attractive in the provinces. An inclined floor has been substituted for the old level one, which equalises the line of sight from back to front, and the eight pairs of iron columns, which greatly intercepted the view, have been entirely removed. A new gallery, capable of seating 200, has been erected at the east end of the building, and one of the most striking features is the re-arrangement of the old balcony, which now forms a number of projecting bays, each having the appearance of a large box. A separate covered entrance has been constructed from Coronation Walk for the convenience of the patrons of the back seats, and a grand staircase leading from the promenade to the balcony has been erected. The hall has been refurnished in a lavish style, and there are also a number of minor structural improvements, the whole of which, as well as the architecture, has been undertaken by local firms.

At the commencement of the programme the genial manager (Mr. Alfred Hemming), who has been indefatigable in his efforts in promoting and carrying out the detail arrangements, briefly thanked the audience on behalf of the directors for their generous response, both in point of numbers and heartiness of appreciation; for many years, he said, Southport had wanted a hall which could accommodate so large an audience, and enable high-class concerts, music hall entertainments, festivals, &c., to be given at reasonable rates. "I hope," continued Mr. Hemming, "the building is to your satisfaction. It was not the intention there should be any speeches, but seeing such a magnificent 'house' rally to support the directors and extend so cordial a reception to our gallant allies, induced me to express the gratitude of the directorate."

The programme was then proceeded with, an agreeable item being the selections rendered by the band of H.M. Scots Guards. Other turns included Miss Violet Ludlow, soprano; Madame Dews, contralto; the Maori Chieftain, Ranginia, the marvellous tenor; Mr. Frank Leedam, society entertainer; and the Southport Prize Choir of sixty voices under the conductorship of Mr. W. Tattersall.

The new hall was well filled on Sunday evening, when the principals and a selected chorus from The Duchess of Dantzic company, supported by the Opera House orchestra, under the baton of Mr. W. P. Stone, submitted a very enjoyable sacred and classical concert, both the vocal and instrumental items being capitally rendered.

Miss Vesta Tilley appeared here for the Bank Holiday night only, and the popularity of this celebrated variety artist was evidenced by the attendance of an immense audience, who accorded her an overwhelming reception. Miss Tilley sang no less than six songs, each of which was rendered in her well-known inimitable dashing style. The initial selection was "Down Lovers' Lane," which was followed by "Fellows of the Royal Artillery," and subsequently "The Seaside Sultan," "Following in Father's Footsteps," and, in response to repeated encores, the old favourite, "Algy," was given.

In reply to the prolonged cheering, Miss Tilley heartily thanked the house for the approval they had shown. They did not know, she observed, how delighted she felt that they had appreciated her "humble efforts" to please them. She added that she sailed for America on Friday, and she hoped there to hear of the success of this beautiful hall. She also warmly thanked Mr. Hemming for his kindness in connection with this visit to Southport.

Mr. Hemming acknowledged the kind things said about him by Miss Vesta Tilley. He observed that it was seven years since he first came amongst them in the capacity of manager of the Winter Gardens. That was not his first visit. It was over twenty years since he came to Southport, but since he came as manager of the Winter Gardens he had thought Southport required something better than the old Pavilion. He begged of his directors then to do something to supply that want, but circumstances occurred which prevented their accomplishing such a result as they saw that night. He was very pleased that the present Board of Directors were only too anxious and willing to supply the want Southport had felt for many years. He hoped that the method of meeting that want by the creation of that beautiful hall had met with their appreciation. He could assure them that so long as he was there as a caterer for their wants he would do his best to bring to Southport all the talent he possibly could. If only Southport people would support them in appropriate ratio, they might rest content that there was no hall in the North of England, in the whole of England, that would be better catered for. This was not, however, a philanthropic institution—it was a matter of pounds, shillings, and pence, and the shareholders required a dividend. So long, however, as the support was adequate, they might rest content that the talent would be. He added that during the last two months he had put in almost fourteen hours every day seeing that every detail should be perfect. He hoped the result had come up to their expectation. Honestly, he himself would tell them he never thought it possible to create such a handsome hall out of the old Pavilion. Every credit was due to the local tradesmen for the skilful, artistic, and finished manner in which they had carried out the reconstruction. Now they only required adequate support for the talent to be of the best. In conclusion, Mr. Hemming warmly thanked Miss Vesta Tilley for coming to Southport on that important occasion. She had attended at great inconvenience to herself, seeing that she was to sail for America on Friday.

The remainder of an admirable programme comprised Roma and Romani, artistic musical speciality; Mr. Frank Cass, Lancashire vocal comedian; Miss Millie Engler, American speciality artist; the Players (Jennie and Harry), eccentric comedy vaudeville; Mr. J. C. Kurry, loose-legged comedian; Miss Florence Gwynne, society entertainer and pianist; Tee and Tee, comic acrobatic comedians; and Beauty and the Burglar, a farcical episode presented by Miss Millie Engler and company.

Mr. Fred Eustace's new production, The Lights of the Harbour, has been booked for a large number of the London Halls.—Mr. and Mrs. Royston-Dene have made a hit with their novel playlet, His Birthday.—Miss Elsie Molloy's success at the Coliseum, Glasgow, this week, in the musical comedy The Lady Bankrupt, has been very gratifying.

The Four Trees, in consequence of the marriage of their sister Lucy, who has now retired from the stage, will in future work together in the halls as the Three Sisters Tree, and will shortly be seen in an entirely new act.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

SYDNEY.—Feb. 27.—The Passport, after a ten years' rest, was revived by Messrs. Brough and Flemming at the Criterion Theatre on Feb. 24. Miss Beatrice Day was in her very best form as Mrs. D'Arcy. It was an intensely artistic impersonation. Mr. Herbert Flemming as the fussy and pompous Coleman was very good; Miss Emma Temple was admirable as Markham; Mr. Edgar B. Payne was a capital Greenwood; and Miss Bessie Major gave valuable assistance; and smaller parts were acted by Misses Gordon Lee and Mary Millward, and Messrs. Norman McKeown (Schmirkoff), Phillip Leslie (Algie Grey), Dundas Walker (an inane Henry Harris), and Mr. Carter Pickford, an excellent Sinclair.

The Knight Jeffries Dramatic company, at the Criterion, followed R. G. Knowles. David Garrick and Gilbert's Comedy and Tragedy, constituted the bill, with Mr. Knight as Muskerry's fanciful hero, and Miss Maud Jeffries as Clarice, both praiseworthy performances. Alderman Gresham was admirably depicted by Mr. George Carey; the Ada Gresham, called Violet this time, was entrusted to bright and piquant Miss Unie Russell; and Mr. Harry Plimmer was Tom Tallyhaut (our old friend Squire Chivey), and he made the most of the rôle. Other parts were fairly acted by Misses Amy Singleton and Eva Quinn, and Messrs. J. B. N. Osborne, Herbert Leigh, and George Chalmers. In Comedy and Tragedy Mr. Frank Stirling was an acceptable Duc d'Orleans, and Mr. Harry Plimmer made D'Aulnay dignified and manly.

"Veronique" is in its last week at Her Majesty's, as Mr. J. C. Williamson will produce The Shop Girl next Saturday.

The Tivoli welcomed Barnard's Marionettes on Saturday with laughter, applause, and great enthusiasm. Mr. Harry Rickards seldom misses fire with his imported or local "big guns," and this new turn is a capital engagement. Mlle. Ada Cerito, the Scottish Meisters, Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, Fred Bluett (warmly welcomed back), Hilda Lane, Ethel Preston, Ruby Watson, Carleton and Sutton, Alf. Lawton, and Leeds and Semar are all to the fore.

The train conveying Mr. J. C. Williamson's répertoire company from Launceston to Hobart, Tasmania, on the 25th, caught fire. All the Princess Ida scenery, properties, and wardrobe were destroyed, and but for the prompt stoppage of the train the passenger carriages would have been burnt with their living freight. As it was, all escaped uninjured, but several passengers lost every vestige of their luggage.

MASKELYNE AND DEVANT'S MYSTERIES.

The varied assortment of startling tricks prepared by Messrs. Maskelyne and Devant for their reopening at the St. George's Hall are admirably designed to please the numerous visitors who make a visit to the popular Home of Mystery an unalterable feature of their holiday arrangements. An interesting item of the Easter programme is the announcement of the result of the "Trick without a title" competition, the winner of the £50 being a lady. A young man, it will be remembered, is bound securely to an iron framework resembling "The Scavenger's Daughter" in the Tower of London, and placed upright within a narrow oblong box, which is firmly locked and bolted, and raised several feet from the ground. Mr. Maskelyne, who performs the trick, then takes a wax doll and turns it upside down, the cabinet is opened, and the young man inside is seen to have reversed himself in exactly the same way. The youth is dressed as a boy in buttons, and the trick has therefore been christened "The New Page"—a page turned over—a clever title which has won the award out of no less than 4000 suggestions.

Mr. David Devant has provided new additions to his répertoire of magical problems, one of the prettiest being that of a number of bells attached to coloured ribbons, which depend from a cord drawn across the stage. The bells are detached from their places, and carried a few yards away, but return instantaneously to their respective ribbons at the word of command. Mr. Devant also does wonders with the tub of Diogenes, which is brought forward quite empty, and devoid of top or bottom. A thin sheet of white paper is placed over each end of the empty tub, when, suddenly, by the aid of a strong light, a weird figure is seen within making strange motions, and presently the paper is broken, and the philosopher himself emerges from the barrel. Mr. Devant accompanies his tricks with his customary flow of good humour, and both in his new illusions, and those which have already become popular, is heartily cheered. Wonderful feats are also performed in association with his sister, Miss Dora Devant, whose experiments in "mental magnetism" are always correctly managed.

The musical interlude at the piano, submitted by Mr. Barclay Gammon, has also been replenished, and the clever humorist now makes "The Honeysuckle and the Bee" a foundation for some admirable travesties of the styles of Chopin, German, Sullivan, and other celebrated composers. His monologue, "To be continued in our next," which is embellished with storm effects and very cleverly rendered, gives rise to further merriment, and wins the performer a hearty recall. The Burmese Gong is manipulated by Mr. John Warren, who also gives a ventriloquial performance with his puppet, "Marmaduke." M. Gintaro, the Japanese juggler, continues to astonish by his clever feats, and C. Tamamoto, who is also representative of Dai Nippon, performs on the perpendicular rope with his usual skill and intrepidity.

The Enchanted Hive has an early place in the programme, and in addition to the perplexing tricks which figure in it, witnesses some good acting on the part of Miss Helen McCullouch as a gipsy, and Miss Cassie Bruce, who plays with refinement and grace as Beatrice. Mr. F. W. Arnold-Mussett makes a specially humorous study of the nigger Sambo, Mr. Charles Glenrose is a gallant young hero, and Mr. Edward Morehen is a duly ferocious police-agent. The Mascot Moth, the pretty illusion which comes at the end of the programme, also gives employment to the talents of most of the artists above named, with the important addition of Mr. Devant, who acts cheerily as the young army officer, and performs the trick neatly. A good word should also be given to Mr. Henri Hermann, who plays well as an Indian fakir, and to Mr. E. A. Maskelyne, who acts realistically as the card-sharper. Effective music is performed by the orchestra under Mr. F. Cramer, a piece descriptive of a motor smash finding particular favour.

M. de Cottens and Mr. Walter Slaughter, the collaborators in the Revue which is now proving such a success at the Coliseum, are engaged in writing an original musical play, to be produced in London and Paris. Mr. Slaughter, in addition to selecting and adapting the music for the gorgeous entertainment at the Coliseum, has also composed many numbers. These include, in view of the forthcoming marriage of the King of Spain, a charming piece suggesting the English Rose and the Pomegranate, the national emblem of Spain.

Mr. Johnny Holland has accepted a sketch, written by Mr. Charles R. Stone, entitled Our Betsy, which he intends to produce at the Palace of Varieties, Portsmouth, shortly.

RE-OPENING OF QUEEN'S, POPLAR.

The Queen's Palace of Varieties, Poplar, was re-opened, under the proprietorship of Messrs. F. and M. Abrahams, on Monday afternoon, when an excellent programme was presented. With its fresh gold and cream decorations, its maroon hangings, and general artistic interior, the Queen's looked bright, handsome, and cosy. Mr. Jack Woolf, the general-manager, has been busy for some time past preparing for the opening, and his artistic sense and sound judgment are evidenced in all directions in the building. The conductor of the orchestra is the able Mr. B. Conroy. It may be mentioned that the upholstering has been done by Messrs. Lewis and Deakin, the decorations by Mr. A. Sugman, and the electric lighting by Messrs. Troy and Co. During the performances this week the portraits of the two proprietors and the manager have been thrown on the screen to the accompaniment of the cheers of the audience.

The bill of fare for the opening week is an interesting one. Mr. Tom Leo carries comicality to a fine point. As the curtain is raised for his turn, he is seen seated on a stool, his head resting against the back sheet, and looking the very personification of slothfulness. When he awakes with a mighty yawn, he tells us that he's heard about a man who never went downstairs because he was too lazy to get out of bed, and then proceeds to say that he himself can beat that, for he feels too lazy to live, and too lazy to die, and all he wishes to do is to go to hush-a-by. Then, in order to carry out his predominant characteristic on the stage, he asks the audience to sing the chorus, while he goes to sleep, and, finally, he is carried off the stage by two attendants. Mr. Leo's business is exceedingly clever, and proves greatly to the liking of the house. Miss Rose Hamilton appears in her delightful musical monologue, entitled Jack Sheppard. The scene is a well-nigh bare room. On one of the walls is a portrait of an elderly woman. It is the likeness of Jack Sheppard's mother, and the precocious young burglar is constantly seeing before him the face of his mother coming as a warning. Miss Hamilton renders her lines with feeling and expression. Miss Lily Lawrence is a pleasing singer and dancer, and her work is greatly admired. She has decided gifts as a comedienne, and ought to be heard of a good deal in the future.

A successful mimic comes along in the person of Miss Elfrida. She quite "touches the fringe" when she gives us imitations of well-known music-hall artists. Thus, we have Mr. Gus Elen with his coster chatter about a "pyjama hat," Miss Kate Carney in her "Mouth organ brigade," and Miss Marie Lloyd, and Mr. George Bastow in some of their songs. Miss Elfrida may certainly be congratulated upon her efforts in the imitation line. With excellent effect does she catch the voice and mannerisms of her subjects. Mr. C. O. Hughes, the Hebrew dialogue comedian, is an extremely whimsical individual. He brings out in strong relief the peculiarities of speech and gesture of the Jew, without in any way exaggerating the picture. No one is a better appreciator of humour than our Hebrew friends, and Jewish comedy, as a rule, is comedy that is irresistibly funny. McGovan and McGovan are a couple of charming young ladies, who sing sweetly and dance prettily. Their song "Lulu" is a very catchy number, and their terpsichorean efforts which succeed it are neatly and smartly executed. From the New Bioscope we have a remarkably interesting series of pictures illustrative of the life of New York policemen. Another film, depicting in lurid fashion the nightmare of a drunken man, is most laughable.

The Deer Family offer a somewhat sensational act in Indians of the Past. Three or four bellicose North American Indians are holding a pow-wow. In the next scene we are shown the hut of a settler. The latter is saying good-bye to his two little girls, as he is going to shoot something for supper. During his absence the Indians arrive, drag the children out, and set fire to their wooden home. They then bind the girls preparatory to scalping them. However, fortunately for the children, there is a disagreement between their captors, and during the quarrel the father returns and rescues the youngsters. The story is thrillingly told by the Deer Family. Miss Jenny Mills submits an attractive item in her new electrical act, which is set in the midst of prettily designed scenery. The first portion of her turn consists of an allegorical picture, in the shape of a dance, of "Dreamland." Very gracefully does the lady manipulate her dancing robe over the variegated lights, the effect being extremely pleasing to the eye. Following that we get "The enchanted cave" and "The spirit of fire." In the latter the representation of flames mounting higher and higher, and eating their way in all directions, is quite realistic. Miss Mills has shown considerable originality in conceiving her act, which we notice goes by the name of The Mystique Dream. Mr. Brian McCullough and company are presenting the sketch Beneath Big Ben. Mr. McCullough is seen in his amusing character-study of Walker Wallop, and Messrs. Algernon Syms and Gilbert Vernon give interesting portrayals of the villain and the hero; while Mr. Stafford Smith is effective as Farmer Bainbridge. Miss Ernice Fielding and Miss Nellie Nelson capably enact the rôles of Lucy Bainbridge and Marian Medwin respectively.

"Drink" is proving a great attraction at the Coliseum. Oddly enough, Miss Helen Graeme, who plays Gervaise with so much emotion, resembles Mr. Charles Warner's own daughter, Miss Grace Warner, in the same part. Of Scotch family, as her name shows, Miss Graeme was born in South America, and is a pretty young actress whose experiences hitherto have been more in the provinces than in London, although she has acted at His Majesty's, the Hippodrome, and other West End houses. Mr. Warner's extraordinary performance of Coupeau affected her so much when she first played with him that she found it positively haunting—a feeling that other actresses, who have also thrown themselves heart and soul into the same part, have confessed to experiencing.

Miss Mary Allestree, who plays Virginie in Drink, looks very handsome in a frock that was made in London but looks like Paris. It is a peculiar shade of rose-pink that turns to flame colour in certain lights, trimmed with a delicate design in ribbon of the same beautiful tint, with an effective wide black belt, elbow sleeves edged with fine lace, and an elaborate yoke also made of lace. The coquettish hat is composed of black chiffon, with a cluster of brilliant roses under the brim, and the whole costume is admirably suited to Miss Allestree's brunette style of beauty.

Mr. Will Musgrave was married by special licence on Saturday, April 14, to Miss Gladys Wingrove, of the Sisters Wingrove.

A FEW OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE ERA, Dec. 2, 1905.

"THE PALACE OF ORPHEUS."

Mr. J. B. Elliott's latest "creation," entitled "The Palace of Orpheus," was produced at the Lyric Theatre, Liverpool, on Monday, and was accorded by a crowded audience a reception which testified to its entire success. It is recorded that Orpheus was able to charm beasts and make rocks and woods move to his melody. That Mr. Elliott will attempt to emulate the achievements of the mythical musician of Greece is not to be expected, but, at all events, he is in a position to present a satisfying feast of harmony which is entirely distinct from what the public are accustomed to receive.

When the curtain rises a scene depicting the interior of a gorgeous palace is revealed. An immense star forms a pretty centre-piece on the stage, and at the back are three large organs, which display innumerable brass trumpets in front; while the side scenery is designed to represent harps, lyres, and other musical instruments. The scene in itself is exceedingly beautiful with merely the aid of the ordinary stage illumination, but when scores of coloured electric effects arranged tastefully in all directions are turned on, the claim of its being a "veritable Arabian Night's realisation of beauty, colour, and effect," is justified. Then commences an entertainment by the Eight Savonas, four ladies and four gentlemen, which is certainly unique. The performers are dressed in Georgian costume, with the customary white wigs and patches, the skirts of the ladies being of rich white satin, with music and musical instruments worked upon the front and sides in coloured silks. Space will not permit a detailed description of the various instruments used to produce delightful harmonious effects. Beyond the well-known brass there are the miramba, commonly used in South America to produce dance music; aluminium lyres, consisting of upright rods, from which sounds are produced; American organ chimes, the shaking of which produces mellow tones; ocarinas, metal discs spun on a slab table, &c. Three of the performers preside at the organs, and a volume of sound floods the whole of the auditorium. The rendering of the overture to "William Tell" (Rossini) was accompanied by very impressive stage effects. As the selection progressed the blaze of dazzling light gradually disappeared, the whistling of the wind, with peals of thunder, and vivid flashes of lightning, were introduced, and eventually these gave place to the twittering of birds as the darkness disappeared and the morning broke.

The second part of the entertainment consisted of a new comic Negro fantasia, entitled "A Moonlight Trip on a Mississippi Steamer," where we are treated to some charming dancing by the four lady Savonas, who wear large straw hats. This little turn earned a hearty encore. The half-hour's entertainment terminated with the playing of a hunting piece, which was full of life and action. The artists running to the footlights, which, by the way, consisted of electric-lighted transparent lyres, drew forth long, white streamers attached thereto. From these were suspended small bells, which raised a merry tinkling as the ribbons were jerked.

This fine show has cost Mr. J. B. Elliott, who invented it, the sum of £2,000, out of which £900 went for the three organs; and the weight of the scenery is about six tons. The modelling and painting, which are extremely clever, are the work of Mr. Charles Wood. These gentlemen have certainly succeeded in producing an attraction which cannot fail to satisfy wherever it is shown.

THE PORCUPINE, Liverpool, Saturday, Dec. 2, 1905.

LYRIC—THE SEVEN SAVONAS.

Monday was an especial occasion, and a red letter one for the habitués of the pretty Lyric. This was in the first production of a glorified musical show by the Seven Savonas. Musical grotesques are to be counted by the scores in the variety world, but such a gorgeous display as this has not before been seen as that invented and produced by J. B. Elliott, and the refined and high-class musical performance given by the Seven Savonas amid a perfect dazzling and almost blinding glory of electric lighting. At first sight this seems an almost chaotic mass of colour without form, but shapes of graceful design and contour soon emerge from this, and become a gleaming habitation fittingly called "The Palace of Orpheus" In this abode of brilliant colour and electrical splendour the gifted Savonas show their incomparable qualities as musical experts, and their wonderful command over the most extraordinary instruments. Perfect in the manipulation of these, they show marvellous skill in the execution of the most intricate classical music, and with equal facility handle such diverse instruments as organs, sleigh bells, metal discs, aluminium lyres, American organ chimes, ocarinas, South African marembas, zylophones, and silver tubes. I am looking forward, with all the other elect, to playing a harp, but I shall never attain to the accomplishments of the Savonas, either terrestrially or celestially. It is altogether a wonderfully great show. Well done, Papa Elliott. I take off my hat to you as the Greatest Musical Entertainer of the Age. You are a Genius in inventions, and he must be a bold man who would try to follow in your footsteps.

THE ENCORE, Nov. 30, 1905.

FIRST PRODUCTION OF MR. J. B. ELLIOTT'S GREAT CREATION "THE PALACE OF ORPHEUS" AT THE LYRIC, LIVERPOOL.

THE ELLIOTTS AND SAVONAS.

On Monday evening, November 27th, was produced for the first time at the Lyric Theatre of Varieties, Liverpool, Mr. J. B. Elliott's great creation, "The Palace of Orpheus," and we must at once confess that our most sanguine expectations were more than realised. The dazzling beauty, magnificent colouring, and elaborate design, are perfect and unique, and the manner it was received by a crowded house must have given great satisfaction to the artist and inventor.

It is a fascinating pleasure to witness such a gorgeous spectacular scene, the like of which has never before been put on in Liverpool. It is a veritable triumph, of artistic art, and beyond description; however I will try and give your readers some idea of this charming dream of fairyland.

When the curtain rises it displays "The Palace of Orpheus," in a subdued tone of light, which instantly changes to the most brilliant display of electric effects imaginable; a veritable feast for the eyes and mind to dwell upon and wonder how such effects can be created. In the background we see massive organs, towering up at least twenty feet high surrounded by terraces and golden staircases for the artists to reach them; also fantastic designs of every description illuminated by thousands of electrical coloured lights. When the scene was fully developed the whole audience rose to a pitch of excitement, and was unbounded in its applause, and called vociferously for the artist, Mr. Charles Wood, who came forward to receive their greetings, which he richly deserved. Mr. J. B. Elliott also had to respond, and it must have been a source of gratification to him to know that his great and costly efforts were so fully appreciated. In this scene the famous Savonas appear and give their unequalled performances arrayed in superb dresses, to harmonise with the colour of their surroundings. After giving their unparalleled performance of the overture to "William Tell," they play for the first time on any stage their negro fantasia, entitled "A Moonlight Trip on a Mississippi Steamer," written by Mr. J. B. Elliott. It is a pleasing and melodious sketch, and went with a dash and swing which the Savonas so well know how to infuse into their productions. It was received by the whole house with a perfect storm of delighted applause, and was voted a musical treat of the highest order. It will always be a welcome addition to their extensive repertoire.

We are pleased to say the whole performance went without the slightest hitch, which speaks volumes for all concerned in this great production.

THE MUSIC HALL AND THEATRE REVIEW, Dec. 1, 1905.

It would be difficult, writes our Liverpool correspondent, to imagine anything more gorgeous or more pleasing to the eye than Mr. J. B. Elliott's new creation The Palace of Orpheus, which was successfully produced on Monday evening at the Lyric Theatre of Varieties, Liverpool.

In fact, it is a moot point, indeed, whether the Ancients, in their Eleusinian mysteries, could conjure up such a handsome palace in which to enshrine their musical divinity, of whom Shakespeare wrote:—

> "Orpheus, with his lute, made trees
> And the mountain tops, that freeze,
> Bow themselves, when he did sing:
> To his music, plants, and flowers,
> Ever spring, as sun and showers,
> There had been a lasting spring.
> Every thing that heard him play,
> Even the billows of the sea,
> Hung their heads, and then lay by.
> In sweet music is such art:
> Killing care, and grief of h art."

Pleasurable anticipation ran high on Monday evening as to the merits of the new production, the fulfilment of which was realised in every particular. Much, of course, was expected from Mr. Elliott, having regard of the fact that his last creation, which was produced at the London Hippodrome, for the celebrated musical marvels, the Seven Savonas, caused something of a sensation in the metropolis

On his new venture Mr. Elliott has spared neither time nor money. Consequently, he has ably succeeded in making it a veritable triumph in stagecraft. The prevailing hues of the rich scheme of colouring are blue, gold, and amber, and when illuminated with the numerous variegated coloured electric lights the scene presented is fairy-like in the extreme.

In this the Seven Savonas (beautifully garbed in picturesque Georgian Costumes) give a capital show. At the initial performance they gave a clever rendering of a new Negro fantasia entitled "A Moonlight Trip on a Mississippi Steamer." They also performed the overture and the famous Storm Scene from Rossini's opera of "William Tell," which was executed in a brilliant manner by these clever exponents of mirth and music. The natural effects of thunder, lightning, rain, wind, the howling of wild beasts escaping from the storm, the return of calm, and the singing of the birds, lent additional effect to a most enjoyable performance, which no one should miss.

THE STAGE, Nov. 30, 1905.

LYRIC.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—Musical eccentricities, from the harmonious coffee-pot to the electric orchestra, have long been familiar to music hall habitués, but it has been left to Mr. J. B. Elliott to prove that there is still novelty to be displayed in this line of entertainment. Under the title of "The Palace of Orpheus," he has presented through the famous Savonas a marvellous and altogether remarkable creation. From a merely spectacular standpoint the performance is quite unique. Amid a dazzling blaze of electric lights, which is to be taken as suggesting the gorgeous palace of some god of harmonies, there is set up a bewildering mass of musical instruments of a strange and weird character. Even the footlights have been invaded, for along them runs a line of lyres, all beautifully illuminated, and all of which add to the musical pleasures of the turn. From these on the stage are silver tubes, South African marambas, saxaphones, grand organs, sleigh bells, chimes, ocarinas, aluminium lyres, American organ chimes, and musical metal discs. These, in the hands of the seven highly-gifted and talented Savonas, are made to produce a rich flood of both solo, concerted, and orchestral music of the highest order. This singularly fascinating turn is not only rich in these wonderful instruments and electrical effects, but in the infinite charm of the performers and their varied and comprehensive musical accomplishments.

Money, ingenuity, resource, and special attainments are visible in every phase and feature of the show, and it may be said to be one of the most perfect and astonishing entertainments which the music halls, with all their modern enterprise, have yet furnished. In this blaze of splendour Mr. J. B. Elliott and Mr. Charles Wood appeared to receive the plaudits of the delighted audience.

Permanent Address, 42, ST. PAUL'S-ROAD, MIDDLESBROUGH, ENGLAND.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

The glorious summer weather of the last fortnight had its effect upon the vast crowds that are not able to journey to the sea, and yet desperately need a holiday. At all the great open air fairs within easy access of London record crowds and record business for showmen was the result.

When we visited Hampstead Heath in the early afternoon of Monday, the greatest sight of all the sights was the ever upward streaming of the people, and we are quite certain that the crowd was a thoroughly representative one, all classes being there on pleasure bent. The sweated workers from the East End, the daintily attired Miss from the West End shops, the carman from Soho, the navvy from Rotherhithe, the clerk from Canonbury, the merchant from Camden Town, they were all there—such a commingling of the classes and the masses that only a thoroughly British fair and British holiday induces.

We started early, but stood aghast at the fight for the tram-car in Euston-road, and even when we retreated from the fray to secure a twopenny ride, and diplomatically advanced to Camden Town in the fond hope of there obtaining cheap conveyance, again we were foiled, and had to travel by other and less popular means. But when we reached Hampstead village, before we got to the heath, we saw a considerable settlement of steam roundabouts, swings, shooting galleries, and other novelties; this private enterprise fair was doing excellent business.

Going forward in the press of the crowd, we reached the grand entrance avenue of a hundred side shows, throwing games, variety stalls, juvenile roundabouts, swings, dolly frames, and other novelties. Conspicuous amongst these were John Hastings' two capital ground booths, the midget marvels, and the giant lady; Wilson's fine art academy, Forrest's juvenile roundabouts, Brett's steam horses, and the varieties, throwing games, shooting galleries, and novelty stalls of Messrs. T. Manning, Purchase, Peters, Bolsworth, Stockwood, Birch, Rose, Turner, Shore, Ayres, Townsend, and Hewitt.

Another great avenue of fair ground novelties contained Chipperfield's French menagerie and cinematograph, Professor Goldsmith's assault-at-arms, Elliott's school of boxers, and some thirty minor concerns, swings, overboats, and throwing games, amongst which we noticed the concerns of Messrs. Golledge, Warnsby, S. Jones, S. Shaw, Marshall, Swain, Crisp, and Peters.

Far away from the frenzy of these immense streams of life, sheltered in a valley, was a settlement of big shows, swings, and other varieties. Amongst the shows were the magnificent electric bioscope of Biddall Brothers, and the equally big concern of Wm. Biddall, the Empire of Varieties and Royal cinematograph.

In this select fair ground we noticed how carefully the County Council provides for all sorts and conditions of holiday makers. Here the people whose tastes range above the fearful excitement of three shots a penny or the substantial joys of ham sandwiches and cowheels, or the elusive delights of the winkle and the delicious morsels displayed on the half shell, may find their improving minds gratified by the marvels of up-to-date animated photography. Messrs. Biddall were certainly justified in their enterprise in providing for a constant succession of appreciative audiences the very best films, and, indeed, it were impossible to find better shows than these modern first-class exhibitions.

We must here congratulate the County Council and its officers upon the excellent way in which they have distributed the shows and amusements upon the Heath. No better plan could have been devised for breaking up and constantly keeping on the move a multitude of people. The thought of a crowd aimlessly wandering about the heath, with no object in view and no points of attraction to keep them moving from place to place, would be appalling, and for this reason alone the provision made for the shows is fully justified.

Passing from the vale of cinematography, and traversing the great open footway that divides the heath in twain, we reached, by the side of a beautiful stretch of water, yet another fair ground, the trysting place for pilgrims of the Heath known as "The Vale of Health," and here we found that celebrated local showman, Mr. Harry Cox, surrounded by a splendid galaxy of mechanical and steam-driven novelties, including the steam horses, the giant revolving wheel, two sets of park swings, and Mrs. Cox's beautiful set of gem swings, the shooting jungle, and other varieties. Upon this pitch were displayed some thirty novelties of a minor character, amongst which we noticed the concerns of Messrs. Stafford, Smith, Lane, and Swayne.

But this is not all. On the extreme edge of the Heath, from the point where we commenced our pilgrimage, there was yet another fair ground, and by way of experiment we counted the number of separate concerns, big and little, and this reached the immense total of 137. Here were Purchase's menagerie, with the performances of lion tamers (male and female), Chittock's London cinematograph, Beverlay's American cinematograph, Bailey's fine art show, Wilson's living pictures, La Belle, the giant lady, Wilson's juvenile motor set, Laing's gem horses, Denholme's swing boat, Smith's roundabout, Simpson's orangery, a new and novel throwing game, Bailey's egg smasher, and doll frame, Brett's throwing games, the swings of Messrs. Crisp, Marshall, Corbett, and Long, with, as our numbering of the concerns indicates, a vast crowd of other caterers.

Next to Hampstead Heath the biggest gathering of shows in Greater London was found upon Wanstead Flats, the great open space on the edge of the Forest at Forest Gate. Vast crowds thoroughly enjoyed the excellent entertainments provided by Thurston's cinematograph theatre, Taylor's coliseum of varieties and animated photography, Ball's American bioscope, Burnett's military tournament, Norman's new show, the Dahomey warriors, and Nail's varieties. The machines and roundabouts, a splendid list, included sets by Messrs. Thurston, Symonds, Presland, Forrest, and Brown. There were swings, overboats, throwing games, and a very fine array of coker sheets, dolly frames, varieties, and penny stalls. Wanstead Flats, unlike the Heath, is one great aggregation, laid out in an immense square, and the effect, whether viewed from the centre of the ground, or from the wide approach, is altogether bright and attractive.

The meeting of showmen at Wanstead Flats on Easter Sunday was of a most interesting character. The Hon. Chaplain to the Showmen's Guild, the Rev. T. Horne, convened the meeting at the request of several prominent London showmen, the hope being that the recent success of the Guild would induce showmen who still remained outside the organisation to join and loyally support the necessary work of trade defence.

A very agreeable surprise rewarded the showmen who attended the meeting in the arrival quite unexpectedly of the honoured President of the Guild, who drove to the fair in pursuance of a pleasant pilgrimage he has been making to all the showgrounds around London. Amongst the prominent showmen present were—Mr. William Taylor (in whose beautiful pavilion the meeting was held), Mr. Alf. Ball, Mr. Tom Norman, Mr. Burnett, Mr. H. Forrest, Mr. J. Pettigrove, Messrs. Thurston, Mr. Anderson, Mr. S. Forrest, Mr. Symonds, and many others.

In opening the proceedings the Rev. T. Horne said that it was only in deference to the earnest wish expressed at the last meeting of the London Committee to have a meeting at Wanstead Flats, that he was present that day. He felt that after the very full statement of the Society's work and the successful result of their appeal to the London County Council with reference to admitting living vans on the open spaces, all London showmen would see the necessity of supporting the Guild. He recognised that with very few exceptions the men he was now addressing were already loyal supporters of that trade organisation. It was to him a source of great satisfaction that behind all that the Guild Executive did they now had the strong support of an overwhelming majority of London show-people.

The remarkable series of Parliamentary successes achieved by the Guild were matters of history, and it was eminently satisfactory that the justice-loving public now readily accorded to the travelling showman full recognition of the work he is doing as the provider of popular and open-air amusements. When the workers turned out in their hundreds of thousands on Easter Monday it would be to set their faces towards the fairgrounds and pleasure resorts of the nation in order that they might obtain with surcease from toil necessary relaxation and enjoyment.

In conclusion, he felt certain that he was only voicing the feeling of all those present when he said how deeply gratified and touched they all were with the extremely pleasant surprise their honoured President had afforded them that day by coming in their midst and identifying himself once again with his people. He felt sure that it was entirely owing to the great tact and the convincing charm of manner with which their President had stated their case at the recent deputation to the London County Council that the objectionable prohibition of living vans had been rescinded, and permission given for the movable dwelling to accompany the show. He hoped that their President would give them a little helpful counsel, and, therefore, in their name he asked him to address the meeting.

Lord George Sanger was received with warm applause, and began by thanking their Hon. Chaplain for the kindly words with which he had made reference to the work he had tried to do in their behalf. He had, he confessed, been most agreeably surprised at the kindly reception his defence of their movable homes had met with at the hands of the London County Council. It had been a great pleasure to him to give from the volume of his own experience testimony to the essential value of the home life of travelling showmen.

At the same time he felt very strongly that a serious responsibility rested upon them all that scrupulous care must be taken to justify the public confidence, that their vans must be kept strictly clean, and that everything must be done to leave the grounds they occupy free from litter or any objectionable rubbish. They must recognise that in these days of local government the showman must fit in with the altered condition of things. That they would do this he had every reasonable hope, and in so doing they would continue to obtain the patronage and support of the show-loving public.

He had really come to Wanstead Flats because still his heart was with them. It had been a pleasure to him to visit his brethren of the road at Hampstead Heath, at Wormwood Scrubs, and now at Wanstead Flats. He wished them every success in their work and enterprise.

Questions were asked with reference to Mitcham Fair, and the appointment of a solicitor for London. These were satisfactorily answered, and after the enrolment of new members the meeting terminated.

From the Manchester fairgrounds we have news of the new Knott Mill Fair held on Collins' Ground, Queen's-road. Here were gathered together a big crowd of shows, roundabouts, and other varieties. Chief amongst these were—Proctor's circus, Colonel Clarke's coliseum, Dr. Edward Lawrence's cinematograph, Gal Hague's black and white boxers, Trayner's fine art gallery, and North's giant lady; George Green's gondolas, John Collins' motor-cars, galloping horses, and ships in the air, Royle's gallopers and high-flyers, J. Hibbert and Sons' electric cockerells, and juvenile horses by Messrs. Cordwell, Humphrey, Mercer, and Montgomery. The shooting galleries, ranges, and smashers were provided by Messrs. Lever, Jewell, Fletcher, Johnson, Ingham, Mercer, and Hughes and Martin. The crowd of minor novelties included the well-known concerns of Messrs. Cordwell, Whatmore, Chaplain, Deekes, Mercer, Lynch, Fletcher, Johnson, Royle, Chaplain, Humphrey, N. Whatmore, Mercer, and Lever.

Upon the Trafford-road Ground, Salford, we have news of the presence of J. Dayes' boxing and athletic saloon, Waddington's motor-cars, W. Mitchell's motor-cars, Williams' tunnel railway, Hurst's No. 2 set of ostriches, Richards' steam yachts. The lessee of the ground, W. Holmes, exhibited galloping horses, big boats, and varieties. The other caterers were White, Marsden, Barker, and Lorenzo with shooting concerns, and White, Ormrod, Black, Lorenzo, and Holmes with throwing games.

At Ashton-under-Lyne for the Easter festival were the well-known concerns of Messrs. J. Hibbert and Sons, comprising the flying motor-cars, the steam-horses, and big boats. Leskie's big wheel, Thwaite's Winchester range and rifle saloon, Thomas's bottle-smasher, and Emms' sheet. Other minor novelties were by Harry Hibbert, J. Seldon, H. Thomas, and Mrs. Seldon.

The Easter Fair at Blackburn is always a first-class fixture, and attracts the very best shows on the Lancashire Round. Here for Eastertide were Kemp's coliseum of animated photography, Captain Tom Payne's bioscope, Relph and Pedley's cinematograph theatre, Green's cinematograph, Hayden's second sight, Braham's conjuring and trained birds, and Wright's fine art gallery. The machine list at this fair is always an attractive one, and includes the well-known concerns of the Mitchells, the Holdens, the Greens, the Howarths, and single sets by Shaw, Makings, and Slater. The shooting concerns were provided by Barker, White, Starkie, Wilson, George Cornwell, and Mrs. John Cornwell, and amongst the caterers of minor novelties are Messrs. Showrocks, Slater, Wilson, White, Pickles, and Ingham.

At Worksop for the Spring Fair Mr. Tuby supplied the principal attractions. These included the coliseum of cinematography (Mr. Denby, manager), a motor-car set, park swings, and Winchester range. There were minor novelties by Archie Illingworth, James Hunt, and local caterers.

Exeter Fair was patronised by large crowds, and was held in perfect weather; the variety and cinematograph shows of W. C. and S. Hancock, Anderton and Rowland, and John Jones were resplendent in all the glory of new adornments and improvements, Hancocks' and Anderton and Rowland's having new organs lit up with innumerable revolving electric lights, which deservedly created a great sensation. The other shows included Lawrence's marionettes, Holborn's fine art gallery, W. Weston's school of boxers, and Alf. Wright's boxing and athletics. New motor switchbacks were shown by Messrs. Hancock and Mr. Heal. The Hancocks also exhibited two sets of steam horses and a range of park swings. Mr. Heal's other concerns were steam gallopers, rifle saloon, and high-flyers. The minor novelties comprised Chapman's big wheel, Lock's, Hurford's, Whitelegg's, Morgan's, and Jones' rifle saloons, Whitelegg and Locke's swings, and throwing games by A. Jones, Walsher, and W. Jones.

On Easter Sunday the children of the Exeter Fair were entertained to tea through the kindness of Miss Millington (well known amongst travelling showpeople); this is a kindly act that might well be copied in other towns. A welcome visitor to this fair was Mr. G. W. A. Norton, whose work amongst showmen in the West is so much appreciated and well known.

From the Welsh Round we have news of Newport (Monmouth). The Easter holidays were well maintained by Creecraft's electric bioscope and lion show, Captain Eacle Davies with two ground booths, the Mexican knife-throwers, and the anthro-porcine freak Bunce, Danter's galloping-horses and switchback, and shooters, swings, and variety stalls by Danter, Butlin, and Odely.

At the "Maundy" Fair at Todmorden were Marshall's motor-cars, Relph and Pedley's whirling the whirl, Connolley's flying motors, Holland's swings, rifle saloons by Messrs. Sharp, Bland, and Bentley. The varieties were provided by Mrs. E. Thomas and local caterers.

Tetsury Fair was entirely in the hands of Messrs. Jennings and Matthews, the local showmen, who provided steam-horses, swings, Winchester range, children's horses, bottle batteries, and throwing games.

Tempted by the glorious weather, a great number of Londoners journeyed as far as the Old Deer Park, Richmond, where the Corporation, following the example of the London County Council, makes excellent provision of popular amusements. The local showmen, headed by Matthews of Farnborough, Hants, displayed a capital array of fair-ground entertainments, including roundabout swings and throwing games. Here, as elsewhere, splendid business was done.

Tombland Fair had its origin many years back and consisted of a few toys and confectionery stalls upon the open space at the entrances to Norwich Cathedral known as Tombland, but for a long time past it has been a fair for horses and cattle, which are exposed for sale on the Castle Meadow or Cattle market, and contiguous thereto is held a pleasure fair. The latter commences on Maundy Thursday, and continues the following Saturday and Monday and Tuesday in Easter week. Two ancient fairs formerly held on Tombland on the feast of St. Mary Magdalene and the Tuesday after Michaelmas Day have long been obsolete, as well as the pleasure fairs held at Bishop Bridge in the city on Easter and Whit Mondays and Tuesdays. This year there was a capital attendance of some of the best showmen on the road, and the fine weather caused a large number of citizens and persons from different parts of Norfolk to pay a visit, thus enhancing the business very much, and making it more successful than has been experienced for many years past. Messrs. Barker and Thurston with their usual enterprise engaged the big hall of the Agricultural Hall, where their large steam motor-car roundabout occupied the centre, and the remaining space was filled with side-shows and shooting galleries. Among others were J. Chrighton's, J. Neale's, Abbott's, C. F. Barnes's, Robert Barker and Thurston's, Stock's, and G. Barnes's steam roundabouts, and many smaller roundabouts for the juveniles; Maddington's steam yachts; Aspland and Howden's "whirling the whirl"; Parkin's, H. Westrop's, J. H. Norman's, W. Westrop's, J. Neale's, Abbott's, C. F. Barnes's, Robert Holmes' and G. Holmes' shooting-galleries; John Holmes's saloons; Tidman's mystic swing; Wheatley's boxing-saloon; besides numerous swings, coker-nut shies, ups-and-downs, toys and sweetstuff stalls, and not forgetting a constant visitor for many years—Poulton, with his famous braces. On Saturday and Monday crowds thronged the fair, making the rows quite impassable, but all spending money, and in thorough good humour.

Mr. T. R. Gannon gave his usual fête and gala at Sydney Gardens, Bath, on Easter Monday, and, being favoured with summerlike weather, crowds attended to enjoy the sport and entertainment provided. A startling wire performance by Don Pedro was one of the attractions, and was received with enthusiasm.

At Headless Cross are Herberts' grand world's fair, roundabouts, park swings, shooting saloons, bottle battery, coker-nut gardens, and numerous other attractions. The Great Cherry Wakes take place here on July 13 to 18.

Coming events include the Worcestershire and Herefordshire Agricultural Society great show at Bromsgrove on June 12, 13, and 14; and the Bromsgrove great annual pleasure fair on June 25. Bromsgrove is a market town between Birmingham and Worcester, with a population of 14,106. The principal industries are nail, boots and shoes, clothing, and railway wagon making. Market gardening is carried on extensively in the neighbourhood.

Oxford May Fair, which is held on Thursday, May 3, should prove a great attraction this year. It is the only fair taking place in term time, and is held on early closing day. Not many side shows have attended in recent years.

Fossett's Circus and Hippodrome visited Carmarthen on Good Friday, and gave a capital performance before a large audience on the Morgan Arms' field. The equestrian, acrobatic, gymnastic, and musical contributions were up to the usual standard, and highly pleased and amused their audiences.

On Easter Monday Alexandra's well-known circus paid a visit to Carmarthen, and was exceedingly well patronised by holiday-seekers and townspeople. The tent was erected on the fair ground, and both performances—afternoon and evening—were excellently gone through. Dare-Devil Diabelo topped the bill in his daring act, "The Devil's Wheel; or, Looping the Revolving Wheel," and the other artists were the Kanari troupe of Japanese acrobats and vaulters; Wilfred, the human mystery and flexible marvel; Alfonso, equilibristic performer; the Three Stebbings, acrobatic marvels; Mlle. Astuarte, with her educated troupe of dogs and monkeys; Frank Stephenson, the lightning jockey act rider; David Burrows, the hurricane American horseman; Texas Frank, bar and trick act rider; Mlle. Bettina, haute école and manège act rider; and George Knight, the Cossack rider, who were augmented by Alexandra's troupe of clowns and mirth-provokers. The performances were thoroughly enjoyable.

In connection with the Carmarthen sports on Easter Monday, Astella, high-wire performer, gave an acceptable exhibition; J. Augustin and Annie Hartley, acrobatic barrel jumpers, submitted a clever performance; the Electrones, trick and tramp cyclists, proved amusing; and Capt. Bidmead performed a successful balloon ascent and parachute descent.

THE L.C.C. AND LONDON SHOWMEN.

A correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, writing to that paper on Saturday, April 14, curiously illustrates the vast amount of ignorance that still obtains in some quarters with regard to the work of the travelling showmen. It is a curious commentary on the amenities of public life that in these so-called enlightened days men should still be found so saturated with the leaven of puritanical prejudice that, without rhyme or reason, they rush into print in order to vent their fanatical spleen against their fellow men. It is most unpardonable ignorance, for in these days of ready access to all sources of information, ignorance ceases to be folly, and becomes a positive crime.

The writer of the short article in the Daily Telegraph, which we give in extenso below, could have obtained either by inquiry at the Parks and Open Spaces Department, or by perusal of our columns, full and accurate information upon the question he has so erroneously presented to the public. The attack of the writer in the Daily Telegraph is as follows:—

COSTER CAMP ON HAMPSTEAD HEATH.
AN L.C.C. INNOVATION.

A correspondent writes: For the first time the London County Council have given permission to those who provide the miscellaneous and garish shows on Hampstead-heath on Bank Holiday to bring their vans and camp for nearly half a week on this open space. The vans, the families, the horses, with all the litter incidental to gipsy life as led by costers, is to be seen at this moment on the only one of London's lungs which hitherto has preserved any semblance of its natural state. Yesterday, within four miles of Charing-cross, a typical country fair, with its vulgar shows, roundabouts, swings, fat women, shooting galleries, prize-fighters, and other attractions, was in progress, and on the scene of the day's roisterings these caterers for the lowest public tastes have received permission from the London County Council to make their domicile, without even the most primitive sanitary arrangements. Such a condition of affairs is bad enough on the outskirts of a country town once a year, but Hampstead is thronged by holiday-makers during parts of four weeks in each year, and the result of the Council's new regulation is to consecrate a large part of this open space to the noisiest and least desirable of the holiday-makers of London. The tired workers who travel to the heath in search of a semblance of country conditions—trees, flowers, and grass, and a free space on which the youngsters can frolic—find year by year that the bucolic and vulgar amusements are permitted to make ever-increasing inroads on this pleasant upland playground.

It is particularly unfortunate that the London County Council should have inaugurated their new policy this year. The country aspect of the heath has been steadily decreasing, and this spring, owing to the continued absence of rain, the trees and grass have had a poor chance of growing. Now, at the very birth of the summer, when, as every country-bred person knows, the tender greenery needs protecting, an army of so-called entertainers has been allowed to bring its heavy vans and cumbrous and ugly paraphernalia and beat down every living thing upon a large portion of the heath. Year by year the number of persons to whom these vulgar entertainments appeal decreases, and the authority which is so largely responsible for the good government of London has at this moment capitulated to these out-of-date and undesirable visitors.

Hampstead-heath is no mean inheritance for such a huge and overcrowded city as London, and the best way in which the authorities can serve this and future generations is to do their best to preserve the rural aspect of this lung of London, so that in years to come the heath may continue an oasis of simple country, with its valleys and dales, its gorse and heather, its ponds and spreading trees, instead of an arid waste. If the County Council is going to ally itself with the so-called providers of popular entertainment they will be throwing their influence against the present marked movement towards an improvement in the public taste, besides robbing London of a place of natural beauty, which, once destroyed, not even the authorities at Spring-gardens can restore. As it is, those who value the heath must perforce look on and watch its desecration during the present holiday, and when all the caravanserai have disappeared it will be their misfortune to mark the desolation which has been caused by this careless and ignorant betrayal of the best interests of the people of Northern London, who, in past years, responded so liberally to the periodical appeals which resulted in the acquisition by the public of this unique piece of open country.

This communication came under the notice of the executive of the Showmen's Guild, and in their name the following letter was sent to the Daily Telegraph:—

HAMPSTEAD "COSTER CAMP."
TO THE EDITOR OF "THE DAILY TELEGRAPH."

Sir,—The correspondent who wrote to you the communication under the above heading in your issue of Saturday last did not take the trouble to acquaint himself with the very simple facts of the case.

An inquiry at the Parks and Open Spaces Department of the London County Council would have prevented the string of grievous mistakes, seriously reflecting upon the showmen and itinerant traders of our fairs and national holidays.

To begin with, it is not an innovation on the part of the London County Council. The living vans, with the exception of last year, have always been allowed to accompany the shows, roundabouts, and other entertainments.

Twelve months ago new regulations were drawn up by the Parks Committee, and amongst other things, living vans were prohibited. This, however, was found to be such a serious hindrance to the business of the travelling showmen that they petitioned the Council to return to its former practice, and with success.

A representative deputation from the committee of the Showmen's Guild, headed by their president, the well-known showman—Lord George Sanger—laid the matter so fairly before the Parks Committee that the experiment of prohibition of living vans was rescinded and a new set of regulations drawn up.

An extract or two from these will demonstrate how carefully the interests of the public visiting the open spaces have been conserved, and that all necessary provision has been made for sanitary and other conveniences.

1. Only proper dwelling vans ordinarily used for living purposes, and approved by the chief officer of the Parks Department, will be allowed on the places where shows are permitted.

5. The use of dwelling vans will be confined to showmen, and will not be extended to the holders of licences for stalls, barrows, or animals.

8. The occupants of dwelling vans must conform to any regulations communicated to them by the Council's officers, and must not do anything which would be a nuisance to those frequenting the open spaces.

11. Sleeping in tents, &c., or outside dwelling vans is forbidden.

I have quoted enough to show that every reasonable care has been taken in the interest of the visitors to the open spaces, and of the showmen themselves.

The Showmen's Guild, representing the trade interests of an industry affecting the livelihood of 70,0000 people, is naturally anxious to counteract the evil effects of such rash and misleading statements as those of your correspondent.

I particularly refer to the words, "These caterers for the lowest public tastes have received permission from the London County Council to make their domicile without even the most primitive sanitary arrangements." This is not only a serious reflection upon the London County Council, but it is a most injurious and libellous statement against a body of hard-working and industrious traders and amusement caterers.

Contrariwise, Sir, I hold that it is an enlightened and humane policy to regulate and control, as the London County Council does, the provision of open-air amusements for the vast crowds of busy London workers, who can only afford to take their holiday upon the free public spaces, and at the cost of the humble penny.

It must not be forgotten that the popular open-air entertainment of the people is a necessity of the "cribbed, cabined, and confined" life of the workers, and that to simply draw the people to the heath, and then leave them in their vast multitude to provide their own amusement, would be an open temptation to seek relief from deadly dulness in drunkenness and other excesses.

The showmen claim to be craftsmen in an industry that has grown with the growth of the nation, and that instead of being, as some ignorant and unobservant people think, a dying industry, it is more vigorous and popular to-day than ever in the history of the Empire.

There are more shows within a ten-mile radius of St. Paul's to-day than could be found in the whole of the country fifty years ago, and there are more fairs and places of open-air amusement fulfilling the useful and necessary purpose of entertaining the people than ever existed before.

For every fair that has become obsolete by the lamentable fact of the decay of local industries or by the necessity of the migration of the people to new labour centres, ten new fairs have sprung into existence.

The showmen claim also that the character of the entertainments they provide demonstrates that, as business men, they are not only up to date, but are keenly anxious to anticipate the demand of that better taste to which your correspondent refers.

Before writing this letter I went to Hampstead-heath and saw London at play. I took note of the excellent provision of the London County Council, not only for the amusement of the people, but for every other necessity—the temporary latrines, the ambulance tents, and the admirable arrangements of local church bodies for feeding the people with wholesome food and temperance drinks, this being done in large refreshment tents, staffed by an army of volunteer waiters. So, too, I noted the presence everywhere of policemen with nothing to do. In fact, the only bored people on the heath were these civil officers of the law, and, I believe, only bored because their official position prevented them a fling for cocoanuts or a little relaxation in the cinematograph theatre.

When a critic tilts at the freak shows and forgets to mention the superb cinematograph theatres of Messrs. Biddall, Chittock, and Chipperfield, and Purchase's menagerie, it is not playing the game fair, and I feel sure that the show-loving public will properly discount such remarks so partial and so evidently inspired by prejudice.—Yours ever, for God and for good,

T. HORNE, Hon. Chaplain, the Showmen's Guild.
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C., April 16.

We have before pointed out to our showmen readers the urgent necessity of meeting all attacks upon them and their industry that from time to time find their way into the public press. To allow such misleading and libellous statements to go uncontradicted would inflict the most serious injury upon a business that entirely depends upon the public for its support.

Even the slightest suspicion that the movable dwellings of showmen are in the least degree a menace to public health, or that their domestic life is in any sense destitute of the necessary safeguards of health and cleanliness, would create a prejudice of the most detrimental character. This is a point that constantly astounds us that men should be so ignorant of the truth that the very existence of the travelling showmen depends upon the certain assurance that the public must always have complete immunity from all risks affecting health and sanitation when they visit travelling shows.

During the past sixteen years the Showmen's Guild, in season and out of season, have placed before the general public the very important, yet simple facts of the case. Every dwelling, whether movable or stationary—the van on Hampstead Heath and the mansion in Park-lane—comes under the same law, as regards the safeguards of public health, and the sanitary officer has as much right to assure himself of the possibilities of a healthy life in a travelling-van as in the palace of the Bishop or the cottage of the peasant.

It was with the greatest possible satisfaction that the executive of the Showmen's Guild found itself, in the interests of the travelling showmen, co-operating with the enlightened and humane policy with regard to open-air amusements of the London County Council. It only needs a flying visit to the great open spaces of Hampstead Heath, Wanstead Flats, Wormwood Scrubs, and Blackheath to demonstrate to any observer of human life the absolute necessity of providing popular amusements for the vast crowds that throng these resorts at holiday times.

To turn out a crowd as big as the population of a large provincial city in the open air, and then leave them utterly unprovided with anything to amuse, interest, or employ them, would indeed be the worst thing that could possibly happen, and it is the true instinct of a popularly-elected body to look after the interests of the people upon whose suffrage they depend for their mandate to administer public concerns.

We sincerely trust that this attack upon their enlightened administration will not deter the London County Council in its policy of providing wholesome and harmless amusement for the toiling masses of London town. We also trust that the general public reading the defence of the showmen, so carefully and soberly stated in the letter of the hon. chaplain, the Rev. T. Horne, will banish from their minds misgivings as to the health conditions that govern travelling shows and living-vans.

The death of James Anthony Bailey, the able partner of the great Barnum, recalls the most triumphant days of big circus and menagerie combines. Barnum was pre-eminently a showman, he knew how to gauge the public taste, and had a wonderful instinct that led him to the discovery and exploitation of novelties and freaks of nature. Unlike Barnum, Bailey was a genius of organisation and control. In the public eye it was always Barnum, but the strong man behind the scenes, carrying out to the most minute detail of management the great showman's ideas, was James Anthony Bailey, the living, driving force of the vast organisation known as Barnum and Bailey's Show. The following slight biography of the deceased showman will be of interest to our readers.

Mr. Bailey was born at Detroit in 1847. Left an orphan while still a child, he worked on a farm in the summer and attended school in the winter. He became connected with the Robinson and Lake Show, and in 1863 with the Nashville (Tennesse) Theatre. In the American Civil War he acted as sutler's clerk. After the war he re-entered the show business, and in 1873 became a partner in the show which became known in 1875 as the Cooper an dBailey Circus.

This circus was consolidated with P. T. Barnum's in 1881; the firm soon afterwards becoming Barnum and Bailey. After the death of Mr. Barnum, Mr. Bailey became the sole owner of the Barnum and Bailey Show, and, after the death of Adam Forepaugh, in 1891, he bought the latter's show. He several times brought the Barnum and Bailey Show to London, and had also taken it to Germany, Austria, Hungary, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, France, and nearly all the cities of Continental Europe.

Besides acting as the head of the largest amusement institution in the world, Mr. Bailey was an active partner in the two next largest shows, namely, the Buffalo Bill Wild West, and Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' Show, the latter known in America only. He introduced some of the most striking departures in the show business, such as the three equestrian rings with simultaneous performances, the hippodrome, and the enormous menageries and collection of human curiosities and freaks.

One of Mr. Bailey's great coups was the purchase of the elephant Jumbo from the London Zoological Gardens. One of the show agents had just returned to New York from London, and in reply to the question "What was the biggest thing you saw while abroad?" he replied, "An elephant in the London Zoo." "How big is it?"

Mr. Bailey inquired. The agent having indicated its huge size, Mr. Bailey asked, "What is the price?" "Forty thousand marks" (about £2,000) was the reply. "That settles it," said the great showman, "we will have it." The next day another agent was despatched to London, the elephant was bought, transported to America, and proved so great an attraction that it brought to the show a profit of over four million marks. The show employed fully 1,000 people, and 500 horses, three herds of elephants, droves of camels, and rare animals, two menageries, and a vast amount of paraphernalia were used in connection with it. About seven years ago the show was floated as a limited liability concern, Mr. Bailey continuing to act as managing director, but for some time past he has been in failing health.

SUBSCRIPTIONS to Showmen's Guild:—Per Rev. T. Horne: W. Taylor (cinematograph exhibition), £1 1s. Per Mr. Shuttleworth: W. Bradbury 5s., J T. Court 5s., J. Hoadlay 5s., J. Cottam 5s., W. Dearden 5s., Mrs. Ormrod 5s., J. W. Robinson (Pendlebury) 5s.

AT Stafford for Eastertide the principal amusement caterer was W. Davis, with his fine switchback roundabout, and with him were the usual minor novelties, throwing games, &c.

LUTON FAIR had for its entertainers James Harris, with roundabout swings and coker sheets; John Short, with roundabout, shooting gallery, and throwing games; Marshall, with dolly-frame and varieties. There were, in addition to the above, a goodly number of fancy, toy, and pannum stalls

A RECENT case in the Salford Court of Record, wherein damages were claimed by a well-known gentleman in the local entertaining world against a local optician who had undertaken to supply a cinematograph, fixes attention upon a matter of more than local interest, and that is the necessity laid upon entertainers to place their orders for cinematograph items in their programme with one of the many well-known firms. Briefly put, the case tells the story of an entertainment that failed, because not only did the cinematograph refuse to work, but that the pictures when seen were so poor and indistinct that the describer could not tell what they represented.

THERE was a good deal of amusing evidence from the point of view of the listener, and ultimately, on proof being given of the truth of the plaintiff's case, he secured a verdict and £35 damages. The point of special interest to our readers is that every care should be taken not to disappoint the public by any lack of care in securing, as may be so easily done, the best cinematographs. A reference to our advertisement columns will give would-be entertainers a wide range of selection of the most dependable and up-to-date firms supplying both machines and films at the shortest possible notice. A word to the wise is sufficient. The moral of the story is: Never be content with third-class when you can get the first.

MR. FRED GINNETT, with Dick Turpin's Ride to York and a combination company, did record business, it appears, at Messrs. Mouillot and Dr Frece's Hippodromes, Boscombe and Southampton, last week and the week before. A good deal of this success was due to the untiring energy of Mr. Ginnett's manager, Mr. Alfred Norton.

MESSRS. CRICKS AND SHARP have brought out another fine picture, "The Attack on the Agent," in which Miss Jennie Green, daughter of Mr. Tom Green, of cinematograph fame, enacts the principal character. This young lady has surpassed herself in previous productions—her dash to the rescue on a jaunting car, and racing the express train, being splendid pieces of dramatic acting.

CRICKET.

BRISTOL X.L.C.R. II. C. C. v. ST. MICHAEL'S RES. C. C. and THEATRICALS.

Will Hallett, Jack Edmunds, and George Osborne did not bat.

MR. LEON BASSETT gave his fifth annual concert on Good Friday at Camberwell Palace to a packed house. He ably controlled a superb orchestra of fifty performers under the leadership of his brother, W. S. Bassett. The chief orchestral items were the Overture and Venusberg music from Tannhäuser and Tchäikowsky's "1812," Mr. Bassett receiving quite an ovation for his reading of the latter piece. The orchestra also rendered "The War March of the Priests," "The Egyptian Ballet Music," and the music to the third act of Lohengrin. Mr. Jack Lorrimer surprised everybody with his talent as a concert artist, and deserved the applause he received. Mr. J. L. Shine recited "A Letter from England," incidental music being supplied by the orchestra. German's Henry VIII. dances were beautifully rendered on the concertina by Mr. Percy Honn, and others who appeared were Misses Julie Dolan, Florence Esdaile, Ethel Turner, Violet Vivian, Messrs. Dalmaine, Arthur Laurence, Eric Dane, Jack Fox, Francis Walker, Geo. English, and Neilson and Jolly. The stage arrangements were in the hands of Mr. H. C. Woodrow.

MISS JOSEPHINE SABEL, the delineator of coon life, in a football match at Swansea on Good Friday between the Empire and the Press, kicked off. The popular artist, who was escorted to midfield by Messrs. A. S. Harris and T. Wignall, the captains of the respective sides, was very heartily received.

BLAKE AND GRANBY sailed for Australia and Fred Land for Africa last week; and Little Cliff leaves for Australia on May 4. The above engagements were arranged by Pacey and Reeves.

MR. HERBERT CYRIL, the seven-foot comedian, is winning a high place for himself in the provinces just now. His new song "They've all got a daddy but me" is very likely to be on the lips of everyone when he returns to town in May. Messrs. Lawrance and Gifford are responsible for many popular numbers this year, and they have certainly got another one here. Mr. Cyril, with his patter and character of a street lad, causes much merriment.

Two concerts were given on Good Friday at the People's Palace, Bristol, for the third complimentary benefit of Mr. F. J. V. Welchman, the treasurer, and gigantic programmes were provided, the items numbering no fewer than 34. A special feature of the entertainment was the representation by means of a series of animated pictures of scenes in the life of Moses. The choir engaged were the winners of the Lennard champion challenge shield and the Colston cup. Enjoyable selections were provided by the Palace orchestra and the band of the 2nd Gloucestershire Royal Engineers.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, April 4.—The Redskin, an Indian drama, in four acts and nine scenes, was recently produced by Mr. William A. Brady at the Liberty Theatre. The play was written by Donald MacLaren, and all the characters represented were Indians. Lonawanda, chief of the Ockotchees, being desirous that his daughter, Adulola, shall marry, summons the young men of his tribe in order that the maiden may choose a husband. In so doing, however, he slights a certain redoubtable "brave" named Niatawa, and grievously offends Niatawa's father, Matawagnon. Angry words ensue, and Lonawanda kills Matawagnon by strangling him. Niatawa, when the news of his father's death is brought to him, is inflamed with a desire for revenge; but, being beguiled by female artifice, he ascribes the murder of his sire to the wrong man, and becomes involved in complex and suspicious circumstances which presently lead to his being condemned to death. He is tied to the stake, the faggots are kindled, and the Indians dance around him, emitting the yells peculiar to such festive occasions. At this point, however, Lonawanda interposes, and relates the circumstances of Matawagnon's death. Thus Niatawa learns that Lonawanda, whose daughter Niatawa loves, is his father's murderer. He is released from the stake, only to be forced to fight Sheanangua, whose wife is enamoured of Niatawa, and the latter, despairing of love and honour, permits himself to be slain. Mr. Tyrone Power's impersonation of the Indian chief Lonawanda was highly commended, and the picturesque and beautiful manner in which the play was mounted called forth no little praise. But the newspapers ridiculed the language of the play, protesting that it was incongruous and inappropriate. Moved by these strictures, Mr. Brady addressed the audience between the acts at the second performance, and on several evenings thereafter, rebuking the critics in an exceedingly caustic manner, and accusing them of writing flippant and unfair notices. Mr. Brady's speeches, being published at length in the newspapers, imparted a new interest to playgoing at this particular theatre, and proved a satisfactory antidote to the dread effects of adverse criticism.

A grand miscellaneous matinée, under the patronage and presence of the Lord Mayor of Belfast (Sir Daniel Dixon, J.P., M.P.), will be held at the Palace Theatre, Belfast, on Saturday afternoon, the 28th inst. The proceeds will be devoted to local charities and Theatrical and Music Hall Benevolent Funds (London). The fact that the programme will be in the hands of Mr. Fred W. Warden (managing-director of the Theatre and Palace, Belfast), is a guarantee that the undertaking will be an unqualified success. Already Mr. Warden has arranged that a number of artists from the Palace, the Empire, the New Alhambra, and the principals of the Dick Whittington pantomime will take part, and doubtless the handsome sum realised last year for charity will be considerably augmented.

The Monte Carlo Publishing Company have accepted for publication, and will at an early date issue in their "Sixpenny Successes" series, Mr. Jock Whiteford's new Scotch comedy song-scena, "Ma Bonnie Jean," with which he is scoring so heavily at the London Pavilion nightly. This novelty was specially written for Mr. Whiteford by Mr. John P. Harrington, with music by the late Mr. George Le Brunn.

A Bill has just been passed by the Senate of New York recognising bloodless surgery as a profession, and we understand that Dr. Bodie has had two offers to go to America at the biggest salary ever paid to a vaudeville artist. He may open at New York at a very early date, when no doubt he will create the same sensation as he has done in the first city of the world, London. It is now over eighteen years since Dr. Bodie gave up the Church—theology having no charm for him—and went in for medicine. He is at present the only recognised exponent of bloodless surgery in this country, and his career has been one of unbroken success.

The Easter attractions in the handsome Pavilion of the Victoria Pier, Blackpool, proved a strong draw to many thousands, and packed houses were the rule throughout the week. The artists engaged were Mme. Sadler-Fogg, soprano, Mr. Richard Evans, baritone, and the Vypond Costume Concert Party, which talented combination included Miss Maud Vypond, Miss Dollie Hook, Miss Spearman, Mr. Fred Vypond, Mr. Cyrus Dare, Mr. Harry Fife, Mr. Charles Pearson, and the well-known London society entertainers, Miss Marion Brereton and Mr. Lawrence Derrick.

The people of Hounslow still flock in great numbers to Cissie Louie Lawson's cosy hall, which fully deserves its popularity. This week there is a company of all-round excellence, and the bill is topped by the one-act sketch presented by Lily Herries and company, entitled The Profligate. The playlet tells of the triumph of the wife over the mistress, and the audience on Monday worked themselves into a frenzy over the fight with swords. As the wife, Miss Herries played sympathetically; Mr. Stanley Grosvenor was most satisfactory as the selfish husband; and Miss Mabel Wynne gave a good portrayal of the mistress. The Ongars present their well-known dancing act, and meet with the applause their turn deserves; those droll comedians, the Harrison Brothers, are working their funny song "Walking to Brighton"; Ernie Williams sings as well as ever; a smart knockabout sketch is presented by the Bowery Boys; and Minnie Mace wins applause with "Buster Simpson, Esq." Miss Edie Anderson, the Grosvenors, and Jury's Pictures complete the programme. Mr. Reginald Grant is the courteous acting-manager.

At a matinée performance given on Saturday, April 14, at the Central Hall, Sheffield, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne's company produced, for the first time, a clever little sketch, entitled Our Typist. The plot is very slight, but serves its purpose admirably of introducing funny situations and mirth-provoking dialogue. The part of Augustus Giddiflick, a merchant, in search of a typewriter, was well played by Mr. John Hitchins; Oppitt, a volatile office-boy, was cleverly impersonated by Miss Frances Ferina, a comedienne of considerable ability; and the dual rôle of Florentina Fluff (typist) and Mrs. Giddiflick were admirably presented by Miss Maud Randford, each part receiving adequate treatment. It is the intention of Mr. J. Lacy Lyne, who is the manager of the Palace of Varieties, Attercliffe, to send the piece into the halls, where it should find a hearty welcome.

Mark Sheridan, who tops the bill at Holloway Empire next week, is a genial cynic and humorous critic. He will comment on the news of the day. A close observer of the daily papers, he selects his topics of the day with quite a sub-editorial instinct, comments upon them humorously, and, upon occasion, with no little sarcasm. Mr. Sheridan is in himself a host in pantomime, and in this business has established what must be a record. He has been with Messrs. Howard and Wyndham for ten successive winters, and is engaged by them for ten seasons more, appearing next at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, taking the part of the Baron in Cinderella. He has travelled almost the world over, and has been twice in South Africa, and is so enthusiastic a motorist that he has not taken a railway ticket since last December.

Artists should be careful to keep Dates Open for this Theatre, Booking for which will shortly commence.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.

Artists must have Band Parts for at least Twelve different Instruments for the Orchestras (Fifteen for the London Coliseum). Matter for Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR ALL THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, or at least TWO WEEKS, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements Cancelled.

IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to Opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced.

ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

N.B.—Silence in every case a polite negative. Artists are requested not to enclose stamped envelope. Letters marked "Private" will be delayed.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking engagements, or turns not re-booked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows:—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG,
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

MRS. BROWN'S BAD LUCK.

Poor Mrs. Brown little knows what is in store for her when she prepares for a walk and bids her husband a loving adieu. Deeply interested in her paper, she does not notice some boys merrily playing at blind-man's buff. She is caught by the blind man and has a lively time. She next runs into a man who has stopped to get a light. The poor man comes off a very second best. Ah! now she is in for a good time. A vacant seat in the park and an acquaintance to discuss affairs with. Sewing and talking, she does not notice a man with his stock of balloons who is sitting on the same seat. One by one the balloons are pricked by Mrs. Brown's busy needle, and the threatening attitude of the owner causes Mrs. B. an unpleasant five minutes. Bound for home, Mrs. Brown overlooks an open manhole leading to the sewer, and down she goes a terrific bump. She wanders about the sewer, tired and hungry, molested by rats and drenched with water. At last she succeeds in attracting attention, and is rescued by the fire brigade and carried to her home. About 375ft. The Subject, £9 7s. 6d.

THE WIG CHASE.

Wicked boys fasten some air-balls to a lady's wig, and this film shows the laughable adventures of the wig chased by a crowd of people through town and country, over bridges, up the Eiffel Tower, along the river, into houses, up the chimney. Finally the air-balls are captured by some boys; the wig is cut loose, and a street-sweeper sweeps the hair down the drain just as the indignant owner arrives on the scene. About 430ft. The Subject, £10 15s. 0d.

THE SPORTSMAN'S MISADVENTURES.

Ready for the fray. A bird at the first shot; but, unfortunately, the bird is fixed in the branch of a tree and the sportsman cannot dislodge it, although he tries hard by throwing most of his clothing at it. At last a boy climbs the tree and brings down the clothing and the bird. He is paid for his trouble, but makes off with his prize. The irate keeper. A hasty flight. More forbidden ground. The farmer and the pitchfork. A rare chase. The bag must be filled somehow, so he buys a rabbit. The sleep in the train. The quick change of the rabbit. The arrival home. Breaking up a pleasant meeting. Wife's indignation. About 372ft. The Subject, £9 6s. 0d.

FRENCH MINE DISASTER.

The terrible Courrières disaster. The German and French rescuers. Relations trying to identify the victims. The 13 survivors. Interviews in the hospital. Courrières orphans. A splendid film. About 311ft. The Subject, £7 15s. 6d.

PLAYING TRUANT.

The missed lessons. An illustrated paper preferred to an exercise book. The boy's mother appears on the scene with the usual consequences. A good tuck-in at the jam. Caught again. The boy decides to have a day off, and, finding some money in a drawer, he goes out, and meeting his brother, they both prepare for an enjoyable time. The baker loses his tarts. The disgusted old lady who finds a box at the end of her dog-chain instead of her cherished pet. The disappearing drink. Gent rows the waiter. Nothing like cheek. Asking a gentleman for a light, they leave a cigarette in his hand, and make off with his more classy smoke. Visit to the children's pantomime. Visit to the toy shop. The missing horse. Chase by the proprietor and others. The surprised bill-stickers. At last the boys are caught and taken to their home, where they receive what is considered a just reward for their exploits. About 610ft. The Subject, £15 5s. 0d.

Hepworth

No. 1015. ITALIAN CAVALRY.

The Cavalry of Italy is seen in this splendid film performing feats of horsemanship with that daring skill which has made it so admired throughout the world. With cool deliberation the company is seen to make their horses glide down almost impossible hills and over fences which bar the way. A comical element is here and there introduced by the fact that one or two members of the company being unsuccessful in their methods are seen to bite the dust with evident discomforture. This beautiful subject, having been taken under Italian skies, is very clear and of splendid quality. Length 250ft. Price £6 5s. 0d.

No. 1014. CUPID AND THE WIDOW.

A young widow is turning over a number of old letters and lamenting her early widowhood, when Cupid breaks in upon her sorrow, takes away her late husband's letters, and carries to her, from a private drawer, some other letters and a photograph. He chides her for continuing to lament the death of a man whom she married only for his money, and reminds her, by a vision, how her true lover had been thrown over for the wealthy suitor. The vision shows a pair of scales, with Cupid on one side and a pile of money on the other, and as the money is showered in by the rich man Cupid's side rises and the girl's choice falls upon her wealthy admirer. As the vision fades the true lover, still faithful to his early choice, enters the room, but the young widow orders him away. Cupid, however, runs and pulls him back, and pushes the girl towards him, till she throws aside her mask of woe and welcomes the man she has always loved. Length 150ft. Price, £3 15s. 0d.

No. 1009. THE PEASANT-GIRL'S REVENGE.

Along a lonely wind-swept country road in Eastern Russia three Cossacks are riding wearily, searching for some signs of human habitation where a meal may be obtained. Presently they spy a miserable little cottage some distance off the roadway, within which a frugal but sufficient meal is in progress. A peasant, his wife and daughter are sitting around the table eating food, and washing it down with a bottle of wine. Suddenly the tramp of horses is heard, and rushing to the door the peasant breathes the fatal word "Cossacks!" In a moment fear and consternation put all happiness to flight, the peasant barricades the door, while his wife and daughter hide the remains of the food in a trap in the floor. Meanwhile the Cossacks, having in vain demanded admission, burst the door down and stride into the room demanding food. The peasant refuses to give it to them, and the officer runs him through with his sword and repeats his demands to the horrified wife. Maddened at the brutal murder of her husband, the peasant woman proudly refuses the food until they seize her daughter and threaten to flog her to death. Then she yields, and points to the hole in the ground where the food is hidden. When the Cossacks settle to their meal they find that the wine flagon is empty and they demand its replenishment. This is the peasant woman's opportunity to avenge the death of her husband. She fetches a new bottle and drops a terrible poison into it and carries it back to the intruders, but the officer refuses to drink until the woman has herself taken a cupful. Thirsting for revenge she is ready to take even this step to ensure that the murderers shall drink also, but they have thought of a better plan and they insist instead that the child shall drink the wine as a proof that it is "undoctored." Just at this moment the sentry outside calls the Cossacks' attention, and while their backs are turned the mother flings the poisoned wine out of the cup and presses the empty vessel to her daughter's lips. The Cossacks returning, are satisfied at last that the wine is safe, and all but the officer drink the poisoned liquid. Quickly the poison does its work, and two of the men are seized with their death agonies. Then the officer rises in wrath to slay the mother and child, but the little girl has seized a dagger from one of the men, and she deftly plunges it into the villain's back just in time to save her mother's life. Length 300ft. Price, £7 10s. 0d.

MAGNIFICENT DEATH SCENE OF "BLACK BESS"

(By courtesy of G. GINNETT, Esq.).

Scene I.—The London Coach is stopped on Hampstead Heath. Dick makes a good haul. "Good night, ladies."
" II.—A poor beggar craves alms from Dick. His appeal is not in vain.
" III.—Dick arrives at his favourite hostelry, "The Spaniards," Hampstead.
" IV.—Inside "The Spaniards." "I'm trapped like a rat." Escape by the window. The Bow Street Runners break in the door too late to effect their long-desired capture. Betsy is as far off her £100 as ever she was.
" V.—Dick's thrilling leap from the window (no dummy used).
" VI.—Dick makes a dash for liberty from "The Spaniards" on his faithful "Bonnie Black Bess."
" VII.—Helter-skelter, ding-dong, hell-for-leather chase. "Gad, boy, how he rides!"
" VIII.—The old toll gate. Nothing stops Dick's wild flight. His bonnie black mare rises like a bird.
" IX.—Alas! Poor Bess is badly lamed and injured. With a last fond kiss for her master, she lays on the road side and expires. Capture of Dick by the runners.

BOMBAY.

A NEW THEATRE

Is in course of construction in Bombay, and is to be ready early next year.

It is being built with all modern improvements, with spacious stage, ample dressing room accommodation, and electric lighting.

The House will seat 1200 persons, representing about £300 sterling per night.

India generally, and Bombay in particular, has hitherto been so badly provided with Theatres, that professional companies desirous of visiting this country have not been able to get accommodation for their performances.

MANAGERS and others requiring further particulars apply to

Messrs. SOUNDY & CO.,
Theatre and Concert Agents,
BOMBAY.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER, BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is oblized to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—His Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah, C.A.—Mr. Harry Fischer's company is appearing in an attractive Scottish musical comedy this week. Mr. Arthur Cartwright, who takes the part of Guy Chalmers, an impecunious student, sings admirably, and Miss Hettie Gale also shows much musical talent as Maisie. Mr. Peter D. Bermingham is exceedingly amusing as an ex-Bailie of the humorously farcical type; and much good work is likewise contributed by Mr. Leon Simkim as Montague Migg, Mr. Clifford Morgan as Prince Izan, Mr. Harry Stuart as the Hon. Bobby, and Mr. Dan O'Connor as Rory. The dancing of the Monte Carlo Troupe is also highly appreciated.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The programme this week includes a number of excellent sketch companies, Mr. Harry Tate's combination appearing in his exceedingly diverting farce, entitled Motoring; and Miss Kitty Clover and her company also make a great success with Mr. There's Heir. The Karno Trio appear to distinct advantage in The Travellers' Rest; and the same can be said of the Three Prestons in The Liftman's Rise. Mr. Johnny Worman, comedian, is as popular as ever, and Mr. Russell Wallett shows himself to be an exceedingly clever female impersonator. Miss Madge Daly is a vivacious comedienne; Michel and Polo are adepts in gymnastic and balancing feats; Mr. Bob Nicol excels as a mimic, and Speedwell puts in some very rapid work as a "lightning portrait-painter."

Cooke's Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. John Henry Cooke.—Mr. Cooke is now in the second week of his present visit to the city, and the success attending the performances is very gratifying. In addition to the fine exhibition of horsemanship by members of the Cooke family, Mr. Leicester and Miss Ernestine Rosa, the principal attraction is perhaps Karduc, the handcuff and gaol breaker; his feats are certainly remarkable. Among the other turns are the Martinettis in a humorous sketch The Mad Music Master; the Eccentric Flynn and Haddic, Mr. C. Stelling and his exceptionally clever and well-trained dog Kismaski, Funny Neddy Vokes and his dummy son, and Du Caillon, the lightning ladder climber.

ABERTILLERY.—Theatre Metropole.—Lessees, Messrs. Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident Manager, Mr. Geo. W. Ventom; Stage-Manager, Mr. Fred Thomas.—This week Mr. Redan Smith's new musical comedy The Girl from the Halls is being performed in capital style by Miss Edith Isabelle's No. 1 London company. The part of the Rev. Hezekiah Twinkle is well taken by Mr. Chas. Ross, Mr. Geo. Elsworth gives a capable rendering of Jack Weston, Mr. Cecil W. Parke is responsible for the Hon. Richard Graham, his fine voice being heard to advantage; and Mr. Cliffe Owen makes a typical John Robbs. Miss Lilian De Vere and Miss Connie Laurie are charming as the Hon. Frederick Augustus Humphum and Janey respectively, their singing and dancing being much appreciated. Miss Edith Isabelle is responsible for an effective interpretation of Minnie Weston.

ACCRINGTON.—New Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Potter, Vandy, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. Campkin.—The bill provided here includes the New York Comedy Four, a really good turn; Lilly Arthur, chic and clever, is well received; Silvo is popular; and B. Athol scores with "Dreamland," a vocal scena. Agnes McKellar has a good soprano voice; Dunningarto is worthy of mention; Haig and Novel, in a refined comedy act, and the Hippo pictures complete a capital programme.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. T. Arthur Jones's company opened here on Monday with Life's Sweetest Sins. Mr. T. Arthur Jones gives a manly impersonation of Captain H. Marston; Dr. Colbrooke is a good performance by Mr. Oswald Duglas; Kimberley Coutts is well played by Mr. Robert Sawin; Mr. Charles Sewell deserves to be complimented on his Rev. Ed. Gray; Miss Marie Daventry gives an artistic rendering of Doreen Rivers; Miss Sara Dudley is good as Bess Grayson; Miss Mary Ainslie is well cast as Fay Colbrooke.

ALDERSHOT.—Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Williams.—A Royal Divorce, played by Mr. W. W. Kelly's company, is the attraction here this week. Miss Lilian Dundas gives a talented rendering of Josephine; Miss Muriel Thompson submits an effective embodiment of the cynical Marie Louise, and Miss Gertrude Entwistle's is an acceptable Stephanie; Miss B. F. Stewart does well as Gouvernante and Blanche, whilst the young King is ably played by Miss G. Kendrick. Mr. Fred Moyes is fresh here as Napoleon, and his efforts are successful; Mr. H. G. Dolby is good as Talleyrand; Mr. H. Ludlow as Marquis de Beaumont is well placed, and Mr. C. L. Brocknor's General Angereau is capably played. Messrs. T. W. Ford, H. Powell, and Dennis Bryan as Corvisart and Grimaud respectively also do well.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Empire, Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The sensational automaton, Enigmarelle, produced by Mr. F. Ireland, is attracting crowded houses here this week; the famous Haley's Prize Juveniles (about a score of very able youngsters), prettily dressed, and trained in singing and evolutions, display remarkable talent, notably Dot and Spot, the smallest duettists before the public; Messrs. Hess and Lisbon are a well-matched pair, and give a graceful and exceedingly clever exhibition of roller skating and comedy; Billy Richardson, with his famous stump speech, received a hearty welcome; Bertha Stuart, a sweet singer of Scottish songs, was loudly applauded; Rice and Rudge are very good in the manipulation of wheels of various kinds, and create considerable amusement; Rosa Finlay, with her pleasant smile, pretty costumes, and faultless rendering of a top-boot skipping-rope dance, won loud plaudits; and Lilian Dorie, a clever and daring trapesist, was well received; Marti and Juliette, in an acrobatic display on pyramids of chairs, give a daring and clever display, which was greatly appreciated; hearty applause was accorded Ada Marjutti, the "Flexible Venus," who, in a striking scene, entitled, "From Demon to Fairyland," gives a sensational display of contortion, in graceful style; interesting bioscope pictures represent "Oxo Cattle Farms."

ATTERCLIFFE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—Legitimate drama has this week been superseded by a variety company, under the direction of Mr. Edward Ranier, the principal feature of which is a sketch, entitled The Bank Robbery. Other items in the programme are contributed by Miss Millie Howell; Wright and Elton, acrobatic duologue artists; Knoto, the "man serpent"; a sketch, entitled The Blinding Light; Mr. Leo Fallowfield, eccentric comedian; Maynard and France, in a skit, "A Perfect Lady"; and Mr. Walter Payne's biograph.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Gibbons.—A capital programme is provided here this week. A sensational dramatic episode, entitled Beneath a Mask, is sustained in good style by Mr. J. Wright Aitken, Mr. Percy Stevenson, Miss Una Wright, and Miss Daisy Norman; Mozetto is a clever juggler; Kloof and Ramsey (lady and gentleman) are responsible for much fun in a vocal and musical act; as usual, Mr. E. C. Clayton has an excellent selection of pictures; the Pender Troupe are seen to advantage in a laughable absurdity, Hands Up; other turns are provided by Mr. Charles Tempest, comedian; the Continental stilt-walkers; and Miss Ida Fair. The Palace orchestra is now under the able direction of Mr. W. H. Chambers, who has brought it to a high state of efficiency.

BACUP.—New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Richard Nightingale.—Mr. Marcus Boyle's variety company is here this week, headed by Marcus Boyle, comedian. Miss Ada Whitton, male impersonator, contributes some good songs; Jim Elvo, comedian, meets with a favourable reception; the Royal Saxonias give a good account of themselves in their musical mélange; and others who do well are Urquhart, in his marvellous upside-down performance; the Lovelaces, with their singing pictures; George Wyres, comedian; and Mayon and Marle, in their comic interlude, Elizabeth and the Baby. Professor Gluckenstein's Royal Bioscope, with up-to-date pictures, is also an attraction.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Messrs. Stillwell and Teulon's company, in The Branded Woman, is here this week. Mr. J. Stillwell does remarkably well in the dual rôles of Philip Maurice and Larka, the hunchback; and Mr. Beckett Bould is particularly happy as the gay Dick Brown. Mr. Edward Fryer and Mr. Paul E. Teulon are exceptionally good as Leon Baron Hauber and Louis Deroc respectively; Miss Renee Glendower plays Genevieve, the branded woman, with great distinction; Miss Kitty McPherson is a vivacious Jacqueline; Miss Katherine Barnett an expressive and charming Marie; and Miss Hilda Townsend a promising Rodolph.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge took their first benefit here on the first three nights of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Routledge have only been responsible for the management of the theatre since August last, but they have very considerably increased the popularity of the house; they have engaged some excellent companies, and the appreciation of the public has been shown by greatly increased receipts. Mr. Routledge received a most enthusiastic reception when he came in front of the curtain to thank, on behalf of his wife and self, the audience, orchestra, staff, and all concerning, for the hearty support they had given them on this, their first annual benefit. The management were fortunate in securing Mr. E. Lockwood's company, in the successful musical comedy, Sergeant Brue, for this occasion. Mr. Arthur Reynolds, in the title-rôle, does himself considerable credit, and thoroughly appreciates the humour of the situation. In the hands of Mr. Charles McLagan, Crookie Scrubbs is a capital part, his quaint humour keeping the house in roars of laughter; the Lady Bickenhall of Miss Lily Lingard, who has a fine stage presence and taking manner, is an excellent performance; Mr. E. Percy Rodgers as Michael Brue makes the most of the part; Mr. Arthur Stroud is a capital Gerald Treherne, and sings his songs with good taste; and the duets with Aurora Brue, Miss Eva Weigh, who sings very pleasantly, are well received. Mr. Clarence Napier as Inspector Gorringe is capital. On Thursday and Friday, Mr. Arthur Bourchier and company appeared in The Walls of Jericho.

Tivoli.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—The star turn here this week is Lew Lake and company, in the farce, entitled The Bloomsbury Burglars. Abel and Welsh, grotesque eccentrics, are paying a welcome return visit; Bert Harrow is a good comedian, with quaint songs; Baroni and Kemp, protean entertainers, give a capital show; Pete and Lee sing very well; Lillian Travelli is a pleasing comedian; and Sam Dalton is a capable comedian.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—The Great Awakening is here, with Miss Maud Hildyard starring in the character of Lola Selby. She receives generally good support from her company, in which Miss Doris Digby sustains with ability the heroine Molly Merton. Mr. A. C. Hardie is well placed as James Selby; the dual impersonation of Sir Henry Merton and his son Jack are cleverly portrayed by Mr. Bernard Copping; Mr. Charles Vivian as Guy Rogan is duly heartless, Harry Lambert is enacted with conviction by Mr. Herbert Evelyn, Mr. Herbert Sidney loks and acts the part of Richard Wilson, and credit is due to Mr. Tracy Barrow for his fussy impersonation of the French waiter Antoine. The comedy element is quite safe with Miss Ida Bellington as Selina Worts and Mr. Willie Scott as Billy Brass.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schubert.—This week Dutch Daly, with his ever-ready wit and clever concertina playing, is scoring his usual hit; Allis and Cassati provide a singing, dancing, and comedy interlude that secures for them hearty applause; Mersano, as a palmer of coins and in other sleight of hand tricks, is surprising to a degree; Gertie Moore, comedienne and dancer, gains her biggest success with her big boot rag-time dance; Bishop and Hanlon give a boisterous knockabout acrobatic comedy act that finds favour, and return visits are paid by the Bros. Ashley in their well-known boxing sketch Next Please, the Darrell Trio of accomplished musicians and vocalists and the Sisters Hall (duettists)—all of whom continue popular. Raymond's Bio-tableaux exhibit new and interesting pictures.

Assembly Rooms.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Howes.—On Monday afternoon Mr. Rutland Barrington, assisted by Miss Robertson Grimston, gave a delightful humorous and musical recital before an appreciative audience.

BATLEY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Whitty.—The Prodigal Son is being followed attentively here by interested audiences. Mr. Alfred H. Cook's company includes Mr. J. P. McBride, a competent and conscientious actor; Mr. Hal Lowe, a crisp and convincing exponent of Bill Burke; Mr. W. A. Buckstone, a sound actor; Mr. John S. Chamberlain, a thoroughly successful Irish comedian; Mr. John Bryce, a satisfactory exponent of a heavy part; Miss Rosie Kearns, a chic comedienne; Miss Marion Forrester, a good actress; Miss Nora Bedford, a patient and pathetic figure in the play; and Miss Nellie Hook, a bright, alert, and attractive exponent of a boy's part.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—This week the boards are occupied by Mr. John Leopold's company, in the farcical comedy, New Frivolity. Mr. Tom Leopold as Professor Fumble, Mr. Willie Leopold as Tickle, the page, Mr. Joe Leopold as Student No. 1, and Mr. Ernest Leopold as Student No. 2, with Mr. John Leopold, jun., as Daniel Teething afford an excellent rollicking entertainment of fun and gymnastics. Mr. Watson Hume as Oliver Buckwheat, Mr. Wilfred Vaughan as Jules Vermiglio, and Mr. Barry Lupino as Samuel Vermiglio are also responsible for plenty of good humour. Miss Minnie West makes a charming schoolgirl, and Miss Queenie Bronte is a pleasing Manenette. The troupe of lady dancers give an excellent entertainment.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Notwithstanding the success of the Easter pantomime, Dick Whittington, it must of necessity be withdrawn to-night owing to the important engagement of Mr. George Edwardes' company in Lady Madcap commencing on Monday night. Last night Mr. Neil Kenyon, who has made such an enormous hit during the run of the pantomime, took his benefit—a well-deserved compliment indeed. Mr. Warden has undoubtedly every reason to be satisfied with the success of this Easter annual.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece.—Mr. Sam Elton, the smart comedy juggler, tops the bill, and his capital act has been successful. A novelty is submitted in the appearance of Young Colossus and L'Homme Miniature, the contrast between the two men being remarkably striking. Mr. Otto Menotti appears to much advantage in his startling novelty, "The Twentieth Century Cycling Track," his various feats causing quite a sensation. Kopski's clever performance at the piano is received with enthusiasm; and the Cribb Trio appear in their original comedy scena, Idle Fellows with Idle Thoughts. The Three Ettenas in their wonderful speciality on the globes; Miss Gladys Archbutt, comedienne and dancer; Mr. Tom Collins, comedian; Miss Beattie Kent, vocalist and dancer; and the Palace Pictures complete.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Limited.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr John A. Walker.—Mr. Joe Elvin's company tops the bill with the exhilarating sketch, 'Appy 'Ampstead, which has created roars of laughter. Mr. Maitland Marler, in Mr. Elvin's part, has been most successful. Mr. Herbert Shelley, the clever actor-vocalist, appears to much advantage in his scena, The Fox and Hounds Inn; and a hit has been made by Mr. Jas. Stewart, "the original tramp at the piano." Mr. David Poole is a smart ventriloquist; and others appearing are Miss Gracie Grahame, a charming comedienne; Mr. Jas. Fawn, a comedian who is always up-to-date; and Mr. Bert Byrne, comedian.

New Alhambra Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—Queen Le Brunn and company head the list here, and have been most successful with their sporting absurdity, The Cockney Huntsman. Captain Devereaux introduces with much effect his wonderful troupe of trained dogs; and Mr. Lawrence Barclay, a versatile comedian, creates much merriment with his humorous songs. Fred Andre and Miss Lillie Brenton gain much approval with a comedy sketch. The new pictures exhibited by the Alhambra Bioscope are decidedly entertaining; and Mr. Louis Kerno, comedian; Miss Mary Glenn, vocalist; Lack and Ford, comedy acrobats; and Mr. Harry Nelson, comedian, also contribute.

BILSTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—The Babes in the Wood, now called an Easter pantomime, is presented here for the current week by Gus Levaine and Clayton's company. Miss Jessie Lindsay makes a dashing Robin Hood, and sings well; a pretty vocalist and dancer is found in Miss Lizzie Levaine; Misses Florry Anderson and Gertrude Bingham as Allan-a-Dale and Helen are a smart pair, dancing and singing together admirably; and the Babes, little Lilly Belle and wee Madge Bingham, are also good step dancers; Mr. Harry Sully as the Baron is supported in his amusing stage villany by Weary Willie and Tired Tim, a couple of characters well suited to the frisky and mischievous propensities of Fred Fosco and Dave Anderson. Among the specialities are Percy Victor's dog orchestra, Mons. Fosco's harmonics, Eddie Clay, the tramp musician, Bonando, comedy juggler, and special dances by the Valmores and Ruby Quartette.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company in the comedy Dr. Wake's Patient succeeds in presenting an entertainment which at once secures the interest and promotes the enjoyment of large audiences. It is seldom that anything better is seen than the performance of Mr. Alfred Wellesley in the rôle of Andrew Wake, the Doctor's father, a rendering which is received with the heartiest applause; Lady Gerania is admirably played by Miss Olive Terry; Mr. Douglas Vigors gives a capital interpretation of Dr. Forrester Wake; Mr. Herbert Ross is a general favourite by reason of a highly-finished and humorous performance of Duff Wynterden, and Mr. Arthur Willoughby admirably impersonates the Earl of St. Olbyn. Miss Amy Fauchette displays great ability as Mrs. Wake; Miss Ina Pelly is an irreproachable Countess of St. Olbyn, and Miss Beatrice Webb is a charming Harriet Bronson. Mr. Cecil Mapp is entertaining as the Bishop of Selby, and the remainder of the caste render excellent service. The production is carefully staged.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Karno's Comedians are in the second week of a highly successful engagement, and on Monday evening presented a new sketch for the first time in the provinces, entitled The Smoking Concert. The production may be fairly termed a "screamer," and was received with the utmost cordiality; it has been repeated twice each evening during the week. A prominent feature here is a welcome return visit from Mr. Dan Crawley, the popular character comedian, and Frazer and Mac in their amusing and clever interlude are also an undeniable attraction. Miss Lilian Bishop is a vocalist of exceptional ability; and the excellent company also includes Clifton and Gibson (character comedian and mimic), Miss Florence Schubert (a talented comedienne), and the latest football pictures by the Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway. The Moody-Manners Opera Company has during the passing fortnight given striking performances from their extensive repertoire, including one special novelty, to wit, Tschaikowsky's Eugene Onegin, which they produced for the first time in Birmingham on Friday last week. This proved an artistic triumph for all concerned, band, chorus, and principals all being hailed with acclamations. Madame Fanny Moody as Tatiana sang her brightest and best, and scored brilliantly; Mr. Lewys James as Eugene rose to all exigencies, and the other rôles were handled to excellent advantage, Mr. Charles Manners, in answer to the furore, making a capital speech of thanks. The engagements has been concluded this week by representations of Lohengrin, Faust, Carmen, Tannhauser, Lucia Di Lammermoor, The Bohemian Girl, and Eugene Onegin, all of which have been well attended and enthusiastically applauded.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Mr. Forbes Robertson is fulfilling a welcome engagement here in Mice and Men, Mrs. Grundy, and The Light that Failed, attended by Miss Gertrude Elliott and company. Mrs. Grundy was staged on Tuesday, and Mr. Forbes Robertson as the pure-minded manly clergyman Edward Sotheby, delighted all with his rare, polished acting, Miss Gertrude Elliott gives an enchanting performance as the widow (Mrs. Patullo), Miss Auriol Lee submits a clever and a charming view of the rôle of Kitty Barson, Mr. J. H. Ryley scores in the humorous rôle of Joe Puddiford, Mr. Chas. Weir and Miss Minnie Griffin are successful as Mr. and Mrs. Jevons, Master Herbert Brown is much admired as Little Jack, and Miss Gertrude Bibby, Miss Esme Hubbard, Miss Dorris Lytton, Miss Dorothy Pagett, Mr. Vernon Steel (who acts strenuously as the lover), Mr. Robson Paige, and Mr. Herbert Dansey are conspicuous in the cast. Mr. Ian Robertson deputised on Monday for Mr. Forbes Robertson, who was on that night the guest of the Shakespeare Society.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—Mr. J. W. Turner concludes a highly successful three weeks' operatic season this evening. Several rare old favourites have been essayed, including The Waterman, in which Mr. Turner continues to sing and act as Tom Tug with undiminished power and verve. Mr. Turner has also delighted his admirers as Count Rupert in Satanella, Don Cæsar de Bazan in Maritana, and others of his popular rôles; while his principal support has been forthcoming from Mr. F. J. Hargrave, Mr. Chas. Le Seur, Mr. John Ridding, Mr. Sidney Clifford, Mr. Harry Thornton, Mr. L. Cummings, Miss Kitty Brownlees, Miss Maude Esdale, Miss Jessie Dennis, Miss Constance Belmy, and others. Il Trovatore, The Bohemian Girl, Maritana, Faust, Martha, Satanella, and The Daughter of the Regiment have constituted the week's programme.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—The Sign of the Cross has made a powerful appeal here played by Mr. William Greet's company. Mr. W. F. Grant is cast for the rôle of Marcus Superbus, which he makes intensely powerful and dignified. Miss Marie Leonhard represents the gentle traits of the martyr Mercia in a sweet and ennobling manner, Mr. J. Boyd Pearson ably depicts the ignoble character of Nero, Miss Ivy Millais as the boy Stephanas is to be commended for her cleverly poignant acting, Mr. Frank Wood's bibulous Glabrio is welcome for its drollery, and the other rôles are well played, as witness Mr. Chas. Aldred as Tigellinus, Mr. Harry Jones as Philodemus, Miss Nelly Bonser as Poppœa, Miss Alma Bolton as Berenice, Miss Cissy Carlton as Dacia, and Mr. Walter Fleet as Favius.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager Mr. Andrew Melville.—A Queen of Villainy is presented here with much success by Mr. P. Howard Sturgess's company. Miss Edith Blande is engaged for the rôle of Cora Granville, which, with her powerful acting, she makes the dominant character of the play. Miss Shirley Dalton presents the rôle of Rose Delmayne in sympathetic tints, Miss Amy Ross Clyde gives a clever character sketch of Mother Damnable (otherwise Sally Chimes), Miss Jessie Crammonde affords much amusement as Mollie Maggs, Mr. Chas. Rogers enacts the tourist (Timothy Kodac) with much humour, Mr. E. G. Batley gives a manly rendering of the hero Alec, Mr. Edward Heanley submits a bold portrayal of the accomplice, Stephen Fausit, and Messrs. A. E. Maskell and Chas. Stirling, in the respective rôles of Reuben Hawk and Dick Leinster, act in an exceedingly meritorious way.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Ticket-of-Leave Man, as represented here this week by Mr. Sanderson Moffat's company, preserves all its old attractions. Mr. Sanderson Moffat acts most satisfactorily as Bob Brierley, Mr. Edwin T. Kisby is realistic as James Dalton, Mr. Walter Dale shines as his ally Melter Moss, Mr. R. S. Trelawney acts as the detective in the most approved style, Miss Phyllis Graham gives a graceful presentment of the rôle of Sam Willoughby, Miss Harriet Russell acts the garrulous part of Mrs. Willoughby cleverly, Miss Phyllis Hamilton gets due sympathy as May Edwards, and Mr. Jas. Wilton is successful as Mr. Gibson. On Friday, East Lynne occupied the bill for the benefit of Miss Hamilton.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whitties.—The Village Blacksmith is fulfilling a popular return engagement here, securing for Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company a hearty welcome. Mr. Sam Livesey imbues the titular rôle with a robustious spirit that gains him much popularity, Mr. Joseph Carter excels as the villain athlete, Miss Laura Walker holds the audience in deep sympathy as the falsely-accused wife, Miss Maggie Edwards scores in the rôle of Ruth Parkins, and sings a favourite ballad with much taste; Mr. Edwin Maydew enacts the cat's-paw, Marlow, in a clever style; and Mrs. T. C. Livesey as Sal Parkins, Mr. T. E. Marshalls as Jeremiah, Mr. G. V. Campbell as Billy Twigg, Miss Edith Giddens as Martha Mopps, and Miss Bertha Hanbury as the child give excellent portrayals.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. J. Huntley.—The patrons of this place of amusement are this week enjoying Messrs. Ediscope and Barnum's variety company. Mr. Vic Verney, whistling comedian, is accorded very hearty applause for his efforts; the Two Allies give a clever juggling performance; the Vervaines, coon vocalists and dancers, make quite a hit; Miss Queenie Vane is loudly encored for her step-dancing; Mons. Aerie, gymnast and equilibrist, performs some smart acrobatic feats; Miss Lulu, the lady instrumentalist, in her illuminated garden scene, is responsible for a pleasing entertainment; a series of interesting and amusing pictures is nightly given by the cinematograph, which completes an enjoyable programme.

BLACKBURN.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald C. Yorke.—Mr. Lewis Waller's company (under the management of Mr. Peter Davey) is drawing crowded houses to the "cosy Royal" with the play Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner. Miss Cynthia Broke is playing the impetuous Miss Elizabeth, and invests the part with a charming naturalness which has appealed strongly to local lovers of the drama. Mr. Frederick Victor is a manly Captain Harry Peyton and a striking contrast to the craven Major John Colden, which is played by Mr. Elliott Ball, who does well in a somewhat ungrateful rôle. The necessary vein of comedy is well introduced by Miss Leonora Braham as Mistress Williams, and Mr. Sidney Young as Mr. Valentine. The parts of Molly Edwards (Miss Phyllis Back), John Edwards (Mr. A. Carlow Grand), Sergt. Carrington (Mr. Donald Young), Black Sam (Mr. Tom Taylor), and Cuff (Mr. J. Thomas) are also well done. The play has been preceded each evening by a comedietta Domestic Bliss, in which Mr. A. Carlow Grand and Miss Rollo Deas appear.

New Province Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page.—The Coal King, which forms the attraction at this house, naturally appeals to Lancashire audiences, in that the scene of the drama is laid near Wigan, and the different phases of mining life are realistically shown. The company is an excellent one. Mr. Lauderdale Maitland acts well in the part of Tom Roberts, and is sympathetically supported by Miss Gertrude Valentine, who makes a charming heroine; Mr. Joseph Millaine is good as the villainous son of the Coal King, and a capital study of Mad Ann, a village character, is given by Miss Joan Wellman.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—the famous Dr. Walford Bodie, bloodless surgeon and electrical anatomist, is heading the bill here. He performs remarkable experiments with his wonderful electrical apparatus, and has in addition accomplished some remarkable cures of local children who have been paralysed from an early age, and whose cases had been given up as hopeless by medical men. There is also an excellent variety show, including Signor Bondini (the one-man band), Bernard and Weston (comedians), Halma (juggler), the Two Pooles (duettists and dancers), Dolly Robson (child vocalist), Norman Mills (patriotic singer), Edna Latonne and Flo Wood (comediennes), J. G. Aitken (comedian), and Ray mond's biograph.

BLYTH.—Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Tudor.—The Elliotts and Savonas remain from last week, and are introducing an entire change of programme, which is drawing large and enthusiastic audiences. Among the new arrivals are the Two Clarks, in a globe performance; Phinas and Aida, equilibrists; the Reays, modern athletes; Mr. Tudor, with his ponies, Daisy and Ida; and an old favourite, Clown Rabbits.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston.—A comic opera entitled The Gold Diggers; or, the Girls From Utah, under the direction of Mr. Walter McEwan, was staged here on Monday. Mr. Harrison Brockbank as Terence Rainford proved himself both a good actor and singer, and was repeatedly encored; Mr. Fred Eastman (an old Bolton favourite) was very humorous as Brewgood; the comicalities of Mr. W. H. Powell were entertaining as Beaucoup, and Mr. Arthur Stigant was excellent as Sir Joseph Pickles. Mr. H. V. Cropton was smart as Billy; Miss Nora Brocklebank as Mildred Bumble was charming alike in acting and singing; Miss Florence Parfrey was comical as Mrs. Bumble; Miss Kate Vesey was dainty as Suza; and Miss Lilian Pollard was charming as Deborah. The chorus was strong and well-balanced.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—An excellent company is this week appearing here, headed by The Gems, in their unique entertainment of mirth and melody. The following are also engaged: The Lowenwirth Bros., original Hebrew dialect comedians; Edie Rivers, comedienne and dancer; Vincent, acrobatic table expert, &c.; Alf Maynall, comedian; the Danbys, eccentric comedians; Edwardes and Espinosa, in their refined musical speciality; Denby and Dent, in a novel up-to-date comedy act; Geo. Rapley, burlesque comedian; A. P. Boswell, the black-faced furniture shifter; the Gittis, in a novel eccentric act, entitled Disturbances in the Kitchen; and Vernon's bioscope.

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—The main feature of this week's programme is the first appearance here of Jack and Evelyn, the elite entertainers, whose efforts, especially their sand dancing, are much appreciated. The Dayton Family are paying a return visit, and their wonderfully clever turn gains for them an enthusiastic reception nightly; another prime favourite is Rosie Reval, character comedienne. Peggie Lennie and Walter Hast present a "poetic phantasy," The Sea Nymph, in which the latter's excellent voice is heard to advantage. Blanche Marion, comedienne and dancer; Marie Blythe, vocal comedienne; Will Driscoll, swell comedian and dancer; and Jean Priver's Royal Six, are other attractions. The bioscope as usual forms a pleasing final item. Mr. Harry Ball, the popular manager, is taking a well-deserved benefit matinée on Thursday next, April 26. He has secured an exceptionally strong and attractive programme, and we trust a packed house will reward his efforts. Mr. Ball deserves every encouragement, not only for the excellent bills he provides week by week, but also for his never-failing courtesy and untiring energy and astuteness.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—On Monday Mr. Bannister Howard's company in Oliver Twist opened to an enthusiastic house. Mr. D. Lewin Mannering gave a most impressive picture of Fagin the Jew; Mr. William Kemble was a capital Bill Sikes; Mr. W. H. Rotheram, who doubled the parts of Grimwig and Monks, gave a very finished conception of both. Miss Edith Anton Laing scored in the part of Nancy, as did Charlie Clark as the Artful Dodger.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—With his own company, beautiful scenery, and charming costumes, Mr. Hart presents this week a brilliant revival of San Toy, which is produced under the direction of Mr. Victor Stevens. Monday night's large audience greeted the performance with much enthusiasm, and a successful run is assured. The company is a strong one, stamped all round with the seal of general excellence. Miss Fanny Dango's charm and brightness in the character of the lively San Toy have at once established her as a general favourite, and, together with Miss Louie Collier, who plays Chu San, success is achieved in the exigeant musical parts of the piece. Mr. Frank Danby introduces some capital up-to-date songs in his impersonation of Li, which is quaint and humorous. Mr. Dennis Drew's fine voice is heard to advantage in the part of Captain Bobby Preston. There is much suppressed humour in Mr. John Humphries' Yen How; as the peppery Sir Bingo Preston Mr. W. J. Manning is excellent; Mr. Jocelyn Hope's "make up" as Sing Hi is a study; and the ease and humour of Mr. Alfred Clark as the susceptible Emperor are irresistible. Mr. Frederick Hobbs is a dramatic Fo Hop; as Lieut. Harvey Tucker Mr. George Taylor is good; very acceptably Miss Rhoda Gordon fills the part of Poppy Preston; Miss Maud Darling is graceful and delightfully buoyant as Dudley; a "pas seul," executed by Miss May Gould, is a charming feature of the revival, which Mr. Albert Bartlett conducts with ability.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—A first visit is being paid here this week by Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard in the latter's strong drama The Midnight Wedding, which was well received by a large and deeply interested audience on Monday. Around a sword-master of the Red Hussars, Paul Valmar, a strong plot is woven, and Mr. Paumier achieves distinction in the character, being finely supported by Miss Annie Saker as the heroine of the story, Princess von Strelsburg. Mr. Clinton Baddeley fills effectively the part of the villain of the piece, Captain Rudolph von Scarsbruck the unstable Lieut. Engene von Strelsburg; and the part of the Crown Prince are capable efforts by Messrs. Sydney Lynn and Fred R. W. Freeman respectively. The incidents are dramatic and admirably portrayed, and there are numerous humorous interludes introduced in the way of relief by Mr. Fred Constable as Sergeant Max, Reginald Payne as Corporal Otto, Algie Spalding as Private Bobo, and Miss Ada Champion as Kathie, who is the object of their rivalry.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—The exhibition given here this week by Tarro Myaki, "the champion jiu-jitsu wrestler of Japan," is an interesting and novel feature of the strong and attractive programme provided, and it arouses much hearty enthusiasm. Terry and Lambert make a welcome reappearance; and Reilly and Taylor are responsible for good Dutch dialect and comedy. A graceful and clever triple trapeze performance is submitted by the charming Urma Sisters; Florrie St. Clair sings and dances acceptably; and in their turn, Naval Officers at Play, Cardow's Cadets are humorous and diverting. T (refined burlesque artist), and Miss Gertie Grahame (quick-change artist dancer). Mr. Percy Osborne contributes pianoforte selections, and the performances conclude with an exhibition of the Aquariograph animated pictures.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—This week Mr. Chute has achieved a notable success with his magnificent production of Romeo and Juliet. The scenery by Messrs. Freemantle and William Palmer is exceptionally beautiful and tasteful, the special music is composed by Mr. Yorke Sheffield, the chorus is full and powerful, and the augmented orchestra is capably conducted by Mr. G. R. Chapman, the whole production being under the personal supervision of Mr. James Macready Chute. There was a well-filled house on Monday evening, the play was followed by the large audience with attention, and the performance evidently gave the utmost satisfaction. The tragedy concludes with a splendid tableau, "The Church of San Zeno, Maggiore, Verona," where, grouped around a raised bier, the congregation engage in a requiem; the whole picture, with its solemn music and fragrant incense, forming a striking and impressive conclusion to the play. In this final scene valuable assistance is given by members of the Bristol Amateur Operatic Society. The play is very capably performed all round. Mr. Milton Rosmer plays Romeo in a sufficiently impulsive style, with tenderness, and with dramatic intensity when needed. Miss Haidee Gunn has previously played Juliet here; her interpretation of the part, her beautiful voice, and her grace and charm of movement leaves nothing to be desired; and the advantage of youth in such a part and her intellectual capacity adds much to her conspicuous success. Mr. Eric Blind may be said to be absolutely perfect as Mercutio; he has a fine stage presence, he speaks well, and is sufficiently buoyant and energetic. Mr. Ernest Griffin is good as Tybalt; Mr. James Taylor acts well as Benvolio; Mr. Kenyon Musgrove is impressive as Friar Lawrence; and Mr. Arthur Chesney, capitally made up, does well as the Apothecary. Miss Barbara Fenn is pleasing as the Nurse; Miss Alice Mazzoni displays ability as Lady Capulet; and the other characters are all very carefully taken. On Monday evening an artistic souvenir of the production, containing eight beautiful plates 13in. by 10in., printed on high toned paper, with an introduction by Sir William H. Bailey, was presented to every lady in all parts of the theatre.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—The Christian is attracting good houses. The play is well staged, and Mr. Wentworth Croke has secured a competent company. The leading parts of Glory Quayle and John Storm are carefully taken by Miss Grace Chalmers and Mr. Frank Tennant. Mr. T. R. Lockwood acts cleverly as Lord Robert Ure; his style just fits the part, and he is not too aggressive. Mr. Jackson Wilcox is well placed as Horatio Drake; Miss Vashti Wellbourne displays dramatic power as Polly Love; and Miss Molly Hayden is decidedly good as Mrs. Callander. The other parts are all in very competent hands.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton.—Wal Pink and Vendome's pantomimic sketch, Day-Breakers, creates much hilarity; the Ramlos do a very clever triple-bar act; Sadie Seymour is a pleasing comedienne; Bert Brantford's songs might be selected with better taste; Vere and Royal do a smart patter and dancing act; Will Fredo, comedian, dances well; Margaret Agnes, comedienne, sings in good style; Minnie Mace, comedienne, is successful both in song and dance; Mr. and Mrs. Payte score with a comedy duologue, Also Ran; and the Five Casino Girls present an interesting and clever turn as brass instrumentalists. The performance (two shows a night with a Wednesday matinée) concludes with a display of animated pictures. The matinée on Wednesday last was for the benefit of the widow and orphans of the late Arthur Wale, member of the Bristol Fire Brigade, who lost his life in a recent fire here. There were special attractions, and the attendance was satisfactory.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Albert Wyndham and company are presenting with success the Hall of Justice scene from The Merchant of Venice, with Mr. Albert Wyndham as Shylock and Miss Martell as Portia, supported by a good company. The O'Learys, in an Oriental burlesque act, do some fine acrobatic work; the Haytors amuse with eccentric comedy, &c.; Dolly Harmer is a pleasing comedienne; the Five Julians sing and dance in good style; Harry Grey, comedian, is very popular; Selby and Myers, comedians, obtain applause; Fred Clements is a versatile humorist; and the performance concludes with interesting animated pictures.

BROUGHTON. — VICTORIA, LTD. — Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr. James W. Haworth; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Mr. Charles Harrington's No. 1 American combination drew a good house on Monday with Uncle Tom's Cabin. Uncle Tom is well presented by Mr. J. Carr; Mr. J. Henry Rogers makes a thorough villain of Legree; Marks is a comical lawyer in the hands of Mr. Walter Langford; Miss Hettie Johnson does well as Eliza; Topsie has a good representative in Miss Annie Watson; Miss Ethel Mildmay as Cassy, little Minnie as Little Eva, Mr. J. H. Renney as Phineas Fletcher, and Mr. Leslie Beaufort as George Harris give good support. The plantation festival scene is taken advantage of for a variety entertainment, with specialities by Miss May Vincent, ballad vocalist, Ikey Jones, eccentric dancer, Walter Langford, banjoist, W. H. Nott, tenor, Shorty May, acrobatic dancer, and Rowe and Holden, cake walkers.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Mr. Henry Bedford's company is here with Gipsy Jack, in which he plays the title-rôle with great skill and effect. Mr. Alex. Alexander as the villainous Gerald Skinner distinguishes himself; Mr. Cecil B. Churton is excellent as the Rev. Francis Harvey; and Mr. Walter H. Domoney does well as Mr. Skinner. Mr. Sid Bedford and Mr. J. H. Damer in the respective parts of Joe Banks and Charley Bates create merriment; Miss Bessie Bedford plays charmingly as May Harvey, Miss Ella Sennett gives a clever representation of Dorothy Dexter, and Miss Jennie Risley is very good as Jennie Huggins. The See-Saw of Life was staged on Friday.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. T. Culeen; General-Manager, Mr. Jas. E. Culeen.—Messrs. Chas. H. Phelps and Harry Tilbury's company occupies the boards here in a drama entitled The Blind Foundling.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Duncan and Godfrey in their coster act Me and 'Er, which is a delightful performance, are one of the many excellent turns here this week. The Four Harveys perform a series of clever tricks on the wire; Bliss and Bliss (comedians) succeed in raising many laughs, and J. H. Hawtrey is a clever actor-vocalist. Mlle. Dé Rose (lady baritone) renders several popular songs in good style, Theresa and May (duettists) are acceptable, Agnes and Arthur Lynch, with picture songs, are much appreciated, and the English Football Cup tie, given by Urbanora, receives an enthusiastic ovation.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—Mr. J. D. Hunter's company is appearing here with The Ruby Ring. Chief honours must be awarded to Mr. Frederick Sargent, whose Cuthbert Vaughan is a fine piece of work. Mr. George Cecil Murray infuses plenty of go into the character of Colonel Clethorpe; Mr. Horace Pollock proves himself a polished villain as Reginald Clethorpe; Mr. Chas. Langton shows ability as Henry Jordon; Mr. Geo. Mudie, jun., acquits himself with distinction as Chas. Lynton; and Mr. A. B. Tapping gives an interesting character sketch as Alphonse Leloir. Miss Clarissa Selwynne is fascinating as Jane; Miss Alice Farleigh shows dramatic power as Helen Neville; and in the lighter vein, Mr. Geo. Thorne, jun. (John Jenkins), Mr. Harry Collier (Peter Tagg), and Miss Blanche Bayley (Mary Richard) are responsible for hearty laughter.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr. Ian Maclaren and company are here with a series of Shakespearean and classical plays. On Monday The Merchant of Venice was finely rendered, the Shylock of Mr. Maclaren being a most thoughtful and carefully studied character. Miss F. Glopop Harris was remarkably good as Portia; Miss Mona Limerick (Nerissa) and Miss Gertrude Gilbert (Jessica) also gave capital impersonations. David Garrick, Othello, Romeo and Juliet, and Hamlet are also in the répertoire.

CARDIFF.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Cardiffians have an opportunity this week of witnessing a revival of Claudian, performed by Mr. Wm. Maclaren's company. Mr. Maclaren interprets the title-rôle with dignity and a restraint which emphasises its power; Miss Lily C. Bandman submits a fine rendition of Almida; as Agazil Mr. George Austin is seen to much advantage; and Miss Carlotta Anson as Edessa and Mr. C. T. Chaloner as Belos contribute some welcome comedy; Mr. William Howard is well suited as the Tetrarch; and other parts well represented are Alcaros (Mr. Weston Hubbard), Theorus (Mr. Edmund Grogan), the Holy Clement (Mr. A. G. Carr), and Serena (Miss Rose Webster). The earthquake scene is capitally managed.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Bateman.—Occupying the boards here is the drama, A Rogue's Daughter. Miss Marie Menzies, the authoress of the play, appears as Lady Maynard, and submits a skilful delineation; Mr. F. V. Fenn, as Frank Tyler, proves himself a capable actor; and Miss Violet Leader, as Dichy, a waif, does extremely well; Mr. A. Hall-Menzies, as Ercules, gives a particularly droll representation; and Miss M. Devereux as Lotty Grey soon wins the approval of her audience by a sympathetic rendering.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—The clever ventriloquist, Tom Edwards, tops the bill this week; Esta Stella, the dainty singer and dancer, is also well received; Seeley and West are funny musical comedians; Starr and Leslie are simply past masters as club-jugglers, &c.; the Finneys (James and Elsie) are still without rivals in their aquatic exhibition; and Beatrice Willey, in a medley of flower songs; Ross and Grayson in their humorous piano-playing scene; Frank Leslie, comedian; the De Lucca Troupe of up-to-date drawing-room gymnasts; and the entertaining Bioscope complete an attractive programme.

CARLISLE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Trustees of R. S. M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Stanley.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company is here in Sunday this week. Sunday, as impersonated by Miss Emélie Polini, is a delightful character, played with an exquisite touch of pathos and a sparkling appreciation of comedy. The Nun is capitally characterised by Miss Muriel Pope; and Miss Rosalind Ross gives a refined portrayal of Mrs. Naresby. Mr. Leonard Pagden submits a sound and impressive representation of Colonel Brinthorpe, a part which fits him admirably; Tom Oxley is delightfully played by that experienced and clever actor, Mr. Ernest A. Douglas; a clever character-sketch of Towser is submitted by Mr. William Lockhart, always a popular favourite here; Mr. T. Norman Walter gives a telling performance as Lively; Mr. Sidney Rennef finds a congenial part in Davy; and Mr. Arthur Vezin cleverly depicts Jacky.

PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietors, Palace Theatre, Limited; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nichols.—The Lukushama troupe of Japanese are the star turn here this week, and present a truly wonderful show; Mlle. Lumiere in her superb serpentine dancing meets with quite an ovation; Barrett and Knowles are two funny cross-talkers; the Ollive Trio in a pretty act score a big success; Ernesto (musical equilibrist) is clever and neat, Hall and Earle make an instantaneous success with their acrobatic performance, Dave McNeil is successful as a vocalist, and the Palace pictures are up to the usual standard.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—Delighted audiences are this week roaring over the many amusing incidents and complications presented by Miss Emma Hutchison's and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in the farce, Public Opinion; or, Pansy's Breach of Promise case. Miss Nancy Beresford as Pansy and Miss Moyra Creegan as Lady Diana Caldershaw give excellent representations; Mr. Percy Marshall is excellent as Horace Wibsey, Mr. Shirley Lea a good Justice Mulley, Mr. Douglas Hamilton quaint as Babington. Spencer Traughton is in the safe hands of Mr. Charles Harley; while Mr. John E. Watson must be mentioned for his powers.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Capt H. E. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Donne.—The Piccaninnies, introduced by Bonnie Goodwin, are gaining an unusually enthusiastic welcome nightly; Ernest Rees is a fine patterer; and Ben Albert knows how to sing comic ditties. Lily Morris proves a dainty serio; imitations of music hall artists are given by Miss Lillian Elfreda; Charlie Jerome, coloured vocalist; the Two Kanes, in musical act; and pictures by the Edisonograph, complete the bill of fare.

CHELTENHAM.—OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company is here, in Lucky Miss Dean. Miss Dora Gray in the title-rôle wins laurels; Mr. William E. Ashcroft as Frederick Ware shows artistic restraint; Miss Estella Despa looks and acts well as Lady Ashmole; Mr. W. T. Elworthy is successful as Percival Chaney; Mr. Vivian Gilbert and Mr. Cyril Price-Evans are good as Miss Dean's cousins; and Mr. Frederick Holgate as the Lift Boy and Mr. Charles West as the Telegraph Boy are well placed. Mr. Claude Merton as Bill Adams the Bailiff is quite successful. The comedy was preceded by My American Admirer, in which Mr. W. T. Elworthy as Petroleum Hooker, Mr. Vivian Gilbert as Frank Cooper, Miss Estella Despa as Mary Ann Stubbs, and Miss Beth Elliott as Winifred Crow acquit themselves in humorous fashion.

CHORLEY. — GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. G. T. Sarle.—The two-act farce, entitled Miss Lancashire, Limited, by Mr. Sydney Sydney is the attraction here this week. As Mary Ellen Thompson, the Lancashire lass, Miss Florence Baines is the life and soul of the cast, her sayings and antics being most amusing; Miss Jennie Hallworth excels as Eva Lancashire; and Mr. David Donaldson takes the part of John Higgins with much ability.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—This week lovers of military drama are well catered for by Mr. Fred Webb and Mr. Wilson Benge's company in The Two Hussars. Mr. Wilson Benge himself undertakes the rôle of the hero, Harry Alford, and plays it in an unmistakably dramatic style; while Mr. Fred Webb, both in speech and gesture, represents the part of the villainous Capt. Villiers in an able manner. Mr. T. Stuart is an intensely fiery Colonel Manners, and Mr. Paradise, a typical recruiting-sergeant of the old school; but the popular part, though of the extravagantly humorous order, is that of Trooper Run (Mr. Louis Nanton). As the heroine, Miss M. Danvers-Smith is very dramatic; whilst Miss Sadie Smith is a capable Marie, the vivandière; Miss Lallah Price (an old favourite) is highly popular as the humorous Mollie Cutts.

THE HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot and Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Alen.—The programme this week is a most interesting one, the foremost turn being Prinz's Lions. Charles Ulrick scores with his foot balancing; Marquis Itonye is a clever equilibrist; Russell Carr, the military ventriloquist, Frank Hartley, the schoolboy juggler, F. S. Hulme, comedian, and Charles Deane, with his latest songs, contribute to a highly successful bill. As usual, the pictures conclude the programme.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—The visit of Mr. Charles Carey's After the Ball company is proving a phenomenal success here this week. Mr. Walter Ringham as Halliwell Merrit and Mr. Buckstone Clair as Martin work well together; Mr. Victor Widdicomb as Colonel Joseph Merrit is very quaint; Dick Seymour is in the capable hands of Mr. Norman Bowyer; Miss Nellie Groves as Nellie Mather acquits herself with ability, being ably supported by Miss May Florance as Ruth Gay. Miss Nellie James is an attractive Kitty; and as Nancy, Miss Florena Smithers fairly convulses the house.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Messrs. Lionel Glenister and Wood-Ingram's company is here in Sweet and Twenty. In the part of Joan Trevelyan, Miss Ethel Weyburn acts with cleverness and charm; Miss Dorothy Carrington is most successful as Mrs. Trevelyan; the Hon. and Rev. James Floyd is played in finished style by Mr. Drelincourt Odlum; as Eustace, Mr. Stephen Wentworth is admirable; Mr. Lionel Glenister, as Douglas, plays cleverly; and Mr. James Wheatman, as Prynne, shows ability. A musical scena, In the Strand, precedes the play, and is well received.

PALACE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—The programme here is excellent. The turn given by "Lady Julia" (the ape with a human brain), is very clever, changing her dresses without aid; Rex Fox, as a wire walker, is exceedingly clever, and is also a capital ventriloquist; the Vetter Brothers, in "The Page's Recreation," prove themselves clever acrobats; the Two Neros are excellent gymnasts; the Three Sisters Wartana are capital jugglers; Hyam Long, musical comedian, entertain on a number of instruments; Charlie Craston, comedian, pleases very much in two catchy songs; and the Two Mimosas sing and dance well.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Wm. Bennett.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company appeared here on Monday and Tuesday, in When a Man Hates, and on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday in the adaptation of Miss Marie Corelli's novel, The Sorrows of Satan. In the first mentioned play Mr. Arthur Hinton figures prominently as the villain, Pietro Danelli, and is ably assisted by Mr. Travis Green as Detective Smart, of Scotland Yard; Miss Leila Lillwood is clever as Olga Gynne, Miss Lydia Andre being responsible for Letty, and Miss Florence Lillwood makes a capital Dolly Dimple; Mr. Gerald Byrne is good as Paul, the half-witted. Other members of the company are Mr. Pleon Gaine (Sir Rupert Treherne), Mr. Frank Brunnell (Peter Pimple), Mr. William Beck (Sergt. Wiggins), Mr. E. Sampson (Jim Rogers), and Mr. Charles Timms (Hawk).

THE HIPPODROME.—Manager, T. M. Sylvester.—A good programme is provided at this popular house of amusement. Miss Dinah Morris and company, numbering twenty artists, appear in Life on a Plantation, which is much appreciated. Athas (athlete) and Vulcana give a marvellous exhibition of strength; the Smythsons appear in a laughable sketch, entitled The Lie Alarm; Tom Bass is appreciated as a comedian; Miss Esmé Gordon, serio and dancer; Belrose and Develine, who are capital vocalists, and Herbert Cyril, comedian also contribute, the animated pictures, as usual, concluding the performance.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Miss Bonwin Carlton's company is giving us The Plucky Nipper. The title-rôle is in the very able hands of Miss Bonwin Carlton herself. She is ably assisted by Mr. W. Anderson, who, as John Grip, holds the attention of his audience. Mr. William Heilbronn presents a careful study of Richard Vanbrugh; Mr. George W. Knight makes a dignified Colonel Fenwick; Mr. Claud Kingston is well placed as Henry Paget; and Mr. Edward Stream justifies his selection as Captain Frank Leslie; Mr. Edward Surrey supplies the humour as Bill Burgess; and Mr. Douglas Campbell, as Tommy Atkins, has several good songs. Miss Esther Lamonte is responsible for a winsome interpretation of Daisy Paget; Miss Ethel Whiteley holds her audience well as (Ino) Fenwick; and Mr. Jno. Chambers as Van Voch, Mr. Philip E. Mond as P.C. Smith, and Mr. T. Hadlin as Bill Brown, all show to advantage.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor.—Mr. Morton Powell's company occupies the boards here this week with The Woman who Gambles, a play in four acts, by S. Buchanan Rogerson. Mr. Edward E. Ashby gives an excellent portrayal of Count Otto Steinbach, being well supported by Miss Ada Roscoe, who acts with marked ability; Mr. Horatio Sinclair is responsible for a good performance as Baron Cratzlaw; Mr. Reginald Fox displays talent as Lieut. Karl Czarteryski; Mr. Ernest H. Clarke is well placed as M. Stambuloff; and Mr. G. H. Hurst as M. Koska Marinavitch, Mr. Charles Calvert as the Hon. Bertie Bray, and Mr. Fred Prior as Peter Peteroff, acquit themselves creditably; Miss Violet Sims is winsome and charming as Cora Gouldhart; and Miss Florrie Hall is bright and vivacious as Mlle. Zila Zeyelda.

CROYDON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—A strong bill is being submitted here this week, Mr. Frank Bertram's company appearing in The Breed of the Treshams. Mr. Henry Belding gives a vivid and powerful rendering of Lieutenant Beresby; Mr. Oswald Lingard is a creditable Viscount Dorsington; Mr. Hamilton Deane acts with accuracy in the rôle of Colonel the Hon. Clement Hungerford; Mr. George Traill speaks his lines with effect as Colonel Sir Henry Curwen; Mr. Charles T. Doe is well placed as Colonel Bagshaw; Mr. M. Wetherell is good as Captain Stanhope; Mr. Wilson Blake gives point to the rôle of Captain Rashleigh; Mr. George Jackson is painstaking as Lieutenant Willoughby; Mr. Cecil Klein is convincing as Cornet the Hon. Francis Tresham; and Messrs. Gerald Clarke, W. C. Crowe, Wilson Blakemore, Wilfred Compton, and George Scott are useful in minor parts. Miss Florence Tressilian is a natural and charming Hon. Margaret Hungerford; Miss Kathleen Morgan is efficient as Mrs. Bagshaw; Miss Belle Donaldson is neat as Helena Pierrepoint; and Miss Celestine Bertram makes a big hit as Batty. Mr. Lawson Lambert's management of this house leaves nothing to be desired.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—The boards are occupied by the New Sapho Syndicate, Ltd., company, in Sapho. Mr. Albert Sember does himself credit as Jean Gaussin; Mr. Charles M. Daly gives a quaint sketch of Father Le Grand; Mr. George Antley is excellent as Cessire Le Fenant; Mr. H. Langford is natural as Eugene Flamant; Mr. Pringle Roberts is skilful as Caroudal; Mr. Lawrence Kingsley makes the most of Paul Dechelette; and a word of praise is due to Mr. Fred H. Terrell as Dejoie, Mr. Phil Roberts as Ezano, and Mr. S. Briley as La Gonnerie. Miss Annie Bell submits an artistic and fascinating rendering of Sapho; Miss Florence Graham scores as Machaume; and little Miss Doris E. Graham wins applause as Joseph.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Jas. Bell.—Mr. John F. Preston's company is appearing here this week in the racing drama, Rogues of the Turf. Mr. J. F. Preston in the part of Captain Dudley Clifton gives a clever sketch of a scoundrel; Mr. Hardy Macro as Joe Flaxman deserves praise; Mr. A. Prescott as Moses is a typical Hebrew; Miss Madge Nelson as Nellie Flaxman plays her part cleverly; Miss Hilda Shirley as Lady Heathcote gives a capital rendering; Miss Madge Palmer and Mr. Herbert Woodin cause roars of laughter in their respective comedy parts.

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. A. M. Loader; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—The first visit of Mr. William Greet's company with The Earl and the Girl drew a large audience here on Monday night. Miss Hylda Dugdale was both charming and fascinating in the rôle of Elphin Haye; Miss Ida Stratham came in for a hearty reception as Daisy Fallowfield; Miss Beatrice Anderson was a vivacious Mrs. Shimmering Black; Miss Winnie Plumpton made an excellent Virginia Bliss; whilst Miss Lina Hicks was good as Liza. Mr. Alfred Donohoe kept the audience in roars of laughter by his humorous portrayal of Jim Cheese; Mr. Leslie Gaze is a talented artist, who looked and acted well as Dick Wargrave; Mr. Thomas Kennard made the most of his opportunities as Bunker Bliss, and his singing earned well-deserved encores; Mr. Percy Bronson, Mr. Sam Lysons, and Mr. Bernard Leslie were all effective in minor parts. The chorus is an exceptionally good one.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Albert Orton.—Mr. George Dance's premier company is here this week with The Duchess of Dantzic. Miss May Glenn, in the name-part, is a success in a superlative degree, both vocally and histrionically. Mr. Leonard F. Griffiths gives a manly and in every way effective representation of the part of the Duchess's lover and husband, and Napoleon has an admirable exponent in Mr. Gilbert Yorke. In the dual rôle of the Vicomte de Bethune (père et fils), Mr. J. H. Goldsworthy figures most agreeably, and sings with the greatest acceptance, while Mr. A. Patterson is an entertaining Papillon. The Renée de Saint Mezard of Miss Maggie White is a dainty and graceful presentment, and Miss Buena Bent is a bright and vivacious Lizette. Misses Violet and Maine Blyth and Ella Derwent, as the two sisters of Napoleon and the Empress Josephine respectively, also merit special mention. A hearty word of commendation should be accorded the ably-handled chorus.

PALACE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Taylor.—A capital programme here this week is headed by the Four Lafailles, gymnasts and equilibrists, who submit a performance considerably above the average, and meet with a hearty reception; Maidie Scott is a charming comedienne, and sings her songs in a very acceptable manner; the Four Burnells, in the musical absurdity, entitled On the Links, are diverting and cause much merriment; Fred Curran, described as the Peculiar Fellow, is an old local favourite, and is responsible for much amusement; Sisters Bartholomew are pleasing duettists and dancers, York, Mac, and York appear in a mirth-provoking act, and Harry Morris is a capable comedian and mimic. The Palace Bioscope is well to the fore with films depicting winter sports in other lands.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's able company is attempting the somewhat difficult task of playing East Lynne twice nightly. As Carlyle, Mr. Alfred Beaumont enacts the character with telling effect, while Mr. Eric Mayne as Levison submits a powerful performance. Miss Julie Kennard as Lady Isabel has an admirable presence, and draws the usual sympathy; Miss Violet Thorold is good as Barbara Hare, and the services of Mr. Alfred Tate as Bullock are indispensable.

HIPPODROME AND VARIETIES. — General-Manager, Mr. George Weldon.—The programme here this week includes the Four Figaros in national dances, the Bros. Corcoran with selections on brass instruments, Takio, a clever mimic, the Greys (operatic vocalists), the Carney Twins, Max Merlin, who repeats his former success, the Redfearns (banjoists), Rose Tilley (comedienne), and the Harriscope.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman. — Lingford Carson's Modern Adventuress was presented to a Doncaster audience for the first time on Monday. William Delby was intelligently sustained by Mr. Harry C. Rutland; and a strong portrayal of Harry Delby came from Mr. Louis Edmonde. Mr. Sydney Grant embodied Wallace Dalton with marked artistic effect; Mr. Leonard Aardale gave piquancy to Pietro Donelli; Mr. Leonard Montgomery scored as the Yorkshireman, John Crompton; Mr. Polson Turner was good as Walter Baal, and support was afforded him by Mr. Frank Orchard, who essayed the part of Steve Meredith. Miss Ivy Chandos did well as Sally Hodges; and Miss Alice Defoe admirably rendered the part of Yivette Delby. Miss Kate Froude in the title-rôle made good use of her opportunities.

DOVER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—Miss Frances Delaval and company are here this week in the drama, entitled Her Lost Self. Miss Delaval plays the part of Philipine Marcel with much dramatic intensity, and speedily wins the commendation of the audience for her clever rendering; Mr. Percy Carne Waram's fine stage presence and excellent elocution well fit him for the rôle of Wilfred Daventry, whose little daughter Dorothy has a charming and skilful exponent in Miss Min Johnson. An effective sketch of Paule Kimberley is the work of Mr. Adrian Lovett; Mr. Charles Keene is a thoroughly capable and artistic Norman Esmond; a convincing and consistent impersonation of Victor Elsworth is given by Mr. Fred Lillywhite; an element of humour is introduced by the eccentricities of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Cohen, amusingly portrayed by Mr. L. W. Halfpenny and Mrs. Edmund Lyons; and Mr. Horace Buckley, a capable comedian, plays Tom Flyaway well. A sympathetic Dorothy of the first act is found in Miss Dora Hammersley, who afterwards takes the part of Lucille with much success; while Miss Nell Ingram as Bridget Mahone, the warm-hearted Irishwoman, speedily gains popularity.

THE EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. Chas. R. Standfield; Manager, Mr. P. G. Wraith.—Zasma, an expert gymnast, is at the top of the bill this week; Flo Carlo, comedienne, is good; Ventom Swift, a well-dressed comedian, is most amusing; the Mays, burlesque artists, appear in an absurdity called The Maniac Child; and the Sisters Stratton are successful duettists and dancers; Miss Maud Ethelda is a dainty and fascinating dancer; and Fred Dice is giving a clever scena, The Fatal Card.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—A large audience was present here on Monday night to witness the performance of the comedy On the Love Path, by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Mr. Hutchison successfully portrays the part of Taunton, and Miss Lilias Earle does full justice to the rôle of Charity Concannon. Mr. John Mudie's impersonation of John Gripleigh is highly amusing, and Miss Margaret Marshall gives a careful study in the rôle of Mary Concannon. The parts of Gerald Marvel, William, and the Reception Clerk, are played in a satisfactory manner by Messrs. Frank Elliott, S. Irwin Barrett, and J. Mitchell, and Miss Hilda Honiss is all that could be desired as Norah Concannon. The part of Denbigh Thrayle is ably depicted by Mr. T. W. Rawson. The curtain-raiser, His Landlady, is well received.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—Mr. Charles Frohman's company opened here on Monday with Leah Kleschna, which met with a cordial reception. Mr. Robert Pateman as Kleschna displays much ability, and Miss Haidee Wright merits commendation for her interpretation of Leah Kleschna. Mr. J. Graeme Campbell is a distinct success in the rôle of Paul Sylvaine, and Mr. Kenneth Rivington acquits himself well as General Berton. Mr. Cyril Harcourt makes the most of the part of Raoul Berton, and Claire Berton is played in a pleasing manner by Miss Haidee Hemsley. Mr. E. H. Brooke is acceptable as Schram, and Miss Ethel Marryat is an excellent Mme. Berton.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Whitbread; Acting-Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson.—Mr. J. W. Whitbread's company entered on its second week here on Monday, when The Insurgent Chief was presented. Mr. Robert Faulkner sustains the part of Michael Dwyer in an able manner, and Miss Cecilia Dare is effective in the rôle of Mary Doyle. Mr. James O'Brien as Hughey Byrne repeats his former success, and Anne Devlin is in the capable hands of Miss Monica Kelly. Captain Airley has a good representative in Mr. H. Ryeland Leigh, and Miss Madeline Hurst is excellent as Mrs. Airley. The parts of Captain Carr, Lieutenant Fenton, and Doctor Armstrong are creditably filled by Messrs. Dane Clarke, R. Rainalt, and Harry Richardson, and Mrs. Brady is successful in the rôle of Mrs. Agar.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Miss Minnie Cunningahm is a great attraction here, captivating all with her catchy songs. Jake Friedman, the "one-man opera," is a clever and interesting turn, and Ray Wallace finds great favour by her impersonations of music-hall artists. The Morgan Sisters sing and dance in good style, and Fred Bronte is well to the fore as a vocal comedian. Helene and Emilion, sensational gymnasts, receive merited applause, and Lily Esplin makes a decided hit as a low comedy artist. Chris Richards also contributes.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The Renards, herculean gymnasts, top the bill here this week, and are well received. Lieutenant Albini's illusion, "The Lady in Black," elicits applause, and Bertha Winder is an expert clog and top-boot dancer. Charles Chard is a comedian of more than ordinary merit, and much good comedy business is subscribed by Lee Valdos, "the eccentric motor 'bus men." The Coolvilles are pleasing and attractive in song and dance, and Mlle. Victoria Dagmar, horizontal bar performer, also has a gratifying reception. Harry Lee, comedian and mimic, Annie Casey, comedienne, and Oakley and James, comedy artists, complete the programme.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The following artists are appearing here:—Irene Cameron, soprano; Cliff Beever, baritone; Fred Ramsdale, comedian; and Santley and Clifford, duettists.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. S. Samuels.—The American spectacle, Slavery Days; or, Life in Old Kentucky, is being produced here by Mr. George Howard, and meeting with success.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. G. H. Place's Alexandra Grand Opera company is here this week, opening on Monday with the "evergreen" Maritana, in which Miss Constance St. Bride figured conspicuously in the title-rôle. Miss Madeline Stone Humphries, although suffering from a severe cold, was a distinct success as Lazarillo; and Mr. H. G. Place was a capital Don Jose; Mr. David Fuller gave a dignified and artistic rendering of the King of Spain; and Mr. F. S. Gilbert, an old Dudley favourite, met with an ovation, and excelled himself in his principal numbers. Il Trovatore, Faust, Daughter of the Regiment, and Bohemian Girl were also billed.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson.—The programme here this week is headed by Smith and Johnson, who are very successful in their song scena, The Maid from Hindustan. A turn of exceptional merit is that of Ernest Montefiore and company, in the scena, The Little Colonel. Venola Bros. are excellent comedy gymnasts; and Yorkshire Tom is a clever animal mimic; the Twin Sisters Edwards, vocalists and dancers, are making themselves popular; Ernesto, the royal juggler, is also in the bill. An interesting series of pictures are given on the Empire Bioscope.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—This week Mr. Robert Arthur presents Mr. Thomas Thorne and company in Our Boys, under the direction of Mr. Russell Rosse. Mr. Thorne is quite at home in the part of Perkin Middlewick, the retired butterman, creating much amusement. Mr. Randolph Reade makes an excellent Charles Middlewick; Mr. Norman Clark as Sir Geoffrey Champneys presents a fine study of the proud and dignified parent; and Mr. Rex B. Foote gives a really capital representation of the easy-going Talbot Champneys. Miss Elsie Howard Ross as Violet Melrose and Miss Eva Rousdale as Mary Melrose act cleverly in their respective parts. Miss Bessie Harrison is an amusing Clarissa, and a good character-study is given by Miss Edith Hesketh as Belinda.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen

acting. Mr. Templer Powell is a lively Lord Percy Kilgour, and Mr. C. J. Barber doubles very cleverly the parts of Smeeton and Jowers. Miss Lilian Hallows plays with great dash the character of Pansy Bligh, and Miss Mary Mallalieu is a sweet Phyllis Dagenham. The small part of Charlotte is supremely well acted by Miss Ida Laurie, who shows what a good artist can make out of trifling materials. The comedy is preceded by a comedietta, entitled The Stratagem, pleasingly played by Miss Lilian Hallows, Mr. Harold West, Mr. Templer Powell, and Mr. C. J. Barber, who gives a capital sketch of an old butler.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Fischer.—The New Barmaid has always been a great favourite in Edinburgh, so it was not surprising that Mr. Alexander Loftus's company should open here with it on Monday to excellent business. The musical comedy is strongly cast, Mr. Joseph B. Montague especially being a tower of strength as Bertie White. Mr. Loftus himself makes a good deal of the part of the South African millionaire, and Mr. Leslie Austin as Captain Loveday has every opportunity of using his rich baritone voice. Mr. James Grant imparts the proper pepperiness to Col. Claymore, Mr. Frank Melroyd acts and dances well as Braddy, and Mr. W. F. Chewd gives a capital character-study of a Frenchman. The ladies, too, are in great force. Miss Maisie Ellinger plays the title-rôle in winning fashion, and the crafty old barmaid is well sustained by Miss Hilda Blanche. Miss Violet Osmund as the lady journalist and Miss Winifred Preston as Lady Moulton are also highly successful. Exhibitions of artistic dancing are given by Miss Lottie Stone's Trio, consisting of Miss Sophia Dorram, Miss May Hawthorn, and Miss Queenie Bell.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting Manager, Mr. C. J. Cawood.—The programme here this week is spiced with many capital turns. A prominent feature is the performance of the sketch entitled Hogmanay, by Mr. J. L. Shine and company, who command the warm applause of the audience by their admirable acting. Miss Elsie Robey is smart and amusing in her musical act, and she hits off the mannerisms of some society amateurs in a happy manner. Hays and Suits give a clever display of dancing, and the Albert and Edmunds Troupe, in their lively sketch Up a Tree, evoke the heartiest laughter. Miss Flo Deighton sings "Annie Laurie" and "Come Back to Erin" with such delightful expression as to secure an enthusiastic recall. The Bros. Egbert are amusing, as usual, in their sketch, The Happy Dustmen; Booker and Harris are successful in their duologue, The Interviewer; Miss Ivey Roze and Mr. Frank Calvert give a playful skit on Captain Cuttle; Mr. Fred Lincoln is laughter-provoking in his turn; and Rich and Rich funny in their duets, patter, and dances.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manger, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—The Gamester of Metz, a sensational drama, is being presented here by Mr. Chas. March and Co. As Paul Baldot Mr. March proves himself an actor of versatility; Captain Badaire is well taken by Mr. John B. Murray; and Louis Badaire is fittingly presented by Mr. W. G. Dudeney. Miss Una Lane acts gracefully as Lucia Baldot, and Miss Cissy Haigton and Mr. Victor Knight contrive with a good deal of success to keep the audience in a merry mood.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's co. is paying a return visit here this week with Under Two Flags. Mr. Mark Blow as Bertie Cecil Royellieu acts the part to perfection; Mr. Theodore Hill as Berklie Cecil Royellieu is very good; the part of Lord Royellieu is in the capable hands of Mr. Charles Brooke; Mr. Albert Wray is well suited as Lord Rockingham; Mr. Walter Rousby, who causes amusement as Rake, sings well; Mr. Charles D. Pitt, in his old rôle of Colonel Châteauroy, plays in an able manner; Mr. Fred Rolls makes the most of the part of Baroni; Miss Mabel Ormonde as the Princess Venetia acts with quiet dignity; Miss Nelly May sings and dances effectively as Lavinia; and the highest praise must be accorded Miss Ida Molesworth for her impersonation of Cigarette.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. A. Litter.—The Gipsies and their Jester, under the direction of Mr. D'Arcy Clayton, are paying a return visit here this week, and are as popular as ever. Mr. Alfred Leslie as the Jester has a fund of humour, and never fails to please.

GATESHEAD.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Dishonoured is being staged here this week. Mr. Percy Ballard gives a powerful depiction of Philip Cunningham; Mr. Geoffrey Broughton is well placed as Sir William Cunningham; the villainies of Capt. Pentland are excellently portrayed by Mr. Jackson Hayes; Mr. J. Leicester Jackson does full justice to the rôle of Captain Cholmondeley; and Messrs. H. B. Ford and J. Ferne, as Mike Farthing and Jem Stokes respectively are successful in comedy parts. Miss Blanche St. Albans is a capital Leslie Maynard, and Miss Pollie Denville a humorous Anne Maria.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—The Cratons, in a pantomimical burlesque entitled, "Front and Behind," head a good bill here. Hanvarr and Anna Lee are seen in an entertaining juggling performance; a sketch entitled, "The Battle of the Belles," played by Messrs. Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls' company, causes roars of laughter; Rose Elliott sings two ballads in excellent style; Chevalier Clicquot, described as the Human Arc Lamp, gives a sensational performance; Lauri Wyllie, with his mimicking mannikins, makes a hit; the Two Whites, American comedy artists, have some amusing patter, and are also excellent sand-dancers; Rosetti, the musical girl, gives an interesting turn; and the King's Bioscope shows a good film of the Cup Final.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Excellent entertainment is provided here. J. W. Hall, a comedian, who always has a great reception, heads the bill, and convulses the house; another laughter-maker is Raglus, who has some original juggling business and many quaint mannerisms; Ruby Dahl, with her mock mannikins, gives an interesting turn; Carson Hicks is an expert buck dancer; Arthur Bright (comedian), the Harc Trio (in an acrobatic act), and the "graphs" of the Cup Final complete the bill.

GILLINGHAM (Kent).—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. D. S. Cooper; General-Manager, Mr. Roy Cochrane.—The attraction this week is Mr. Charles H. Aguzzi's company in the musical comedy, An Irish Honeymoon. Mr. Lyall Grant, as Lord Belville, and Miss Lilian Mayne as Molly Molloy, are well suited in their respective parts, and render some excellent songs and duets; Mr. Lorimer Stuart as Augustus Fitznoodle makes a typical dude; Mr. Malcolm Cumming is entertaining as Professor Maggs. Miss Florence Spencer as Matilda, and Miss Patrici Lavelle are equally successful as the maids. Mr. E. E. Giles, jun., as Spinks, the valet, is a warm favourite, and causes roars of laughter. Other parts are ably undertaken by Mr. Cyril Rosse, Mr. A. H. Lindor, Mr. H. A. Charles, Miss Flora Owen, and Miss May Marcus. Special mention must be made of the Franklin Troupe of Russian dancers. Mr. Frank Corri conducts the excellent chorus and augmented orchestra.

GLASGOW.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—A cordial welcome was extended to Mrs. Patrick Campbell and her company in the new play from the French, The Whirlwind, originally produced at Birmingham a fortnight ago. The part of the Countess of Ellingham affords Mrs. Campbell many opportunities (somewhat on the lines of her earlier success, Mrs. Tanqueray), and the powerful scenes which conclude the first and second acts were veritable triumphs for the actress. Mr. Julian Royce, as Hugh Carlton, contributed greatly to the success of the play, his acting throughout being most impressive; Mr. Oscar Adye, as Sir Henry Langham, was at his best in the strong scene with the Countess in act two; Mr. Scott Buist gave a striking embodiment of the caddish Joseph Locksley; as Mr. Leonard, Mr. A. G. Poulton was well suited, and imparted an air of suavity to the part. Various typres of society ladies were ably acted by Mrs. Campbell-Bradley, Miss Mabel Beardsley, and Miss Nellie Mortyne. Mr. George Bealby neatly hit off the unattractive attributes of the Earl of Ellingham.

ROYALTY. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. N. Downie.—That very enjoyable farce, Are you a Mason? is being presented to crowded audiences this week by Mr. Charles Macdona's company. Mr. E. N. Paterson's Amos Bloodgood was both humorous and clever. He was ably assisted by Miss Adelaide Grace as Mrs. Bloodgood. The Frank Perry of Mr. H. Langdon Bruce was a clever performance of the would-be Mason; cleverness also characterised Mr. Richard Purdon's delineation of John Halton; Miss Mabel Younge as Mrs. Perry was natural and charming. The one-act drama, entitled A Bad Penny, was given as a preliminary, and Mr. E. N. Paterson as Richard Hyde scored a great success.

GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Mascard.—A return visit is being made here by Mr. Walter Melville's company in the drama, A Girl's Cross Roads. Miss Beaumont Collins gives a powerful study of Barbara Wade, portraying the many phases of the character with realism and fidelity; Mr. Frank R. Robertson makes a manly young Jack Livingstone; Miss Nannie Meade acts well as the frivolous Nellie Meadows, and the part of her father, the old farmer, is impersonated with excellent effect by Mr. Charles Franmore; Miss Elsie Savile makes a sympathetic Constance Cornell; Mr. Fred Ingram as Toby Turvey and Miss Lena Delphine as Tilly Vane impart considerable humour to the play; Mr. Roy Fortescue gives a clever performance as the scheming Cuthbert Lumley; Mr. John Brooks, as Luke Ramsden and Mr. Courtney Bellenden as Dr. Weston give able support.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Mr. George Musgrove's company is this week revisiting the west end theatre in that exceedingly picturesque production, The Prince of Pilsen. It is almost a year since the company was here before, and among the changes in the cast the most notable is in the part of Hans Wagner, now played with a keen characteristic humour by Mr. Edwin Adeler. Mr. G. ViHiers Arnold is still with the company, his fine ringing voice being again heard with pleasure in the part of Lieut. Wagner; Mr. Lawrence Wensley repeats his former success as the Earl of Shrimpton, as also does Mr. Alfred Selby as the eccentric French waiter, Francois; in the part of the real Prince some expressive solo and concerted singing is done by Mr. Stuart Alexander; Miss Nellie Cozens attractively represents Mrs. Croker; a charming Edith Adams is seen in Miss Mildred Baker; Miss Nell Emerald, Ruby Verdi, and Meg Hamylton are all heartily welcomed back in their respective parts of Sidoni, Nellie Wagner, and Jimmie, while amongst the ladies of the chorus a special hit is made by Miss Clara Stanton as the girl from New York. The production is staged in capital style, and has the advantage of a full chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Robertson.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Mudoch.—Mr. John Power's company is here this week with Man's Enemy, in which Mr. Power sustains with much dramatic effect the part of the villain, Tom Drake; while Miss Daisy Halling, as his accomplice, Sarah Drake, gives a humorous exposition of a cynically selfish "woman of the world." Harry Stanton, the hero, is finely portrayed by Mr. Norman A. Overton; Miss Lynn Darlington is pleasing as Grace Lisle, in which character she sings a couple of songs with charming effect; General Sir Arthur Stanton is a fine old soldierly character, well played by Mr. H. Payne; Mr. Cecil Vernon Proctor represents the Rev. Fred Lisle in a natural manner; Miss Amy Rudd as Polly Harris, Mr. J. Newton-Cowling as Ikv Barnett, and Mr. Percy Norman as Adolph D'Embonpoint all help to keep the fun going. Mr. Cliff Locke as a Russian duellist, is a picturesque figure, and Mr. Alf. Burrows as Bill Sanders acts the London loafer admirably.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Mr. Sidney Dench and company are here this week with the drama The Rich and Poor of London. Mr. Robert Hall as Dr. Morton is responsible for some good acting, and Miss Dora Dench is seen to advantage as May Braithwaite; Mr. Sidney Dench, as Spider Jack, adds largely to the success of the play with his humour and drollery. Mr. Walter Foster, as the villain, Mark Stanley, plays with appropriate intensity; Ruby Redgrave is well sustained by Miss Lillian Burns, Matthew Grabbam is ably represented by Mr. Malcolm Gascoigne, Miss Lilly Artis as Polly Philpot, and Miss Ethel Denville as Seadrift give good portrayals.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor, Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, J. H. Oakden.—On Circumstantial Evidence was presented by Mr. Charles Clifford's company here on Monday evening to a good audience. Mr. Chas. Clifford, the author, has provided himself with a capital part, and in the rôle of Capt. Hamilton has many fine opportunities of which he makes the utmost; Miss Jennie Wigney wins sympathy as the sorely-tried Violet Ogilvy; as Jack Ogilvy, Mr. Wilson Brash is conspicuous, acting with no small dramatic fervour and skill; the Sir Lawrence of Mr. A. M. James is an admirable presentation, and the diversified dual rôles of Olga and Mary Brandoni have ample justice done them by Miss Hilda Hatton, an artist of more than ordinary ability. The comedy is in the safe hands of Miss Amy Stewart and Mr. Newton Pearce: Miss Dot Stewart makes much of the homeless waif, Tim; the Gen. Garibaldi of Mr. J. Keane, elicits deserved approbation.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Limited; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Mussett.—The Svengalis, in their music and mystery turn, are the stars here, and give a very mystifying performance; Fred Sinclair and Gracie Whiteford provide much amusement with their lively sketch, Getting Even; Percy Honri's concertina playing and his volatile humour are equally appreciated; Colby and May in their ventriloquial and dancing doll turn are specially good; an excerpt from The Lily of Killarney, by W. Wallis and company, is much enjoyed; Chas. J. Johnson, coloured comedian and dancer; Arthur Gill, yokel humorist; Tina Clements and her trained dogs and pony, and Helen Ford, vocalist, complete a varied programme.

ZOO-HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The bill here is headed by Johnnie Schofield, assisted by J. C. Piddock and company, in the musical comedy, entitled Missing; or, The Light of Day. Drew and Alders continue first favourites, and J. A. Wilson, negro comedian, is well to the front with new songs and jokes; Burt Shepard gives numerous selections on the piano, and the Cape Girls are clever dancers. The other members of the company include The Haydas Troupe of acrobats, Grace Merton (sweet singer), Clown Barker and Miniature Circus, Arthur Gillin (smart ventriloquist), and Hippodrome Bioscope with new pictures.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—The place of honour here is occupied by La Belle Estellita, Spanish singer and dancer; Belle Davis and her company of coons also give a capital account of themselves. Other notable artists contributing to the entertainment include Chas. R. Whittle (comedian), the Arundels (comedians and boxers), the Ferraris (terpsichorean artists), Cee-Mee Quartette of gymnasts, Lilian (trick cyclist), the Crystals (vocalists and dancers), Keith and Merso (acrobatic humorists), and Mike Cray (comedy juggler).

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—A most amusing sketch is provided here in Casey's Court, and the talent of the youngsters engaged in it is wonderful. Daisy Mayer's sand dancing turn is heartily applauded, and another clever sand dancer is Frank Cumminger; Mendel, the blind pianist, displays his skill and memory in numerous musical selections; Charles S. Kitts and Rhoda Windrum contribute a lively farcical sketch, The Cuckoo; Jurgens Trio give a smart display on the globes, Gwennie Hasto's catchy songs and neat dances make her a strong favourite, Stelling and Revell on the bars give a particularly good performance. The Bioscope, George Tacius, and a clever ventriloquist, who gives an extra turn, complete a most attractive programme.

PALACE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—A great attraction here this week is the presence of Miss Ada Colley, who is greeted with much applause; also in the musical line are the Four Jumels, who contribute a pleasing little entertainment; the Eight Lancashire Lads show themselves to be undoubted masters of the art of clog dancing; the Sisters Cora, panto. favourites in Glasgow, make a graceful appearance; H. O. Wills is extremely funny in his songs and patter; Edward Lewis makes some very good hits in his bump-reading performance. In the midst of the mirth created by many humorous turns comes a pathetic little sketch, His Birthday, by Royston Dene and company. Dan Filmer also appears with success; Lu Simpson's company presents Our Annual Social with great success.

QUEEN'S.—Lessees, Messrs. Colquhoun and Armstrong; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. M. Armstrong.—The programme here includes Ida Gladstone, who was such a favourite in the Metropole pantomime, and her various songs are well received; the Willies give an amusing turn, and good items are contributed by Arthur Croxon, Three Clarions, Violet Morgan, and Willie Turnbull. Some of the ties in the Scotish Boxing Championships, inaugurated at the Tivoli, are being given here.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Mr. Bernard M. Armstrong.—The management here have arranged to hold a series of Scottish Boxing Championships, and a good start was made on Monday with the first of the ties. In the variety programme Ida Gladstone is easily first favourite, and clever turns are given by J. K. McFarlane, the popular Scotch comedian, and by Sam Soda, quaint extempore vocalist.

GLOSSOP.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Miss Grace Warner and company, in The Scarlet Clue and East Lynne, provide the attraction this week. On Monday night The Scarlet Clue was well acted. Miss Warner as Sal Scarlet gives a vivid portrayal; Mr. George Gordon well handles the villainous character of Michael Stanton; whilst Mr. Horace Moseley as Edward Croker is good. Mr. J. Leighton Leigh scores in the dual rôles of Jack and Harry Esmond; Mr. V. T. Raymond as Billy, a burglar, is well placed, and is applauded for capitally-rendered songs; Mr. J. E. Tomlinson is seen to advantage as Crazy Jim, a waif; Miss Lizzie Palmer as Elsie Dane plays in a winning way; and Miss Ellen Beverley does well as Miss Tabitha Esmond. Miss Kathleen Cranston is effective as Mother Scrooge; Miss Esther Dean is amusing as Musette; little Phyllis Massey as Reggie Carstairs and little Edith Rutland as Little Polly contribute pleasing impersonations.

GLOUCESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. Rea.—Mr. Reginald H. Adair's company is playing here The Luck of Life. Mr. R. H. Stephenson is a good exponent of George Stanhope; Mr. Roland Yorke gives a capital interpretation of Michael Basilovitz; Rene Basilovitz is powerfully enacted by Miss Mary Dawson; and Miss Gertrude Bonser makes an excellent Countess Vlame. Mr. Leonard Thackeray renders able assistance as Count Petroff; the comedy relief is cleverly introduced by Mr. George Davis as Simon Stanley and Miss Dora Huggett as Laura North; and Mr. H. Hesslegrave as Bahadur is agreeably prominent, as is Mr. Albert Cuthbertson as Ivan Polowski.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. Morton Powell's company is here this week with Mr. S. Buchanan Rogerson's play, Darkness, founded on Mr. Guy Thorne's novel, "When It was Dark." Mr. H. K. Ayliff is effective as Constantine Schawbe; Miss V. St. Laurance depicts the varied moods of Gertrude Hunt with much success, in some scenes being intensely realistic; the Rev. Basil Gortre of Mr. T. A. Shannon is natural and fervent; Sir Robert Llewellyn is ably represented by Mr. Edward Valentine; Mr. Ernest Allen is eager and intense as Harold Spence; and Helena finds a capable exponent in Mrs. Morton Powell. A lighter element is introduced by Mr. Arthur Lenville as the Hon. Charlie Gayfly and Miss Ethel Rainforth as Gracie Goldeye.

GREENOCK.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company is playing the drama In Holy Russia at the above theatre this week. Mr. Tom G. Warry is an able exponent of Count Petrolski; Mr. Louis Norman makes an excellent Michael Natolski; Mr. Arthur Stratton, an amusing Colonel, is ably assisted by Mr. J. Rice Cassidy, who takes the part of Micky; Mr. Frank Copeland is an effective Sir Harry Beresford; and Mr. Joe Cuthbertson is a lifelike Chief of Police. Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy admirably sustains the trying rôle of Renee Rubinoff, and Miss Beatrice Western makes the most of her opportunities as Catska Lavotski.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Sidney Bacon's company heads the bill here in that thrilling sketch, The Maniac. Rene Best, vocalist, sings nicely; Louis Lenoir is a clever sciographist; Volp and Volp submit a pleasant musical speciality act; Playfair and Nikola are a pair of remarkably expert papierographists; and A. J. Gamble, Scotch comedian, is as popular as ever.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Lessees, the Greenock Pavilion, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Marie Loftus heads the bill here, and does a varied and clever turn. Other members of a good company are The Folkestones, in a comedy act; Arthur Bromley and Lina Fontein, in a sketch entitled A Musical Birthday; the Albano Troupe, in a musical speciality act; Flo Stilton, male impersonator; and Miss Queenie May, juvenile vocalist.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The American drama, At Cripple Creek, has proved attractive here, the thrilling scenes depicting the frenzied search for gold in the early 'eighties arousing the keenest interest of the audience. Joe Mayfield, a typical miner of the best kind is presented by Mr. Hilliard Vox with a considerable degree of natural force; Miss Ella Dixon is all that could be wished for as Belle Gordon; the villainy of the saloon-keeper, Martin Mason, and his Mexican companion, Manuel, is amply emphasised by Mr. Walter Thornton and Mr. C. Douglas Carlyle; Mr. A. W. Layland makes a dignified Wahketah, the Indian; and Miss Vera Fordyce is a popular figure as Dynamite Ann. Comedy is provided by Miss Daisy Carlton as Maggie Mason, Mr. Will Hook as Reggie Harwood, and Mr. Albert Rogers as the negro, Ben White. Little Freda wins approval as the child, Tatto.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Barton and Ashley's burlesque, Canal Boat Sal, has caused much merriment, and the programme generally is of a humorous character. Quaint feats of physical contortion and acrobatics are presented by Ryan and Hall; the fun is likewise added to by the McKays, whose painting speciality is a decided novelty. Something new in the way of marionettes is exhibited by the D'Arcs, whose puppets are remarkably faithful imitations of well-known variety artists, both in appearance and action. Miss Jennie Johns scored a success; Miss Molly Woolstenholme is a charming soprano; and Mr. Tom York, baritone, also contributes capital songs.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—As a burlesque actress Katie Lawrence receives a hearty welcome here, her smart songs and general business being greatly appreciated; Mabel Kessler proves herself a skilled performer upon various brass instruments, her cornet and post-horn solos being especially worthy of note; a capital musical turn is given by Charles Fisher's company, their selections including items from popular operas; dancing of various types is performed by the Garden Troupe; and others who appear are Fred Villiers, in a vocal scena, "Dreams," Harry Vardon, an entertaining ventriloquist, Maudie Ford, vocalist and dancer, and Marlow and Manton, in an amusing sketch.

GUERNSEY.—ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson's company appeared here on the 20th inst. in The Taming of the Shrew. Their visit had been eagerly anticipated, and they were accorded an enthusiastic reception. Mr. Benson gave a scholarly and clever reading of the part of Petruchio; Mr. Cyril Keightley as Biondello was much admired; Mr. Clarence Derwent as Tranio proved successful; Mr. George Buchanan merits praise as Lucentio; and Mr. H. O. Nicholson (Gremio), Mr. George R. Weir (Grumio), Mr. P. D. Owen (Baptista), and Mr. Philip Sanders (Vincentio) were all highly meritorious performances. Mrs. Benson's interpretation of the shrewd Katherina was exceedingly clever, and Miss Olive Noble proved a charming Bianca. Henry V. was given as a matinée performance.

GUILDFORD. — COUNTY HALL. — The Gipsy Maids' Choir of Mr. Douglas Eley's No. 1 company has drawn large houses here during their ten days' visit. A capital variety show is provided, including Frank Pierce, comedian; Gwennie Leaks, sketch artist; Olive Sara, club manipulator; Millie Cole, contralto; Cissie Senior, double-voiced vocalist; Lottie Wyndham, variety; Dorrie Courtney, banjoist; Professor Davison and Sons, thought transference and magic; Elsie Ranson, sketch artist; Gertie Gavagan, dancerse; Jenny Swires, vocalist; Marie Stock, comedienne; Clara Burland and Leah Hingley sopranos. Mr. Percy Ranson is the accompanist.

HANLEY.—ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—Messrs. Murray, King, and Clarke's company opened on Monday in Blue-Bell in Fairyland. As Blue-Bell, Miss Gladys Cooper is distinctly successful; Lawrence Emery is well placed as Dickey; Blib and Blob, in the hands of Messrs. C. Morton and E. Cossart, are a most amusing pair. Happy Apps and Minnie Blanchard are seen to advantage in the respective parts of Water Lily and Autumn Leaf; Miss Muriel Juin acts and sings admirably as the Queen. Mr. Percy Farrimond, the singing collier, scores a success in his tenor songs.

GRAND.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—A good all round programme is submitted this week. Miss Annie Purcell returns with her artistically-rendered vocal contribution; Morton and Elliott provide a capital turn; Geo. D'Albert is a descriptive vocalist of a capital order; Mr. Chas. Morritt, in his illusions, baffles his audiences nightly, and is much appreciated. Les Frasettis, in their musical turn, are artistic; Harry Clifford is a comedian of merit; Marion Scott is a comedienne of much ability; Spry and Austin are as funny as ever; the Bros. Redmond are capital acrobatic comedians; the pictures are as usual excellent.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cyril Fielding-Smyth.—On Monday a welcome return visit of The Walls of Jericho was paid by Messrs. Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux's company. The cast has been considerably altered since the last visit of the piece, but the standard of excellence is the same. Miss Florence Jackson as Lady Alethea repeats her fine performance; Mr. Edward A. Warburton's Jack Frobisher is better than ever; Mad Jim Bannister is capably acted by Mr. George A. Brandram; Mr. Laurence Hanray gives a capital character study of the Marquis of Steventon; Miss Molly Carton is a natural Lady Lucy; Lady Westerby is carefully portrayed by Miss Lydia Busch; Harry Dallas was played in a clever and effective manner by Mr. Sydney Hamilton; and as Bertram Hannaford Mr. George Percy amuses with his epigrams. On Thursday Mr. Chas. Carey's company, in After the Ball, opened a three nights' engagement.

THE KURSAAL. — Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. C. L. Naylor, M.A., Mus.Bac.; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—The attractions this week, in addition to the orchestra, are Miss Maud Santley (contralto), Miss D'Orsay (soprano), and Mrs. Clifford Granville (reciter).

HARTLEPOOL. — EMPRESS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Everton and Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—The excellent programme provided here resulted in two packed houses on Monday. The King's College Boys are at the top of the bill, and provide a fine vocal entertainment. Martin Conway is always sure of a hearty welcome; the Sisters Llewellyn are excellent in operatic vocalism; and Andie Cane, a comedian, in his latest successes, is also an old favourite. Salida and Vone, coon artists; Mabel Hind, in a delightful scena, A Little Japanese; and the Hugo Troupe of three artists, with a performance that is pretty and effective, also add to the attractions.

GRAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—Lucky Durham, Wilson Barrett's last and greatest play, is being presented here by H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company. John Durham and Helen Vallerton have excellent exponents in Mr. Edmund Kennedy and Miss Phyllis Ralph. A charmingly sweet character is made of Mrs. Durham by Miss Louise Gourlay; Miss Frances Wolviston assumes the rôle of Lady Mountfallon in a manner that calls for especial commendation; and Lord Mountfallon has a capable exponent in Mr. Benson North.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—The Matweef-Hugoston Troupe, in charming costumes, provide a turn which is distinguished by smart Russian dances and remarkably daring and clever acrobatic feats; Virto, a musician of much versatility brings down the house, especially with his band imitations. Another highly successful turn is that contributed by McCann's Dogs; Walker and Lake have some bright songs and racy patter, and the character songs by Lade Henderson are capitally rendered. Miss May Fallowfield is a dainty soubrette, and Miss Hettie Lee a smart comedienne and dancer. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux provide a never-failing source of delight to picture lovers.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—Hardie and Von Leer's company is here this week in Mr. George R. Sims's new play, For Life and After, which was successfully produced at Reading last week. The company is a good all-round one, and commands the absorbed attention of its audience throughout. The stage-management is in the hands of Mr. Frank Harrison, who also fills the rôle of Rube Hexham. Mr. Vernon Sansbury is finely effective as Richard Grey, and Miss Grace Heywood enacts the rôle of Marion Grey most convincingly. Mr. Henry Hare plays well both as Jack Huggett, the murdered man, and as his son, Jim Huggett. Mr. Chris Mason as the old showman, Joe Grimper, is realistic, and is ably supported by Miss Eveline Shaw as Mrs. Grimper. Miss Muriel Dean is charming as Dora Grey, adding much to the pathos of the play.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Resident and General-Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams.—An excellent programme this week is the means of drawing full houses. Miss Hettie Leo, a good comedienne, opens the entertainment. A laughable dramatic episode is given by the Wade Comedy Trio; Miss Evelyn Taylor is a pleasing singer; the fun supplied by the Society Pierrots is highly appreciated; the new films shown by the Hippodrome bioscope lend an agreeable variety; Tommy Dodd is a truly eccentric comedian; Allsopp and Beckwith, droll entertainers, gain great applause; Miss Jenny Hartley is a juvenile vocalist of exceptional ability; Ahrensmeyer introduces some marvellous hypnotic experiments.

PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—The Easter burlesque, entitled Bluebeard, Esq., is still an attractive feature here. Mr. J. D. Hunter's Sister Ann is exceptionally amusing. Mr. Arthur Ricketts is good as Bamboozlum, and Mr. Charles Hawker keeps up the fun as Pimple. Selim is very gracefully taken by Miss Mabel Sadie. Some pleasing songs are contributed by Miss Cissie Wade and Miss Rence Ashley, whilst some pretty dances are given by Loolah (Miss Nellie Bowen).

ST. LEONARD'S PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Edward Neville and company are occupying the boards here his week in the dramatised version of Marie Corelli's novel The Sorrows of Satan. Nothing could be more impressive than the titular character of the drama as represented by Mr. Edward Neville. Mr. Gus Bowerman gives an able impersonation of Lord Lynton; the difficult part of Geoffrey Tempest is very realistic in the hands of Mr. W. H. Wilson; Lady Sybil as taken by Miss Flora Leslie is an extremely natural performance; Miss Cecil Bryne is a most acceptable exponent of the lodging-house keeper Mrs. Grimbes; Miss Lole Esmond is well suited as Diana Chesney; Miss Rosie Neville takes the part of Mavis Clare with well-sustained ease. As the Earl Mr. J. Le Fleming does the character ample justice.

ROYAL CONCERT HALL. — A children's pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty, was played here on three days this week. The libretto and songs were by Mr. Maurice Benington Reckitt, and the music was composed by Miss Gwendolen Campbell-Cory. The object of the entertainment was to aid the Convalescent Home for poor children at St. Leonards-on-Sea. The piece was performed by over 100 young people, and was excellently stage-managed by Mr. Harold Savery, the special scenery being supplied by Messrs. Drury, of Brighton.

HORWICH.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessees, The Provincial Theatres Co.; General-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Bradley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben Hawke.—The Elster Grime Opera company opened on Monday in Maritana. Miss Marie Elster in the title-rôle gave a fine rendering; Mr. Payne Clark's Don Cæsar was very grand, Mr. Michael Kemble's rendering of Don José was excellent, Mr. Frank Land as the King of Spain was in capital form, Miss Constance Russell's the Marchioness was good, and Miss Madge Quilliam's Lazarillo richly deserved the applause accorded. Faust, Carmen, The Lily of Killarney, Les Cloches de Corneville, and The Daughter of the Regiment are billed for the remainder of the week. The orchestra, under Mr. Grimes's direction, rendered good service.

HOYLAND.—METROPOLE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Geo. S. King.—An excellent variety company opened here on Monday. The "Mighty Medicine Chief" is excellent; and Walter Moet, conjurer and illusionist, is good. The Sisters Delmore, in their scena The Redskin Chief, introducing fancy rifle and revolver shooting, are well received; and the Sisters Lemars, banjoists and mandolinists, are applauded. The bill also includes the Two Deans, duettists and dancers; Miss Raie Le Roy, coon vocalist and dancer; Little Napper, quaint comedian; Lily Rose, serio; Minna Roselle, ballad vocalist; Young Cody; and Myra Wynne, serio and dancer.

HUDDERSFIELD. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy G. Arthur.—Mr. Edmund Tearle and company are here, playing Othello, Hamlet, The Three Musketeers, Julius Cæsar, and Jennie Deans. Othello was the piece chosen to open the week, and the tragedy was capably presented by the cast engaged, Mr. Tearle's strong performance as the Moor being supported by Mr. Wilson Gunning as Iago, Mr. V. O. Crabtree as Cassio, and Miss Esther Tearle as Desdemona.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—There is a capital entertainment provided by the Riogoku Family of Japanese Acrobats; Lloyd Morgan, descriptive vocalist; Miss Renée in a clever and refined musical act; Bert Williams, a ventriloquial humorist of the highest excellence; Miss Fanny Wright and Picton Roxburgh, in a sketch entitled Cockie; Miss Sable Fern, a dainty little lady with some popular songs; and new pictures on the Biograph.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Wm. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy H. Hutchison's capable company is presenting The Freedom of Suzanne here. A performance

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerold E. Reed.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company is here with the powerful drama entitled The Midnight Mail. Mr. George Harvard is a manly Harry Steyne; Mr. Fred G. Evison is quite at home as Billy Brewer; Mr. Austin Mortimer is well placed as Leonard Royle; Mr. Wentworth supplies a powerful portrayal of Hassan Padisha; Mr. Dobell Lyle submits a fine rendering of Donald Craig; Miss Grace Lester is a charming Mary Steyne; Miss Mildred Carr is well placed as Nancy Brewer; and Lady Phyllis Eustace is ably represented by Miss Hilda Merrilese.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—Merely Mary Ann paid her first visit here this week, and the pathetic little comedy, which was remarkably well played by Messrs. Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company, was accorded a good reception. Mr. Ruper Lister was particularly successful as Lancelot, and Miss Margaret Fareleigh gave a perfect impersonation of the name-part. Mr. J. Cranstoun Neville played smartly as Peter; Mr. W. Collard was sufficiently oily as the Vicar; Miss Ruth Hazlewood and Miss Pauline Emeric as the lodging-house keeper and her daughter caused much amusement; and Miss E. Daw and Miss Margaret Frame put just the requisite amount of vulgarity into their impersonation of the Sisters Trippett.

KEIGHLEY.— QUEEN'S THEATRE.— Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; General-Manager, Mr. R. S. Kendall.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company in The Sin of Her Childhood is proving very attractive this week. Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes scores heavily as Stephen Haysel, playing the part with much power; Mr. Charles Fancourt as the Rev. Alan Grey receives hearty applause; Mr. Frederick Loyd enacts the part of Captain John Therton in an able manner; a bright and breezy performance of Barney O'Reilly is given by Mr. Hugh Brady; Miss Ruth Sheppard is a charming Mary Haysel; and little Dott Moss is pert and attractive, her songs and dances being well received.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Proprietors, J. Bannister Howard, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Herr B. Pareezer. — Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company commenced a short season here this week by presenting The Streets of London. Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's Badger is an excellent performance; and Miss B. Doyle cleverly portrays the spoilt, domineering Alida Crawley. The part of Gideon Crawley has an able exponent in Mr. H. K. Ayliffe; he has a commanding figure, and acts well. Miss G. Hastings-Walton plays the part of Lucy Fairweather sympathetically and intelligently; Mr. Walton B. Freear is quite at home as Jonas Puffy, his song and dance in Act 4 proving popular; Mr. Gerald Jordon does well as Mark Livingstone; Mr. Norman Aveling is responsible for the dual rôle of Captain Fairweather and Paul Fairweather, and Miss Elsie Hastings looks a "boyish" boy in the part of Dan Puffy.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—On Thursday evening Mr. E. Lockwood's company commenced a short engagement of three nights and one matinée with the successful musical comedy, Sergeant Brue. This is the first time the piece has been presented at Leamington, and the attraction proved a very popular one.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—The novel entertainment inaugurated by Mr. Hart at his Bradford Theatre last week opened here on Monday, and has proved an unqualified success, for the experiment has been received with rare enthusiasm by crowded houses. Offenbach's vivacious and melodious trifle, The Rose of Auvergne is first presented, the executants being Miss Stella Gastelle. Mr. Broughton Black, and Mr. H. Scott Russell. Miss Gastelle evinces rare vocal and histrionic abilities in a charming portrayal of Fleurette. The remainder of the evening is taken up by the Follies, a company of remarkably clever vaudeville artists, whose répertoire of burlesque business and vocal and comedy items is truly refreshing and entertaining.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—The stirring melodrama Under the Russian Flag retains a strong hold on the public taste, and is attracting good patronage to this "home of drama." Mr. Jack Haddon cuts a manly vigorous figure as the hero, Captain Demetrius; some forcible acting is done by Mr. George Herbert in his part of General Romanoff; whilst Miss Elaine Vanburgh plays the heroine, Vera Vasilloff with decided charm of manner. Much good work is also done by Mr. Bernard Mervyn, Mr. Cecil Melton, and Mr. George Draycott.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush. — Mr. Charles Harrington appears on a first visit with The Sailors of the King. The hero, Dick Drake, a lieutenant on H.M.S. Storm, is faithfully portrayed by Mr. Harry Douglas; Mr. T. Vernon Travers as Orrel Drake does some good acting; and the old Admiral is a characteristic and successful effort by Mr. Chas. Harrington. Miss Sylvia Stella makes a captivating heiress and heroine, and the Daisy Dent of Miss Gertrude Sterroll is also a clever and successful effort. Other leading parts are presented by Mr. Walter Farnsworth, Mr. Charles Trevlayne and Mr. Kenneth Black. Some realistic sea pictures and episodes are shown.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley. — The calculating marvel, Jacques Maudi, is giving a taste of his quality here, and his mental feats arouse great interest and enthusiasm. A clever comedy sketch by Amann and Hartley is a popular feature; Ruby and Laws are diverting in comedy and vocal entertainment; the Delevines score the usual success with their contributions; the Goltz Trio are gymnasts of more than average merit; Prof. Bernar's marionette show is amongst the best ever seen here; a smart comedian appears in Jas. H. Cullen; and Leonie Dixon, vocalist and dancer, and Jessie Merrilees, comedienne, also contribute.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; General Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Mr. John Tiller's clever extravaganza, High Jinks, largely accounts for the crowded state of this popular hall during this present week, and of a smart company Bob Selvidge is particularly successful. George Leyton appears at the bottom of the bill, and his military scena, Boys of the Chelsea School, goes with dash and vigour. Of comedians Ted Young is popular, and Dale and O'Malley are very smart with eccentric business. The Society Quartette sing and dance in good style; a remarkable gymnastic turn is contributed by the Bros. Zampah; and Lily Flexmore (the flexible lady), Ada Twibell (favourite burlesque artist), and Frances Haskoll (vocalist) also contribute.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Sanford and Lyons are at the top of the bill here, and ably fill the position with smart patter and neat dancing. Another eccentric pair are Bell and Henry, who amuse in a similar line; comedy is contributed by George and Edwards; the vocal work of Merton and Rydon is acceptable; Julian Mack is scoring a success; Gus Hindell continues to be popular; an eccentric juggling act by Zarmo is amongst the best features of the bill; and Marie Weston, instrumentalist and speciality dancer, and Irene Rose, comedienne, complete a good bill.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—The Leicester Amateur Music and Dramatic Society hold the boards this week with La Fille du Tambour Majeur.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont. — Miss Winifred Chalmers's company is presenting the melodrama, The Master Criminal. Miss Chalmers as Cecile plays with histrionic ability, and Mr. Henry L. Osmond as Telford Lestage (the Master Criminal) is a success. Both Mr. Alexander Haviland as Philip Manners and Mr. Elmore Frith as Ben Beaudy are good. Mr. Harry Cooke is capital as Tommy Dale, and little Ivy Rochefort acts commendably as Winifred Manners.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews.—Miss Hetty King is unquestionably a smart and clever male impersonator and dancer, and well deserves the excellent reception accorded her. Manning's Entertainers are as mirth-provoking as ever in a second edition of The Hotel Boots; Marie Collins, a vivacious comedienne, gets a warm reception; the Reed-Oetzmanns create laughter in their comic pantomime, On Tour in the Tyrol; Mason and Bart are first-rate gymnasts; Frank Dunlop is an entertaining comic singer; Mora and Lola give a capital musical display; Lady Fauntleroy's ventriloquial turn secures merited appreciation; Victor Newman, who deputises for R. H. Douglass, impersonates in a lifelike manner Sir Henry Irving as Mathias, and also gives an excellent performance as Svengali; and the American Bioscope also depicts a new series of up-to-date subjects.

PAVILION THEATRE. — Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—The leading feature in this week's programme is the romantic and dramatic episode (from the French) entitled Husband or Child? which is well presented by Forbes, Murray, and company. Tiny Arnold, a diminutive artist, is receiving a warm welcome; Francisco is smart juggler and equilibrist; the Murrays create much laughter in their absurdity, The Star Twins; May Moodie shines with her piccolo solos; Frances Manners in her musical scena, Good Old Days, is both seen and heard to advantage; Joe Dale, chorus singer, also entertains; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, always a popular feature at this hall, is retained.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Dewhurst.—Mr. Lawrence Brough and company opened here on Monday with The Lady of Ostend. Mr. Lawrence Brough causes much laughter by his impersonation of the Frenchman; Mr. Henry Hampson makes a conspicuous success as Dick Whortles; and Mr. Charles Groves, jun., is also to be complimented on his excellent portrayal of Joseph Carbury. Miss Kate Milford makes a captivating Dorothy Whortles; Miss Edith Ormonde was successful as Millie Grace; and Miss Dorcas Corsbie cleverly presented the character of Matilda Carbury.

LEITH. — NEW GAIETY THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke's musical play, The Naval Detective, is being staged here. Mr. Kirke enacts the title-rôle, and appears in all his various guises with the greatest success. He is ably supported by Messrs. Harold Wallace, Mark Practice, B. Leighton, Charles Burns, and Joe Plant. Special mention should be made of Miss Louie Fountaine, who sustains three parts, one of them a sailor boy, all with distinct success. The Sisters Gladys and Elsie Allen introduce their clever international dances, and Miss Edith Claris, Miss Gladys Claney, Miss Annie Brunette, and Miss Lily Seymour also appear to advantage.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—A hearty welcome has this week been given to Lady Madcap. The company sent by Mr. George Edwardes is the same as on the former occasion. Miss Marie Studholme is the life and soul of the merry comedy in her assumption of the title-rôle. Mr. Arthur Longley, first "swell" trooper, and then amateur butler, provoked uproarious laughter; the diminutive Corporal Ham, presented by Mr. E. Statham Staples, proved one of the most popular as well as one of the best figures in the cast; Messrs. Robert Hall and Oliver Round, as the adventurers, contributed largely to the merriment; the graceful acting of Mr. Ernest Mahar as the wooer, and his rendering in French of "My Irish Molly," "Bill Bailey," and other well-known songs, were a most acceptable feature; Miss Nina Sevening played sweetly the rôle of Gwennie Holden; and Miss Mabel Russell as the lady's maid was vivacious, and danced charmingly.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Lessees, the Shakespeare Theatre Co., Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—The management of this popular theatre has made a bold move in booking Peter Pan for three weeks, with matinées every Wednesday and Saturday. Such enterprise establishes a record in Liverpool, and time alone will show whether the venture is a wise one. So far the bookings have proved satisfactory, and as nothing but praise is heard on all hands in regard to the exquisite production, the financial results ought to leave no cause for regret. Regarding "extended" engagements, however, the Mersey city has generally proved somewhat erratic and uncertain. At all events, the Shakespeare people deserve success, even if they cannot command it, for the beautiful conception of Mr. J. M. Barrie has come as a great artistic treat to playgoers here. Nothing like it has been witnessed before in Liverpool, and there is a general and unanimous chorus of praise in its behalf. Not alone the sweet simplicity of the theme, with its peeps into fairyland, but the wonderful stage pictures, so pleasing to the eye, and the mechanical effects of cunning construction, have afforded the utmost satisfaction to all who have visited the theatre during the week. Miss Cecilia Loftus, as the merry sprite, speedily won the affections of her audience, whose measure of applause was cordial and unstinted; Miss Hilda Trevelyan proved a sweet Wendy Darling; the make-up and manner of Mr. Loring Fernie was quite in keeping with his excellent portrayal of the Pirate Captain; Miss Enid Spencer-Brunton handled the small part of Mrs. Darling with credit; and all the juveniles in the cast showed a high degree of qualification. The play is presented by Mr. Charles Frohman, and will not, we understand, be produced anywhere else in the Lancashire district.

ROTUNDA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—The sensational drama A Traitor Prince, from the pen of George De Gray, has been played here this week by Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's company. Mr. G. M. Montanni held the part of Prince Dalmirez, playing with much intensity and dramatic power; Miss Nita Langford displayed high accomplishments as Vashti; Mr. Ernest A. Duval was a manly Lieut. Derrick; Mr. Edmond O'Grady created much humour as Billy Bright; as did Mr. Edward Fenton in the part of the Hon. Bobby Dalrymple. Two rôles, Richard and Colonel Vane, were ably undertaken by Mr. A. W. Norman; and Miss Clara O'Grady was satisfactory as Mrs. Blossom.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—An entertaining programme here is headed by the Six Brothers Luck, in their sketch The Hotel Grande, wherein their antics and patter create continuous and uproarious laughter. Stewart and Morgan are artistic and finished singers; the Three Seymours, clever and daring gymnasts; Maxford and O'Neill, laughable comedians; Gus Garrick, a popular eccentric; and Mamie Iris, a pleasing entertainer. The bioscope comes in for special attention.

STAR THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—At Duty's Call, an interesting military play, has been produced here by Mr. John Gerant and company. Mr. Gerant as the villainous Harold Allison sustains the greater part of the hard work, and acts with much dramatic power; Mr. Leonard Williams is a capital Captain Allison; as General Gordon Mr. Ernest St. John wins popularity; Miss Edith Knight is a charming Dora Drummond; and Miss Georgina Hamilton does credit to the rôle of Salema.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—The Drama of Life, from the pen of Mr. Lingford Carson, is here this week with the author's own company. Mr. George M. Newall proved an admirable Harry Beech; a meritorious Sylvia was presented by Miss Kate Hallam; Mr. Edward M. Hamilton made the most of Walter Beech; a deal of amusement followed the movements of Sir Dobson Wilde, impersonated by Mr. Harwood Roberts; Miss Florence French assisted in the comedy with her Lady Wilde; and Mr. Edward Van Biene filled the rôle of Count Foi satisfactorily.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—At the top of the programme this week is Eugene Stratton, who has proved a great draw; Madge Temple, a winsome vocalist, met with a hearty reception for her delightful songs; Mike S. Whallen, the laughtermaker, was in fine form; a humorous comedy duologue, Two to One, came from the Findens; Ernie Mayne, as a comedian, caused great fun; Albert Whelan proved a pleasing turn at the piano; Terley executed some particularly clever models in clay; and others who appeared were La Tostia, mandolinist; Ralph and Nellie Howard, musicians; Max York's clever dogs; and Les Suprisks, lady gymnasts.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Owing to the great success that followed their appearance last week, Arthur Roberts and his sketch company have been retained for another six nights, playing the exceedingly funny trifle, Where's the Count? Another mirth-provoking turn is that submitted by Radford and Valentine, the juggling jesters; Florrie Forde is heartily cheered for her latest songs; as comedy acrobats the Schiavonis are notably good; Downes and Langford are a clever couple of comedians and dancers; Charlie Williams is funny as a Scotch coon comedian; Ada and Setta Poole are acceptable as society entertainers; and others in the list include Charles Somers, comedian; George Grogie, the Sussex yokel; and Maud Esmond, burlesque artist. The English Cup football contest of Saturday last was shown very realistically by the Bioscope.

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—A local favourite comedian, Will Hebden, heads the bill here this week, and brings several of his latest songs; Billy Kelly, with his laughable "Walk, walk, walk," assisted by a variety of peculiar pedestrians, has proved an excellent turn; as a comedy juggler, Monti affords every satisfaction; Pete Dwight and son are speciality artists and dancers of no mean order; Will Daniels has some funny songs and patter; and Amy Linton is a most creditable comedienne and dancer.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Royal stock dramatic company are producing Her Wedding Day, in six tableaux, a sketch which has been received with much favour. Miss Lina Nazeby played with considerable skill the part of the heroine Madge Conway; Mr. Percy Boucher humorously presented Lothario Caccles; Mr. Harry Tresham made an excellent Harold Saxby; the rôle of Weedon Kenyon was in the safe hands of Mr. Herbert Cecil; the Sam Klink of Mr. Cecil Ravenswood proved acceptable; Miss Sara Blumenthal displayed much ability as Jemima Caccles; and Miss Beryl Ravenswood effectively held the character of Dora. Some capital pictures were shown by the bioscope.

PADDINGTON PALACE. — Proprietors, the Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The principal item here this week is the three tableaux sketch, The Miser, produced by Mr. W. L. Lee and company; Davis and Roberts, a smart pair of variety artists, who were discovered by Mr. Edwin W. Smith, of the Parthenon, performing in the street, gave a most satisfactory turn; Walter Aubrey, fresh from pantomime, has several taking songs; as comedians and dancers, the Sisters Kennedy are exceedingly pleasing; and Marie Doust does well as a comedienne.

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, the Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The Three Schaffers are foremost here this week with their gladiatorial exhibition; the terriers and "Dot," the cake-walk pony, shown by Miss Fredrica, display a remarkable degree of training; as comical acrobats, Burley and Burley raise a deal of laughter; Sydney Carden and Zulu Zesch provide a neat society entertainment; smart burlesque artists and novelty dancers are the Melroses; Fred Horsfall affords satisfaction as a humorist and mimic; Miss Queena Barnes does well as a character comedienne; and Tom E. Hughes, versatile character comedian, also appears.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Hector and Paulus, smart comedy gymnasts, are at the head of the bill here this week; the Sisters Terry sing several pleasing duets; James Newery is particularly eccentric; Emmie Ames has a neat vocal scena, "Beneath the Shadow of Big Ben"; and Harry Bancroft sings some popular descriptive pieces.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager. Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Heading a lengthy bill here this week are Carter Livesey and Lilian Rosebery, assisted by Albert Mason, with the laughable skit, The Would-be Actors Rehearsing a Drama; Ford and Hanson, "the musical millionaires," provide an interesting turn; Shavo and Frank as vocalists and comedy jugglers, are well worth witnessing; the Ashmoles provide some smart speciality work; J. A. Cassels is a Scotch comedian of merit; and others on the list are Queenie Lewis, chic comedienne, and Dan Agar, comedian.

OLYMPIA.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—Wilkie Bard, always popular in Liverpool, has proved a strong attraction here this week, and has been cordially welcomed; another favourite is Ella Shields, who, among other pieces, gives her latest success, "My Cotton Blossom Lou"; Denton and Rowland's company, in The Punch and Judy Girls song-scena, including Miss Marjorie Lawrence, have been loudly applauded; Tom Owen, the new Welsh comedian, had a gratifying reception; Nellie Stratton gave dainty songs in her well-known admirable style: the Warsaw Brothers proved exceedingly diverting; some charming singing was provided by the Celtic Comedy Trio; clever and funny were the Rinaldos with their balancing feats; and two able comedians, Fred E. Terry and Walter Stanley, appeared with credit to themselves. The bioscope showed an excellent film of Saturday's football cup final.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—The first three nights of the week The Dandy Doctor was the attraction here. Mr. Edmund Russel as Melchisadeck Brown creates unbounded hilarity; and Miss Norah Melton is genuinely comical as Jane. Miss May Yates is all animation and bightness as Ivy Pendred, and her dancing is charming; Mr. Leslie Martin is distinctly clever in the rôle of Bertie Bolingbroke, and Mr. James Danvers makes a good Colonel Pendred.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Business-Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—The Christian is being presented here this week by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company. Mr. F. Ranson Buckley, as the Hon. John Storm, gives a powerful impersonation of the part; Parson Quayle is well represented by Mr. Percy Johnson; Archdeacon Wealthy is finely portrayed by Mr. Colin Johnstone; Mr. P. Gedge Twyman is capital as Lord Robert Ure; as Glory Quayle Miss Grace Murielle gives an admirable portrayal; Miss Florence Radcliffe is good as Polly Love. The company is under the direction of Miss Marie Beckenham.

MAIDENHEAD.— THE PAVILION.— Proprietor, Mr. George Gude.—This week's programme is very entertaining. Harry Bromley and Eva West contribute a comedy duologue; Harry Monkhouse, comedian, appears; Sara Yost (lady baritone) sings well; and Galino is successful, especially in a laughing song. Sidney Jones is well received in musical sketches; Gus Daniels, character vocalist, sings exceptionally well; and Wragg and Wragg earn applause with their remarkable exhibition of swordsmanship. A good selection of animated pictures concludes the performance.

MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. G. Howard Watson.—The following are included in a good programme here this week: Cline and Clarke, duettists and dancers, who give a smart exhibition of sand dancing; Hague and Russell in a comedy duologue Your Loving Aunt; Roland Hill, an amusing comedian; the Dunvilles, in a clever musical act; Miss Daisy Morell, comedienne and vocalist; Harry Bent, mimic in "A Peep Into the Music Halls"; Miss Carlotta Lunn, comedienne; and the Bioscope.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—Miss Ada Blanche and Mr. Lionel Rignold and company, in What the Butler Saw, is again the attraction at this house, after a very successful week.

PRINCE'S THEATRE, LTD. — Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Manchester playgoers should congratulate themselves on the opportunity of witnessing such an excellent répertoire of Old English plays as those presented by Mr. Edward Compton and his thoroughly efficient company during the current week. On Monday night, before an appreciative though only moderately filled house, a brilliant performance was given of the popular Davy Garrick, in which Mr. Compton made his 1314th appearance in the title-rôle with his accustomed great success. As Violet Miss Mackenzie contributed a nice and tactful performance; Mr. H. Crocker gave a masterly rendering of Alderman Gresham; and Mr. A. B. Imeson made a distinct hit as the Hon. Tom Tallyhaut. Other parts were played by Mr. Herbert Pigot, Mr. Arnold Lucy, Mr G. W. Johnston, Mr. Reginald E. Besant, Mr H. Armstrong, and the Misses M. Hassell and Muriel Meek, all of whom acted with neatness and discretion, while the dresses were elaborate, and the scenery correspondingly excellent. A one-act comedy, The Desperate Lover, preceded, in which Mr. A .B. Imeson, Miss Mackenzie, and Miss Evelyn Hall were particularly successful. On Tuesday an equally fine performance of The School for Scandal was given, followed by a matinée on Wednesday of She Stoops to Conquer, and in the evening a most enjoyable rendering of Mr. Compton's record success, To-Morrow, the remainder of the week being filled in with a revival of Lord Lytton's comedy Money, the Haymarket comedy New Men and Old Acres, and a repetition of Davy Garrick.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—The Easter pantomime of Puss in Boots entered upon its second week here on Monday, with every indication of completing its three-weeks' run successfully.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Last week's highly successful attraction at the Grand Junction Theatre, The Life of a Showman, is transferred here this week, and proved quite to the liking of Monday's audience. Mr. George Testo Santé and his company are efficient throughout.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The Cavilina Troupe, in their clever and enjoyable comedy act, are the top attraction here this week. Prominent also are the Andreassens, the Danish midshipmen, whose "sport" is extremely good. Stanley and Vandyke give a pleasing sketch, entitled A Broken Promise; Lily Gaston is a clever dancer and male impersonator; Annie Cohen comedienne, sings very acceptably; Grapho and Jackson are seen in a novel quick-change act called The Café Riche; Bert Kemp, lightning cartoonist, is clever; Sam Shipley, eccentric comedian and dancer, adds much to the entertainment; Phillips and Merritt give a smart American comedy act; and Beatrice Worth, comedienne, provides an enjoyable turn.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Richard Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Gus Flanagan.—Mr. Ian Maclaren's company is here in the detective drama, The Prince of Rogues. The heroic part of Frank Farrell is played well by Mr. Alec W. Wynne, and he finds an excellent partner in Miss Dorothy Riddell as Winnie Harwood. Mr. George Rammell is capital as Geoffrey Flint, the rogue upon whose machinations Gilbert Kenry, the detective, is set to work in the person of Mr. Henry B. Lewis; and as Rita Congreve, a woman with a past, Miss Georgina V. Thomas adds conspicuously to the sinister interest. Among the remainder of the capable cast Mr. Sidney Fairbrother gives a clever depiction of Harwood, the gambler-millionaire, and Mr. James Fox is well suited in the rôle of Dick. The staging is good.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Sutton Vane's sensational drama, A Wife's Triumph, was presented here on Monday by Mr. Ernest R. Abbott and a powerful company. Mr. Abbott plays Frank Wilton, the cashier, in excellent style, and Miss Ada Abbott takes advantage of her fine opportunities as Bessie Dewhurst; while as Robert Dewhurst, the Squire, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps makes a distinct success, and Mr. Edwin Keene gives an admirable impersonation of Ben Bradford. The two betting-men, Jordan and Hartman, are cleverly rendered by Mr. W. H. Garbois and Mr. Weedon Ross; Mr. D. Pentland gives a good idea of Rylan, the American sportsman; and among the minor parts Miss Marjorie Tennant contributes a smart and amusing depiction of Margery Crib, the Yorkshire servant.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—A spirited version of Dumas' novel, "Monte Cristo," is staged here this week under the direction of Mr. Junius Booth, the American actor, who gives a successful rendering of the central part. The story is carried through four acts, after an elaborate prologue which occupies three scenes in itself, and the whole staging is managed in picturesque and effective style. Mr. Junius Booth's skilled efforts as the Count of Monte Cristo are well supported, principally by Mr. Laurence Grove as Mondego and Mr. Walter Uridge as Villefort, the King's attorney; while Miss Joan Ellis acts cleverly as Mercedes, Miss Doris Regan is pleasing as Sophie Danglers, and Miss Kate Maynard gives a good delineation of La Caronte.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Wal Pink's "workmen" are here this week in Repairs, an absurdity concocted solely to raise laughter; Datas, the human almanac, creates considerable interest with his wonderful memory; Rosie Archer is a first-rate mimic, and is well received; and Howard and Collinson are particularly good in their Porter and Parcel sketch. The Bros. Bright are clever and graceful gymnasts; and the Three Sisters Silcott are pleasing vocalists and dancers. Other enjoyable items are those of Amy Anderson and company, Ted Cowan (comedian), and J. T. McMillan (a capital Scotch comedian). As usual, the Palace pictures are good.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Managers, Messrs. H. Hall and H. Pryme.—The top star here this week is La Berat, as the Mystic Fire Maiden, whose illuminated dancing is but feebly described as the most beautiful act of its kind upon the stage. Another really delightful turn is that of Cruikshank, whose style in song and story is at once a novelty and a treat. To these are added the remarkably fine contributions of Elsie Molloy and company, in The Lady Bankrupt; Eugen Joly, a marvellous performer on the cornet; the Ten Genis, in an elaborate Risley act; the Twin Bros. Dean, whose simultaneous dancing is an exhibition worth going a long way to see; Alf Chester, comedian, whose laughing-song is a big hit; Eric Dare and company, in a bright scena, The Reservist; Helen Mar, the American raconteuse, and the bioscope.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—A new and extraordinary exhibition of the uncanny is given here this week by Menetekel, whose doings are reminiscent of the supernatural writing on the wall of old. An extremely pretty spectacle is Canty's Mystic Grotto, which introduces Mlle. De Sylva, the mysterious lady, among wonderful effects of light. Other enjoyable features of the programme are Brett and Orford, who give their well-known act successfully; the Jack Theo trio of skilled equilibrists; the Wolkowsky troupe of Russian singers and dancers; Herbert Lloyd, "the King of Diamonds," an amusing comedian; Billy McClain's coloured sextette of dancers and sketch artists (including Mme. Cordelia); and the Sisters Klos, a clever duo. In addition the choir render a part-song by Pinsuti, an illustrated song by Pontet is rendered by J. F. Headlam and the choir, and the bioscope.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Mlle. Eugénie Fougére, the charming Parisian "chanteuse," tops the bill here this week, and delights all with her excellent singing. The Harvey Boys, well-known boxing comedians, are screamingly funny in their item The Fighting Dummy; Mark Anthony is a humorist of the first water; the Three Rubys show much cleverness in their equipoise, acrobatic, and trapeze act; and Flo Watson is a pleasing character-vocalist. Other good turns are those of Charles Woodward (actor-vocalist), Florrie Bray (comedienne), Joe Oliver (singer of coon songs), Mlle. Leona (comedienne and dancer), and Raymond's vivagraph.

KING'S LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The principal attraction here this week is provided by Edwin Garth and his company in the farcical sketch, McKenna in Love. The combination is highly successful and a big draw, quite a long cast being employed, of whom the principals are Edwin Garth and Joe English. In the programme also are Wallace Whitney, character-comedian, who presents a variety of smart and amusing impersonations; Beattie Foster, a singer of character songs of the low-comedy order; and an amusing series of pictures on the bioscope.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—This week's programme includes the popular actor-author, Mr. Walter Howard, and company, in a farcical sketch, entitled Spiff! Spaff! Spoof! which causes much amusement. Tom White's Arabs are a troupe of juvenile comedians, who contribute funny sayings and songs; the Three Clements give a clever and daring gymnastic display; the Rayners are wonderful contortionists; Fred Mason whistles in an acceptable manner; Greener achieves much success with plaintive ballads sung in good style; Gilroy and Gross are expert dancers and laughable comedians; J. C. Laurie scores with his "Walk" song; and Babs Grimshaw is a particularly clever child vocalist and male impersonator.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—After a successful week at the King's Mr. Harry Roxbury and company are here this week in The Prince of Monte Carlo, the whimsicalities of Mr. Roxbury and his capable company causing no end of laughter. Leo Tell is an excellent mimic, and meets with a good reception; and Ben Harris and his famous Nippers provide a good speciality scene. Happy Attwood is a quaint comedian; and the songs rendered by Edna Grey (ballad vocalist) and Jessie Albini (comedienne) prove very acceptable. Kendrick and Laura possess good voices and dance exceedingly well, and Frank Whiteley contributes a bone solo. The pictures include the Final Cup Tie at the Crystal Palace.

MANSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Morelia and Jennings; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. Jennings.—Messrs. Leon Wood and A. F. Allen-Tower's company is here in The Hindustanee. Miss Dolly Ross as the Hindustanee Princess sang and acted well; the part of Dr. Cody Jones was admirably taken by Mr. Arthur E. Behan; and Mr. George Barr was amusing as King Kawlee. Good dancing turns were given by the Maharance Troupe, and Mlle. Joseline proved herself an efficient soloist. The Three Behans were also responsible for specialities.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Exclusive Manager, Mr. Edward Michael.—This week the resident stock company, under the direction of Mr. A. Austin-Leigh, has been playing The Middleman. Mr. O. P. Haggie is seen to great advantage as Cyrus Blenkharn; Mr. A. Austin-Leigh sustains the rôle of Joseph Chandler cleverly; Mr. Henderson Bland is effective as Captain Julian Chandler; Mr. Edward Mervyn as the manager, Batty Todd, is good; and Mr. Percy Goodyear is excellent as Jesse Pegg. Miss Emmie O'Reilly plays charmingly as Mrs. Chandler, and both Mrs. Culling and Miss Lillian Rogers cleverly sustain the rôles respectively of Mary and Nancy, Blenkarn's daughters. Miss Violet Agnew capably fills the part of Maude Chandler, and good support is given, among other members of the company contributing to the success of the production, by Miss Madge Herrick, Lady Umfreville; Mr. J. E. Savery, Sir Seaton Umfreville; Mr. Claude Agnew, Vachell; Miss Dora Laney, Felicia Umfreville; and Mr. J. K. Lord, Daneper.

THE HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—This week's programme includes Harry Freeman, comedian; Dorothy Veld, comedienne and dancer; Frank Gee, comedian; Sisters Aindow, musical experts; Billy Hobbs, dancer and comedian; Anthony, the mystic man in white; and the usual series of Animated Pictures—the whole of the turns being much appreciated.

MERTHYR TYDFIL. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson.—Mr. Charles Carte and company are revisiting here this week with A Noble Brother. Mr. Carte repeats his well-known impersonation of Jerry the Tramp, and is well supported by Miss Doris Br

acting. Mr. Templer Powell is a lively Lord Percy Kilgour, and Mr. C. J. Barber doubles very cleverly the parts of Smeeton and Jowers. Miss Lilian Hallows plays with great dash the character of Pansy Bligh, and Miss Mary Mallalieu is a sweet Phyllis Dagenham. The small part of Charlotte is supremely well acted by Miss Ida Laurie, who shows what a good artist can make out of trifling materials. The comedy is preceded by a comedietta, entitled The Stratagem, pleasingly played by Miss Lilian Hallows, Mr. Harold West, Mr. Templer Powell, and Mr. C. J. Barber, who gives a capital sketch of an old butler.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Harry Fischer.—The New Barmaid has always been a great favourite in Edinburgh, so it was not surprising that Mr. Alexander Loftus's company should open here with it on Monday to excellent business. The musical comedy is strongly cast, Mr. Joseph B. Montague especially being a tower of strength as Bertie White. Mr. Loftus himself makes a good deal of the part of the South African millionaire, and Mr. Leslie Austin as Captain Loveday has every opportunity of using his rich baritone voice. Mr. James Grant imparts the proper pepperiness to Col. Claymore, Mr. Frank Melroyd acts and dances well as Braddy, and Mr. W. F. Chewd gives a capital character-study of a Frenchman. The ladies, too, are in great force. Miss Maisie Ellinger plays the title-rôle in winning fashion, and the crafty old barmaid is well sustained by Miss Hilda Blanche. Miss Violet Osmund as the lady journalist and Miss Winifred Preston as Lady Moulton are also highly successful. Exhibitions of artistic dancing are given by Miss Lottie Stone's Trio, consisting of Miss Sophia Dorram, Miss May Hawthorn, and Miss Queenie Bell.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting Manager, Mr. C. J. Cawood.—The programme here this week is spiced with many capital turns. A prominent feature is the performance of the sketch entitled Hogmanay, by Mr. J. L. Shine and company, who command the warm applause of the audience by their admirable acting. Miss Elsie Robey is smart and amusing in her musical act, and she hits off the mannerisms of some society amateurs in a happy manner. Hays and Suits give a clever display of dancing, and the Albert and Edmunds Troupe, in their lively sketch Up a Tree, evoke the heartiest laughter. Miss Flo Deighton sings "Annie Laurie" and "Come Back to Erin" with such delightful expression as to secure an enthusiastic recall. The Bros. Egbert are amusing, as usual, in their sketch, The Happy Dustmen; Booker and Harris are successful in their duologue, The Interviewer; Miss Ivey Roze and Mr. Frank Calvert give a playful skit on Captain Cuttle; Mr. Fred Lincoln is laughter-provoking in his turn; and Rich and Rich funny in their duets, patter, and dances.

FALKIRK.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manger, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—The Gamester of Metz, a sensational drama, is being presented here by Mr. Chas. March and Co. As Paul Baldot Mr. March proves himself an actor of versatility; Captain Badaire is well taken by Mr. John B. Murray; and Louis Badaire is fittingly presented by Mr. W. G. Dudeney. Miss Una Lane acts gracefully as Lucia Baldot, and Miss Cissy Haigton and Mr. Victor Knight contrive with a good deal of success to keep the audience in a merry mood.

FOLKESTONE.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's co. is paying a return visit here this week with Under Two Flags. Mr. Mark Blow as Bertie Cecil Royellieu acts the part to perfection; Mr. Theodore Hill as Berklie Cecil Royellieu is very good; the part of Lord Royellieu is in the capable hands of Mr. Charles Brooke; Mr. Albert Wray is well suited as Lord Rockingham; Mr. Walter Rousby, who causes amusement as Rake, sings well; Mr. Charles D. Pitt, in his old rôle of Colonel Châteauroy, plays in an able manner; Mr. Fred Rolls makes the most of the part of Baron; Miss Mabel Ormonde as the Princess Venetia acts with quiet dignity; Miss Nelly May sings and dances effectively as Lavinia; and the highest praise must be accorded Miss Ida Molesworth for her impersonation of Cigarette.

Leas Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. A. Litter.—The Gipsies and their Jester, under the direction of Mr. D'Arcy Clayton, are paying a return visit here this week, and are as popular as ever. Mr. Alfred Leslie as the Jester has a fund of humour, and never fails to please.

GATESHEAD.—Metropole Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Dishonoured is being staged here this week. Mr. Percy Ballard gives a powerful depiction of Philip Cunningham; Mr. Geoffrey Broughton is well placed as Sir William Cunningham; the villainies of Capt. Pentland are excellently portrayed by Mr. Jackson Hayes; Mr. J. Leicester Jackson does full justice to the rôle of Captain Cholmondeley; and Messrs. H. B. Ford and J. Ferne, as Mike Farthing and Jem Stokes respectively are successful in comedy parts. Miss Blanche St. Albans is a capital Leslie Maynard, and Miss Pollie Denville a humorous Anne Maria.

King's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—The Cratons, in a pantomimical burlesque entitled, "Front and Behind," head a good bill here. Hanvarr and Anna Lee are seen in an entertaining juggling performance; a sketch entitled, "The Battle of the Belles," played by Messrs. Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls' company, causes roars of laughter; Rose Elliott sings two ballads in excellent style; Chevalier Clicquot, described as the Human Arc Lamp, gives a sensational performance; Lauri Wyllie, with his mimicking mannikins, makes a hit; the Two Whites, American comedy artists, have some amusing patter, and are also excellent sand-dancers; Rosetti, the musical girl, gives an interesting turn; and the King's Bioscope shows a good film of the Cup Final.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Excellent entertainment is provided here. J. W. Hall, a comedian, who always has a great reception, heads the bill, and convulses the house; another laughter-maker is Raglus, who has some original juggling business and many quaint mannerisms; Ruby Dahl, with her mock mannikins, gives an interesting turn; Carson Hicks is an expert buck dancer; Arthur Bright (comedian), the Harc Trio (in an acrobatic act), and the "graphs" of the Cup Final complete the bill.

GILLINGHAM (Kent).—Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. D. S. Cooper; General-Manager, Mr. Roy Cochrane.—The attraction this week is Mr. Charles H. Aguzzi's company in the musical comedy, An Irish Honeymoon. Mr. Lyall Grant, as Lord Belville, and Miss Lilian Mayne as Molly Molloy, are well suited in their respective parts, and render some excellent songs and duets; Mr. Lorimer Stuart as Augustus Fitznoodle makes a typical dude; Mr. Malcolm Cumming is entertaining as Professor Maggs. Miss Florence Spencer as Matilda, and Miss Patrici Lavelle are equally successful as the maids. Mr. E. E. Giles, jun., as Spinks, the valet, is a warm favourite, and causes roars of laughter. Other parts are ably undertaken by Mr. Cyril Rosse, Mr. A. H. Lindor, Mr. H. A. Charles, Miss Flora Owen, and Miss May Marcus. Special mention must be made of the Franklin Troupe of Russian dancers. Mr. Frank Corri conducts the excellent chorus and augmented orchestra.

GLASGOW.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—A cordial welcome was extended to Mrs. Patrick Campbell and her company in the new play from the French, The Whirlwind, originally produced at Birmingham a fortnight ago. The part of the Countess of Ellingham affords Mrs. Campbell many opportunities (somewhat on the lines of her earlier success, Mrs. Tanqueray), and the powerful scenes which conclude the first and second acts were veritable triumphs for the actress. Mr. Julian Royce, as Hugh Carlton, contributed greatly to the success of the play, his acting throughout being most impressive; Mr. Oscar Adye, as Sir Henry Langham, was at his best in the strong scene with the Countess in act two; Mr. Scott Buist gave a striking embodiment of the caddish Joseph Locksley; as Mr. Leonard, Mr. A. G. Poulton was well suited, and imparted an air of suavity to the part. Various types of society ladies were ably acted by Mrs. Campbell-Bradley, Miss Mabel Beardsley, and Miss Nellie Mortyne. Mr. George Bealby neatly hit off the unattractive attributes of the Earl of Ellingham.

Royalty. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. N. Downie.—That very enjoyable farce, Are you a Mason? is being presented to crowded audiences this week by Mr. Charles Macdona's company. Mr. E. N. Paterson's Amos Bloodgood was both humorous and clever. He was ably assisted by Miss Adelaide Grace as Mrs. Bloodgood. The Frank Perry of Mr. H. Langdon Bruce was a clever performance of the would-be Mason; cleverness also characterised Mr. Richard Purdon's delineation of John Halton; Miss Mabel Younge as Mrs. Perry was natural and charming. The one-act drama, entitled A Bad Penny, was given as a preliminary, and Mr. E. N. Paterson as Richard Hyde scored a great success.

Grand, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Mascard.—A return visit is being made here by Mr. Walter Melville's company in the drama, A Girl's Cross Roads. Miss Beaumont Collins gives a powerful study of Barbara Wade, portraying the many phases of the character with realism and fidelity; Mr. Frank R. Robertson makes a manly young Jack Livingstone; Miss Nannie Meade acts well as the frivolous Nellie Meadows, and the part of her father, the old farmer, is impersonated with excellent effect by Mr. Charles Franmore; Miss Elsie Savile makes a sympathetic Constance Cornell; Mr. Fred Ingram as Toby Turvey and Miss Lena Delphine as Tilly Vane impart considerable humour to the play; Mr. Roy Fortescue gives a clever performance as the scheming Cuthbert Lumley; Mr. John Brooks, as Luke Ramsden and Mr. Courtney Bellenden as Dr. Weston give able support.

King's, Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Mr. George Musgrove's company is this week revisiting the west end theatre in that exceedingly picturesque production, The Prince of Pilsen. It is almost a year since the company was here before, and among the changes in the cast the most notable is in the part of Hans Wagner, now played with a keen characteristic humour by Mr. Edwin Adeler. Mr. G. Villiers Arnold is still with the company, his fine ringing voice being again heard with pleasure in the part of Lieut. Wagner; Mr. Lawrence Wensley repeats his former success as the Earl of Shrimpton, as also does Mr. Alfred Selby as the eccentric French waiter, Francois; in the part of the real Prince some expressive solo and concerted singing is done by Mr. Stuart Alexander; Miss Nellie Cozens attractively represents Mrs. Croker; a charming Edith Adams is seen in Miss Mildred Baker; Miss Nell Emerald, Ruby Verdi, and Meg Hamylton are all heartily welcomed back in their respective parts of Sidoni, Nellie Wagner, and Jimmie, while amongst the ladies of the chorus a special hit is made by Miss Clara Stanton as the girl from New York. The production is staged in capital style, and has the advantage of a full chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Robertson.

Royal Princess's.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Mudoch.—Mr. John Power's company is here this week with Man's Enemy, in which Mr. Power sustains with much dramatic effect the part of the villain, Tom Drake; while Miss Daisy Halling, as his accomplice, Sarah Drake, gives a humorous exposition of a cynically selfish "woman of the world." Harry Stanton, the hero, is finely portrayed by Mr. Norman A. Overton; Miss Lynn Darlington is pleasing as Grace Lisle, in which character she sings a couple of songs with charming effect; General Sir Arthur Stanton is a fine old soldierly character, well played by Mr. H. Payne; Mr. Cecil Vernon Proctor represents the Rev. Fred Lisle in a natural manner; Miss Amy Rudd as Polly Harris, Mr. J. Newton-Cowling as Iky Barnett, and Mr. Percy Norman as Adolph D'Embonpoint all help to keep the fun going. Mr. Cliff Locke as a Russian duellist, is a picturesque figure, and Mr. Alf. Burrows as Bill Sanders acts the London loafer admirably.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Mr. Sidney Dench and company are here this week with the drama The Rich and Poor of London. Mr. Robert Hall as Dr. Morton is responsible for some good acting, and Miss Dora Dench is seen to advantage as May Braithwaite; Mr. Sidney Dench, as Spider Jack, adds largely to the success of the play with his humour and drollery. Mr. Walter Foster, as the villain, Mark Stanley, plays with appropriate intensity; Ruby Redgrave is well sustained by Miss Lillian Burns, Matthew Grabbam is ably represented by Mr. Malcolm Gascoigne, Miss Lilly Artis as Polly Philpot, and Miss Ethel Denville as Seadrift give good portrayals.

Lyceum Theatre.—Sole Proprietor, Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, J. H. Oakden.—On Circumstantial Evidence was presented by Mr. Charles Clifford's company here on Monday evening to a good audience. Mr. Chas. Clifford, the author, has provided himself with a capital part, and in the rôle of Capt. Hamilton has many fine opportunities of which he makes the utmost; Miss Jennie Wigney wins sympathy as the sorely-tried Violet Ogilvy; as Jack Ogilvy, Mr. Wilson Brash is conspicuous, acting with no small dramatic fervour and skill; the Sir Lawrence of Mr. A. M. James is an admirable presentation, and the diversified dual rôles of Olga and Mary Brandoni have ample justice done them by Miss Hilda Hatton, an artist of more than ordinary ability. The comedy is in the safe hands of Miss Amy Stewart and Mr. Newton Pearce; Miss Dot Stewart makes much of the homeless waif, Tim; the Gen. Garibaldi of Mr. J. Keane, elicits deserved approbation.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Limited; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Mussett.—The Svengalis, in their music and mystery turn, are the stars here, and give a very mystifying performance; Fred Sinclair and Gracie Whiteford provide much amusement with their lively sketch, Getting Even; Percy Honri's concertina playing and his volatile humour are equally appreciated; Colby and May in their ventriloquial and dancing doll turn are specially good; an excerpt from The Lily of Killarney, by W. Wallis and company, is much enjoyed; Chas. J. Johnson, coloured comedian and dancer; Arthur Gill, yokel humorist; Tina Clements and her trained dogs and pony, and Helen Ford, vocalist, complete a varied programme.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The bill here is headed by Johnnie Schofield, assisted by J. C. Piddock and company, in the musical comedy, entitled Missing; or, The Light of Day. Drew and Alders continue first favourites, and J. A. Wilson, negro comedian, is well to the front with new songs and jokes; Burt Shepard gives numerous selections on the piano, and the Cape Girls are clever dancers. The other members of the company include The Haydas Troupe of acrobats, Grace Merton (sweet singer), Clown Barker and Miniature Circus, Arthur Gillin (smart ventriloquist), and Hippodrome Bioscope with new pictures.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—The place of honour here is occupied by La Belle Estellita, Spanish singer and dancer; Belle Davis and her company of coons also give a capital account of themselves. Other notable artists contributing to the entertainment include Chas. R. Whittle (comedian), the Arundels (comedians and boxers), the Ferraris (terpsichorean artists), Cee-Mee Quartette of gymnasts, Lilian (trick cyclist), the Crystals (vocalists and dancers), Keith and Merso (acrobatic humorists), and Mike Cray (comedy juggler).

Coliseum.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—A most amusing sketch is provided here in Casey's Court, and the talent of the youngsters engaged in it is wonderful. Daisy Mayer's sand dancing turn is heartily applauded, and another clever sand dancer is Frank Cumminger; Mendel, the blind pianist, displays his skill and memory in numerous musical selections; Charles S. Kitts and Rhoda Windrum contribute a lively farcical sketch, The Cuckoo; Jurgens Trio give a smart display on the globes, Gwennie Hasto's catchy songs and neat dances make her a strong favourite, Stelling and Revell on the bars give a particularly good performance. The Bioscope, George Tacius, and a clever ventriloquist, who gives an extra turn, complete a most attractive programme.

Palace.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—A great attraction here this week is the presence of Miss Ada Colley, who is greeted with much applause; also in the musical line are the Four Jumels, who contribute a pleasing little entertainment; the Eight Lancashire Lads show themselves to be undoubted masters of the art of clog dancing; the Sisters Cora, panto. favourites in Glasgow, make a graceful appearance; H. O. Wills is extremely funny in his songs and patter; Edward Lewis makes some very good hits in his bump-reading performance. In the midst of the mirth created by many humorous turns comes a pathetic little sketch, His Birthday, by Royston Dene and company. Dan Filmer also appears with success; Lu Simpson's company presents Our Annual Social with great success.

Queen's.—Lessees, Messrs. Colquhoun and Armstrong; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. M. Armstrong.—The programme here includes Ida Gladstone, who was such a favourite in the Metropole pantomime, and her various songs are well received; the Willies give an amusing turn, and good items are contributed by Arthur Croxon, Three Clarions, Violet Morgan, and Willie Turnbull. Some of the ties in the Scotish Boxing Championships, inaugurated at the Tivoli, are being given here.

Tivoli.—Lessee, Mr. Bernard M. Armstrong.—The management here have arranged to hold a series of Scottish Boxing Championships, and a good start was made on Monday with the first of the ties. In the variety programme Ida Gladstone is easily first favourite, and clever turns are given by J. K. McFarlane, the popular Scotch comedian, and by Sam Soda, quaint extempore vocalist.

GLOSSOP.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Miss Grace Warner and company, in The Scarlet Clue and East Lynne, provide the attraction this week. On Monday night The Scarlet Clue was well acted. Miss Warner as Sal Scarlet gives a vivid portrayal; Mr. George Gordon well handles the villainous character of Michael Stanton; whilst Mr. Horace Moseley as Edward Croker is good. Mr. J. Leighton Leigh scores in the dual rôles of Jack and Harry Esmond; Mr. V. T. Raymond as Billy, a burglar, is well placed, and is applauded for capitally-rendered songs; Mr. J. E. Tomlinson is seen to advantage as Crazy Jim, a waif; Miss Lizzie Palmer as Elsie Dane plays in a winning way; and Miss Ellen Beverley does well as Miss Tabitha Esmond. Miss Kathleen Cranston is effective as Mother Scrooge; Miss Esther Dean is amusing as Musette; little Phyllis Massey as Reggie Carstairs and little Edith Rutland as Little Polly contribute pleasing impersonations.

GLOUCESTER. — Theatre Royal. — Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. Rea.—Mr. Reginald H. Adair's company is playing here The Luck of Life. Mr. R. H. Stephenson is a good exponent of George Stanhope; Mr. Roland Yorke gives a capital interpretation of Michael Basilovitz; Rene Basilovitz is powerfully enacted by Miss Mary Dawson; and Miss Gertrude Bonser makes an excellent Countess Vlame. Mr. Leonard Thackeray renders able assistance as Count Petroff; the comedy relief is cleverly introduced by Mr. George Davis as Simon Stanley and Miss Dora Huggett as Laura North; and Mr. H. Hesslegrave as Bahadur is agreeably prominent, as is Mr. Albert Cuthbertson as Ivan Polowski.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—Royal Aquarium.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. Morton Powell's company is here this week with Mr. S. Buchanan Rogerson's play, Darkness, founded on Mr. Guy Thorne's novel, "When It was Dark." Mr. H. K. Ayliff is effective as Constantine Schawbe; Miss V. St. Laurance depicts the varied moods of Gertrude Hunt with much success, in some scenes being intensely realistic; the Rev. Basil Gortre of Mr. T. A. Shannon is natural and fervent; Sir Robert Llewellyn is ably represented by Mr. Edward Valentine; Mr. Ernest Allen is eager and intense as Harold Spence; and Helena finds a capable exponent in Mrs. Morton Powell. A lighter element is introduced by Mr. Arthur Lenville as the Hon. Charlie Gayfly and Miss Ethel Rainforth as Gracie Goldeye.

GREENOCK.—Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietors, The Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company is playing the drama In Holy Russia at the above theatre this week. Mr. Tom G. Warry is an able exponent of Count Petrolski; Mr. Louis Norman makes an excellent Michael Natolski; Mr. Arthur Stratton, an amusing Colonel, is ably assisted by Mr. J. Rice Cassidy, who takes the part of Micky; Mr. Frank Copeland is an effective Sir Harry Beresford; and Mr. Joe Cuthbertson is a lifelike Chief of Police. Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy admirably sustains the trying rôle of Renee Rubinoff, and Miss Beatrice Western makes the most of her opportunities as Catska Lavotski.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Sidney Bacon's company heads the bill here in that thrilling sketch, The Maniac. Rene Best, vocalist, sings nicely; Louis Lenoir is a clever sciographist; Volp and Volp submit a pleasant musical speciality act; Playfair and Nikola are a pair of remarkably expert papierographists; and A. J. Gamble, Scotch comedian, is as popular as ever.

Pavilion Theatre.—Lessees, the Greenock Pavilion, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Marie Loftus heads the bill here, and does a varied and clever turn. Other members of a good company are The Folkestones, in a comedy act; Arthur Bromley and Lina Fontein, in a sketch entitled A Musical Birthday; the Albano Troupe, in a musical speciality act; Flo Stilton, male impersonator; and Miss Queenie May, juvenile vocalist.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The American drama, At Cripple Creek, has proved attractive here, the thrilling scenes depicting the frenzied search for gold in the early 'eighties arousing the keenest interest of the audience. Joe Mayfield, a typical miner of the best kind is presented by Mr. Hilliard Vox with a considerable degree of natural force; Miss Ella Dixon is all that could be wished for as Belle Gordon; the villainy of the saloon-keeper, Martin Mason, and his Mexican companion, Manuel, is amply emphasised by Mr. Walter Thornton and Mr. C. Douglas Carlyle; Mr. A. W. Layland makes a dignified Wahketah, the Indian; and Miss Vera Fordyce is a popular figure as Dynamite Ann. Comedy is provided by Miss Daisy Carlton as Maggie Mason, Mr. Will Hook as Reggie Harwood, and Mr. Albert Rogers as the negro, Ben White. Little Freda wins approval as the child, Tatto.

Curry's Tivoli.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Barton and Ashley's burlesque, Canal Boat Sal, has caused much merriment, and the programme generally is of a humorous character. Quaint feats of physical contortion and acrobatics are presented by Ryan and Hall; the fun is likewise added to by the McKays, whose painting speciality is a decided novelty. Something new in the way of marionettes is exhibited by the D'Arcs, whose puppets are remarkably faithful imitations of well-known variety artists, both in appearance and action. Miss Jennie Johns scored a success; Miss Molly Woolstenholme is a charming soprano; and Mr. Tom York, baritone, also contributes capital songs.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—As a burlesque actress Katie Lawrence receives a hearty welcome here, her smart songs and general business being greatly appreciated; Mabel Kessler proves herself a skilled performer upon various brass instruments, her cornet and post-horn solos being especially worthy of note; a capital musical turn is given by Charles Fisher's company, their selections including items from popular operas; dancing of various types is performed by the Garden Troupe; and others who appear are Fred Villiers, in a vocal scena, "Dreams," Harry Vardon, an entertaining ventriloquist, Maudie Ford, vocalist and dancer, and Marlow and Manton, in an amusing sketch.

GUERNSEY.—St. Julian's Hall.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson's company appeared here on the 20th inst. in The Taming of the Shrew. Their visit had been eagerly anticipated, and they were accorded an enthusiastic reception. Mr. Benson gave a scholarly and clever reading of the part of Petruchio; Mr. Cyril Keightley as Biondello was much admired; Mr. Clarence Derwent as Tranio proved successful; Mr. George Buchanan merits praise as Lucentio; and Mr. H. O. Nicholson (Gremio), Mr. George R. Weir (Grumio), Mr. P. D. Owen (Baptista), and Mr. Philip Sanders (Vincentio) were all highly meritorious performances. Mrs. Benson's interpretation of the shrewd Katherina was exceedingly clever, and Miss Olive Noble proved a charming Bianca. Henry V. was given as a matinée performance.

GUILDFORD. — County Hall. — The Gipsy Maids' Choir of Mr. Douglas Eley's No. 1 company has drawn large houses here during their ten days' visit. A capital variety show is provided, including Frank Pierce, comedian; Gwennie Leaks, sketch artist; Olive Sara, club manipulator; Millie Cole, contralto; Cissie Senior, double-voiced vocalist; Lottie Wyndham, variety; Dorrie Courtney, banjoist; Professor Davison and Sons, thought transference and magic; Elsie Ranson, sketch artist; Gertie Gavagan, danseuse; Jenny Swires, vocalist; Marie Stock, comedienne; Clara Burland and Leah Hingley sopranos. Mr. Percy Ranson is the accompanist.

HANLEY. — Royal, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—Messrs. Murray, King, and Clarke's company opened on Monday in Blue-Bell in Fairyland. As Blue-Bell, Miss Gladys Cooper is distinctly successful; Lawrence Emery is well placed as Dickey; Blib and Blob, in the hands of Messrs. C. Morton and E. Cossart, are a most amusing pair. Happy Apps and Minnie Blanchard are seen to advantage in the respective parts of Water Lily and Autumn Leaf; Miss Muriel Juin acts and sings admirably as the Queen. Mr. Percy Farrimond, the singing collier, scores a success in his tenor songs.

Grand.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—A good all round programme is submitted this week. Miss Annie Purcell returns with her artistically-rendered vocal contribution; Morton and Elliott provide a capital turn; Geo. D'Albert is a descriptive vocalist of a capital order; Mr. Chas. Morritt, in his illusions, baffles his audiences nightly, and is much appreciated. Les Frasettis, in their musical turn, are artistic; Harry Clifford is a comedian of merit; Marion Scott is a comedienne of much ability; Spry and Austin are as funny as ever; the Bros. Redmond are capital acrobatic comedians; the pictures are as usual excellent.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cyril Fielding-Smyth.—On Monday a welcome return visit of The Walls of Jericho was paid by Messrs. Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux's company. The cast has been considerably altered since the last visit of the piece, but the standard of excellence is the same. Miss Florence Jackson as Lady Alethea repeats her fine performance; Mr. Edward A. Warburton's Jack Frobisher is better than ever; Mad Jim Bannister is capably acted by Mr. George A. Brandram; Mr. Laurence Hanray gives a capital character study of the Marquis of Steventon; Miss Molly Carton is a natural Lady Lucy; Lady Westerby is carefully portrayed by Miss Lydia Busch; Harry Dallas was played in a clever and effective manner by Mr. Sydney Hamilton; and as Bertram Hannaford Mr. George Percy amuses with his epigrams. On Thursday Mr. Chas. Carey's company, in After the Ball, opened a three nights' engagement.

The Kursaal. — Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. C. L. Naylor, M.A., Mus.Bac.; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—The attractions this week, in addition to the orchestra, are Miss Maud Santley (contralto), Miss D'Orsay (soprano), and Mrs. Clifford Granville (reciter).

HARTLEPOOL. — Empress. — Proprietors, Messrs. Everton and Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—The excellent programme provided here resulted in two packed houses on Monday. The King's College Boys are at the top of the bill, and provide a fine vocal entertainment. Martin Conway is always sure of a hearty welcome; the Sisters Llewellyn are excellent in operatic vocalism; and Andie Cane, a comedian, in his latest successes, is also an old favourite. Salida and Vone, coon artists; Mabel Hind, in a delightful scena, A Little Japanese; and the Hugo Troupe of three artists, with a performance that is pretty and effective, also add to the attractions.

Grand.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—Lucky Durham, Wilson Barrett's last and greatest play, is being presented here by H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company. John Durham and Helen Vallerton have excellent exponents in Mr. Edmund Kennedy and Miss Phyllis Ralph. A charmingly sweet character is made of Mrs. Durham by Miss Louise Gourlay; Miss Frances Wolviston assumes the rôle of Lady Mountfallon in a manner that calls for especial commendation; and Lord Mountfallon has a capable exponent in Mr. Benson North.

Palace.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—The Matweef-Hugoston Troupe, in charming costumes, provide a turn which is distinguished by smart Russian dances and remarkably daring and clever acrobatic feats; Virto, a musician of much versatility brings down the house, especially with his band imitations. Another highly successful turn is that contributed by McCann's Dogs; Walker and Lake have some bright songs and racy patter, and the character songs by Lade Henderson are capitally rendered. Miss May Fallowfield is a dainty soubrette, and Miss Hettie Lee a smart comedienne and dancer. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux provide a never-failing source of delight to picture lovers.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—Hardie and Von Leer's company is here this week in Mr. George R. Sims's new play, For Life and After, which was successfully produced at Reading last week. The company is a good all-round one, and commands the absorbed attention of its audience throughout. The stage-management is in the hands of Mr. Frank Harrison, who also fills the rôle of Rube Hexham. Mr. Vernon Sansbury is finely effective as Richard Grey, and Miss Grace Heywood enacts the rôle of Marion Grey most convincingly. Mr. Henry Hare plays well both as Jack Huggett, the murdered man, and as his son, Jim Huggett. Mr. Chris Mason as the old showman, Joe Grimper, is realistic, and is ably supported by Miss Eveline Shaw as Mrs. Grimper. Miss Muriel Dean is charming as Dora Grey, adding much to the pathos of the play.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties. — Resident and General-Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams. — An excellent programme this week is the means of drawing full houses. Miss Hettie Leo, a good comedienne, opens the entertainment. A laughable dramatic episode is given by the Wade Comedy Trio; Miss Evelyn Taylor is a pleasing singer; the fun supplied by the Society Pierrots is highly appreciated; the new films shown by the Hippodrome bioscope lend an agreeable variety; Tommy Dodd is a truly eccentric comedian; Allsopp and Beckwith, droll entertainers, gain great applause; Miss Jenny Hartley is a juvenile vocalist of exceptional ability; Ahrensmeyer introduces some marvellous hypnotic experiments.

Pier Pavilion.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—The Easter burlesque, entitled Bluebeard, Esq., is still an attractive feature here. Mr. J. D. Hunter's Sister Ann is exceptionally amusing. Mr. Arthur Ricketts is good as Bamboozlum, and Mr. Charles Hawker keeps up the fun as Pimple. Selim is very gracefully taken by Miss Mabel Sadie. Some pleasing songs are contributed by Miss Cissie Wade and Miss Rence Ashley, whilst some pretty dances are given by Loolah (Miss Nellie Bowen).

St. Leonard's Pier Pavilion.—Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Edward Neville and company are occupying the boards here his week in the dramatised version of Marie Corelli's novel The Sorrows of Satan. Nothing could be more impressive than the titular character of the drama as represented by Mr. Edward Neville. Mr. Gus Bowerman gives an able impersonation of Lord Lynton; the difficult part of Geoffrey Tempest is very realistic in the hands of Mr. W. H. Wilson; Lady Sybil as taken by Miss Flora Leslie is an extremely natural performance; Miss Cecil Bryne is a most acceptable exponent of the lodging-house keeper Mrs. Grimbes; Miss Lole Esmond is well suited as Diana Chesney; Miss Rosie Neville takes the part of Mavis Clare with well-sustained ease. As the Earl Mr. J. Le Fleming does the character ample justice.

Royal Concert Hall. — A children's pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty, was played here on three days this week. The libretto and songs were by Mr. Maurice Benington Reckitt, and the music was composed by Miss Gwendolen Campbell-Cory. The object of the entertainment was to aid the Convalescent Home for poor children at St. Leonards-on-Sea. The piece was performed by over 100 young people, and was excellently stage-managed by Mr. Harold Savery, the special scenery being supplied by Messrs. Drury, of Brighton.

HORWICH.—Prince's Theatre.—Lessees, The Provincial Theatres Co.; General-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Bradley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben Hawke.—The Elster Grime Opera company opened on Monday in Maritana. Miss Marie Elster in the title-rôle gave a fine rendering; Mr. Payne Clark's Don Cæsar was very grand, Mr. Michael Kemble's rendering of Don José was excellent, Mr. Frank Land as the King of Spain was in capital form, Miss Constance Russell's the Marchioness was good, and Miss Madge Quilliam's Lazarillo richly deserved the applause accorded. Faust, Carmen, The Lily of Killarney, Les Cloches de Corneville, and The Daughter of the Regiment are billed for the remainder of the week. The orchestra, under Mr. Grimes's direction, rendered good service.

HOYLAND.—Metropole.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Geo. S. King.—An excellent variety company opened here on Monday. The "Mighty Medicine Chief" is excellent; and Walter Moet, conjurer and illusionist, is good. The Sisters Delmore, in their scena The Redskin Chief, introducing fancy rifle and revolver shooting, are well received; and the Sisters Lemars, banjoists and mandolinists, are applauded. The bill also includes the Two Deans, duettists and dancers; Miss Raie Le Roy, coon vocalist and dancer; Little Napper, quaint comedian; Lily Rose, serio; Minna Roselle, ballad vocalist; Young Cody; and Myra Wynne, serio and dancer.

HUDDERSFIELD. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy G. Arthur.—Mr. Edmund Tearle and company are here, playing Othello, Hamlet, The Three Musketeers, Julius Cæsar, and Jennie Deans. Othello was the piece chosen to open the week, and the tragedy was capably presented by the cast engaged, Mr. Tearle's strong performance as the Moor being supported by Mr. Wilson Gunning as Iago, Mr. V. O. Crabtree as Cassio, and Miss Esther Tearle as Desdemona.

Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—There is a capital entertainment provided by the Riogoku Family of Japanese Acrobats; Lloyd Morgan, descriptive vocalist; Miss Renée in a clever and refined musical act; Bert Williams, a ventriloquial humorist of the highest excellence; Miss Fanny Wright and Picton Roxburgh, in a sketch entitled Cockie; Miss Sable Fern, a dainty little lady with some popular songs; and new pictures on the Biograph.

HULL.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Wm. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy H. Hutchison's capable company is presenting The Freedom of Suzanne here. A performance of exceptional merit is that of Miss Beatrice Lindlay, who is admirably suited as Suzanne; Mr. Herbert J. Bentley gives a fine representation of Charles Trevor; and Mr. F. G. Thurstans plays in delightful style as Fitzroy Harding.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerold E. Reed.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company is here with the powerful drama entitled The Midnight Mail. Mr. George Harvard is a manly Harry Steyne; Mr. Fred G. Evison is quite at home as Billy Brewer; Mr. Austin Mortimer is well placed as Leonard Royle; Mr. Wentworth supplies a powerful portrayal of Hassan Padisha; Mr. Dobell Lyle submits a fine rendering of Donald Craig; Miss Grace Lester is a charming Mary Steyne; Miss Mildred Carr is well placed as Nancy Brewer; and Lady Phyllis Eustace is ably represented by Miss Hilda Merrilese.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—Merely Mary Ann paid her first visit here this week, and the pathetic little comedy, which was remarkably well played by Messrs. Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company, was accorded a good reception. Mr. Ruper Lister was particularly successful as Lancelot, and Miss Margaret Fareleigh gave a perfect impersonation of the name-part. Mr. J. Cranstoun Neville played smartly as Peter; Mr. W. Collard was sufficiently oily as the Vicar; Miss Ruth Hazlewood and Miss Pauline Emeric as the lodging-house keeper and her daughter caused much amusement; and Miss E. Daw and Miss Margaret Frame put just the requisite amount of vulgarity into their impersonation of the Sisters Trippett.

KEIGHLEY.— QUEEN'S THEATRE.— Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; General-Manager, Mr. R. S. Kendall.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company in The Sin of Her Childhood is proving very attractive this week. Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes scores heavily as Stephen Haysel, playing the part with much power; Mr. Charles Fancourt as the Rev. Alan Grey receives hearty applause; Mr. Frederick Loyd enacts the part of Captain John Therton in an able manner; a bright and breezy performance of Barney O'Reilly is given by Mr. Hugh Brady; Miss Ruth Sheppard is a charming Mary Haysel; and little Dott Moss is pert and attractive, her songs and dances being well received.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Proprietors, J. Bannister Howard, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Herr B. Pareezer. — Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company commenced a short season here this week by presenting The Streets of London. Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's Badger is an excellent performance; and Miss B. Doyle cleverly portrays the spoilt, domineering Alida Crawley. The part of Gideon Crawley has an able exponent in Mr. H. K. Ayliffe; he has a commanding figure, and acts well. Miss G. Hastings-Walton plays the part of Lucy Fairweather sympathetically and intelligently; Mr. Walton B. Freear is quite at home as Jonas Puffy, his song and dance in Act 4 proving popular; Mr. Gerald Jordon does well as Mark Livingstone; Mr. Norman Aveling is responsible for the dual rôle of Captain Fairweather and Paul Fairweather, and Miss Elsie Hastings looks a "boyish" boy in the part of Dan Puffy.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—On Thursday evening Mr. E. Lockwood's company commenced a short engagement of three nights and one matinée with the successful musical comedy, Sergeant Brue. This is the first time the piece has been presented at Leamington, and the attraction proved a very popular one.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—The novel entertainment inaugurated by Mr. Hart at his Bradford Theatre last week opened here on Monday, and has proved an unqualified success, for the experiment has been received with rare enthusiasm by crowded houses. Offenbach's vivacious and melodious trifle, The Rose of Auvergne is first presented, the executants being Miss Stella Gastelle. Mr. Broughton Black, and Mr. H. Scott Russell. Miss Gastelle evinces rare vocal and histrionic abilities in a charming portrayal of Fleurette. The remainder of the evening is taken up by the Follies, a company of remarkably clever vaudeville artists, whose répertoire of burlesque business and vocal and comedy items is truly refreshing and entertaining.

THEATRE ROYAL.— Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—The stirring melodrama Under the Russian Flag retains a strong hold on the public taste, and is attracting good patronage to this "home of drama." Mr. Jack Haddon cuts a manly vigorous figure as the hero, Captain Demetrius; some forcible acting is done by Mr. George Herbert in his part of General Romanoff; whilst Miss Elaine Vanburgh plays the heroine, Vera Vasilloff with decided charm of manner. Much good work is also done by Mr. Bernard Mervyn, Mr. Cecil Melton, and Mr. George Draycott.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.— Mr. Charles Harrington appears on a first visit with The Sailors of the King. The hero, Dick Drake, a lieutenant on H.M.S. Storm, is faithfully portrayed by Mr. Harry Douglas; Mr. T. Vernon Travers as Orrel Drake does some good acting; and the old Admiral is a characteristic and successful effort by Mr. Chas. Harrington. Miss Sylvia Stella makes a captivating heiress and heroine, and the Daisy Dent of Miss Gertrude Sterroll is also a clever and successful effort. Other leading parts are presented by Mr. Walter Farnsworth, Mr. Charles Trevlayne and Mr. Kenneth Black. Some realistic sea pictures and episodes are shown.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—The calculating marvel, Jacques Maudi, is giving a taste of his quality here, and his mental feats arouse great interest and enthusiasm. A clever comedy sketch by Amann and Hartley is a popular feature; Ruby and Laws are diverting in comedy and vocal entertainment; the Delevines score the usual success with their contributions; the Goltz Trio are gymnasts of more than average merit; Prof. Bernar's marionette show is amongst the best ever seen here; a smart comedian appears in Jas. H. Cullen; and Leonie Dixon, vocalist and dancer, and Jessie Merrilees, comedienne, also contribute.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; General Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Mr. John Tiller's clever extravaganza, High Jinks, largely accounts for the crowded state of this popular hall during this present week, and of a smart company Bob Selvidge is particularly successful. George Leyton appears at the bottom of the bill, and his military scena, Boys of the Chelsea School, goes with dash and vigour. Of comedians Ted Young is popular, and Dale and O'Malley are very smart with eccentric business. The Society Quartette sing and dance in good style; a remarkable gymnastic turn is contributed by the Bros. Zampah; and Lily Flexmore (the flexible lady), Ada Twibell (favourite burlesque artist), and Frances Haskoll (vocalist) also contribute.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Sanford and Lyons are at the top of the bill here, and ably fill the position with smart patter and neat dancing. Another eccentric pair are Bell and Henry, who amuse in a similar line; comedy is contributed by George and Edwards; the vocal work of Merton and Rydon is acceptable; Julian Mack is scoring a success; Gus Hindell continues to be popular; an eccentric juggling act by Zarmo is amongst the best features of the bill; and Marie Weston, instrumentalist and speciality dancer, and Irene Rose, comedienne, complete a good bill.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—The Leicester Amateur Music and Dramatic Society hold the boards this week with La Fille du Tambour Majeur.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.— Miss Winifred Chalmers's company is presenting the melodrama, The Master Criminal. Miss Chalmers as Cecile plays with histrionic ability, and Mr. Henry L. Osmond as Telford Lestage (the Master Criminal) is a success. Both Mr. Alexander Haviland as Philip Manners and Mr. Elmore Frith as Ben Beaudy are good. Mr. Harry Cooke is capital as Tommy Dale, and little Ivy Rochefort acts commendably as Winifred Manners.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews.—Miss Hetty King is unquestionably a smart and clever male impersonator and dancer, and well deserves the excellent reception accorded her. Manning's Entertainers are as mirth-provoking as ever in a second edition of The Hotel Boots; Marie Collins, a vivacious comedienne, gets a warm reception; the Reed-Oetzmanns create laughter in their comic pantomime, On Tour in the Tyrol; Mason and Bart are first-rate gymnasts; Frank Dunlop is an entertaining comic singer; Mora and Lola give a capital musical display; Lady Fauntleroy's ventriloquial turn secures merited appreciation; Victor Newman, who deputises for R. H. Douglass, impersonates in a lifelike manner Sir Henry Irving as Mathias, and also gives an excellent performance as Svengali; and the American Bioscope also depicts a new series of up-to-date subjects.

PAVILION THEATRE. — Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—The leading feature in this week's programme is the romantic and dramatic episode (from the French) entitled Husband or Child? which is well presented by Forbes, Murray, and company. Tiny Arnold, a diminutive artist, is receiving a warm welcome; Francisco is smart juggler and equilibrist; the Murrays create much laughter in their absurdity, The Star Twins; May Moodie shines with her piccolo solos; Frances Manners in her musical scena, Good Old Days, is both seen and heard to advantage; Joe Dale, chorus singer, also entertains; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, always a popular feature at this hall, is retained.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Dewhurst.—Mr. Lawrence Brough and company opened here on Monday with The Lady of Ostend. Mr. Lawrence Brough causes much laughter by his impersonation of the Frenchman; Mr. Henry Hampson makes a conspicuous success as Dick Whortles; and Mr. Charles Groves, jun., is also to be complimented on his excellent portrayal of Joseph Carbury. Miss Kate Milford makes a captivating Dorothy Whortles; Miss Edith Ormonde was successful as Millie Grace; and Miss Dorcas Corsbie cleverly presented the character of Matilda Carbury.

LEITH. — NEW GAIETY THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke's musical play, The Naval Detective, is being staged here. Mr. Kirke enacts the title-rôle, and appears in all his various guises with the greatest success. He is ably supported by Messrs. Harold Wallace, Mark Practice, B. Leighton, Charles Burns, and Joe Plant. Special mention should be made of Miss Louie Fountaine, who sustains three parts, one of them a sailor boy, all with distinct success. The Sisters Gladys and Elsie Allen introduce their clever international dances, and Miss Edith Claris, Miss Gladys Claney, Miss Annie Brunette, and Miss Lily Seymour also appear to advantage.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—A hearty welcome has this week been given to Lady Madcap. The company sent by Mr. George Edwardes is the same as on the former occasion. Miss Marie Studholme is the life and soul of the merry comedy in her assumption of the title-rôle. Mr. Arthur Longley, first "swell" trooper, and then amateur butler, provoked uproarious laughter; the diminutive Corporal Ham, presented by Mr. E. Statham Staples, proved one of the most popular as well as one of the best figures in the cast; Messrs. Robert Hall and Oliver Round, as the adventurers, contributed largely to the merriment; the graceful acting of Mr. Ernest Mahar as the wooer, and his rendering in French of "My Irish Molly," "Bill Bailey," and other well-known songs, were a most acceptable feature; Miss Nina Sevening played sweetly the rôle of Gwennie Holden; and Miss Mabel Russell as the lady's maid was vivacious, and danced charmingly.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Lessees, the Shakespeare Theatre Co., Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—The management of this popular theatre has made a bold move in booking Peter Pan for three weeks, with matinées every Wednesday and Saturday. Such enterprise establishes a record in Liverpool, and time alone will show whether the venture is a wise one. So far the bookings have proved satisfactory, and as nothing but praise is heard on all hands in regard to the exquisite production, the financial results ought to leave no cause for regret. Regarding "extended" engagements, however, the Mersey city has generally proved somewhat erratic and uncertain. At all events, the Shakespeare people deserve success, even if they cannot command it, for the beautiful conception of Mr. J. M. Barrie has come as a great artistic treat to playgoers here. Nothing like it has been witnessed before in Liverpool, and there is a general and unanimous chorus of praise in its behalf. Not alone the sweet simplicity of the theme, with its peeps into fairyland, but the wonderful stage pictures, so pleasing to the eye, and the mechanical effects of cunning construction, have afforded the utmost satisfaction to all who have visited the theatre during the week. Miss Cecilia Loftus, as the merry sprite, speedily won the affections of her audience, whose measure of applause was cordial and unstinted; Miss Hilda Trevelyan proved a sweet Wendy Darling; the make-up and manner of Mr. Loring Fernie was quite in keeping with his excellent portrayal of the Pirate Captain; Miss Enid Spencer-Brunton handled the small part of Mrs. Darling with credit; and all the juveniles in the cast showed a high degree of qualification. The play is presented by Mr. Charles Frohman, and will not, we understand, be produced anywhere else in the Lancashire district.

ROTUNDA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—The sensational drama A Traitor Prince, from the pen of George De Gray, has been played here this week by Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's company. Mr. G. M. Montanni held the part of Prince Dalmirez, playing with much intensity and dramatic power; Miss Nita Langford displayed high accomplishments as Vashti; Mr. Ernest A. Duval was a manly Lieut. Derrick; Mr. Edmond O'Grady created much humour as Billy Bright; as did Mr. Edward Fenton in the part of the Hon. Bobby Dalrymple. Two rôles, Richard and Colonel Vane, were ably undertaken by Mr. A. W. Norman; and Miss Clara O'Grady was satisfactory as Mrs. Blossom.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—An entertaining programme here is headed by the Six Brothers Luck, in their sketch The Hotel Grande, wherein their antics and patter create continuous and uproarious laughter. Stewart and Morgan are artistic and finished singers; the Three Seymours, clever and daring gymnasts; Maxford and O'Neill, laughable comedians; Gus Garrick, a popular eccentric; and Mamie Iris, a pleasing entertainer. The bioscope comes in for special attention.

STAR THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—At Duty's Call, an interesting military play, has been produced here by Mr. John Gerant and company. Mr. Gerant as the villainous Harold Allison sustains the greater part of the hard work, and acts with much dramatic power; Mr. Leonard Williams is a capital Captain Allison; as General Gordon Mr. Ernest St. John wins popularity; Miss Edith Knight is a charming Dora Drummond; and Miss Georgina Hamilton does credit to the rôle of Salema.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—The Drama of Life, from the pen of Mr. Lingford Carson, is here this week with the author's own company. Mr. George M. Newall proved an admirable Harry Beech; a meritorious Sylvia was presented by Miss Kate Hallam; Mr. Edward M. Hamilton made the most of Walter Beech; a deal of amusement followed the movements of Sir Dobson Wilde, impersonated by Mr. Harwood Roberts; Miss Florence French assisted in the comedy with her Lady Wilde; and Mr. Edward Van Biene filled the rôle of Count Foi satisfactorily.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—At the top of the programme this week is Eugene Stratton, who has proved a great draw; Madge Temple, a winsome vocalist, met with a hearty reception for her delightful songs; Mike S. Whallen, the laughtermaker, was in fine form; a humorous comedy duologue, Two to One, came from the Findens; Ernie Mayne, as a comedian, caused great fun; Albert Whelan proved a pleasing turn at the piano; Terley executed some particularly clever models in clay; and others who appeared were La Tostia, mandolinist; Ralph and Nellie Howard, musicians; Max York's clever dogs; and Les Suprisks, lady gymnasts.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Owing to the great success that followed their appearance last week, Arthur Roberts and his sketch company have been retained for another six nights, playing the exceedingly funny trifle, Where's the Count? Another mirth-provoking turn is that submitted by Radford and Valentine, the juggling jesters; Florrie Forde is heartily cheered for her latest songs; as comedy acrobats the Schiavonis are notably good; Downes and Langford are a clever couple of comedians and dancers; Charlie Williams is funny as a Scotch coon comedian; Ada and Setta Poole are acceptable as society entertainers; and others in the list include Charles Somers, comedian; George Grogie, the Sussex yokel; and Maud Esmond, burlesque artist. The English Cup football contest of Saturday last was shown very realistically by the Bioscope.

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—A local favourite comedian, Will Hebden, heads the bill here this week, and brings several of his latest songs; Billy Kelly, with his laughable "Walk, walk, walk," assisted by a variety of peculiar pedestrians, has proved an excellent turn; as a comedy juggler, Monti affords every satisfaction; Pete Dwight and son are speciality artists and dancers of no mean order; Will Daniels has some funny songs and patter; and Amy Linton is a most creditable comedienne and dancer.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Royal stock dramatic company are producing Her Wedding Day, in six tableaux, a sketch which has been received with much favour. Miss Lina Nazeby played with considerable skill the part of the heroine Madge Conway; Mr. Percy Boucher humorously presented Lothario Caccles; Mr. Harry Tresham made an excellent Harold Saxby; the rôle of Weedon Kenyon was in the safe hands of Mr. Herbert Cecil; the Sam Klink of Mr. Cecil Ravenswood proved acceptable; Miss Sara Blumenthal displayed much ability as Jemima Caccles; and Miss Beryl Ravenswood effectively held the character of Dora. Some capital pictures were shown by the bioscope.

PADDINGTON PALACE. — Proprietors, the Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The principal item here this week is the three tableaux sketch, The Miser, produced by Mr. W. L. Lee and company; Davis and Roberts, a smart pair of variety artists, who were discovered by Mr. Edwin W. Smith, of the Parthenon, performing in the street, gave a most satisfactory turn; Walter Aubrey, fresh from pantomime, has several taking songs; as comedians and dancers, the Sisters Kennedy are exceedingly pleasing; and Marie Doust does well as a comedienne.

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, the Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The Three Schaffers are foremost here this week with their gladiatorial exhibition; the terriers and "Dot," the cake-walk pony, shown by Miss Fredrica, display a remarkable degree of training; as comical acrobats, Burley and Burley raise a deal of laughter; Sydney Carden and Zulu Zesch provide a neat society entertainment; smart burlesque artists and novelty dancers are the Melroses; Fred Horsfall affords satisfaction as a humorist and mimic; Miss Queena Barnes does well as a character comedienne; and Tom E. Hughes, versatile character comedian, also appears.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Hector and Paulus, smart comedy gymnasts, are at the head of the bill here this week; the Sisters Terry sing several pleasing duets; James Newery is particularly eccentric; Emmie Ames has a neat vocal scena, "Beneath the Shadow of Big Ben"; and Harry Bancroft sings some popular descriptive pieces.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager. Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Heading a lengthy bill here this week are Carter Livesey and Lilian Rosebery, assisted by Albert Mason, with the laughable skit, The Would-be Actors Rehearsing a Drama; Ford and Hanson, "the musical millionaires," provide an interesting turn; Shavo and Frank as vocalists and comedy jugglers, are well worth witnessing; the Ashmoles provide some smart speciality work; J. A. Cassels is a Scotch comedian of merit; and others on the list are Queenie Lewis, chic comedienne, and Dan Agar, comedian.

OLYMPIA.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—Wilkie Bard, always popular in Liverpool, has proved a strong attraction here this week, and has been cordially welcomed; another favourite is Ella Shields, who, among other pieces, gives her latest success, "My Cotton Blossom Lou"; Denton and Rowland's company, in The Punch and Judy Girls song-scena, including Miss Marjorie Lawrence, have been loudly applauded; Tom Owen, the new Welsh comedian, had a gratifying reception; Nellie Stratton gave dainty songs in her well-known admirable style: the Warsaw Brothers proved exceedingly diverting; some charming singing was provided by the Celtic Comedy Trio; clever and funny were the Rinaldos with their balancing feats; and two able comedians, Fred E. Terry and Walter Stanley, appeared with credit to themselves. The bioscope showed an excellent film of Saturday's football cup final.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—The first three nights of the week The Dandy Doctor was the attraction here. Mr. Edmund Russel as Melchisadeck Brown creates unbounded hilarity; and Miss Norah Melton is genuinely comical as Jane. Miss May Yates is all animation and bightness as Ivy Pendred, and her dancing is charming; Mr. Leslie Martin is distinctly clever in the rôle of Bertie Bolingbroke, and Mr. James Danvers makes a good Colonel Pendred.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E Graham Falcon; Business-Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—The Christian is being presented here this week by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company. Mr. F. Ranson Buckley, as the Hon. John Storm, gives a powerful impersonation of the part; Parson Quayle is well represented by Mr. Percy Johnson; Archdeacon Wealthy is finely portrayed by Mr. Colin Johnstone; Mr. P. Gedge Twyman is capital as Lord Robert Ure; as Glory Quayle Miss Grace Murielle gives an admirable portrayal; Miss Florence Radcliffe is good as Polly Love. The company is under the direction of Miss Marie Beckenham.

MAIDENHEAD.— THE PAVILION.— Proprietor, Mr. George Gude.—This week's programme is very entertaining. Harry Bromley and Eva West contribute a comedy duologue; Harry Monkhouse, comedian, appears; Sara Yost (lady baritone) sings well; and Galino is successful, especially in a laughing song. Sidney JONES is well received in musical sketches; Gus Daniels, character vocalist, sings exceptionally well; and Wragg and Wragg earn applause with their remarkable exhibition of swordsmanship. A good selection of animated pictures concludes the performance.

MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. G. Howard Watson.—The following are included in a good programme here this week: Cline and Clarke, duettists and dancers, who give a smart exhibition of sand dancing; Hague and Russell in a comedy duologue Your Loving Aunt; Roland Hill, an amusing comedian; the Dunvilles, in a clever musical act; Miss Daisy Morell, comedienne and vocalist; Harry Bent, mimic in "A Peep Into the Music Halls"; Miss Carlotta Lunn, comedienne; and the Bioscope.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—Miss Ada Blanche and Mr. Lionel Rignold and company, in What the Butler Saw, is again the attraction at this house, after a very successful week.

PRINCE'S THEATRE, LTD. — Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Manchester playgoers should congratulate themselves on the opportunity of witnessing such an excellent répertoire of Old English plays as those presented by Mr. Edward Compton and his thoroughly efficient company during the current week. On Monday night, before an appreciative though only moderately filled house, a brilliant performance was given of the popular Davy Garrick, in which Mr. Compton made his 1314th appearance in the title-rôle with his accustomed great success. As Violet Miss Mackenzie contributed a nice and tactful performance; Mr. H. Crocker gave a masterly rendering of Alderman Gresham; and Mr. A. B. Imeson made a distinct hit as the Hon. Tom Tallyhaut. Other parts were played by Mr. Herbert Pigot, Mr. Arnold Lucy, Mr G. W. Johnston, Mr. Reginald E. Besant, Mr H. Armstrong, and the Misses M. Hassell and Muriel Meek, all of whom acted with neatness and discretion, while the dresses were elaborate, and the scenery correspondingly excellent. A one-act comedy, The Desperate Lover, preceded, in which Mr. A. B. Imeson, Miss Mackenzie, and Miss Evelyn Hall were particularly successful. On Tuesday an equally fine performance of The School for Scandal was given, followed by a matinée on Wednesday of She Stoops to Conquer, and in the evening a most enjoyable rendering of Mr. Compton's record success, To-Morrow, the remainder of the week being filled in with a revival of Lord Lytton's comedy Money, the Haymarket comedy New Men and Old Acres, and a repetition of Davy Garrick.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—The Easter pantomime of Puss in Boots entered upon its second week here on Monday, with every indication of completing its three-weeks' run successfully.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Last week's highly successful attraction at the Grand Junction Theatre, The Life of a Showman, is transferred here this week, and proved quite to the liking of Monday's audience. Mr. George Testo Santé and his company are efficient throughout.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The Cavilina Troupe, in their clever and enjoyable comedy act, are the top attraction here this week. Prominent also are the Andreassens, the Danish midshipmen, whose "sport" is extremely good. Stanley and Vandyke give a pleasing sketch, entitled A Broken Promise; Lily Gaston is a clever dancer and male impersonator; Annie Cohen comedienne, sings very acceptably; Grapho and Jackson are seen in a novel quick-change act called The Café Riche; Bert Kemp, lightning cartoonist, is clever; Sam Shipley, eccentric comedian and dancer, adds much to the entertainment; Phillips and Merritt give a smart American comedy act; and Beatrice Worth, comedienne, provides an enjoyable turn.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Richard Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Gus Flanagan.—Mr. Ian Maclaren's company is here in the detective drama, The Prince of Rogues. The heroic part of Frank Farrell is played well by Mr. Alec W. Wynne, and he finds an excellent partner in Miss Dorothy Riddell as Winnie Harwood. Mr. George Rammell is capital as Geoffrey Flint, the rogue upon whose machinations Gilbert Kenry, the detective, is set to work in the person of Mr. Henry B. Lewis; and as Rita Congreve, a woman with a past, Miss Georgina V. Thomas adds conspicuously to the sinister interest. Among the remainder of the capable cast Mr. Sidney Fairbrother gives a clever depiction of Harwood, the gambler-millionaire, and Mr. James Fox is well suited in the rôle of Dick. The staging is good.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Sutton Vane's sensational drama, A Wife's Triumph, was presented here on Monday by Mr. Ernest R. Abbott and a powerful company. Mr. Abbott plays Frank Wilton, the cashier, in excellent style, and Miss Ada Abbott takes advantage of her fine opportunities as Bessie Dewhurst; while as Robert Dewhurst, the Squire, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps makes a distinct success, and Mr. Edwin Keene gives an admirable impersonation of Ben Bradford. The two betting-men, Jordan and Hartman, are cleverly rendered by Mr. W. H. Garbois and Mr. Weedon Ross; Mr. D. Pentland gives a good idea of Rylan, the American sportsman; and among the minor parts Miss Marjorie Tennant contributes a smart and amusing depiction of Margery Crib, the Yorkshire servant.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—A spirited version of Dumas' novel, "Monte Cristo," is staged here this week under the direction of Mr. Junius Booth, the American actor, who gives a successful rendering of the central part. The story is carried through four acts, after an elaborate prologue which occupies three scenes in itself, and the whole staging is managed in picturesque and effective style. Mr. Junius Booth's skilled efforts as the Count of Monte Cristo are well supported, principally by Mr. Laurence Grove as Mondego and Mr. Walter Uridge as Villefort, the King's attorney; while Miss Joan Ellis acts cleverly as Mercedes, Miss Doris Regan is pleasing as Sophie Danglers, and Miss Kate Maynard gives a good delineation of La Caronte.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Wal Pink's "workmen" are here this week in Repairs, an absurdity concocted solely to raise laughter; Datas, the human almanac, creates considerable interest with his wonderful memory; Rosie Archer is a first-rate mimic, and is well received; and Howard and Collinson are particularly good in their Porter and Parcel sketch. The Bros. Bright are clever and graceful gymnasts; and the Three Sisters Silcott are pleasing vocalists and dancers. Other enjoyable items are those of Amy Anderson and company, Ted Cowan (comedian), and J. T. McMillan (a capital Scotch comedian). As usual, the Palace pictures are good.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Managers, Messrs. H. Hall and H. Pryme.—The top star here this week is La Berat, as the Mystic Fire Maiden, whose illuminated dancing is but feebly described as the most beautiful act of its kind upon the stage. Another really delightful turn is that of Cruikshank, whose style in song and story is at once a novelty and a treat. To these are added the remarkably fine contributions of Elsie Molloy and company, in The Lady Bankrupt; Eugen Joly, a marvellous performer on the cornet; the Ten Genis, in an elaborate Risley act; the Twin Bros. Dean, whose simultaneous dancing is an exhibition worth going a long way to see; Alf Chester, comedian, whose laughing-song is a big hit; Eric Dare and company, in a bright scena, The Reservist; Helen Mar, the American raconteuse, and the bioscope.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—A new and extraordinary exhibition of the uncanny is given here this week by Menetekel, whose doings are reminiscent of the supernatural writing on the wall of old. An extremely pretty spectacle is Canty's Mystic Grotto, which introduces Mlle. De Sylva, the mysterious lady, among wonderful effects of light. Other enjoyable features of the programme are Brett and Orford, who give their well-known act successfully; the Jack Theo trio of skilled equilibrists; the Wolkowsky troupe of Russian singers and dancers; Herbert Lloyd, "the King of Diamonds," an amusing comedian; Billy McClain's coloured sextette of dancers and sketch artists (including Mme. Cordelia); and the Sisters Klos, a clever duo. In addition the choir render a part-song by Pinsuti, an illustrated song by Pontet is rendered by J. F. Headlam and the choir, and the bioscope.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Mlle. Eugénie Fougére, the charming Parisian "chanteuse," tops the bill here this week, and delights all with her excellent singing. The Harvey Boys, well-known boxing comedians, are screamingly funny in their item The Fighting Dummy; Mark Anthony is a humorist of the first water; the Three Rubys show much cleverness in their equipoise, acrobatic, and trapeze act; and Flo Watson is a pleasing character-vocalist. Other good turns are those of Charles Woodward (actor-vocalist), Florrie Bray (comedienne), Joe Oliver (singer of coon songs), Mlle. Leona (comedienne and dancer), and Raymond's vivagraph.

KING'S LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The principal attraction here this week is provided by Edwin Garth and his company in the farcical sketch, McKenna in Love. The combination is highly successful and a big draw, quite a long cast being employed, of whom the principals are Edwin Garth and Joe English. In the programme also are Wallace Whitney, character-comedian, who presents a variety of smart and amusing impersonations; Beattie Foster, a singer of character songs of the low-comedy order; and an amusing series of pictures on the bioscope.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—This week's programme includes the popular actor-author, Mr. Walter Howard, and company, in a farcical sketch, entitled Spiff! Spaff! Spoof! which causes much amusement. Tom White's Arabs are a troupe of juvenile comedians, who contribute funny sayings and songs; the Three Clements give a clever and daring gymnastic display; the Rayners are wonderful contortionists; Fred Mason whistles in an acceptable manner; Greener achieves much success with plaintive ballads sung in good style; Gilroy and Gross are expert dancers and laughable comedians; J. C. Laurie scores with his "Walk" song; and Babs Grimshaw is a particularly clever child vocalist and male impersonator.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—After a successful week at the King's Mr. Harry Roxbury and company are here this week in The Prince of Monte Carlo, the whimsicalities of Mr. Roxbury and his capable company causing no end of laughter. Leo Tell is an excellent mimic, and meets with a good reception; and Ben Harris and his famous Nippers provide a good speciality scene. Happy Attwood is a quaint comedian; and the songs rendered by Edna Grey (ballad vocalist) and Jessie Albini (comedienne) prove very acceptable. Kendrick and Laura possess good voices and dance exceedingly well, and Frank Whiteley contributes a bone solo. The pictures include the Final Cup Tie at the Crystal Palace.

MANSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Morella and Jennings; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. Jennings.—Messrs. Leon Wood and A. P. Allen-Tower's company is here in The Hindustanee. Miss Dolly Ross as the Hindustanee Princess sang and acted well; the part of Dr. Cody Jones was admirably taken by Mr. Arthur E. Behan; and Mr. George Barr was amusing as King Kawfee. Good dancing turns were given by the Maharanee Troupe, and Mlle. Joseline proved herself an efficient soloist. The Three Behans were also responsible for specialities.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Exclusive Manager, Mr. Edward Michael.—This week the resident stock company, under the direction of Mr. A. Austin-Leigh, has been playing The Middleman. Mr. O. P. Haggie is seen to great advantage as Cyrus Blenkharn; Mr. A. Austin-Leigh sustains the rôle of Joseph Chandler cleverly; Mr. Henderson Bland is effective as Captain Julian Chandler; Mr. Edward Mervyn as the manager, Batty Todd, is good; and Mr. Percy Goodyear is excellent as Jesse Pegg. Miss Emmie O'Reilly plays charmingly as Mrs. Chandler, and both Mrs. Culling and Miss Lillian Rogers cleverly sustain the rôles respectively of Mary and Nancy, Blenkarn's daughters. Miss Violet Agnew capably fills the part of Maude Chandler, and good support is given, among other members of the company contributing to the success of the production, by Miss Madge Herrick, Lady Umfreville; Mr. J. E. Savery, Sir Seaton Umfreville; Mr. Claude Agnew, Vachell; Miss Dora Laney, Felicia Umfreville; and Mr. J. K. Lord. Daneper.

THE HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—This week's programme includes Harry Freeman, comedian; Dorothy Veld, comedienne and dancer; Frank Gee, comedian; Sisters Aindow, musical experts; Billy Hobbs, dancer and comedian; Anthony, the mystic man in white; and the usual series of Animated Pictures—the whole of the turns being much appreciated.

MERTHYR TYDFIL. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson.—Mr. Charles Carte and company are revisiting here this week with A Noble Brother. Mr. Carte repeats his well-known impersonation of Jerry the Tramp, and is well supported by Miss Doris all his well-known artistic ability, and his elocutionary powers furnished evidence of his being a worthy pupil of a worthy master. The Richard Houseman of Mr. Charles J. Cameron was a capital piece of stage rascality. Mr. Charles Glenney proved himself to an artist in comedy in the rôle of Squire Upjohn; Mr. Fred Wright, sen., as Squire Orchard (Aram's victim) was excellent; Mr. Percy Anstey acted with spirit as Walter Orchard; Miss Colridge as Madeline Orchard made a sympathetic heroine; Miss N. de Silva infused a great amount of spirit into her part of Nancy Orchard. On Tuesday and Wednesday A Cigarette Maker's Romance was presented. The Breed of the Treshams will occupy the boards to-day. The event of the week was the production on Friday by Mr. Harvey (for the first time on any stage) of The Rapparee Trooper.

The Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clarke.—This week the boards are occupied by an American drama by Malcolm Douglas, entitled A Fight for Millions. It is presented by the company of Mr Robert Perris, who successfully undertakes the leading rôle. The drama is well staged, and contains many incidents of a thrilling and sensational character. Other parts are taken by Mr. Geo. Beresford, Mr. W. Wynne, Mr. Karl H. Edwards, Miss Elma C. Turner, Miss Audrey Sutherland, and Miss Lottie Pearce. A most attractive item in the programme is the cinematograph representation of the Final Cup Tie at the Crystal Palace on Saturday.

Grand Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Mr. Alfred B. Cross's company is appearing here this week in the favourite play The Manxman. Mr. Cross himself undertakes the rôle of Pete, and right well does he succeed in presenting this character to the satisfaction of one and all. Mr. Sydney C. Kearns contributes an intelligent rendering of Phillip Christian; very prominent is the Cæsar Creegan of Mr. David Phillips; Mr. Arthur J. Moss submits a capital study of Tom; and Mr. George Marriot, jun., is a capable Ross Christian. Miss Mona Spearing scores an artistic success as Miss Christian; Miss Nancy Mitchell is deserving of praise as Nancy; and Miss Minnie Watersford is equally successful as Kate Creegan.

Empire Theatre.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy.—Mr. George Gray and company appear with success in The Fighting Parson; Tom Costello proves his versatility with his character-study of The Old Clown; Johnson and Dean, the coloured fashion plates, win favourable comment on their sprightly dancing; the popular song, "Put a bit away for a rainy day" is artistically treated by the Sisters Jonghmanns; Venie Clements is a winsome and fascinating mimic and dancer; Fred Russell repeats his well-known ventriloquial act; the efforts of Athas and Collins, comedy artists, arouse much merriment; and Charles Lilburn, eccentric comedian, is distinctly good.

Pavilion Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Arthur Prince, the well-known ventriloquist, assumes command in this week's programme, and scores an instantaneous success. Ida Rene is also an immense favourite; Rumbo Austin and his gang of navvies create roars of laughter; particularly pretty are the electrical effects that attend Effie White in her kaleidoscopic dance; and the Akimotos troupe of jugglers and equilibrists perform some clever and daring feats. W. J. Churchill, comedian and patterer, is accorded a hearty reception; and the three Sisters May, vocalists and dancers; Austin and Cowan, vocalists; and the Barrascope, with interesting football photographs, are excellent attractions.

NEWPORT.—Lyceum.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. Frank E. Burdett's company is playing The Indian Mutiny here this week. Miss F. Melrose Millett gives a capital representation of Ghuz-nah; Nebu Singh is effectively presented by Mr. Villiers Stanley; Ra Goonga is ably depicted by Mr. Ernest Keand; and Mr. J. S. Seddon makes a crafty Abul Khan. Mr. Cyril Harrison submits a good performance of the British officer Capt. Manley; and Mr. George Scully is a humorous Terry O'Brien. Mr. Geo. Steel (Lieut. Manley), Mr. Jno. Davidson (Major Ingleby), and Miss Lillie Grey (Kate Ingleby), all aid the success of the piece.

Empire (Moss' Empires, Ltd.).—Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—Mr. Fred Karno's sketch company in Moses and Son heads the bill here, and is responsible for much amusement. The Andos troupe of Jap gymnasts score a success; Walter Bellonini's dexterity in juggling is applauded; and Rezene and Robini convulse the house with their sketch The Policeman and the Baby. Rose Coleman gives a clever exhibition of sand dancing; Harry Colin and Ernest Heathcote are amusing comedians; and the bioscope shows some up-to-date pictures.

NORTHAMPTON.—Opera House.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—The Still Alarm is being presented here this week. Mr. Matthew H. Glenville acts well the part of Jack Manley; Mr. Cecil du Gue is well placed as John Bird; Mr. F. Osmond is amusing in the character part of Doc Wilber; and Mr. Tom Beasley is sincere and convincing as Willie Manley. Miss Maud Warburton is a pretty and animated Elinore Fordham; Miss Hettie Zillwood a lively Carrie Wilbur, her songs and dance being well received; and Miss Mabel Veriton is good as Mrs. Manley.

Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—Harriett Vernon, the well-known burlesque actress, who is paying us another visit, provides the star turn here this week, and has presented some of her latest successes, including "The Lilac Girl," with special scenery and effects. Miss Vernon has also delighted her audiences with some of her old favourites. Sydney Lee furnishes some card and other illusions; the Sisters Spencer appear in a medley song; Henry Carlton, comedian, plays the part of a window-cleaner in a boisterous sketch; Will Hicks gives a good example of his abilities as a comic singer; The Percys, duettists and dancers, submit a couple of lively numbers; and the Palace Pictures provide a fresh series of interesting subjects.

NORTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The boards here this week have been occupied by Mr. Evan Roland's company with The Guilty Man. Mr. Harold Lewis acquits himself in satisfactory style as George Seymour; Mr. Alfred D. Adams as James Redman does justice to the part; Mr. Hill Cremer makes the most of Sir Lawrence Farrant; Mr. Leonard Anthony gives a good interpretation of General Seymour; and Mr. Henry S. Dacre is successful as Esau Hebron. As Audrey Priestley Miss Lily Lewis is well received; Miss Sybil Haughton appears to advantage as Sukie Barton; Miss Muriel Inglis is an efficient Nell Radford; and the remaining characters are well sustained.

Central Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—The popular comedian, Mr. George Ripon, is the star here and has come in for an enthusiastic reception. The Bollingers, the rag pickers of Paris, are clever; Mlle. Ada Gatley, wire artist and juggler, does some smart feats; Kid Johnson and Maisie Pelham in The Golf Match are well received; and Miss Maude Clifton (comedienne), Saternon (jumping expert), and the Bio-Photoscope meet with favour.

NORTHWICH.—Pierrot Pavilion.—The Royal Pierrot Co., Manager, Mr. Arthur Smethurst.—The Pavilion is packed nightly. Miss Jeannie Mackay is again pleasing everyone with her admirable singing; Miss Gertie Fraser is also re-engaged, and sustains the good impression she made last week; The Hustlers are successful both in their sketch and songs; Mr. Alfred Brookes, comedian, sings humorous songs which cause much amusement; Max Palette's rough-haired terrier is a highly intelligent dog, and Palette himself is a wonderfully quick sketch artist; Mr. Glanmore Jones, the genial stage-manager, is again to the fore in his selections.

NORWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. F. R. Benson's company in répertoire of Shakespearean plays opened here on Monday, and gave an excellent rendering of The Taming of the Shrew. Mr. Henry Herbert did well as Petruchio, and Miss Dorothy Green was an admirable exponent of Katherine. Baptista was carefully rendered by Mr. Lionel Bevan, and Miss Kate Turner as Bianca and Mr. Bernard Limpus as Lucentio were successful. On Tuesday The Merry Wives of Windsor was presented, and on Wednesday Romeo and Juliet, Thursday Hamlet, and Friday, The School for Scandal.

Agricultural Hall Assembly Rooms.—Mr. Jury's Bioscope Pictures conclude their season this week, and the variety company as well as the pictures have been much appreciated.

NOTTINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—A Queen Without a Crown was presented here on Monday for the first time on any stage, and a full report of the new production appears in another column.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Charles P. Cooke.—The Price of Her Soul, a powerful drama by Wm. Hibbert, occupies this stage here. The company is under the management of Mr. John B. Shinton and Mr. Alexander Greenwood. Mr. Shinton himself takes charge of the principal rôle, and as Lord Rolfe Manderville, V.C., has plenty of opportunity for the exercise of his undeniable talents. Mr. Archie Gear makes an excellent Russian General, and Mr. Annesley Hely also plays the part of a military officer very commendably. Miss Ada M. Ryder acts skilfully as Countess Steinmetz, and Miss Mona Gray depicts with great force the character of Olga Lanovitz. Little Ida Thompson is good as the child, and Miss Ina Merrivale does well as Nadine. Mr. Edwin Coates causes much amusement by his droll realisation of the Hon. Algy Fraser, and clever work is presented by Mr. Sydney Ross as Capt. Jack Lawton. Miss Ada Arnott, Mr. Will Percy, and Miss Tina Frank are responsible for the comedy parts, and the remaining characters are depicted by competent artists.

King's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—Dr. Carl Hermann, as the principal attraction, gives an amazing exhibition of hypnotism and electrical surprises. The Three Bostonians are clever, and their singing and dancing finished and graceful; Vernon and Burdell provoke a great deal of merriment by their comedy sketch. What Price Me? Lillian and Clown are a remarkable attraction as contortionists; the Scotch comedian seems to be coming to the front more than ever, and of the many Jock Walker has claims to distinction which cannot be ignored. Masie Calder as a coon singer can have very little, if anything, to learn, and Baddow has attained considerable proficiency in the ventriloquial art. A programme of considerable merit brings itself to a close with an exhibition of Raymond's Bio-tableaux.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Managing Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—A very dainty little comedy, presented by Edouin and Edwards, provides the principal attraction here this week. Unthan, the armless wonder, pays another visit, and secures his usual gratifying reception. Miss Josephine Sabel comes for the first time, and her quaint antics, comical singing, and unending flow of spirits bespeak for her unmistakable welcome. The Manningos are equilibrists of no inconsiderable merit, and the Violas present a mystifying exhibition of second sight. A stage spectacle of unusual brilliance accompanies the turn called Electra's Bower, which is given by Alma, Abdullah, and La Superbe. Ethel Ra Leslie sings very sweetly and dresses daintily, and Madge Carlyle is a singer who is well worth listening to. An exceptionally clever gymnastic display is that of Four Skandias, while Geoffreys and Benson are responsible for a comical sketch entitled Spoofed.

NUNEATON.—Prince of Wales Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Benton's company is here this week, with A Life's Story and A Marriage of Vengeance. In the former play on Monday Mr. Benton as Tom Berry won much praise; Miss Harrison-Tate scored a decided success as Zeika; Miss Cora Linde was a good Beatrice; and Miss Ruby Belasco a capable Rosa. Mr. Seymour Perry extracted fun from the part of Toni; Mr. Max Coutts made an excellent Count Bergen; and Mr. Chas. E. Linney was well fitted to the part of Capt. Jack Temple. Mr. A. L. Baron did good work in the double rôle of Max and Frank Clifford; and Mr. T. Arthur Plummer appears successfully as Lieut. Hugo.

OLDHAM.—Empire Theatre.—Manager, Mr. E Dottridge; Asistant-Manager, Mr. Hulme.—Variety takes the place of musical comedy this week, Chung Ling Soo heading the bill, his performance of various feats of mystery being greatly appreciated; Les Rallis, as the "Artist and the Monkey," give a capital turn, and are well received, as are the Selbinies, in a pot pourri of cycling juggling; Martini and Son are excellent in their illustrated songs, and Mr. and Mrs. Lucas give three scenes from Dickens's works in good style. The Five Zerbinis are good in their musical fantasia, Hambo and Frisco Drawee, in a comical juggling absurdity, are funny, and Starr and Jerome give some capital songs and dances. G. W. Hunter, comedian, is as good as ever, and Ida Ross sings Tyrolean songs nicely, Susie Beavan, a charming vocalist, also contributes. Miss Florence Baines took a complimentary benefit on the 20th inst., and an excellent programme was provided.

Colosseum Theatre.—Manager, Mr. J. Ball: Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Eastwood.—This week the Britt-Nelson fight for the light-weight championship is being shown on the Bioscope. Mr. Fred Stainton, a local vocalist, also appears.

Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant, Mr. Howgate.—A capital star company is engaged here this week. The Sarnthaler Troupe, Tyrolean vocalists, get a good reception; Selkirk's juvenile sketch, All Scotch, is a fine spectacle, performed by 100 Oldham juveniles in a very able manner; Holden's Mannikins are worked in a realistic manner; Lillie Soutter, comedienne, who pays a return visit, is a great favourite; Ryder Slone sings his ditties in capital style; Brady Johnston and Co., in their sketch, Turning the Tables, cause roars of laughter; Les Voce are very good in operatic selections, and Stephen Blythe, actor vocalist, appears to great advantage.

Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Nuttall.—E. R. Dainez, with his comedy circus, is at the top of the bill here; the Bouncing Dillons give a capital show; Sid Cotterell and Co., in The Substitute, provide some genuine comedy; the McDonald Trio give a novel musical entertainment, and Lena Brunton is good in her impersonations of music hall stars; Fentoni, with his smoke pictures, and Little Barney, "the small Scotch," along with the Dottoscope, are also in the bill.

OXFORD.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—This week we are having a first visit of Mr. George Dance's company in The Little Michus, which was received on Monday night by a crowded house with every sign of approval and delight. Mr. J. Clifford sings delightfully and acts well as Gaston Rignold; Mr. D. FitzGibbon is admirably suited as Aristide; Mr. Cecil Clayton is highly amusing as Bagnolet, and dances very quaintly; Mr. T. E. Conover is capital as Pierre Michu; and Mr. Leslie Holland convulses the house with laughter by his droll performance of General des Ifs. Miss Florence Hylton is very good indeed as Madame Michu; while the Little Michus find most piquant and charming representatives in Miss Alice Coverick and Miss Gracie Sinclaire, whose arch acting and delightful singing quite bring down the house. Mlle. Marjorie contributes some exquisite dances, the chorus is numerous and well-trained, and the dresses and scenery are admirable.

Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. G. P. Wells.—Miss Lena Stanton and her excellent company are paying a return visit here with the pantomime Robinson Crusoe. In the title-rôle Miss Lena Stanton is, as usual, full of life, and fully maintains her well-established reputation. She is well supported by Miss Minnie Melbah, who contributes a dainty performance as Pretty Polly Perkins. Mr. Bruce Green, an old favourite, adds considerably to the success of the play as Lucretia Margaret Crusoe; Mr. Will Terry is a success as Little Willie Carlisle Atkins; and Mr. Phil M. Beirne is good as Davy Jones, jun. Mr. George Melbah makes the most of his opportunities as Friday, and Little Keeno is as attractive as ever in his whimsicalities as Sunny Jim Crusoe. Miss Millie Maxwell is well to the front as Capt. Taylor.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—No Wedding Bells for Her, presented by Mr. Frank Bateman's company, is a drama that is appealing to many patrons of this house this week. The chief character, Lola Delaspierre, is skilfully and powerfully played by Miss Lizzie Montague, who displays rare histrionic ability; Mr. George C. Doughty essays with considerable success the part of Dick Delver; as Frank Hatherleigh, Mr. Stuart Lamoth is extremely good and clever; Mr. Archie Helsby renders capital aid in assuming the villany of Abney Stone; and Mr. Edward E. Louis is to be complimented on his admirable portraiture of Harold Trevelyn. Humour of an extremely funny nature is provided by Mr. Will Skelton as Simkins, Mr. Frank Davies as Osric Guilderstern, Mr. Herbert J. Walton as Adonis Tightfist, and Miss Alice Mattin as Peggy Simkins. Miss Ida Mackay as Doris Fane acts with much feeling and charm; Miss Helen Owen plays Marie Flail with exceptional care and intelligence; Mr. A. Balfour Mackay furnishes a capital study of Horatio Fane, and Mr. Louis Garton assumes with credit the part of Montague Blair.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr. Delno Fritz.—This week the company includes Lance Anderson (champion boxer), Vowels and Bryan in a clever comedy act, Lule O. Bright (comedienne and dancer), W. C. McPhie (vocalist), Johny Jopp (swell comedian), and La Paloma (vocalist and dancer).

PERTH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The fair city is being favoured with a special visit of the only American Indian actress, Go-Won-Go Mohawk, and her American company in the picturesque sensational drama, Wep-Ton-No-Mah. Go-Won-Go Mohawk, in the title-rôle, is deservedly applauded throughout, and her personally-trained Indian ponies, Wongy and Buckskin, deserve special note. Mr. Guy D. Hackney and Mr. Dan Ryan are a source of continual amusement as Sam White and Garry Cullen respectively, as also is Miss Dorothy Neville in the part of Miss Matilda Shiffles; Mr. C. W. Charles makes an ideal Colonel Stockton.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—Our Boys appears to increase in popularity, judging from its reception at the Royal, as presented by Mr. Charles Otley's company. Mr. William Anson and Mr. Herbert Robinson play Talbot Champneys and Charles Middlewick respectively; Mr. Charles Otley and Mr. Stephen Ewart appear as the fathers of "the boys"; the ladies find able exponents in the Misses Olive Palmer and Edith Heron Brown; while Miss Marie Jonquil as the lodging-house maid-of-all work, Belinda, is distinctly good. The company has also staged Caste, which has come in for an equally good reception.

Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Grant.—Miss Winifred Maude's company is here in The Sins of a City. Miss Maude distinctly scores as the self-willed and headstrong Seaweed, receiving material assistance from Miss Marie Lyons as Leshia and Miss Jessie Mason as a Scotch fisherwoman. Mr. Royce Carleton makes quite a noble Sandy McDonald, while the humorous element does not suffer by being entrusted to a lady, Miss Amy Corallie, who is distinctly good as Midge.

Metropole Theatre.—Owner, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr. Mitchell.—The exciting melodrama, The London Fireman, is being staged this week. The title-rôle is creditably filled by Mr. J. Forbes Knowles, and Miss Nellie Shirley is conspicuously successful as Ida Curtis, the fireman's wife. Miss Nellie Garside, Miss F. M. Daly, and Messrs. E. L. Garside and Frank Herlie are other members of a hard-working company.

Palace of Varieties.—Managing Directors, Messrs. Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr. J. Field.—Alec Hurley and company are the principal attraction here in The Costers' Beanfeast, the sketch being well staged and very amusing. J. W. Rickaby has a couple of funny songs; Nellie Coleman, lady comedian, is distinctly original; Viviana is a graceful dancer; Maude Vera is a chic little coon artist; Dome combines some smart clay-modelling with humorous by-play; and Rappo, the great Containental equilibrist, and Vernon's Pictures complete the programme.

Promenade Pier and Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. J. Higson.—The famous Besses o' the Barn Brass Band are performing to large audiences on the pier, and have a very fine repertoire of secular and sacred music as occasion requires.

PONTYPRIDD.—Royal Clarence Theatre.—Owners and Proprietors, Mrs. Trenchard and Miss L. Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—Mr. Henry Swinerd's musical comedy novelty Dare-Devil Dorothy is proving an attraction at the above theatre this week. Mr. Will Brereton as Silas Crump is well received; Mr. Henry C. Ward cleverly portrays Captain Dudley; Miss Dorothy Desmonde's singing is most effective; Mr. Alf. Stretton leaves nothing to be desired as Hawkins; and Miss Norah Caronni shows to advantage as Ruth Montrose.

PORTH.—Poole's Opera House.—Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—The great attraction here for the week is Chas. W. Poole's No. 1 Colossal Hyper-Myriorama. The pictures are much appreciated. Mr. J. R. Poole proves an excellent guide. There are also variety turns, which include Coma, up-to-date ambidexteriologist; Harry Raymond, Mexican coon; the Three Rochesters, marvellous musical children; Woolford's wrestling ponies and clever dogs and donkey, Dane's Marionettes, Nanty Chef with his comicalities, and Poole's animated photos.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J.W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—The Royal Carl Rosa Opera company opened on Monday evening to a house crowded in every part, to hear Gounod's Faust. Miss Grace Nicoll as Marguerite was in capital voice, and gave a charming rendering of the part. Mr. Edward Davies was heard to advantage in the title-rôle, acting also with admirable effect; Mr. Arthur Winckworth's Mephistopheles was most telling and dramatic, his fine voice being well suited to the mocking serenade. As Valentine, Mr. Dillon Shalland played with judgment and sang tunefully; Miss Anna Hope was most effective as Siebel, and Miss Douglas Wilson as Martha and Mr. F. Clendon as Wagner were also successful. On Tuesday Tannhauser was given. Il Trovatore, Carmen, Don Giovanne, Fidelio, and Maritana are also in the répertoire. Mr. Eugene Goossens shares with Mr. Walter Van Moorden the highly responsible duties of conductor.

Prince's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Mr. W. H. Hallatt and his company are here this week with The Temptress. Miss Blanche Steele as Stella displays considerable dramatic power; Miss Mabel Scudamore plays Marion Fordyce with much charm; Miss Lizzie Chambers as Rhoda Brown and Miss Florence Palmer as Madge Denbeigh are to be commended for their impersonations; Philip Welford, the much-persecuted hero, is played by Mr. George D'Daiper in a taking and popular way; Mr. Frederick Ross invests the part of the villain, Lucas Denbeigh, with all the necessary amount of duplicity; Mr. W. H. Hallett as Pedro Gonzales, is admirable, and Mr. Tom E. Sinclair makes a humorous Bob Tanner.

Empire Palace.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—A strong and varied programme is submitted here for the week. The Kellinos, with their acrobatic speciality A Fête in Venice, are daring and graceful; the Four Watsons, vocal and instrumental quartette, are capable and highly-trained musicians; the Firmans, in an original comedy act, create roars of laughter; Hector, wire walker and hoop manipulator, is a capital entertainer; Oakdene, with his ventriloquial scena, The Stowaways, pleased greatly; Marco, illusionist, is clever; and Kits Keen, Ethiopian entertainer; the Victorias, a vocal and terpsichorean trio; Will Farrell, express comedian, and Payne's Bio-photoscope all successfully help to make a good bill.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Mr. Esmond Bramley's company is here this week with a répertoire of Shakespearean plays. An admirable performance of The Merchant of Venice was given on Tuesday evening. Generous praise is due to Mr. David Beattie for his convincing impersonation of Shylock; Mr. F. Owen Chambers made a dignified Antonio; and Bassanio was ably delineated by Mr. Cyril Este. Portia had a clever and attractive exponent in Miss Millie Ford. Other plays included in the week's programme were Richard III., All's Well that Ends Well, Julius Cæsar, Romeo and Juliet, Twelfth Night, and Macbeth.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—A capital variety entertainment is being presented here this week. Miss Daisy de Roy, as usual, delights the audience with her songs; Mr. Chas. Grantley, comedian, gains well-merited applause; the Cumberlands provide a sensational cycling act; Charles Vandyke and company present a screaming absurdity, entitled Nicodemus; the Two Shamrocks contribute some very clever clog-dances; Miss Florence Hill scores a success; Miss Nellie Nora gives a pleasing musical performance; Polletti appears in a clever trick cycling act; Mlle. Rosini's miniature menagerie is well worth seeing; and Snowden and Conway are clever patter artists.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—At the head of the bill here this week is Gustave Fasola, the Indian magician, whose wonderful feats completely mystify the audience; Mr. Chas. Majilton and company create much merriment in the popular musical farce, Round the Clock; George Leith gives an effective exhibition of strength; Arthur Slater is an accomplished whistler; Harris and Worth and Oliver Conroy are successful comedians; Minnie and Harry Groves provide a clever gymnastic act. Other good turns are those of the Two 'Cellos, and Jacko, the man monkey. Bioscope pictures complete the programme.

RADCLIFFE.—Queen's Hall.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—The bill here includes Mr. Barry Gilmore, a popular comedian and dancer; Miss Lizzie Wilson, a good soprano; Mr. Will Holiday, baritone; Miss Emma Halliday, comedienne; Miss Claire Bancroft, ballad vocalist; Mr. Syd. Mountford, with his magical mysteries, banjo interludes, &c., and a comedy sketch, The Poor of London, played by Messrs. Lonsdale Wilson and Holiday.

RAMSGATE.—Amphitheatre.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. H. Bowman.—Large audiences have this week enjoyed the performances of Walter Melville's play The Worst Woman in London. In the title part Miss Florence Dalton has scored a success, and Mr. Wallace Campbell admirably fulfils the requirements of the part of Jack Felton. Mr. G. Thomas is amusing in the rôle of Thomas, a London sweep, and Miss Florence Lovell is a lively Matilda Parker. The part of James Milford is handled with skill by Mr. H. H. Barrington, and the same remark applies to the manner in which the rôle of Ruth is played by Miss Effie Bartlett.

RAWTENSTALL.—Grand Theatre.—Co-proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller.—Mr. Alf Berg is here this week with his excellent variety company. Alec Alexander is an actor-vocalist of considerable talent, and C. Ricardo is a clever conjuror; Unity Vezzy and her performing dogs are an excellent turn, Miss Clara Urwin scores well with her songs and dances, and Messrs. W. T. Burgess, H. Shaw, and W. F. Rogers amuse with their sketch, Found Faithful. Mr. Alf. Berg gives a fine exhibition of his lifting powers, Miss Dorothy Dare contributes some enjoyable songs and dances, and Grin and Bear it, "the quarrelsome couple," are good. Mlle. Ena is also well received, and an excellent programme is brought to a close by a wonderful display of handcuff breaking by Leo Sylwyn, the handcuff prince.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr. Reginald Taylor.—Mr. Ernest E. Norris is presenting the popular Tommy Atkins this week with great success. Mr. Norris himself in the character of the Rev. Dobito and Buxton, in an original vocal act, Miss Lily Lessah, and Pallister's Biograph, with up-to-date films, are delighting the Grand habitués this week.

ALBERT HALL.—West's Bioscopic show, "Our Navy and Our Army," under the able management of Mr. Richardson, continues to keep up the patriotic enthusiasm of large audiences. Some well stage-managed effects add considerably to the realism of the pictures.

CENTRAL HALL.—In addition to the usual animated photos of local and topical events, a good variety show is provided here this week, the performers being Jack Renson and Rose Waite, two old Sheffield favourites, Mr. Ned Graydon (humorist and instrumentalist), the Astley Brothers (variety entertainers), and Miss Freda Tudor (vocalist).

SHREWSBURY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Mr. Norman Macowan's powerful and talented company is here this week with Monsieur Beaucaire and A Soldier of Fortune. In the first-named play Mr. Norman Macowan himself takes the title-rôle, and enacts the part superbly. Mr. Murray Hathorn, the villain of the piece, merits the highest encomiums; Mr. Arthur Somers makes a fine Major Molyneux; Mr. P. Ramsey Forman is a capable Capt. Badger; Mr. Conybeare Gough is good as Mr. Rakell; Mr. Franc Stoney plays capitally the part of Mr. Bicksett; Mr. Leonard Lawrence as Beau Nash performs creditably; and other male parts are in capable hands. Miss Marguerite Cellier as Lady Mary Carlisle acts throughout with taste and judgment; Miss Annie Windsor is effective as Lucy Kellerton; and several minor ladies' parts are satisfactorily sustained.

SMETHWICK. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's company, in Her Wedding Day, has proved a popular attraction. Miss Ward as Madge Conway, the bride, makes a charming heroine; Mr. S. Herbert Humber, as Harold Saxby, is capital; Mr. Augustine Knight plays strongly as the villain Weedon Kenyon; and Mr. T. Edward Ward is particularly good as Seth Mayson, ex-convict. On Wednesday evening Miss Ward, who is a local lady, took a well-deserved benefit.

SOUTHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton.—This week Mr. George Dance's company under the direction of Mr. Hugh Nolan, is presenting for the third time here the successful musical play The Orchid. The principals are all excellent, many of them being newcomers. One old favourite remains, Mr. Arthur Hemsley, whose Zaccary is an admirable performance. His legmania dancing is also very smart, and he is recalled again and again. Miss Dorothy Firmin is delightful as Lady Violet, and Miss Elsa Brull sings and dances daintily as Josephine Zaccary. Mr. Tommy Nelldon is admirable as Meakin, and he causes roars of laughter with his eccentricities; Mr. E. Nainby, the energetic stage-manager, does well as the French Count, and Mr. Fern Pounds plays the part of Guy in approved style. The other characters are all well sustained, and the chorus do good work, under the bâton of Mr. Albert Vernon.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor and Director-General Mr. Frank Nacnaghten; Manager, Mr. William Trussell.—A capital array of talent is appearing here. Smaun Sing Hpoo, the miniature man and ring performer from British Burmah, is a great attraction; Tom Davies Trio score with a sensational motor-cycle act in mid air; and Kelly and Ashby simply revel on the bounding billiard table; Rastus and Banks, "the Major and the Maid," are smart dancers; and others who do well are Lillie Langtry, comedienne; Warden Reed and Co. in a farcical duologue Married or Photographed; Sterling and Love, Arthur Aldridge, and Harry Walker. Mr. Frank Reed's orchestra has been considerably augmented, and is quite a feature of the performance.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; District-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold P. Howell.—The star turn is Leoni Clarke and his 200 cats, monkeys, rabbits, mice, canaries, &c.; Dandy George and his clever dog Rosie are also big favourites; and Carlotta Levey, comedienne, and Carlton, comedy card manipulator, are well received. The Four Kweeries present a clever illusion, and Mlle. Kloet, the artist's model, poses gracefully; Mack Ollive whistles well, and Rosalie Jacobi is a charming soubrette.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Sole Owners, The Southend Theatre Company; Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest.—The Way Women Love, a drama not wanting in thrilling episodes, is attracting large audiences here. Miss Sybil Thompson's company includes artists of conspicuous ability. Herr Adam Leebold, provides music of the best, including several French pieces.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—A capital week's entertainment is being provided here by Miss Rose Moncrieff and company, who are presenting, in a successful manner, the musical comedy play, entitled Fun on the Bristol. Act II. chiefly consists of a special variety concert. Adelina, in her facial impersonations and great speciality, entitled "Britannia's Levee," is seen to advantage; Dorothy Maurice is a pleasing danseuse; Tod Squires, an eccentric comedian and big boot dancer, scores well; Grace Rossaire finds favour in her soprano selections; Sam Poluski, jun., proves a clever pantomimist; and Miss Rose Moncrieff wins especial favour as a burlesque actress and expert dancer. Those responsible for the chief characters are George Tearle as Widow O'Brien, Miss Grace Rosaire as Nora O'Brien, Miss Rose Moncrieff as Dora McAllister, Mr. Walter D. Brodie as Count Menaggio and Mr. Tod Squire as Jerry Thompson.

THE KURSAAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. J. T. Bacon.—The National Bioscope Company's entertainment includes illustrated songs by Mr. Fred Field; Miss Nellie Navette, comedienne and danseuse, and the Merry Carpenters contribute good turns. Some very fine pictures are shown by means of the Bioscope.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE AND WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Company, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—Mr. J. Comyns Carr's adaptation of Charles Dickens's Oliver Twist was presented here for the first time on Monday by Mr. Tree's very capable company. Mr. William Mackintosh's conception of the rascally Jew Fagin left nothing to be desired, either in make-up, gesture, or voice. It was a remarkably realistic characterisation. Miss Hutin Britton depicted the part of Nancy with strong histrionic effect; Bill Sikes was very ably portrayed by Mr. Cecil A. Collins; Mr. Tom MacFarlane was a commendable exponent of the Artful Dodger; the title-rôle was well enacted by Miss Gertrude Lang; Grimwig had an able representative in Mr. Clifford Bown; and other good character sketches were contributed by Miss Elsie Carew as Mrs. Maylie, Miss Hilda Dick as Rose Maylie, and Mr. Edgar J. Coyne in the part of Charlie Bates.

ALBERT HALL, WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—A large audience patronised this beautiful variety hall on Monday, when a capital all-round programme was presented. One of the best turns, which created roars of merriment, was supplied by Haidee Lee and Wallace Kingston, in their latest success, entitled Practical Joking. Another humorous item was that of Otto and Olgar in their burlesque operatic and mirth-provoking entertainment. Mr. Will Cornish submitted a unique musical speciality, his manipulation of twenty-four silver handbells being very clever; Mr Fred Elton gave an amusing description of "A concert on an Atlantic liner"; Angeline, the female Cinquevalli, performed some astonishing feats of legerdemain; and other good contributions were presented by Miss Ruby Norton, comedienne; Dolly, Agnes, and Maude, the factory girls; and Mr. Walter Wade, eccentric comedian.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz.—The principal item in the excellent combination appearing here this week is contributed by Haydee, with her miniature vaudeville theatre. The programme also comprises Flo Ellis, speciality vocalist; Tom Moy, comedian; Friscari, juggler and hat manipulator; Wee Jessie, song and dance artist; Dale and D'Arzan, Continental acrobats and conjurors; Madge May, comedienne; Little Ganty, comedian; and the bio tableaux.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—The boards here are occupied by the well-known drama The Golden Ladder, presented by Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmond's company. A manly and sound delineation of the Rev. Frank Thornhill is given by Mr. John Clyde; Miss Eva Ross's charming acting is decidedly praiseworthy as the heroine Lillian; Mr. J. Milne Taylor is much in evidence as the villainous Michael Severn, and an able accomplice is seen in Mr. Graham Winsford as Perenza; Mr. Jos. Rowlands renders capital work as Samuel Peckaby; Mr. T. Lionel Ellis quietly and effectively represents the banker John Grant; Mr. Harry Belford is deserving mention as Jim Dixon; Miss Nellie Graham scores as Mrs. Peckaby.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—The English Cup final and the local walking competition are films of especial interest, and as shown by the bioscope are enthusiastically received. Horace Wheatley, comedian and dancer, renews acquaintance here, and his bright and quaintly rendered numbers are the source of much delight; Edwin Barwick displays great ability and resource in his contributions; Dora Lyric is a comedienne of much charm and refinement; Lios Alfa Sisters are seen in a smart trapeze act, the New Macs are funny comedians and dancers, Amy Russell is a popular comedienne. Forrest and King and the Dorrells (duettists and dancers) are both well received.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr. Jos. Sweeney.—Theo Hardeen, the Handcuff King, heads this week's bill; a pleasing vocal act is given by Edie Grey and her white coons; Harland and Rollaston figure successfully in a musical comedy act; B. H. Almon, novelty hand acrobat, receives well-merited applause; Cecilia Maude is a good vocalist, and J. C. Scatter is a favourite comedian here. Interesting pictures by Walter Payne's Bio-Photoscope completes the programme.

STAFFORD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—Mr. Coleman Davies and company opened on Monday with the drama, No Escape. Mr. Coleman Davies in the dual parts of Major-General Geoffrey Arlington and Constable Grip O'Grady shows great ability, his comedy business in the latter character being most humorous. Mr W. Lloyd is well placed as Simpson; Mr. Sydney Forth is an able Sergeant Arlington; and Mr. Wilton Richards submits a good study of Horace Hardcastle. Miss Evelyn Clare is a pleasing Ethel Arlington; and as Molly Muggs Miss Eunice Udall acquits herself with credit.

STALYBRIDGE. — GRAND THEATRE. — Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Mundill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eugene E. Hardie.—Somebody's Sweetheart is being presented here by Mr. W. H. Kirby's combination. The part of Blabbs is drolly undertaken by Mr. Kirby, who is ably assisted by Miss Dot Reeve in the title-rôle.

ST. HELENS. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—Mr. George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company is here this week in Her Luck in London. Mr. Charles A. Leicester is excellent as the Hon. Gerald O'Connor; and Mr. Stephen Crossley is capable as Richard Lenowen. Mr. Tyrone Power gives a good performance as Stephen Harborne; Mr. Charles Digby does well as Algie; and Mr. Douglas Tremayne is advantageously placed as Rev. Lionel Strong. Miss Ella Vane cleverly represents Ruth Harborne; Miss Florrie Groves is exceedingly good as Maud Shovepenny; and Miss Mary Neil as Nellie Harborne deserves the highest praise.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. V. Cornell.—Mr. Paul Vandy, juggler, heads the bill here this week. Mr. Gus Harris, Jewish vocalist, repeats his former successes; and other attractions in a good programme include Mr. J. H. McCann, roller skater; the Four Mill Lads, vocalists; the Kimberley Boys, comedians; Mr. J. P. Boston, comedian; Harrigan and Holt, comedians and dancers; and Weisker Bros'. bioscope.

STOCKPORT.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—A distinct attraction here this week is Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company in The Love that Women Desire. The author, Mr. G. Carlton Wallace, acts the part of Frank Hardy with much power and feeling; and Mr. J. O. Stewart gives an admirable impersonation of Squire Abingdon; as Richard Abingdon, Mr. Hugh Mewburn is very effective; and Mr. David G. Noble displays ability in the character of Philip Carnaby; genuinely amusing is Mr. John Hignett as Dennis O'Rourke; and Mr. J. W. Wilkinson is quietly funny as P.C. Sowerberry; Sybil Thornburn is charmingly impersonated by Miss Lalla Stanhope; Miss Alice N. Livesey gives a realistic portrayal of Madge Abingdon; and Pattie Swift in the hands of Miss Maud Stuart is very pleasing.

EMPIRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Troba, phenomenal juggler, heads the bills here; Morny Cash, comedian, makes a great hit with his funny songs; and Bert Woodward, the cycling coon, is appreciated for the graceful manner in which he accomplishes his tricks; Mlle Dora is a clever oboe soloist; and the Sisters Marion are pleasing duettists; the Mozandos, eccentric speciality artists, are well received; and Leo Sprays (Marie and Minnie), Continental dancers, meet with satisfactory applause; whilst Curtis and Vanity, the American comedy pair, are very entertaining.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—An interesting programme is provided here this week by Messrs. A. Northway and Mr. W. V. Garrod's company in The Prodigal Parson. There is a pleasant vein of humour running through the piece, and in a carnival scene a number of variety turns are introduced. Messrs. Northway and Garrod themselves take important parts in the play, and are supported by a company of experienced artists.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—The Empire Comedy Four, vocal humorists, provide some delightful singing; George Bastow maintains his reputation; the Three Zaracs, in a comedy sketch, Washing the Barmaid, are comical; Ian Colquhoun is a fine baritone, and the Ladderites, Millie Payne, the Sivronis (comedy artists), and J. P. Carrol (tambourine player) give attractive turns.

HIPPODROME THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. George and Robert A. Nicholson; Manager, Mr. Wm. Ainsworth.—The marvellous Craggs, in their success, Billy, give a splendid acrobatic turn; Herr Fritz mystifies his onlookers with his tricks; Stylo, the juggler with hoops, earns much applause; the Three Missouris, in Captain Kettle and his Mate, provoke roars of laughter; and Beatrice Renee (comedienne), the Two Dixons (banjoists), Jack Hylton (eccentric), and Ruth Lytton (Scotch comedienne) complete a good programme.

STOKE.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—The Mohamed Troupe of Souasa Arabs, in their acrobatic performances here, are truly wonderful; Weiland, in a comedy juggling turn, is both funny and clever; the Demon Chef is a conjurer of much ability; Mr. J. B. Preston is a Scotch comedian of considerable merit; the Sisters Daventry sing harmoniously; Elsie Clare meets with much success; the Gregson Comedy Trio in their absurdity, The Dummy, are most entertaining; Little Joe Conway is a juvenile comedian of merit, and the pictures are excellent. On Thursday, the 19th, the receipts of both houses were given for the benefit of the Stoke Amalgamated Society, by the kindness of the generous proprietor, Mr. Allan Edwardes.

STOURBRIDGE. — ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—On Monday we had a visit from the famous Besses o' the Barn Band, who gave two performances. The attendances were most gratifying at each. On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday the theatre was occupied by a company of local ladies and gentlemen, who appeared in the Colleen Bawn.

SUNDERLAND.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—Mr. Eade Montefiore's company, in The Streets of London, is the attraction here this week. Mr. Henry Moxon gives a capital impersonation of Gideon Bloodgood, and Mark Livingstone finds an apt exponent in Mr. H. Douglas Cottell. Mr. Ian Lloyd-Mackenzie makes the most of his opportunities as Paul Fairweather; whilst Mr. Joe Bracewell, as Dan Puffy, causes much mirth. Miss Edyth Goodall gives a refined and pathetic rendering of Lucy Fairweather, and Miss Octavia Noel is seen to advantage as Alida Bloodgood. The Mrs. Puffy of Miss Helena Rigby leaves little to be desired, and Miss Marion Armitage is a pleasing Dan Puffy. The Four Fiorellas introduce some excellent speciality dances.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hemingway.—The Sunderland Operatic Society are producing The Mikado here this week in aid of the funds of the Hebrew Board of Guardians.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. John H. Stringer; Treasurer, Mr. Alfred Browne.—Rosina Casselli's midget canine wonders top the bill here. Dusty Rhodes, comedian, provides an excellent turn; Ray and Calden are amusing in their comedy act; Pete and Juno are clever coloured comedians and dancers; the Wallys, in juggling act; Vanola, antipodeste; Will Musgrave, comedian; Will Souls, comedian; and Vernon's animated pictures complete the programme.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Captain Clayton; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—Variety is the attraction here this week, and among the artists appearing with success are Jean Seul, who gives a clever and mysterious performance; the Stavordale Quintette, with some fine harmony on banjoes and harp; Belford and Mars, with refined comedy; and Bella Leaburn, comedienne.

SWINDON.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners.—That successful comedy The Duffer is the attraction here this week, and was witnessed on Monday by a large and appreciative audience. The piece was excellently performed by Mr. Louis Calvert's company, under the business-direction of Major E. A. G. Gossett. Mr. E. H. Wynne must be complimented on his admirable study of the title-rôle, the many strong points being very cleverly accentuated. The part of Charles Chester was impersonated with commendable judgment throughout by Mr. F. Pennington Gush; and Mr. Whitford Kane gained high honours for his telling and effective work as Paul Martin. Miss Margaret Montrose as Lady Amelia, and Miss Mabel Taylor as Nicebe, undertook their respective parts with care and grace; while Miss Florence Adale was seen to considerable advantage as Phyllis Wade. As Miss Bide, Miss Nellie Griffen presented an excellent piece of work, always applying just the correct touch to the character. Friday night's performance was set aside by Mr. Manners as a complimentary benefit, under distinguished patronage, to the Swindon Town Football Club.

TODMORDEN.—TOWN HALL.—Proprietors, Todmorden Corporation.—Mr. John H. Tomkinson's Royal Gipsy Company opened here on Monday with a capital entertainment, combining song, dance, and story. Miss Minnie Richardson brought down the house by her admirable violin playing; and the singing of Mr. Frank Powel was much admired. Miss Elsie Rubina performed some clever feats on the high wire; and Sam Paul and Fred McLean, comedians, caused much merriment. The Florida Girls pleased with their dancing; and Bert Allen, the Lilliputian comedian, is funny. The performance of the Musical Keiths is worthy of high praise; and the Lizette Troupe of lady acrobats and tumblers concluded an enjoyable entertainment. Mr. L. Elgar makes an efficient musical director.

TORQUAY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. Smerdon; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—An enthusiastic house greeted The Eternal City, presented by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company this week. The principal honours fell to Miss Marie Polini as Donna Roma. Mr. Henry Deas as David Rossi was exceedingly good, and Mr. William O'Flynn as Bruno Rocco received repeated applause for his vigorous interpretation; Mr. E. Stanton-Sharp's Baron Bonelli was characterised by great care and judgment, and Mr. J. Fortescue's Pope Pius XI. was a well-studied character with much reserve force.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS. — OPERA HOUSE. — Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. J. Gunnell.—Mr. St. John Denton's company, in Kitty Grey, has had a most successful week. Mr. Hilda Guiver in the title-part has scored immensely, and she has been well supported by Miss Marie West, who plays with much charm the rôle of Lady Binfield. Miss Nellie Lauraine displays great powers of comedy as Mrs. Bright; and Miss Gertrude Page was very successful as Sadie. Mr. Robert Hyett submitted a capital study of Sir John Binfield; and Mr. H. E. Garden as the hare-brained Lord Plantagenet was quite irresistible. Mr. Lauri Lisle provided a most humorous study of the King of Illyria, Mr. Stanley Ravenscroft of the Comte, and Mr. Allerton Turner as Pontechet. In minor rôles, praise is also due to Messrs. H. L. Davies, G. Leslie, G. Hathaway, L. Steward, L. Fincham, and the Misses Ada Booth, Elsie Skillings, Mary Preston, Maud D'Alberston, Barbara Evangeline, Gertie Bryan, M. St. Clair, Kitty Wells, Florence Weigh, and Kathleen Arnold. Mr. Forbes Russell ably directs the orchestra.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mrs. Bandmann Palmer and company are paying a return this week. On Monday night Hamlet was presented, when Mrs. Bandmann Palmer gave an able and impressive rendering of the Prince of Denmark, her efforts receiving well-deserved applause. Mr. Sydney Bland was successful as the King of Denmark; Mr. G. Montague Lane (Laertes), Mr. Robert Puttard (Horatio), and Mr. George Munro (Polonius) were good in their respective parts; Miss More Dunphie acted with ability as Ophelia, and Miss Katherine Herbert ably filled the character of the Queen of Denmark. The School for Scandal, Sapho, Nell Gwynne, and East Lynne were billed for the remainder of the week.

HIPPODROME. — Lessee, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucas.—Lachie Thomson's Top-Weights (Tom and Neill) a couple of youths, give a smart exhibition of club swinging, wrestling, and boxing; Mr. Will Percival delights with his excellent clog dancing turn; a talented juvenile, Little Tina, comedienne, wins applause; the Arizona Troupe contribute a good turn; Harry Wright, comedian, is amusing; Miss Lillie Coleman, soprano vocalist, Miss Nellie Gannon, descriptive vocalist, and Silvester and Sansome Trio, sketch artists, are equally successful.

WALSALL. — HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—A particularly bright array of talent occupies the boards here this week, a leading feature being Marzella's birds. Allan Hanbury, comedian, is very entertaining; Watson's dogs are clever and amusing; the Clarkes distinguish themselves as first-class banjoists; Madge Osmund, male impersonator, is well received; the Trapnell Family prove themselves clever and graceful acrobats; Hughes and Elliott, rag-time vocalists and dancers, do well; and the Bioscope shows a fine series of pictures.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Messrs. Amadale and Warren's company is presenting the drama, The Face at the Window. Mr. E. Hoggan Armadale gives a strong and artistic rendering of the part of Lucio Delgado; Mr. T. W. Dunscombe is well placed as Paul Gouffet; Mr. George Phythiam makes a capital mad doctor; Miss Elaine Grant plays creditably as La Pinau; and Miss Thorn Hallam is successful as Marie de Brisson.

WALTHAMSTOW. — PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. Adney Payne; Manager Mr. Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Slatter. — Mr. Geo. H. Chirgwin comes up smiling this week and carries all before him; Saucy Maude is played by the Brontes, the lady of the duo being a perfect low-comedy actress—a rara avis; Nadjo, the queen of equipoise, delights everyone with her graceful movements, and the manner in which she walks up and down staircases on her hands is nothing short of marvellous; Miss May Mars, after singing a good regulation song, gives her scena The Shadow of the Pyramids in fine style. Attired in a handsome Cleopatra-like costume, and in front of a beautiful scene suggestive of Egyptian sands, pyramids, and the Sphinx, Miss Mars sings with declamatory power a good song, and is vehemently applauded. Miss Bessie Butt is a capable singer of songs of the "coon" order, and dances prettily; Howe and Ardio give their well-known grotesque performance as acrobats and gymnasts. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, always up-to-date, shows, among other films last Saturday's match for the Cup final at the Crystal Palace. An entertainment quite new to audiences in the London district is Casey's Court, chiefly performed by a troupe of well-trained "midget mimics," who reproduce with wonderful fidelity the extraordinary doings of a set of gamins made popular by one of the comic papers. The piece is full of life and frolic, and contains one or two tuneful musical numbers well rendered. The whole thing goes with great spirit, and is received with continuous laughter.

KING'S THEATRE.—A capital performance of Mr. J. C. McQuire's popular musical comedy The Major occupies the boards here this week, enacted by Miss Ada Wallis's No. 1 company. The merry piece, familiar as it is to local playgoers, seems to go better than ever, thanks greatly to the efforts of Miss Wallis herself as Angelina, and Mr. McQuire as Major Barney O'Neal. Mr. Victor Silvernie is a handsome George Goodman, and Mr. Harry Vernon a satisfactory Jeremiah.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—Mr. J. H. Clyndes' company in A Royal Revenge is the attraction here this week. In the dual rôle of Estevan Alvarez and Pedro de Castro Mr. J. H. Clyndes displays histrionic abilities; Mr. John Foxhill submits a clever piece of acting as Nicholas Vargas, and Mr. Ellerstie Pyne is well placed as Manuel Mondega. Mr. Herbert M. King is good as the King of Spain, and Mr. H. Gomer May scores as the Moor. Miss Aimee Grattan is a tender Cora Casilda, and Miss Enid Edoni charms all with a faithful interpretation of Inez Alvarez. Miss Grace Jones submits a clever study of the Mother Superior.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmot.—At this house Juno Salmo heads the bill, and his extraordinary contortionist feats causes wonderment. Billy English, coloured vocalist, scores; whilst Adeline Yohle charms all with her admirable singing; Tray and Rich are a capable pair of comedians; and Wyndham and Waters are amusing in their sketch The Professor and his Pupil. George Edney sings several good descriptive songs; and the Royal Bioscope shows a series of excellent pictures.

WEST BROMWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore.—Miss Dorothy Oswald and company opened here on Monday with the musical version of East Lynne. Mr. Herbert Barrs played with success the rôle of Archibald Carlyle; Mr. A. E. Pringle satisfactorally portrayed Francis Levison; Miss Dorothy Oswald gave a clever impersonation of Lady Isabel; Miss Maudie Vincent was all that could be desired in the part of Joyce doing well in song and dance; and Miss Agnes Collier made a good Barbara Hare. On Wednesday by special request was presented The Sorrows of Satan.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE. — Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. H. F. Maltby's No. 1 company is here this week in that fine romantic play The Youngest of Three. Mr. Maltby is entitled to the highest eulogy for presenting a most artistic impersonation of George Wendover; Mr. A. E. Wyn Weaver gives a decidedly good interpretation of Phillip Radford; the Gerald Wendover of Mr. H. Henry Hargreaves deserves instinted praise; Mr. Ernest Noble's delineation of Joshua Pynne is much appreciated, whilst Mr. Ralph Hutton's Samuel Johns is worthy of commendation; Mr. George Mortimer (Hickey), Mr. W. Reginald Favel (Loke), and Mr. Noble (Paul) make the most of their respective parts. Mr. George Laidlaw does well as Perkins. Miss Mabel Mellor (Anne Dulley), Miss Mora Maltby (Florence Dulley), and Miss Beatrice Marsdene (Lucy Dulley) all give charming portrayals. A word of praise must also be awarded Miss Nancy York as Jane.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Stanley Theatre Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—The attraction here this week is H. and F. Poole's wonderful Realisations. The whole thing is highly instructive and interesting. The trip round the world shows the chief wonders of other lands. Chief amongst the variety turns are Houston, conjuror and illusionist; the Snow Family in a laughable skating turn; the French cyclists with trick riding; and the musical dog and performing donkey.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Raws; Responsible Manager, Mr. David Williams.—The Crimson Club is paying a return visit this week. Mr. F. G. Kay fills the part of Sir Philip Garside in an able manner; Mr. J. Clifford Wright makes a fine Richard Fenton; the Hon. Herbert Selby is ably portrayed by Mr. Joseph Magarth; Mr. Chas. Nugent is a capital Sir Richard Steel; Mr. Franklyn Heywood as Silas Craddock is an able actor; Mr. Leslie Baker scores as Sir Chas. Lockwood, K.C.; and Mr. Percy Shaw, the whistling comedian, makes a hit as Reginald Adolphus Garside, being ably supported by Miss Kitty Elliott. Miss Sydney Barrasford is an admirable Muriel Lockwood; and Miss Flo Delmor ably portrays the part of Julia Marsden.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Presented with additional chorus and special orchestra, Mr. George Dance's principal company has given delightful performances of the opera The Cingalee during the week. The piece is gorgeously mounted, and the sparkling orchestration and admirably rendered vocal selections impart to the play a brilliant ensemble which is a chief characteristic of the production. The cast is an excellent one. Mr. Frank Crimp in the part of the Hon. Harry Vereker uses his fine voice with great artistic effect and with due appreciation of the niceties of musical comedy. Mr. Bertram Gates presents the character of Boobhamba with all the native ideal of dignity, and Mr. Coop Edmunds creates much merriment as Sir Peter Loftus; Bobby Warren is ably represented by Mr. Ethelbert Edwards, and the exceedingly grotesque and humorous part of Chambuddy Ram, a Baboo lawyer, is enacted with a fine sense of the ludicrous by Mr. Lauri de Frece. Of the ladies, Miss Marjorie Clarke (Patricia) is distinguished for her excellent singing, and Miss Gladys Guy impersonates with charming vivacity the character of Peggy Sabine. Miss Essie Perrin (Angy) is a graceful dancer, and Miss Winnie O'Connor is Nanoya, a Cingalese girl, is highly successful and most popular, especially in the song "My Cinnamon Tree."

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—A capital programme is provided at this popular house this week. The Frantz Troupe of ladies and gentlemen in conventional evening dress perform several remarkable acrobatic feats. Tom Foy, as the Yorkshire Lad in London, is a welcome visitor to Wigan, and his broad humour and dialect are irresistibly laughter-provoking. Lalla Selbini is an exceedingly clever lady trick cyclist who is well received, and the Elgars, operatic duettists, and Cissie Curlette, mimetic vocalist, are also popular; Sammy Shields, Scotch comedian and patterer, the Five Foys, in a sketch The Excursion Depôt; The Wedburns, comedians; Welds and Wynne, jugglers, &c.; and Gertrude Lytton, descriptive vocalist, all contribute pleasing turns.

WORKINGTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—On Monday night Mr. Arthur Branscombe's company presented Morocco Bound to a large and appreciative audience. Mr. Jno. Higgins was excellent as the Squire; as Spoofah Mr. D. Dupres was rollicking and enjoyable; Mr. E. O. Freshwater appeared as Vivian, but was handicapped by a severe cold; Little Tony as Percy caused amusement by his drollery; Mr. F. Barclay as the Vizier sang with taste and spirit, and acted well; Mr. W. Westwood was good in his character-sketches; Miss M. Gray as Ethel was charming, and her singing was admired; as Maude Miss Dollie Doyle danced agreeably; Miss G. Tonseau appeared to advantage as the Countess.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This week the following are the attractions: The Five M.P.'s (the Musical Palmers); Mr. Fred Lawton, an eccentric character comedian; Miss Lily Anton, comedienne and dancer; Lee and Arden, comedy duologue artists; Miss Daisy Palmer, serio and dancer; and the electric animated tableaux.

YORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Sidney Brooke.—The Five Olracs, acrobatic comedians of well-known merit, are being heartily applauded here this week; Cassie Walmer, a sand dancer, creates quite a furore; Atroy is a juggler of more than average merit; Viola is undoubtedly a great attraction, her efforts on various instruments never failing to please; and Sam Mayo, Clarke's Nippers, Pauline Zaro, and Blarney and Kennard complete the bill.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry J. Dacre.—Douglas Prince's company is playing The Girl who Lost Her Character with great success here. Mr. Frank Adair's Captain Caversham is a cleverly thought-out piece of acting; Mr. Wingold Lawrence makes a handsome Jack England; Miss Madge Haines is pathetic and natural as Molly Vernon; and Miss Ethel Bracewell's Rose Seymour is an interesting study. Mr. Henry Herne is manly in the popular rôle of Rev. Robert Everton; Mr. Geo. Asquin as Dick Punch has ample opportunities to display his abilities as a comedian; and he is ably helped by Miss Joan Taylor, a most amusing Isabella Jones.

THE HULL BIJOU THEATRE.

On Tuesday an application was made to the Hull Corporation Licensing Committee by Mr. Stuart on behalf of Mr. Alfred Graham, lessee of the Hippodrome, for a licence for stage plays at the Bijou Theatre of Varieties, Grimston-street.

In answer to Mr. Stuart, the Chief Constable said he objected to a dramatic licence being granted on the ground that there was a beer and wine licence to the building. It was all very well, he said, for a music hall, but unsatisfactory for a dramatic licence.

Mr. Stuart, in making the application, observed that Mr. Graham was well known in the city, and had had a great deal of experience in conducting houses of entertainment of that kind. Before Mr. Graham came to Hull he was for twelve years the manager of the Alexandra Theatre at Sheffield, and subsequently he was for eight years the manager of the Palace Theatre, Hull. He was at present the lessee of a music hall at Middlesbrough, and also of the Hippodrome, Hull, formerly the Alhambra. Mr. Graham's object in making the application was that he might cater for a stage play hardly touched by any of the existing theatres in the city. In the dramatic profession there was a large number of small companies, which, as a rule, performed small plays which could not get into the bigger houses. Many of them toured the country, some weeks in employment and some weeks out of employment, and Mr. Graham thought there was a distinct opening for that class of performance in Hull. His idea was to have those companies, possibly more than one in an evening, who would take turns, and if the theatrical performance was not sufficient he would intersperse between the acts or the plays variety turns by artists who happened to be performing at the Hippodrome Theatre. In addition, he proposed to close the performance with a bioscope exhibition, so that really it would be a combination of theatrical and music-hall performances. The building was at present licensed for dancing on the stage only, and for music and singing. It was a seven days' licence, and in addition to that there was a beer and wine licence. Mr. Graham was willing that that licence should go on as before. Subject to the application being granted, the theatre would be leased for two years from the Mechanics' Institute, with the option of extending it for a further period of five years. They also desired "smoking" throughout the building.

The committee finally resolved that they could not see their way to grant the application, having regard to the structural unfitness of the building.

OWING to the sad and sudden death of Mr

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, April 23, the Musical Comedy, by Seymour Hicks and Herbert Haines, entitled
"THE TALK OF THE TOWN."

A very lively and entertaining musical comedy is The Talk of the Town, and of the approved type to which we have now become so well accustomed. Smart dialogue, catchy music, elegant costumes, good comedians, and pretty chorus all combine to please playgoers bent on spending a pleasant evening. The principal comedian is Mr. Wm. Cromwell, who, in the character of Jerry Snipe, the man in possession, keeps the house in roars of laughter by his exceedingly clever performance, which could not be bettered. As Lieut. Reggie Drummond, Mr. Arthur Harrold sings and acts with excellent effect; Mr. Ernest Arundel, as Lieutenant the Duke of Topford, is successful; and Mr. Price Evans is a capable Colonel Sir Charles Nightingale. Mr. Leslie Owen scores in the small part of Captain Richard Hambledon, Mr. Geoffrey Allsop as the heavyweight champion 'Arry Biff gives a good account of himself, and the Private Belzey of Mr. A. T. Hendon is a capital impersonation. The two Dutch moneylenders, Ernest and Frank English, prove acceptable and amusing in the hands of Mr. Tom Graves and Mr. A. Gambier Melford. The character of J. Ocheltree Ott, an American, is smartly played by Mr. Charles Earldon, and much hilarity is occasioned by the comic performances of Mr. Conrad Kingsley and Mr. Raymond Wood as the fiery Indian soldier servants La Pa Do and Juddy Wuddy Ah. Of Ellaline Lewin a most charming representation is given by Miss Joan Kiddie, whose melodious singing and bright and attractive acting make quite a hit. Miss G. Melville plays the part of Madame Modiste with eminently satisfactory results, Lady Nightingale is pleasantly played by Miss Katherine Harrington, and Miss Helen Gordon and Miss Jessie Winter are two fascinating daughters Marjorie and Mabel. An extraordinary and deserved triumph is attained by Miss Louise Tinsley for her extremely funny rendering of Geraldine Evelyn Snipe. The full chorus is excellent, the orchestra ably directed by Mr. Percy E. Fletcher, and the scenery and effects are on a most elaborate scale.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, April 23,
The Comic Opera, entitled
"PEGGY MACHREE."

Miss Claudia Lasell and company are here this week with Peggy Machree. The piece was seen at this house last year, and on the opening night of the return visit and throughout the week the company has been accorded enthusiastic receptions. The audiences have enjoyed to the full the sparkling music and interested themselves in the unwinding of the plot. The piece is beautifully dressed and staged, and the company work together excellently to ensure success. The title-rôle is undertaken by Miss Claudia Lasell in a most piquant manner, investing the part with the necessary charms of vivacity and grace. Her songs, "The Emerald Isle" and "The Simple Life," are rendered in excellent style, her witchingly sweet voice delighting everyone. Mr. Venron Davidson is to be congratulated upon the manner in which he acts and sings the lyrics which are associated with the part of Barry Trevor, his two most appreciated numbers being "Widow Malone" and "Donovan." As the stern-visaged Alexander McDougall, Mr. Milroy Cooper acts the part with great ability, and extracts a large amount of quiet, dry humour from it. Miss Madge Avery is seen to great advantage as Moira Cafferty, and a refined little actress and songstress is Miss Blanche Astley as Molly, her manner being perfectly natural. She scores with her vocal contributions, especially with "Little Airs and Graces," and "The Old Oak Tree." Miss Astley's display of the terpsichorean art is one of the best we have seen for some time. Mr. John Morley as Sergeant Bampton proves himself worthy of high praise, and his singing is much appreciated. Mr. Dan Fitzgerald repeats his happy impersonation of Michael, a typical Irishman, and Mr. MacDermott again gives his careful study of the part of Capt. de la Cour, acting with good effect. Messrs. Ralph Lynn and Edgar Ashwin make the most of their parts of Sir Lawrence Borthwick and Patsy, and Mr. J. Heribert Willis is an admirable exponent of Lawyer Keene. Miss Doris Kelvey (Madame de la Cour), Miss Dorothy Garden (Hon. Emily Pryor), and Miss Flora Hayden (Aline) all deserve praiseworthy mention. The Marlborough orchestra, augmented, under the direction of Mr. K. Ernest Irving, render all the numbers in good style.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, April 23, Shakespeare's Comedy,
"AS YOU LIKE IT."

Some weeks since Mr. J. Bannister Howard gave his patrons the opportunity of making their choice of three Shakespearean plays, and As You Like It was at the head of the poll by a large majority. It has this week served as a celebration of Shakespeare's birthday, and Crystal Palace audiences are fortunate in having for its interpretation such a good all-round company as that of Mr. Norman V. Norman. Complete attention to details has been given in the production, which includes a good male quartette for the rendition of the incidental lyrics. Mr. Dennis Cleugh is a forcible and earnest Orlando, and genuine interest is aroused in the wrestling scene. The melancholy Jacques of Mr. Norman V. Norman is a finished and careful study, his soliloquies being closely followed and applauded. As Touchstone, Mr. Francis Hope is quaint and to the point, and his singing of "O Mistress Mine" in the woodland scene shows his possession of a pleasing voice. The harsh Duke Frederick and the banished Duke are both played by Mr. Norman Leslie, who takes full advantage of the contrasts presented by the opposite natures of the two rulers. Mr. Brember Will looks and acts well as Orlando's unnatural brother Oliver. Mr. D. Murray's Old Adam is convincing, and his acting of the aged servitor is natural, and much appreciated. Mr. Sam Wilkinson, jun., appears as the foppish Le Beau in the first act, and afterwards as the old shepherd Corin, and creates much amusement in his scenes with Touchstone. Mr. W. Roberts Marshall gives a sound impersonation, and shares the responsibilities of the wrestling scene; Mr. Alexander Cassy makes the most of the love-sick shepherd Silvius, who so patiently bears the flouts of Phœbe. Though evidently suffering from a cold Miss Beatrice Wilson's Rosalind is a great treat, her pretty rendering of the shy-bold maiden being excellent, and her appearance being all in her favour. Miss Sybil Ruskin makes Celia full of girlish fun and vivacity, and Miss Betty Stannard is appropriately hoydenish and rustic as Audrey. Miss Hilda Gregory imparts colour to the rôle of Phœbe, and the lords and ladies of the Courts, both town and woodland, are represented by Messrs. Chris Curtis, Martin Sands, and Shiela Duff, and Mesdames Frances M. Harmon and Maud Grosvenor. Messrs. S. Millan, Henry, H. Summers, and H. Newman give the three glees with much taste, and greatly add to the success of the piece.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, April 23,
the Musical Comedy,
"LADY MADCAP."

The adventures and misadventures of that decidedly hoydenish young person Lady Madcap and her companions, as portrayed by Mr. George Dance's chief company, have been followed with great interest here this week. The title-rôle was enacted with much life and spirit by Miss Vera Vere, whose sprightly acting and tuneful singing soon made her a popular favourite. Susan, the lady's maid, found a vivacious exponent in Miss Peggy Primrose, whose clever dancing was one of the features of the evening. Gwenny Holden was charmingly played by Miss Kathleen Ronayne, whose talents were indeed worthy of a wider scope, and Miss M. Johnstone was very successful as Mrs. Layton. As Oroya Brown Mr. H. V. Surrey proved himself a genuine comedian with a decided talent for character-acting. Valuable aid in the provocation of mirth was rendered by Mr. Vincent Erne, whose singing and dancing as Corporal Ham were much appreciated, and by Mr. Fred Payne, whose Posh Jenkins was really screamingly funny. Mr. Alex Cheutrens was well suited as Count de St. Herbert, his good presence and fine voice, together with a cleverly-assumed French accent, making his impersonation one of particular merit. Mr. Bay Russell played seriously and effectively as Bill Stratford, and Mr. Lyall Grant and Mr. F. C. Leister as Colonel Layton and Major Blatherswaite respectively were typical examples of the stage British officer from two totally distinct points of view.

GRAND THEATRE, ISLINGTON.

On Monday, April 23, the Drama, in a Prologue and Four Acts, by Arthur Jefferson, entitled
"LONDON BY DAY AND NIGHT."

Melodrama, which has been driven from its chief home in the West End of London, is still a delight to the dwellers in the suburbs, and in no theatre is it more welcome than at the popular house in Upper-street, Islington, where Mr. Samuel James is vigorously carrying on the campaign against dulness, with, as chief guide and adviser, the experienced Mr. Newman Maurice. The current week's attraction is a piece from the busy pen of Mr. Arthur Jefferson, who has won considerable distinction in theatres in the provinces and in the outer Metropolitan area as a purveyor of melodrama, both of the sensational and domestic type. In London by Day and Night, his romantic story of London life, he touches a chord of tenderness and devotional gratitude that reverberates in the hearts of the eager and responsive Islingtonians, who have crowded the favourite local theatre during the week; and several times in the course of the performance on Monday exclamations from intensely emotional spectators in gallery and pit rent the air at some despisable act of villainy. Encouraging cheers, too, were heard for hero and heroine, who pursue a course of self-sacrifice, undaunted by the temporarily successful schemes of cool and calculating roguery. The chief evil-doer, Gideon Snake, flourishes like a green bay tree for the major portion of the drama, but in the end love and faith triumph in the old-fashioned way over cold-blooded avarice and bloodthirsty cruelty, the curtain falling on a happy ending, that is as balm to the hearts of a popular audience. Opening "prologuially" and in lively and interesting fashion with a treat to the youngsters in Epping Forest, introducing local children and the Gordon Boys' Brigade Band, we get at the heart of things at the residence of the villain, Gideon Snake, in the first act, and witness the success of his scheme to ruin the unsuspecting Richard Thorneycroft, who bitterly repents a past that is associated with Olga Snake, the wife of the unspeakable Gideon, from whom he had separated years before the action commences. In the second act the pathetic interest deepens with the return of the sea-captain, Edgar Thornycroft, who is in search of his brother Richard and his daughter Beatrice, and whose heart is gladdened by the discovery that the son whom he thought to be lost at sea is still alive. It is not necessary to disclose how the tangled web of villainy is unravelled, and how the virtuous characters emerge from their tribulations with hearts chastened, but Mr. Jefferson, we can assure our readers, grips the attention of the lover of melodrama from the first, and the interest felt in his work is cumulative. There is no clumsy workmanship in his structure, and London by Day and Night answers to the description set forth in the programme, in that it is deeply interesting, thrilling, and remarkable.

The drama is consistently well acted throughout. Mr. Fred Morgan presents us with a clever conception of Gideon Snake, whom he makes a very plausible and smiling villain indeed. Gideon is quick to plan, and even quicker to strike, and Mr. Morgan pursues the downward path with unabated energy and resourcefulness throughout. Miss Marie Clavering as the adventuress Olga Snake is quite mercurial in the lighter moments of the drama, and especially so at her entrance in the first act. The buoyancy of Miss Clavering's impersonation in this act is in deep contrast to her tragic intensity in the second, where she throws vitriol into the eyes of her partner in villainy, Gideon Snake. Mr. Beresford Whitcomb makes an interesting Richard Thorneycroft, and emphasises with considerable pathos the repentance of the philanthropist for the errors of his youth. Mr. Jo Monkhouse also cuts a pathetic figure as Edgar Thorneycroft, the sea-captain, a character that strongly reminds us of Dan'l Peggotty in "David Copperfield." Miss Irene Ross is earnest and sympathetic as the waif Dick, and only requires to be more boyish to be quite perfect. Mr. Frank Stone puts a deal of backbone into his rendering of Jack Hainsworth, of the Royal Navy, being especially good in the second act; and Mr. George Ellis, who, as George Fleming, becomes in turn a solicitor's clerk and a prison warder, puts plenty of character into his work. Mr. Fred May, who is largely responsible for the comic relief, plays Nicodemus Sneezer, an elderly grocer suffering from the effects of a chronic cold in the head, and possessing also amatory instincts that are equally as chronic; for in spite of the fact that he owes allegiance to Emily Ann Sneezer, his better half, he hankers all through the piece after "Baria," otherwise Maria Pink, described on the programme as a "rough diamond." Mr. May keeps the house in roars of laughter, and Miss May Seton, who appears as Maria, also becomes immensely popular. Mr. Keith Fraser strengthens the forces at the disposal of vice by his clear-cut and consistent portrait of Major Godfrey Snake, the Governor of Portland Prison; Mr. A. J. May is characteristically brutal as the unscrupulous chief warder, Peter Carter; Miss Julie Adams is a droll Mrs. Weston, Miss Nell Gilmore an effective Mrs. Sneezer, and Miss Florence Creagh, always refined and interesting, presents us with a sketch of Beatrice Thorneycroft that is at once forcible and touching. Other parts are adequately handled by Mr. Ashton Winslow and Mr. Albert Sumner. The piece was originally produced for the first time in the Metropolis at the West London Theatre on July 18, 1898, under the title of The Bootblack. It is exceedingly well staged.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, April 23,
the Comic Opera, by H. B. Farnie and R. Reece, Composed by R. Planquette, entitled
"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

This week the Fulham Theatre is given over to the attraction of genuine comic opera. A good company, under the management of Mr. E. St. Alban, is appearing in the delightful Les Cloches de Corneville, which is surely one of the best comic operas ever produced. The work of the principals is excellent, the chorus is well dressed and well drilled, and the whole production creates a most favourable impression. Mr. G. A. Fox is a stately and handsome figure as the Marquis de Corneville, and his rich voice is heard to great advantage. Mr. William Everard sings well and acts brightly as Grenicheaux; Mr. Fred Dark as the Bailie possesses an inexhaustible fund of broad humour, of which he makes ample use, his efforts to amuse being ably seconded by Mr. Richard Martin as Gobo, whose fantastic get-up is most effective. The performance of Mr. St. Alban as Gaspard is certainly one of unusual excellence, his acting throughout being particularly clever and powerful. Miss Marion Ayling is a charming and dainty Germaine, singing the tuneful numbers allotted to her in excellent taste; Miss May Bradbury makes a capital representative of Serpolette, being brimful of humour and abandon; and Miss L. Rhodes looks very smart as Christophe. The orchestra, under the direction of the Chevalier Legrand, does full justice to the bright and pleasant music.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, April 23, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"THE EARL AND THE GIRL."

Mr. William Greet's principal company is here this week on a return visit with that lively musical play, The Earl and the Girl, and is meeting with a most enthusiastic reception. On Monday evening the house was very full, and the audience were much delighted with the excellency of the production, showing their appreciation by their demands for encores. The company has been subject to very slight alteration since its last visit, and several old favourites were given a big reception, notably Mr. William Stephens, who is seen to such advantage as Jim Cheese, the dog trainer, who is passed off as the Earl with such mirth-provoking results. The part is well suited to Mr. Stephens' style, and he is very amusing, being a comedian of endless resource and originality. As usual, the song, "I'd be satisfied with life," secured several recalls. Another prime favourite is Miss Florence Imeson, who makes a captivating Daisy Fallowfield, scoring very heavily with "Sammy," a song of which audiences never seem to tire. Elphin Haye is charmingly played by Miss Aimee Grey, who is the "Girl"; while Mr. Percy Carr as the "Earl," Richard Wargrave, is excellent. His song, "The Mediterranean," is among the successes of the evening. Downham, the pushful American solicitor, is capitally played by Mr. Will Hindson, whose energy seems to know no bounds. The other solicitor, Mr. Talk, is amusingly embodied by Mr. J. C. Graves; while Mr. G. H. Curzon is in great form as Mr. Bunker Bliss. Mr. Percy E. Wright is smart as the Hon. Crewe Boodle, and Mr. F. W. Pattrick shines in the small part of Mr. Hazell, "mine host" of the Fallowfield Arms. In the character of Liza Shoddam Miss Dot Carey makes a great hit, her low comedy is cleverly played, and adds greatly to the humour of the piece. Miss Gladys Fontaine is very good as the retired strong woman, Mrs. Black; while Miss Helen Langton is imposing as Miss Virginia Bliss. The chorus are most indefatigable in their efforts, and help greatly towards success. The dance "L'Entente Cordiale" is now quite one of the most attractive features of the production. The staging is on the most complete and artistic scale, and the dresses are very tasteful. The orchestra does fine work under the bâton of Mr. Evelyn Baker, and the whole production is under the direction of Mr. G. H. Highland.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, April 23,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Charles Reade, entitled
"IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND."

Although the motive for which this drama was written—the remedying of the barbarities of prison life—is no longer existent, its sterling merits still appeal strongly to theatre-goers; and on Monday it was presented by Mr. John M. East to a large and most appreciative audience. As Tom Robinson that sterling actor Mr. Ernest Leicester gives a thorough representation of the young adventurer. He completely identifies himself with the part, and acts with great power and resource, his touches of grim humour being especially successful. Mr. Horace Hunter makes a manly George Fielding, and scores heavily. William Fielding is well placed in the hands of Mr. W. Goddard; Mr. George Claremont does well as the Governor of the Model Prison; the prison chaplain, Rev. Francis Eden—whose stirring lines are frequently greeted with cheers—is ably submitted by Mr. J. A. Rosier; the rascally attorney Peter Crawley, as impersonated by Mr. Willie Garvey, is responsible for much laughter; Mr. Fred Dobell makes a grinding and overbearing villain as Mr. Meadows; the antics of the famous character Jacky are made screamingly funny by Mr. Teddy Coleman; Mr. T. Adams and Mr. H. H. Young as turnkeys are responsible for pleasant touches of humour in the heartrending prison scene; Mr. Harry Crane is satisfactory as Isaac Levi, a Jew; and Mr. R. A. Beeton as Mr. Merton gives a good reading of the part. Miss Katherine Clarke is seen to advantage as the heroine Susan Merton. In her dramatic scenes, by her pathos and feeling, Miss Clarke soon secures the sympathies of the audience. As the poor waif, Miss Jessica Black gives a finished performance, and the slight dashes of rebellious spirit, so true in a boy, although in dire distress, are admirably shown.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, April 23, the Drama, by Henry Pettitt and Augustus Harris, entitled
"HUMAN NATURE."

The patrons of this popular Peckham house have had this week the pleasure of seeing the evergreen Drury-lane drama Human Nature. The piece has long ago received the stamp of popular approval, and therefore comment upon it is superfluous. At the Crown the play is excellently rendered, and the scenery and effects are all that could be desired. Especially good from a spectacular point of view is the presentment of the return of the troops from the Zulu war at the end of the fourth act. Mr. Albert Ward is a manly Captain Temple, acting with much force and feeling, and quite gaining the sympathy of the audience in the various trying situations through which he has to pass. Mr. Frank Harding is a polished villain as the military adventurer Paul De Vigne. Mr. Charles Langley makes an excellent impression as Matthew Hawker, a scoundrel of a different temperament. Mr. Orlando Daly gives a powerful character-study as the deeply-wronged Stephen Mardyke; Mr. Lytton Grey is very amusing as Horatio Spofkins, the eccentric lawyer's clerk, with a devotion to the poetic muse; Mr. H. Watson is capital in the small part of an Arab chief; Mr. H. W. Brame gives a good representation of the kind-hearted vicar, Arthur Lulworth; Joe Lamkin is admirably played by Mr. Charles Dodsworth; Nellie Temple is presented with much sympathetic force by Miss Agnes Imlay; Miss Leah Marlborough is a powerful and stately Cora Grey; Miss Marie Wright is a vivacious and amusing Maggie Wilkins; Miss Irene Ross gives a touching embodiment as the poor waif Dick, and the pathos of her death scene moves many to tears. Miss Dorie Mason plays well as Frank; and Mrs. Stanislaus Calhaem gives a striking study of the unsympathetic rôle of Mrs. Lamkin. Miss Cissy Farrell is excellent as the kindly Mrs. Lulworth.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, April 23, the Drama in Five Acts, by G. R. Sims and Henry Pettitt, entitled
"IN THE RANKS."

This famous old Adelphi drama is always sure of a hearty welcome no matter where it is staged, and, needless to say, in Marylebone its reception has been most cordial, Mr. Bailey's cosy theatre being comfortably filled during the week with sympathetic audiences. The part of Ned Drayton is an excellent one, and Mr. W. F. Hartford's fine elocutionary powers enable him to score, his voice filling every corner of the house. As Gideon Blake, Mr. Alfred Harding brings out most effectively all the repulsiveness of that shady character, whose doings are execrated quite unanimously by the "gods." Mr. Talbot Homewood is decidedly good as Captain Holcroft, Mr. A. G. Lytton does well as Sergeant Searle, Mr. Kenneth Black is duly impressive as the hop-picker, and Mr. W. P. Sheen's whimsical rendering of Joe Buzzard is responsible for much laughter and applause. As Mrs. Buzzard, Miss Blanche Stanley exploits her low-comedy talents to great advantage, Miss Agnes Paulton is a merry and bright Barbara Herrick, and Miss Lily Hammersley as Ruth Herrick sustains the trying rôle with sympathetic tenderness. The remaining members of a long cast work with a will, and the piece, which is mounted and staged in good style, is produced by Mr. J. M. East.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, April 23, the Play, in Four Acts, by Alfred Sutro, entitled
"THE WALLS OF JERICHO."

Mr. Alfred Sutro's successful play, The Walls of Jericho, is proving a great attraction here this week, and the members of Messrs. Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux's excellent company must feel highly gratified by the enthusiastic reception accorded them nightly by crowded houses. The all-round excellence of the acting is most marked. Full advantage is taken of every opportunity, and the play from start to finish goes very smoothly. Chief interest centres upon the doings of Jack Frobisher, who by vigorous protests endeavours to break down the artificiality and intrigues of society life, and, failing to do so, departs with his wife and child to the purer atmosphere of the Australian bush. Mr. Herbert Bunston scores a great success as Jack Frobisher, and quickly impresses the audience by the convincing force of his acting, notably in the third act, wherein he indulges in a furious tirade against society life. This is an exceedingly effective piece of acting, and provokes rounds of applause. He is well supported by Miss Amy Ravenscroft, who as Lady Alethea Frobisher gives a very natural representation and acquits herself with distinction. The varying moods of indifference, pride, and love are faithfully portrayed, and by her excellent impersonation Miss Ravenscroft holds the attention of the audience throughout. Another good performance is that of Mr. Cecil Brooking in the rôle of the Marquis of Steventon, a part in which his talents, fully employed, receive hearty acknowledgment. Warm praise must also be given to Mr. Alfred S. Barber, who keeps the house in continuous good humour by his clever delineation of Hanky Bannister. Mr. A. W. Fryer handles the part of Harry Dallas with considerable tact and skill, and is to be congratulated on a sterling performance. Some excellent work is put in by Mr. V. Wilcox Cadogan as Bertram Hannaford, and commendation is due to Mr. Joseph Hart as the Hon. Wilfred Renton, Mr. W. L. Briscoe as Lord Drayton, and Mr. Wilfred Lane as Lord Marchmont. The natural charm and ingenuous manner of Miss Nona Wynne are apparent in the rôle of Lady Lucy Derenham, and Miss Helen Haye is sincere and sympathetic as Lady Westerby. Miss Jean Harkness appears to advantage as Miss Mornington, and Miss Mary Weigall as the Duchess of Skye, Miss May Brooke as Lady Porchester, and Miss Florence Harcourt as Miss Wyatt are excellent. The minor parts are well played, and the piece is admirably staged. Mr. Ernest F. Mehser is acting-manager, and Mr. A. H. Leveaux stage-manager for the company.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, April 23, the Farcical Comedy, in Three Acts, by Metcalf Wood and Beatrice Heron-Maxwell, entitled
"THE HOUSEKEEPER."

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal are treating the patrons of the pretty Notting Hill Gate theatre to their delightful répertoire this week. Still Waters Run Deep on Tuesday, The Elder Miss Blossom on Wednesday, A Scrap of Paper on Thursday, and Friday and to-day, matinée and evening performances of The Ironmaster, will complete their week's programme. Cleverly devised, wittily written, and admirably acted, The Housekeeper is just one of those delightfully airy drawing-room comedies, which show off Mr. and Mrs. Kendall at their best. Indeed, all the company is excellently well cared for, and each minor part has its meaning and opportunity. It is the acme of legitimate farcical comedy when Colonel Trent finds out that he has been treating Lady Audrey as a mere housekeeper, and even funnier is the scene where he practises his "'prentice hand" at love-making "by the card," and becomes engaged to all the household in turn. Mrs. Kendal is sublime in her assumption of the clever, good-natured, unselfish guardian angel of the Whitby ménage, and in most difficult and subtle situations she never descends to the ridiculous, but maintains an equable level of excellence throughout. Mr. Kendal has seldom showed to better advantage than as the bashful "bear," and modest martinet, Colonel Lionel Trent, and he contributes some scenes of exquisite comedy. Mr. Bassett Roe glides easily through the part of the languid Lord Runswick, whom Lady Audrey runs as M.P. for Westcliffe. Mr. Ernest Hendric contributes a vastly amusing and clever character-sketch of the amorous parvenu, William Hickson. Mr. Reynolds Denniston and Miss Marie Lohr, as the pair of young lovers, Robert Sledmere and Cicely Blake, are quite satisfactory; whilst Mrs. A. P. Topping is intensely droll, and gives a finished performance as the deaf old Lady Robertson, with her decorated ear-trumpet. Mr. Metcalfe Wood acts well in the unconventional part of Chippenham Berkeley; and Mr. W. M. Rutherford distinctly scores as the butler Crane. Miss Elise Clarens makes an attractive widow, and her somewhat artificial manner is exactly suited to the part of the designing Mrs. Rillington. Miss Jessie Moore also does good service as the sporting Mrs. Pennington Greene, and Mr. Charles F. Pool as her unobtrusive hubby.

ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.

Miss Dorothey Cacey's company in the farcical comedy, Facing the Music, have had an excellent reception this week at the Artillery Theatre. It is the first time Mr. J. H. Darnley's play has been seen in Woolwich, and, judging by the favour extended to it, we doubt not that the play will be brought here again. Mr. Charles Windermere is exceedingly entertaining with his portrayal of the absurdities of "the other Mr. Smith," and his characterisation is a considerable factor in the success of the play. Miss Dorothey Cacey gives us a delightful performance of Nora, and Miss Clare Manifield acts in agreeable fashion the part of the curate's wife. Mr. Wentworth Fane is amusingly sanctimonious as the Rev. John Smith, and he sustains in capital style the priestly intonation of voice and the gestures and movements of a mild-mannered man of the Church. Mr. Harry Averell is light-hearted and breezy as Dick Desmond; and Mr. J. Knox Orde presents a well-finished study of Colonel Duncan Smith. Miss Evelyn Shelley is to be highly commended for her admirable representation of the talkative but shrewd old housekeeper; and praise is due to Miss Mildred Hodson as the actress, and Mr. Henry Nelson as the police-sergeant. Mr. Charles Windermere's one-act play, Clause Number Six, is given as a curtain-raiser, the two characters in it being handled with conspicuous ability by Mr. H. Averell and Miss Clare Manifield.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, April 23,
The Musical Play, entitled
"THE GIRL FROM KAY'S."

The really amusing play The Girl From Kay's, for the story of which Mr. Owen Hall is responsible, forms the attraction this week at the Dalston Theatre, and it is once more demonstrated that it is as popular as ever. Not only on account of its droll incidents, its tuneful music by Ivan Caryll, and its lyrics by Adrian Ross and Claude Aveling, does it appeal to the general public, but its pretty dresses and its attractive scenery by Harker also further its claim to the consideration of the playgoer. It is presented by Mr. George Dance's principal company and goes with a swing which is exhilarating. Winnie Harborough, "the girl from Kay's," is played by Miss Beatrice Poole, who fully sustains the many excellent points of the character. Max Hoggenheimer, the bumptious, but withal good-natured, millionaire, finds a most congenial representative in Mr. H. C. Barry. Another noteworthy character, that of Joseph, hall-porter at the Flacton Hotel, is most capably sketched by Mr. Tom Seymour. Mr. T. S. Durant makes a manly Harry Gordon; Mr. Reginald Grey is just sufficiently foppish as the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle; and Mr. Robert Rivers is parchment personified as Theodore Quelch. There are others in the male cast who do good service, including Mr. Bert Burton, Mr. Walter Bates, and Mr. D. King. The necessary touch of "society" demeanour is given to the character of Mrs. Chalmers by Miss Maud Leonard; and Miss Emily Taylor charmingly impersonates Nora, Miss Mabel Dent being a neat Ellen. The orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Arthur L. Spittle.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, April 23, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"FLORODORA."

Kingston audiences have been delighted this week with this charming production, which is being presented by a strong company captained by Mr. J. Bannister Howard, whose name, well known to Kingston playgoers, is recognised as a guarantee of excellence. The dominant character in the play, Anthony Tweedlepunch, is impersonated by Mr. Daley Cooper, than whom it would be difficult to find a more capable exponent of the part. His irresistible drolleries, occurring as they do so frequently in the course of the play, keep the audience in a continual state of merriment, so that there is scarcely a dull moment from the rise to the fall of the curtain. A captivating portrayal of the part of Lady Holyrood is given by Miss Kate Leicester, who won many admirers amongst the onlookers. Miss Florence Hersee also makes a most creditable appearance as Angela Gilfain, which she invests with a captivating juvenility. Miss Gwladys Elvey makes a most attractive Dolores. Mr. E. Courtier Dutton appears as Frank Abercoed, and discloses the possession of a fine baritone voice, which the audience are not slow to recognise. Mr. Stanley White acquits himself well as Cyrus W. Gilfain; and Mr. Harold Perry as Captain Arthur Donegal gives every satisfaction. The chorus is a strong one, and well trained, and the scenery and the costumes are all that could be desired. An augmented orchestra is ably directed by Mr. J. G. Hahn.

PRINCE'S, POPLAR.

On Monday, April 23,
The Drama, in Four Acts, by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE PRODIGAL SON."

Good acting and excellent stage-management were the distinguishing features of the opening performance here of Mr. Arthur Collins's company in The Prodigal Son on Monday evening, when an excellent company was accorded a hearty reception by a well-filled house. Miss Alma Murray achieves in gratifying fashion the most striking personal success of the evening in the part of Anna. The audience follows her performance with close attention throughout. Excellent, too, is Miss Cecil Cromwell as Helga, playing with forcefulness and earnestness the many scenes allotted her. Miss Lily Hall Caine successfully impersonates the part of Thora; Mr. Norman Partriege gives a thoroughly sound and effective performance of Oscar; Mr. Henry Renouf contributes a powerful reading of Magnus Stephensson; and as Stephen Magnusson Mr. Henry George is well cast. Many eulogistic things have been written of Mr. George's admirable portrayal, and these are being readily endorsed this week. Mr. Frank Collins appears as Oscar Neilson, and Mr. P. Gromer as Eric. Miss Mima Renouf makes the character of Margaret conspicuous by good acting. Others deserving of mention are Mr. Howard Russell, Miss Emily Grove, and Miss Kathleen Kellie. At the conclusion of the performance on Monday the principal artists were accorded generous recognition, the applause being loud and long. Mr. Stephen E. Blythe's orchestra remains a feature of the evening's entertainment.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, April 23,
the Domestic Drama, in Three Acts, by A. W. Pinero, entitled
"SWEET LAVENDER."

Mr. Russell Rosse has engaged an excellent company to interpret Sweet Lavender, including Miss Muriel Godfrey Turner, who gives a pleasing and dainty impersonation of Minnie Gilfillian. Mr. W. F. K. Lancy's Dick Phenyl is a clever performance; his assumption of the eccentric barrister keeps the audience in the merriest of moods. Mr. Tripp Edgar as the love-sick Clement Hale is excellent, and soon establishes himself a favourite. A fine interpretation of Geoffrey Wedderbarn is presented by Mr. Nelson Ramsay; Mr. E. C. Matthews gives a clever delineation of the humorous and good-natured doctor, Delaney; Mr. Robert Minster causes amusement by his boisterous performance of Horace Bream; a quiet and sympathetic portrait of Ruth Holt is given Miss Ethel Verne; a good exponent of Mrs. Gilfillian is found in Miss Eugenie Verne; Miss Edna Godfrey Turner makes a quiet and unobtrusive Lavender; Mr. Maw, a solicitor, is well played by Mr. Walter Maclean; and Mr. Charles R. Hann gives a well-thought-out study of the hairdresser, Mr. Bulyer. The curtain-raiser is Lady Fortune, a smartly written little play by Mr. Charles Thomas, and admirably presented by Mr. Robert Minster as Lord Amblely, Mr. Tripp Edgar as Guy Mallory, Mr. Charles R. Hann as Mr. Jessup, Miss Ethel Verne as Mrs. Cunliffe, Miss Muriel Godfrey Turner as Kate Cunliffe, and Miss Sybil Wise as Sarah.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, April 23, the Play by A. Goldfaden, entitled
"SHULAMITH."

The engagement of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company still continues to give great satisfaction to the particular section of the patrons of the Pavilion to whom these performances appeal, and large audiences are the result of the special efforts which are being made. There is a change of play every night, and the work thus entailed upon the talented artists engaged is necessarily somewhat of a heavy character; that the various delineations are perfectly successful is well shown by the great enthusiasm which prevails throughout each evening. Mr. J. Scherman proves himself an able stage-manager, and Mr. F. Staub is efficient as musical conductor. In A. Goldfaden's play Shulamith, great praise must be given to Mme. Zwiebel for her powerful acting of the title-rôle; while Mme. Kayzer was excellent as Abigail. A clever and realistic impersonation of Menoah was given by Mr. Goldsmid, and Mr. Chizick was well received as a Shepherd. Mr. Katz proved interesting as the Gideonite Joab, and Mr. M. Gufosky is worthy of high commendation for his portrayal of Absalom. Mr. M. Axelrad was effective and impressive as the priest Nathan, and a creditable representation of Abinadab was given by Mr. Landau. Mr. J. Scherman was very entertaining as Zinngetank, and Chanonya was made the most of by M. Ellman. The scenery and dresses were in the best possible taste. During the week performances have been given of Moriss Tailor, Daughter of Jerusalem, The Viceroy, Bar Cochba, King Lear, and Hero of Jerusalem, with gratifying results.

SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL AT STRATFORD.

No sign was wanting of the increased importance which attaches to the honouring of Shakespeare's Birthday at Stratford-on-Avon, and this year the 342nd anniversary was made the occasion of a public holiday. The town was crowded with visitors, and meetings of many local Shakespeare societies were held in the course of the day. The ceremony of decorating the poet's tomb in the chancel of the Collegiate Church was performed in the morning, some hundreds of persons bringing floral offerings. Chief among the wreaths were those from the Birthplace Trustees, the Shakespeare Club, the Royal Society of St. George, the National German Society at Weimar, the Birmingham Shakespeare Club, and Mr. and Mrs. Benson. Nearly the whole width of the chancel was covered with beautiful flowers and wreaths. An appropriate address was delivered by the vicar, the Rev. G. Arbuthnot, who asked his hearers to think of Shakespeare as a great pacificator—he united not only the hearts of those present, he had united nations by his works.

Foremost in the celebrations were the performances given in the Memorial Theatre by Mr. F. R. Benson's company, the series, which is to extend over three weeks, opening on Monday with Much Ado About Nothing, in which both Mr. and Mrs. Benson appeared and received a hearty ovation from a crowded house. Mrs. Benson is at her brightest and best in the part of Beatrice, and her rendering of the rôle on Monday was marked by grace, feeling, and spontaneity, and occasioned the greatest enthusiasm. Mr. Benson's Benedick was notable for its rich humour and deep sensibility, and the worth of the performance was keenly recognised. Mr. Cyril Keightley gave a sound and well-emphasised rendering of Claudio, and Miss Tita Brand's performance of Hero was a pleasing one. Mr. Clarence Derwent was highly successful as Don Pedro; Mr. Philip Sanders realised exactly the forbidding characteristics of Borachio; and the resonant voice of Mr. D. P. Owen served him well as the grave and reverend Friar. To Mr. George R. Weir's rendering of Dogberry was imparted the essence of drollery, and every humorous point in the rôle told with unerring effect. Praise is also merited by Mr. H. O. Nicholson as Verges and Mr. B. Richton as Seacole. Miss Mildred Forster made a most engaging Margaret, and other parts were entrusted to performers whose earnestness was a marked feature of the representation. The songs were allotted to Miss Cissie Saumarez, who rendered them excellently, and also charmed by her graceful dancing.

A handsome bouquet was presented to Mrs. Benson by the Mayor of Stratford, who appeared upon the stage and extended a warm welcome to the company. Mr. Benson said, in acknowledgment, that they had been welcomed on so many occasions that, although the company were never tired of receiving it, they thought some of their hearers might be tired of giving it. The warmth of the welcome was very encouraging. They had been set a somewhat difficult task, and if any imperfections were noticeable during the ensuing three weeks he hoped the audiences would attribute them to the difficulty of the undertaking rather than to any weakening of a desire to do honour to that great festival. It was interesting to learn that at the end of the three weeks the Memorial Theatre would have achieved one of the purposes for which the founders built it, as by that time there would have been presented in that building nearly all of Shakespeare's actable plays. The governors, continued Mr. Benson, were now going to turn their energies in a somewhat new direction, and they had commissioned him to secure—and he was pleased to say that he had been successful in so doing—the co-operation of a great many distinguished artists, who had promised them their support and assistance next year. He was glad to say, and he hoped they would be pleased to hear, that that did not mean that he and his company would not come back to Stratford. But they would have the honour of co-operating with, among others, Sir Charles Wyndham, Messrs. Beerbohm Tree, George Alexander, Arthur Bourchier, Otho Stuart, Lewis Waller, Forbes-Robertson, and H. B. Irving, and in the future (possibly next year) they hoped to be able to announce the names of other distinguished artists who would work with them. It was a great privilege and pleasure to Mr. Benson to make the announcement, and he hoped his company would have the honour of co-operating in that great work, either directly or indirectly, for many years. Mr. Benson's speech was received with prolonged cheers.

The Taming of the Shrew was chosen for Tuesday, when Mr. Benson's company again acquitted themselves to the fullest satisfaction. Mr. Benson's personality is happily suited to the character of the redoubtable Petruchio, and in his impersonation the humour of the part had full play. Fire and energy were never lacking in his performance, and he held the closest attention of the audience throughout. Mrs. Benson entered thoroughly into the rôle of Katharina, whose temperament was fully evidenced by the characteristic treatment the part received. Miss Olive Noble charmed all as Bianca, acting with rare brightness and vivacity. Mr. George R. Weir handled the rôle of Grumio in the way which his artistic accomplishments led us to expect; Mr. H. O. Nicholson played with care and judgment as Gremio; and Mr. Cyril Keightley surrounded the part of Biondello with quaint mannerisms. The minor parts of the piece, which excited hearty laughter throughout, were also well sustained.

Wednesday's programme embraced Hamlet in the morning and Julius Cæsar in the evening, both performances being greatly enjoyed. Mr. Benson's Hamlet gives every evidence of deep study, and his dramatic resource and skilful by-play serve to place it among the most interesting representations of the character. Mrs. Benson was seen to exceptional advantage as Ophelia, exhibiting at times great emotional capacity, while her depiction of the distraught maiden was made remarkably real and convincing. Mr. H. O. Nicholson acquitted himself admirably as Polonius, and the King of Mr. Clarence Derwent was an impersonation that gave strength to the production. In Julius Cæsar Mr. Benson supplied ample proof of his elocutionary gifts as Mark Antony, and Mr. Cyril Keightley's Cassius was also a memorable performance. Mrs. Benson's fine presence was invaluable in the part of Portia, and the other characters were in keeping with the all-round excellence of the performance.

The governors of the Shakespeare Memorial Association held their thirty-first general meeting in the library of the Memorial-buildings on Monday. Mr. Archibald Flower, chairman of the governors, presided, and, in presenting the report for the previous year, called attention to the services which Mr. F. R. Benson had rendered the association, to which the Memorial Theatre belongs, by undertaking for many years past the conduct of the Shakespearean performances at the annual festivals in April and May. At the same time he made a most interesting announcement regarding dramatic arrangements which were in contemplation for the festival of 1907. He pointed out that at the festival of last year the management was, for the 17th time, entrusted to Mr. F. R. Benson, who arranged an interesting programme, including fourteen of Shakespeare's plays and Marlowe's Edward II. Thanks largely to the enthusiasm and hard work of Mr. Benson and his company, the annual festival, the chairman said, now aroused so wide an interest that they could feel that the one great object of the association—namely, the honouring of the memory of Shakespeare—was year by year being more fully attained. In 1902 they received the invaluable help of Miss Ellen Terry, who generously gave her services. Her example was to have been followed by Sir Henry Irving, but his death prevented the fulfilment of his promise. And now he had the pleasure of announcing that, in response to invitations conveyed by Mr. Benson, as one of the governors, all the leading Shakespearean actors were promising co-operation on similar lines. Through Mr. Benson the council had already received assurances from Messrs. George Alexander, Arthur Bourchier, H. B. Irving, Forbes-Robertson, Otho Stuart, H. Beerbohm Tree, Lewis Waller, and Sir Charles Wyndham that they were in full sympathy with their objects, and that they would individually and collectively support the festival. They therefore hoped that most of these gentlemen would appear in one or more of their performances next year. The statement of accounts for the year ended March 31, 1906, showed a total expenditure of £3463 11s. 5d. The receipts for admissions to the theatre, library, and lecture-room amounted to £2755 19s. 6d., showing a deficiency of £707 11s. 11d. Towards this deficiency they had received a donation of £130 from Mrs. Flower and £363 9s. 5d. from rents and interest on property and investments which had been presented to the association, leaving a balance of £214 2s. 6d. on the wrong side. If it had not been for a specially heavy payment for alterations and additional fire-escapes the total receipts would have covered the expenditure. They would like to find themselves with a good balance in hand, which might be added to their fund for the purchase of books or pictures; but they were at present spending more than their income on their primary object—the production of Shakespeare's plays.

Sir Edward Russell (Liverpool), the Rev. F. H. Hodgson (Stratford), and Mr. Howard Pearson (Birmingham) were added to the executive council.

"CUPID IN KERRY."

An original Three-Act Comedy, by the late Edmund Leahy, M.P., produced for the first time at the Queen's Royal Theatre, Dublin, on Thursday, April 19.

Harry Wingfield .....MR. ROBERT FAULKNER
Jack Meredith .....MR. H. RYELAND LEIGH
Major Dobbs .....MR. ION IRELAND
Fred Danvers .....MR. DANE CLARKE
Thaddeus Hegarty .....MR. J. A. DALY
Jerry .....MR. JAMES O'BRIEN
Pat .....MR. T. BAYLEY
Eily .....MISS CECILIA DARE
Nora .....MISS MAY AXON
Mrs. Judith Hegarty....MISS MADELINE HURST
Nancy .....MISS MONICA KELLY
Mrs. O'Donoughue .....MRS. BRADY

At the Queen's, Dublin, on Thursday night last week, there was a capital house, which had assembled to witness the first production of the above comedy, the performance being under the patronage and in the presence of Mr. John E. Redmond, M.P., and other members of the Irish Parliamentary Party. Prior to the demise of the author arrangements had been made for the production, and playgoers are indebted to Mr. J. W. Whitbread for seeing the project through, and for the excellent manner in which he stage-managed and mounted the piece.

The comedy, full of Hibernian humour, is thoroughly Irish in character. The characters are well drawn, and are racy and of the soil. The plot is, of course, a simple one. The story opens in a hotel in Kerry, to which two young Englishmen have journeyed in search of the objects of their love, whom they had met while on a visit to Bournemouth, and who had been hurried off to Ireland by their aunt, to whose care they had been entrusted by their uncle. The uncle, a mercenary old gentleman, is in receipt of the interest on the fortunes of the two girls until they marry with his consent, and he has charged the aunt not to permit anything in the nature of love-making on their part. The girls, however, find lovers, and also friends who are willing to assist them in defeating the plans of their elderly relations. By means of a bogus threatening letter, concocted by Jerry, the servant, the uncle's fears of assassination are aroused, and he demands police protection from Mr. Danvers, the local constabulary officer, who is in league with the lovers. Danvers pretends to give an unwilling consent to the young men masquerading as policemen on guard at Castle Hegarty. The girls are let into the secret, and the plot works admirably, the most humorous situations arising after the introduction of the pretended constabulary men. A conspicuous figure in the police is that of Major Dobbs, who aspires to the heart and hand of Mrs. Judith Hegarty, the austere aunt, who already mourns the loss of her "dear No. 2." In the end she accepts the major, the uncle consents to the marriages of the young people, and the final curtain falls on a happy party.

The acting throughout was exceedingly good. Mr. H. Ryeland Leigh and Mr. Robert Faulkner were in excellent form as Jack Meredith and Harry Wingfield; the character of Major Dobbs was safely entrusted to Mr. Ion Ireland, whose description of his doings as a competitor in the point-to-point races was most entertaining. The selection of Mr. Dane Clarke for the part of Fred Danvers was a good one. The eccentric Uncle Thaddeus Hegarty had a most able exponent in Mr. J. A. Daly, the humour of the part of Jerry was quite safe in the keeping of Mr. James O'Brien, and the character of Pat (an old waiter) was well played by Mr. Tom Bayley. Eily and Nora found fascinating representatives in Misses Cecilia Dare and May Axon, Miss Madeline Hurst gave a most artistic rendering of the part of Mrs. Judith Hegarty, and Miss Monica Kelly as Nancy was much appreciated. Mrs. Brady made a very capable Mrs. O'Donoughue.

AN ACTOR IN MISFORTUNE.

(TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.)

SIR,—I notice in the Era of the 21st inst. you say a few words as to Mr. Gordon Wilson's illness. I know Mr. Wilson personally, and I also know that he is lying seriously ill in the hospital and is absolutely penniless. I shall be pleased to receive any subscriptions for him, and see that the money is properly spent.

Mr. Gordon Wilson played First Robber in Gompert's Pamorama of the Crimean War, under the management of his father, in 1857. Thirty-five years ago he was engaged with the old Rochester Theatre in F. B. Chatterton's juvenile production of Henry VIII. From that time onwards he played many parts under many managers, being perhaps better known under his stage name of "G. W. Glennie."—Yours faithfully,

MATTHEW ARNOLD.

THE URBAN CLUB.

The annual festival in celebration of the birthday of William Shakespeare was held on Monday evening at the Hotel Cecil, under the presidency of Sir Squire Bancroft. The members and guests included Sir James Crichton Browne, M.D., Mr. W. Parkinson, the Rev. T. W. Wood, the Rev. C. W. Steffans, Mr. W. E. Church (hon. secretary), Mr. T. Thurgood Catling (hon. treasurer) and Mrs. Catling, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Marriott, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cruikshanks, Mr. and Mrs. Hance, Mr. A. H. Hance, Miss Hance, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd, Dr. Appleby Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Trass, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pratt, Mr. J. R. Perfect and Miss M. Perfect, Dr. John Phené, Mr. R. T. Baines, Miss E. Burfield Brown, Messrs. H. Cooper Cliffe, E. J. Odell, J. Hancox, Henry Evill, H. Haes, R. H. Gibson, C. E. Gibson, E. A. Smith, A. Peachey, L. D. Powles, Sydney Pardon, G. J. Dawson, Walter Browne, H. Battrams, J. Pitkin, and others.

The toast of "The King and Queen" was duly honoured, the National Anthem being sung by the company with solo by Mr. Walter Grace.

The CHAIRMAN, in proposing the toast of the evening, "The Memory of Shakespeare," said his task was a difficult one, for it would almost seem that every word had been spoken, every thought had been uttered, every eulogy had been written concerning that wonderful genius, William Shakespeare, who had earned above all others the diploma of immortality. His best claim to the occupancy of the chair on that occasion was in the calling he had followed, for while Shakespeare was honoured by all, actors might justly claim to pay the highest tribute to his memory, as by his works he made the stage eternal. His own great love for the poet owed its origin to the visits he paid as a boy to Sadler's Wells and the Princess's Theatres. At the former he enjoyed the scholarly Shakespearean performances of Samuel Phelps, a member of whose company—Henry Marston—was a former esteemed member of the Urban Club. At the Princess's Theatre he witnessed the splendid revivals of Charles Kean. In later years came the Shakespearean productions at the Lyceum Theatre, and now they had Mr. Tree's brilliant revivals at His Majesty's Theatre. It might be interesting to mention that at the Princess's fifty years ago that week he was one of those who saw Ellen Terry make her first appearance on the stage as the boy Mamillius in The Winter's Tale. With Phelps, Charles Kean, and G. V. Brooke, it was his privilege as a young and struggling country actor to appear, and he learnt much from them. To Shakespeare they were indebted for the most alluring and entrancing works in the English tongue. How much poorer would the world be without those princesses of the drama, Julia, Rosalind, Desdemona, Beatrice, Viola, Miranda, Portia, Imogen, Olivia, and Cordelia. Shakespeare was "for all time," so he was for all men a "guide," philosopher, and friend. To him the monarch could look for majesty, he taught the statesman patriotism, the gentleman true conduct, the preacher real piety, and the soldier courage. By whom was old age so soothed with consolation, or youth so upheld by hope, or who was better qualified to give the poet living inspiration and the painter an elevating subject? In conclusion, the Chairman called on the company to drink to the memory of England's famous son, William Shakespeare.

Sir JAMES CRICHTON BROWNE, M.D., in proposing the toast of "The Drama," entered upon an interesting speculation as to what might have happened if Shakespeare had reached old age; and remarked that however powerful the influence of the drama was in the treatment of mental disease, it was much more useful as a preventive; and he believed that if the drama were to be for a time abolished they would have to enlarge their lunatic asylums.

Mr. H. COOPER CLIFFE and Mr. E. J. ODELL briefly replied to the toast.

Mr. W. E. CHURCH, in proposing the health of the Chairman, trusted that Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft would enjoy many years' tranquillity and happiness in that wide social circle in which they were so much admired and esteemed.

The CHAIRMAN acknowledged the toast in a few appropriate words; and the concluding toast, that of "The Visitors," was proposed by Dr. Appleby Stephenson, and responded to by Mrs. Leighton.

The programme of music and recitals was under the able direction of Mr. Charles Cruikshanks, secretary of the Actors' Association. The recitations included "The Graveyard Scene" from Hamlet, by Mr. Francis Oldacre. "Othello's Speech before the Senate," and "King Henry before Harfleur" (King Henry V.), by Mr. H. Cooper Cliffe; a selection from the third part of Henry VI. by Mr. E. J. Odell; the wooing of Princess Catharine by Mr. Frederick Perks, and the closet scene from Hamlet by Miss Helena Millais. Shakespearian songs were given by Mr. George H. Dawson, Mr. Walter Grace, Miss Stella St. Audrie, and Mr. Arthur Millward. Pianoforte soles were excellently played by Mr. Wolseley Charles. The frontispiece of the programme, designed by Mr. Ernest Coffin and engraved by Mr. Fred Catling, represented the Casket scene in The Merchant of Venice.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

On Monday, April 23,
the Comic Opera, in Three Acts, by A. Vanloo and G. Duval, Adapted by Henry Hamilton, Composed by André Messager, entitled
"THE LITTLE MICHUS."

Mr. George Edwardes's company, in The Little Michus, is paying a first visit to North London this week, and a hearty welcome was extended to it on Monday last at the Alexandra by a well-filled house. Mounted and dressed with all the lavishness and care bestowed on a West End production and played by a company of conscientious and capable artists, complete success results, and Stoke Newington playgoers were not slow to show their appreciation of the excellent entertainment provided for their amusement. The Little Michus are most charmingly and daintily played by Miss Iris Hoey and Miss Thelma Ray as Blanche Marie and Marie Blanche respectively, the latter scoring heavily in the last act with her song, and violin obbligato played by herself à la Miss Denise Orme. The extravagances and eccentricities of General Des Ifs are most amusingly presented by Mr. Eric Thorne, an old favourite here, and laughter is incessant in every scene in which he is concerned. A most finished and artistic performance of Aristide Vert comes from Mr. Leonard Mackay, who is to be complimented on the much he makes out of very little: his singing of the "Weather-glass" song is one of the most pleasing features of the piece. As Gaston Rigaud, Mr. Arthur Royd sings well. Mr. Jack Cannot contributes largely to the fun by his excellent performance of Bagnolet; and Mr. Eardley Turner and Miss Elsie Cameron as Pierre and Madame Michu do sound work, which adds materially to the general success. A quaint and diverting little sketch of the Market Man comes from Mr. Willie Warde, jun.; and a couple of effective and graceful dances are executed by Miss Ivy Louise, who appears as Mlle. St. Cyr. The augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Harold Vicars.

MR. EDITOR,—Sir,—In your criticism of the 21st inst. of Castles in Spain at the New Royalty Theatre, you omitted my name, and substituted that of another lady, in the Spanish trio. I play Germaine the manicurist.—Yours faithfully, (Miss) NOEL NEVILLE, 28, Stanley-gardens, W.—April 24.

A Queen Without a Crown was launched at the Theatre Royal on Monday under the most favourable circumstances, the large audience demonstrating their appreciation in no uncertain manner, the curtain having to be frequently raised. Former works of Mr. Arthur Shirley and Mr. Ben Landeck are no strangers to Nottingham, and in their new play these practised playwrights have made a laudable attempt to raise the standard of melodrama. This aspiration is not without a large measure of success, and they deserve congratulations on providing what is essentially a "play to reach the heart," possessing emotional qualities and a sufficiency of stirring events that will go far to make it popular.

The curtain rises at the time that King Marcus of Balkaria is dying. Before he ever anticipated ascending the throne, Marcus had contracted a morganatic marriage with the Countess Mercedes Melrosa, by whom he had a son. On his accession he was compelled to espouse Theresa Maria, a princess of Caspia, who also bore him a son. The callous nature and arrogant manner of the Queen had embittered the life and happiness of the King, and earned the execrations of the populace, in consequence of which she had found it expedient to return some time before to the Court of her father. Hearing that the King is nearing his end, she comes back to Balkaria with her child, intending to assume the position of Queen-Regent, and proclaim her son as King. Just as the news is brought of her husband's death she is also apprised of the sudden death of her son, by which her hopes of reigning as Regent will be shattered. At the instigation of her uncle, General Dominica, and through her hatred of the Countess Mercedes, who she knew possessed the love of the dead King, Theresa Maria contrives that the infant son of the Countess shall be stolen, and take the place of her own dead son as King. A fine dramatic incident is worked in, whereby the Countess arrives at her home in time to see what she conceives to be her own child thrown into the lake, when, in reality, it is the body of the dead Prince, and at once she vows vengeance against the Queen-Regent and all her accomplices. There is now an interval of twelve years, during which time Mercedes has become a popular favourite and operatic star, but never relaxes her efforts in the scheme of vengeance. The iron rule of the Queen-Regent so inflames the people that they rise in open revolt, and threaten her life and that of the young Monarch. Mercedes has been an active agent in stirring up the revolt, and is eventually taken prisoner, only to be released, however, by the young King, who has taken a great liking to her. Seeing that the end of her reign is drawing near, Theresa Maria conceives the diabolical plot of leaving the King at the mercy of the frenzied mob, and escaping in safety herself. Just before he is seized, an old nurse, who assisted in his abduction as a baby, acquaints him of his real position as the son of Mercedes, and this being made known to the leaders of the Revolutionary party, his life is spared, and he is restored to the loving arms of his long-suffering mother, Theresa and her uncle meeting with the fate that they had marked out for their victims.

We have nothing but unqualified praise for the artists, and they thoroughly deserved their warm reception. Miss Ruth Mackay played with striking force and impassioned earnestness in the rôle of Mercedes, giving the fullest expression to the emotions of this unhappy lady, thereby gaining the warmest commendation from the audience. Miss Geraldine Olliffe portrayed the relentless hatred of Theresa Maria with a dramatic force that was entirely convincing. Miss Kate Kearney's versatile comedy talent was well exhibited as the Duchess of Rudini, and Miss Emma Rainbow made a capital Ilga. Miss C. Moore did exceedingly well as Mme. Valbourg. Miss Helen Grenville presented a charming picture as the young King, and in every way justified her selection for the part. Mr. S. Creagh Henry did not mince matters in his interpretation of the villainous Captain Marcoso; and Mr. Eric Hudson cleverly depicted the scheming of General Dominica. Mr. J. Holding embodied the faithful Captain Granino acceptably; and Mr. Wallace Stranack gave an effective rendering of Petrofski. Mr. Wellesley Smith provided the humorous relief as Dr. Daly, an Irish tutor to the young King, his quaint drollery and "rale" brogue eliciting the heartiest of laughter. Mr. Fred Herrick acted naturally as Bertini; and Mr. Maurice Drew worked assiduously in the small part of Vasco. A word of praise is also due to Mr. Thomas Barry (Captain Alexiovitch), Mr. H. C. Pritchard (Count Joseph), Mr. Herbert Franks (Patoli), Mr. Owen Williams (Carolly), Mr. B. Newman (Orderly), and Mr. Carr (Adolph). The production was under the sole guidance of that excellent actor, Mr. J. F. Graham, and was splendidly staged and dressed.

AN IRVING REPERTORY THEATRE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—May I be allowed to make a very earnest suggestion in your columns—that a special effort should forthwith be made by the public to secure the Lyceum Theatre, i.e., for the permanent establishment of a repertory theatre in the capital city of our great Empire, and to be called the Irving Repertory Theatre, in lasting and cherished memory of one who achieved his greatest histrionic triumphs within its classic walls. I would respectfully urge that a national appeal should be made for subscriptions towards so absolutely necessary and desirable an object, both in the highest interests of our dramatic art and so as to fittingly perpetuate his worthy memory. Such an appeal would, I feel sure, be most heartily responded to by all those who have the future welfare of our theatre at heart, and who gladly recognised the genius of our late great tragedian and actor, who was so universally beloved, and who did so much to elevate and ennoble the English stage. We should further be carrying out his most cherished and oft-expressed wish if we formed such an institution in our great metropolis, and in so historical a centre.

I need hardly add that such a theatre would feed the soul of art, and lift the motif of both plays and players far above the exigencies of the box-office, whilst it would be for all time a dramatic temple worthy of a great nation and people, and a splendid instrument of culture in our midst.—Yours faithfully WALTER STEPHENS.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, April 26. — Our theatrical managers have every reason to feel disgusted with a certain class of papers here, which, in their desire to annoy the Government in view of the coming elections, spread all kinds of alarming rumours as to the terrible things that are to happen on May 1. Their efforts, unfortunately, have in a great measure proved successful, inasmuch as many strangers have hurriedly left our city, whilst many of the inhabitants have also withdrawn to their country houses to wait there until the "storm" will have blown over. The whole thing would be childish were it not really harmful, for the theatres are, of course, the first to suffer from this exhibition of fright on the part of people who turn the smallest alarm into a catastrophe, and unwittingly produce the very panic they dread. The takings in our playhouses will, I am afraid, show a marked decrease against last week, a fact which, at this time of the year, is particularly to be deplored.

IT is not only in the political world that the elections will be a bit stormy. The same will be the case when the new committee of our Authors' Society will have to be elected. M. Ohnet refuses to be president any longer, and his place will most likely be taken by M. Capus. Among the candidates for the board of management are MM. Bernstein, Feydeau, and Gavault. Should they be elected, we are likely to have some trouble in the course of the year, as they have always been the advocates of the harsh measures taken against offending managers and playwrights. One serious question, soon put on the tapis, will be that of the "small theatres," which rarely or ever bring out any new pieces, but are content to take over the répertoire of the large playhouses. But, whilst at one time they brought out these pieces long after they had been launched, they now pounce upon them at once if they prove a success. In Paris it is not the stalls and the boxes that bring in the most money. Our managers rely for their takings on the pit and the gallery; and as in the "small theatres" the prices are very low, the public of the cheap places are deserting the big playhouses to hear a new piece at the opposition show. In order to put a stop to this competition it is probable that the Society will raise the royalties paid by the small houses from 8 to 12 per cent.

MADAME REJANE intends to open her theatre next season with M. Georges de Porto-Riche's Le Vieil Homme, a work that has always proved successful. The principal rôles will be played by M. Dumény and Mlle. Margel. The next work will be Qui perd gagne by M. Alfred Capus, taken from his well-known novel.

AT the Beethoven-Berlioz festival, conducted by M. Félix Weingartner, Berlioz's "Cleopatra" was produced, and created a deep impression. The history of the work is pathetic. In 1829 Berlioz, then studying at the Paris Conservatoire, wrote this cantata for the prize competition, called "Le Prix de Rome." But the ill-luck that clung to the composer all through life showed itself already here. The artist who had to sing the part of Cleopatra fell ill at the last moment, and her place was taken by one who had not had sufficient time to study the music. Moreover, Lesueur, Berlioz's professor, a member of the jury, was unable to come on the day of the competition, and as Auber, then director of the Conservatoire, showed himself particularly hostile to the young musician, no prize was awarded to him. This preyed so much upon Berlioz's mind that he never again looked at the composition, and it was allowed to slumber for three-quarters of a century, until M. Weingartner unearthed it. The composer and those who condemned his work are all dead; but the beautiful creation is resuscitated, and will now take its place on the répertoire.

THE Ambigu announces the last performances of La Goualeuse, which will be replaced on the bill by Roule-Ta-Bosse, a five-act play by M. Jules Mary, founded on his novel of the same name. The new piece will be preceded by Bastien-Bastienne, a prologue in one act, in which Mlle. Reyé will take the principal rôle.

THE Théâtre de l'Œuvre will bring out shortly an interesting play by M. Edouard Rod. It is called Le Réformateur, and, for the first time, we will see Jean-Jacques Rousseau impersonated on the stage. Rousseau's life is sufficiently known by his autobiography, "Mes Confessions"; but the author of the new piece will show his hero in an entirely new light, and will introduce therein Thérèse Levassour, the woman with whom Rousseau lived for a great number of years, and on whose account he is said to have committed suicide. Le Cloaque, a one-act play by M. Charpentier, will be brought out on the same evening.

M. MONZA, manager of the Bouffes-Parisians, has engaged Mlle. Otero, who will make her début there in Une Nuit de Noël, after which she will appear in an operette specially written for her.

AT the Opéra Comique M. Carré has made several interesting engagements. The most important is that of Mlle. Georgette Leblanc (Mme. Maeterlinck), who in February and March next year will interpret M. Dukas's Barbe Bleue, and, possibly, will be heard in La Navarraise or in Sapho. Mlle. Geneviève Vix leaves the Opéra to come to M. Carré, where she will create Le Chandelier. As to M. Renaud, it is now settled that he will also turn his back on the Opéra to join the Place Favart. He is expected to make his début there in M. Xavier Leroux's Le Chemineau. Mlle. Rachel Launay and Mlle. Vallandri have likewise gone over to the Opéra Comique.

IT is an unpleasant psychological fact that a certain number of our playwrights seem to be only inspired by murders. No sooner is a horrible crime committed but it is at once adapted for the stage, where we are treated to a series of tableaux, one more horrible than the other. Some twelve months ago an unfortunate cocotte was strangled by a man in Aix. Before the criminal was even sentenced, the irrepressible dramatist was already at work upon it, and served it up under the title of Le Crime d'Aix, wherein none of the fearful details were spared us. This time it is a society authoress, Mme. Tola Dorian, who has fallen a victim to this epidemic. In August last year an officer shot a café concert singer with whom he was madly in love, and under the title Nos Salariés the before-mentioned authoress will trot out this case at the Théâtre Molière. The work is in five acts and six tableaux.

WHERE will the Lamoureux concerts be held next year? That is the question, and not an easy one to solve. Within the last few years these concerts were given in the Nouveau Theatre, but their lease runs out in December next. The management had hoped to secure the Opéra for their afternoon performances, but M. Gailhard shook his head. The fact is that M. Gailhard intends to give Sunday afternoon concerts himself, and, therefore, wants his hall for his own purposes. Under these conditions, it is not unlikely that the Lamoureux orchestra will seek shelter in the Théâtre Marigny.

MR. HANDEL VICTOR PHASEY and his Anglo-American Band provided the music at the Trades Furnishing Exhibition at the Royal Agricultural Hall from the 17th to the 27th inst, the band being highly appreciated both by exhibitors and visitors, and several other engagements have been the outcome of his success at the exhibition. On Tuesday Mr. Phasey was presented with an ivory gold-mounted bâton.

MR. EDWARD TERRY has accepted a comedy written by Julian Rochefort; and the play may probably be produced shortly.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

A monument to Sir Henry Irving is shortly to be erected in America. The Episcopal Church of St. Chrysostom, in Seventh-avenue, New York, the vicar of which, the Rev. Thomas H. Sill, takes a deep interest in the Actors' Church Alliance, is the place selected to house the memorial. It will be the work of Mr. E. St. John Matthews, and will take the form of a bronze tablet, six feet in height, with a half-relief of Irving at the top and an inscription, giving a summary of his life, beneath. About £2000 has been raised by subscription for the cost of the work.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree will command the sympathy of all in the recent loss he has sustained by the death of his brother, Mr. Julius Beerbohm, who died on Saturday morning of an attack of double pneumonia. The deceased gentleman had in his youth travelled extensively over the world, and was the author of "Wanderings in Patagonia," a book illustrated by himself, which was widely read. Mr. Beerbohm was a well-known figure in the world of finance.

To-day's issue of the Sphere has a four-page supplement devoted to Miss Ellen Terry, and containing a pictorial record of her fifty years on the stage, together with portraits of the members of the famous family who have appeared before the footlights. The celebrated actress is depicted in a number of characters with which her fame is closely associated, and the full-length painting by J. S. Sargent, R.A., of Miss Terry as Lady Macbeth is also reproduced. Portraits of Miss Terry at various periods of her career and a pencil sketch of the mother of the brilliant family also figure in the pages, and a bright personal impression, written evidently by the editor, Mr. Clement Shorter, accompanies the illustrations. The supplement is printed in a way which reflects credit even on a journal so widely admired as the Sketch, and the production is well worthy of preservation as a souvenir.

The Charles Danby benefit matinée, promoted by Mr. Seymour Hicks, at the Aldwych Theatre, is receiving influential support. Miss Ellen Terry and Mrs. Kendal have promised to appear if their engagements will permit, and others who will give their services during the afternoon, by kind permission of their various managers, are Miss Evie Greene, Mlle. Adeline Genée, Miss Edna May, Miss Helen Mar, Miss Gertie Millar, Miss Ella Russell, Miss Marie Tempest, and Miss Ellaline Terriss, while the young actresses who have already offered to dispose of programmes can be numbered by scores. Male members of the profession have also responded promptly, and include Messrs. Hayden Coffin, Harry Fragson, George Groves, Charles Hawtrey, H. B. Irving, Walter Passmore, Arthur Prince, George Robey, and Charles Warner. The committee of the benefit includes Sir Squire Bancroft, Messrs. George Alexander, Charles Frohman, John Hare, W. H. Kendal, and A. W. Pinero. A feature of the matinée, which is fixed for Thursday, May 17, will be the first act of The Beauty of Bath.

Mr. Martin Harvey's production of B. M. Dix and E. G. Sutherland's new romantic comedy was fixed for last evening at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne. At the last moment it was decided to change the title of the play from The Rapparee Trooper to that of Boy O'Carroll, a name suggested by the character assumed by Mr. Harvey. The play is in four acts, and is provided with an exceedingly effective setting from the brush of Mr. George Dobson. Mr. Harvey's part of Brian O'Carroll is, in many ways, a complete contrast to the majority of the characters to which he has accustomed his admirers. Apparently, it is what is known as a "straight" comedy part, and it gives the favourite actor a particularly good opportunity of revealing yet another phase of his artistic versatility.

Mr. Robert Brough, the bearer of a name revered in the whole dramatic world, died last week at Sydney. The deceased gentleman, who was a nephew of Mr. Lionel Brough and brother to Miss Fanny Brough, had lived for the past twenty years in Australia, where he gained an enviable reputation as manager and actor. His appearances in London have been few in number, and included a part in The Thread of Silk, produced at the Crystal Palace in 1881. He afterwards appeared in Little Robin Hood at the Gaiety and Silver Guilt at the Strand, and other characters he sustained were those of Zapeter in Princess Toto and Major McTurtle in Mother-in-Law at the Opera Comique, as well as the title-rôle in Rose and Harris's burlesque Vulcan at the same theatre. Early in his career he migrated to the Colonies, and finally settled in Melbourne, where he managed the Bijou Theatre, introducing many London successes and acting a varied range of parts. A year ago Mr. Brough broke a blood-vessel, and though he recovered sufficiently to reappear last month in Little Mary at the Criterion Theatre, Sydney, a relapse set in, with the result which we regretfully record.

At the forty-sixth meeting of the committee of the Scenic Artists' Association, held at the Adelphi Hotel on Tuesday evening, the chair was taken by Mr. Richard Douglass, in the absence from town of Mr. Walter Hann, from whom and from Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart., and Mr. W. T. Hemsley letters of regret for unavoidable absence were read. The honorary secretary read the minutes of the forty-fifth meeting of the committee, and they were confirmed and signed by the chairman. Mr. Harris announced the death on March 8 last of Mr. J. G. E. Rutland, a member of the Association. The committee considered an application for a loan from the benevolent fund, and gave the secretary instructions in the matter, and a collection for the applicant was made and contributed to by the members present. Messrs. E. G. Banks, Harry Potts, G. H. Wallis, and H. Warner, and the secretary, Mr. H. Laurence Harris, attended the meeting, and Mr. Markham and Mr. Tweddell were present as visitors.

The Scenic Artists' Association's third monthly social dinner was held at the same place on the same evening. There were present Messrs. George Tweddell, R. S. Smythe, H. Collins, Charles E. Markham, H. May Hemsley, W. T. Hemsley, Harry Hall, G. Herbert Wallis, J. C. Holliday, Harry Potts, Francis H. Bull and four friends, Richard Douglass, Finlay Dunn, E. G. Banks, H. Warner, H. Woolls, &c. After the dinner an excellent entertainment was provided under the direction of Mr. H. May Hemsley. Mr. H. Collins gave some very clever sleight-of-hand tricks with cards, Mr. Harry Hall related several good stories and sang some capital songs, Mr. Finlay Dunn caused hearty laughter by imitation of a recitation by a man who had been through a course of physical exercise, and Mr. H. May Hemsley himself contributed several imitations which were justly much appreciated. The company separated about 11 o'clock, much pleased with the programme provided.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor has determined upon immediate action in the House of Commons in the interests of musical composers and publishers. No intention being evident on the part of the Government to bring in a measure this Session, Mr. O'Connor is having a Bill drafted, and will introduce it in a few days. Every effort will be made to obtain facilities for its passage through the House, and it is hoped thereby that the Bill, which, it is expected, will have the support of influential members of all sections of Parliament, may become law within the limits of the present year.

The Society of Women Journalists celebrated the birthday of Shakespeare at an "at home" at Essex Hall, Essex-street, Strand, on Monday afternoon. Among a distinguished assemblage numbering over four hundred were Mrs. T. P. O'Connor (president of the Society) and Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., Sir Charles and Lady Stevens, Lady Foster, Miss Eva Moore, Miss Decima Moore, Miss Beatrice Waller, Mrs. W. W. Jacobs, and Mr. Pett Ridge. An appropriate musical entertainment selected from the poet's works was given during the afternoon, when Mme. Blanche Marchesi sang "Willow, willow," "Who is Sylvia?" "Should he upbraid," and other songs. Mr. Courtice Pounds sang "Come away, death," "Sigh no more, ladies," and "O mistress mine"; and Mr. H. V. Esmond gave the closet scene from Hamlet. Mrs. Jerrold Robertshaw was the accompanist.

Mr. Arthur Collins was a spectator of the eruption of Vesuvius while in Naples, from which city he has just returned, and was so impressed by the awful spectacle that he has decided to reproduce it as far as possible on the stage of Drury Lane Theatre when Mr. Hall Caine's drama, The Bondsman, is produced in the autumn. Mr. Collins hopes to find means whereby he can show not only the active crater, but also the descending waves of lava and the ascending smoke. Spectacles of this description have hitherto, so far as we can gather, been confined to firework displays, but, with the resources of the National Theatre at command, wonders may well be expected.

Mr. H. B. Irving, who will pay his first visit to America in the autumn, will previously make a short provincial tour of a few of the principal cities. Markheim and Mauricette will be played on tour, and in addition Mr. Irving will appear in two or three of the plays associated with the name and fame of his great father.

Why do new grand operas never pay? is a question propounded by Mr. Charles Manners, who makes an extraordinary prophecy in connection therewith. The Moody-Manners Opera Company will be visiting the Coronet Theatre for a fortnight, commencing on Monday, and, while there, will reproduce Tschaikowsky's opera, Eugene Onegin, which was produced at Covent Garden some four years ago, and formed a feature of the festival week at Sheffield recently. The manager says there will be at least three curtains after the first act, and four after the second; while at the end of the third and last they will exceed half a score. This enthusiasm will be more than any other opera will receive during the visit; yet, from a money point of view, the house will be the least patronised This, at any rate, is the experience the company have met with since the production of the opera, and the bad business done by all their novelties has been a proverbial fact with them since they were founded, now some years ago. It will be interesting to see if the above prophecy of great applause and small houses will be realised.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Henry Brinsley Sheridan, who passed away suddenly on the 19th inst. He was the son of Garrett Sheridan, of County Cavan, Ireland, and grandson of Sir Richard Perrott, Bart., Lord High Admiral of Prussia, and kinsman of the Right Hon. Richard Brinsley Sheridan, dramatist. He represented Dudley in Parliament for thirty years, and started with a sum of 100 guineas a subscription for the purchase of Anne Hathaway's cottage at Stratford-on-Avon. He was about to receive a pension from the Government in recognition of his many services to the State. His daughter, Emily Sheridan, is shortly touring with The Prince of the People, a play to be produced in London.

Miss Ellen Terry's jubilee celebrations began last evening at His Majesty's, where the special performances of The Merry Wives of Windsor admitted of the reappearance of the famous actress in her delightful impersonation of Mistress Page. The feature of the evening was the presentation to be made on behalf of the members of the Playgoers' club by Mr. Tree. It takes the form of an illuminated address contained in a casket of solid silver, measuring 11½in. in length, 5½in. high, and 7½in. in width. Scenes representing the Olympian Games are depicted on the lid of the casket, on the sides of which appear the places of entertainment in Athens. On the front is engraved the following inscription:—"A token of affection and esteem from the members of the Playgoers' Club to Miss Ellen Terry, on the celebration of her jubilee, April 28, 1906." The presentation was to be led up to by a little interpolated scene in verse written by Mr. Louis N. Parker.

An Adelphi audience will be permitted to share in the jubilations this afternoon, when Miss Terry will, by a happy arrangement, appear as Francesca in Measure for Measure. In the evening Miss Terry will return to the Court, to resume her part in Captain Brassbound's Conversion, the performance of which will also be made specially commemorative. The monster performance arranged by leading actors and managers at Drury Lane will take place at the end of next month or early in June, and will be followed within a week by a banquet given in Miss Terry's honour.

Shakespeare's birthday week was commemorated in Indianapolis by a series of plays given by the Ben Greet players, Hamlet, Twelfth Night, Julius Cæsar, Much Ado About Nothing, Henry V., The Merchant of Venice, and Macbeth constituting the bill. Mr. Greet gives all his plays from the first folio, and in their entirety, Hamlet alone being taken from the second quarto. This play was acted on the 23rd, from 4 to 6 and from 8 to 10.45. The stage is made to represent one of the old halls. The Middle Temple, and many of the large colleges have their own reproduction of the Globe Theatre of the poet's time. The Greet Company has now acted in almost every American college from ocean to ocean.

Mr. Frank Weathersby, who recently purchased Mr. Bertram's De Dion motor-car, finds it quite easy to visit several suburban theatres nightly. In July he has decided to spend a week motoring, and has mapped out a thousand-mile tour.

Mr. Hubert Harben has been engaged by Mr. Tree to play Pendennis in his forthcoming production of Colonel Newcome.—Mr. Francis Hawley has been re-engaged by Mr. William Greet as business-manager for The Earl and the Girl company for the autumn.

The Moody-Manners Opera Company will open a two weeks' season of grand opera in English at the Coronet Theatre on Monday. The programme for the first week will be: Monday, Meyerbeer's Huguenots; Tuesday, Tschaikowsky's Eugene Onegin; Wednesday, Tannhäuser; Thursday, Mozart's Marriage of Figaro; and Friday, Bizet's Carmen. On Saturday afternoon Eugene Onegin will be repeated, and on Saturday evening Wallace's Maritana will occupy the bill.

The most interesting item in the programme is Eugene Onegin, with Mr. Charles Manners as Prince Gremin and Madame Fanny Moody as Tatiana, the parts they created when the opera was first produced in London in 1892. Onegin has been given with great success by the Moody-Manners Company in Sheffield and other towns in the provinces. The company includes Madame de Vere, Mlle. Zelie de Lussan, Mme. Fanny Moody, Miss Kate Anderson, Miss Toni Seiter, Mr. Joseph O'Mara, Mr. Wilson Pembroke, Mr. John Child, Mr. Lewys James, Mr. Wm. Dever, Mr. Charles Magrath, and Mr. Charles Manners.

Mr. Granville Barker and Miss Lillah McCarthy were the principals in a ceremony which took place within the walls of a registry office in Henrietta-street on Tuesday, when they were made man and wife. Mr. Barker, who is actor and author as well, is notable also for having brought fame and fortune to the Court Theatre by the artistic performances begun there in conjunction wth Mr. J. E. Vedrenne a year or more ago, and still achieving distinction. Among his dramatic efforts are The Weather Hen, produced at Terry's Theatre in the summer of 1899, and The Voysey Inheritance, brought out at the Court last November, which gave proof of the dramatic genius within him.

The bride is well known as the beautiful actress who was discovered a few years ago in Australia by Mr. Wilson Barrett. She accompanied him back to England, and played Mercia in The Sign of the Cross, and the heroine in The Silver King during several provincial tours. Since then she has appeared in London with Mr. Beerbohm Tree. Miss McCarthy created the part of Ann Whitefield in Mr. G. Bernard Shaw's play Man and Superman. Mr. and Mrs. Barker, who left for Paris immediately after the ceremony, will tour the Continent for about six weeks.

Miss Christine McGill, who enacts the part of Henrietta on tour with Mr. Huntley Wright, in The Little Father of the Wilderness, had a narrow escape last Monday night at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, when she accidentally trod on an electrical connection, which exploded and set fire to her skirt. Mr. W. F. Reynolds (Mr. W. Clarkson's representative) leapt forward with commendable promptitude and extinguished the smouldering garment, thus averting what might have proved a serious catastrophe.

Mr. William Haviland, who joins Mr. F. R. Benson at Stratford-on-Avon for the historical plays, has had a very extensive experience in Shakespearean work. When Mr. Tree sent his Shakespearean répertoire company on tour some two years ago he engaged Mr. Haviland as director of the company and to play the principal parts, namely, Mark Antony in Julius Cæsar, Malvolio in Twelfth Night, and Prospero in The Tempest.

Mr. Robert Arthur has arranged with Mr. Esmonde Bramley to give a series of Shakespearean plays next week at the Kennington Theatre. Richard III. will be given on Monday, The Merchant of Venice on Tuesday, Merry Wives of Windsor on Wednesday, As You Like It at the Thursday matinée and Hamlet in the evening, All's Well that Ends Well on Friday, and Romeo and Juliet on Saturday. The cast will include Mr. Cyril Este and Miss Millie Ford, and the production will be under the personal direction of Mr. Haldane Crichton.

Mr. Arthur Carlton, the lessee of the Theatre Royal, Worcester, marked Shakespeare's birthday by the production of The Merchant of Venice for six nights and a matinée. The piece was under the auspices of the British Empire Shakespeare Society, and with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton (who played Portia and Bassanio respectively) was sustained entirely by amateurs. It is proposed to give these performances annually at the Worcester Theatre during the Shakespeare festival week. On the first night every member of the audience received a special souvenir, entitled "Theatre Royal, Worcester—A Century of Reminiscence," by Arthur Carlton, to which is added "A Short History of the Worcestershire Shakespeare Society," by the Lady Isabel Margesson.

The souvenir consists of an admirably printed brochure, giving a history of the stage in Worcester, dating from Henry VII., when the Guilds or Trading Companies had five pageants or plays performed while the Trades or Guilds went in procession to do worship "to God and the Citie on Corpus Christi day and the following Sunday." The little work is embellished by portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlton, and of the late Mr. Gomersal, who was lessee of the theatre for twenty-two years, and contains interesting facsimiles of old playbills and a number of references to Kean, Sarah Siddons, and other famous personages.

The performances created the greatest interest throughout the week, the rendering of Portia by Miss Carlton being universally admired. She made a handsome and stately lawyer, and delivered her lines with fluency and grace, while the comedy of the part was deliciously portrayed. Mr. Carlton also won the warmest commendation for his sound and earnest portrayal of Bassanio, in the representation of which elocutionary grace and dramatic skill of a high order were apparent. Mr. H. Urwick acquitted himself meritoriously as Shylock, and credit was also reflected on the other members of the cast.

Miss Madge Girdlestone has this week returned from America, where she has had a long and successful season of nine months playing second to Miss Maxine Elliott in the Clyde Fitch comedy, Her Great Match. The merits of her performance of Mrs. Sheldon in that play have gained for her an engagement by Mr. Charles Frohman for Miss Beryl Faber's part in His House in Order for his coming autumn production in New York.

"Her Lost Self," a drama by Nita Rae, originally produced at the Prince's Theatre, Portsmouth, on Dec. 18 last, will have its first London production at the Stratford Theatre Royal on Monday. The play will be produced by Miss Frances Delaval's company.

We understand that Mr. Herbert Leonard's successful melodrama, The Girl of My Heart, is about to be toured again by Mr. Hugh Evans, under the management of Mr. Byron Webber. It is intended to produce the drama on a lavish scale, with entirely new scenery and costumes. This old Surrey Theatre success was originally produced by Messrs. Conquest and Leonard in 1898.

An amateur entertainment, organised by an influential committee, of which the Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, is president, will be given at Daly's Theatre on May 17. Among those who will appear will be the Hon. Ethel Cadogan, Major and Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Claude Hay, and Sir Simeon Stuart. Mr. Alfred de Rothschild's private band will perform between the acts. The performance is in aid of the Regimental Homes and Benefits Agency, which is doing such excellent work in helping regiments to establish their own benefits for their disabled men.

Miss Edith Gibbs, the well-known teacher of singing, is remarkably successful with her pupils. One of her most promising protégées is Miss Anna MacDowall, this week taking the part of Dorothy Stanley and singing the "Soldiers in the Park" in the performance by amateurs of A Runaway Girl at the Crouch End Opera House. To another student, namely, Miss Mabel Palmer, was allotted the part of Siebel in Faust at the Scala Theatre on Thursday.

Mr. Charles Fry will revive The Winter's Tale at the Court Theatre next Saturday afternoon, with incidental music by Arthur Fox, and will impersonate Leontes. Mr. Fry will be supported by Miss Olive Kennett as Hermione and Mr. Patrick Munro as Autolycus. This will be the first of Mr. Fry's three Shakespearean matinées. The Merry Wives of Windsor will be revived on Saturday week, and King Richard the Third on May 19.

The usual weekly meeting of the council of the Actors' Association was held on Tuesday last. There were present:—Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy chairman), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Mesdames Carlotta Addison, Kate Bishop, Maud Milton, and Saba Raleigh, and Messrs. Cecil Barth, Burton Cooke, A. E. George, Quinton McPherson, M. R. Morand, Spencer Trevor, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary).

The Hon. Solicitors reported that they had advised several members on points submitted. The further consideration of a question raised by a member concerning the present method of voting for the election of members of the council was adjourned until the next meeting. The Secretary reported that an amount awarded, under an arbitration, to a member of the Association, having been paid, he had, at the request of the member, handed the money to the Secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund. The Hon. Solicitors were requested to interview the legal representatives of those against whom a member had a claim, and to report progress.

A case of alleged bogus management was under consideration, and the Secretary received instructions. A case of alleged insanitation at a provincial theatre was again under discussion, and the matter was ultimately referred to the Hon. Solicitors for them to communicate with the complainer. The report of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was taken. John Richter, Maud Hynnerley, and Jules Charmettes were nominated for election.

The Finance and General Purposes Committee held a meeting on Tuesday last. There were present:—Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (in the chair), Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Messrs. A. E. George, M. R. Morand, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). Several matters connected with the business of the Association were discussed, and the Secretary received instructions.

Mr. Forbes Robertson replied to the toast of "Literature and the Drama" at the Shakespeare commemoration dinner of the Birmingham Dramatic and Literary Club, at the Grand Hotel, Birmingham, on Monday. Dealing with the present state of the drama, Mr. Robertson said there was a stage society in London prepared to perform plays not accepted by the ordinary theatre, but they also were starving for the want of good plays. The same cry came from Paris. But there was no need to be pessimistic, and they could hardly expect the general public to rush at the highest form. Appreciation had to come gradually. A great actor could not expect monetary return as well as kudos, and the man who was working the highest form of art must expect to sacrifice his purse. He was proud to think they had such men. A year ago his profession had lost its great leader, who did more for their beloved William Shakespeare than all the rest of the world. At the speaker's suggestion, the audience rose and drank in silence to the memory of Henry Irving.

Referring to the question of a national repertoire Theatre, Mr. Robertson said that while he did not urge upon the Government or the nation to provide funds out of the taxes for such a purpose, he thought it was their duty to encourage high art. The provision of a repertoire theatre itself, however, would depend upon the enthusiasm of individuals, but he was sorry to say that America had anticipated us. A repertoire theatre had already been established at Boston, and other similar theatres would be opened in a few months in New York and Chicago. He trusted Birmingham and Glasgow would follow suit. He expressed his regret that while the London County Council could give a thousand pounds to improve the façade of the Gaiety Theatre, they had insisted upon such structural alterations to the Lyceum, which was known throughout the world as a great classic theatre, associated with the achievements of Sir Henry Irving, that it had been necessary to convert it into a music hall. It was desirable that the influence of Government should be brought to bear to prevent such an unfortunate occurrence in the future.

Miss Lettie Paxton, eldest daughter of Mr. Sydney Paxton, is lying dangerously ill with pneumonia.

Miss May Hart, who plays Little Sophy with Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche's company in Judge Parry and Fredk. Mouillot's comedy What the Butler Saw, had an amusing experience at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, last week. Looking extremely young and childlike, she was visited on the stage by one of the police inspectors, who wanted to know her age and whether she had left school. The gentleman's looks and feelings can be better imagined than described when the little lady referred him to her husband, Mr. Leo St. Clair, the business-manager of the company.

Miss Decima Moore has just returned to England from West Africa, where she accompanied her husband, Major Guggisburg, and met with many interesting and novel experiences. Although Miss Moore has not been seen on the stage since her marriage, it is to be hoped that such a bright and attractive singer and actress does not intend to desert the profession entirely.

"Kitty Grey" has been doing excellent business at the Tunbridge Wells Opera House this week. This beautiful theatre seems to be developing into a veritable gold mine for musical comedies.

Mr. Albert E. Wells, son of Joseph Wells, the well-known pyrotechnist, was leaving the stage-door of the Pavilion Theatre, about eleven o'clock on Saturday night, when a man struck him violently in the chest and with marvellous celerity relieved him of his gold chain, a silver watch, and silver match-box. The thief was captured, but none of the stolen property was recovered. The man was committed for trial at the next sessions at the Old Bailey. By a singular coincidence, Mr. Wells's father was attacked in the same manner at eleven o'clock one Saturday morning during October last, but he fortunately recovered his watch and chain, though the thief was lucky enough to get clear away.

Mr. Charles Frohman will devote the entire receipts of this evening's performance at the Duke of York's Theatre to the fund being raised for the relief of the sufferers in the recent San Francisco catastrophe. The entertainment will consist of All-of-a-Sudden Peggy, and, in addition, Miss Marie Tempest will be heard in two of her most popular songs. The Hon. Whitelaw Reid, the American Ambassador, will be present on this occasion.

"Measure for Measure," at the Adelphi, will reach its fiftieth performance on Wednesday, thus constituting a record for this play. Mr. Otho Stuart's next production at the Adelphi will be a modern comedy from the pen of Mrs. Henry de la Pasture, entitled The Lonely Millionaires, which won favour on its original representation at the Court Theatre a little more than a year ago, when it was given at three special performances for charity. The cast at the Adelphi will include Miss Lily Brayton, Mr. Oscar Asche, and Mr. Matheson Lang.

Mr. Sidney Cooper has arranged with Mr. Frank Weathersby to send a special company to the Lyceum Theatre, Newport, for two weeks, commencing on May 7. The plays to be presented are Shall We Forgive Her? and The New Magdalen.

Mr. Lewis Waller has surrounded himself with a notable cast for his matinées of Othello, which he revives about the middle of next month. Mr. H. B. Irving will play Iago to Mr. Waller's Othello, Miss Evelyn Millard will be the Desdemona, and the other parts will be in the practised hands of Messrs. A. S. Cookson, Henry Neville, G. Heslewood, Frank Woolfe, Henry Ainley, A. E. George, and Owen Roughwood, Miss Edith Wynne Matthison, and Miss Sarah Brooke.

The tenth annual general meeting of the Actors' Orphanage Fund will be held at the Garrick Theatre on Friday, May 18, at three o'clock. The chair will be taken by Mr. Cyril Maude, and the following ladies and gentlemen have promised to speak:—Miss Carlotta Addison, Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Mrs. Edward Compton, Miss Vane Featherston, Miss Helen Ferrers, Miss Edith Wynne Matthison, Miss Eva Moore, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Miss May Marley; Mr. Arthur Bourchier, the Rev. Arthur Brinkman, Mr. Chas. Cruikshanks, and Mr. Harry Nicholls.

Mr. Laurence Irving will be welcome back to the London stage when he takes up the part allotted to him in Raffles, which is to be produced at the Comedy early in May. Mr. Gerald du Maurier, it will be remembered, has the title-rôle, and the cast is completed by Messrs. Dion Boucicault, Frederick Volpé, Courtney Foote, Grahame Browne, and Horton Cooper, and Misses Hilda Thorpe, Lettice Fairfax, Jessie Bateman, Sarah Brooke, and Florence Sinclair. Rehearsals of the successful American piece are now in full swing.

Mr. Bernard Shaw has brought an action in the United States Supreme Court against Herbert S Stone and Co., the New York publishers, to recover £5000 damages for detention of copyrights of his plays, and also for an accounting of royalties and profits. Mr. Shaw, it is stated, entered into an agreement with Grant Richards as to "Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant." With the consent of Mr. Shaw, the rights held by Mr. Grant Richards were transferred to Stone and Co. It is alleged that the copyright, which the author values at thousands of dollars, has been wrongfully assigned to Fox, Duffield, and Co., who succeeded to most of the business of Stone and Co. As the five years' licence granted to Mr. Richards by him has expired, the author says Stone and Co. should no longer be permitted to publish or sell the books.

"The Man from Blankley's," at the Haymarket, is shortly to be preceded by a new one-act play by M. E. Francis (Mrs. Francis Blundell), entitled Olf and the Little Maid. The action of the play passes in a Dorset dairy, and the two principal characters will be sustained by Mr. Sydney Valentine and Miss Dorothy Minto.

It is not surprising that Mr. Fred Allandale has made a hit, in The Girl Behind the Counter, in the character of a Frenchman. This clever young actor—who was recently one of the many amusing men in The Blue Moon at the Lyric, toured in a similar part with The Prince of Borneo, and also appeared in a French rôle, some while ago, at a special matinée of The Postmaster, at the Strand Theatre. Mr. Allandale has a capital song in the new musical play at Wyndham's, and is quite at his best in a duet with Miss Marie Dainton, called The Switchback of Love.

Mr. Milton Rosmer, who was announced to appear shortly as Pete in The Manxman, will not now take up the part, arrangements for the production of the play having fallen through.

Congratulations to Mr. Walter Joyce, the popular comedian of the 'sixties and 'seventies, who celebrated his golden wedding on Thursday last, the 26th inst.

Miss Edna Godfrey-Turner, who is playing the title-rôle in Sweet Lavender in Mr. Russell Rosse's company at the Brixton Theatre this week with marked success, is the younger sister of Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner, who also plays Minnie Gilfillian. Miss Edna made her début at the Dalston Theatre only three weeks ago as Lucy in A Pair of Spectacles, and Mr. Rosse decided to try her in the more ambitious part of Larry, and he has no reason to be disappointed in his judgment. Of course the little lady, who will not be out of her teens for some years, has been greatly helped by her sister, whose experience has been of the utmost aid.

Miss Nora Chesson, the writer of so much delightful verse for the Westminster Gazette, has, we regret to say, passed over to the majority. She wielded a graceful pen, and was the authoress of the libretto of Muirgheis, an Irish grand opera, produced at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, on Dec. 7, 1903, the music being by Mr. O'Brien Butler.

Mr. Norman V. Norman's production of As You Like It, during the Shakespeare Memorial festival week at the Crystal Palace, has been exceedingly successful. Miss Beatrice Wilson's Rosalind has been much admired. The last time Mr. Norman appeared at the Crystal Palace Theatre was as Marcus Superbus in the first visit of The Sign of the Cross there in the spring of 1896, but in the "eighties" Mr. Norman frequently took part in the Shakespearean performances of Mr. Oscar Barrett and others at the Palace.

Mr. J. M. Chute's revival of Romeo and Juliet at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, in celebration of the Shakespeare anniversary, was attended by marked success. Mr. Chute received many congratulatory messages, among which was one from Mr. Tree, who telegraphed:—"Chute, Prince's Theatre—Best wishes for the success of your performances of Romeo and Juliet during the Shakespeare celebration; it is a splendid move. I hope soon there may be Shakespeare festivals in all the great centres.—Tree." From Mr. George Alexander came the wire:—"Best wishes for the success of the revival."

The Play Competition initiated last year by the committee of the Playgoers' Club, on the understanding that if a suitable play were found Mr. Philip Carr would produce it at a West-end Theatre, is now at an end. More than 250 plays were sent in for competition, and every play was carefully read and considered; but amongst all the MSS. submitted, not one was found suitable for production as a prize play at a London West-end theatre. All the plays sent in for competition have now been returned to their authors, with the exception of one or two which were received without the necessary sealed envelope containing the author's name and address.

In the Court of Appeal on Thursday, before Lords Justices Vaughan Williams, Stirling, and Fletcher Moulton, the cases of Gordon-Lennox v. Curzon and Scott and another v. Gordon-Lennox came on for consideration. The two actions, which by order were tried together, were brought by the respective plaintiffs to recover rent for the Avenue Theatre, which was destroyed by the fall of the roof of Charing Cross Station. Mr. Justice Lawrence decided in favour of the plaintiffs, being of opinion that the clause in the lease and sub-lease which provided that rent should not be payable if for certain causes the theatre was closed did not apply. The defendants now appealed from that judgment. Counsel addressed the Court at considerable length, and at the close of the arguments their lordships reserved judgment.

The only fault that can be found with The Fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt is that it is just a little thin. Mr. Bourchier's patrons would probably reply, like the testy old gentleman whose hirsute covering was criticised by the hairdresser, "Yes, we like it so!" And, to judge by the enthusiastic reception which was given to Mr. Sutro's play at the Garrick Theatre on Thursday evening, this would be a faithful description of their feelings. The piece is a "slight, pretty thing" in four acts; all the deep feeling is under the surface and inferred; and the action moves on agreeably to the accompaniment of Miss Violet Vanbrugh's rippling laughter. She plays Lady Clarice Howland, the widow of an athlete, who in his lifetime was too much occupied either in "hitting a ball, running away from a ball, or kicking a ball," to devote much attention to his wife, whose mother and sister, the Marchioness of Hendingby and Lady Clementina Desborough, are very strict and serious in their views. Lady Clarice is driven for amusement to the society of a certain Mr. Vanderveldt, an insinuating libertine who has been the cause and origin of many divorces. Colonel Rayner, the homme sérieux of the play, greatly objects to Lady Clarice's friendship with Vanderveldt, and even goes so far as to induce her to rescue a silly little woman, Mrs. Brevell, from the toils of the wealthy Don Juan. Lady Clarice has a great liking for Rayner; but Vanderveldt amuses her, and she is so pestered by the attentions of two stupid suitors, a judge and a musician, that she is glad of his cynicism as a relief. He proposes to her; and being promptly refused, lays a plot to compromise her—a variant of the old "last-train" trick. He takes her with him in his motor far into the depths of the country, and, by removing the sparking-plug, creates an artificial breakdown near a solitary country inn, having previously arranged that every horse in the vicinity is miles away carting granite. He then suppresses the telegram which Lady Clarice sends home in explanation; and, as there is no train available for return until next day, he believes that he has her, metaphorically speaking, "on board his lugger." But he reckons without the local parson, who, when he learns that Lady Clarice is the widow of the famous athlete whom he had worshipped at college, consents to replace the sparking-plug and drive the lady home. So Vanderveldt, while he is laying out the nice little supper which he has so considerately brought in a hamper, hears the hoot of the departing motor, and realises that he has been "spoofed."

In the last act the inevitable rapprochement between Lady Clarice and Rayner takes place. He refuses to suspect her for a moment—there has been an accident on her homeward journey, and she has arrived "next morning" after all; and when he hints at his love for her she meets him more than half way the "fascinating Vanderveldt" retiring from the scene with as much ease and grace as are possible in his position.

With Mr. Bourchier and Miss Vanbrugh in the leading characters, the piece could hardly fail to please and amuse; and every scene in which they and Mr. Aubrey Smith appeared held the attention of the audience. Mr. Bourchier was the acme of insinuating unscrupulouness and cynical humour as Mr. Vanderveldt, his make-up being "modern Mephistophilean" in style and his tone exquisitely suave, sly, and satirical. Miss Vanbrugh was quite captivating as the capricious Lady Clarice, and hit off, in the lightest and airiest way, the curiously complicated character, a fascinating compound of humour, frivolity, and genuine good-feeling. Mr. C. Aubrey Smith's part of Colonel Rayner suited him exactly, and could hardly have been better cast. He realised to the full the Colonel's stern and serious nature, and acted throughout with admirable firmness and earnestness. Mr. Walter Pearce played a young aristocrat cleverly, and Miss Muriel Beaumont looked very pretty, and acted with delightful naturalness as an American girl. Mr. O. B. Clarence did all that could be done with the rôle of Sir Bartholomew Cardick; and Mr. George Trollope played Mr. Goddlestone conscientiously, Mr. Charles V. France making the very most of his one "chance" as the Rev. Hubert Langston, and Mr. Charles Goodheart developed with skill the broad humours of a country innkeeper. Miss Nora Greenlaw was a most austere Marchioness, and Miss Elfrida Clement was quite commendable as Lady Clementia Desborough, Miss Henrietta Watson acting with her usual incisive emphasis and quiet irony as Miss Pelling, and Miss Pamela Gaythorne being excellent in every way as the pretty and silly Mrs. Brevell. Neither the artists above-mentioned, however, nor Miss Kate Phillips, to whom fell the little part of a country landlady, had much scope for the employment of their notorious and acknowledged abilities. Mr. Walter Johnstone's riparian view in the background of the Sonning scene was a marvel of light and distance; and Mr. R. C. McCleery's garden, set with its spreading cedars and bluish woodlands, was full of sunshine. Indeed, as usual at the Garrick, nothing had been left undone in the way of mounting and dresses that could ensure the success of the production.

MR. SEYMOUR HICKS was the victim of a false accusation on Tuesday. William Walkley Ramsey, described as a song-writer without a home, deliberately broke an advertisement frame outside the Aldwych Theatre early in the morning, and when arrested told the constable that he did it as a protest against the way in which he had been treated by Mr. Hicks. At Bow-street Police-court he told the magistrate that some little time ago he wrote a song entitled "The Beauty of Bath," and entrusted it to Mr. St. Clair, the composer, who had utilised it for his own purpose. He understood that the same song was now being sung at the Aldwych Theatre. He had, he said, written to Mr. Seymour Hicks on the subject, but had not received any answer to his letter. Mr. Hicks, who was present in court, stated that he knew nothing whatever about Ramsey, who was ordered to pay 10s. and 2s. 6d. damage; in default, seven days.

MR. F. STUART WILLSON, who since the disaster at San Francisco has naturally been very anxious, having a brother resident there, on Thursday received the welcome cable announcing his safety.

"IN THE LAND OF THE CZAR," a drama by Edgar L. Noel, was produced for copyright purposes at the Brixton Theatre on the 19th inst.

A most diverting and dainty production is the musical comedy which Messrs. Leedham Bantock and Arthur Anderson have written, and Mr. Howard Talbot has composed. It is very cleverly put together, authors, composers, and lyricists having combined their forces most judiciously. There are some "great favourites" amongst the artists in the cast, and each of these has to do just what he or she can do best. And it has not been found necessary, in order to amuse, to introduce an unsavoury subject or a doubtful detail. The fun is as harmless as it is humorous, and as clean as it is clever; and for this we should be warmly grateful.

One of our modern West-end emporiums is an admirable scene for a farce, and Mr. Julian Hicks's elaborately-built-up interior, with its pretty stalls and curved staircases, is an effective background for the first act of The Girl Behind the Counter. Many people "turn up" at the Maison Duval, including Charlie Chetwynd, who has been out to West Africa gold-digging, and has returned immensely rich, but still wearing a short coat and a soft hat. General and Lady Willoughby are trying to "marry off" their daughter Winnie to a silly young "swell," Viscount Gushington; but Winnie finds him unattractive, and on his side he is enamoured of Millie Mostyn, the manageress of the Duval establishment. Winnie, for fun, gets the manageress to let her dress up as a shop-assistant and serve in a flower-stall, and here Charlie sees her, and falls in love with her at once. Adolphus Dudd, the office-boy, in order to raise funds to take his sweetheart, the cashier, to a carnival at the Baron's Court Exhibition, steals a five-pound note from the till while she has gone to dinner, leaving her desk in the care of the disguised Winnie; and—as Miss Willoughby is too deeply engaged with Charlie to observe the larceny—when it is discovered, suspicion falls on her, the situation ending the act spiritedly and operatically.

In the second act there is a great deal of fun got out of the adventures at Baron's Court of Adolphus and Susie, and the absurdities of General Willoughby, whose senile gambollings and doddering flirtations, attired as he is in a moyen age costume with embarrassing boots, provide food for loud laughter. Eventually the real thief is discovered, and by threatening the General with the disclosure of his flirtations at the carnival, he is induced to accept Charlie as a son-in-law.

The event of the evening was the return to the stage of Mr. Hayden Coffin, in finer form than ever, acting with a gracious ease and manly energy which delighted everybody, and singing in splendid style. Mr. Anderson and Mr. Talbot gave Mr. Coffin an excellent opportunity in the spirited song, "The land where the best man wins," and Mr. Coffin rose to the occasion con amore, rendering the verses with a vigour and earnestness that electrified the house, and won a unanimous and enthusiastic encore. Quite in the romantic and sentimental tone of Mr. Coffin's earlier impersonations was the ballad by Mr. Arthur Anderson and Mr. Augustus Barratt, called "Some Day," and the singer treated it with all the necessary refinement and taste. Mr. Coffin's performance of the part was a complete success, and, both in the free-and-easy attire of the returned adventurer, and in the becoming grey costume of a Spanish student in the masquerade, Mr. Coffin looked a "perfect picture." He was in excellent voice, and his acting was an agreeable mixture of delicacy and determination. Another favourite whom everyone was eager to welcome was Miss Isabel Jay, whose simple and sincere style, charming personality, and thorough training in a good school, were readily recognised and heartily applauded. As Winnie Willoughby she won all hearts by her embodiment of the sweet, unaffected English maiden, and she brought down the house in a chorus of applause by her animated rendering of the capital song, "I mean to marry a man!" Miss Jay's earnestness and expressiveness, and the admirable distinctness of her enunciation, were as keenly appreciated as was her neat and piquant treatment of her share in a delightful duet with Mr. Coffin, "Won't you buy?" In this her lightness of touch and sweetness of style were worthy of the warmest praise. Mr. J. F. McArdle as the senile "squire of dames," Sir Wilkie Willoughby, contributed a quaint and comical caricature, highly original in method and intensely droll in its eccentric oddity. Mr. George Barrett gave a dryly humorous impersonation of a sardonic waiter. Miss Violet Crossley did excellent work as Lady Willoughby; and Mr. Lawrence Grossmith, in a part of the "Johnnie" order, was the acme of imbecility, inanity, and smart tailoring. As an "up-to-date" portrait of an empty-headed dandy of the present period, Mr. Grossmith's impersonation could not have been surpassed, and his peculiar method and the imperturbable manner in which he sang a "beastly awfully jolly" ditty while seated in a manicurist's chair, appealed to the audience immensely. Mr. Fred Allandale was all activity and alertness as the propreitor of the Maison Duval, and made every point possible in the song with chorus, "Ze entaireprising Frenchman," acting throughout with commendable alacrity and smartness. Miss Violet Englefield, an artist of much quiet humour, made a decided hit by her calm and impassible rendering of the amusing song "Enid"; and clever Miss Marie Dainton as an arch, roguish, and ready-witted Frenchwoman, sent the house into ecstacies by her lively dancing and her unflagging movement and brisk drollery. Miss Coralie Blythe had her best opportunities in the second act, in which she appeared at the masquerade as a "Greenaway girl"; but she was always pleasant and prepossessing, and made all her points in the nicest and daintiest way. Mr. Akerman May was quite characteristic as the German commissionaire; and that capital comedian, Mr. Horace Mills, gave an irresistibly humorous and original exposition of the rôle of the office-boy, Adolphus Dudd. Mr. Howard Talbot conducted, and The Girl Behind the Counter had the heartiest of receptions.

For the first production in England of Maxim Gorky's play, The Bezsemenovs, we are indebted to the Mermaid Society; and Monday's matinée and the subsequent performances on Thursday and Friday offered opportunities of judging of the famous Russian writer's capabilities as a dramatist. There is no question that Maxim Gorky has done brilliant work as a novelist, but judging by Monday's production he has still much to learn before he can be described as a playwright who really knows his business. The partial or complete failure of the successful novelist when he ventures upon the supremely difficult art of playwriting is, we know by experience, not by any means uncommon; and Gorky, with all his brilliance, does not appear to have succeeded where so many less distinguished authors have failed. The weak point of the play produced on Monday is that everybody talks too much, with the inevitable result that the action is irritatingly slow. But in spite of this some of the scenes grip the attention and are impressive because of their intense realism; whilst the dialogue, if diffuse, could only be written by a deep thinker and man of poetic temperament.

The author gives us a picture of a middle-class family, and there is no doubt that the sketches of character, after allowing for a little exaggeration in the outlines, are drawn from life. They are not people one would care to meet, these Bezsemenovs. The white-haired old man and his wife have done their duty by their children; they have given them a good education, but the result is disastrous. The son Piotr, an expelled University student, is a moody, miserable young man, who loafs about the house in a frame of mind that may be described as brooding discontent. His sister Tatiana is a poorly-paid school teacher—a melancholy, lifeless, neurotic girl, for whom her parents are anxious to find a husband. She would like to win the love of Nil, Bezsemenov's adopted son, a bright, breezy, young fellow, who, though only an engine-driver, finds a real delight in life, and is naturally not attracted by the melancholy pale-faced school mistress. His choice is Polia, a hard-working seamstress, who is evidently just the woman to make the young workman happy. The family have two boarders—Tetereff, a choirmaster, with a weakness for strong drink and feeble philosophy; and Elena Krivtzova, a rather gay and giddy widow, by whose charms even the moody Piotr is attracted, to the great annoyance of his parents. Old Bezsemenov cannot discuss any point calmly—he has frequent and violent fits of passion, which his wife does her best to allay. He has noisy scenes with his son and daughter. He is a working man—a house painter—and they have nothing in common. In his estimation their education has proved a curse. They despise their parents, they are sick to death of their vulgar surroundings, and yet escape seems impossible. Tatiana, after secretly witnessing a love scene between Nil and Polia, attempts her own life by taking poison, but she quickly recovers. Old Bezsemenov, it should be said, gets on no better with his friends. A distant relative, Pertchikine by name, a drunken bird catcher, and the father of Polia, he vigorously assails with his tongue and turns out of the house; indeed, a more choleric, disagreeable old gentleman it would be difficult to imagine, and his outbursts of temper are so extremely violent and frequent that the bursting of a blood-vessel seems highly probable.

Mr. Herbert Grimwood played this part very well, his portrayal of the passionate old man being admirable in all its details. One cannot take the ill-tempered patriarch quite seriously, but there is a touch of pathos in his declaration, delivered in a broken voice, that he really loves his son and daughter. Mr. Michael Sherbrooke as the bird-catcher Pertchikine, who is a bit of a poet in his way, gave a delightfully humorous embodiment of the light-hearted vagabond. Mr. Caleb Porter was also successful in his clever portraiture of the choir-master Tetereff, who talks more sensibly when he is half drunk than in his sober moments. Mr. Matheson Lang deserves warm praise for his fine, vigorous representation of Nil, whose presence always seemed to dispel the gloom that invaded the home of the Bezsemenovs. Mr. Bertram Forsyth, a pupil of the Academy of Dramatic Art, showed ability as the melancholy Piotr, whose equally depressing sister Tatiana had an excellent exponent in Miss Edyth Olive. Miss Ina Royle was a bright and attractive representative of Polia; and Mrs. Theodore Wright, who had a good reception on making her appearance, quite justified it by clever acting as the wife of Bezsemenov. Miss Ada Potter was good as Elena Krivtzova, though perhaps a little too refined and "ladylike" in appearance and manner as the widow of a prison warder. Miss Alice Arden neatly hit off the character of Stepanida, the Bezsemenovs' cook; Mr. Robert did well in the small part of the doctor who is called in to attend Tatiana; Mr. Arthur Curtis appearing as Chichkine (a student), Miss Katherine Stuart as a friend of Tatiana's, and Miss Violet Bazalgette as a woman from the street. The play, which was produced under the direction of Mr. Philip Carr, was favourably received by a rather small audience.

BALLET, which in olden days used to be a feature of the grand operas at His Majesty's, is to be revived during the forthcoming opera season at Covent Garden, which begins on Thursday. Les Deux Pigeons, originally performed at the Paris Opera in 1886, is to be produced as an after-piece to one of Gluck's shorter operas, and Mlle. Boni, première danseuse of the Brussels Opera, together with the whole corps de ballet now appearing with her, and M. Ambrosini, maître de ballet, will be brought over for the occasion. The season will open with Tristan, followed by Das Rheingold, Die Walkure, Siegfried, Poldini's Princess and the Vagabond, The Barber of Bagdad, and Götterdämmerung.

MR. SYDNEY PAXTON, before leaving Southampton for Manchester, presented Mr. Percy Aldin, the retiring acting-manager of the Southampton Hippodrome, with a purse of gold, and Mrs. Aldin with a handsome brooch, both of which had been obtained by subscription, amongst those immediately interested in the Hippodrome, as a memento of Mr. Aldin's short but eminently successful tenure of a responsible position. Mr. Paxton said it was most unfortunate that Mr. Aldin's health should necessitate this step, but though it was an unwelcome one to those whom he was addressing, it would, he trusted, be beneficial to him. Mr. Aldin made a brief and suitable reply, in the course of which he cordially thanked all those who had worked with him. Mr. J. Howard Shackleton, the popular chef d'orchestre of the Hippodrome, Southampton, has now been appointed musical-director for the De Frece circuit.

Prunella ..... MISS DOROTHY MINTO

A large and appreciative audience followed with delight the performance, at the Court Theatre on Tuesday afternoon, of Prunella, a charming poem in prose and verse by Laurence Housman and Granville Barker, to which Joseph Moorat has supplied tuneful and appropriate music. This phantasy is based on an episode in the life of Pierrot, and seeks to show that the end of selfish pleasure is but vanity, but that love—the love that is ready to prove itself even to death—is the only real and abiding joy. Those who saw this play when it was produced at the Court Theatre last year may remember that the plot is as follows:—Prunella, the child of a runaway match between the youngest of four sisters and a strolling artist, is being strictly and conventionally brought up by her three maiden aunts, who are personifications of their names—Prim, Prude, and Privacy—in perfect ignorance of the world and of man. To her, in her quaint Dutch garden, enters serpent-wise, through a hole in the hedge, Pierrot, who sows in her heart the first seeds of love and the longing for the joy of life. He tries to persuade her to "fulfil her destiny" and join his merry band of strolling players as their Pierrette. Taking counsel of the Statue of Love, she overcomes her natural reluctance at leaving the only home she has known, and joins them in their search for joy and "life."

In the third act, Pierrot (who has deserted Pierrette, thinking he had tired of what was only an episode in his life), is drawn to revisit the scene of his first meeting with Prunella, and tries to reconstruct the past with the help of his former companions. He finds that Death has been there before him, and the house and garden are desolate. His former companions, whose appearance, halt, lame, and blind, symbolises the disappointing nature of their joys, have no power to rouse him from his self-pity and self-absorption. Pierrette, after much wandering, also returns to her old home to find herself forgotten and alone. She reproaches the Statue of Love for the advice which is the cause of her present sorrow, but he promises her peace and rest, and a reward for her constancy and love. Pierrot enters the garden, and, believing that he sees the spirit of Pierrette, declares that he prefers death with her to life without her love. Pierrette reveals herself, and the curtain falls on the promise of a brighter future.

Miss Dorothy Minto acts the part of Prunella with sincerity and charm, and her appearance fulfils our idea of the character. Mr. W. Graham Browne gives a finished performance as Pierrot, and Mr. Nigel Playfair ably supports him as his servant Scaramel. Mr. Trevor Lowe as Kennel, Mr. Gordon Bailey as Callow, Mr. Edmund Gwenn who is particularly active as Mouth, and Mr. C. H. Croker-King as Hawk ably co-operate with Miss Valerie Salberg as Tawdry, Miss Margaret Busse as Doll, Miss Hazel Thompson who is a graceful Coquette, and Miss Ruby Crawford as Romp, "the jolly girl," in giving us a picture of the irresponsible gaiety of the troupe of strolling players. Mr. W. H. Penderel Price as Pierrot's living voice, "which he has paid for," sings the serenade in the second act nicely. The three aunts Prim, Privacy, and Prude are carefully acted by Mrs. Charles Maltby, Miss Amy Lamborn, and Miss Agnes Hill respectively. The Queer of Miss Clare Greet is a crisp performance, and Miss Agnes Thomas as Quaint gives a good account of the part of the other serving-woman. Mr. Norman Page as the Boy acts well, and he and Messrs. C. L. Delph, F. Cremlin, and Edmund Gurney as the three Gardeners give the necessary relief by their unconscious humour. The Spirit of Love is admirably acted by Mr. Lewis Casson. The revival was well received.

NORTH LONDON OPERATIC SOCIETY.

A Runaway Girl has been staged during the present week at the Crouch End Opera House by the North London Dramatic Society, and the venture has been accomplished with marked success. The play was produced under the direction of Mr. Eric Lodge. The Brother Tamarind of Mr. Harry Evans was an excellent performance. Mr. Percy Short gave a spirited rendering of the part of Guy Stanley, and won an encore for his singing of "Not the sort of girl I care about." Mr. Charles E. Dickenson was exceedingly well placed as Lord Coodle, and the same remark applies to Mr. Wm. Stamp as Mr. Creel. The four strolling singers were well represented by Messrs. Palmer, Ingram, Yates, and Taylor; and Mr. Douglas Cox did well as a waiter. Mr. Montague Oakes and Mr. Fred Buchanan as the two gendarmes also did good service. Mr. Murray Short as Flipper was very funny, and caused much merriment; he was ably seconded by Miss Nellie Craig, who played Alice, the Coodles' maid, in bright and attractive fashion. Her duet with Flipper in the first act gained hearty applause. Miss Anna MacDowall, a pupil of Miss Edith Gibbs, did well as Dorothy Stanley. The young actress reflects the dramatic methods of her accomplished teacher, and has natural gifts which have been well cultivated. Her singing of "Listen to the band" was one of the hits of the evening, and was re-demanded. The Carmeneta of Miss Netta Van Eitzen was very satisfactory, and Miss Fowler and Miss Violet Williams as Lady Coodle and Mrs. Creel were well placed. Miss Katherine Craig as Winifred Grey was the life and soul of the performance. She possesses an attractive personality which ably fitted the character, and she emerged from her task with great credit, her dancing being exceptionally good and her singing excellent. The chorus showed signs of having been well drilled, and the whole production reflects the greatest credit on the Society and its musical director, Mr. Arthur Roby.

"MEASURE FOR MEASURE" was the subject of an interesting debate, opened in capital style by Mr. E. M. Vaughan-Roderick, at the Playgoers' Club on Monday evening. Mr. Kenneth Havers took the chair, and gave a really admirable address on the play. Other speakers were Messrs. Greenwell, Waitman, Steele, Hess, Beaufoy, Harfeld, Malcolm Bell, Dunn, and Raunheim. Hearty votes of thanks were accorded Mr. Vaughan-Roderick for his opening of the debate and Mr. Kenneth Havers for presiding.

SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL AT HIS MAJESTY'S.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree's series of revivals with which he celebrated at His Majesty's the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth have attracted crowded audiences quite in sympathy with the object and enthusiastic in appreciation. The week was begun with The Tempest, reproduced with all the elaboration and artistic detail which distinguished its former representation. Mr. Tree's Caliban remains one of his most remarkable assumptions, brutal and ferocious, yet grimly humorous, and his performance on Monday held the house completely in thrall. Mr. Lionel Brough repeated his admirable embodiment of Trinculo, and to the Stephano of Mr. James Hearn equal credit is due. Miss Viola Tree was a winsome Ariel, her gaiety and animation being charmingly natural. Miss Maude Cressall spoke the lines belonging to the part of Miranda with grace and fluency, and Mr. Basil Gill's embodiment of Ferdinand and the Prospero of Mr. Lyn Harding were also invaluable to the dramatic effect of the performance. Mr. S. A. Cookson was the Alonzo, Mr. Reginald Owen the Sebastian, and the part of Gonzalo was safely entrusted to Mr. J. Fisher White, and that of Antonio to Mr. Robert Farquharson.

The programme for Tuesday evening was occupied by the first part of Henry IV., one of the most interesting features of the festival. Mr. Tree first produced the piece ten years ago, and in the interval his conception of Falstaff has grown more and more comic, and his appearance as the fat knight still more grotesque. The mellow voice and varied gesture are as expressive as ever, and the audience on Tuesday entered thoroughly into the enjoyment of the performance. Mr. Basil Gill made a stirring and striking figure of Hotspur, and Mr. S. A. Cookson acted the King with intensity and power. Mrs. Tree played with her customary gentleness and refinement as Lady Percy. To Mr. Lionel Brough fell the part of Bardolph, which he made conspicuous by his cheery acting and whimsical humour. The merit of the acting of Mr. J. Fisher White as the Earl of Worcester and Mr. Lyn Harding as Owen Glendower was also fully apparent, and Miss Jennie Lee's Mistress Quickly and Miss Marion Evans' Lady Mortimer were marked features of a delightful performance.

Twelfth Night was given on Wednesday, when the beautiful theatre was again crowded. Mr. Tree's Malvolio is as repressive of mirth as his Falstaff is provocative of it, yet the laughter of the audience was equal in intensity. The two characters are a noteworthy example of Mr. Tree's wonderful versatility, and to compare the cheery humour of the one with the sedate drollery of the other is to realise in the most complete way the true art of the actor. The youth and freshness of Miss Viola Tree were invaluable in the part of Viola, the difficulties of which were admirably surmounted. Her voice was cleverly managed, and her singing also gave the greatest pleasure. Mr. Lyn Harding gave a fine performance of Sir Andrew Aguecheek, and Mr. Lionel Brough again won mirthful honours by his ripe and rounded rendering of Sir Toby Belch. Miss Margaret Halstan made a picturesque Countess Olivia, her appearance being remarkably well suited to the rôle, a gallant and chivalrous Orsino was found in Mr. Basil Gill, and the completeness of the production was fully sustained in the minor parts.

The fourth performance of the series introduced Hamlet, which was produced on Thursday, with scenery. Mr. Tree's rendering of the title-character created the greatest enthusiasm, every phase of the intricate part being followed with profound interest. Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson commanded admiration as Ophelia, whose innocence and purity were made agreeably apparent. Mr. Basil Gill submitted a sincere and vigorous exposition of Horatio, and the humour of the Grave-diggers was conveyed with irresistible effect by Mr. Lionel Brough and Mr. C. W. Somerset. The King and Queen of Mr. Henry Neville and Mrs. Tree were portrayed with artistic completeness. Mr. J. Fisher White was an excellent Polonius, and the elocutionary skill of Mr. Lyn Harding in the part of the Ghost was made manifest.

Friday night was made memorable by the representation of The Merry Wives of Windsor, with Miss Ellen Terry in the cast; Hamlet, again with scenery, will be repeated this afternoon, and the festival will conclude this evening with Julius Cæsar.

WITH the passing of winter and the advent of spring the townsman instinctively longs for the exhilarating tonic of open-air recreation. A leaflet recently issued by the Great Eastern Railway Company draws attention to the special claims of Clacton-on-Sea and Felixstowe to rank with other sunny spots as ideal spring resorts. These invigorating and charming watering places have now been brought into comparative proximity with the Metropolis by a daily service of express trains, whilst for the week-end visitor a special non-stop train will, commencing on May 4, leave Liverpool Street every Friday at 4.10 p.m. for Felixstowe, with a connection by means of slip carriages at Colchester with Clacton, Frinton, and Walton. The journey to Felixstowe by this express occupies only 1 hour 56 minutes. Other specially convenient trains to Felixstowe, Frinton, Walton, and Clacton for the week-end are the 1.30 p.m. from Liverpool-street on Saturdays, and the express midnight supper-train to Clacton only from Liverpool-street one the same day. Those who may find it necessary to be back in town on Sunday evening are provided with a fast train from Felixstowe Town Station at 7.33 p.m., and from Clacton at 8 p.m., arriving at Liverpool-street at 10.3 p.m.; and for those who can prolong their week-end trip until Monday, trains leave Felixstowe Town at 8.3, 8.55, and 9.27 a.m., and Clacton at 7.40, 8.48, and 10 a.m., a breakfast-car being attached to the 7.40 a.m. train from Clacton.

PRESENTATION.—At the Dalston Theatre on Saturday evening, after the performance of the Price of Her Soul, the staff of the theatre and friends, assembled on the stage, and presented Mr. E. Story-Gofton, jun., with a purse of gold in token of their esteem and respect. Mr. Story Gofton is relinquishing his position as advertising manager and leader of the orchestra, and it says much for his popularity that every member of the theatre united in this expression of goodwill. The recipient thanked the company assembled, adding that he should always have the most pleasant recollection of his eight years' stay amongst them.

IN our notice of the revival of The Merchant of Venice at the Garrick Theatre we were led by the programme to state that the parts of Antonio and Tubal were doubled by Mr. C. V. France, whereas the credit due for the performance of Tubal should have been attributed to Mr. Frank Lacy, who took up the part upon Mr. France's succession to that of Antonio. Mr. Lacy played Tubal at every performance since, with the exception of those times when, through the indisposition of Mr. Norman Forbes, he played the part of Lancelot Gobbo.

"THE KNIGHT OF THE BATH," the new farce in three acts by Arthur Applin, will be produced at Terry's Theatre on Tuesday afternoon (by kind permission of Mr. James Welch) in aid of Our Dumb Friends' League. The cast will comprise—Mr. Lennox Pawle, Miss Lily Malyon, Mr. Malcolm Cherry, Miss Grace A. Noble, Mr. D. J. Williams, Miss Maud Henderson, and Mr. Allen Wade. The farce will be preceded by a monologue specially written for the occasion, entitled What the 'Bus-Horse said to the Motor-Car, to be spoken by Miss Edyth Olive. Well-known actresses have generously consented to aid the cause by selling programmes.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA. 1850—1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

The programme of the Shakespeare Birth-Week Festival at His Majesty's has supplementary features admirably appropriate to the character of the performances. The first page bears a portrait of the poet taken from the Droeshout painting in the Memorial Gallery at Stratford-on-Avon. The title-page from the First Quarto of Hamlet is also printed, and views of the house of Shakespeare's birth and the room in which he was born add to the interest of the little work, which also contains portraits of Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Tree, Miss Viola Tree, Mr. Lionel Brough, and many of the leading actors and actresses associated with His Majesty's.

Mr. W. F. Frame finishes his North of Scotland tour this evening in the fair city Perth, and starts the Stoll tour at Edinburgh on May 7.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

KIMBERLEY, April 2.—The Empire Variety Company (under the management of Mr. Hyman) put in two very successful evenings at the Theatre Royal last week, both performances having been given to crowded and appreciative houses. The company was a fairly strong one, with Apollo, a fine athlete and jiu-jitsu wrestler, as its chief attraction. The potentialities of jiu-jitsu were very cleverly demonstrated by Apollo, the wrestling bouts with which the turn ended being followed with the keenest interest and appreciation. Signor and Madame Borelli contributed some very amusing duets, their "cat duet" going down immensely. The Bensons showed abundance of talent in their American speciality act, the gentleman evincing especial ability in step-dancing. Miss Dorothy Webb, comedienne, sang a couple of songs with good effect, and let off a deal of amusing patter that was highly relished. Mlle. Nadji, a graceful and attractive little acrobat, delighted everyone by the skill and ease with which she executed some clever feats. Miss Nina Martino and the Bioscope pictures made up the remainder of a pleasant evening's amusement.

DEATH OF MR. J. F. JERRARD.

We regret to announce the death, at the age of fifty-four, of Mr. John Francis Jerrard, who passed away on Monday, after a few hours' illness, at his residence, 12, Bedford Court-mansions, W.C. He was the youngest son of the late Dr. Jerrard, D.C.L., and was called to the Bar, but after a few years' experience as a barrister entered the theatrical profession, in which he remained until his death. All who knew him will regret the loss of a kind and cheerful companion.

THE LATE MR. JOHN FRANCIS JERRARD.

The funeral will take place this morning at St. Mary's Cemetery, Kensal Green.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

The committee of the General Theatrical Operatives' Sick and Benefit Society wish it to be understood that the meeting arranged for the benefit of Mr. W. Townsend, one of the members of the Society, will be under the direction of the Society. Mr. W. Townsend has suffered a long illness, which the Society did something to relieve, but the death of his wife has induced the committee to endeavour to obtain further assistance for him, and they hope that the working staff at the various places of amusement will combine to make this meeting a financial success.

On Sunday last there was a well-attended meeting of theatrical employees in Leicester. A considerable number have already sent in their applications to become members of the Leicester branch of the National Association.

At a meeting of the Theatrical Sports Committee, held at 29, Wellington-street, Strand, on Thursday evening, it was reported that the following had consented to act as representatives of the committee at their various theatres: Mr. Fred Epitaux, stage-manager, the Empire, Leicester-square; Mr. A. Barbey, stage-manager, the Duchess Theatre, Balham; Mr. R. Kinney, treasurer, Grand Theatre, Fulham; Mr. A. Staughton, stage-manager, Empire, New Cross; Mr. George Lawrence, stage-manager, Collins's Music Hall; Mr. G. Poynton-Applebee, electrician, the Gaiety Theatre; Mr. W. H. Davies, master carpenter, the Coronet Theatre; Mr. F. Raper, electrician, Chelsea Palace; Mr. G. Saunders, master carpenter, Borough Theatre, Stratford; Mr. A. Earnshaw, electrician, the Paragon Theatre; Mr. Philip Sheridan, electrician, the Crown Theatre; Mr. William Aldous, master carpenter, the Royalty Theatre; Mr. Woolcott, master carpenter, the Lyric Theatre; Mr. J. H. Ashburner, master carpenter, the Broadway Theatre, Deptford; Mr. G. Fuller, stage staff, Grand Theatre, Croydon. Particulars may also be obtained from Mr. J. Hands, Pavilion Theatre, Mile End; Mr. A. List, Holloway Empire; Mr. A. George, the Grand Theatre, Islington; Mr. North, electrician, the Canterbury Music Hall; Mr. H. J. Powell, property master, the Prince of Wales's Theatre; Mr. G. H. Dyball, stage-manager, the Tivoli; Mr. E. Arnott, Duke of York's Theatre; Mr. Polland, stage department, the Coliseum; Mr. A. Palmer, master carpenter, and Mr. T. Morgan, property master, the Comedy Theatre; Mr. T. J. Sheridan, electrician, the Waldorf Theatre; Mr. Goodridge, electrician, the Aldwych Theatre; Mr. G. W. Wilton, property master, the Vaudeville Theatre; Mr. P. Thomas, the Alhambra Theatre; Mr. G. W. Farrell, Terry's Theatre; Mr. E. Baptist, the Hippodrome; Mr. G. Selcraig, the Lyric Theatre; Mr. A. E. Wood, the Shaftesbury Theatre; and Mr. J. Cullen, the St. James's Theatre. Volunteers are invited from other theatres and music halls.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Committee of the General Staff Branch, London, of the National Association of Theatrical Employees, two applications for legal assistance to recover wages and compensation for injuries were considered, and ordered to be submitted to the legal adviser to the Society. A complaint was made by a number of members respecting payment of money for rehearsals, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the management concerned. Permission was granted to a member on the sick funds to go to a convalescent home, sick pay to be continued in the meanwhile.

The Blyth Theatre Royal for the present remains closed, owing to change of management. Mr. A. C. Moody, of Blyth, and a former manager, will assume the direction, and open the house shortly.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, Thursday, April 26.—The Luisen has gradually worked itself up to a high standard of excellence, thanks to judicious yet enterprising management and a painstaking company of capable artists. In consequence, the theatre is filled nearly every night to the last place, and many West-End managers envy the good business of their city colleague. It was a happy thought to revive Der Salontyroler, which has not been given here for a long time. This is one of Von Moser's brightest comedies, and is always a safe draw—in this country, at any rate. The piece was revived on the 19th inst., and was received with enthusiasm, artists and manager being repeatedly called before the curtain. In the capital all-round cast Herr Ruff and Fräulein Servadio were perhaps the best, while a very humorous rendering of the Russian student, Vera Samiroff, was given by Fräulein Benkendorff. Der Salontyroler, having once started, its run will certainly be a long and prosperous one.

The success of the farcical volks-play, In der Sommerfrische, at the Berliner Theatre (season of the Schliersee company), is so great that it will fill the bill to the exclusion of all else until the end of the month. Every evening the house is packed, and Herr Terofal—the star of the company—receives an ovation. Ganghofer's volks-play, Der Prozesshausel, was given last week, meeting with a very cordial reception, although the exaggerated sentimentality of the scenes renders it well-nigh impossible. The piece would in all probability be a failure were it acted by any other company than the Schlierseer peasants, but even with them it did not remain long in the bill. The most appreciated feature was the couplet singing of Herr Terofal and Herr Pleithner, which was admirable.

Shakespeare's birthday was celebrated at the Royal Schauspielhaus by a very fine performance of Othello, with new scenery and decorations, and some alterations in the customary cast. Herr Matkowsky gave the title-rôle in his usual excellent manner. It is a part that suits this eminent actor down to the ground, and he rendered every phase of it with consummate skill. The Iago of Dr. Max Poul is also well known for a first-rate impersonation. The rôle of Desdemona was played for the first time here by Frau Willig, a new member of the company, and it was a sympathetic and interesting piece of acting. Frau Butze as Emilia, Herr Stegemann as Cassius, Herren Kraussneck, Arndt, and Hertzer in other rôles were one and all excellent. Director Barnay brought an inexhaustible supply of taste and experience with him when he entered the ranks of the State theatre managers, and he superintended the mounting in person with brilliant results. The part of Othello was, it may be remembered, the famous actor's favourite rôle in the old days at the Berliner.

BORROWING AN ACTOR'S NAME.

In the Court of Chancery, on Tuesday, before Mr. Justice Swinfen Eady, a motion was heard on behalf of Henry Buss, to continue till the trial or further order an injunction granted ex parte by Mr. Justice A. T. Lawrence, the Vacation Judge, on the 9th inst., restraining the defendants, John M. East and William Bailey, jun., "from advertising or billing, or allowing to remain advertised or billed, the plaintiff's name or the name 'Harry Buss,' on the advertisements, programmes, posters, and bills of the drama It's Never Too Late To Mend, or from otherwise representing that the plaintiff is playing the part of Jacky in the said drama at the West London or elsewhere." Mr. William Bailey, the father of the defendant of the same name, arranged for the production of the play in question at the West London during Easter week. East was to receive a fixed sum and to engage the actors. A list of the cast was subsequently handed to Mr. Bailey, which by some inadvertence contained the name of Harry Buss as taking the part of Jacky, the aboriginal Australian. From this list the bills, programmes, and advertisements were printed. The play ran for the time agreed, another actor appearing as Jacky; and it seemed that, owing to the make-up of the character being black and the performer otherwise disguised, neither Mr. Bailey nor his son, the defendant, whose name appeared on the programme as manager of the theatre, was aware that the plaintiff was not sustaining the part. It was only on April 18 that the plaintiff became aware of what was going on. He apprehended that the performance by another person under his name might, in view of the difficulty of identification and of notices in the Press attributing the performance to him, result in injury to his reputation. It was also very probable that the plaintiff might have lost employment elsewhere through being thus advertised as engaged in acting. There was no wish on the part of the defendants to justify their error, and since the week had come to an end and the piece had been withdrawn, there remained only the question of costs to decide. It was, however, pointed out that the defendant Bailey was not liable, although named on the bills as manager, but that the action should have been brought against his father, the licensee, who, under Section 7 of the Theatres Act, 1843 (6 and 7 Vic., c. 68), must be considered the "actual and responsible manager," and whose name and address were, in fact, printed on the bills, as required of persons in that position by the rules made by the Lord Chamberlain.

Mr. Justice Swinfen Eady said the matter was undoubtedly one of considerable importance to an actor, and no one attempted to justify what had been done; but there had been a slip, and it appeared that Mr. Bailey, the licensee, had been misled by the list handed to him by Mr. East. The cause of complaint had now ceased to exist, but the plaintiff was clearly entitled to his costs, and it was highly desirable that no further costs should be incurred. It was impossible to make an order against Mr. Bailey, sen., in his absence, and unless the parties agreed, all he could do would be to give the plaintiff leave to amend by making him a defendant. They had, however, agreed, and the proceedings would therefore be stayed, the defendant East paying the plaintiff's costs.

The Berlitz Schools of Languages announce the performance of one German and two French plays, entitled Einer muss heiraten, L'Anglais tel qu'on le parle, and Le Retour de Japon (with a cast including Miss Ada Webster), at the Hampstead Town Holl, Haverstock-hill, Tuesday, May 8. Miss Margaret Kingsford will give a selection of French songs.

In Memoriam.

Cuthbert.—In loving memory of Maud Cuthbert, the beloved wife of A. Robini, of Rezene and Robini, who departed this life April 24, 1905.
Gone, but not forgotten.

Dashwood.—In ever loving memory of my dear husband, Harry Dashwood, who passed away April 23, 1900.
Oh, for the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!
—His loving wife, Mabel.

Villiers.—In memory of R. E. Villiers, died April 29, 1904. In loving memory.—Jack.

Wallace.—In loving memory of Rosa, wife of Percy Wallace and mother of Miss Ray Wallace, who died May 3, 1904. Never forgotten by those she left behind.

Walmer.—In loving memory of Geo. Closs Walmer, who died March 27, 1897. Never forgotten by his loving wife and daughter, Mrs. G. C. Walmer and Cassie Walmer.

Mr. C. B. Fountaine, manager of the Theatre Royal, Leamington, gave a farewell dinner at the Angel Hotel on Tuesday to the members of the staff and a few personal friends on his approaching departure to take up another appointment under Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton at Chester. Mr. Fountaine only succeeded Mr. H. Esden last year, but he has made numerous friends during his residence in Leamington. In the course of the evening Mr. Fountaine was the recipient of a handsome writing cabinet from a few friends, and a silver-mounted walking-stick from the male members of the theatre staff, both suitably inscribed. The lady members of the theatre staff also showed their appreciation for their departing manager on Saturday by presenting him with a silver-mounted cigar case. During the remainder of the season Mr. Reginald Taylor will take over the management of the theatre.

SORE THROAT OR HOARSENESS
CURED IN A FEW HOURS.
Sir Morell Mackenzie, M.D., the Eminent Throat Specialist, constantly recommended Condy's Remedial Fluid to be diluted and used as a Gargle for speedily curing Sore Throat or Hoarseness.
Dr. Walford Harris, in his book entitled "The Throat and its Treatment," says: "I have found the 'Condy' and cold water gargle excellent, many cases being cured immediately."
The late Mr. Sims Reeves, the world-famed Tenor Vocalist, wrote: "'Condy' used as a Gargle clears the voice and braces up the nvula."
Condy's Remedial Fluid, sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. Caution.—Insist on having "Condy's."

THE GREEN-ROOM BOOK.

"The Green-Room Book; or, Who's Who on the Stage," published by T. Stanley Clark, 1, Racquet-court, Fleet-street, price 5s., is the first issue of an annual, devoted mainly to brief records of the careers of actors, actresses, leading variety artists, and others connected in various ways with the stage. Since the last publication some twenty-seven years ago of "Pascoe's List," we have had, with the exception of a series of biographies which appeared in two issues of "The Era Annual," no handy book supplying information concerning actors and actresses. The new publication, therefore, fills a void in the list of useful annuals. It would be unreasonable to expect completeness in the first issue of a work of this kind; and the publisher frankly admits that "the names of well-known artists and others which should find a place in its pages are omitted, while, possibly, in a few cases minor members of the dramatic and allied professions receive an undue measure of prominence." But these errors of omission and commission will, as far as possible, be rectified in succeeding issues, so as to leave no ground for grumbling on the part of professional people who have been unwittingly passed over. Under the heading of "The Stage and the Peerage," interesting details are given of actresses who have married peers, also of male members of the aristocracy who have appeared on the stage. The volume contains a list of plays produced at London theatres between the autumn of 1904 and March 3, 1906, and of provincial productions between Dec. 1, 1904, and Dec. 31, 1905; together with a list of the theatres, music-halls, and concert halls of Great Britain and Ireland. Very useful, too, are the particulars given concerning the theatrical clubs, charities, and other allied institutions in London. Several pages are devoted to "Players who have Passed," opening with a special memoir of Sir Henry Irving; while "Green-Room Gleanings, 1905," include the year's events and theatrical cases in the Law Courts. The editor acknowledges his obligations to Mr. J. M. Bulloch for the highly-interesting theatrical genealogical trees which are inserted at the end of the volume, which, it should be added, is illustrated by portraits of well-known members of the theatrical and music hall professions.

MRS. RUSS-WHYTAL, the well-known American actress, will give a special matinée at the Liverpool Shakespeare Theatre in aid of the San Francisco relief funds on the occasion of her visit with Clancarty and 'Twixt Axe and Crown, during the third week in May. Mr. John Gaffney, the manager of the Shakespeare, is arranging an elaborate programme.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Chapter I.
COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
Chapter IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.
INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS.
A volume which is creditable in every way, and sure to be widely appreciated.—Evening Standard.
Extremely well done, and will become the standard work of reference.—Sphere.
A book so informative, and so carefully edited has every prospect of success.—Scotsman.
It is difficult to give sufficient praise to the just issued "Green-Room Book." . . . The most valuable vade mecum to our ever-widening world of entertainment which we are likely to be privileged to see in this our generation.—Encore.
It is the best work of its kind we have seen.—South Wales Daily News.
A remarkable degree of success has been achieved. . . . Is neither too dull nor too frivolous.—Music Hall and Theatre Review.
A very successful result of an arduous task.—Madame.
Should appeal to a much wider circle than that filled by those whose business it is to amuse us on the boards.—Newcastle Daily Chronicle.
No such authentic book of the kind has previously been issued. . . . One of the attractive features of the book is the large number of beautiful portraits of leading stars in the dramatic firmament.—Dundee Advertiser.
The biographies are pithy and comprehensive, and include many of the best known foreign actors.—Graphic.
Contains a great deal of really interesting matter.—Referee.
It is pleasant to be able to record the appearance of a carefully prepared and accurate book of reference on theatrical matters.—Stage.
The book is one of the most complete of the kind ever published.—Queen.
A most excellent publication. . . There can be no doubt that such a work of reference will be welcome to every one who is in any way associated with the dramatic and vaudeville stage, whether in a professional or literary capacity.—Winning Post.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1906.

THE ACTOR-MANAGER AGAIN.

In the National Review for this month a Mr. AUSTEN HARRISON, in an essay entitled "Our Insolvent Theatre," has been repeating the ancient lament over the degeneration of the English stage. The author of the article revives the "actor-manager" grievance—the "old story" which our readers know so well—and points his argument by an estimate of Nero at His Majesty's. "When we leave the theatre," says Mr. HARRISON, "we feel as if we had ourselves gone mad. . . . Nero is all. He is cycle and epicycle, the sun, and the whole planetary system. . . . This is the perfection of the spectacle drama. Drury Lane and the Alhambra ballets do not surpass it in colour, in magnificence, in scenery, or stage decoration. It is the summit of theatrical decorative art. . . . As a play, Nero has neither literary balance, nor dramatic sequence, nor climax. It is a compilation of revolving pictures."

Other contentions in the article are that there are a large number of dramatists of genius—"concealed poets," as BACON called them—who are suppressed by the present condition of things; and that the suppression is due to what Mr. HARRISON calls the "star" system. And his remedy for this condition of things is "fierce, fearless, and independent criticism."

Now, what is the real truth? It is that there are no great dramatic poets living in England, and that there are no great dramatic poems written. For the proof of this we have only to consider Mr. STEPHEN PHILLIPS'S career. He was the son of the Precentor of Peterborough Cathedral, and, having a vocation for the stage, joined Mr. F. R. BENSON'S company. Between 1890 and 1897 he published several volumes of poems. Immediately that he appeared in print as a dramatist he was acclaimed by literary criticism, and was soon "snapped up" by Mr. BEERBOHM TREE, who produced his Herod in 1900.

It is useless to maintain that there are great dramatic poems lying in the drawers of despairing geniuses in face of the easy access to fame which is thus provided by publication. Does anyone suppose for a moment that if Othello had not been written, and it were now published by Mr. LANE or Mr. HEINEMANN, the play would not be tried on the stage almost immediately by some London manager? When, recently, a theatrical club opened a competition for unacted playwrights, the whole of the 250 MSS. sent in for criticism had to be returned as useless. There is no difficulty nowadays for any dramatic poet to get a hearing. He has only to publish his play; and from the many volumes of absolutely "impossible" rubbish in blank verse which we receive for review, we should imagine that anything in dramatic form easily finds its way into type. When we shall be shown a work of dramatic genius that has been thus published, and has not been promptly played, then we shall believe in the statements as to "hidden talent" in the higher branches of the art. How carelessly such essays as Mr. HARRISON'S are written is proved by the following extract from his article: "Most certainly the author must come into his own again. But he can do so by insisting upon his own claims to publicity by publishing his works; and this again he can only do when the 'star' system has passed away." It is matter of common notoriety that Mr. PHILLIPS has published all the plays that he has had acted by the "stars" whom Mr. HARRISON regards as obstacles to the birth of a great English drama.

The position of difficulty in which modern managers are placed is shown by Mr. HARRISON'S "appreciation" of Nero. Mr. PHILLIPS'S play is a psychological tragedy; that is to say, its pathos and horror consist in the gradual deterioration of character under the pressure of circumstance. The German critics of the last generation contended that the tragedy of Hamlet lies in the hero not being strong enough for the position in which he is placed. Nero in Mr. PHILLIPS'S play is similarly over-weighted by Fate. He has the great weakness of the artistic temperament—an excess of imagination. When BARRERE, in his old age, was asked to account for the barbarities of the French Revolution, he simply said, "We"—i.e., he and his comrades in the Convention—"were all in such a desperate funk." Nero is driven to murder for fear of being murdered. He is cruel because he is nervous. The keynote of the play is the scene in the first act, in which Nero, realising the awful immensity of his world-empery, exclaims in terror "I shall go mad!" To say, as Mr. HARRISON does, that the play has "no dramatic sequence" is to arraign reality; for, as Mr. BERNARD W. HENDERSON has conclusively demonstrated in "The Life and Principate of the Emperor Nero," Mr. PHILLIPS has simply adhered to historical facts in his drama. That he has not made Nero cut his throat in the last act, as the ruined Emperor actually did, may be due to the dramatist's artistic sense that the true climax was not a physical but a moral one.

When we find that it is necessary to explain these obviousnesses to a gentleman who—on the primâ facie evidence of his article of nine pages being printed in a leading London review—might be expected to be above the level of the ordinary playgoer in intelligence, we perceive the disheartening conditions under which the modern manager follows his vocation. As Mr. BERNARD SHAW once put it in a preface: "Theatrical management in this country is one of the most desperate forms of gambling. At the theatre you must play the game for high stakes, or not play at all. And the risk falls altogether on the management. Everybody, from the author to the charwoman, must be paid before the management appropriates a farthing." The fact that any actor-manager runs a London theatre under such dangerous conditions Mr. SHAW accounted for by "the sweeping away of all reasonable economic prudence by the immense force of the artistic instinct which drives the actor to make opportunities at all hazards for the exercise of his art." So far from girding at the actor-manager for using every possible means—including elaborate mounting and his own personal attraction—for inducing the public to tolerate the subtle, poetic, or intellectual drama, we should applaud the motive, be it what it may, that is constantly urging on our actor-managers to such enterprising experiments. Their greatest discouragement comes from the flippant density of much contemporary criticism.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mr. J. L. Graydon informs us that there is no truth whatever in the report that the Music Hall Benevolent Fund dinner is postponed. It will take place at the Trocadero to-morrow (Sunday) evening at 7 o'clock for 7.30. Applications for tickets have been very numerous, and he anticipates the function being a great success. Mr. Frank Gerald, manager of the Variety Artists' Federation, will respond for the "Music Hall Artists," and would be glad if artists attending the dinner would communicate with him at 28, Wellington-street, W.C., or meet him at 7.15 sharp at the Trocadero on Sunday evening.

Mr. Alfred Butt sailed from New York on Wednesday on board the Majestic, and will most probably be welcomed by a number of his friends at the Palace Theatre on Thursday next. During his absence, Mr. Fitzroy Gardner has been acting as his locum tenens.

The third anniversary of the Chelsea Palace will be celebrated on Friday, May 11. At the moment of going to press we hear that there is some improvement in Mr. Edward Swanborough's condition, though his health still gives cause for anxiety to his numerous friends. We wish the genial Chelsea manager a quick recovery.

The meeting of the Coliseum shareholders is announced for Thursday next, May 3, at the Empire, Cardiff. The report, which is hopeful for the future of the magnificent house in St. Martin's Lane, contains an appeal from the directors to the shareholders for an additional subscription of £2 5s. per share to enable the establishment to "turn the corner." The real reason for this appeal is that in the beginning the cost of building exceeded the estimate by £80,000.

Mr. Charles Wilson has been associated with the production and arrangement of so many brilliantly successful ballets at the Alhambra that his services as a "producer" will be much missed by the directors of that house who, while congratulating him on the excellent offer that he has accepted from Mr. Oscar Hammerstein, have also expressed their great regret at the loss of so able a man.

Mr. Wilson, who before he became stage-manager at the Empire, fulfilled a similar position to Adelina Patti, goes to New York as stage-director of Mr. Hammerstein's enterprises at a salary—it is stated—of £5,000 a year. He will be located at the new Manhattan Opera House in the Empire city, and will leave London after the production of the new Alhambra ballet in June. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Wilson (Miss Ruth Davenport), the charming singer and actress, who appeared at the Lyric in 1898 in Sims and Corri's comic opera, The Dandy Fifth, and also played with much success at the Alhambra the heroine's rôles in Gretna Green and other operatic divertissements.

Mr. Jesse Sparrow (by the kind permission of his directors) will be granted a grand complimentary benefit on Tuesday, May 22, which will immediately precede his retirement from the management of the Camberwell Palace in June.

Mr. Albert Gilmer was felicitated by a number of his friends on Saturday on the seventh anniversary of his association with the Oxford. Like other celebrated men, Albert has been killed by the newspapers—a circumstantial account of his death appearing some ten years ago in an illustrated newspaper. The present writer did not believe the report, and had the gratification next week of denying it, and of announcing that Mr. Gilmer, who was suffering from typhoid fever, had turned the corner, and was going on exceedingly well.

"Coppelia," that most charming ballet by Léo Délibes, which was produced in Paris just before the Franco-German war broke out in 1870, will shortly be seen at the Empire. No better composer of ballet ever existed than Délibes, and he found in the story of the old doll-maker a scenario after his own heart. The subject will be illustrated at the younger ballet-house in Leicester-square with the magnificence for which the house is noted, and Coppélia should revive all the glorious traditions of grand ballet. Mlle. Genée will impersonate the heroine, Swanilda, a country girl, and Mr. Fred Farren will find a rôle quite to his liking in that of Coppelius.

The name of Frank Coyne is still to be found on the London hoardings, the lamented comedian being billed for the Holborn Empire this week. Widespread is the sorrow with which the news of his death has been received in the provinces. He was immensely liked among the Rats, and a touching tribute to his popularity was the carrying of his remains to their last resting-place on the shoulders of six of the brotherhood, viz., Joe Elvin, Wal Pink, Pat Rafferty, Arthur Reece, Fred Ginnett, and Harry Blake. The widow desires to thank the many kind friends for their expressions of sympathy—sent by telegram and letter—in her great bereavement.

Notwithstanding the positive statements in most of the "dailies," the Lyceum is still open. The latest arrangement is that the house will be carried on by Mr. Barrasford, in conjunction with the Macnaghten circuit—an arrangement that already obtains at the Britannia, Hoxton. The Lyceum bills are now ornamented with the lion rampant in red, which is the escutcheon for the Macnaghten postered proclamations throughout the country.

Mr. R. H. Douglass, the popular monologue artist, whose comic opera rehearsal is one of the funniest entertainments on the boards of the variety theatres, is now appearing as the Socialist Marquise in the London Coliseum Revue, which is attracting excellent houses both afternoon and evening.

The sport at Epsom on Wednesday was heartily enjoyed by Miss Marie Lloyd, who, looking exceedingly chic in a dreamy costume of sky-blue, motored down to the course. It wasn't Marie's day, and she backed three losers in succession.

Mr. Herbert Darnley has just engaged for a period of three years the well-known pantomimist and comedian Mr. Billie Reeves, the creator of the Drunken Swell in The Mumming Birds.

Arrangements have been made by Mr. Charles Urban to take a series of "animated pictures" of the great Hackenschmidt and Madrali wrestling match at Olympia to-day, and these pictures will be introduced on Monday into the Alhambra programme by Mr. George Scott.

Mr. Harry Cadle's Casey's Court sketch has been a big attraction at the Palace, Walthamstow, this week, Mr. George Casey, a real Irishman, playing the part of Biddy Casey in excellent style.

Miss Daisy Dormer, one of the brightest of coon singers and dancers adorning the variety stage, and one who has just fixed up one hundred weeks with Mr. Walter Gibbons, and has also been re-engaged by Messrs. Howard and Wyndham for principal girl at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, has just secured a new and tuneful number, by George Collins, entitled "My Malagasy Maizee," a Madagascar idyll. The little lady has been earning the highest encomiums from critical audiences for her rendering of George Collins's "I want a girl: a Shawnee Serenade" and "I'm going—going—I'm gone!" the latter a vivacious number by Charles Collins and Harry Castling.

Mr. G. H. Chirgwin will open the season at "The Happy Valley," Southend-on-Sea, on June 2, when he will himself appear at the matinée. All the proceeds of this entertainment, without any deduction whatsoever, will go to the funds of the National Lifeboat Institution.

The Portsmouth Hippodrome Company was registered on April 14. Its objects are to acquire certain lands and buildings in Portsmouth, to erect thereon a hippodrome and variety theatre, and to adapt an agreement with the South Coast Hippodrome Syndicate, Limited. The first directors are to be Messrs. Walter de Frece, Will Sley, George Essayan, Fred Mouillot, and H. F. Hann.

As we are going to press Mr. Gardiner Hales and Mr. Walter Gibbons are receiving a large number of guests at the new Empire Palace, Croydon, of which the stately proportions will be fully described in our next issue. The building is erected to accommodate 3,000 visitors, and will be run on the principle of two houses nightly. The first performance will be given on Tuesday evening next, May 1.

A site has been acquired by Sites, Limited, in an excellent position in Marlborough-street, Devonport, for the erection of an up-to-date hippodrome. Plans are being prepared by a well-known London architect, and as soon as arrangements are complete building operations will commence. The hall will be worked on the two performances nightly system. Mr. T. M. Sylvester, of Coventry, and other hippodromes, has been appointed manager. The opening has been fixed for a date early in December.

Mr. J. Howard Shackleton, the first musical director of the New Cross Empire, and now chef d'orchestre at the Southampton Hippodrome, has been selected by Mr. Walter de Frece as musical director-in-chief of the whole De Frece circuit.

The Palace-by-the-Sea at Clacton is a scene of unparalleled activity just now, the eminent builders who have the work in hand being evidently determined to hand over the completed building to the public-spirited proprietor by the date originally agreed upon. The inhabitants of Clacton, the railway company, and amusement-seeking holiday folk generally will have much to thank Mr. H. Ford for in adding such a great attraction to so salubrious a seaside watering-place. June next, it is rumoured, is likely to witness the Palace's opening.

Mr. Ford, by the way, has just been elected a member of the Urban Council of that town, being returned at the head of the poll by an enormous majority. Mr. Ford's two daughters—Miss Margery Lytton and Miss Maude Willey—have been spending a fortnight in town as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Curtis. Mr. Curtis, as is well known, will hold a very onerous position under Mr. Ford when the Clacton Palace-by-the-Sea opens.

The Newcastle United Football team visited the Newcastle Empire on Monday, on their return from London, and were received at the theatre by Mr. Richard Thornton and Mr. Leslie Conroy. Keen interest was centred in the picture of the match by the Bioscope.

Mr. Geo. Saphrini finished his season at the Palace Theatre, Boston, last Saturday. He reopens in June with a Pierrot show, and, after extensive alterations, which will include a new balcony and stage, will commence the variety season on September 3. At his benefit on the 19th inst. he was presented with a handsome gold watch by a few friends, and a magnificent diamond ring by Mr. H. Revel, of the Revel Troupe. The house was packed.

The Sheerness Hippodrome was closed on the 21st for a brief period for the purpose of re construction, both internally and externally. The building contract, it is understood, has been placed with a London firm.

An interesting item to be introduced by Mr. J. L. Graydon at the Brighton Alhambra on Monday next is a new sketch by the well-known dramatic writer, Campbell Rae-Brown, author of "Kissing Cup's Race," "The Prancing Girl," &c. The novelty is entitled The Express Baby, and is to be played by Miss Edith Evelyn's company, that clever lady being assisted by Mr. Frank Esmond and Miss Kitty Dease. The sketch has been already well booked.

Mr. Fred Leighton, the new manager of the Empire, Bristol, received a number of presentations prior to his departure from the Hippodrome, Sheerness. From the orchestra and staff came a silver sovereign case, local tradespeople presented him with a purse of gold, and Mr. Lucas, proprietor of the Bedford, London, and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, presented him with an opera hat. Mr. Leighton made a suitable acknowledgment, and subsequently entertained his friends to supper.

At Mr. Graham's New Hippodrome, Hull, an enthusiastic scene was witnessed on Saturday night last. Mr. George Leyton during the week had been giving a scena in which a Crimean veteran, Private Simons, took part. At the conclusion of the last performance Sergeant-Major Franks stepped to the front and stated that the sum of £7 3s. 2d. had been collected as the result of the sales of songsheets on the old soldier's behalf, and the money was handed over to him. The gallant sergeant-major then further announced that up to that time Mr. Leyton's efforts on behalf of the Crimean veterans had resulted in a total of £1,241 5s. 9d., which had been distributed to them throughout the country.

The annual general meeting of the Grand Theatre, Gravesend, Ltd., was held at the theatre on April 17, Captain H. E. Davis, the managing director, in the chair. The chairman referred to the successful year's business, and it was proposed and carried that a dividend of 7½ per cent. for the year be paid, and £214 12s. 2d. carried forward to the next year. Mr. S. M. Hyman, one of the retiring directors, was re-elected. A vote of thanks was passed to the manager, Mr. David Hart, for the hard work he had put in during the past twelve months, and it was unanimously resolved to increase his salary by £50 per annum. A vote of thanks was passed to the managing director, and the meeting then terminated.

Mr. A. Douglas Willcox was on Tuesday presented by Mr. George Weldon, of the Hippodrome, Dewsbury, with a handsome marble timepiece. From the band and staff he also received a valuable case of cutlery. Mr. Willcox has been musical-director of the Hippodrome since its erection, and was married on Thursday to Miss Flora Nicholson at Greenock. The best man was Mr. Jack T. Willcox, and the bridesmaid Miss B. McPherson.

Mr. E. P. Morgan, manager for Mr. Stoll at the Manchester Hippodrome, has been personally presented by the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of Manchester (Mr. J. Thewlis) with a handsome gold-mounted stick, suitably inscribed, in recognition of his services in connection with the Manchester Fund for the sufferers by the recent mining disaster in France.

The Monte Carlo Publishing Company is issuing a new song, written and composed by H. K. Hamilton Field (composer of the popular song, "His Country, King, and Girl," published by the same firm), in their "Sixpenny Successes" series. The new number bears the quaint title, "That's your Cactus over there."

By a slip of the pen, the date of the ball at the Trocadero in honour of the coming of age of Miss Assie Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall's second daughter, was given in our last issue as May 2. It should have appeared as May 7.

The London Pavilion Cricket Club will inaugurate their season on Tuesday by a "house" match between the "front" and "behind" staff. Both Mr. Frank Glenister and Mr. William Cobbett will be playing. The Club has a most interesting series of fixtures, and anticipate many pleasant days in the tented field.

Miss Billie Burke—lucky girl!—has been left £7,000 under the will of a friend of her father's, Mr. Willis T. Sawyer, who recently died in San Francisco. The popular little lady, who is now playing Commère in the successful Coliseum Revue, will not be tempted by this sudden accession of wealth to leave the stage. She is the daughter of Mr. Burke, of Burke, Andrus, and Frisco, a combination that has long been popular on the London variety stage, and made her stage début in the Metropolis on the boards of the London Pavilion in September, 1902, when she fulfilled a five or six weeks' engagement. Later she joined Mr. George Edwardes's company, and played the part of Evelyn Ormsby on the original production of The Blue Moon at the Lyric on Aug. 28, 1905.

We briefly announced in our columns last week the death of Mr. Alfred Lee, the veteran composer who wrote the music for George Leybourne's popular song, "Champagne Charlie." It was the fashion in the 'seventies to glorify the swell of the day who imbibed too much and gave the police trouble. The refrain ran thus:—

Champagne Charlie is my name,
Knocking down "bobbies" is my game.
Good for any spree at night, my boys,
Up for any game at night, my boys;
Champagne Charlie is my name,
Knocking down "bobbies" is my game.
Up for any game at night, boys;
Who'll come and join me in a spree?

So much for the "buck" who sought a doubtful reputation at the bottle's mouth. In his representation of him Leybourne was simply magnificent, metaphorically and actually.

For the Great Vance Mr. Lee wrote "The Husband's Boat," "Walking in the Zoo," "I'm par excellence the idol of the day"; for Harry Rickards—now the premier entrepreneur of Australia—"Rosherville's the place to spend a happy day"; for Jolly John Nash, "I couldn't help laughing; it tickled me so." He was also the composer of the music to several ballets produced at the Metropolitan during the management of the late Mr. J. J. Poole, who later became the proprietor of the South London Palace.

The deceased composer began life as a tuner to Messrs. Peachey, where his father was also. He worked hard at music for many years, and after getting connected with the stage through amateur theatricals, he eventually drifted into the musical side of the early music halls. One of his earliest engagements was as pianist with the late Sam Collins, who inaugurated Collins's on Islington-green. He was also at one time musical director at the Duke's Theatre, and acted as musical director at Astley's for Mr. Sanger. His last engagement was by Mr. William Holland to write additional music for Sir F. C. Burnand's "Blackeye'd See-usan," on its revival at the Alhambra with Mr. Arthur Roberts and Miss Bessie Bonehill in it. Of late years Mr. Lee had acted as musical editor and arranger for Messrs. Charles Sheard and Co., the well-known music publishers.

Mr. George Adney Payne writes as follows:—"I notice in your issue of the 21st inst. that you mention 'The Putney Hippodrome bookings will be in conjunction with the syndicate halls, and Mr. Nelson Francis, of the Empress, Brixton, has been appointed by myself as secretary to the new establishment.' I am at a loss to understand from whom you got your information, as it is entirely wrong. I have nothing whatever to do with the Putney Hippodrome in any shape or way, either so far as the booking is concerned, or appointing anyone to any position in connection with that establishment."

If proof were needed of the cheerfulness and capacity for work of Miss Millie Hylton, the favourite burlesque actress, it was furnished on Wednesday night. After her appearance at the Coliseum in the afternoon she was asked to sing at Stratford Empire for a sister artist, who had suddenly fallen a victim to influenza. Without demur she consented, and, in company with little Decima Brooke with whom she plays, she was received with enthusiasm at Stratford.

No sooner had she left the stage than a favour was once more asked of her. Mark Sheridan, the humorist, fell suddenly ill, and was unable to appear at Holloway Empire. Miss Hylton was asked to oblige. Jumping into a motor-car, she completed the journey in thirty minutes, and again was the recipient of an ovation. Back again to Stratford, then to Holloway, she reached the Coliseum just in time to don her walking-out clothes before that place of entertainment closed for the night. Those who have a penchant for figures may be interested in the following statistics:—At the Coliseum, 7 p.m.; left the stage, 7.10; on stage at Stratford, 8.10; at Holloway, 8.45; at Stratford, 9.20; at Holloway, 10.10; and back to Coliseum at 11.5 p.m.

Miss Ada Reeve left Southampton on Saturday afternoon last by the Union Castle liner Kenilworth Castle to fulfil a nine weeks' engagement in South Africa under the management of Messrs. Sydney Hyman, of Johannesburg and Cape Town. Miss Reeve received an enthusiastic send-off from a large party of friends who assembled at the South-Western Hotel at Southampton on Friday night, when the clever little comedienne was entertained at a farewell dinner by Mr. Kuntze, the popular manager of the hotel. On Saturday morning, Miss Reeve, who is accompanied to South Africa by her husband, Mr. Wilfrid Cotton, was entertained at luncheon in the saloon of the liner by Mr. Hyman, two great features of the function being the presentation of a huge horseshoe, measuring over 2ft. in height, and composed of white azaleas, with the words "Good Luck" in red geraniums, and the receipt of an endless stream of telegrams from managers and fellow artists in all parts of the country, wishing the little star "bon voyage."

Miss Reeve will receive a total salary of £5,000 for her nine weeks' work in South Africa. She will appear only at Messrs. Hyman's two theatres, the Empire, Johannesburg, where she will open on May 14 and remain six weeks, and the Tivoli, Cape Town, whence she will sail for England at the end of July. She will appear as a single turn only, in her own extensive répertoire of successful songs. This is the first occasion on which Miss Reeve has gone abroad as a variety artist; her previous tours in Australia and America have always been as a musical comedy actress.

The Terriers held their annual general meeting on Thursday afternoon at the Hercules, Kennington-road, the President, Mr. Jesse Sparrow, taking the chair. The Press are not admitted to the deliberations of the Terriers, but we are informed by the secretary that there was a good attendance of members, and that a satisfactory balance-sheet and report were submitted and passed. A pleasing feature of the meeting was a double presentation, the President and the Hon. Treasurer (Mr. Douglas White) being invested with the gold jewel of the Association.

Mr. H. B. Marinelli has informed us that, on account of the extension of his American business, he has been compelled to take larger offices, and from May 1 his New York address will be, Holland Building, No. 1,440, Broadway. His new offices are in the centre of the American variety business, and are therefore of easy access for both managers and artists.

Miss Maude Courtney, who went to the States a few weeks ago on business connected with the lamented death of her mother in South Africa, sailed from New York on Wednesday, and will open the Moss Tour at Edinburgh on May 7.

"Moses and Son," a farcical sketch, the latest and brightest of Fred Karno's productions, which has evoked enthusiasm wherever it has appeared, will be reproduced at Hackney Empire next week. This exceedingly humorous play is presented by a cast composed, with the exception of Fred Kitchen, entirely of acknowledged Hebrew artists. These include Miss Leah Morris, late principal of the Florodora company; Miss Janet Reeve, sister to Ada Reeve; Miss Kate Forster, from the Savoy Theatre; and Miss Rose Abrahams, from the Gaiety.

Two interesting artists on the Hackney Empire bill are Cooke and Miss Rothert, American eccentrics. Recently in Russia Miss Rothert had a marvellous escape from death. When dancing she dropped a valuable bracelet on the stage. After her act the curtain was lowered to allow the next "turn," a wild-beast show, to be placed on the stage. Miss Rothert went forward to pick up the bracelet, and at that moment a cage with two lions was pushed forward. One of the animals reached out with his claws and dug them into Miss Rothert's body, and it was only by the united efforts of the staff and the application of red-hot irons that she was dragged fainting away.

Mr. Eugene Stratton rightly considers that one of the luckiest moments of his life was when at Manchester (after leaving the Moore and Burgess Minstrels) he met Mr. Leslie Stuart, who submitted a song to him. His great success, the "Whistling Coon," the whistle of which is done without the aid of any mechanical contrivance, he owes to his constant practice on the farm at Buffalo, on which his parents, Alsatians born, had settled. The negro is naturally and unavoidably witty. Mr. Stratton, with his instinct of humour, would, as a boy, take in all he heard and saw, little thinking at the time probably that he would be able to turn his pickings up to such solid financial effect later on. Mr. Stratton's first successful hit was as one of Moore and Burgess's minstrels. His song "I lub a lubly girl," composed by Brandon Thomas, author of Charley's Aunt, was an immediate success.

One of the hits of "The girl behind the counter," the new musical play at Wyndham's, is from Mr. A. J. Mills's pen, with music by his famous coadjutor Bennett Scott. It is sung by Mr. Horace Mills, and is entitled "If there hadn't been an apple on the tree." Mr. Mills has written many successes for nearly every star in the music-hall profession.

Mr. James E. Hardy, "the American Blondin," with his wife and two little boys, aged four and six, left Euston on Wednesday, by the 12.10 train, for Liverpool, en route for Canada, by the Southwark (Dominion Line). His permanent address is 56, Shannon-street, Toronto, Canada. His arrangements on arrival are to open at Kent House, Montmorency Falls, Quebec. At the conclusion of this engagement he will make a tour of the world.

Mr. Frederick Maxwell's beautifully-acted sketch Lord Harkaway will be one of the chief items of the programme at the Lyceum next week. Miss Lois Du Cane, whose clever impersonation of the heroine has often been praised in these columns, will wear a picture gown of soft dove-grey cloth, a large black picture-hat, and long suède gloves to match. Mr. Maxwell will also play Dick Dare, M.P., at the Britannia.

Professor Wingard, one of the cleverest and most humorous conjurers on the stage, received a command (through Lord William Cecil) to appear at Osborne on Tuesday to give his entertainment before his Majesty the King of Spain, Princess Ena, and other Royal guests of H.R.H. Princess Henry of Battenberg. The professor possesses more letters and testimonials from Royalty than any other artist living.

Mr. James Willard, whose amusing sketch, Did He Deserve It? has met with such gratifying success in both London and the provinces, has just completed another comedy-sketch with the promising title of The Strange Little Stranger. He will shortly be touring this in the principal variety theatres.

Mr. Dion Wade has had to cancel engagements at the Empress, Brixton, Tivoli, Barrow-in-Furness, and Argyle, Birkenhead, owing to severe hoarseness, and has been resting at York, but hopes to resume work next week or the week after in London.

We regret to hear that Mrs. E. W. James, wife of the popular manager of the Ealing Empire, has undergone an operation for tubercular peritonitis at St. George's Hospital, and her condition is considered serious. Much sympathy will be felt for Mr. James in this grave crisis, but there is still hope, and we may have better news next week.

The 460th meeting of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association was held at the offices in Wellington-street on Tuesday, when Mr. Fred Herbert was elected to the chair. There were also present Messrs. Harry Blake, Chas. Coborn, J. Collinson, Albert Le Fre, C. McConnell, Chas. Pastor, Wal Pink, Geo. Preston, Arthur Rigby, Albert Voyce, C. Douglas Stuart, secretary, and Douglas White, hon. treasurer, who was warmly welcomed on his return after his recent illness. Some discussion arose out of the minutes of the last meeting, and Mr. Chas. Coborn gave notice of motion to rescind a portion referring to a vote of censure passed on a member, and Mr. Albert Voyce gave notice of amendment. A letter was read from Captain Slingsby, who has succeeded to a vacancy on the committee, intimating that he had only just recovered from illness, and, as he did not anticipate being in London for some time, would not be able immediately to take up his duties. The secretary was instructed to send Captain Slingsby a letter of condolence and to express the hope that he would do his best for the Association while in the country.

The secretary reported that forty-one new members had been added to the roll, and submitted his weekly statement. The hon. treasurer also presented a financial statement, both accounts being passed. The agency in Burnley was transferred to Mr. S. Jackson, who has taken over the Rose and Thistle Hotel, formerly occupied by the late agent. A member who by resolution of the committee two weeks previously was made responsible for loss incurred by other members missing the concession was heard by the meeting, and notice of motion to rescind the resolution in question was given. Mr. Harry Blake submitted a scheme on behalf of the agent in Manchester, who wished to obtain the approval and nominal support of the committee in the establishment of headquarters in the town, with club rooms restricted to members of the M.H.A.R.A., who should have the right of free entry. The proposal was discussed at considerable length, and eventually it was decided to write to Mr. Deschamps for further particulars.

M. Victor de Cottens has this week been presented by the principals at the Coliseum with a solid silver frame made by the Goldsmiths Company, Regent-street, W., containing the portraits and signatures of the ladies and gentlemen in question. An illuminated address is likewise let in this very novel souvenir of what M. de Cottens regards as the finest revue he has yet written.

M. de Cottens has addressed the following letter of thanks individually to the ladies and gentlemen concerned:—"Dear Mr. Marshall Moore—The joy and emotion I felt last night on receiving the splendid and charming souvenir you offered me on behalf of all my friends at the Coliseum quite prevented me from replying in adequate terms. I could not sufficiently express my gratitude to you each and all for the really cordial reception and valued assistance rendered me at the Coliseum. Will you, I beg, be my interpreter with all who have worked for the success of the revue, and express my gratitude to all the artists, commencing with Miss Billie Burke and Mr. Tom Murray, without excepting anybody; from first to last each one has devoted his or her talent and kindly assistance; to the gentlemen of the orchestra and Mr. Jacobi to whom I owe so much; to Mr. Will Bishop, who unceasingly devoted himself to the success of the revue, and whose valuable assistance as ballet master and assistant-producer has been doubly precious to me; to the ladies of the ballet; the gentlemen and ladies of the chorus; to Mr. J. Douglas and the stage-carpenters, who have accomplished a triumph of workmanship; to the electricians; to the props, and those employed in costumes, wigs, &c. It is to them all that we owe the success of our revue (Mr. Arthur Shirley's and mine), as we do also to my dear collaborators and friends Messrs. Walter Slaughter, Roland Carse, and A. Wimperis. I do not forget the kindly assistance of the 'front-of-the-house' staff, of Mr. B. Shelton, Mr. John Donald, and Mr. Will Bennet, and his valuable colleague and secretary of the Press department.—Queen's Hotel, Leicester-square, W. April 22, 1906. Marshall Moore, Esq., Coliseum, W."

Mr. Harold Arnold, who vacated the position of acting-manager to the Lyceum on Saturday evening, is possibly one of the most popular of the younger managers in the West End. At the conclusion of the second evening performance on Saturday he was the recipient of several valuable expressions of goodwill from the artists and staff, and Mr. Barrasford intimated his intention of suitably acknowledging Mr. Arnold's useful work at the historic house in the Strand.

Mr. Bransby Williams has been going strong at the Empire this week, his sketch of how Mr. Popple (of Ippleton) would play Hamlet being perhaps the most successful character-sketch in the turn. Mr. Williams sails for the United States in August for a twelve-weeks' engagement in New York, returning in time to fulfil several engagements before he goes into pantomime at Glasgow. He will open in America with his Dickens impersonations, but does not intend—at all events at first—to represent any of the hustling Yankees in Martin Chuzzlewit. Mrs. Bransby Williams will accompany her husband to America.

Happy Fanny Fields has received a hearty welcome on her return to town at the Tivoli this week. The little Dutch girl—from New York—is merrier than ever, and has added a waltz in sabots, a catchy song, and several new jokes to her capital turn. She has given up the simple muslin frocks in which she first laughed her way into the hearts of her audiences, and appears in a smart little dress of pale brocaded satin, white and blue, with a Swiss belt of deep blue velvet, glittering with golden sequins, the elbow sleeves and vest being fine lace, and the pockets of the tiny apron hidden by white satin bows, while her stiff Dutch cap is also of white satin, and her plaits of brown hair are tied with bright red ribbon. Miss Fields, who goes to America in three weeks for her annual holiday, is booked for pantomime in Liverpool next winter, having made such a hit at Bristol last Christmas, when not only her friends in front, but everybody behind the scenes, united to make "Happy" Fanny realise her quaint little name.

"Heard at the Telephone" is to succeed Drink at the Coliseum, in which Mr. Charles Warner will repeat his striking and realistic performance of the distracted husband who hears, and is powerless to prevent, the murder of his wife and child. Miss Mary Allestree and Miss Helen Graeme, who are now playing Virginie and Gervaise respectively, are engaged to support Mr. Warner in the forthcoming revival.

Mr. Ernest Shand's funny song, "Look at the weather we're having," continues to prove one of the most attractive and successful items in the current Oxford programme, and the smart comedian is constantly adding new and up-to-date verses on topics of the day, treated from a ludicrous point of view by the author, Mr. John P. Harrington. It has just been issued by the Monte Carlo Publishing Company in their "Sixpenny Successes" series, and the trade demand is unprecedentedly large.

Miss Florrie Gallimore will next week "introduce" at all her London engagements Mr. J. F. Lambe's lilting Irish song, "Widow Doolin." This number, which is issued by the Monte Carlo Publishing Company, of Berners-street, and forms No. 22 of their "Sixpenny Successes" series, has been eagerly snapped up by all the principal al-fresco entertainers.

Mr. T. W. Volt and a specially selected company are now busily rehearsing Messrs. John P. Harrington and James W. Tate's new musical comedy-sketch, Lord Bill's Bills, which will be produced at an early date at one of the principal Stoll halls.

Mr. "Sixpenny Pop" Smith's catalogue of Francis and Day's copyrights will soon number 300 items, the three latest pieces just added being Theodore Morse's "Starlight"; "San Sebastian," another waltz from the same pen as "The Choristers' Waltz," and one which the King of Spain has just graciously permitted Mr. Samuel Dodwell to dedicate to his Majesty; and "Father!" the Cockney carol which Mr. Will Edwards has popularised.

Miss Bertha Duckett, owing to indisposition, has had to cancel all immediate dates.

The Arcadians, a trio of "pastoral players," who recently made a successful début at the Lyceum in dainty songs and dances, open at the Richmond Theatre on May 7. The trio consists of three of the youthful maidens who used to give pleasing little sketches, in conjunction with their brothers, under the name of Les Petites Viviennes. George, the eldest, who has long since grown out of the original family stage name, and is now touring in America with Mr. Ben Greet's company, sails for home on July 4.

"What Greater Love," a story of the American Civil War of the early sixties, by Sidney Bowkett, was produced on Tuesday evening at the Empire, Islington, by Mr. Charles Ommanney (late of Mrs. Brown Potter's company), before a crowded audience. Mr. Ommanney appeared with success as Lieutenant Valny, Mr. Arthur Royston (late of Sir Henry Irving's company) was dramatic and forcible as Captain Gordon, and Miss Laura Hansen (late of Miss Jessie Millward's company at La Scala) made a sympathetic Mona.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

LONDON PAVILION.

Mr. Frank Glenister has certainly secured a most potent attraction at the London Pavilion in the shape of La Milo, a charming girl, age twenty-one, with eyes of forget-me-not blue, who is able to prove by her own beautifully modelled form that it is not necessary to go to ancient sculpture to discover perfect womanhood. La Milo is decidedly on the large side, and may be said to have the proportions of an athletically and healthily developed frame. She owns to a waist of 26in., and a bust measurement of 38in. She may well be compared with the Venus of Milo, or with the undraped statue of the same goddess, chiselled at the request of the people of Cos by Praxiteles, who gave them their choice of two, naked or veiled. They chose the latter, and the Cnidians bought the former, which eventually came into the possession of Nero. We are told that La Milo arrives so near to perfection as to constitute almost a challenge from Nature the creator to Art the idealiser. She poses as well-known classical statues, standing on a pedestal, in a scene representing a public garden, with ladies in fashionable modern dress in her immediate vicinity. In succession we see representations of Hebe, Psyche, the Venus di Medici, the Brown Venus, and the Venus de Milo, in which pose the broken arm appearance is cleverly realised by the poseuse wearing black gloves. The final tableau is a Bacchante, pouring out libations for the "gods"—not necessarily those seated in the gallery. The performance is chaste and artistic, and the fidelity of the "statues" simply wonderful. We are informed on the programme that the "impeccable correctness of detail in La Milo's poses must disarm the most austere censor." But can censors be austere in the presence of so much beauty? In the intervals necessary for the preparation of the various posings the artist Cruikshank's lightning caricatures of political celebrities are shown on a screen in the act of being drawn, the effect being very curious. The magic word "Joe" of course heralds the production of a portrait of Mr. Chamberlain, and the Tariff Reformers among the Pavilion audience show by shouts of encouragement that they are not "down-hearted."

Mr. George Mozart, who has been retained for the Easter holidays, is presenting a new monologue, which may be called The Tea-Shop Girl. At present it does not happen to be particularly funny, but will grow so, no doubt, in the course of a few days. Mr. Malcolm Scott as "The Woman who Knows," returns to the scene of his former triumphs with fresh witticisms; and Mr. Marriott Edgar is warmly welcomed in an amusing perversion of nursery rhymes, set to the ancient tune of "The Vicar of Bray." Mr. Edgar does not force his effects, and the quiet and restraint of his style contrast favourably with the blatant methods of some variety comedians. Mr. Ambrose Thorne, who seems to be cut out for musical comedy, is well fitted with an excellent number in "The Practical, Tactical, Nautical Man," "with the accent on the naughty," and is valuably assisted by a cohort of eight smart, attractive, and well-trained ladies, who are known as the Pavilion Girls. Mr. Thorne and his fair companions are again seen and heard to much advantage in a second number, "She didn't seem to know just what she wanted," in which they are several times encored. The scenas are a capital addition to a fine and large programme, in which that strong Pavilion favourite the excellent comedian and prolific dramatist, Mr. Mark Melford, repeats his old-time success as the Verger in the screamingly funny, farcical sketch, My Wife Won't Let Me; My Fancy brings the house down with her admirable step-dancing—a form of entertainment in which the talented Glenroy Troupe are also facile princeps. The Raies are responsible for a different form of terpsichorean entertainment, which is both fascinating and attractive; and other successful dancers are Susie and Protti, who revel in a sensational dance, which evokes much applause. We have no more accomplished acrobats than the Three Laurels; and the entertainment has also acceptable contributors in Mr. Will Edwards, comedian; the Motramos, in comedy, music, and song; Mr. Josh Dixon, eccentric comedian and dancer; Wilbur Hill and Willette Whitaker, with a unique novelty in music and song; Mr. Jock Whiteford, Scotch comedian; Miss Nell Richardson, a favourite ballad vocalist; and Massona, juggler.

THE SURREY.

The most sensational item in the Surrey bill is the new and original cycling act by the Yags and Mary Trio, who hail from the Olympia, Paris. Variety theatre habitués would think that they had seen all that could be seen in the way of trick cyclists, but this clever trio demonstrate that new deeds of daring on wheels have yet to be witnessed. Starting their novel act, two of them ride on to the stage astride an ancient velocipede, propelled by striking the toes on the ground. After this unique exhibition, Yags give some astounding feats on the old high-wheel machine, following this up with many trick acts on the ordinary free-wheel cycle. All these feats, however, fade into insignificance when, by the aid of a ladder, he mounts on to the front handle-bars of a long tandem and pedals around the stage upright on the rear wheel. The concluding trick is the most sensational. A form of see-saw is brought on to the stage, across the centre of which is a stand some 10ft. high. A lady member of the trio mounts a bicycle on one side of the see-saw while Yags sits a bicycle on top of the high stand. By bumping his machine to the edge of the stand he drops on to the raised end of the plank beneath, which shoots his fair companion at the other end of the plank high in the air. She turns a complete somersault with her bicycle and alights on to the mattress provided for her safety. Needless to say, this daring act calls forth thunderous applause.

The Strolling Singers give a musical and tuneful song scena, entitled My Highland Laddie. The scene is at an inn on the Scottish moors during the rebellion of 1745. It is kept by one Sandy McNab, who, while joining some Highlanders in part-songs and glees, is interrupted by the appearance of Flora Macdonald, who claims protection for her companion in flight, Prince Charles Stuart. This request is readily accorded, and McNab disguises the Prince as his potman and the lady as a waiting maid. Major Clifford appears on the scene, and soon discovers that the Prince he is in seach of is at the inn. An attempt on the major's part to kiss the new waiting maid enrages the Prince, who reveals himself, and is promised his liberty if he is successful in the duel forced on him by the major. He soon places that officer hors de combat, and the road is left open for his escape to the coast. During the interpretation of this romantic little episode the action is stayed to allow of some excellent solos and quartettes. Among the best of these are Mr. Edward Thorpe's song "How much I love you" and the final chorus "Hail to the King!" Mr. Phil Stockwell as McNab posseses a fine baritone voice and the art of using it. Mr. Alvin Sawyer is a blustering, pompous Major Clifford, Miss Edith Maynard a sweetly pretty and charming companion to the Prince, and uproarious merriment follows every action of Mr. George Whillis as the ostler Obadiah.

To the variety portion of the entertainment Eugene, the boy musician, in a smart uniform, contributes a musical act that is both skilful and interesting; Mr. W. B. Raby gives a humorous parody on the ballad "Angelina," and his second effort, in which he is heard to advantage, is a satirical song on the much overdone "Coon." Marie Neilson is a bright and merry comedienne, her song "Oh, the girls, lovely girls," being the vehicle for the introduction of some vigorous dances and acrobatic feats. The Brothers Esdale indulge in all the faites and gestes of two clever and amusing cross-talkers, winding up their all too short turn with a medley topical song. Florence Yaymen is quaint, original, and resourceful, three essentials of success in the variety theatre. Costumed and made up as a knock-kneed female Golliwog, she, in true nigger style, asks her audience to "Come and take this little piccaninny home." Her facial expression and inimitable laugh send the audience into fits of uncontrollable laughter. Miss Ghita Corri takes honours for her delightful and artistic rendering of "The Holy City" and "Ave Maria." The curtain rises on the exterior of a cathedral, and the beautiful voice of the singer is heard singing the first verse of "The Holy City." As the last note dies away, the interior of the sacred edifice is shown with the white-robed figure of the singer standing in the dim light of the chancel. As the second verse is sung the light gradually increases until the stage is brilliantly illuminated, and then as gradually dies out as the sacred song ends. Maurin's Fountains are an optical revelation, for in an endless variety of beautiful colours a series of gorgeous butterflies, national flags, &c., is thrown on a white-robed figure. Then when the fountains come into play, the sprays are illuminated in ever changing colours of green, gold, orange, red, crimson, pink, and blue. The Vaudeville Dramatic Company appears in a three-scene sketch, entitled The Lonely Man, which the programme states is a hitherto unrecorded adventure in the life of that famous criminal, Charles Peace. As a full notice was given of this sketch in our last issue under the title of The Star of Sinners, it needs no further comment. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux vividly represents a domestic tragedy, entitled The Jealous Husband, with its usual clearness and finish.

FORESTERS'.

Among the many useful purposes which the music hall has lived to fulfil is the training of the lower animals to a remarkable degree of intelligence and skilfulness. Some of the performances given now upon the stage would not have been thought possible a hundred years ago. Thus, we have Judge's marvellous performing cockatoos, macaws, and parrots executing somersaults and other physical evolutions, and engaging in acrobatics wonderful to witness. It is an act in which humour and bird-cleverness combine. Of course, we must have tragedy, and so we have a conflagration bidding fair to outrival Vesuvius or 'Frisco. The "fire-birds" of the cockatoo corps see the flames rising higher and higher in the sky. With the utmost despatch they harness their engines, and away to the scene of the catastrophe. Undauntedly, one brave "fire-bird" dashes into a burning house. He is next seen at one of the windows, from which he is throwing the household goods. Cheer! He deserves it! And now from tiny performers we go to bigger ones. There are the Willfords, for instance, who cause one to marvel at their hand and head-balancing feats. Herculean equilibrists they call themselves, and they thoroughly merit the title.

Then come the Sister Sprightly. Sprightly we have known them for some time, and sprightly they are to-day. Their dancing is graceful, it is poetic, while in their song, "All you require," we are treated to a capital piece of vocalism. Hicks' Clerks, vocalists, comedians, and dancers, refer to a subject upon which many folk have from time to time waxed furious. A crowd has assembled in the hope of being able to find places in an omnibus or tramcar. There isn't room for all, and the conductor endeavours to console them with the cry, "Another one coming along!" The song is rendered in amusing fashion, and the patter of Hicks' gentlemen is likewise entertaining. Some smart comedy acrobatics are witnessed in the turn of Adams and Ward, whose doings are relieved by the valuable quality of humour. Then Cyclo astonishes everybody by his skill and agility he displays in his various novel and daring tricks in the cycle-riding line. Cyclo is the envy this week of all the wheeling clubs in the East End, and no doubt the ambition of some of the local scorchers is to emulate him on their "jiggers." One's admiration, as well as one's risible faculties, are aroused to no small pitch by the exceedingly cleverly-conceived series of pictures, entitled "The Glutton's Nightmare," thrown on the screen by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

Mr. C. Wordley Hulse and company, in their dramatic scena, The Fight in the Forge. Mr. Hulse gives us a pleasing portraiture of a sturdy young blacksmith, and Miss Madeline Grande is pretty and sympathetic in the rôle of May Cobbold, the blacksmith's sister. Great praise is due to Mr. Gerald Noland for an extremely able character sketch of an old rustic, the croaking voice and hesitating step of the ancient being correctly represented. Mr. G. Edward Hall, as the quarrelsome Joel Crane, and Mr. Francis E. Wybert as Frank Harwood, do good work in their respective rôles. Mr. Jack Rae, the tramp-gymnast, submits an interesting aerial performance; and Miss Violet Belrose renders a coon song, "Rufus Ruskin," in the best coon style, and dances nicely too. Mr. Herbert Rule, the eccentric comedian, is intensely funny with his diary song and patter and his many laughable "gags." Miss Lily Black enchants her audience with her interpretation of "Mother, the wild waves are saying," while with remarkable ease she turns from the serious to the whimsical in her verses, "Has your mother got any more like you?"

ROYAL STANDARD.

Mr. J. C. Morris, in one of the liveliest items in this week's Royal Standard programme, is quaintness itself. He starts off with "Sing a song for sixpence," in which he introduces a host of comical ideas. His description, in his second number, of how he became "spliced," is exceedingly laughable. The droll manner in which he speaks and sings greatly accentuates the absurdities he delivers. The Cubas are an extremely lively couple. They engage in all kinds of quips and cranks. Their antics are of the uproariously ridiculous order. In their grotesque attire, in which there is enough hay to give a good feed to all the omnibus horses in London, they turn somersaults, perform other physical exercises, and do other things which make for laughter. They have some amusing chatter centred around the word Tennessee and what is done in that part of the world. Miss Mabel Thorne has much that is funny to say about one Mary, a servant girl, and her trips abroad. In her succeeding effort she is a love-lorn maiden, who says of her soldier-sweetheart, "If he's good enough to serve the King he's good enough for me." Considerable hilarity is caused by her addressing soldiers in the audience. Nipper Lupino Lane is the object of an immense reception as soon as he makes his appearance. He proves to be a very vivacious boy, and he displays really remarkable talent in the singing and dancing line. Especially commendable are his Dutch song and dance. Master Lane should be heard of a great deal in the future.

Mr. Charles Bignell, wherever he appears, never fails to receive a big share of public favour, and this week at Pimlico is no exception to the rule. He excites one's risible faculties with the song the chorus of which runs "Sticking on the top," while one is compelled to join in the shout, "Are we downhearted?" that goes up at the conclusion of each few lines of his ensuing song. Topical allusions abound in this latter effort, and never was the popular Charlie heard to speak more vociferously as he asks the question in relation to the British nation. For strength, nerve, and daring one need have no hesitation in commending the Lomas Trio, who take part in a novel and pretty gymnastic act, the electrically-lighted revolving trapeze on which they are seen towards the conclusion of their turn affording a most picturesque spectacle as it turns round and round with a man hanging in different positions from each of its extensions. Mr. Chas. Denman delights the house with his descriptive vocalism, and Miss Ada Parker is an accomplished dancer and a sweet singer.

An agreeable vocalist is found in the person of Mr. A. E. Clifford, whose opening attempt, a lyric concerned with one Mollie, is rendered with expression and feeling, as is also his subsequent song, "In the shade of the old apple-tree." A fine set of pictures is shown through the medium of the Edisonograph, the films bearing the names of "The Vendetta" and "Saved by a Lie" being particularly realistic. The Northern Troupe of International Dancers show us how people of different countries dance. Thus we have three young ladies attired in kilts executing in effective fashion a familiar Scots dance; later, two male members of the troupe, dressed in green, red, and white, treat us to the "light fantastic" as practised in the Emerald Isle. Mr. Billy Williams, who is deputising for Mr. Arthur Lennard, comes before the footlights to a regular outburst of applause. Then, looking as radiant and as jocular as ever, he dances up and down and round and about the stage what time he sings a parody on "Stop yer tickling, Jock." And after he has nearly brought the roof down with the laughter he evokes by this number, he burlesques in like fashion "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you." Mr. Williams' own assumption of merriment excites the genuine article from the crowded house, and he is voted a great hit. Miss Georgina Leonard gives an acceptable rendering of two songs, "After the victory's over" and "Good-bye, sweet Marie."

The Collinson combination are presenting their new sensational sketch in three scenes, entitled "THE GAMBLER'S DAUGHTER."

John Gregory ..... MR. JACK COLLINSON
Oliver Marsden ..... MR. WALTER MACNAMARA
Reginald Langley ..... MR. WILLIAM BORD
Madame du Cros ..... MISS SELINA SEAFORTH
Nita St. Julian ..... MISS ANNIE HILL
Madeline Gregory ..... MISS JEANNIE MOSS

John Gregory, alias Captain Gerard, is the head of a band of swindlers and card-sharpers in London. His daughter Madeline, who lives in the country, knows nothing of her father's evil life. She is in love with one Reginald Langley, who has just come into £40,000. He gets a letter of introduction to Gregory at the latter's London address. There he meets Oliver Marsden, a confederate of Gregory. Marsden asks him to become his guest for the evening, and young Langley assents, as he is quite ignorant of London life. Marsden takes him to a gambling den and cheats him of £5000 at cards. Gregory, finding that the young fellow is his daughter's sweetheart, takes his side, and, acting on Gregory's instructions, Langley wins back his £5000. A violent altercation ensues between Marsden and Gregory. The latter kills Marsden and then commits suicide. Mr. Jack Collinson is vigorous yet sportsmanlike as Gregory, and Mr. Walter Macnamara shows off the viciousness and cunning of Marsden. Mr. William Bord gives an agreeable portrayal of the part of the hero, Reginald Langley; and Miss Jeannie Moss is pleasing and affectionate as Madeline Gregory. Miss Selina Seaforth is realistic in her characterisation of a bold, bad woman, and Miss Annie Hill makes the most of her rôle of Nita St. Julian.

THE BEDFORD.

Mr. B. Pearce Lucas, who has lately added to his responsibilities as managing-director by the acquisition of the Empire, Bristol, is presenting a very powerful attraction indeed in his current bill. It is nothing less than the latest sketch associated with the name and fame of Mr. John Lawson, an immense favourite at the Camden Town house, whose production of dramettas of a powerful type is always interesting. The King's Minister, which is from the pen of Mr. Cecil Raleigh, the author of Hearts are Trumps, and other Drury-lane pieces, is a tabloid of tragedy that thrills the spectator and enchains the attention from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The Earl of Draconsmere, who has risen to the post of Prime Minister by the sheer force of his talent, has had a "past," and associated with it is a lady whom he calls Kitty, who moves in smart society, and plays bridge with disastrous results to her income. When the curtain rises the two are dining in a private room at Melano's Restaurant, Soho, and in the course of conversation Draconsmere makes a confidante of the woman of whom he had been enamoured in his youth. His daughter, Muriel, has become engaged to Arthur Lincoln, the descendant of a noble family, standing high in the confidence of the Sovereign. Muriel had, in her schoolgirl days, written foolish letters to Aubrey Tremayne; and since her father had occupied such an exalted position, Tremayne had desired to use these evidences of a girlish infatuation as a means of raising money. Kitty, by stratagem, had succeeded in obtaining the incriminating documents, and hands them over to the Earl while they are sipping their coffee. Struck by the generosity of his old flame, he hands her his letter-case full of notes, and endeavours also to dissuade her from gambling. Directly after his departure through a thick fog, Melano, the restaurant proprietor, enters the room, and demands money from Kitty. She at first ignores his threats, but at length yields to his entreaties, and gives him a five-pound note. This sum is not enough to satisfy the foreigner, and he strangles the unfortunate woman with a serviette, and then calls in the police, making the statement that on entering the room after the departure of her companion he had found her dead body lying on the floor.

In the second scene Melano bursts into the reception-room of the Earl of Draconsmere's residence in Carlton House-terrace, and threatens to give information to the police that will put the hangman's rope round the neck of the Earl, whose letter-case, with monogram and coat-of-arms, is sufficient evidence of his guilt. The price of the Italian's silence is the Prime Minister's key to the cypher code that he employs in secret despatches. Melano demands this, with revolver in hand, because he is driven to do so by the chiefs of a society of political assassins. The Earl, by a ruse, obtains possession of the weapon, and shoots himself, charging the crime to the Italian, who is secured. On this tragic picture the curtain falls.

Mr. Lawson as the Earl of Draconsmere is made up somewhat to resemble the late Earl of Beaconsfield, to whose virtues as a statesman he pays a very pronounced tribute in the dialogue of the playlet. In the first scene he gives a light and agreeable touch to the character; but fully sounds the tragic import of the strong scene between the Prime Minister and the ruffian. Mr. Lawson does not spare himself; and his acting is intense, earnest, and convincing. Miss Cissie Lawson gives distinction and charm to the part of Muriel; and praise is due also to the actress who impersonates Kitty, and to the actors who represent Melano and Arthur Lincoln respectively.

The leading favourite of the variety portion of the entertainment is Miss Lily Burnand, whose beautiful figure looks superb in a principal boy's costume of green and gold. The successful career of Sally, who, emerging from the ranks of the ballet, reaches exalted rank, and drives her own motor, is interestingly described by the lively and lovely Lily, who is enthusiastically assisted by the gallery in chorus. In her second item, Miss Burnand tells the story of a youngster who becomes a stowaway on board his father's ship in order to be "a sailor laddie." This is another wholesome, interesting number, and it is wedded to an excellent melody that will be heard all over the neighbourhood before the popular burlesque artist finishes her engagement.

The Franko Midgets, the smallest conjurers in the world, submit their speciality with considerable success. The tricks include the fairy fishing-rod, the disappearing canaries, and the magic cone—at least these are the chief, and they are very neatly performed. Barton and Franklin enthral their hearers in their selections on musical glasses and on split Japanese bamboo sticks. They also play exceedingly well a popular melody as a cornet duet, and wind up their turn with the "Misèrere" scene from Il Trovatore, given as a duet on concertinas, which accompany the vocal rendering by the pair of the beautiful "Ah! che la morte." Parker and Parr are also responsible for agreeable melody, and their scheme of entertainment, entitled "My Wild Irish Rose," is not lacking in fun. Williams and Warden contribute a lively turn, including smart cross-talk and excellent dancing; and Mlle. Sylvesto is responsible for some wonderful contortion feats, in which she wriggles her body in a very remarkable way through a number of rings. Robbie Roy has an amusing style as a Scotch comedian; and a much-favoured item in the well-considered programme is Ruffell's Bioscope. Mr. George Hatley most capably directs the orchestra here; and Mr. A. F. Lovesy is a popular manager.

THE GRANVILLE.

After the lively programme and bustling haste of Bank Holiday the Granville has once more settled down to its normal state, and Mr. Robert W. Duce, the genial acting-manager, can boast a capital programme. Will Evans is well to the fore as one of the "star" turns with his latest popular wheeze, "I am a soldier," in which he is supported by army of 10,000, more or less. He relates, in his customary breezy manner, how he jointed the army, and that he has constituted himself the guardian of the old country, and is prepared to repel the invasion of 1910, but the enemy attack four years before the due time, which, as Kipling would say, is "another story." His grotesque make-up and the woe-begone appearance of his corps cause uproarious laughter, and the mock-heroic battle which ends up the piece and his death-scene are gems of comedy of the more boisterous kind. Miss Lena Verdi is, as the programme describes her, a very dainty and graceful mimic of most prepossessing appearance. She imitates Vesta Tilley in "Following in her father's footsteps," Marie Lloyd in "The tale of the skirt," Vesta Victoria in "It's all right in the summer-time," and Harry Lauder in "She's ma Daisy." Amandus, the facial mimic, gives realistic representations of Beaconsfield, Gladstone, Salisbury, Sir Henry Irving, General Buller, ex-President Loubet, General Gordon, Charley's Aunt, and essays a scena with Sir Henry Irving as Shylock in The Merchant of Venice. The Three Sisters Hayden give a spirited rendering of "In the shade of the old apple-tree" and "Coming back home again." Mr. George Antill, the evening shadow, chortles in a minor key, "Oh! isn't it joyful being a married man" and "I've been over the sea," in which the jolly Jack Tar revisits his native haunts after forty-five years in order to get a new pair of socks! Collins and Rice give a very lively and bustling comedy duo, and the dancing of the twain is as remarkable as it is agreeable and amazing. Miss Katie Butler is very droll in her two songs of the Harry Lauder type of ditty. The Knick-Knacks are also a pair of remarkably agile comedians, and give a comedy act, in which the lady vies with her male confrère in the art of saltatory calisthenics. Ergotti and King Luis, the troupe of Risley acrobats, perform some wonderful feats of strength and agility as well as remarkable balancing and aerial whirling.

La Belle Parisienne, the melodrama in three spasms, in which Mr. Fred Eustace and company appear, is quite an ambitious effort. A doting old idiot, Sir Martyn Woodleigh, marries a notorious adventuress, Vera Langlois, who has been a circus-rider, decoy in a gambling saloon, and a well-known demi-mondaine by turns. The son, with whom she was well acquainted in her former life, and a certain Jew with whom she and her rascally husband Felix had dealings in past days, turn up to her confusion. In the endeavour to shoot young Woodleigh she shoots the old man, and promptly accuses the son of the crime. But Nemesis overtakes her, and the circumstantial evidence of a bullet-hole in the son's coat frustrates her fell design, and she ends this tale of villainy by accidentally taking the poison intended to make away with the Jew, who, by reason of his knowledge of the crime, is dangerous.

The animated pictures by Vernon's bioscope are as excellent as usual, and include an exciting Sherlock Holmes episode, in which the child of a millionaire is kidnapped, the aid of Sherlock Holmes is invoked, and he goes in lieu of the father to ransom the child, thwarts all their schemes for his destruction, and restores the child to her fond parents. The next scene is in the comic vein. "A Naval Engagement" shows how the intrusion and interference of a policeman are most effectually resented by both Jack and his sweetheart, the servant who is beating carpets in the garden, and incidentally beats the man in blue, and is ably assisted by Jack. Miss Rose Harvey is a well-known and appreciated burlesque artist, and the Crown trio of vocalists, Rosina (the instrumentalist), Pat Rafferty (comedian), and J. C. Morris (comedian) all help to swell the programme and assist in a pleasant evening's entertainment.

BARNARD'S, GREENWICH.

A capital programme—rich equally in quantity and quality—is submitted for the delectation of the patrons of this comfortable and popular hall so ably catered for and courteously managed by Mr. Bert Dent. Miss Rosie Stewart comes first in the bill, and contributes two artistically and pleasingly rendered favourite songs, "Dear heart" and "In the valley where the blackbirds sing." The Three Continental Midgets are next, and excite much wonderment by their unique performance and remarkable stature. Mr. George Daunton follows with his interesting entertainment, entitled "Imitations of National Songs." The Two Roses give an attractive and well applauded turn, consisting of a song, entitled "My daisiest Daisy," followed by smartly executed sand and acrobatic dances. Messrs. Golden and Grey submit a bright and amusing comedy sketch, entitled The Missing Will; this item is well acted and favourably received. Miss Marion Hall and company appear with considerable success in a pretty comedietta, entitled A Guilty Pair. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, always one of the most popular features here, presents some new and interesting pictures, including "French Army Life" and the "Grand National."

Rita and Roma are very good in an entertainment of a pleasing kind consisting of two songs called "My Hindustani Maid" and "Monty," and winding up with a neatly executed dance. Mlle. de Roche contributes some cleverly rendered operatic selections, and proves herself a vocalist of a high order of merit. Culpitt, assisted by Mlle. Adele, presents his novel juggling act, and introduces a clever hat trick with good effect; this turn is described as a "Chinese Travesty and Pot-pourri Act," and is warmly applauded. Fred Alberto has an enthusiastic reception, and sings with quaint humour his song entitled "McGuiness's Ball," also a topical song, and concludes with a dance. Miss Jessie M. Lyons excites great interest by her dramatic treatment of the character of Nelly of the Veldt in the episode of that name. Mr. Fred Pollard sings in amusing style his contribution entitled "Let me have a look at it." Alys Hardy is also well received and applauded. Stanley's Urchins, billed as a refined harmony, comedy, and dancing act, cannot be more aptly described; and the company includes clever little Tich Bourne. The band, as usual, is excellent, and the selections and overture admirably chosen and capitally rendered.

FUNERAL OF FRANK COYNE.

Amid many manifestations of sincere sorrow the body of Frank Coyne, whose real name was Josiah Harris, was borne to the grave on Monday, followed by a number of his professional comrades. Despite the chilly weather and threatening clouds, a large crowd of people, among whom were many humble admirers of the deceased comedian, awaited the arrival of the cortège, which reached Lambeth Cemetery, Tooting, shortly before four. In the first coach was Mrs. Frank Coyne, the widow, who, sobbing bitterly, had to be assisted into the chapel. She was accompanied by Mrs. Harris (the mother), Miss Polly Harris (sister), and Messrs. Tom, Edward, and Andrew Harris (brothers). The second coach contained Mr. Reuben Harris (uncle), Misses Florrie and Clara Harris (sisters), and Mrs. Tom Harris (sister-in-law), Miss Emma Harris (aunt), and Master Reuben Harris (nephew). In the third coach were Mr. and Mrs. Barney Hyams, Mr. and Mrs. Wal Pink, and Mr. Herbert Lamonte, a close friend and companion of the deceased, who made all the arrangements incidental to the funeral, and has rendered invaluable and timely service to the family in their bereavement. Among the long line of coaches and other vehicles which made up the procession was that of Mr. Joe Elvin, who had with him Mr. Jack Lotto, both influential members of the Order of the Water Rats, to which the deceased belonged. Mr. Will Oliver and Mr. Thomas Holmes were also among those who followed, and a deputation from the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, of whose committee Mr. Coyne was a member, consisted of Mr. C. Douglas Stuart (the secretary), Mr. Harry Blake, and Mr. George Preston. Mr. Fred Ginnett occupied another coach, and among others of professional renown who assembled to pay a last tribute of respect were Messrs. Chas. McConnell, T. E. Dunville, Pat Rafferty, Harry Tate, Johnny Gilmore, Phil Ray, Tom Leamore, Arthur Reece, P. Bijou, F. Boisset, Austin Rudd, and Mrs. Dan Leno.

The interment took place in the ground of the Water Rats' Society, the grave being close by that of Medley, the once famous mimic, and within a few yards of the last resting-place of the lamented Dan Leno. The coffin bore the following inscription:

JOSIAH HARRIS,
Aged 39.
Died April 18, 1906.

The ground was strewn with handsome wreaths, the most conspicuous of which was a harp with a broken string, bearing the words, "With deepest sympathy, from the Grand Order of Water Rats." The widow's tribute was a heart-shaped wreath, with the words "Rest, Beloved" inscribed thereon in red geraniums; and another read, "From Mother and Family, with love and affection." A wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Joe Elvin bore the simple word "Rest," and one composed of tiger lilies and lilies of the valley came from Miss Marie Lloyd, with the words "With deepest sympathy, from his sincere friend." Mrs. Dan Leno, with the memory of her own great loss upon her, sent a wreath bearing a sympathetic inscription. The Terriers' Association was represented by a floral reproduction of their shield, the letters "T. A." being traced in violets. From Oliver and Holmes came a wreath, "With deepest sympathy"; and a similar motto accompanied that sent by King Rat, Little Tich. The M.H.A.R.A. wreath also figured in the collection; and among those who testified their esteem by floral offerings were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harris (brother and sister-in-law), Messrs. Edward and Andrew (brothers), Misses Polly, Florrie, and Clara (sisters), Mr. Reuben Harris (uncle), Miss E. Harris (aunt), Master Reuben Harris (nephew), Mrs. S. Dickenson, Mrs. L. Wiseman (sisters of Mrs. Coyne), Mr. and Mrs. Wal Pink, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Finney, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Hyams, Mr. and Mrs. Laurie Barnett (Miss Florrie Forde), Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Elen, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martinetti, Mr. Fred Karno, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mildare, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dunville, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Leamore and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe O'Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Rafferty, Mr. and Mrs. Syd May, Mr. and Mrs. Bond Sayers, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Astley, Mr. and Mrs. W. Monk, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gunnip, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lill, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Weight, Mr. and Mrs. Learoyd, Mr. and Mrs. Issy Woolf, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crawley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fyne, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boisset, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Dove, Papa Brown, Mr. Geo. Barclay and Miss Kate Carney, Miss Lily Burnand and Mr. Asher Simmons, Mrs. Wood Senior, Mrs. Karno, Morcaschani, The Kellinos, Mr. Fred Griffiths and family, Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, Messrs. Leighton and Everard, Miss Carrie Laurie, Miss Selina Seaforth, Miss Gertrude Craven Glenn and Mr. James Passmore, Miss Kate Butler, Miss Annie Keegan, Miss Minnie Mace and Miss Alice Mace, Miss Nellie Erwin, Miss Marie Kendall, Miss Millie Tempest, Mr. Peter Bijou, Mr. Bert Lamonte, Mr. Jack Collinson, Mr. Chas. Colby, Mr. Len Harvey, Mr. Jack Lotto, Mr. Fred Earle, Mr. Alec Iseral, Mr. Billy Jones, The Leslie Family, Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, Devere and Kenwick, Starr and Leslie, Mr. Edwin Boyde, and Mr. Jack Wilson. The funeral arrangements were admirably carried out by Mr. J. Prebble.

Mrs. Frank Coyne (Miss Carrie Joy), the widow, wishes to thank all her numerous friends for their kind sympathy in her bereavement.

AT the meeting of the I.A.L. on Sunday there was little business of importance. The report of the committee appointed to consider the proposed change of address was postponed, as not sufficient members of the committee were present. However, the matter was informally discussed.

MR. FRANK GERALD attended the meeting, and was welcomed as a member of the V.A.F. There was some discussion on the barring clause. A brother related how a certain proprietor wanted to bar him, and he pointed out that the barring clause must be scratched out, especially as they were playing at their own theatre. The brother said that he meant to carry this policy out right along the line. Bro. 1356 said the chief difficulty in opposing the barring clause was that if proprietors did not bar you from other theatres they could from their own.

A LONG discussion then took place on various schemes by which artists could run their own theatres, tours, and companies. The chairman remarked that even if the matter was one which did not allow of actual resolutions being passed by the meeting it was good in every way to sometimes discuss questions concerning the abuses prevalent in the profession rather than to always take up the time solely with petty affairs of individual members.

Shakespeare's anniversary is celebrated at the People's Palace, Bristol, this week, for the chief attraction is Albert Wyndham and his company, who play Shylock; or, The Merchant of Venice. The scene, of course, is the Hall of Justice in Venice, where Shylock demands his pound of flesh and Portia defends Antonio. It is self-contained and self-explained, and one of the strongest scenes from the undying work of the dead artist in words. Its representation is most satisfactory, the Shylock of Mr. Wyndham and the Portia of Miss Martell being especially good studies.

"A MISS-CUE."

A new Playlet, by William Gourlay, produced at the Empress Theatre, Brixton, on Monday, April 23.

Captain Marks .....Mr. Charles Cautley
Tom Travers .....Mr. Ernest Travers
Tompkins .....Mr. Austin Lenton
Dolly Travers .....Miss Agnes Lane

The lively heroine of this new playlet, which was produced at the Empress, Brixton, on Monday, and is being performed there this week by Mr. Austin Lenton and company, is a young lady of very unconventional manners, as is evidenced by the free-and-easy manner in which Dolly perches herself on a table while in conversation with her brother's friend, Captain Marks. The officer professes to be an admirer of her's, but she gives him no encouragement. On the contrary, she addresses him in most uncomplimentary terms, calling him, amongst other things, "a double-barrelled, smooth-bored kill-at-one-hundred-yards cad." Nor is the young lady greatly alarmed when the captain informs her that he holds a number of I.O.U.'s which he has received from her brother Tom in acknowledgment of various loans. These documents he is quite prepared to tear up if Dolly will consent to become his wife, but the young lady only laughs at him, and unhesitatingly declines the honour. He then tells her that he has agreed to play her brother a billiard match, the stakes to be the sum of £50; he is, however, prepared to make her what he terms a sporting offer—that is, if he wins the game she consents to become his wife, but if her brother proves the victor, he (the captain) will at once tear up the I.O.U.'S and leave her free. She accepts the wager, and in the meantime the packet of I.O.U's is to be held by a third party, the elderly housekeeper, Mrs. Crook. Dolly is suspicious of the captain, and disguising herself very effectively, assumes the rôle of the dame. He hands her the I.O.U.'s, but bargains with her to give them up for a five-pound note should he require their return. The billiard match is supposed to be played in an adjoining room, and the game proves to be a very level one. The captain, uncertain of the result, obtains, at the cost of a "fiver" from the supposed Mrs. Crook, the return of the envelope which he naturally believes to contain the I.O.U.'s; but, not content with this, he plays a trick with Tom's cue, and pretends that the only piece of chalk is missing. The trick is observed by Dolly, who smartly exchanges the cues, and also rubs the top of Tom's cue with her powder puff. The game is resumed, and Tom wins. The captain, however, produces the envelope, but finds to his disgust that he has been tricked. Dolly laughs at his discomfiture, and taunts him with having made "a miss-cue," this bringing the piece to a conclusion.

Mr. Charles Cautley plays with discretion and earnestness the part of Captain Marks, a mild type of melodramatic villain. Mr. Ernest Travers is well placed as Tom Travers, whose sister Dolly has a most vivacious representative in Miss Agnes Lane. The comic relief is liberally supplied by Mr. Austin Lenton in the part of Tompkins, a bibulous butler, who has nothing to do with the plot, but is a highly amusing personage nevertheless. The new playlet, which is carefully staged, has met with a good reception at the Empress.

"MY LITTLE WOODEN HUT."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In your paper of April 13 Chas. Collins had a paragraph to the effect that he was the sole author and composer of "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you," which is not correct. The song was written and composed by Tom Mellor and Chas. Collins.—Yours truly,

TOM MELLOR (Author and Composer).

The Empire, Bradford, April 25.

ALLEGED AGENCY FRAUDS.

At Bow-street Police Court on Monday Charles Henry Houghton and Hedley Howard, alias H. Gay, were charged on remand, before Mr. Marsham, with obtaining money by false pretences in connection with the Empire Dramatic and Variety Agency, 62, Strand.

Mr. Williamson, of the Treasury, prosecuted, Houghton was defended by Mr. Vaughan Williams, and Gay by Mr. Roderick, instructed by Mr. W. G. Kent.

Mr. Percy Murray, of Exmouth-street, W.C., was the first witness called. In reply to Mr. Williamson, he said he was an actor and sketch proprietor. He had known Houghton ever since he was a youngster. He had not had extensive business connections with him, but four or five years ago Houghton supplied him with a few extra ladies and gentlemen for a show he was running. About five weeks ago Houghton told him that he had started an agency, and had some good lady and gentleman clients who were likely to suit him.

Mr. Williamson: Did you come to an arrangement with him?—No. I said, "I can do with a good girl if you like to send one on. I am about to produce a musical show in London, and if you have any choristers who will suit me and my conductor, I will engage them."

In March, or at any time, had either of the prisoners any authority from you to engage people for the Palace Theatre?—Never.

You were not about to produce An Affair of Honour or My Sweetheart at the Palace Theatre or the Metropolitan?—No.

The witness went on to say that he had in all produced about fifteen successful sketches. He was to have opened an engagement at the Lyceum that evening, but had lost it because of the way in which his name had been dragged through the Press in connection with this case.

Mr. Marsham: I am not aware of anything having been said against you.

Miss Polly Ribler, a dark, neatly-dressed girl, living in Sutton-street, Commercial-road, said she was a fur worker, but wanted to go on the stage. A day or two before last Christmas she went to Houghton's place in the Waterloo-road, in answer to an advertisement she had seen in a newspaper, and asked him if he could obtain her an engagement on the stage. He replied, "Yes, if you pay £2 10s." She told him that she had had no experience, but he said he could get her a berth at 30s. a week. The witness remarked that she could not afford £2 10s. Houghton said it would be worth quite that, as he would have to take a great deal of trouble with her, and give her lessons. She could, he said, take part in the sketch My Wife, at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham Junction.

Mr. Williamson: What part were you to take?

The Witness: I was to be a Russian Princess.

She went on to say that on the following day she paid Houghton £2 10s., and he told her that she would commence her engagement at the Shakespeare Theatre after the pantomime was over. At the same time he gave her the part she was to learn.

What was that part?—I simply had to go on and say, "Thank you."

And did you learn to say it?—Yes.

In reply to further questions, the witness said that after a time Houghton told her she would not go to the Shakespeare Theatre after all, but to the Palace at Clapham Junction. He gave her a letter to take to Mr. John Lawson at the Palace, but she found that he was playing at Southend. Houghton then said he would give her "another start." This time it was to be at the Regent or Sebright Theatre, Hackney. One evening she met him there by appointment, he having told her that she would have to say a few words on the stage. After staying there some little time, Houghton said she would have to wait another week. He told her to call at his place on the following morning, but she said she did not want an engagement from him, and asked for her money back. He said he would try to get her an engagement at Poplar, and refused to return her money, saying he had gone to a great deal of trouble with her. Her sister called him "a swindler," and he asked her to write it down. He had previously told the witness that if she did not like the stage after she had given it a week's trial he would return her money. As a matter of fact he had never returned it, and when she spoke to him about it, he told her she could do as she liked.

In reply to Mr. Vaughan Williams, the witness said she was a Jewess from Roumania.

Mr. Horace Percival Young, the acting-manager of the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham Junction, stated that no arrangements had been made for producing My Wife or any other sketch there. He had no knowledge of either of the prisoners.

Mr. Robert William Westray, managing clerk to Messrs. Henry Chapman and Co., surveyors and estate agents, gave evidence as to letting to Gay two rooms on the third floor of 62, Strand (where the business of the Empire Dramatic and Variety Agency was carried on), at an annual rental of £40. He gave satisfactory bank references, and paid a quarter's rent in advance. He had no knowledge of Houghton.

Detective-Inspector Dew (recalled) said that on the 21st ult. he went with Detective-Sergeant Stephens to the office of the agency in the Strand, and asked Gay, who was sitting there, if he was the proprietor. Gay replied, "What can I do for you?" Witness said, "I have called to see what business you are doing here. I understand that you are engaging young ladies for a sketch to be brought out at the Palace Theatre and the Metropolitan." Gay said, "That's right. The sketch is to be brought out by Mr. Williams, who won't be here until Friday. You had better see my manager, who will be here this afternoon. He knows more about it than I do." The witness said, "You have been taking money from young ladies to put them on at the Palace?" Gay said, "I suppose you are friends of Miss Crossley, and have come here to get at the bottom of my pocket." He seemed to get angry, and producing a cheque-book, said, "I have plenty of money. You may make inquiries at my bank—the London and County (Law Courts branch)." The witness and Detective-Sergeant Stephens then left. The witness had tried to ascertain who "Mr. Williams" was, and had not succeeded. The witness subsequently searched the office, and found one book only. It contained the names of several people who had given evidence in this case. There were many letters, some of them being in reply to an advertisement for an acting-manager. Others had apparently been written in response to advertisements for artists. There were a few letters and telegrams from people who wanted artists.

Mr. Vaughan Williams.—Have you had much experience as to the way in which theatrical agencies are run?—No, but I have had a great deal of experience as to the way in which swindles are run.

In reply to Mr. Roderick the witness said that at first Gay seemed to think that he required an engagement. He did not go to the office to obtain evidence. He had had a complaint as to the agency, and he wanted to become acquainted with the appearance of the men who were running it. He wanted to stop a lot of poor, wretched girls being sent into the country and left in the lurch. The office was not registered, but immediately after witness's visit Gay sent to the London County Council notice of registration.

The prisoners, who pleaded not guilty, were committed for trial for obtaining money by false pretences, and for unlawfully conspiring together for that purpose.

The magistrate declined to reduce the bail in either case.

The Besses o' the Barn Band intend to add further to the crop of laurels that they have reaped in this country and on the Continent. They start for a tour of the world next Saturday, when at a matinée at the Palace, Southampton, they will give their last performance for the present in the old country.

Miss Lil Hawthorne produced on Monday, at the Empire, New Cross, an entirely original song from the joint pens of Messrs. Tom Mellor, Alf J. Lawrance, and Harry Gifford, entitled "My cosy caravan." Messrs. Lawrance and Gifford are responsible for that excellent song "I want to be a soldier"; and Miss Gladys Mavius produced for the first time on Monday two songs by the combination entitled respectively "Who'll be a Volunteer?" and "It's no use you hanging up your hat round here."

The celebrated Achmed Ibrahim troupe of ten Bedouin Arabs are whirling themselves into favour on the Continent, and are a bigger success than ever at the Albert Schumann Theatre, Frankfurt-on-the-Main. They open on Tuesday at the Apollo Theatre, Düsseldorf, and return to England on Monday, May 21.

Many readers will learn with regret that the celebrated harlequin Chas. Verlino (George Brookes) passed away on Saturday, the 21st inst. He was father of those well-known artists, the Misses Alice, Harrie, and Lottie Brookes. The funeral took place at Paddington Cemetery on Wednesday. The chief mourners were Mr. Percy Brookes, Mr. Philip Sefton, Mr. Gerald Stevens, Mr. Frank Stevens, and Mr. J. Pingree. There were some lovely flowers, including a magnificent wreath from Mr. Victor Stevens, manager of San Toy company, sent from Bradford. Deceased was sixty-four years of age.

Mr. George Lashwood's song at the Coliseum, "It's the custom over there," has been published by Mr. David Day. It is by A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott.

The Haverleys, American song illustrators, having just concluded a series of London engagements, depart on Monday next for a ten weeks' sojourn in the provinces, where their well-known and interesting act will be seen at the principal variety theatres, commencing at the Hippodrome, Coventry.

What should prove a real boon to the profession, especially to those who complain that they cannot procure engagements for want of opportunity of being heard, is to be found in the Audition Company, Ltd., of 10, Bedford Chambers, Covent-garden, who, for a small fee, provide everything necessary to enable an artist to give a successful performance. Plenty of time is allowed each turn, and artists may invite as many agents and friends as they wish without extra cost. As the auditions will take place in the small Queen's Hall and Polytechnic Hall, Regent-street, agents will no doubt avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing turns without the usual inconvenience and waste of time. The auditions will be well advertised in the professional papers.

After his great battle with Madrali at Olympia to-day, Hackenschmidt will appear at New Cross Empire next week. It is worthy of note that Hackenschmidt regards his engagement at New Cross as a happy augury, for after defeating Madrali at their last meeting, he was enthusiastically received at that theatre during the whole of the following week. One of Hackenschmidt's favourite methods of keeping himself in trim, by the way, is the daily use of the skipping-rope.

Mr. Tom Leo's latest song, "The fellow who falls in love," has been successfully exploited this week. The song is by Edgar Bateman and Maurice Scott, the author and composer of the same singer's "Too lazy to live."

The hearing of the charge of obtaining money by false pretences preferred against William C. Watson, described as an elocutionist, was resumed at Bow-street on Wednesday. Mr. Williamson, who prosecuted, said the charges were brought in connection with a business the prisoner had carried on, known as the Northern Dramatic Touring Syndicate (Limited), 63 and 64, Chancery-lane. The first case was that of a Mr. Bertram Parker, who, after reading an advertisement, called at the office and saw the prisoner, who represented that he was negotiating with Mr. Stoll, of Moss's Empires, for the production of a sketch called Diamond Cut Diamond for a fifty-four weeks' engagement, and that it was about to open at the new music hall in Holborn. The prosecutor paid a fee of £5 5s. to secure the part of the tramp in Diamond Cut Diamond. He committed the part to memory, and attended at the office from time to time and repeated it. Mr. Williamson added that there were a number of other complaints. The prisoner was again remanded.

Mr. Sid Cotterell, the popular Drury Lane comedian, has just had to refuse a tempting offer for an American tour owing to being booked up with his comedy success The Substitute, which is proving as big a draw in the provinces as it was in London.

Miss Lottie Collins has just secured for immediate production three new songs—viz., "Baby, my little baby," "Tippecanoe," and "Mr. Wilson—that's all." These songs are published by the Shapiro Von Tilzer Music Co., Ltd., which has also just placed a new song with Mr. Fred Earle entitled "Presents," which he thinks will outrival in popularity his enormous success "Seaweed."

An important deputation from the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union waited upon the Lancashire County Council at the Council Hall, Preston, last week. Although organised by the Union, it was representative of the whole body of Lancashire showmen.

The question in dispute is the adherence of the County Council to their old by-law prohibiting traction engines to travel the county roads if the weight exceeds 14 tons. It will be readily seen that the large concerns, roundabouts, &c., drawn by traction power to parts of the county inaccessible by rail would be prohibited if this regulation were to be strictly adhered to. The deputation consisted of Messrs. Pedley, Hibbert, Leo, and Hurst. The Main Roads and Bridges Committee of the County Council received the deputation, and heard the case for a more up-to-date extension of the rule that now limits traction engines.

The Committee requested the deputation to withdraw until they had considered their representation. This was done, and ultimately the Committee sent for Mr. Hurst, the secretary of the Union, and they informed him that their minds were fully made up not to allow engines to travel in the county over 14 tons in weight.

Mr. Hurst pointed out to the Committee the impossibility of altering the weight of the engines now exceeding the standard in the time the Council had fixed, viz., April 21. The Committee saw the urgency of this, and, after discussion, granted an extension of another month's time, to May 21, and warned the deputation that legal proceedings would be taken against any roundabout proprietor or showman having an engine exceeding 14 tons in weight.

The following is the official communication from the County Council of Lancaster sent to Mr. Hurst as representing the showmen concerned:—

County Offices, Preston, April 11, 1906.

Re Traction Engines.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the deputation which attended before the Main Road and Bridges Committee to-day, I am directed to inform you officially that the Committee will not cause proceedings to be taken against the owner of any traction engine over 14 tons, used in the administrative county, who is a roundabout proprietor or showman, up to the 21st day of May, 1906, by which date the Committee expect that the engines will have been made legal.

Yours faithfully, HARCOURT E. CLARE.
Clerk to the County Council.

This official notification contains a list of the names of show proprietors whose traction engines now exceed the legal limit.

This is a matter of most serious importance to an industry like that of the amusement caterers. The business of providing entertainment for the people must not be hampered by laws passed thirty-two years ago, when the sight of a steam engine on a public road was a show in itself. At that remote period to limit a traction engine to 14 tons in weight was probably wise, but with the tremendous development of motor and steam traction that the past ten years has witnessed, it is absurd to say that an engine must not exceed 14 tons.

The Locomotive Act says that County Councils can grant special permission to engine owners with tractions that exceed the standard weight, and it was to gain this special consideration that the recent deputation at Preston was undertaken. As the Lancashire County Council seem determined to persist in their out-of-date resolution, it now remains for the showmen to lay their grievance before the Local Government Board, and most probably this will be done.

The reports of the holiday fairs continue to crowd in upon us. At New Brighton, for the Easter holidays, we have record of the entertainments at the Palace. The shows included Mrs. F. Collins' cinématograph theatre; Collins' menagerie, gondolas, switchback, steam swings, big boats, highfliers, and other novelties by the same firm. The other entertainers were Mme. Salva, with freak exhibition and novelty booth; Bury, with steam yachts; Fletcher and Hall, with varieties. These altogether constituted a splendid all-day-long programme of amusements for the vast crowds of holiday visitors to this popular seaside place.

At Holywell for Easter week the principal entertainments were provided by Mr. P. Collins, who exhibited big boats, highfliers, two sets of park swings, Winchester ranges, rifle saloons, and throwing games. Miss Maggie Collins had her fine set of steam horses on the ground, and the other entertainers included Manders, with cinématograph and fine-art gallery; and Wright with rifle saloons, up-to-date peep-show, and fair-ground varieties.

Bostock and Wombwell's menagerie were at Redruth for Easter, and Messrs. Brewer and Ware with their fair-ground varieties are also touring this part of Cornwall.

The following letter from a well-known showman fully proves that gratitude is not the rare virtue that many cynics would have us believe:—

"Dear Friend,—I would like, through the medium of the 'Showman World,' to express my sincere thanks and best wishes to Mr. Tom Norman, showmen's auctioneer, for his kindness, consideration, generosity, and liberality to me with reference to my goods sold by auction on Jan. 16. I also wish to thank Mr. Forrest, of Mile End-road show-ground, and other friends for kindness shown me.

"If we could all, as members of our Association, manifest the same good feeling one towards another, how much better and happier as a people we would be.—Prof. B. T. Burnett, London, Easter, 1906.—To the Rev. T. Horne."

WELL-KNOWN FACES AT THE "CITY AND SUBURBAN," 1906.

From the great Yorkshire round we have a good report of the Huddersfield fair, which we are pleased to notice is growing in popularity every year. The Corporation having decided to move with the times, changed the fair from an unsuitable Midsummer fixture to the Easter holiday, with the admirable result that many more shows are able to take it, and also that it fits in better with local holiday conditions.

The principal concerns were Harry Ashington's up-to-date cinématograph and mannikins; Hogini's circus; Enoch Farrer's coliseum and varieties; Ling's two ground booths, the up-to-date peep-show, and the freak show; Frank Gess, with school of boxers; and Birch's novelty booth. There was a big array of motor-car machines, including sets by W. H. Marshall, Goldthorpe Marshall, Mrs. Waddington, and W. H. Waddington. The other machines were Holland's whirling the whirl, Waddington's ostriches, Morley's steam swings and sets of manual swings by Riley, Morley, Hughes and Baker. The shooting concerns were by Ratcliffe, Houldsworth, Barker, and Seed. The providers of fair-ground novelties, throwing games, &c., included W. Turner, T. Chapman, Rhodes, Burrell, Houldsworth, J. Joy, Mrs. Hughes, and Mrs. Jameson.

Shipley Glen, a favourite holiday resort of the people of Bradford and Leeds, was well provided with open-air entertainments. These included Hutin's temple of magic and second-sight demonstrations; Harniess, with new set of motor-cars; Redfern's flying motors; J. Corrigan's steam swings; Sam Tower's novelty booth; and sets of park swings by Harniess, Redfern, Illingworth, and Stock. Bottle batteries by E. Thompson and W. Stott, varieties and throwing games by Crowther, Corrigan, Walker, Burrell, Illingworth, Rhodes, Baynes, Vaner, J. Illingworth, and others.

The Eastertide festivities at Wareham were provided by local showmen, and included Birchell's exhibition, Smith's roundabout, and Welldon's stalls and varieties.

From Gainsborough we have news of the appearance at the fair of Ball and Eva's, Holland's and Bennett's shows, Smith and Warren's roundabout and varieties, throwing games, &c., by Barwick, Harris, Hunt, and Lord.

When Hackenschmidt and Madrali take the mat at Olympia to-night, Mr. Charles Urban, whose admirable "Urbanora" animated pictures are pleasurably familiar to patrons of the Alhambra, will make the difficult and costly experiment of cinématographing by artificial light the great wrestling match from start to finish, and should the result be completely satisfactory the date of the production of this remarkable record will be immediately announced. If the essay should prove successful (as it is keenly to be hoped it may) the pictures will be perfectly unique, since Mr. Urban has purchased the sole photographic privilege, and his cameras will occupy the very best positions in the vast arena at Kensington, thus securing a clearer view of the entire proceedings than a large proportion of the seat-holders can possibly obtain.

Mr. Thomas Scott's steam roundabouts, park swings, bottle shooters' and cokernut gardens have formed the attractions at Crowle.

At Evesham Easter Fair Mr. Rawlings, the local amusement caterer, provided the attractions.

Studley picnic and fête will be held on Whit-Monday in the Castle Park. The committee of the Lady Warwick College have very kindly granted the use of the above park for this annual event.

Temple and Beckett's cinématograph has given some first-class entertainments at Cookhill.

The Eastertide fair at Devizes was principally provided by Jennings, the local caterer, who exhibited two roundabouts and other fair-ground novelties, and with him were associated Cole Bros., with switchback railway, and J. Cole with steam horses. The only exhibition was Larker's novelty booth. There were some thirty stalls, throwing games, &c.

Mr. Tilney's Fair Ground, Abertillery, is being occupied for a short season by Mr. W. Hagger's electric bioscope. The magnificent organ, one of the finest ever seen on these grounds, and the very smart and up-to-date pictures, are attracting huge crowds nightly.

Mr. Frank Fillis, the well-known showman of South Africa, has received a cheque for £50 from the De Beers Company for the loss of a balloon, which fell into a mining compound, and was hacked to pieces, the Kaffirs believing it to be an invention of the devil.

Llanidloes Fair was held in but indifferent weather. Yet, in spite of that, business was fairly good. A great attraction was the advent of Fossett's grand circus and hippodrome. The circus company included the great jockey act rider Thomas Fossett, the Zola troupe of lady and gentlemen act riders, Joe Holloway, the hurricane act rider, Harry Fossett in flying trick act of jumping through hoops and over banners; Lorenzo's performing dogs; the great clowns Rabbit and Redhot; and Professor Morris with bioscope pictures. The performance concluded with the equestrian drama, Turpin's Ride to York. The shows and roundabouts included Mander's cinematograph, Wright's fine art academy, Farrell's galloping horses, Greatorex's steam yachts and steam swings, shooting concerns by Wright, Fossett, and Turner, fairground varieties by Messrs. Curry, Wilson, Dobson, Turner, Wright, Fossett, Kemp, Cartwright, and others.

At Iron Acton for the holidays was S. Amos with roundabouts and a number of stalls and throwing games. At South Shields the principal show concerns were by John Murphy with roundabouts, Walter Hoadley and Claude Hamilton with similar concerns, and Wilson with exhibition.

Lord John Sanger and Sons, Ltd., still continue their triumphant march through South Wales, and have been meeting with enormous success in the Rhonddha Valley this week. The advance management is now in the hands of Mr. Arthur Martin, who was for many years connected with the veteran showman Lord George Sanger.

Our New York correspondent writes us that Frank Lynne made such a big success, that on Sunday, April 15, at Proctor's 125th Street Theatre, notwithstanding the curtain had gone up on the big sketch which was heading the bill, the audience still clamoured for more of the English comedian. They would not desist either until the curtain had been lowered again, and the popular Lynne had returned, made them a speech, and had sung them still one more song.

Blanche and Diacoff, the daring trick cyclists, arrived per ss. Orient at Plymouth on Sunday, after a most successful tour of Australia and India.

Miss Winifred Hare's new song, "Can't you think of any other name but baby?" which has this week been received with acclamation at the Oxford, is by A. E. Sidney Davis and Hermann Darewski, jun. Mr. David Day has secured the morceau.

Miss Selma Braatz, the peerless lady juggler, sailed on Wednesday for America on a tour round the world.

Messrs. Lomax, Sons, and Mills will sell by auction, pursuant to the instructions of the Trustees of the Bolton Temperance Hall and of an Order of the Board of Charity Commissioners for England and Wales, at the Public Sale Rooms, Bowkers-how, Bolton, on Thursday, May 10, at 7 o'clock in the evening, subject to conditions, the Temperance Hall, St. George's-road, Bolton, with the appurtenances belonging thereto. The Hall is well-known throughout the kingdom as the largest in the neighbourhood, and is extensively booked for public entertainments, political and social gatherings, bazaars, concerts, exhibitions, &c.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

NEW YORK, April 4.—"The Embassy Ball," a comedy in three acts, by Augustus Thomas, has scored an emphatic success at Daly's Theatre. The story of the play is far-fetched and improbable, but it serves its purpose, being in keeping with the preposterous personality of the central character, Captain Hawarden Kellie, the present stage alias of that "ultra-English" actor, Mr. Lawrance D'Orsay. Mr. Thomas's play is simply a dramatisation of Mr. D'Orsay's drawl, which served the dramatist's purpose so well in The Earl of Pawtucket. In the latter play, Mr. D'Orsay was extremely amusing as a "typical stage Englishman," but his vocal mannerisms were kept within reasonable bounds, and the play itself was both interesting and funny. In The Embassy Ball, Mr. D'Orsay's mechanical drawl, his expressionless stare, and his belated "Ha! Ha!" after a joke has been explained to him, have all been "elaborated," and the result is a broad caricature of an English "swell" that would be considered too much overdone to be laughable outside of America. Such an Englishman as Mr. D'Orsay represents was never seen on sea or land. But Americans like this sort of thing. They would not accept a "stage Englishman" who was not dull and stupid, and the more ridiculous he makes himself the better they like him, especially if he does it in a very gentlemanly manner. The gist of the story is this:—Captain Kellie meets a young American lady in Paris, and helps her to obtain what is believed to be a bicycle "permit," but is really a marriage licence, as the French officials misunderstand her. When he visits America, of course he meets the young lady again, and passes through a series of amusing incidents based on the mistake made in Paris.

"The Mountain Climber," with that drollest of droll comedians, Mr. Francis Wilson, in the character of Montague Sibsey, is received with roars of laughter nightly at the Criterion Theatre. Mr. Wilson has a part that fits him like a glove, and has scored such a decided success that he will undoubtedly play to good houses throughout the season.

Abraham Lincoln is the central figure of a new play produced last week at the Liberty Theatre. It is called Lincoln, and was written by Benjamin Chapin, who appears in the title-rôle. Mr. Chapin bears a remarkable resemblance to the pictures of Lincoln, and for some years has impersonated the emancipator of the slaves in a sketch. The play is an enlargement of this sketch, and is composed of a series of episodes beginning with the firing on Fort Sumter, and ending with the night of Lincoln's assassination at Ford's Theatre.

Mr. Arthur Elvy has just returned from a very successful tour. He has lately given eight winners and three seconds in his sporting act, entitled The Up-to-date Tipster.—Mr. Fred Curran has just been engaged by Mr. Harry Rickards for his Australian tour.

My Fancy, who is now at the London Pavilion for four weeks, leaves town in July for three months.

Transfield's Hippodrome at Paisley is now closed for the season.

The latest quotations of music hall shares are as follow:—Alhambra, 1⅜; Canterbury, 1; Empire (15s. paid), 1¼; Empire (10s. paid), 1⅛; London Pavilion Ord., 4; London Pavilion Pref., 4⅜; London Coliseum, ¼; Metropolitan, ⅞; Moss Empire, 3⅜; Moss Empire Pref., 3⅜; Oxford, 6⅜; Palace, 10s.; Tivoli, 5⅛; Varieties Consolidated Theatres, 14s.

Miss Gipsy Woolf, with her clever troupe, is now in London, after having finished a very successful Continental tour. She has returned to fulfil metropolitan and suburban engagements, at the conclusion of which she will go back to the Continent, where she is a great favourite.

"La Main," the highly dramatic mimodrame in one act, in which Mlle. Camilla Dalberg recently made such a hit at the Waldorf and the Tivoli, is to be revived at the latter house early in May. She has every reason to be delighted with her first appearance in the halls, for provincial as well as London audiences have received the sensational little piece with the enthusiasm it merits. Mlle. Dalberg was formerly leading lady at the Court Theatre, Hanover, and made her London début at the German Theatre, where she also played principal parts last year. One of her greatest successes was in the character of Nora in A Doll's House.

The general-manager of Donald's Agency is lying seriously indisposed in Birmingham, having been taken ill on the way to London last week. Business has, in consequence, been much disorganised, but arrears of work are being rapidly made up. Mr. Richard Waldon has lent this agency the Palace, Glasgow, for a "trial" performance for aspirants in Scotland.

Mr. Harry Phydora is getting the better of his attack of laryngitis and aphonia, but by his doctor's orders has had to cancel this week's date at the Cambridge, and will not be permitted to work next week.

Mr. Joseph Wilson, the popular manager of the Tivoli, has been absent from his duties at the Strand house through a severe cold, which has necessitated him keeping his bed.

Bessie Butt, who recently concluded a year's engagement at the Coliseum, has been making a big success at the Palace, Walthamstow, with an original song, "Scarecrow." After a short seaside tour, Miss Butt will be seen in the West End.

Mr. Fred Neiman, the sole agent for Mr. Arthur Conquest, tells us that this artist has only nine weeks vacant from now up to March 30, 1908. This speaks well for both artist and agent.

The Strolling Singers have a very pleasing performance this week at the Lyceum in their musical historical scena, My Highland Laddie. The scene of the "episode" is an inn on the Scottish moors, and the time the Rebellion of 1745, when that picturesque figure, Prince Charles Stuart, created no small excitement in Scotland and England. The Pretender enters the village to the singing by the villagers of "Hail, to the chief who in triumph advances!" There is a pretty love scene between the Prince and Flora MacDonald, Mr. Edward Thorpe, who takes the rôle of the Pretender, giving an admirable rendering of "I never knew till now how much I loved you," the chorus being sung by the villagers and others. Mr. Phil Stockwell, late of the Carl Rosa Opera Company, who appears as Sandy McNab, an innkeeper, and an adherent to the Jacobite cause, gives evidence of magnificent vocal gifts, and he is heard to advantage in "Sweet Genevieve" and "Eileen Alannah." Later some English soldiers arrive at the village in search of the Prince, and some amusement is caused by the answers given by the village idiot (Obadiah) to the questions of the King's officer. Mr. George Whillis is extremely comical as Obadiah, while Mr. Alvin Sowyer acts in good style the rôle of Major Clifford. Prince Charlie and the Major cross swords, and the later is disabled. The singing and acting all round are of a high-class order, and the sketch is extremely well received.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual is published from the offices of the old-established organ of the theatrical profession, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. As usual, it is a carefully-compiled record of notable events of the year 1905. A pleasing feature is the selection of short stories, after recounting strange experiences, by "stars" of the dramatic and music-hall professions, these being in every case accompanied by photographs of the writers.—Newcastle Daily Journal, Jan. 27, 1906.

EMPIRE, SUNDERLAND (in course of erection).
Artists should be careful to keep Dates Open for this Theatre, Booking for which will shortly commence.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.

Artists must have Band Parts for at least Twelve different Instruments for the Orchestras (Fifteen for the London Coliseum). Matter for Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR ALL THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to CO-OPERATIVE OFFICES, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, or at least TWO WEEKS, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements Cancelled.

IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to Opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced.

ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

N.B.—Silence in every case a polite negative. Artists are requested not to enclose stamped envelope. Letters marked "Private" will be delayed.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows :—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG,
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

A TIPSTER TAKEN FOR A FOOL.

A tipster goes into an eating house and bets the landlord that he cannot sit on a chair and imitate the swinging of a clock pendulum for an hour. Two £5 notes are placed on the table, and the landlord starts. The tipster meanwhile has a good meal. In a short time the landlord swings himself to sleep, and his family failing to wake him they fetch all the tradespeople to see what is the matter. Just on the hour the tipster takes the notes and walks out. The landlord is very surprised when his wife and friends succeed in waking him, and he finds the tipster has disappeared. About 412ft. The Subject, £10 6s. 0d.

THREE-HA'PORTH OF LEEKS.

A man sent by his wife for some leeks, calls for several drinks on the way, and, getting pretty elevated, he upsets several persons, and also a greengrocer's stock, which he cannot avoid running into. At last, after a very zig-zag journey, he arrives home, still holding fast to the leeks. His wife gives him a warm welcome, and their home is not improved by the knocking about it receives. About 345ft. The Subject, £8 12s. 6d.

CHILDREN'S MATCH.

A splendid film. Charming scenes, illustrating children's ideas of courtship. The rivals. The angry parents. The marriage ceremony. The wedding feast. The honeymoon. Very attractive. Nicely tinted. About 525ft. The Subject, £13 2s. 6d.

MRS. BROWN'S BAD LUCK.

Poor Mrs. Brown little knows what is in store for her when she prepares for a walk and bids her husband a loving adieu. Deeply interested in her paper, she does not notice some boys merrily playing at blind-man's buff. She next runs into a man who has stopped to get a light. A vacant seat in the park and an acquaintance to discuss affairs with. Sewing and talking, she does not notice a man with his stock of balloons who is sitting on the same seat. One by one the balloons are pricked by Mrs. Brown's busy needle, and the threatening attitude of the owner causes Mrs. B. an unpleasant five minutes. Bound for home, Mrs. Brown overlooks an open manhole leading to the sewer, and down she goes a terrific bump. She wanders about the sewer, tired and hungry, molested by rats and drenched with water. At last she succeeds in attracting attention, and is rescued by the fire brigade and carried to her home. About 375ft. The Subject, £9 7s. 6d.

THE WIG CHASE.

Wicked boys fasten some air-balls to a lady's wig, and this film shows the laughable adventures of the wig chased by a crowd of people through town and country, over bridges, up the Eiffel Tower, along the river, into houses, up the chimney. Finally the air-balls are captured by some boys; the wig is cut loose, and a street-sweeper sweeps the hair down the drain just as the indignant owner arrives on the scene. About 430ft. The Subject, £10 15s. 0d.

THE SPORTSMAN'S MISADVENTURES.

A bird at the first shot; but, unfortunately, the bird is fixed in the branch of a tree and the sportsman cannot dislodge it. At last a boy climbs the tree and brings down the sportsman's clothing and the bird. He is paid for his trouble, but makes off with his prize. The irate keeper. A hasty flight. More forbidden ground. The farmer and the pitchfork. A rare chase. The bag must be filled somehow, so he buys a rabbit. The sleep in the train. The quick change of the rabbit. The arrival home. Breaking up a pleasant meeting. Wife's indignation. About 372ft. The Subject, £9 6s. 0d.

HAVE YOU CONSIDERED

What the Possession of a Voice of First Class Quality and Timbre Means to you?

PHONOZONE

is quite unlike the usual Voice Specifics, which you are doubtless familiar with. It is not a Jujube, and it is not a drug, but it is a delicate and Refined Tincture, which may be used with confidence by the most fastidious. An occasional use of Phonozone gives a delightful tone and beauty to the Voice, which delights all who try it.
In cases of Hoarseness, Cold and Loss of Voice, its use will bring about the happiest of results.

No. 1017. A POET AND HIS BABIES.

A poet is writing a delightful sonnet. His wife is going out, and she brings him their eldest to kiss; he kisses the child, but to his horror his wife places it in a cradle by his side. Then she brings in the eldest but one, and places that in an arm-chair on the other side. Finally she brings in the tiniest baby, and forcing that into the reluctant father's arms, rushes out and leaves him just as all three children begin to yell their loudest. The distracted father tries to sooth first one child and then another, and his friend the Lieutenant enters while he is in the middle of it. He pushes the Lieutenant into a chair, saddles all three babies into his lap before he can say a word, and rushes from the room. The Lieutenant follows as quickly as he can with the three children in his arms. Then begins a chase of the wildest and most exciting order. The poet walks rapidly along reciting his verses as he goes; his friend the Lieutenant meeting the Colonel outside forces one baby into his arms and the two give pursuit; a policeman whom they pass is pressed into the chase and given the third baby to carry. They dash through the streets and out on to the tow-path by the river, followed by an ever-increasing crowd of children. Other policemen join in, and becoming imbued with the spirit of the thing, they seize babies from the arms of astonished mothers as they pass, and all, including the mothers, give chase to the distracted poet. By this time the crowd has swelled to about one hundred, and they swarm over fields and through hedges and tumble and scramble down the steep banks, until at last the poet sinks exhausted behind a blackberry bush. Then the people carrying babies begin to arrive, and very soon the luckless father finds himself almost smothered under a heap of six screaming, struggling mites, three of which may or may not be his own, and three certainly are not. Next come the mothers, and begin wildly sorting out the babies to find their own offspring, and they all unite in denouncing the unhappy man, who is marched off by the policeman. Length 450ft. Price, £11 5s. 0d.

No. 1015. ITALIAN CAVALRY.

The Cavalry of Italy is seen in this splendid film performing feats of horsemanship with that daring skill which has made it so admired throughout the world. With cool deliberation the company is seen to make their horses glide down almost impossible hills and over fences which bar the way. A comical element is here and there introduced by the fact that one or two members of the company being unsuccessful in their methods are seen to bite the dust with evident discomfiture. This beautiful subject, having been taken under Italian skies, is very clear and of splendid quality. Length 250ft. Price £6 5s. 0d.

No. 1014. CUPID AND THE WIDOW.

A young widow is turning over a number of old letters and lamenting her early widowhood, when Cupid breaks in upon her sorrow, takes away her late husband's letters, and carries to her, from a private drawer, some other letters and a photograph. He chides her for continuing to lament the death of a man whom she married only for his money, and reminds her, by a vision, how her true lover had been thrown over for the wealthy suitor. The vision shows a pair of scales, with Cupid on one side and a pile of money on the other, and as the money is showered in by the rich man Cupid's side rises and the girl's choice falls upon her wealthy admirer. As the vision fades the true lover, still faithful to his early choice, enters the room, but the young widow orders him away. Cupid, however, runs and pulls him back, and pushes the girl towards him, till she throws aside her mask of woe and welcomes the man she has always loved. Length 150ft. Price, £3 15s. 0d.

DICK TURPIN'S

LAST RIDE TO YORK.

BRIMMING OVER WITH EXCITEMENT.
AS FULL OF GOOD POINTS AS "BONNIE BLACK BESS."
NO PADDING. NO FAKED SCENERY USED.
TAKEN AT DICK'S FAVOURITE HAUNTS.
EVERY HORSE A GOOD 'UN (no cab-horses used).
EVERY ACTOR AN ARTIST.

MAGNIFICENT DEATH SCENE OF "BLACK BESS"
(By courtesy of G. GINNETT, Esq.).

SCENE I.—The London Coach is stopped on Hampstead Heath. Dick makes a good haul. "Good night, ladies."
" II.—A poor beggar craves alms from Dick. His appeal is not in vain.
" III.—Dick arrives at his favourite hostelry, "The Spaniards," Hampstead.
" IV.—Inside "The Spaniards." "I'm trapped like a rat." Escape by the window. The Bow Street Runners break in the door too late to effect their long-desired capture. Betsy is as far off her £100 as ever she was.
" V.—Dick's thrilling leap from the window (no dummy used).
" VI.—Dick makes a dash for liberty from "The Spaniards" on his faithful "Bonnie Black Bess."
" VII.—Helter-skelter, ding-dong, hell-for-leather chase. "Gad, boy, how he rides!"
" VIII.—The old toll gate. Nothing stops Dick's wild flight. His bonnie black mare rises like a bird.
" IX.—Alas! Poor Bess is badly lamed and injured. With a last fond kiss for her master, she lays on the road side and expires. Capture of Dick by the runners.
TO TYBURN.
" X.—A sorry end for such a pluck'd 'un, although a highwayman.

We beg to acknowledge our indebtedness to H. Greer, Esq., for the facilities and assistance afforded us at his famous house, "The Spaniards."

Superb Photography. Absolutely Steady on the Screen. Tinted Night Effect.
Length 500ft. Price £12 10s. (usual discount). Code Word, "TURPIN."

There are other Turpin Films, we hear. See them all, then see ours, and carefully compare.

What we do to-day, others do to-morrow

P.S.—Any representation of Turpin WITHOUT the death of his famous "Black Bess" is like playing "Hamlet" with the Prince of Denmark left out. Kindly note we have not padded our picture out with a lot of useless chasing. We have produced INCIDENTS.

THE DRAMA IN ROTTERDAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ROTTERDAM, APRIL 9.—We are having a series of benefits at the Grand Theatre as forerunners of the close of the regular season. The beneficiary of last week was Frits Tartaud, the sterling leading man of Manager Van Eysden's excellent dramatic company, and now it has just been the turn of Henri Poolman, the popular comedian and character-actor of the said company. Mr. Tartaud chose for his benefit a revival of De Weldoeners der Menschheid (The Benefactors of Mankind), a strong play from the German of Felix Philippi, in which the leading part of Dr. Eduard Marius may be considered as one of his best and most thoroughly rounded impersonations. Mr. Tartaud was enthusiastically applauded, besides being made the recipient of countless floral offerings and more substantial souvenirs. The evening was a doubly memorable one, as it was the anniversary of the twenty-five years' theatrical career in Rotterdam of this very talented actor. The programme chosen for Mr. Poolman's evening was the first performance of the farcical comedy from the German of Kadelburg, Der Weg Zur Hölle, given here in Dutch under the title of Op den Breeden Weg (On the Highway). This comedy-farce has been one of the latest successes in Berlin, and it bids fair to have a prosperous run here in Dutch. It is full of rollicking fun, and though but very frothy and trivial as to plot and scenes, it keeps the audience in a roar from beginning to end. The initial performance was made the occasion of a special ovation to Mr. Poolman, who was most comical as the henpecked Emil Dornwald. The other parts were done full justice to, an unequivocal success being made by pretty Miss Elsa Mauhs as the Spanish dancer Lola Cornero.

THE Royal Company of Amsterdam have given a performance at the Tivoli Theatre of Schönthan's dramatisation of "Little Dorrit." The dramatisation is not badly done, although it scarcely deserves a higher name than that of a sketch, as it merely reproduces a few incidents of the novel. The humour and pathos that have made Dickens immortal are, however, not entirely lost in the adaptation, so that the play is most pleasing. Miss Morel was too sharp in her manner and action as Little Dorrit, but was nevertheless most painstaking, whilst Mr. Schulze as old Dorrit gave a typical impersonation of the character, and deserves a word of praise.

THE Japanese Dramatic Company, under manager Paul Sydow, gave a number of performances here last week, first on two off nights at the Grand Theatre, and then at the Tivoli. This company has appeared in England in The Geisha's Revenge, which was the opening performance here. It is very primitive in construction and plot, and the same, indeed, must be said of the acting, at least from our point of view, and not from a Japanese one; but the novelty of the thing pleased the public.

NEWS has been received from the Dutch Indies announcing the death of Frits Bouwmeester. The deceased was an actor of some merit, particularly in character-rôles, and was the brother of the great tragedian Louis Bouwmeester.

A GREAT dramatic treat is in store for our public. The world-famed company The Meiningers is soon to be in our midst, and to give a limited number of performances.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

Mr. A. A. Strong has compiled an exceedingly useful volume dealing carefully, intelligently, and fully with the law bearing upon things theatrical. As a book of reference this excellent digest will be found invaluable.—The Era.

THE Pioneers have arranged a triple bill for their second performance this season, which will take place at the Royalty Theatre on Sunday, May 20. The programme will consist of Out of Sight——, a comedietta by Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce; Daughters of Shem, a play in one act by Samuel Gordon; and Compromising Martha, a comedy in one act by Keble Howard.

"CASTLES IN SPAIN," which has become an established success at the Royalty, will probably have to be removed elsewhere before the 28th inst. to make way for M. Coquelin, who is to return for three weeks in a selection of pieces including Rostand's Les Romanesques, L'Abbé Constantin, L'Attentat, by Alfred Capus, Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, Le Gendre de Monsieur Poirrier, and a revival of L'Arlésienne, with Bizet's music. The season of French plays will also include Mme. Réjane, who will arrive on June 18, with Sardou's latest plays, La Piste, La Souris, and La Rafale.

THE King of Spain, Princess Ena, and Princess Henry visited the Waldorf Theatre on Wednesday, and witnessed the performance of The Second in Command. The Royal party occupied a stage-box, and were obviously delighted with the piece, King Alfonso, with the aid of his betrothed, entering thoroughly into the meaning of the clever lines.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDARE.—New Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews.—The attraction here this week is Mr. Charles Carte's company in A Noble Brother. Mr. Chas. Carte as Jerry, the tramp, is a capable actor; Mr. Paul Whittaker makes a dashing hero of Jack Elsworth; Mr. Ernest Wren represents the villain, Henry Travers, in clever style; Mr. Howard Thorne does all that is required of him as Colonel Richard Leigh; and Mr. Ronald Douglas is decidedly good as the Strange Preacher. Mr. Gerald Weston as Pipps creates roars of laughter, being ably assisted by Miss Rosie Conroy as Rosy Rapid; Miss Doris Brookes as the heroine, Nana Leigh, is an accomplished actress; and the part of Mrs. Leigh is well filled by Miss Alice Ballard.

ABERDEEN.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H C. Cavanah, C.A.—The comedy Sunday, by Mr. Louis Calvert's company, is well received this week by large houses. Miss Emelie Polini gives an admirable impersonation of the heroine, and the Colonel is finely played by Mr. Leonard Pagden. The four miners of Silver Creek are capably represented by Messrs. William Lockhart, Sydney Renef, T. Norman Waller, and Arthur Vezin; while Mr. Cecil Duncan acts with great skill in the character of Arthur. Miss Muriel Pope as a nun, Miss Rosalind Ross as Mrs. Naresby, Mr. Ernest A. Douglas as Tom Oxley, and Mr. Ernest Harrison as Abbott likewise appear with success.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Mlle. Rosina Casselli, with her highly-trained troupe of Chihuahua dogs, provides a remarkably interesting turn, and Mr. Frank Stafford, the Californian lyric whistler, also contributes an excellent entertainment. Vanola, the Mexican antipodiste, puts in some marvellous tricks; and Otto and Olga are warmly welcomed in their clever burlesque opera sketch. Mr. George Westland and Mr. Fred Collins are successful as Scottish comedians; Kioto is as dexterous an equilibrist and contortionist as ever; Cosgrove and Burns are entertaining comedians; and La Palone shines as a vocalist and dancer; while a series of interesting pictures is given by Vernon's bioscope.

Cooke's Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. John Henry Cooke.—This entertainment has now successfully entered on its third week. The programme is again greatly varied, one of its features being the number of attractive variety turns which have been introduced. One of the principal of these, not previously mentioned, is the wonderfully clever wire-walking act, which includes an exhibition of the cake-walk dance, by Mlle. Yetta.

ACCRINGTON.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. J. H. Clyndes' company opened here on Monday, with A Royal Revenge. Mr. Clyndes gives a masterly interpretation of the dual rôle of Estevan Alvarez and Pedro de Castro; Mr. J. Foxhill displays histrionic abilities as Nicholas Vargas; Mr. Ellerslie Pyne must be complimented on his Manuel Mondega; Mr. H. M. King submits a clever piece of acting as the King of Spain; Mr. Arthur is good as the Moor; Miss Annie Grattan gives a painstaking performance as Cosa Casilda; Miss Enid Edoni gives a charming impersonation of Inez Alvarez; Miss Grace Jones is the Mother Superior to the life.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Willmot, Potter, Vandy, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. Campkin.—Will Vay's Juveniles top the bill this week, and fairly bring down the house with their comedy scena, Life in the Slums; Burley and Burley are quaint and clever; the Bros. Zampah are smart; F. S. Hulme is a good comedian; and Clark's Nippers submit some effective boxing, ball punching, and dancing; Ernesto is an excellent turn; and the Bioscope concludes a good bill.

ALDERSHOT.—Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Williams.—The Aldershot Operatic Society is this week occupying the boards of the theatre with The Pirates of Pensance and Trial by Jury, the performances being given in aid of the local hospitals and the Union Jack Club.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—The attraction here this week is what is termed a love-romance, entitled The Love that Women Desire, by G. Carlton Wallace. Mr. Wallis himself sustains the part of an unfortunate outcast who has been robbed and left to perish in the swamps while diamond digging on the Rio Branco, Brazil; the hero is played with manly vigour and courage by Mr. David G. Noble, and the heroine with true womanly devotion and tenderness by Miss Lalla Stanhope. The three arch plotters are all admirably interpreted—by Mr. J. O. Stewart as the Squire, Mr. Hugh Newburn as Richard, his degenerate son, and by Miss Alice N. Livesey as the Squire's plotting, scheming daughter. Pattie is capitally played by Miss Maud Stuart; and Mr. J. W. Wilkinson is a droll policeman.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The big draw at the Hippodrome this week is undoubtedly the engagement of M. Prinz and company and his troupe of trained lions (some twelve in number). Mr. Bert Williams is an undoubted success as a ventriloquist; Leo Tell, an old acquaintance, gives a mimetic performance of exceptional merit; Levano is a marvel of muscular skill; Harry Tomlinson a vocalist with a good voice; Harris and Worth strike an original line in their chief song; Bertha Worth is a pleasing vocalist; Sam Shipley impersonated a "bobby" in good style; and Kisbey, the call-boy, also entertains. The Bioscope is also an attraction.

ATTERCLIFFE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaughten; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—A variety programme is again submitted this week here. Mr. Edward Ranier submits two sketches, entitled The Pride of All and His Majesty's Coastguards, both of which are well received. An interesting and highly dramatic playlet is presented by Messrs. Godfrey and Maynard, entitled A Father's Love; Playfair and Nichola, paper tearers, provide a good turn; the two Wiltons are acceptable coon singers and dancers; and other items are supplied by Miss Kitty Rhodes, comedienne and dancer; Rhide and Pealdo, shadowgraphists; Mr. Tony Iveson, musical turn; and Mr. Walter Payne's biograph.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Ilan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Gibbons.—A most attractive and diversified programme here is headed by the Lafaille Troupe with a novel and marvellous gymnastic and equilibristic performance. Sandy and Carl, in their acrobatic and boxing speciality, are well received; an amusing comedy scena, entitled A Bit of String, is given by Mr. Harris L. Bell and Miss Lily Pearl; Mr. E. C. Clayton's pictures on the Palace Attergraph includes the "Life of Oliver Twist"; Mr. Fred Curran, eccentric comedian, is a favourite; the Sisters Daventry are popular duettists; and Monty, comedy juggler, and Mr. Tom Dunmore, comedian, complete the bill.

BACUP.—New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Richard Nightingale.—Clyo's London and New York vaudeville company of concert and variety artists is here this week. Topping the bill are the Brantfords, in their latest American skit, Prof. Muddlehead, and Tom Brantford's speciality, The Human Band. Salmon, demon trick and musical cyclist, pays another visit, and secures his usual gratifying reception; Onda and Leon, horizontal bar performers, give a clever performance; and Mr. Henri Sardou, illusionist, presents a mystifying exhibition. Miss Marie Rivers contributes some good songs; Beanland and Bath are cartoon and comedy artists of no inconsiderable merit; Mr. Charles Danton is eminently successful in his songs; Clyo and Rockelle, in their unique comedy act, contribute a good turn; and other turns on the bill are Charles Burwell, quaint comedian, and Fred Harrison, comedian.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds' company in Passion's Power is here. Lorah Varno is played with power and judgment by Miss F. Conyers Radcliffe; Miss Stella Carmichael makes a charmingly acceptable Countess Delauney, and Miss Lowe Dare a vivacious and pleasing Lucie. Mr. William Clayton's Prince Kandos is a fine elocutionary effort; Mr. Frank Radcliffe makes a vigorous General Zuran; and Mr. Steven E. Scanlan as Michael Laski is a villian of unusual impressiveness.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Henry Bedford is here this week with his company in the melodrama, Gipsy Jack. Mr. Henry Bedford is very clever in the title-rôle, a part he is most admirably suited for; Mr. Alex Alexander shows considerable ability in the rôle of Gerald Skinner; Mr. Sid Bedford supplies the humour of the piece in a very agreeable manner as Joe Banks; Miss Bessie Bedford was excellent as May Harvey; Miss Violet Alwynne gives a capital performance as Dorothy Dexter; as also does Miss Ada Antley as Nan.

Tivoli.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi.—The Cee Mee Family are the top of the bill here this week, and they give an exceedingly fine performance on the swinging trapeze; Mlle. Lumière's electrical grotto is a beautiful show; the Sisters Marion, two young promising vocalists, score quite a success; E. J. Wilkes is a capable comedian, and his dog is trained to perfection; Arthur Slater, "the Man in White," is quite out of the ordinary in his whistling entertainment; J. H. Cassels, the Scotch comedian, is popular; Edie Endon is a pleasing comedienne and expert dancer.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—A revival of Claudian is this week meeting with cordial approval, and great praise is due to Mr. William Maclaren and his company for the excellent manner in which they present the play. Mr. Maclaren himself gives an impressive impersonation of the title-rôle, and has an able coadjutor in Miss Lily C. Bandmann as Almida. Capital support is given by Mr. Wilson Howard as Thariogalus, and Mr. George R. J. Austin as Agazell. In a much lighter vein the characters of Belos and Edessa are amusingly acted by Mr. Charles T. Chaloner and Miss Carlotta Anson.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schubert.—Very marked is the large attendance of juveniles, who revel in witnessing the latest novelty, Casey's Court, by the midget mimes; Wallau is a youthful juggler who is bound to make a name for himself; Rastus and Banks are a smart pair of coloured Americans who gain for themselves plenty of applause; George Prince scores with his Tyrolese parody song, and as an encore renders a humorous football song, with local allusions. Of Mantell and Oval, one of the gentlemen is a contortionist of merit, the other a comedy cyclist of skill; Flo Wood is a pleasing comedienne; Kathleen Gray, a vocalist, is also billed. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux, as usual, conclude each performance with interesting and comic subjects.

BATLEY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Whitby.—Mr. Morice Prendergast's company gives a good rendering of Mr. James Willard's well-written play A Woman of Pleasure. In the title-rôle Miss Theo Henries is conspicuous for a sound embodiment of the part; Mr. Jerrold Ord plays Lord Carlingforth with touching fidelity; Mr. H. T. Wood is impressive and sincere as the parson; Mr. Dean Cliffe is smart and alert in his comedy scenes; and useful assistance is given by Messrs. Fred Norburn, Arthur Gilroy, Alec Bradley, Fred Laws, and Misses Carlotta Blondin and Dolly Gilroy. Miss Rene Robertson speaks her lines with intelligence.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—The boards here are this week occupied by Miss Lena Stanton's company, under the personal direction of Mr. Harry Joseph, in the musical comedy Bonny Boy Blue. Miss Lena Stanton makes a vivacious Boy Blue, and Miss Minnie Melbah is a charming Dolly Dickory. Miss Millie Maxwell gives a satisfactory interpretation of Archie; and Nellie and May, dairymaids, find good exponents in the Misses Cecile Delaine and Carrie Herbert. Little Keno scores a great success; and the humour is also well sustained by Mr. Bruce Green as Dame Dickory, Mr. Will Terry as Lawyer Copall, and Mr. Geo. Bignell as Will Watkins. Mr. George Melbah ably depicts the character of Squire Longacre.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—The attraction here this week is provided by Mr. George Edwarde's company in Lady Madcap. In the rôle of Lady Betty Clarridge Miss Marie Studholme is delightfully fascinating, enhancing her reputation here with her finished impersonation of the Madcap. As Bill Stratford, Mr. J. Robert Hale is decidedly humorous, and Mr. Arthur Langley must be commended for his capital assumption of Oroya Brown. Miss Nina Sevening, with her handsome stage presence, is a dainty Gwennie Holden, and Mr. J. Edward Fraser as Captain Harrington acts and sings delightfully. Other humorous studies are those of Posh Jenkins and Corporal Ham, by Messrs. Oliver J. Round and E. Statham Staples, who evoke roars of laughter. Miss Mabel Russell is a clever Susan, her dancing being much admired. Mr. Ernest Mahar as Count De St. Hubert furnishes one of the smartest impersonations in the piece. Mr. W. E. Richardson is an admirable Colonel Layton, and Miss Ethel Griffies appears to advantage as Mrs. Layton. Mr. Henry Latimer is a capital Lord Framlingham; and other rôles are smartly sustained by Messrs. Eustace Burnaby, Harold Parkes, Douglas Munro, and J. E. Walker. The chorus and augmented orchestra are under the able direction of Mr. T. Sutton.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Freece; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—The star here this week is charming Miss Marie Loftus, who is paying a return visit to this city with her delightful repertoire of songs. Miss Loftus was on Monday accorded a reception of which any artist might justly feel proud, encores being frequent and deserved. The Bros. Delbosque create quite a sensation with their marvellous acrobatic act, and Mr. Arthur Milton upholds his reputation as a first-class comedian. The Alaskana Troupe appear to great advantage in their smart act; and other engaged are Cordite and Buffalo, Little Salomo, Will Hebden, and Minnie Wren. The Palace pictures are always an attraction.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Limited.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John S. Walker.—Mr. Neil Kenyon, fresh from local pantomime triumphs, heads the bill here, and has created quite a furore with his humorous songs and witty patter. Kitts and Windrum appear in a succesful musical military dilemma, entitled The Cuckoo, and Mr. Charles Colby and Miss Lily May give their exceedingly smart ventriloquial act. Miss Gwennie Hasto is a charming comedienne, and her dancing is the very poetry of motion. Also appearing are Drew and Alders, the Three Cape Girls, the Jurgens Trio, in their startling act on rolling globes, and the Jagos, duettists and dancers.

New Alhambra Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—Miss Belle Davis and her precocious "Pick Chicks" are starring here, and have been accorded an enthusiastic reception. The Les Valdos gain approval with their original absurdity The Eccentric Motor 'Bus Men, and Mr. Charles Chard is a capital comedian. Mr. Tony Iveson at the piano furnishes some realistic imitations, and Miss Emmie Ames stages her latest successful scena, 'Neath the Shadow of Big Ben. Mr. Harry Bancroft's fine voice is heard to advantage in several songs, and the new pictures exhibited by the Alhambra Bioscope are a great attraction. Also appearing are Miss Annie Casey, a charming comedienne, and Mr. Dan Robans, operatic vocalist.

BILSTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—Mr. Frank Ayrton's company is here in The Power of Gold. Miss Lilla Wilde scores as Lady Brandon; Mr. Charles Whitlock is the Malay doctor, and his acting is much appreciated; Paul Judson and Mark Harley have vigorous exponents in Mr. Richard Oliver and Mr. Albert Sefton; Miss Georgina V. France does exceedingly well in the rôle of Meg Judson; old Richards is well played by Mr. Donald Summers; and Mr. James Burleigh ably portrays Dobson, the British working man. The drama is relieved by the diversified antics of Mr. Ayrton as Sammy Smudge and shrewd Miss Madge Seymour as Norah Donnelly.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—The "B" division of the Moody-Manners Opera Company, Ltd., commenced a welcome return engagement on Monday in Carmen. Unfortunately, Mdlle. Zelie de Lussan was unable, through indisposition, to fill the title-rôle, but a most efficient substitute was found in Miss Rosina Benyon, who acquitted herself with much skill and effect, both vocally and histrionically, and to the entire satisfaction of a crowded house. Mr. Charles Carter gave a fine rendering of Don Jose. During the week Il Trovatore, Faust, Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci, Maritana, Tannhäuser, and The Bohemian Girl have also been produced. The augmented orchestra was under the direction of Mr. Harrison Frewin.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alaska, American comedy artistes, head the company, and furnish a very attractive turn. Harland and Rollison, in a clever and entertaining instrumental exhibition, have established themselves favourites, and Miss Lilian Warren, with some excellent illustrated songs, is also a leading feature. Les Voces, talented operatic vocalists, are much admired, and the capital company also includes Mr. George Collins, comedian; the Three San Remo Girls, in some pretty dances; Mr. Bob Hamilton, Scotch comedian; Mr. Jack Lane, the Yorkshire Rustic; and an interesting display by the Bioscope. Mr. Ernest Devaney is musical director.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The Ian Maclaren Répertoire Company opened here on Monday in a cycle of standard plays, commencing with The Merchant of Venice. In this, as, indeed, in all his essays, Mr. Ian Maclaren as Shylock submitted a study as conspicuous for its originality as for its profundity. Miss F. Glossop Harris has fashioned her presentment of Portia on graceful lines, and Mesdames Mona Limerick and Gertrude Gilbert, together with Messrs. Gordon Philliott, Aubrey Mather, Rathmeh Wilson, François Cellier, jun., F. Stafford Dawson, Edward Landor, and others, are noted for their earnest studies. As You Like It, Romeo and Juliet, David Garrick, and Richard the Third, in all of which Mr. Maclaren plays the leads, have figured in turns, and Miss F. Glossop Harris as Rosalind, and Miss Gertrude Gilbert as Juliet have won golden opinions in these well-known parts.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company, headed by the latter in the rôle of the erratic Taunton, has regaled large audiences with the new comedy, On the Love Path. Mr. Hutchison's performance proved most entertaining and clever, and Miss Lilias Earle as Charity Concannen played with charming taste and expression. Mr. Geo. Mudie assisted cleverly as Gripleigh; Mr. Frank Elliott made every attainable point as Gerald Marvel; Mr. Frank Hill as Peter Concannen, and Mr. T. W. Rawson as Denbigh Thraile were well within the picture; and Miss Margaret Marshall as Mary, and Miss Hilda Honiss as Nora Concannen played in a delightful manner. His Landlady preceded the comedy, and Cousin Kate has been revived.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—Sowing the Wind, with which Mr. J. W. Turner commences a summer season of stock performances, for which he has secured a company of capable players, has allowed Miss Edith Turner further opportunities this week of enhancing her reputation locally, her performance of Rosamund being most noteworthy in its merits. Mr. Vincent Clive shows fine emotional power as Brabazon, Mr. Henry Bute characterises the rôle of Mr. Watkin in a clever manner, Mr. Richard Vane is successful as the lover, Ned Annesley; Miss Irene Rooke acts admirably as Maud Fretwell, Miss Annie Hill gives a most convincing ring to the rôle of Mrs. Fretwell, and Messrs. Arthur Soames and J. W. Macdonald as Sir Richard Cursitor and Lord Petworth respectively are well employed in the cast.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—An Abandoned Woman is presented here to a full house nightly by Mr. Harry Foxwell, who figures successfully as Robert Saunders. Miss Georgiette Thiery represents the title-rôle, a woman of fierce, unbridled passions, with fine effect, and Mrs. Harry Foxwell in her charming impersonation of Eleanor Dean receives much sympathy. Mr. W. J. Butler portrays the malignant nature of the villain, Philippe Malvoisin, with sinister effect; Mr. Walston Foster is admired for his frank and manly acting as the falsely-accused captain; Mr. Russell Bogue affects the volatile spirit of Paddy Boyle with much gusto; Mr. Fred Park is clever and incisive as Sammy Sharp; and Miss Warren as Sally Sloper is vivacious and pretty.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville.—Mr. Frank Lindo and company present the fare here in Home Sweet Home, which is enjoying the best of receptions. Mr. Lindo himself supplies the heroic part in his excellently-drawn character of Stephen Armitage; Miss Marion Wakeford is both intense and sympathetic in her portraiture of the heroine, Joan; Mr. J. W. Henson submits a capital portrait of the old salt, David Armitage; Captain Gerald Gambier as the aristocratic father acts in keeping with the rôle; Mr. C. H. Lester shines as the insidious Lucas Lyle; and Mr. Geo. Overs as Dick Redmayne and Mr. D. Lawrence Doyle as the old countryman are very successful. Miss Daisy Rochefort wins all hearts with her charming acting as Dora, and Miss Hetty Webster and Mr. Sidney Bryant do good work in the humorous rôles.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—A clever variety company is appearing here in lieu of the dramatic fare ordinarily submitted, introducing a number of engrossing specialities, and also engaging in a funny pantomime sketch of Sinbad the Sailor. In this, Miss Florrie Bray displays much talent as Sinbad, and Miss Ada Clare is chic and otherwise pleasing as the hero's sweetheart; Miss Lilian Player is also popular for her good works as Sunbeam; Mr. Dan Idle is a capital antidote to melancholia as Mrs. Sinbad; and Messrs. Will Ellerslie and Arthur Allen aid in the fun as Tinbad and Weary Will. In the specialities proper the Sisters Ascott, who are most versatile artists; the Izons, duettists, &c.; Joe Cookson, a clever novelty ventriloquist; and Leslie and Player, duettists, in addition to the above, deserve the highest praise.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—Napoleon the Great is presented here with much pomp and detail by Messrs. Granville and Thorne's company. Mr. Hugh Montgomery suggests the personality of Napoleon with striking éclat; Mr. Henry Earlesmere acts with well-studied effect as Lavarennes; Mr. Phil Harper as Jules Meuron gains repeated cheers with his well-acted adventures; Mr. Bartlett Garth as the Pole, Laczinski, gives a polished performance; Miss Maud Russell bestows graceful charms on the rôle of Mlle. Léonie Marbœuf; Miss Leslie Warner distinguishes the character of Marie Walewska by her clever acting; and Mr. C. W. Spencer as Sergeant Choupin. Mr. G. Acton Dix as Monsieur Fouché, and Miss Florence Thorne as Mère Dumont do well. Mr. Frank M. Thorne is excellently humorous as Pierre, and Miss Marie Harcourt droll as Marcelle Choupin.

Empire Palace.—Resident Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Hetty King is the star turn this week, and is well applauded for her songs. One of the finest pantomimic productions we have seen is La Main, which is an artistic, clever, and most attractive item under the direction of Camille D'Alberg. The Lindon Vaudeville Company has an excellent sketch, Monks at Play; Percy Honri delights his audience with concertina selections; Rosie Bartlett and Ruth Lytton are charming comediennes; Ruby and Laws have a sketch, Cora's Visitors, which is well received. Staley's Transformation Company remain another week while Sloan, who styles himself the Cigar-Box King, is an excellent turn.

Gaiety Theatre.—General Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Cruickshank has made a big impression here, his style, songs, and patter being worthy of the loud applause he receives; The Mackweys have a clever comedy wire act; May Moore Duprez, the Jolly Dutch Girl, is as happy as ever; the Three Clarions in an absurdity, The Would-be Tenor, are amusing; Kennedy Allen presents a scena, The Actor at Breakfast, which is well received; Will Farrell and George French are full of merriment; the Walleys have an excellent comedy juggling act; the Four Watsons, Professor Lionel Lee with his Animatograph, and the Korries make up a long programme.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The Prince of Monte Carlo is being presented here by Harry Roxburgh, who is a smart comedian, and a good all-round company. Arthur Rigby is encored for his song "The March of the Married Men"; Alf Gibson is more popular than ever, his quaint songs and patter causing loud laughter; the Six Æolians are accomplished vocalists and dancers; Lalla Selbini is an expert trick cyclist; Regan and Ryan are as funny as ever; while George Grogie, Tate and Tate, Charles Williams, and Sid Brandon add largely to the mirth of the programme.

Bordesley Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—The excellent programme submitted this week is attracting crowded houses. May Edouin and Fred Edwards appear in their playlet, A Bachelor's Dream, which receives loud applause. A musical turn with plenty of comedy is introduced by the Warsaw Brothers; the Stuart Quartette score well with their singing and dancing; lively Lily Langtry is as bright as ever, her new songs being well received; a clever trapeze turn is that of the Urma Sisters; Prince Fee Lung mystifies with his weird tricks.

Curzon Hall.—The Royal Italian Circus is attracting large audiences here. The clever acts the animals go through do great credit to their trainers.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. J. Huntley.—The Drama of Life has been played here this week by Mr. Lingford Carson's company. Mr. George M. Newall gave a manly rendering of Harry Beech; the villainous character of Walter Beech was powerfully portrayed by Mr. Edward M. Hamilton; a clever impersonation of Richard Brenton, a detective, was submitted by Mr Walter Steele; Miss Kate Hallam was most sympathetic in the rôle of Sylvia Beech; Miss Elsie May did well as Master Robert Beech; and Betty Black was capitally played by Miss Nellie Birchenough; Mr. Harwood Roberts was most amusing as Sir Dobson Wilde.

BLACKBURN.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald C. Yorke.—The Elster Gonne Opera Company is here this week in a series of English operas, opening on Monday with Maritana. Miss Marie Elster sings and acts well in the principal parts, and is capably supported by Miss Madge Quilliam, Mr. Gilbert King, and Mr. Payne Clarke.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page.—Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton's company, in The Gambler's Daughter, is drawing crowded houses here.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—A fine variety show is given by the Matweef Hugoston troupe of singers, dancers, and acrobats; Millie Howell, comedienne; Mersano, card expert; the Royare Boleros, comedy gymnasts; Virto, in his drawing-room musical act; Marie Santoi and troupe, in the illuminated Japanese scena, A Japanese Tea Garden by Night; Bert Harrow, comedian; Spry and Austin, comedians; and Arthur Reece, vocal comedian.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Facing the Music, played by Miss Dorothy Cacey and company, is the attraction here this week. The important part of John Smith is in the capable hands of Mr. Charles Windermere; Mr. Wentworth Lane supplies a careful study of the Rev. John Smith; whilst Messrs. Harry Averell and Knox Orde submit creditable impersonations of Dick Desmond and Colonel Smith respectively. Miss Cacey acts charmingly as Nora; and Miss Clare Manifield portrays Mabel with excellent effect. Miss Mildred Hodson as Miss Fotheringay, and Miss Evelyn Shelley as Mrs. Ponting, are likewise most acceptable. Clause Number Six, written by Mr. Windermere, and played by Mr. Averell and Miss Manfield, forms a good curtain-raiser.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Messrs. C. and F. Renad's company has possession here this week with The Swiss Express. The fun, which is fast and furious from start to finish, is supplied by the Brothers Renad, aided by Messrs. Herbert Lewis, George Martin, Owen Remonde, J. Carl Lyle, C. Gray, Harwood Cooper, and Misses Helen Douglas and Jessica Ford. The Edene Quartette of vocalists furnish special numbers.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—An excellent programme is found here this week. Harry Weldon, the swell entertainer, has established himself a great favourite; Ergotti and Luis are wonderful acrobats; Julian Mack shines as a patter comedian; and Eugene Joly is a famous cornettist. Hallam and Stanton, comedians; the Chrystals, vocalists and dancers; Rose Reval, comedienne; the Phontos, in a sketch; and the Ferraris, dancers, together with Vernon's Imperial Bioscope, complete the bill.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston.—The Coal King, a Lancashire drama, is this week being presented by a capable company. Mr. L. Maitland as Tom Roberts, the hero, plays the part well, and Miss Gertrude Valentine gives a sympathetic rendering of Grace Shirley; Mr. Harry Brayne causes much merriment as Jim Williams; Mr. Joseph Millane gives able representation of the character of Walter Harford, the villain; Mr. Robin Shiells is good as the Coal King, and Mr. Wilfred Grahame is a suitable Dick Shirley. Excellent work is done by Miss Joan Wellman as Mad Ann and Miss Hetty Cornwallis as Araminta Green.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—The ever-popular Fred Karno's troupe of comedians are this week the great attraction here. They appear in The Jail Birds, Mumming Bnrds, and Early Birds. Other turns in the programme are Fred Keeton (eccentric comedian), Atroy (society juggler and hoop roller), La Belles Americaines (a quartet of lady vocalists and acrobatic dancers), Violet Ashcroft (vocalist), Violi (lady instrumentalist), and Charles Vincent (comedian).

BOOTLE.—Muncaster Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Manager, Mr. H. Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Wilson.—Mr. Gus Levaine's pantomime, Aladdin, opened here on Monday to a crowded house. The scenery and effects are good. Miss Marie Harding as Aladdin wins applause with her songs; and Miss Florrie Gibson is a pleasing Princess Badroubaldor; Abanazer finds a capable exponent in Mr. Robt. Williams. Specialities are introduced by Leon and Leoni, musical experts; Watty Griffin, contortionist; and the Baden Troupe of dancers.

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—The New York Comedy Four are paying a visit to this popular house of entertainment. They use their admirable voices to much advantage in their clever and harmonious turn. Dandy George, with his wonderful dog Rosie, is well received. Theo. Hardeen releases himself from handcuffs of all kinds in a truly marvellous manner. Anthony, the mysterious gentleman in white, is a clever conjurer; J. C. Jimson, in his sketch Pets at Home, is very acceptable; and the same may be said of Evelyn Desa, banjoist, vocalist, and dancer; Rosalie Jacobi, soubrette; and the Olive Trio, comediennes and dancers.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—Mr. C. St. John Denton's company opened here on Monday in Kitty Grey. Miss Hilda Guiver, who has a good stage presence, is a fascinating Kitty, and sings well; Miss Marie West's rendering of Lady Binfield is excellent, her singing gaining many encores; and Miss Nellie Lauraine's impersonation of Mrs. Bright is given in true comedy vein. Mr. H. E. Garden as Lord Plantagenet is untiring in his efforts to amuse; and Mr. Robert Hyett as Sir John Binfield gives a brisk rendering of the part; while Mr. Lauri Lisle plays the amorous king in admirable style, causing hearty laughter whenever he is on the stage. The remaining parts are in safe keeping, and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Forbes Russell, is an important factor in the success.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Mr. Brandon Thomas and company are this week paying another visit with Charley's Aunt. In his usual humorous manner, Mr. Thomas represents Colonel Sir Francis Chesney, and Mr. Walter Beaumont is capital as Spettigue, the solicitor. Mr. Stanley Cooke is irresistible as Lord Fancourt Babberley, and he has excellent support from Mr. Hastings Lynn as Jack Chesney, and Mr. R. B. Mason as Charley Wykeham. Mr. Sydney Compton is good as Brassett, Miss Lena McNaughton is strikingly effective as Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez, and Miss Marion Ripley, in the part of Kitty Verdun, and Mesdames Dorothy Deacon and Gladys Storey as Amy Spettigue and Ella Delahay respectively leave nothing to be desired. In A Highland Legacy, which precedes the comedy, Mr. Thomas represents with much success the part of Tammy Tamson, and he is capitally supported.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—A much modernised version of the late Dion Boucicault's drama, The Streets of London, is presented here with conspicuous success by Mr. Eade Montefiore's capable company, Mr. W. Rokeby scoring in the part of Badger, and Mr. J. Bracewell providing a fund of humour in the comedy part of Jonas Puffy. Miss Marion Armitage displays much exuberance in her impersonation of Dan, Mr. Henry Moxon, an old-time favourite here, gives a vigorous performance of the part of the old scoundrel, Gideon Bloodgood, and Miss Octavia Noel is fairly effective as Alida. Miss Edyth Goodall as Lucy, and Mr. Ian Lloyd-Mackenzie as Paul, win universal sympathy. Miss Helena Rigby is good as the motherly Mrs. Puffy, and Mr. H. Douglas Cottell acceptably fills the part of Mark Livingstone. The drama is well staged.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—A programme of all-round excellence is submitted here this week, George Brooks heading it with some funny songs, Walter Stanley following with humour of an acceptable quality, and Mike S. Whallen with up-to-date patter. The Lukushima Troupe of Japanese acrobats and equilibrists again submit with success their picturesque and clever entertainment, and in an acrobatic performance, combining skill and humour; the Rinaldos, too, are eminently successful. Terley submits a novel plastic performance; Lizzie Daniels, comedienne, contributes a capital song in good style. A return visit of Morton and Elliott, with their remarkable paper-tearing, clever harmonica playing, and good vocalism, proves acceptable. The Howards are again winning approbation for excellent cornet solo work, and the graceful and clever Trapnell Family of acrobats reappear with their accustomed deserved success.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—Topping a good bill-of-fare here, the Five Schiavonis, comedy acrobats, win hearty and unstinted applause. Hettie Lee, comedienne, sings and dances with animation; McCann's cleverly-trained terriers are put through a wonderful performance; a capital comedy turn is presented by Bliss and Bliss; the farcical duologue, "Married or EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton.—Queenie Leighton, comedienne, heads the programme with a very pleasing turn, and very justly obtains appreciation by all parts of the house; the Hulo Hodgson and Harry Lowther Company has a smart sketch, Barmaids; Fred Peake and company score with their dramatic sketch, The Hypocrite, in which is a good display of rapier fencing; the Wilfords are expert Herculean equilibrists; Amy Alvira is a pleasing burlesque artist; the Sisters Valli excel as banjoists and dancers; Fray and Rich amuse as patter comedians and dancers; Charles Bignell, comedian, obtains applause, as also does Harry Cotton, eccentric comedian; and the performance concludes with a good display of animated pictures.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The leading turn is by Dan Crawley, comedian, who obtains considerable applause; Mirza Ezzedin, Persian magician, performs many feats of legerdemain neatly; Nellie Coleman, low comedy artist, is highly successful; Lilian Bishop, male impersonator and step dancer, is pleasing; Hill and Lane present a good speciality turn of music, song, and dance; the Musical Palmers score with their selections on military instruments; Dome, comedy clay modeller, is clever in his line; and Harry Lynn and company amuse with the comedy sketch, Dead to the World. The performance concludes with animated pictures. Thursday's matinée is announced for the benefit of the Bristol Harmonic Male Voice Choir, with special attractions.

BROUGHTON. — VICTORIA, LTD. — Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr. James W. Haworth; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—In Holy Russia, by Lilian Clare Cassidy, evidently retains much of its popularity, for it attracted a good house on Monday. Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy (the authoress) plays the part of Renée Rubinoff, in which she is seen to advantage; as Micky Nolan Mr. J. Rice Cassidy keeps the fun rolling; Mr. Tom G. Warry does well as Count Gregori Petrolski; Mr. Louis Norman shows the avaricious and unscrupulous character of Michel Natolski; Mr. Arthur Stratton as Col. Dick Forrest causes much amusement; Mr. Joe Cuthbertson's Baron Von Pleve is a clever performance; and Sir Harry Beresford is in the capable hands of Mr. Frank Copeland. Miss Beatrice Western makes a good impression by her portrayal of Catska Lavotski, and Miss Alice Marsden as Mme. Natolski, Miss Evie Norman as Natalie Natolski, Miss Annie Dudley as Mrs. Richard Forrest, and Mr. Carl Rovinelli as Laurice Stereagoff give adequate support.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Mr. Lawrence Brough and company are here with The Lady of Ostend. Mr. Brough repeats his clever representation of Le Baron de Longueville; Mr. Henry Hampson is quite at home in the part of Dick Whortles; Mr. Charles Groves, jun., as Joseph Carbury is responsible for much fun; and Mr. James Skea makes a realistic Toby Krockitt. Miss Kate Milford plays with skill as Dorothy Whortles; Miss Evelyn Ormonde is charming as Millie; and Miss Eleanor Gilbart makes good use of her opportunities as Matilda Carbury. The play is preceded by a charming comedietta, Margaret's Stratagem. The Saucy Sally was announced for Thursday and Friday.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Another excellent programme is submitted here, including Miss Minnie Cunningham, who sings Irish songs in a pleasing manner. The Herald Comedy Four, in an Indian scena, evoke applause; Lozelle is a smart gymnast; Tom Moy, comedian, is good; and the Seven Wulfrunas, in Fun in a Café, exhibit clever acrobatic work. The Sisters Walmsley are worthy of praise; George Formby, comedian, is a favourite; Stanley and Vandyke, in an absurdity, On the Shelf, create roars of laughter; and Urbanora projects an interesting picture, "With a Travelling Menagerie through Cornwall."

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bonnett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—The boards are this week occupied by Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company with When a Man Hates and The Sorrows of Satan. In the first-mentioned play the callous Corsican Danelli, who reduces murder to a fine art, is powerfully portrayed by Mr. Arthur Hinton. Mr. Graham Arthurs creditably interprets the part of the clerical lover; a veritable sleuth hound is the detective Smart, cleverly played by Mr. Travis Green; Mr. Gerald Byrne does well as the imbecile Paul; the woman endeavouring to atone for a sinful past is depicted with dramatic intensity by Miss Leila Zillwood; while Miss Lydia Ardre is natural and pleasing as Letty. Great amusement is caused by the comic business between Mr. Frank Brunell (Peter) and Miss Florence Zillwood (Dolly).

BURY (LANCS.).—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Miss Mary Austin and company are paying a return visit here this week with The Cotton Spinner. Miss Austin displays considerable ability as Margaret Prescott; Mr. John C. Haydon makes a fine old John Prescott; Mr. Edwin F. Fysher as Lord Northbury and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds as Arthur Northbury both give capital presentations. Others in the cast who do good work are Mr. E. G. Edwards and Miss Bella Power.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—A capital programme is provided here this week by Stelling and Revell, bar artists; J. W. Rowley, comedian; Lauri Wylie's mimicking mannikins; the Three Renards, gymnasts; Agnes McKellar, vocalist; Rosetti, a lady who plays the 'cello and violin; Milner Verren, vocalist; and George Schilling, who relates his experiences as a walker.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Sons; General Manager, Mr. Broadhead, jun.—A good bill here includes the six Brothers Luck in the sketch entitled The Demon of the Cellar; Tokio, Jap mimic; Dainton Girls, duettists; Jacko, man monkey; Cavilini Troupe, in a comedy act; and Minnie and Harry Groves in a model turn.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—On Monday and Tuesday Mr. Norman V. Norman and company presented Count Hannibal. Mr. Norman had a fine opportunity as Count Hannibal de Lavannes, and he made the most of it, his acting, both as a commander and in his softer moments, being excellent. Miss Beatrice Wilson has a graceful presence, and as Clotilde de Vrillac she was eminently suited. The Charles IX. of Mr. Brimber Wills stood out by itself. On Wednesday As You Like It was given.

CARDIFF.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Messrs. W. Fraser-Brunner and Gilbert Heron's company is here in the comedy, The Superior Miss Pellender. The part of Mrs. Pellender is excellently portrayed by Miss Jessie Danvers, an actress of considerable ability; Mr. Tister is enacted by Mr. Gilbert Heron in an extremely humorous manner, and with skilful attention to the many amusing characteristics of the part; Miss Alice E. Belmore as Miss Pellender is quite successful, while Miss Jessie Ramsey is particularly suited for the part of Edith. Miss Alice Bowes, as Nancy, and Mr. George Belmore, as Noel, give interpretations that quickly win the admiration of the audience; and these two clever artists, with the assistance of Mr. Wm. Fraser-Brunner, present a curtain-raiser, entitled Kit's Atonement, that proves very much above the average.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Bateman.—Proving an attraction here is the powerful drama, Her One Great Sin, well staged and capitally presented by Miss Blanche St. Albano and Mr. J. L. Jackson's principal company. The important rôle of Grace Warhurst is played by the well-known actress, Miss Lydia Donovan, while the company all round is one of considerable ability.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—Heading the bill at the Empire is the popular comedian, Wilkie Bard, while a good second is Boswell's Stage Circus, with the ever-amusing revolving table. The Morton Trio are as entertaining as ever with their well-blended singing; the Six Lancashire Lasses are charming vocalists and expert clog dancers; the Maples give a humorous demonstration in How to Treat A Burglar; and the Holles and Goldman Trio prove most diverting in their successful musical melange, The Little Charwoman. Nellie Stratton, the well-known comedienne; the Canary Co., in a comic pantomime; Bessie Featherstone, a winsome artiste; and Harry Bedford, the second-hand aristocrat, complete the programme.

CARLISLE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Trustees of R. S. M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Stanley.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company, in The Sin of Her Childhood, is filling the popular parts of the house this week. The piece is well staged and thoroughly interesting. Miss Ruth Sheppard, who appears as the much-wronged Mary Haysel, is an emotional actress of considerable power. Mr. Charles Fancourt scores heavily as the Rev. Alan Grey; Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes, in the heavy part, emulates the feats of Palmer, the celebrated poisoner with a sang-froid which is quite convincing; Mr. Frederick Loyd successfully impersonates Captain Thornton; and a clever character sketch of the rollicking Barney O'Reilly is contributed by Mr. Hugh Brady, who is ably assisted by Miss Annie Megson. Miss Jennie Douglas Hicks does full justice to the part of Hannah Spry; Little Dot Moss makes quite a hit.

PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietors, Palace Theatre, Limited; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—An excellent and well-varied entertainment is provided here this week. Yukio Tani, the famous Japanese wrestler, tops the bill. Mr. Charles Mildare's imitation of a parrot is distinctly novel; the Elgars contribute a capital operatic scena; the figures and business of Clemart, the ventriloquist, are quite out of the common; Miss Bessie Benson, as a sand dancer, scores a success; Geo. Bendon is a vigorous white coon; and Martine and Son, with illustrated songs, are popular. Vernon's Bioscope, with new pictures, concludes an enjoyable entertainment.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Mr. J. B. Elliott's amalgamation of stars is occupying the above place this week, and a first-rate programme is submitted. Of course the great attraction is the world-famous Savonas, who meet with a most enthusiastic reception. The finished manner in which these talented artists perform upon various instruments is little short of marvellous. A new item, written by Mr. J. B. Elliott, music by the Savonas, and scenery by Chas. Wood, entitled A Moonlight Trip on a Mississippi Steamer, was produced on Monday night, and met with instant success. The Cycling Elliotts improve with every visit, and their trick riding is appreciated to the full. The rest of the company includes Miss Peggy Fame, a really clever burlesque actress and eccentric low comedienne; Miss Nellie Gannon, contralto vocalist, who sings some descriptive songs very effectively; Miss Florence, who scores a hit with her illustrated songs; the Carney Bros., a couple of smart comedy duettists; Harry Wright, extempore vocalist, who is very popular; the Andreassen Bros., novelty acrobats and hand-balancers; and Rabbit, the droll, as popular as ever. Payne's Bio-Photoscope exhibits some good pictures.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Cr. Hy. Masterman.—Messrs. Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod's company is presenting The Prodigal Parson during the current week. Mr. W. V. Garrod plays in a finished manner as the Rev. Tom Godley; Mr. Alfred Northway as the unscrupulous Enoch Jaggins shows considerable skill; as Ben Jaggins Mr. Frank Dallas speaks his lines with point and vigour; Mr. Walter Vincent is successful as Ned Kettlepin; Miss Bertha Kingston looks charming as Fern Godley, her singing and acting deserving much praise; the fun of the piece is largely sustained by Mr. W. Avery as Phil Drive; Myrtle Godley is cleverly presented by Miss Gladys Conover; and good service is rendered by Miss May Grayce as Gretchen. Miss Amy Shaw prettily acts the part of Pomeroy. The Radium Girls are smart dancers.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—Lovers of melodrama are having their tastes well catered for this week by Hardie and Von Leer's company in G. R. Sims's play For Life—and After.

BARNARD'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Effie White's kaleidoscope dance is very popular here; Harry Walker's patter just suits Barnard's patrons; Henri Bekker mystifies with his neat conjuring act; and Percy Murray and Co. are highly successful in The Last Temptation. As usual, Mr. Lacey is to the front, exhibiting a film depicting the wrestling match between Hackenschmidt and Madrali. Gladys Witton (vocalist), the Sisters Edwards (vocalists, dancers, and drummers), and Maxwell and Francis in a comedy act complete the list of attractions.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Capt H. E. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Donne.—At the top of the bill here we have The Selbinis in a smart display of cycling and acrobatic feats. Fox and Melville's illustrated songs find much favour; Maude Mortimer scores particularly in her topical ditty "When the blue moon shines"; and others appearing are Mlle. Leola (lady juggler and her page), George Barron (comedian and parodist), Frank A. Crisp (baritone), and Ethel Dove (comedy artist). The Edisonograph has among others a capital film entitled "The Coster's Revenge."

CHELTENHAM.—OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. Henry Swinerd's company in Dare-Devil Dorothy opened on Monday evening to an enthusiastic house. Miss Dorothy Desmonde in the title-part scores heavily, and her rich contralto voice is heard to advantage; Mr. Walter Ashley is a dashing hero; Miss Ethel M. Darsley as Ruth Montrose is much appreciated; Mr. Henry C. Ward is excellently placed as Captain Dudley; Mr. Will Brereton as the faithful retainer, Silas Crump, sustains the chief burden of the comic relief, giving three highly amusing songs; and Silas's crafty accomplice, Hawkins, is well studied by Mr. Alf Stretton. Miss Nellie Harcourt, a lively soubrette, succeeds as Judith; and the Misses Lillie and Mabel Blake as Polly and Rosy Ann give exceedingly clever high-kicking and speciality dances. The stage-management is in the capable hands of Mr. J. W. Corinder.

CHESTERFIELD. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Richard Ralli.—Mr. Harry Starr's company, in Otto the Outcast, forms the attraction here this week. Mr. Starr, in the title-rôle, plays with his usual ability; Mr. D. Cowell Clarke proves an excellent villain; Mr. E. Firth is good as the detective; Mr. F. W. Graham is a humorous Carrotte, and is well supported by Miss Elia Crossley as Susette; Miss Katie Norris plays with sympathy the part of Lara; Miss Madge Blundell gives a powerful delineation of Coriune.

CHORLEY. — GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé.—At the head of the bill this week is Mr. Charles Morritt, in his latest marvellous illusions. J. W. Swanson, character-comedian, presents smart and amusing impersonations; the Bros. Adderly are artistic singers; Rex and Ford, comedians, are responsible for much amusement. One of the most interesting items is the Blind Man, who quite astonishes the audience with his extraordinary memory. The programme also includes Jim Hegarty (negro comedian), Arnita (musical speciality), and Miss Muriel Denton (serio and dancer).

COATBRIDGE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Coatbridge Theatre Company; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Commins.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke and company occupy the boards here this week, and on Monday evening opened with The Naval Detective. Mr. Kirke gives an excellent delineation of Lieut. Jack Beresford; Mr. Harold Wallace portrays with great effect the difficult rôle of Dr. Schriener; Mr. Mark Practice provides a capable interpretation of Capt. Hustie; and Mr. Charles Burns is admirably cast as Hans Winklepump. Miss Louie Fountaine displays ability as Phyllis Leslie; Miss Edith Claris makes a clever Susan Scrubbs; and Rebecca Gentle is well looked after by Miss Lily Seymour. In Old Madrid was billed for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—This week we have Mr. Allan Wilkie and company, with a répertoire of well-known plays, comprising The Ticket-of-Leave Man, The Corsican Brothers, The Two Orphans, and The Sleigh-Bells. The first-named drama was performed on Monday. In the title-rôle Mr. Allan Wilkie introduced the Lancashire dialect and mannerisms in unmistakably clever fashion, being seconded in a dramatic manner by Miss Ine Cameron as May Edwards. Mr. Clifford Kean played the detective Hawkshaw in a powerful and realistic style. Mr. George Lambton as The Tiger and Mr. George Greig as Melter Moss embodied those parts satisfactorily; and Miss Dorothy Barrington amusingly depicted the wilfulness of the youthful Sam Willoughby.

THE HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot and Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Alen.—The bill this week is more popular than ever, and is essentially a musical programme. Jean Priver's Royal Six are first-rate musical cyclists; Will Cornish, with his bells, is most refined; the scena introducing Mack Ollive, the silleur, is a capital item; the Sisters Albert sing popular songs and dance in clever fashion; Barney Vox, the ventriloquist, gives a highly amusing entertainment; and Flo Somers is a capable comedienne. The pictures this week are of a humorous nature.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Mr. W. Reuben Payne's company is here this week with The Orphan Heiress. Mr. Albert Brasque gives an excellent portrayal of the part of Lord Warwick Ainsley; as Douglas Kingston Mr. Charles Boult is really good; Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle does well as Laurance Gordon; and an able exponent of the part of Rev. Edward Ayton is found in Mr. George Handel, efficient aid being also given by Mr. Walter Fergus as Richard Craven, and Mr. Fred Ford as Sardien Loeki, Miss Rosalie Heath sustains the title-rôle with commendable ability; Miss Constance Medwyn plays the part of Edith Mowbray in a dignified manner; and as Lady Laura Ainsley Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh is pathetic. Olive Kingston is in the capable hands of Miss Edith Halford; the comedy element is supplied by Mr. T. H. Solly as Ginger, he being ably backed up by Miss Cora Duncan as Betsy Buggles.

TOWN HALL.—Secretary, Mr. T. W. Welford.—Scott's Royal Cinematograph company has been here for two nights this week. The following artists took part in the programme:—Mr. W. Atkinson, tenor vocalist; Mr. Fred Malburn, instrumentalist; Mr. Sam Kelly, Scotch comedian; Mr. Arthur Austin, comedy juggler; Mr. T. J. Scott, elocutionist; and Mr. S. W. Carlyle, solo pianist.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Charles Frohman's company presented here on Monday the thrilling melodrama, Leah Kleschna. Miss Haidee Wright, in the title-rôle, was a decided success; Mr. J. Graeme Campbell as Paul Sylvaine acted with great dignity; as Kleschna Mr. Robert Pateman gave a fine rendering; and Mr. Cyril Harcourt as Raoul was capital in the part.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble; Stage Manager, Mr. Lewis Tolano.—The star turn here is given by the Five Cumberlands, with a clever exhibition of cycle trick riding; Lorna Doone is a good vocalist and speciality dancer; Mlle. Sara's marblesque trio pose in some fine statuary tableaux; the Ettenas are wonderfully clever globe artists; Little Don is a diverting little comedian; the Two Eltons give an exceptionally clever horizontal bar exhibition; Loudoun Cameron is a clever conjuror; Gladys Archbutt pleases as a dancer; and Boyd and Gilfain, in a diverting operetta, are clever and sing well.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Wm. Bennett.—Hearty and appreciative audiences are gathering to witness Mr. E. Lockwood's company in Sergeant Brue. Mr. Arthur Reynolds is the roughly at home in the title-character; Mr. Charles McLagan is funny as Crookie Scrubbs; Mr. Arthur Stroud is successful as Gerald Treherne; Mr. E. Rogers as Michael Brue and Mr. Henry Chichester as Mr. Crank materially aid the success; Miss Lily Lingard achieves a triumph as Lady Bickenhall; and Miss Eva Weigh is responsible for a capable rendering of Aurora Brue.

THE HIPPODROME.—Manager, T. M. Sylvester.—Excellent houses are always assured at this popular house of amusement. The act given by Lady Mansel's Juveniles is an excellent one; Miss Fanny Wentworth is a clever mimic; Mahatma gives an interesting and curious turn; Whitsap is clever as a comedy juggler; Joe Love is a capable comedian; and Miss Bloom a successful comedienne; the Sisters Desmond are clever vocalists; Miss Ida Martini gives a good gymnastic display; and the Haverleys (vocalists) are well received.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Mr. Herbert Barrs and company are here again with the comedy-drama entitled, Life. Mr. Barrs himself takes the part of Jack Lockhart in a masterly manner. He is ably assisted by Miss Dorothy Oswald as Ruth Thorpe. The "heavy" part is in the hands of Mr. A. Pringle, who, as Sir Horace Lester, gives a good embodiment. Mr. H. Fuller pleases as Zac Krabbe, whose daughter Jess, impersonated by Miss Maudie Vincent, has several good songs and dances. Mr. H. Edwin shows a careful study as Peter Thorpe, and Mr. Willis Collins is smart as Joe Pippet. Miss Agnes Collier deserves special mention for her rendering of Beatrice Ferrars, and praise is due to Miss Shaw for her interpretation of Mrs. Moriarty. Mr. E. Cheetham makes a good Detective Blake, and Mr. Williams is well chosen as Inspector Young. Mr. Alf. Selwood is suitably placed as P.C. Nabbs, and Mr. A. Ord is in his element as Pat Moriarty. Mr. Arthur Wilson as Israel Jacobs and Mr. Leonard Ernest as Sam Sykes fully justify their selection for the parts.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor.—Mr. J. D. Hunter's company, in The Ruby Ring, a drama in five acts by H. B. Maxwell and J. D. Hunter, is the attraction here for the current week. Mr. Frederick Sargent presents a clever conception of Cuthbert Vaughan; as Reginald Clethorpe, Mr. Horace Pollack makes a capital villain; Mr. George Mudie, jun., gives a meritorious performance of Charles Lynton; the part of Alphonse Leloir is in the very capable hands of Mr. A. B. Tapping; Mr. George Cecil Murray is well suited as Col. Clethorpe; and Mr. George Thorne, jun., is conspicuous as John Jenkins. Mr. Charles Langton is good as Henry Jordan; and Mr. Walter Selby as John Kendall, a solicitor, is the essence of law. Mr. Harry Collier is responsible for the humorous element as Peter Tagg; Miss Alice Farleigh is natural as Helen Neville; Miss Blanche Bayley is successful as Mary Richards; and Miss Clarissa Selwynne as Col Clethorpe's daughter. Miss Eva Bayley as Mrs Renshaw, and Miss Edith Matt as Mother Hicks are all satisfactory.

CROYDON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—The attraction here is Mr. Louis Calvert's company in The Duffer. Mr. E. H. Wynne is successful as Robert Iles; Mr. F. Pennington-Gush gives a praiseworthy rendering of Charles Chester; Mr. Whitford Kane acts with dramatic effect as Paul Martin; Mr. P. Warringay deserves a good word as Richard Stamp; Mr. W. Fordiace is smart as Mr. Raleigh; and Mr. Kingsford Pearce is capital as James Deuth. Miss Margaret Montrose deserves high compliments for her portrayal of Lady Amelia; Miss Mabel Taylor acts with skill and ability as Mary Hillier; Miss Nellie Griffen causes amusement as Miss Bide; Miss Dorothy Cousen is efficient as Miss Montgomery; and Miss Florence Adale makes a pleasing Phyllis Wade.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—The Girl of My Heart is being well received here. Mr. Frank Stone is good as Will Stewart; Mr. Fred Morgan puts in genuine work as Major Fulton; Mr. Bert Morley is excellent as Captain Bridge; Mr. Lewis Gilbert is commendable as Peter Scragg; Mr. Joe Monkhouse is very funny in the rôle of Ben Lanky; Mr. E. Harvey White scores as Joshua Bradley; and Mr. C. F. Collins is a droll Gunner Phillips. Miss Nell Gillmore is quite up to the mark as Mrs. Stewart; Miss May Seton gives useful support as Sarah Bradley; Miss Marie Clavering is seen at her best in the rôle of Jenny Warden; and Miss Madge Morley acts with judgment as Mary Graham.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace H. Jay.—A capital programme is put forward here, and is noticed in another column.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Jas. Bell.—This week a variety company is giving here two shows a night for the first time in this town. Ching Ling Soo tops the bill with his marvellous conjuring; the Three Schaffers in their gladiatorial pastimes are excellent; the five Zerebinis in their musical turn are pleasing; Austin and Cowin give a charming entertainment; Frank Keegan and Co. score with their bicycle absurdity. Other clever turns are Ida Ross (Tyrolean singer), Dave McNell (comedian), Starr and Jerome (singers and dancers).

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. A. M. Loader; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—Messrs. Leon Wood and A. F. Allen Towers's company opened here on Monday in The Hindustanee. Miss Dolly Ross is exceedingly good as the Princess, and sings well; the part of Jones is in the capable hands of Mr. A. E. Behan, whilst Mr. George Barr is clever as King Kawffee. Capital dances are rendered by the Maharanee Troupe, the Three Behans's specialities are also much enjoyed. On Tuesday evening Mr. F. J. Robinson, the local manager, was accorded a well-deserved benefit; and in addition to the above, several local artists appeared.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Albert Orton.—Mr. Chas. Harrington's Uncle Tom's Cabin company is engaged here this week. Mr. J. Carr repeats his success as Uncle Tom; as also does Mr. J. H. Renney as Phineas Fletcher; while Legree is well accounted for by Mr. J. H. Rogers. Mr. St. Clair has a good exponent in Mr. Stanley Howard; and the George Harris of Mr. Leslie Beaufort is a meritorious assumption. A similar meed of praise must be accorded Miss Hettie Johnson in the trying part of Eliza; and Miss Jennie Malcolm is all that can be desired as Aunt Ophelia. Topsy is humorously impersonated by Miss Annie Watson; and Mr. W. Langford makes a capital Marks. Little Eva is plaintively depicted by a child actress known as Little Minnie; while other characters capably sustained are the Cassy of Miss Ethel Mildmay, the Emmeline of Miss Carrie Ellis, and the Mrs. Sy. Clair of Miss May Turner. Among the specialities may be mentioned a well-executed duet by Rowe and Holden, some skilful acrobatic dancing by Shorty May, and creditable contributions by W. Langford, banjoist; May Vincent, ballad vocalist; W. H. Knott, coloured tenor; and Ikey Jones, eccentric dancer.

PALACE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Taylor.—The Lavails are appearing here this week in their sensational gymnastic act; Roma and Romani are smart and pleasing musicians; J. B. Preston, Scotch comedian, is diverting; Bennett and Martell are amusing comedians; the Sisters Lylle are attractive duettists and dancers; the Three Henres are skilful jugglers; and the Garden Troupe of International dancers are meritorious. The Palace Bioscope depicts the English Cup Final.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr. Fred Karno's company of comedians, in the successful farce, His Majesty's Guests, are playing to crowded houses on the twice nightly system. Mr. George Hestor, in the character of Sergeant Lightning, is the life and soul of the performance; Mr. Walter Purvis as Lord Easem submits a meritorious delineation; Mr. Chas Usher is the Mr. Miffin, and does well; while Mr. E. Travis as Harry is capable. Miss L. Castelle as Lady Maude plays with plenty of go; and Miss Dora Grahame as Dora submits a pretty rendering. The rest of the cast is well up to Mr. Karno's standard.

HIPPODROME AND VARIETIES. — General-Manager, Mr. G. Weldon.—Stylo, who is described as the champion hoop slinger, receives much applause; Lillie Coleman is an artistic soprano vocalist; and Ariella and the Rizarellis, in their respective business, are worthy of note. Shirley Liggins, coloured coon, and Fred Erick, quaint comedian, are good; and Beatrice Bonnie, comedienne, has good style. Wright and Elton, eccentric acrobats, have a clever act; and the Harriscope never fails to amuse.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. I. W. Chapman.—An excellent variety combination provides the amusement here this week. Wee Jessie, the surprise packet in song and dance, is admirable; Will Ivor pleases as a vocalist; Achilles maintains a foremost position in the rank of athletes; Gillin, ventriloquist, is warmly received. Much mirth is caused by the Bros. Onda, acrobatic comedians. An engaging turn is contributed by Lily Norbury, comedienne and dancer; and Will Dalton is loudly applauded. Will Rain and company in the novelty, Motor Maniac, with bioscopic illustrations, are well received.

DOVER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company opened a six nights' engagement on Monday with The Worst Woman in London. Miss Florence Dalton, who plays the title-rôle, is an actress of much talent; Mr. Wallace Campbell portrays the part of Jack Felton with skill; Mr. Paul Barry Lewers gives a conventional reading of Vincent Lyle; Mr. H. H. Barring makes an impressive James Milford; a capital piece of work is the Philip Armstrong of Mr. Leonard Booker; Mr. Walter Clark is an excellent Detective; Bob Goldfinch is a most humorous individual as played by Mr. Percy Dawson; and an amusing sketch of Hugh Drayton is given by Mr. W. H. Monte. Miss Effie Bartlett gains the entire approbation of the audience for her prepossessing appearance and admirable acting as Ruth Milford; Miss Florence Lovell coming in for a good share of applause for her rendering of Matilda Parker.

THE EMPIRE PALACE. — Proprietors, the Empire Palace Co.; Secretary, Mr. Chas. R. Standfield; Manager, Mr. Percy G. Wraith.—This week the Weimars, musical tramps, are at the top of the bill, in Sloper on the Wire. Charles Lloyd is keeping up his reputation for smartly-written songs; the return visit of the Kays is heartily welcomed, and this clever company, including Miss Aggie Fenton, a dashing principal boy, appear in a humorous miniature pantomime. The Sisters Mayo, expert dancers, are well received; Karr and Kooney are funny; and Gladys Williams is also announced.

DUBLIN. — GAIETY THEATRE. — Sole Representative and Patentee, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—The boards here are occupied by Mr. Edward Compton and company. David Garrick was played on Monday, and again Mr. Compton assumed the title-rôle with his accustomed success. Mr. A. B. Imeson's impersonation of the Hon. Tom Tallyhant was exceedingly clever; Miss Mackenzie gave an artistic and pleasing embodiment of Violet; and Mr. H. Crocker submitted a particularly good performance of Alderman Gresham. Miss M. Hassell made an effective Mrs. Rumbelow; Selina was creditably enacted by Miss Muriel Meek; and the parts of Rumbelow, Sowerberry, and Simkins were all satisfactorily played by Messrs. Herbert Pigott, Arnold Lucy, and C. W. Johnston. A one-act comedy, The Desperate Lover, preceded, and was admirably acted.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Secretary, Mr. George Parrington.—This week the Dublin Amateur Operatic and Choral Society are presenting the operas of Faust and The Bohemian Girl, the productions being under the able conductorship of that popular and well-known Carl Rosa tenor Mr. Barton McGuckin.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Whitbread; Acting-Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson.—The Blind Foundling is being played here this week by Messrs. Chas. H. Phelps and Harry Tilbury's company. Mr. C. H. Phelps in the part of Gerald Dalton has a rôle just suited to his abilities; Miss Mabel Hall as Fairy evokes applause; Mr. Harry Tilbury sings and acts in a capable manner; and the rôle of Isabel is well portrayed by Miss Bella Tilbury. Mr. Frank Harvey submits a capital rendering of Reginald Ray, and Winnie Dobbins is effectively played by Miss Millie Doris.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Mr. Charles Baldwin's comedians, in an up-to-date absurdity entitled Bank Clerks, top the bill here this week, and meet with a flattering reception; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Findon are highly amusing in their comedy duologue Two to One; Bert Ryan, comedian, is highly successful; Daisy Meyer sings and dances in a charming manner; Herbert Shelley, actor-vocalist, is as big a favourite as ever; James Stewart, the original "tramp at the piano," submits an interesting turn; and Gracie Grahame, comedienne, has a host of admirers. Dave Poole is a capital ventriloquist, and the performance concludes with the Empire pictures.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The principal item here this week is Paul Vandy, whose clever feats of juggling elicit applause; Capt. Devereux's dogs are well received; Andre and Brenton's comedy sketch Kitty causes much laughter; Lawrence Barclay, comedian, is going strong; and Russell Hatton is an excellent mimic. Kitty Clover and company are seen to advantage in a smartly-played sketch, Not a Word; Rex Fox is heartily welcomed in his ventriloquial and musical act; and Helen Charles, pianist, vocalist, and siffleuse, meets with success; Harry Nelson, comedian, and Mamie Iris, comedienne and dancer, also entertain.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The following artists are appearing here: The Two Emms, society entertainers; Clara Parr, ballad vocalist; Will Emerson, comedian; Gravetta and Parr, impersonators; and Florrie Emerson, serio.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. S. Samuels.—The Irish spectacle, Widow Machree's Garden Party, produced here by Mr. George Howard, is meeting with success.

PAVILION (Kingstown).—Manager, Mr. C. Irvine Bacon.—This week we have the Olympian entertainers, who are drawing excellent audiences. Miss Winnie Harbor sings several humorous songs and dances with great success; the comic songs rendered by Mr. J. G. Taylor are encored; and Mr. Wallis Arthur's vocalism is greatly admired. Miss Annie Cleveland and Mr. Llewellyn also contribute successfully.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. G. H. Place's Alexander Opera Co. is staying another week here, and giving every satisfaction. Miss Marie D'Alcourt's Arline in the Bohemian Girl on Monday was a distinct artistic success, and received well merited applause; and Mr. F. S. Gilbert as Thaddeus, Mr. J. Kneale Campbell as Devilshoof, Mr. G. Ridding as Count Arnhiem, and Miss Madeline Humphreys as the Gipsy Queen all acted and sang with their usual artistic skill and ability. The répertory is the same as last week.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Deputy Acting-Manager, Mr. Rhodes Wells.—Sidney Lee is a big attraction here this week with his clever exhibition of sleight of hand. Another exceptionally good turn is Captain Zelah, with his performing animals; the Sisters Vincent are smart duettists and dancers; Lily Pender (speciality artist) and Vesta Wheelan (juvenile descriptive vocalist) are well received; Dave Gorman, character comedian, has some good songs; Bob Pearson (comedian) scores, and a cake walk competition is pro assumption of Mrs. Madison Crocker; and Miss Mildred Baker does well as Edith Adams, the Vassar girl.

GRAND THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Fischer.—There is much vitality in Morocco Bound, and notwithstanding many visits of the musical play to Edinburgh, Mr. Arthur Branscombe's No. 1 London Company, which brings the piece here on its present visit, is attracting good houses. Mr. John Wilkinson as Squire Higgins ripples with drollery, and his unflagging spirits and humour are powerful factors in the success of the performance of the play. As the genial Spoofah Bey Mr. Paddy Dupres gives a sparkling, exuberant impersonation; Mr. E. O. Freshwater is good as Vivian; and Mr. Walter Westwood is a capital Josiah Higgins. Miss Margery Gray, by her graceful acting and cultured singing, makes quite a hit as the Hon. Ethel Sportington; Miss Dollie Doyle is excellent as the Hon. Maude Sportington, and dances with delightful brightness and charm.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting Manager, Mr. C. J. Cawood.—Mr. Tom Costello has long been a favourite at this house, and his reception this week shows that he still reigns, his song about a five-pound note especially taking immensely; Mr. Bob King and His Midget Mimes produce great fun in their screaming farce of the Palis of Varites; a troupe of performing dogs and ponies, under the direction of Miss Tina Clementa, go through a number of tricks in a wonderfully clever way; as an imitator of the mannerisms of the late Sir Henry Irving, Mr. Edwin Barwick shows great skill; the trapeze performance of the Lios Alfa Sisters is both graceful and daring; and the dancing of the Dorrells calls forth loud applause. The Bioscope affords a very interesting turn, and other performances that make up an excellent all-round programme are given by Ernest and King, acrobats; Miss Amy Russell, vocalist; Miss Dora Lyric, vocalist; and the New Macs, Irish patter artists.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Dr. E. J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. Edward Neville's company is this week occupying the boards in The Sorrows of Satan and that sensational drama The Anarchist Terror. On Monday the play from the novel of Miss Marie Corelli was presented. As Prince Lucio Runanez Mr. Neville was most effective; and Mr. W. H. Wilson as Geoffrey Tempest did exceedingly well; and the same remark applies to Mr. Gus Bowerman, who portrayed Lord Lynton. Miss Rosie Neville as Mavis Clare, Miss L. Esmond as Diana Chesney, Miss C. Bryne as Mrs. Grimbes the lodging-house keeper, and Miss Flora Leslie as Lady Sybil Elton well maintained the interest in the piece; and deserving of commendation also were Mr. J. Le Fleming as the Earl of Elton, Mr. J. Nelson Turner as Geoffrey's servant, and Mr. R. Lawrence as the Prince's valet.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—The attraction here is A Girl's Cross Roads, one of Walter Melville's strong dramas. Miss Beaumont Collins takes the part of Barbara Wade, and her representation of the gradual downfall of the happy girl to the besotted drunkard is almost appalling in its realism. The other strong character in the piece is that of Farmer Meadows, which is undertaken by Mr. Chas. Franmore, in a manner which would be difficult to eclipse. Miss Nannie Meade acts with all the necessary reckless abandon the part of Nellie Meadows; while Miss Elsie Saville is good as Constance Cornell. Mr. Frank R. Robertson plays with considerable success the part of Jack Livingstone; while Mr. Roy Fortescue and Mr. John Brooks give faithful representations of Cuthbert Lumley and Luke Ramsden respectively.

FARNWORTH.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. Morton Powell.—This week we are having a visit from Mr. Ian Maclaren's company in The Prince of Rogues. Mr. Alec W. Wynne as Frank Farrell gives a capital all-round performance; as Geoffrey Flint Mr. George Rammell is responsible for an interesting representation; Mr. Sidney Fairbrother is responsible for a very effective performance as Hyram Harwood; and Mr. James Fox as Dick is all that can be desired; Miss Dorothy Riddell as Winnie Harwood acts the part naturally; as Rita Congreave Miss Georgina V. Thomas meets with approval; and Mr. Harry Talbot and Miss Chrissie Bickerstaffe are responsible for the humorous element as Buggins and Polly Dibbs.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Frank Bertram's company opened here on Monday with The Breed of the Treshams. Mr. Henry Belding gives an excellent rendering of Lieut. Reresby (the Rat); Mr. Oswald Lingard acts with dignity the rôle of Viscount Dorsington; Mr. Hamilton Deane is a particularly good Colonel the Hon. Clement Hungerford; Colonel Sir Henry Curwen is in the capable hands of Mr. George Traill; Mr. Charles T. Doe is an effective Colonel Bagshaw; and Mr. M. Wetherell is a satisfactory Captain Stanhope. Mr. Cecil Klein acquits himself well as Cornet Tresham; Miss Florence Tressilian as the Hon. Margaret Hungerford gives an extremely natural performance; Miss Kathleen Morgan makes the most of Mrs. Bagshaw; Miss Belle Donaldson is an excellent Helena; and the boy Batty has a good representative in Miss Celestine Bertram.

GATESHEAD.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company, under the direction of Mr. James Willard, is presenting here The Midnight Mail. Mr. George Harvard presents a striking portrait of Harry Steyne; Mr. Fred G. Evison's portrayal of Billy Brewer is a capital piece of work; Mr. Austin Mortimer gives a clever impersonation of Leonard Royal; and Mr. C. P. Wentworth's portrayal of Hassan Padisha is excellent. Mr. Dobell Lyle as Donald Craig, and Mr. Harry Emerson as Jasper Thornleigh, are successful in small parts. Miss Grace Lester's assumption of the rôle of Mary Steyne leaves nothing to be desired; Miss Hilda Merrilese makes a graceful Lady Phyllis; and Miss Mildred Carr is well placed as Nancy Brewer.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—Miss Ada Colley, who heads the bill here, sings with her usual brilliance; Harry Tate's company, in Motoring, makes the house rock with laughter; Valazzi goes through a clever juggling performance; and the singing of the Two Cavaliers is much appreciated. Pete and Juno, a couple of "blacks," are smart coon dancers; and Alix Lukos, actor-vocalist; Clive Watts, comedian; Nancy St. John, comedienne; and the King's Bioscope make up an excellent bill.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Carl Lynn scores heavily with his animal mimicry; Miss Grace E. Leslie and company are producing a dramatic episode, which is well acted. Also appearing are Brown and Nixon, eccentric comedians, Volp and Volp, in a refined musical act; Cecilia Maude, descriptive vocalist; Belrose and De Velin, operatic duettists; Tom Colling, comedian; Carl Cavalli, ventriloquist; and Beattie Kent, comedienne. Downey's living pictures conclude the entertainment.

GLASGOW.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—This week the management here present Messrs. Arthur Shirley and Ben Landeck's new romantic drama A Queen Without a Crown. The piece made a very favourable impression on Monday, the audience being quick to recognise the undoubted merits of the play itself, and also to show a warm appreciation of the excellence of the acting and mounting. For the part of Theresa Maria Miss Geraldine Olliffe possesses the needful dramatic intensity and force; while in the contrasting character of Countess Mercedes Miss Ruth Mackay acts with a pleasing grace and tenderness; as the young King of Balkaria Miss Helen Grenville gives another of her charming boy studies; the Ilga Branski of Miss Emma Rainbow, and the Duchess of Rudina of Miss Kate Kearney are carefully played parts; Mr. Eric Hudson gives weight and distinction to the part of General Dominica; an admirable type of character is seen in the Captain Michael Granius of Mr. T. Holding; another very pleasant effort being the Dr. Daly of Mr. Wellesley Smith; Mr. S. Creagh Henry plays Colonel Marcoss with strong effect; the Dr. Petrofski of Mr. Wallace Stranack is good; Messrs. Thomas Barry and H. C. Pritchard look and act well as officers of the Court; the incidental characters of Carolly (Mr. Owen Williams), Bertina (Mr. Fred Herrick), and Vasco (Mr. Maurice Drew) are all well filled.

ROYALTY. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. N. Downie.—Mrs. Russ Whytal is here on a return visit with Tom Taylor's Lady Clancarty, in which Mrs. Whytal acts the title-rôle with power, gracefulness, and pathos. A charming part is that of Lady Betty Noel, performed with great spirit by Miss Mabel Knowles; Mr. Claude King gives an excellent rendering of the hero Earl Clancarty; while the treachery of Scum Goodman is suitably expressed by Mr. J. J. Bartlett. Mr. Edward Beecher as Lord Charles Spencer gives a graphic picture of the heroine's unbending brother; some comedy is supplied by Miss Ada Marius as Mother Hunt, ably assisted by Mr. C. A. White, who doubles the parts of Robert Hunt, a tavern landlord, and Clink, a turnkey; Mr. Charles Combe makes a dignified King William III.; while Mr. Leslie Palmer as his confidant, and Mr. Arthur Hardy as his secretary, give entire satisfaction. Mrs. Russ Whytal gave a matinée performance on Wednesday, the proceeds to be devoted to the relief of sufferers by the San Francisco disaster, several artists from other theatres and music halls assisting.

GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Mascard.—The management here have this week organised a special production of that hardy annual of the British stage, East Lynne. Miss Rosamond Mayne Young is specially well suited as the erring wife, Lady Isabel, and gives a strikingly pathetic rendering; Mr. G. Beresford Innes is also good as Archibald Carlyle; Francis Levison is acted with incisive force by Mr. Edward Sorley; Miss Lily Roselle gives a specially good account of the part of Barbara Hare; Little Rose Meredith is a touching figure as Willie Carlyle; and the good-hearted Cornelia is amusingly acted by Miss Anna Beaumont. Mr. Joseph Barker does well as Justice Hare, whose son Richard is ably impersonated by Mr. Max Copland. Mr. E. Bulwer Pitt is duly dignified as Lord Mountsevern; Mr. Montague Corri as Lawyer Dill, and Mr. Will Simpson as the Policeman, infuse the necessary spice of comedy into the play.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Much hearty laughter is heard here over the amusing situations in Public Opinion, Mr. R. C. Carton's clever farcical comedy, as presented by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Mr. George Giddens plays his original part of Horace Wibsey, and is responsible for most of the fun; Miss Lillian Hallows makes a charming and attractive Pansy Bligh, and acts throughout with keen appreciation of the humorous possibilities of the part; Miss Emma Hutchison as Lady Diana Caldershaw cleverly embodies the modern society lady with her aristocratic manners and her slangy style of speech; Mr. Templer Powell makes a brisk and energetic Lord Percy Gilgour; and his fiancée is attractively played by Miss Mary Mallalieu; Justice Mulley is amusingly acted by Mr. William Hargreaves; and Sir Babington is equally well played by Mr. George Mallett. The juvenile Viscount Pomfley is cleverly impersonated by Mr. Harold West; and the hot-tempered Spencer Traughton is acted on conventional lines by Mr. Ernest Ruston; Mr. Andrew Jones as Smeeton; and Mr. C. J. Barber as Jowers, give clever little studies; and Miss Ida Laurie makes a lively lady's maid, as Charlotte. A clever comedietta, The Stratagem, is given in front.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Mr. F. Marriott-Watson and company are here this week with the sensational drama, A False Wife. Miss Florence E. Florence gives an excellent account of herself in the character of Lady Mansfield; equally fitting representatives of their parts are also found in Messrs. George Langham, W. Howard Barlow, Elton Morgan, John Cecil, and Miss Ellen Armor. The scenery and setting are worthy of special mention.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Mr. Will White and company are doing good business here with The New World. The part of the hero, Jack Hawley, is admirably suited to Mr. Juan Di Alberte; and Miss Beatrice Moore acts with much earnestness as Jenny Williams; Mr. Will White displays sound ability as Col. Bijah Clayton; Mr. W. S. Stevenson gives due effect to the villainy of Jim Rawlings; and Mr. William H. Burton gives a good representation of Jose Alvarez. The Mary Walton of Miss Evelyn Robson is a careful and well-acted study; Mr. Willie Hicks as Pete keeps the house in good humour; Mr. Duncan Bell as Brutus Brown; and Mr. Stapleton Roche as Sam Smart make the most of their opportunities. Samantha is portrayed by Miss Maude Leslie in amusing style.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Mr. John Power's company in Man's Enemy, which was at the Princess's last week, is now appearing before Govan playgoers, and meeting with a good reception. The leading parts are in the hands of Mr. Norman A. Overton, Mr. John Power, and Miss Daisy Halling, and an excellent performance is given of this clever play.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Limited; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Mussett.—An attractive programme is submitted here this week, the chief item being presented by Mr. John L. Shine and company in the amusing sketch, entitled Hogmanay. The Egbert Brothers, the happy dustmen, evoke roars of laughter; and Rich and Rich excel in funny patter and songs; while the turn submitted by Miss Ella Shields is far above the average; Roze and Calvert are well received; while the efforts of Ernie Mayne, the Simple One, are much appreciated. The other members of the company include Dean Bros., comedians and expert dancers; Denton and Rowland's Punch and Judy Girls; Elsie Robey, The Slavey's At Home; and the American Bioscope.

ZOO HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—A lively comedy sketch is given here by Joe Elvin's company in 'Appy 'Ampstead. The scene, representing the Heath on a Bank Holiday, is realistically carried out, with crowds of accessories, and Mr. Maitland Marler is well suited as Tommy Flipper. Terry and Lambert are paying an early return visit here, and their comedy turn is proving most enjoyable and popular; Alf Chester is a clever comedian, and his ditty, "I wonder if the sergeant knows," goes well; Burg, Haud, and Wise give their clever and amusing knockabout sketch, Outside ye Olde Dunne Cow; the Sisters Terry are great favourites, and come provided with smart songs; the Edgar Forrest combination in a smart sketch; Reilly and Taylor, dialect comedians; Harry Taylor, vocalist; and Biograph pictures of the great wrestling match between Hackenschmidt and Madrali complete a varied programme.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—George Bastow heads a good bill here, and comes provided with some clever songs and impersonations; August and Hartley give a wonderfully smart barrel-jumping turn; Edeson is a versatile comedian; Curtis and Vanity give an enjoyable comedy turn, the dancing of the lady being specially smart; James Willard and company appear in a novel and well-acted sketch, entitled Did He Deserve It; the acrobatic dancing of Lily Flexmore is heartily applauded; Musical Silvo's turn is a welcome one; and the dancing of the Broadway Girls is also a special feature of the evening's entertainment.

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, B. C. MacLachlan.—La Berat, described as the Mystic Fire Maiden, goes through a series of pretty dances beautifully illuminated by the electric light; Dainez Comedy Circus is once more a pleasing interlude; and the Gotham Comedy Quartette are well received. Lee and Kingston in an amusing comedy turn, are deservedly recalled; capital vocal and instrumental music is given by Blanche and Powell, society entertainers; the Ten Genis are a troupe of excellent risley performers; American songs and dances by Hays and Suits are applauded; and Booker and Narbis, in a duologue act, The Interviewer, have had a good reception.

PALACE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—An attractive programme includes Miss Carlotta Levy, whose latest songs, given in her usual clever style, are loudly applauded; Kelly and Gillette, in "Fun on a Billiard Table," are great favourites; Jack Hylton is popular with his funny songs; and in a song reminiscent of famous music-hall artists, Will Letters makes quite a hit. Queenie May, serio; and Sable Fern merit the favour of the house. "The Vocal Chameleon" is the title of Miss Frances Haskoll's electric illusory novelty. The scenic effects are good, and she sings with pleasing effect. The Wolkowsky Troupe, with their native Russian singing, instrumental playing, and whirlwind dancing, bring down the house. The Palacescope closed the performance with a series of new pictures.

GLOSSOP.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Mr. John Gerant and company are here with the drama At Duty's Call. Mr. Gerant as the unscrupulous Harold Allison gives a clever portrayal; Mr. Leonard Williams as Capt. George Allison is good; and Mr. Ernest St. John is particularly successful as General Gordon. Mr. Eric V. Rees as Hassan, and Mr. Ivan Mavis as Joey Trot, are excellent; Miss Edith Knight does justice to the rôle of Dora Drummond; Miss Georgina Hamilton acts with intensity the part of Salema. The humor of the play is in the capable hands of Mr. Harry Ugar (Terry O'Halloran), Mr. F. R. Gwyn Richardson (Jack Spencer) and Miss Harlington (Mary).

GLOUCESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. Rea.—Miss Marie Menzies and company in the drama, A Rogue's Daughter, are the attraction here this week. Mr. F. V. Fenn makes a favourable impression as Frank Tyler; Mr. Roy Gordon plays in excellent style the part of Sir George Mynard; Colonel Foster is ably undertaken by Mr. Richard Ferris, Isaac Isaacs being adequately represented by Mr. William Pimm. Miss Marie Menzies is responsible for a clever portrait of Lady Mynard, and Letty Grey is capably portrayed by Miss Madge Devereux. Mr. Tom Taylor proves a good comedian as Ebenezer Dunnem, and a screamingly funny burlesque on the strong man business is given by Mr. A. Hall Menzies, who poses as John Gibbs (Ercules). Miss Marie Robertson is smart as Priscilla Jenkins; Miss K. Raile as the voluble Mrs. Jenkins is successful; as is Miss Violet Leader as Dicky, a waif.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer and company are paying a return visit this week, presenting a fresh play each evening. On Monday, Mary Queen of Scots forms the programme, with Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer giving an excellent rendition of the hapless queen. The Earl of Leicester, Earl of Shrewsbury, and Lord Burleigh were capitally represented by Mr. Montague Lane, Mr. George Munroe, and Mr. Sydney Bland. Queen Elizabeth found a capable representative in Miss Katherine Herbert and Miss More Dunphe; Miss Ida A. Chapman and Miss Adelaide Cecil ably acted as nurse and attendant. On Tuesday East Lynne was played, Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer making a sympathetic Lady Isabel. On Wednesday Hamlet was given, and on Thursday, Sappho. For Friday, Nell Gwynn was billed, and for to-night Jane Shore.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Mr. J. A. Campbell has presented here this week his latest domestic drama, The Little Bread-Winner. He takes a prominent part in it himself, appearing as the Quaker, Lord Dorrington; and Miss Mary Fulton, who has been associated with him for some time, successfully portrays Margaret Daventry. As the unscrupulous secretary, Joseph Prior, Mr. Scott Leighton fulfils all requirements; whilst Charles Prior is amusingly represented by Mr. Allen Charles. Others who play important parts are Mr. David Gordon, as Richard Lawrence; and Miss Maude Buchanan, as Kate Cherry; whilst Miss Emmie Thomas and Miss Lissa Young give charming impersonations of the children, Meg and Bobby Trott, introducing pretty songs, dances, &c.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Albert Le Fre shows great versatility in his speciality, "That's What you See on the Halls"; plenty of comedy is provided by Stine and Evans, American artists, their divorce skit being very laughable. The fun is added to by Hall and Earle, smart eccentric acrobats; and also by the Mayvilles, whose living marionettes are cleverly manipulated. Lillie Soutter proves a special favourite, and scored a great success; Ronald Bayne and Evelyn Hope appear in an artistic dramatic episode, illustrative of a scene in the life of Napoleon; and others engaged are Ivy Gellard, comedienne; and E. W. Selman, comedian.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—A skilful and daring acrobatic performance is that given by the Ben Mahomed Troupe of Souasa Arabs. A capital display of strength is contributed by Strong and Mainze, who manipulated cannon balls with wonderful ease; whilst Mozetti also shows exceptional skill in juggling with weighty objects. The vocal turn of the Sisters Lytton is greatly enjoyed. Others who contribute to the programme are Clarice Netta, another pleasing vocalist; Charles Tempest, whose laughing song is popular; Maud Edwards, a lady ventriloquist; and Alf Bishop, comedian.

GUERNSEY.—ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robt. Perkins.—On the 27th ult. Merely Mary Ann was played here for the first time by Messrs. Bright and Maxwell's company. Miss Margaret Fairleigh was a charming Mary Ann; Mr. Rupert Lister's Lancelot was good; Mr. Collard scored as the Rev. Smedge; Mr. J. Cranstoun Neville proved highly successful as Peter; Miss R. Hazlewood (Mrs. Leadbatter), Miss P. Emeric (Rosie), were capable exponents.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—This week we are having a return visit of Mr. Edmund Tearle's powerful Shakespearean company. On Monday night Othello was staged, when Mr. Tearle gave a fine interpretation of the Moor. The Iago of Mr. Wilson Gunning was wonderfully realistic; as Brabantio, Mr. T. W. Benson was humorous, and greatly relieved the heavier passages of the play; Miss Esther Tearle assumed the rôle of Desdemona in a delightful manner that cannot be too highly commended. On Tuesday Hamlet was presented, Mr. Tearle appearing in the title-rôle. On Wednesday and Thursday The Three Musketeers was given. On Friday Julius Cæsar.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's company in The Traitor Prince is here this week, playing twice nightly to appreciative audiences. Mr. Montanni, as before, is responsible for the treacherous rôle of Prince Rao, and gives a finished portrayal of the part. Other characters in the play are capably sustained.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED. — Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Ed. Harrison.—A delightful programme is drawing good houses here. A turn of exceptional merit is provided by The Celtics, in a piquant musical episode, the instrumental portion of this being very artistically rendered; Mills and May are newcomers, but nevertheless they are listened to attentively; Bernard and Weston, Chas. Fanning, Albano Troupe, Sterling and Love, the Spanish Goldinis, and Janet Reynolds occupy prominent positions in the bill.

HANLEY. — ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company is paying a welcome visit in that charming comedy Dr. Wake's Patient. Miss Olive Terry in the title-rôle contributes a refined and artistic delineation of the character; Mr. Douglas Vigors has a capital presence, and plays the part of the doctor in a manner which is admirably intelligent and effective; Farmer Wake finds a worthy exponent in Mr. Alfred Wellesley, his interpretation of the bluff sentimental old man being a wonderful piece of character acting; Mr. Arthur Willoughby as the Earl St. Olbyn is well placed; as also is Miss Ina Pelly as the Countess. Mrs. Wake is characterised in a truly motherly manner by Miss Amy Fauchette, whose acting is of a high standard; Mr. Cecil Yapp as the Bishop of Selby is distinctly successful; Miss Bronson, in the capable hands of Miss Beatrice Webb, is cleverly portrayed.

GRAND, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—Mr. Geo. Leyton's company heads the bill in a musical fantasia, entitled The Phonograph Girl, which is both bright and entertaining. Mr. Arthur Sandoe makes the most of the part of Crookie Shanks; and the Lottie Stone troupe of dancers contribute largely towards the success of the entertainment. The Sisters Klos are seen in a wonderful gymnastic performance, which is much appreciated; Wee Mona, the gifted child singer and dancer, is heartily recalled for her clever contributions of singing and dancing; the New York Nippers sing well together, and provide an acceptable turn; the Two Neros, in their tumbling and bending exhibition, are well received; Hughes and Elliott are novel dancers of the rag-time order; and Little Zola is also highly successful. The pictures are, as usual, most interesting.

HARTLEPOOL. — EMPRESS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Everton and Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—The position honours in this week's bill are shared by the Three Prestons in a comedy sketch The Liftman's Rise, which is brimful of irresistible fun, and Josh Dixon, comedian, whose business is provocative of hearty laughter. The Harc Trio in a novel ladder act do some work that is intensely exciting; Cassie Walmer, the dusky comedy queen, is an old favourite; Kid Johnson and Maisie Pelham in a pot-pourri act successfully introduce some smart ball punching. A sand dance on hands is the speciality of Velma; an acceptable number is contributed by Clara Victor, character-vocalist, and some new pictures on the bioscope are also an attraction.

GRAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—Miss Madge Nelson and her No. 1 company are here in Rogues of the Turf, in which Mr. Preston appears successfully as Dudley Clifton. Miss Hilda Shirley gives a telling portrayal of Marion, and Nellie Flaxman has a pretty delineation at the hands of Miss Madge Nelson.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—An attraction of unusual strength is provided by Les Frasettis in violin, 'cello, harp, and xylophone selections. G. W. Hunter in song and dry story fairly convulses his hearers; a marvellous exhibition of acrobatic feats is presented by the Pichel Troupe; Frances Manners's fine appearance in "Good Old Days" gains for her a flattering reception; Happy Tom Parker is full of fun and frivolity; and others who add to the success of the programme are Harry Zetter (comedian), Davis and Davis in comedy act, Edna Latonne (comedienne), and Raymond's Bio-tableaux, with new and interesting pictures.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—A return visit is paid here this week by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow and company with Under Two Flags. Miss Molesworth gives a fine rendering of the character of the vivandière and Mr. Blow is suited to his rôle of the chivalrous Bertie Royellieu; Mr. Walter Rousby as Rake plays well in the comedy vein, and his singing is liked; he is ably seconded by Miss Nellie May, who, as Lavinia, wins success in song and dance. The revengeful Colonel Chanteroy is capably presented by Mr. Charles D. Pitt; and Miss Mabel Ormonde achieves success as the Princess Corona.

HIPPODROME. — Resident and General-Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams.—Mr. Charles Ashdown, eccentric, opens a good programme; a new speciality act is well performed by Raynor and Reece; Mr. Harry Wenburn is warmly welcomed; the new Hippodrome films are remarkably attractive; Miss Gertie Gitana introduces some pretty comedy; Miss Flo. Cecil, soubrette, achieves success; Mlle. Kloet illustrates picturesque poses; Woolmer Young is accorded a hearty reception; and a highly appreciated turn is given by Doody and Wright, the Australian comedy duo.

PIER PAVILION. — Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—A return visit is paid here this week by Mr. Thomas Sidney, supported by a good all-round company, and cordial interest is evinced in their presentment of The Marriage of Kitty. Miss Mary Thorne supplies a pleasing interpretation of Miss Silverton; Mr. Edgar Kent plays admirably as Sir Reginald Belsize; Miss Kathleen Russell displays exceptional ability as Madame de Semiano; and Rosalie has a good exponent in Miss Josephine Rae; and Mr. Thomas Sidney plays forcefully as John Travers; Mr. Charles Thorne as Hampton and Mr. Cronin Wilson as Norbury deserve special mention.

HORWICH.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessees, The Provincial Theatres Co.; General-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Bradley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben Hawke.—Monday night's programme here included contributions from Mr. Geo. B. Bohee, Royal banjoist and entertainer; Miss Kathleen Marie, American expert dancer; Menard, a musical marvel; Savindo, komedy konjurer; Mr. Robert Davison, ventriloquist; Mr. Joe Harwood, comedian; Mr. Alf B. Millard, humorist and mimic; and Mr. Harry Sutton, comedian. For Friday night the manager's annual benefit was announced.

HOYLAND.—METROPOLE.—Lessee and Manager Geo. S. King.—On Monday night a complimentary benefit performance was given to Mr. King, the manager here. Mr. Roy Colville displayed marked histrionic ability as Mathias, in the dream scene from The Sleigh Bells; De Ora, gymnast, gave an excellent exhibition on the trapeze and rings; Crookson, handcuff king, completely mystified the audience by his wonderful performance; Mr. Geo. S. King displayed his powers as an elocutionist; the cake-walk, by eight local children, was vociferously encored; Master Lloyd Ball, vocalist; H. Dickenson; Geo. Rollinson, bone soloist; Fred Audly, comedian; A. Gedney, vocalist; E. Williamson, cornet soloist, were all good. Mr. King eloquently thanked the artists, the theatre staff, and the orchestra, all of whom had given their services free, also expressing his acknowledgments to his many friends.

HUDDERSFIELD. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews.—The new drama, The Hindoo's Revenge, is here for the week. The hero, Captain Bruce Glenister (Mr. Cyril W. Mackay), goes through many vicissitudes, and disguises, in consequence of the villainy of his half-brother, Captain Stephen Glenister (Mr. Frank Ridley). There is a humorous Irish doctor, Murphy by name, played by Mr. Arthur Willerby, who is in love with Diana Strong (Miss Lilyan Lait), whose shooting with a revolver is disconcertingly accurate. Sylvia Glenister is the much-tried heroine (Miss Daisy Snowden), and the Hindoo and his sister are played by Mr. E. H. Dobell and Miss Ethyle Murray.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—At the head of the bill comes the Col de Losse duo of clever and humorous slack-wire comedians. Other turns are Harry Radford and Mlle. Valentine, jugglers, whose absurdities are highly diverting; Lillian and Vera, a couple of ladies, whose skill with the rifle is wonderful; Miss Molly Wolstenholme, a good singer of good songs; Mlle. Lydia and Albino, equilibrists; the Sisters Charnley, singers and dancers; Alec Thomas, negro comedian; and the Biograph.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Wm. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Charles Carey's company in the new and successful musical comedy After the Ball is here this week. Mr. Victor Widdicombe has a congenial part as Colonel Menit, and is responsible for much hearty laughter; Mr. Walter Ringham ably sustains the rôle of Halliwell Menit; Mr. Norman Bowyer plays admirably as Dick Seymour; and Mr. Buckstone Clair, who is also responsible for the lyrics, gives an excellent performance as Martin. Miss Nellie Groves is an effective vocalist, and acts in a charming manner as Nellie Mather; Miss May Florance plays in capital style as Ruth Gay; whilst Miss Nellie James makes a neat and dainty Kitty. One of the chief features of the piece, however, is the grotesque character-sketch of Nancy submitted by Miss Florence Smithers, whose humorous songs are repeatedly encored.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Mr. John Hart is to be congratulated upon the elaborate manner in which his revival of the popular comic opera San Toy has been staged and produced, and upon the general excellence of the company he has succeeded in bringing together. Mr. Frank Danby achieves a distinct triumph in his humorous portrayal of Li, and his topical songs meet with well-deserved applause; Mr. John Humphries is also successful as Yen How; and Mr. Dennis Drew does himself credit in the rôle of Captain Bobby Preston; Mr. W. J. Manning gives a characteristic rendering of Sir Bingo; and Mr. Alfred Clark makes a capital Emperor; Mr. Jocelyn Hope as Sing Hi, Mr. Frederick Hobbs as Fo Hop, and Mr. George Taylor as Lieut. Tucker are all capable exponents of their respective parts. Miss Fanny Dango is bright and vivacious as the wayward San Toy; Miss Louie Collier sings and dances well as Chu Sun; and Miss Maud Darling is equally successful as the maid Dudley; Miss Rhoda Gordon is a pleasing Poppy, whilst a pas suel by Miss May Gould is much appreciated.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, Morton's, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. George Morton.—The interesting romantic drama For Better or Worse, presented by Mr. Fred Granville's company, is proving a successful attraction at this popular house. Mr. George E. Clive depicts Captain Hilliard with much energy and makes a commendable hero; Mr. Wilson Coleman gives an effective representation of Major Crawshaw; Mr. H. C. Lovell proves an excellent Lieut. Hector Dalrymple; Mr. Willie Black as Horatio P. Ranter is responsible for a great deal of fun; and Mr. Carthage Caldcleugh as Ned Earnshaw is also good. Miss Chrissie Dunbar as Olive Heathcote, the heroine, elicits the admiration of the audience; and Miss Amy Vennimore shows ability as Belle Baderstock; Miss Annie Lovell as Dollie Delaney and Miss Eva Reed as Melinda are also worthy of praise.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Mr. C. E. Parlato and his vaudeville company are paying a fortnight's visit here, and submit a varied and enjoyable programme. Mr. Parlato's contribution as facialist and impersonator is exceedingly clever and much applauded. He is well supported by Miss J. Thorne, comedienne; Miss Ethel Barrs, cornet soloist; Mr. Walter Howard, comedian and "Musical Don"; and Mr. Will Bradford, eccentric comedian; whilst Parker's performing dogs, donkey, and goat provide an interesting turn. Some up-to-date pictures are shown on the Parlograph.

THE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Jno. S. Barnett.—Fred Storey and company head the bill in a weird sketch; Walter Munroe makes a welcome return visit; Bernar's fantachoes are an interesting contribution to the programme; Gladys Mavius sings and dances with much effect; the Four Olympians are a smart turn, and the Mariano Sisters on the breakaway trapeze perform a startling act. Other turns include the Dumond Minstrels, Max Yorke's dogs, and Jack Theo Trio.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham.—John Fay and company, old pantomime favourites, make a big hit in their sketches; W. J. Churchill is a good second in popularity; Will Souls, the eccentric laughing comedian, makes a welcome return. Other favourites include Ada Twibell, Ted Young, the Three Seabournes, and Nellie Merton and George Rydon.

THE CIRCUS.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—Aerian and Ostara on the flying trapeze and Permane's performing bears are the two leading items here. Mlle. Onra appears in a smart wire act; the rich baritone voice of Miss Clarence Raynor is much admired; an equestrian act by Mr. George is well worked; T. Anderson also appears in an equestrian act, as also does Miss Amelia. Among the clowns Little Valdo renders a good account of himself. The Maros appear in a triple bar act.

HYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole L

well-acted brutalities; Mr. C. W. Charles wins approval as Col. Stockton; and the comic element is successfully supplied by Mr. Dan Ryan as Garry Cullen, and Mr. W. H. Killey as Billy.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. R. Taylor.—For the fifth time this season pantomime is occupying the boards here, Messrs. Levaine and Clayton's company appearing this week in The Babes in the Wood. Miss Jessie Lindsay makes a dashing Robin Hood, singing several popular songs in a creditable manner. The character of Robin's faithful sweetheart Maid Marian is ably sustained by Miss Lizzie Levaine. Mr. Fred Fosco and Mr. David Anderson as Weary Willie and Tired Tim are particularly good. Berlinda, the nurse, has an admirable representative in Mr. W. Valmore, and Mr. Harry Sully scores as the Baron. The parts of the Babes are cleverly enacted by Little Lily Belle and Wee Madge Bingham. The specialities include an interesting turn by Mr. Percy Victor's clever dog orchestra; and the other turns introduced are the Valmores, the Ruby Quartette of dancers, and Mr. Fosco in an eccentric musical act.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart.—The Leeds Amateurs are making their annual effort on behalf of the charities with Merrie England.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—All the best features are retained in the condensed version of The Prodigal Son, the interesting drama which is being done twice nightly at the Royal. The name-part is a virile performance by Mr. Ellerslie Pyne, whilst the accomplished rogue Ralph Marsden has an effective exponent in Mr. John Bryce. Mr. W. A. Buckstone presents the part of Harry Fanshaw with strength and power. Some welcome comic relief is infused into the piece by Mr. J. S. Chamberlain and Miss Rosie Kearns. Mr. Ambrose Horton, Miss Marion Forrester, Miss Nora Bedford, and Miss Nellie Hook have also a hand in the success achieved.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—An interesting drama, The Golden Ladder, which claims the late Wilson Barrett as part author, is the attraction here for theatre-goers this week, and Miss Mary Austin and E. Vivian-Edmond's company presents the work in good style. Frank Thornhill, a young missionary, is admirably played by Mr. John Clyde; as the unscrupulous adventurer Mr. Graham Winsford is effective, and Mr. J. Milne Taylor also creates a good impression as the rascally cashier, Michael Severn. The heroine, Lillian Grant, is a charming and sympathetic effort by Miss Eva Moss; Miss Kate Haslewood enacts a trying rôle with good success. The comedy element is well looked after by Mr. Joseph Rowlands and Miss Nellie Graham, whilst Mr. T. Lionel Ellis, Mr. Harry Belford, and Miss Teresa Haynes are other prominent members of a capable company.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—The new farcical concoction, Moving In, by Herbert Darnley's company, is a big item in the week's bill. An accomplished coloured pair, Johnson and Dean, are very entertaining in smart song and dance; the refined musical act presented by Florence and Lillian has been most successful; Spry and Monti are old favourites, and with vocal and comedy sketch obtain generous appreciation; an expert and novel juggling act by Mdlle. Olive is very interesting, as also are the evolutions of Celeste, an expert on the slack wire. La Tostia introduces a musical and speciality dancing act; Belle Braham submits new items, and Harding and Ah-Sid, eccentrics, contribute largely to the gaiety of their audience.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; General Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Herbert Lloyd is provocative of uproarious mirth with his eccentric comedy act. Among the comedians, Dan Thomas and J. B. Fayme provide a plenitude of amusement. The Sisters Poole, with novel specialty act, prove a popular turn; a clever vocal and dancing act by the Eight Lancashire Lads is high in popular favour; the mystifying Lind? again arouses the liveliest interest, and capital entertainment is also subscribed by the Vernon troupe of acrobats and Ada Fawn, the popular comedienne.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—The popular actor-vocalist, George D'Albert, is once again heading the bill here; Little Ganty is amusing with eccentric comedy business; the Gregsons have a mirthful sketch, which is much enjoyed; Florence Yaymen burlesques coon business in entertaining style, and Fred Hallam, comedian; Madge May, comedienne; Mori Mura, in a mystifying Eastern illusion, have many admirers.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—The Catch of the Season is being presented here for the first time in first-rate style by Mr. Charles Frohman's principal company. Miss Maie Ash gives a delightfully vivacious and refreshing impersonation of Angela; Mr. Frank Lincoln as the Duke of St. Jermyn's is to be highly complimented on an exceptionally clever and versatile portrayal; Mr. E. H. Kelly is very good as Lord Dundreary, and Master Grata as Bucket scores a popular success. Miss Ida Mann is excellent as Lady Crystal; Miss Belle Napier, as Lady Caterham, plays with distinction; Miss Hilda Stewart makes a good impression as the Duchess of St. Jermyn's, and Miss Hettie Muret and Miss Alice Lethbridge as the Hon. Misses Bedford are well placed. Miss Lethbridge repeats her big success as a dainty dancer. Both Mr. Julian Cross as Sir John Crystal and Mr. Alfred Lloyd as William Gibson are to be praised for capital impersonations.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—Mr. Geoffrey Fulton's principal company, presenting the modern drama The Poor Must Live, provides the attraction here this week. Mr. Charles O'Connor makes a good impression as the Earl of Marswood; Mr. Harold C. Macartney is excellent as Donald, Mr. Geoffrey Fulton plays with ability as Clifton Manville, Mr. Shaun Glenville is mirth-provoking as Hooker Holdsnitch, Mr. Herbert Clifton scores a success as Dick Sully; Mr. Arthur Trail is amusing as Sam Sully, Miss Olive Fulton displays histrionic ability as Olga D'Eyncourt. Miss Violet Hammersleigh as the Earl's ward, Dorothy Murdock, is good, Miss Marguerite Thorne does well as Sal Darling, and as Moya Darling Miss Alice Buckland is commendable.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews.—The premier attraction this week is the new and original musical comedy sketch, Missing; or, The Light of Day, presented by Mr. Johnnie Schofield and Mr. J. C. Piddock and Co., which well deserves the hearty appreciation bestowed. Mr. Johnnie Schofield keeps the audience in a continual roar of laughter as Crooky, and Mr. J. C. Piddock, as Jack Carlyn, has a part which allows for the full display of his versatile talents. Miss Marie Adair as Lily Bardsley is very good, and Miss Pearl Keats dances cleverly as Irma. Miss Josephine Sabel, the American eccentric, is paying a first visit, and captivates the house with a turn which is full of cleverness and "go." Alma, Abdullah, and La Superbe are presenting their charming electrical display, Electra's Bower, which delights all sections of the audience. Geoffreys and Benson are scoring a well deserved success with their well-acted and extremely funny little comedy, entitled Spoofed. The Maningos are wonderfully smart equilibrists. The Violas, the well-known white Mahatmas, bewilder the house with their smart second sight act. Unthan, the armless wonder, is accorded a good reception; the Clarke's are responsible for a brilliant and enjoyable performance on the banjos, and both Miss Ethel Ra Leslie and Miss Madge Carlyle render their songs in a style which elicits hearty appreciation.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—At the head of this week's programme is Sid Cotterell and Co., who are on a return visit with the comedy sketch The Substitute, which keeps the audience in one continual roar of laughter; Drum and Major, the comedy couple, create much amusement with a clever turn; Nash and Noel are mirth-provoking comedians and smart dancers; Dobito and Burton, costume duettists, sing extremely well; Lola Patey is a dainty comedienne; Ray Royal, chorus vocalist, is scoring a success; Lade Henderson is an excellent character vocalist, and Walter H. Pallister's American Bioscope is also an attraction.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Dewhurst. This week the boards here are occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Maclaren's company in the romantic play, Proof. Mr. Gerald Kennedy gives a manly impersonation of Pierre Lorance, Mr. William Dexter submits a good representation of the scoundrel Lazare; the Duke d'Aubeterre is well embodied by Mr. St. Vincent Beechey, Mr. G. Garney-Vane is a dignified Victor de Laugney, Miss May Grimshaw displays ability and grace as Valentine, Miss Lucy Prittie-Tydd carefully delineates the part of Adrienne. Miss Dorothy White is a charming Duchess d'Aubeterre, and Miss Phena White, as Madame Deprets, is all that could be desired.

LEITH. — NEW GAIETY THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—The Rich and Poor of London is being played here by Mr. Sidney Dench's powerful No. 1 company. The difficult but interesting part of Spider Jack is taken by Mr. Dench, who, both musically and histrionically, is a host in himself; Miss Dora Dench appears as May Braithwaite, the hospital nurse, of which part she gives a highly-pleasing account; a word of praise, too, should be given to Master Bert Dench's Dixie, the singing street-waif; Miss Emily Woodleigh as a baby-farmer, Miss Lilly Artis as a flower-girl, and the Misses Lillian Burns, Brown, Mary Mignon, and Ethel Denville fill other rôles with much acceptance; while out of a large cast of gentlemen, mention may be made of Messrs. F. Danver, Walter Foster, Robert Hall, Arthur Hartley, C. Haxeltine, Malcome Gascoigne, Jack Sydney, and Fred Allen.

LIMERICK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. Robert Fogerty.—We have the Irish Animated Picture company with us this week, and the audiences nightly are large and enthusiastic. In addition to the beautiful scenic effects produced by the electric Bioscope, Miss Hilda Mooney plays some delightful selections on the violin, and Mr. Frank Goggin sings appropriate verses, which are well illustrated. Mr. Chapman is the popular guide.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—Nowhere in the provinces is Mr. Martin Harvey more popular and welcome than in the city on the Mersey, and this week especially his visit has been looked forward to with keen interest, by reason of the fact that his new comedy The Rapparee Trooper was promised for presentation. The play first saw the light in Newcastle last week, when the above title was, at the eleventh hour, altered to Boy O'Carroll; or, The Rapparee Trooper, under which designation it was submitted to Liverpool for approval. The bookings for the whole of the week were heavy, and crowded and enthusiastic audiences assembled to accord the popular actor and his powerful company a hearty greeting. In fact, on each evening the curtain had to be raised several times, so continuous was the applause. As for the acting and scenic beauties of Mr. Harvey's latest venture, there was nothing but unrestrained praise. Mr. Harvey acquitted himself well as the rollicking Irish trooper who unconsciously landed himself into serious scrapes; Miss De Silva, as his companion, in the character of Paudheen, was very funny, putting plenty of life and spirit into her work; that delightful actress, Miss Kate Rorke, showed all her high accomplishments to the full as Lady Honoria; Mr. C. J. Cameron ably filled the part of Major Yarrington; a well-drawn figure was that of Captain Hebblethwaite by Mr. Thalberg Corbett; Miss Maud Rivers played with a charming simplicity the character of the Puritan niece, Lettice; Miss Bessie Elder created much amusement as Tabitha; and Miss Grace Hampton gave satisfaction as Win-the-fight-Bubb. On Monday the favourite, Cigarette Maker's Romance was staged, and on Friday and Saturday, The Breed of the Treshams.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Lessees, the Shakespeare Theatre Co., Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Well-merited and satisfactory success is following the production of Peter Pan, now in the second of its three-weeks run. On all hands the highest praise is bestowed upon Barrie's artistic work, and hopes are freely expressed that the venture of such a long engagement may give the enterprising Shakespeare management no financial cause for regret.

ROTUNDA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—The favourite north-end house has this week submitted an attractive drama named Life's Sweetest Sins to its patrons. The work is replete with dramatic interest, and the introduction of the submarine boat in the third act is a striking feature. Mr. T. Arthur Jones, who heads the company, plays the part of Captain Harold Marston with credit; Miss Marie Daventry as Doreen Rivers, the heiress and orphan, worthily earns a large measure of the applause; Mr. Oswald Douglas makes an admirable Dr. Colbrooke, playing the villain to the life, as his daughter Fay, Miss Mary Ainslie acquits herself with satisfaction; the work of Mr. Charles Sewell, in the rôle of Ernie Wodstone, is particularly able, and Mr. Clem Horlock makes a rascally Rev. Edward Grey. The play is well staged, and the scenery very appropriate.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—The bill here this week is headed by Chanti, whose novel act is greatly enjoyed; Billy Williams is always well received here; Madie Scott sings some pretty songs; Craig, Rose, and Craig are clever gymnasts; Ray and Mills create considerable amusement with their juggling; as do Fyne and Hurley with their boxing; Lugio Sextett Serenaders are delightful singers; other artists who assist are Clive and Clark; and Nellie Randall.

STAR THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The evergreen East Lynne (Bullock version) has met with acceptance here this week, Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's all-round able company presenting it. Mr. Alfred Beaumont did every justice to the character of Archibald Carlyle; Miss Julie Kennard exercised much judgment as Lady Isabel, displaying a high degree of talent; the Francis Levison, submitted by Mr. Eric Mayne, reflected every credit upon that artist; a well-filled part was that of Justice Hare by Mr. C. C. Gratton; the son Richard was in the good hands of Mr. Campbell Goldsmid; much humour resulted from Mr. Alfred Tate's policeman; and Miss Dorothy Townrow made a sweet little Willie; Barbara Hare was well enacted by Miss Violet Thorold; and Mr. Spencer Goodwin found acceptance as Lord Mountsevern.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur. That excellent drama The Heart of a Hero, from the pen of Mr. Lingford Carson, has been drawing big crowds here during the week. Mr. Carson's No. 1 company presented it, and the scenery and effects were most admirable. Displaying dramatic ability of a high order, Mr. Charles Draycott made Jem Resdale particularly striking, earning rounds of applause; Miss Adelaide Clare was sweetly sympathetic as Nell, the erring woman; Mr. Fred L. Arthur, an actor of considerable merit, handled the rôle of Dave Prichard, the detective, most commendably; Mr. Ernest J. Fare was an unscrupulous Wilfred Marl; the Jack Collinson of Mr. Harry Wren proved eminently satisfactory; while Mr. Arthur Byron, as Timothy Heighno; and Miss Daisy Norman in the rôle of Susie Slack, caused much laughter.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—Heading the long programme here this week are the Svengalis, whose mystifying entertainment of mimicry and music has been keenly appreciated; Randall's Middies and Maids concert party proved an enjoyable turn; the songs of Julie Mackay were delightful; continuous laughter followed the patter of Chris. Richards; a pleasing mimic was Ray Wallace, to whom a hearty reception was given; Jake Friedman raised much laughter; Billy Maclain's Coloured Sextette sang several charming numbers; Baker and Lynn had a funny playlet; the imitations of street singing by Grace Merton were richly enjoyed; and others in the list were Alice Maple, comedienne; and the Sisters Morgan, duettists and dancers.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The Four Harveys head the bill here this week with their exceptionally clever work on the wire, the "cake-walk" being loudly applauded; Billy Howard and Kathryn Harris present a laughable trifle, The Adventures of a Happy Tramp; some charming singing from opera, melody, and comedy is provided by the King's College Boys; in their musical act the Four Jumels acquit themselves with every credit; Lillian as a trick cyclist earns a cordial reception; dainty singing and dancing comes from the Three Sisters May; Grace Langley is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; a most laughable sketch, The Lady in Red, is provided by Tom Craven, Stephen Adeson and company; and others in the list are Gus Hindell, comedian; and the Akimotos, Japanese Troupe of acrobats, who are remarkably agile and daring.

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—Great laughter has been raised here during the week with the farce The Would-be Actors, presented by E. Carter Livesey and company, including Miss Lilian Rosebery; Edward Ind, a popular comedian, has done well with his latest successes, including "I don't want any honey, girl"; Will Sanders and Amy Vincent have a smart comedy act, including acrobatic dancing; Alice Brokland sings several songs very sweetly; and others who appear are Nora Hildon, vocalist and dancer; and Harry Grant, comedian and dancer.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Royal Stock company is this week producing the nine-tableaux sketch What Women Suffer. Mr. Percy Boucher is the Obadiah Shakespeare; Mr. Harry Tresham efficiently fills the rôles of Wilfred and John Coventry; Mr. Cecil Ravenswood is the Squire Norton; Miss Lina Nazeby makes a capital Edith Coventry; and other strong supporters are Mr. Herbert Cecil as Herbert Standish; Mr. E. D. Allen as John Meredith; and Miss Beryl Ravenswood in the rôle of Nance Meredith.

PADDINGTON PALACE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The dramatic sketch A Country Cousin has provoked much amusement; J. H. Wakefield, jun., is a dancer of much merit; some smart conjuring comes from Godfrey; Bertha Collins sings agreeably, as does Cissy Dixon; and Stan Audley proves funny as a comedian, and dances well. The Bioscope projects many new and interesting pictures.

PARK PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Foremost here this week is Juno Salmo, the Golden Mephisto, whose novelty turn is particularly bright; the Kimberley Boys show themselves to be clever comedians; some excellent juggling is performed by Hurman; Harley and Harden are smart comedians and knockabouts; as a clog and big boot dancer Bertha Winder is above the average; James Newery has some good points as a comedian and mimic; and Adlenie Yhole, comedienne, also appears.

HAYMARKET.—Leesee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—At the top of the bill here this week are Stewart and Morgan, with their scena, Leaving Ireland; the Bensley Evans sketch company have a laughable trifle, Sally's Dilemma; Little Rennie is a child comedienne with some ability; Miss Fredrica's trained terriers, and Dot, the cake-walk pony, go through an interesting exhibition; and the Sisters Graham are accomplished duettists and dancers.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—The Rickards, three smart comedy acrobats, are here this week delighting everybody; Percy Farrimond, the original Lancashire singing collier, is well received for his several excellent songs; as a comedian Mr. Frank Coyle is an acceptable turn; some smart juggling comes from Prima Vesi; the Stanleys present an interesting speciality; and the programme also contains the names of Will Daniels, comedian; and Dulcie Milner, vocalist.

OLYMPIA.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—The principal item here this week is the popular Fighting Parson, presented by George Gray and Co., which has proved a good attraction; Alexandra Dagmar, with her latest successes, has been cordially welcomed; a funny and somewhat unique show was that provided by Clown Barker's dogs; Moran and Mareece submitted a clever musical transformation act; some excerpts from the opera The Lily of Killarney were given with pleasing result by Edward Arthur and company; the Haydas had a smart turn of comedy, acrobatics, and tumbling; Lilian Elfrida gave an interesting display of mimicry; and Chris. Richards, an able comedian, deputised in place of Arthur Gill.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E Graham Falcon; Business-Manager, Mr. Louis J Beard.—Mr. John Leopold's company is occupying the boards here this week, with the farcical comedy, The New Frivolity. The specialities in Act II. introduced by Miss Amy Hall and Mr. John Leopold jun, are well received, and the quartette of lady dancers are to be commended.

MAIDSTONE. — HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. H. Watson.—Harry Tate's Fishing scena is causing hearty laughter here. Lloyd Morgan, a clever actor vocalist, has some well-written and well-sung songs; Rita and Roma, dnetists, on a return visit, are well received; Allsopp and Bekwith, in a comedy duologue, are popular; and others appearing are the Sisters Macgovan, whirlwind dancers; Zarinelli, contortionist; Bella Bashall, comedienne; and the Hippodrome pictures.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—A big reception was accorded to Mr. Forbes Robertson and Miss Gertrude Elliott on their appearance here on Monday in Mice and Men, of which a most enjoyable performance was given by the entire company. Mr. Forbes Robertson played naturally and with fine reserve as Mark Embury, and a delightful and convincing rendering of Peggy was given by Miss Gertrude Elliott. Mr. Vernon Steele was excellent as Captain Lovell, Mr. Charles Weir was well placed as Roger Goodlake, Miss Auriol Lee presented an agreeable Joanna, and particularly successful was Miss Keith Lytton as Mrs. Deborah, the housekeeper. In minor parts Miss Dorothy Paget, Miss Minnie Griffin, Mr. J. H. Beaumont, Mr. J. H. Ryley, Mr. Robson Paige, and Mr. William Pilling were entirely satisfactory. An equally successful performance of Mrs. Grundy was given on Wednesday evening, and the week's bill includes also The Light that Failed, for Saturday matinee and evening. At the fall of the curtain on Monday a tremendous call for the principals was made, but Mr. Forbes Robertson resisted the demand for a speech PRINCE'S THEATRE, LTD. — Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—A nice comic opera, The Girls from Utah, was presented here on Monday by a company, under the direction of Mr. Walter McEwen. This piece contains little that is original in the way of its characters, but the matrimonial business is productive of much enjoyable fun. Comedy and vocalism are its chief attractions, and at the head of the laughter-makers is that excellent comedian, Mr. Fred Easturan, who gives a capital depiction of Brewgood, publican and matrimonial agent; while Mr. W. H. Powell, a comedian of distinct gifts, makes a good deal of the part of the amorous French greengrocer, Alphonse de Beaucoup. Mr. Harrison Brockbank is commendably tuneful as Terence Rainford, and admirable singing is heard also from Miss Nora Brocklebank as Mildred. Miss Florence Farfrey is vigorous as Mrs. Bumble, Mr. Arthur Stigant does well as Sir Joseph Pickles, and some delightful dancing is contributed by Miss Kate Vesey as Suza. The music is light and cheerful, and the scenery pleasing.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Last week's attraction at the Grand Junction Theatre is here this week, namely, A Wife's Triumph, played by Mr. Ernest R. Abbott and company, including Miss Kathleen Stewart as the faithful wife.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A very funny item in this week's programme here is That Dreadful Detective, played by Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholl's company. Ben Harris and his Five Nippers in a speciality scena are also very entertaining, and capital business is added by Ada Marjutti, in a fine contortionist act; Marti and Julietta, pyramidical acrobats, and Billy Richardson, the well-known stump orator. Besides these, the Raynor Trio appear in a novel act, Burns and Bentley provide a good turn, J. C. Laurie presents a popular scena, with a local chorus, and Frank Whiteley, comedian and bone soloist, satisfactorily completes the bill.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Gus Flanagan.—Mr. Charles Clifford's company gave a very good performance here on Monday of his play On Circumstantial Evidence. The piece contains some strong parts, notable among which is that of Captain Hamilton, played powerfully by Mr. Charles Clifford; Mr. Wilson Brash gives a fine rendering of the heroic Jack Ogilvy, and Miss Jennie Wigney is equally successful as Violet, Jack's wife; while Miss Dot Stewart gives a clever depiction of Tim, a waif; Miss Hilda Hatton plays a dual rôle with skill, and humorous characters are well played by Mr. Newton Pearce and Miss Amy Stewart.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—This week we have here Mr. George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company in Her Luck in London. Miss Mary Neil has the central heroic part of Nellie Harborne, which she renders in fine style. Mr. Chas. A. Leicester has the corresponding rôle, Gerald O'Connor, in hand, and plays it extremely well. Great praise is due also to Mr. Stephen Crossley for a virile depiction of the rascally Lenowen; and ample fun is provided by Miss Florrie Groves and Mr. J. Tilly Dillsen, as a couple of farm hands, who are friendly to the heroine. Others who do well are Mr. Charles Digby as Algie, Mr. Douglas Tremayne as the curate, Mr. Tyrone Power as Farmer Harborne, Miss Frances Waring as Lilian, and Miss Ella Vane as Ruth. The dresses and staging are very pleasing, and the whole forms a capital entertainment.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey present here this week the Irish musical costume play The Wearin' o' the Green. Mr. Chalmers Mackey as Barney O'Hea, and Miss Nana Flensberg act their parts very naturally, and create roars of laughter by their quaint lovemaking, and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey gives a clever and convincing rendering of Norah M'Grath. Mr. Haughton Macauley appears as Michael Kenny. The songs and dances are well rendered and fully appreciated.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Pete Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—The top star here this week is G. H. Chirgwin, whose performance is, as usual, clever and well received. Alice Pierce, the American impressionist actress, makes a big success. Albert Whelan, the Australian entertainer, gives an exceedingly smart show, and other admirable turns are provided by the Bros. Ashley in an entertaining sketch. Edie Grey and her White Coons, pleasing vocalists; Ernie Myers, an amusing patter comedian; Lily Lonsdale, a refined ballad vocalist, and Dan Kennedy, a brisk comedian.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Managers, Messrs. H. Hall and H. Pryme.—A short but pleasing musical episode, Highwayman Hal, played by Lemprière Pringle and company, is the star item here this week. Prominent also are Manning's Entertainers, whose Hotel Boots sketch is a screaming success. Marie Collins, though suffering from a cold, is a spirited vocalist equipped with good songs; Fank Dunlop, comedian, gives a capital turn, in which he is highly successful in a variety of dialect renderings of a popular chorus; Mason and Bart give a comic and intrepid bar act; Jimmy Shields, the one-legged comedian, is quite successful in a couple of character songs; the Reed-Oetzmann Troupe give their comic sketch, On Tour in the Tyrol; Mora and Lola submit their musical act with success, and a clever ventriloquial turn is given by Lady Fauntleroy. The Bioscope pictures are more than usually sensational this week by the inclusion of the Hackenschmidt-Madrali event of Saturday last.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—The principal attractions here this week are Mendel, the wonderful blind pianist; Madge Temple, a charming and accomplished vocalist; and Marzella's Birds, a dainty and delightful performance. Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas also appear successfully in a merry musical trifle, Her Birthday, and other engaging turns are Watson's Dogs, all beautifully trained; Sinclair and Whiteford, in a comic sketch; Burt Shepard, a clever comedian in song and story; Robb Gilmore, comedian, and Tom Owen, the Welsh comedian. The choir add a glee, "The Message," and an illustrated song in the chorus. "Sing me to sleep"; while the Bioscope depicts the recent great wrestling match, and other striking pictures.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Annie Purcell, the refined soprano vocalist, late of musical comedy, is very well received here this week. Popular also is Joe Archer, the "peculiar chappie," in all his latest successes. Good turns are contributed by Ryder Stone, in his Burglar scena, Boy Glen (a smart comedian and patterer), Harry Morgan (coon delineator and dancer). Marie Elsie (a spirited comedienne), the Paulo Brothers (in an acrobatic comedy act), Maud Prenton (chic comedienne), and Florence Leonard (soprano vocalist).

KING'S LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—An excellent programme here this week is headed by that farcical absurdity, Spiff! Spaff! Spoof! presented in fine style by Mr. Walter Howard and company. Tom White's Arabs, including the famous "Pimple," provide a most enjoyable turn, and the Three Clements go through a daring act in a marvellously neat manner. Leo Trainor is a capital comedian with smart patter, Rosa Finlay is an exceptionally clever top-boot skipping rope dancer, Lilian Dorie is a smart gymnast, the Katos give an acceptable mannikin performance, Rice and Rudge are amusing in an eccentric bicycle act, and the Sisters Allen are good dancers. The Bioscope pictures are screamingly funny.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Charles Majilton's company in Round the Clock are the principal attraction here this week, and are cordially received. Happy Attwood in a good selection of quaint songs also obtains much applause, Young Igo is a clever clog-dancer, H. O. Wills proves himself a capable and amusing comedian, the Nine Zouaves go through some very precise military evolutions, and the McDonalds give a pleasing musical turn.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Gustav Fasola, an Indian magician, is the top star here this week, mystifying the audience with legerdemain and illusions. The singing and dancing of Emma Doris (black and white entertainers) are good, some clever feats of hand-balancing are performed by the Four Emilions, and the Goodfellows (American comedy duo) provide some smart and amusing patter. The Toreadors give a comic bull-fighting act, Babs Grimshaw is a juvenile mimic of much promise, and other entertaining turns are Fred Mason (whistling and singing comedian), Hess and Lisbon in an eccentric roller-skating act, Mannon's Merry Maids in their motor 'bus sketch, and an interesting series on the Bioscope.

MANSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Morella and Jennings; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. Jennings.—Mr. Oswald Brooks's company is here in the sensational drama The Trail of the Serpent. As Ethel Maynard, the heroine, Miss Marjorie May plays acceptably; Miss Ethel Stuart represents the part of Rachael in a capable manner; Mr. Booth Conway gives an excellent interpretation of Gipsy Jake; Mr. Hobson Asche is a capital Gerald Kingston; in the part of William Higgins Mr. Vincent Kelway causes much amusement; Mr. George Pateman is a good detective; Ralph Hammond is in the capable hands of Mr. Wilford Cheetham.

METHIL.—TOWN HALL THEATRE. — Mr. John Hamilton opened his second week here with The Woman in Red. In the name part Mrs. Geo. Loydall was effective; Miss Dukinfield and Mrs. Jack Carrick ably filled the parts of Francesca Donati and the Comtesse Donati, and Miss Agnes Hamilton made a winsome Minetta. Mr. John Hamilton was an amusing Matte Twitti; and Messrs. Edgar Hamilton (Victor Sanson), Will Henderson (Spada), Arthur Ashton (Count Claudio), and Jack Carrick (Bravadura) gave capable support. During the week the company also played Jerry the Tramp, Mona, The Red Cross, and Buffalo Bill.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company is this week playing The Face at the Window. Mr. E. Hoggan Armadale is a vigorous Le Loup; in the rôle of Paul Gouffet, Mr. T. W. Dunscombe displays dramatic gifts; Mr. Alfred Warne is a capable Henry de Brisson; and Mr. Gilbert Hall is well placed as Lucian Cortier; Miss N. Thorne-Hallam treats sympathetically the character of Marie de Brisson; La Pinau is cleverly interpreted by Miss Elaine Grant; Mr. C. Alan Hineson (Peter Pottlebury), and Miss Gwynne Warren (Babette) supply the comedy.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—Montague Beaudyn and Sydney Crowe's company in the drama, The Way of the World, is here this week. Miss Sydney Crowe is exceedingly good as Adela de la Roche; Mr. Herbert Skardon's Captain Slade is remarkably clever; Miss Marie Fontaine gives a fine impersonation of Mlle. Bellini; and Mr. Augustus Hammond as a broken-down swell does well. Mr. Arthur Chrisholm is clever as the circus rider, Cecil Montague, and Mr. Clarence Temple is good as Matthew Maylon, a disgraced clergyman. The racecourse scene, in which two thoroughbreds are introduced, is most effective

OPERA HOUSE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—Mr. John Clyde's company in the Scotch drama, Jeanie Deans, is here this week. In the title-rôle Miss Lillian Dare acts with much grace and distinction; Miss Mary Allan gives a fine impersonation of the Queen of England; Miss Clara Hunt's Marjory Murdochson is exceedingly good; and Miss Falconer scores as Effie Deans. Mr. R. Robertson gives a true interpretation of David Deans; and Mr. Herbert Bentone does well as the Duke of Argyll.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—An excellent programme is provided here this week, and good houses are the rule. The Wally-Hoste Trio head the bill and provide an interesting juggling turn; the Villons are exceedingly clever in their cycling entertainment; and the Three Sisters Jonghmans sing well; Dent and Harris create roars of laughter in their sketch, Mary and the Squire; Will Musgrave sings some catchy songs; and Harrigan and Holt are a clever pair of comedians.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf. Graham.—This week's programme is an excellent one. Millie Payne, who occupies the premier position on the bill, sings some humorous ditties in very droll style; the Waldrons, in their absurdity, The Silly Burglar, create lots of fun; and the Brothers Bright perform some smart gymnastic feats. Other acceptable items are contributed by the Three Royal Temples, Barret and Knowles, Dawson Dewick, Master Joe Conway, and Les Sprays, a dainty pair of dancers.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. W. Davies.—Mr. Frank Bateman's company is this week appearing in No Wedding Bells for Her. Mr. Stuart Lomath, as Frank Hatherleigh, contributes a finished piece of work; the Dick Delver of Mr. George C. Doughty is convincing; Mr. Edward Louis makes the most of his limited opportunities as Harold Trevelyn; Mr. A. Balfour Mackay gives a fine character sketch of Horatio Fane; and the humorous interpretation of the worried theatrical manager given by Mr. Herbert J. Dalton in the second act calls for special mention. Miss Lizzie Montague's rendering of Lola Delaspierre proves her an emotional actress of exceptional ability; and Miss Ida Mackay is a sweet and winsome Doris Fane.

NELSON. — NEW GRAND THEATRE. — Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft; Business-Manager, Mr. George E. Mudd.—Mr. C. Watson Mill and company are this week presenting A Wrecker of Men. Miss Rosalind in the r a gallant bearing and plays the part with artistic finish; Miss Marguerite Cellier is well endowed for the impersonation of Lady Mary Carlisle, playing the part with charm, grace, and dignity; Mr. Murray Hathorn as the Duke of Winterset presents a difficult character with considerable distinction; Mr. Arthur Somers submits an admirable impersonation of Major Molyneaux; Mr. P. Ramsey Forman ably fills the part of Captain Badger; and Mr. Conybeare Gough as Mr. Rakoll; Mr. Frank Stoney as Mr. Bicksett; and Mr. Leonard Laurence as Beau Nash; Mr. W. Barnett Parker as Lord Townbreak; Mr. Taylor as Mr. Bantison; and Mr. Arthur Follip, who doubles the parts of Marquis de Mirepoix and François, are quite adequate. Miss Annie Windsor is a success as Lucy Rellerton.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—Matt Wilkinson and company are here again in the screamingly funny interlude The Registry Office. Baroni and Kemp display talent in a lightning change act; Rose Archer is very good as a pianist and mimic; Serra gives a clever gymnastic act; Edgar Budden scores as a bone soloist; Violet Beatrice furnishes Irish melodies; Will Poluski sings comic songs; and the Palace Pictures are still a potent feature of the programme.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Mr. Millar Anderson's company, with At War with Women, has attracted appreciative audiences here this week. As Airel Romanoff Miss East-Robertson proves herself to be a capable actress; Mr. Millar Anderson gives a good rendering of Autolski; Mr. Reginald T. Vincent wins praise as Lieut. Alexis; Mr. John Soden is well placed as General Malakoff; and Mr. Edward Avinal makes the most of Ivan Clovitch. Miss Violet Lytton achieves distinction in the character of Frida Malakoff; and Mr. Fred Denham as Hans Phocas and Miss Nellie V Warden as Katinka are received with favour.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—Witty Watty Walton, the popular comedian, who is well received, tops the bill here. The Brothers Concoran, the musical shipbuilders, introduce a smart act; Miss Marie Gilbert, comedienne, is clever; the Five Arizonas, jugglers and foot equilibrists, are smart; Mr. Arthur Bright, Milanese piper, is an old favourite; and Mr. Will Percival, pedestral dancer; Messrs. Cliff and Kean, comedians; A. Douglas; and the Bio-Photoscope contribute successfully.

NORTHWICH. — PIERROT PAVILION. — Proprietors the Royal Pierrots Co.; Manager, Mr. Arthur Smethurst.—Among the newcomers this week is Miss Madge Allan, a pleasing soprano, who has met with a hearty reception; Martinerigo, baritone vocalist and 'cellist, is very successful in his 'cello selections; and Billy Gilmore's eccentricties are highly appreciated; the Hustlers are re-engaged, and Miss Hustler must be accorded the highest praise for her admirable work, both in her songs and the sketch; Mr. Glanmore Jones continues to be well received NORWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company, in The Freedom of Suzanne, is here this week. Miss Beatrice Lindley, in the title-rôle, shows great ability; Mr. Herbert J. Bentley is excellent as Charles Trevor; Mr. F. G. Thurston as Fitzroy is very comical; whilst Mr. Wm. Mallalieu ably appears as the family solicitor. Mr. R. Harley West successfully represents Lord Dachet, and Mr. Townsend Whitling scores as Capt. Cecil and Mr. Archie Selwyn is good as Tommy Keston. Miss Emily Patterson deserves praise as Lady Trevor, whilst Miss Charlotte Mead is an acceptable Tommy Minching. Miss Violet Ley is satisfactory as Lady Isabel Bury, and Miss Annie Stalman does well as Mrs. Tustall. Mrs. Mallalieu ably portrays Mrs. Putnam.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—This week's attractions include Will H. Fox, comedian-pianist, who heads the bill. Troba, juggler and equilibrist, shows marvellous ability; Coulton's Four Queries excite the wonder of the audience with their illusionary performance; D. W. Watson proves a clever cornet soloist; Fred Carr and Ada Rose amuse in their sketch, Catching the Catch of the Season; Hector and Paulus are good as hand-and-head balancers; and Casselli and James are clever banjo players. Morny Cash, the Lancashire lad, is highly successful, whilst Gray and Welford create fun in their boxing act, I'll Give You Duck. The Hippodrome biograph and Capt. Selby's band help to make a pleasing entertainment.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The presentation of Oliver Twist by Mr. Beerbohm Tree's company has brought most appreciative audiences. Mr. William Mackintosh admirably delineated the fierce cruelty and servile hypocrisy of Fagan, his portraiture throughout being convincing. The Nancy of Miss Hutin Britton is a fine piece of work, her well-simulated terror of Sikes being most realistic in its intensity. Miss Gertrude Lang plays Oliver in a sweetly pathetic manner, and Miss Edith King is good as Betsy. Mr. Cecil A. Collins makes a thoroughly repulsive Bill Sikes, and the villainy of Monks is capably expressed by Mr. Ashton Pearse. Mr. Tom Macfarlane acts well as the Artful Dodger; and Charlie Bates and Tom Chitling are keenly relished as played by Messrs. Edgar J. Coyne and Christmas Grose. Mr. Horace Adams proves entertaining as Brittles; and Mr. Ben Sewin contributes a sound rendering of Mr. Brownlow. Miss Elsie Carew earns distinction as Mrs. Maylie; and Miss Hilda Dick makes a charming exponent of Rose Maylie.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Chas. P. Cooke. A Royal Divorce is paying yet another visit, much to the delight of the patrons here. Miss Lilian Dundas essays the rôle of Josephine and plays it with much intensity and power. Mr. Frederick Moyes acts with artistic skill in his study of Napoleon. Miss Muriel Thompson embodies Marie Louise in a sufficiently austere manner; and Miss Gertrude Entwistle makes a bright Stephanie. Mr. H. Gray Dolby cleverly presents Talleyrand; and Mr. Henry Ludlow is effective as the Marquis de Beaumont. Praise is also earned by Misses Ada Kavanagh, Alice Metcalf, Teresa Gilmour, and Messrs. T. W. Ford, Charles Stanley, and Dennis Bryan.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—A couple of dramatic episodes, Husband or Child and The Man of Vengeance, are capitally presented by Forbes, Murray and company. The Sisters Hula score in their dancing; and Tiny Arnold calls forth abundant applause. The clog dancing of T. W. Royal gives great delight; and Joe Dale causes laughter by his songs. Alf Brookes gains his share of attention; and the Bio-Tableaux supplies some new and interesting films.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—The marvellous rapidity with which R. A. Roberts makes his changes in Dick Turpin compels the greatest admiration; Rezene and Robini are always a comical pair and laughter is long and continuous during their presence on the stage; Darc's marionettes also form a source of amusement; and Andy's Little Japs contribute a skilful and smart gymnastic exhibition. The clever juggling of Walter Belloni is a turn of exceptional ability; and the extempore rhyming of Sam Soda calls forth much applause. The sand-dancing of Rosie Coleman; the comicalities of Harry Conlin and Ernest Heathcoat; and a film of the English Cup Final by the American Bioscope are all excellent items well deserving their reception.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Hulme.—Mr. P. Howard Sturgess's company in A Queen of Villainy is paying a first visit here. Miss Edith Blande plays the part of Cora Granville with power; Mr. Edward Heanley as Stephen Faucit acts with ability; Miss Shirley Dalton is charming as Rose Delmayne, and Miss Amy Ross Clyde does well as Sally Chimes; Mr. Ernest G. Batley gives a spirited rendering of Alec; Mr. E. Carlton as Sir John Desborough is all that can be desired; Mr. Lawrence Stevenson gives much satisfaction in the part of Kit; and Mr. Charles Stirling is effective as Matthew Dawes. Miss Jessie Crammonde as Mollie Maggs and Mr. Charles Rodgers as Timothy Kodac are responsible for the comedy.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. J. Ball; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Eastwood.—Her Wedding Day is the attraction here this week, being presented by Mr. T. E. Ward's company. Miss Ward as Madge Conway wins favour; Mr. S. Herbert Humber plays the part of Harold Saxby in manly fashion; Mr. Augustine Knight in the heavy rôle of Weedon Kenyon is good; and Mr. T. Edward Ward does well as Seth Mayson; Dora, as played by Miss Eve Bertram, leaves nothing to be desired. Much humour is introduced in the parts of Dolly Klink, Mrs. Caccles, and Caccles, as played by Miss Beatrice Sinclair, Miss Ettie Spalding, and Mr. Fred Yarnold.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant, Mr. W. Howgate.—Mr. Leoni Clarke's cats, canaries, rabbits, &c., top the bill, and give a very interesting show; Coram is a big attraction as a ventriloquist; the Smythsons in the sketch Our Suite cause roars of laughter; Miss Lucretia, burlesque artist and dancer, also does well; Dale and O'Malley are well received; Bell and Henry are very good; and Mint and Mart, comedy sketch artists; Barney Stuart, actor-vocalist; and Harry Bickley, comedian, complete the bill.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Nuttall.—Frank Harwood, actor-vocalist, is the principal turn in his original scena In a Looking Glass; Harry Marlow and May Manton in Other People's Babies cause much amusement; Carden and Zesch, society entertainers, are good; and the Three Delaires on the trapeze and rings; the Coolvilles (Nancy and Edie), smart singers and dancers; Miss Edith St. Clair, vocalist; and Harry Levaine also entertain. The Dottoscope is showing an interesting picture entitled "Raffles."

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—This week Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is paying us a welcome visit with that bright play Public Opinion, which met with a most cordial reception on Monday. Mr. Percy Marshall makes a most humorous and diverting HoraceWibsey; Mr. Shirlea Lea is quite excellent as Mr. Justice Mulley; Mr. Douglas Hamilton is a capital Sir Bebington Mulley; Viscount Goffley and Lord Percy Kilgour find smart exponents in Messrs. Douglas Greet and Cecil Warde. and Mr. Charles Harley's Spencer Traughton is a convincing performance. Miss Moyra Creegan makes a most fascinating and interesting Lady Diana Caldershaw; Miss Violet M. Harley is good as Phyllis D'Agenlaine; Miss Nancy Beresford is quite at home in the part of Pansy Bligh, and the maid is well played by Miss Dorothy Lart. Public Opinion is preceded by a clever little duologue, Two in a Trap, by Mr. A. E. Drinkwater.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. G. P. Wells.—Miss Edith Isabelle's company is paying a visit here with The Girl from the Halls. Mr. Charles Ross gives a commendable representation of Rev. Hezekiah Twinkle, singing in good style; Mr. George Elsworth ably portrays Jack Weston; Mr. Cecil W. Parke is a success as the Hon. Richmond Graham; some bright and effective songs and dances are contributed by Miss Lillian De Vere and Miss Connie Laurie as Hon. Frederick Augustus Humphum and Janie respectively, and Miss Edith Isabelle is a charming and graceful Minnie Weston; Miss Ida Fane makes the most of Mrs. Twinkle, and Miss Emmie Thorne is praiseworthy in the rather thankless part of Penelope Ann.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—Mr. Thomas Thorne is this week renewing acquaintanceship with local patrons of this house in Our Boys. Mr. Thorne keeps the audience in the greatest merriment by his genuinely humorous portrayal of Perkin Middlewick; Mr. Norman Clark distinguishes himself by an excellent assumption of Sir Geoffrey Champneys; Talbot Champneys is cleverly enacted by Mr. Rex B. Foote; Mr. Randolph Reade plays effectively as Charles Middlewick; and Mr. A. Harding is good as Kempster. Miss Elsie Howard Ross as Violet Melrose and Miss Eva Lonsdale as Mary Melrose give excellent and delightful representations; Miss Bessie Harrison makes a quaint Clarissa Champneys, and Miss Edith Hesketh as Belinda submits a capital study. The curtain-raiser Jerry and a Sunbeam, is well acted by Miss Elsie Howard Ross and Mr. Rex B. Foote.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr. Delno Fritz.—The programme here this week includes Sam Thomson (Scotch comedian), Lizzie Lennox (soprano vocalist), the Two Rubies (refined variety instrumentalists), Nellie Kirk (chic comedienne and dancer), Jack Neil (comedian), and a clever scena, entitled Rob Roy; or, the Bailie in a Fix is taken part in by Messrs. James Anderson, Sam Thomson, Jack Neil, J. G. Anderson, and Miss L. Lennox, and Nellie Kirk.

PLYMOUTH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The dramatised version of Hall Caine's novel The Eternal City, is presented here by Mr. Bannister Howard's company. Mr. E. Stanton Sharp gives a finished rendering of the intriguing minister, Baron Borelli; Mr. Henry Deas sustains the rôle of the democrat, David Ropi, in acceptable fashion; and Mr. J. Fortescue makes a venerable and saintly Pope Pius XI. Mr. William O'Flynn is a fine rough and ready Bruno Rocco; and Mr. L. St. G. Lowther, as Commendatore Angelelli, is of material assistance in developing the machinations of the minister, Borelli. The representation of Donna Roma Volonna by Miss Marie Poloni is a carefully-presented piece of work, and richly deserves the applause accorded it; other members of the cast who are largely responsible for the success of the piece are Mr. Herbert Legerton (Charles Minghelli); Mr. Comberbach (Father Pifferi); and Miss Mary Grey (Natalina, Roma's maid).

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr. Mitchell.—The Master Criminal is being played here by Miss Winifred Chalmer's company. There is plenty of exciting incident, principally caused by the deeds of Telford Lestage, the Master Criminal (played by Mr. Harry L. Osmond), assisted by his confederates, Gentleman Jim (Mr. J. W. Gallagher) and Cecil (Miss Winnifred Chalmer). Mr. Elmore Frith gives a realistic representation of a Scotland-yard detective; and Mr. George Nuttal, as Simmons, is quaintly humorous.

PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Managing Directors, Messrs. Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr. J. Field.—Harry Grey is well received here, his "Carrie" song fairly bringing down the house; the O'Learys are a clever pair of burlesque acrobats; Orpheus proves himself master of numberless musical instruments; and the five Julians are a smart quintette of lady dancers. Albert Wyndham's company submit the trial scene from The Merchant of Venice in acceptable fashion; and the Cullane Trio have an amusing sketch, entitled The Ladies' School. The remaining items on the programme are Minnie Moran, comedienne; the Danbys, comedians; and Vernon's pictures.

PROMENADE PIER AND PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. J. Higson.—The band of the Rifle Brigade made their initial appearance on the pier this week, and submitted a most enjoyable programme to a large audience.

PONTYPRIDD.—ROYAL CLARENCE THEATRE.—Owners and Proprietors, Mrs. Trenchard and Miss L. Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—The attraction this week is Mr. Wm. A. Armour's company in What a Woman Did. The Marquis De Viray is well portrayed by Mr. Wm. Armour; Conrad de L'Orme has a powerful exponent in Mr. Edward Rawlinson; Mr. Jim Woods is distinctly good as Fritz; Mr. Fred Rignold as Peter Pippin is capable; Mr. Charles Earle well assumes the part of the Hunchback; Miss Dora Price is to be congratulated upon her assumption of Elsie de L'Orme; Miss Amy Ellam makes a fascinating La Papillon; and Fanchon and Nannette are well played by Miss Tina Shaw and Miss Bertha Clifton respectively.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J.W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Arthur Bourchier's capital company, under the direction of Messrs. Sylvanus Dauncey and M. A. Seveaux, is this week presenting here The Walls of Jericho. Jack Frobisher finds a masterly exponent in Mr. Edward A. Warburton; Mr. Alfred S. Barber is well placed as Hankey Bannister; the Marquis of Steventon is cleverly presented by Mr. Cecil Brooking; and Mr. A. W. Tyrer does well as Harry Dallas. Miss Amy Ravenscroft portrays Lady Alethea Frobisher in charming fashion, and the part of Lady Lucy Devenham is pleasingly taken by Miss Nona Wynne.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Mr. George Testo Sante and company are here this week with The Life of a Showman. The drama is chiefly written round Mr. Sante's strong acts, he being responsible for the part of Brien Leader, circus acrobat. Hendrick Murais, the villainous Boer, is capitally taken by Mr. Logan Darra; Mr. Edward Warden is good as the Rev. Cyril Arliss; and Messrs. Charles Osborne and J. G. Sante are successful in their respective parts of Stickers, the circus billposter, and Laurie Grey, a maimed musician; Agatha Winter is well rendered by Miss Amy McNeil; Miss Mary Warden and Master Harry Warden play the juvenile characters most creditably; and the comedy element is well looked after by Miss May Neilson as Angelina Mutton; Mr. Frank Sante as Tommy Allthere; and Mr. Ernest Turner as Ben Tic-Tac.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—A big success is again scored here by Arthur Prince, ventriloquist; the Knick-Knacks, comedy and dancing duo, are well received; J. W. Rickaby, comedian, is diverting; Elverton, the spinning marvel, gives a remarkable exhibition of baton and rifle manipulation; the Three Exaladors, double ladder performers, are a daring trio; Katie Marsh, in a pot-pourri of drama and song, is most pleasing; the McConnell Trio, comedy sketch artists, submit an excellent musical sketch; and also appearing and giving every satisfaction, are Eily Adair, soubrette and dancer; the Three Gilbert Girls, acrobatic dancers; and Cayne's Bio-photograph with new pictures.

PRESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Messrs. Lionel Glenister and Wood-Ingram's company in Sweet and Twenty provides a pleasing attraction here this week. Mr. Drelincourt Odlum gives a natural and effective impersonation of the Rev. James Floyd; Eustace has an excellent representative in Mr. Stephen Wentworth; and Mr. Lionel Glenister ably depicts the breezy yet earnest character of Douglas; Mr. Gus Wheatman as Prynne affords much acceptable amusement, and Mr. J. W. Wood-Ingram evokes laughter as Trehearne; Miss Zeta Russell is a bright and intelligent Chris; Miss Isabel Grey successfully fills the rôle of Ellen; Miss Dorothy Carrington makes the most of Mrs. Trevelyan, and Miss Ethel Weyburn portrays Joan Trevelyan with exceptional ability and charm, her singing being notable for its rare sweetness and delicacy of expression. A delightful musical farcical scena, entitled In the Strand, precedes the play, and is cordially received.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—A good variety entertainment has been presented at the above theatre this week. Mr. J. W. Hall was accorded an enthusiastic reception; Bell and Milstead appeared in an effective scena, entitled Arizona, which was greatly appreciated; Mr. Marcus Boyle scored a success with his mirth-provoking songs; Miss Ada Whitton's songs also evoked hearty applause; the Dekays gave a clever conjuring and comedy act; some beautifully illustrated songs were contributed by the Lovelaces; the Fontaines provided a cleverly-manipulated marionette show, and Mr. Bob Hartley's songs and dances found favour.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Lindsell.—Haley's Prize Juveniles in their carnival scene, including pleasing songs, choruses, and dances, prove a popular attraction; Gilroy and Cross are excellent comedians and dancers; Greener's songs are well received; Picitt and Lizette appear with success in a novel act called The Demon Chef; Bert Kemp is an entertaining lightning cartoonist; Farr and Farland are expert banjoists; Grapho and Jackson present a smart quick-change act; Les Rupertos display strength and grace in their equilibristic feats; the Knockabout Arleys are remarkably clever and diverting in their cycling turn; and Bioscope pictures complete the programme.

RAMSGATE.—AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. H. Bowman.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company has occupied the boards at Sanger's Amphitheatre, Ramsgate, during the past week, and their visit has proved a very popular one. The plays interpreted were Merry Wives of Windsor, Macbeth, Hamlet, and Merchant of Venice, while Sheridan's comedy The School for Scandal was given on Friday evening. The company is a very strong one. Miss Dorothy Green, who has appeared as Lady Macbeth, Portia, Mrs. Ford, &c., has nightly earned the enthusiastic plaudits of the audience for her fine acting, and another great success has been scored by Mr. Henry Herbert in a series of chief male characters, including Sir John Falstaff, Shylock, and Macbeth.

RAWTENSTALL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Co-proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller. — Mr. S. Smith's company opened here on Monday with the musical comedy drama, A Sister's Devotion. Miss Edie Desmond as Kathleen O'Connor was a distinct success; Miss Connie Arden as Molly Rooney scored with her clever acting and songs; Mr. Barney Doreen's (as Larry O'Malley) musical items were highly appreciated; Mr. George Harvie, as Jerrey Rooney, besides contributing enjoyable songs, acted with ability; Mr. Wallace Muirhead submitted a good performance of Thomas O'Connor; as also did Mr. Arthur Bell of Brian O'Connor; Mr. Sidney Ernest made an excellent Captain Dornton; and as Colonel Sanderson Mr. Rex Willoughby was everything desirable; Miss Fannie Harvie as Edith Sanderson and Miss Dolly Constance as Cormac O'Neil were capable exponents of those characters.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr. Reginald Taylor.—Mr. Frank E. Burdett's company is here this week with a new version of The Indian Mutiny. Mr. George Steel as Lieut. Manley, Mr. Cyril Harrison as Captain Manley, Mr. J. Davidson as Major Ingleby, Mr. G. Birch as Ensign Blake, Mr. George Scully as Teddy O'Brien, Mr. Villiers Stanley as Nebu Singh, and Mr. J. S. Sheddon as Abul Khan are all worthy of special mention. Miss Lillie Grey plays effectively as Kate Ingleby, and Miss F. Melrose Millett gives a powerful impersonation of the Brahmin priestess, Ghuz-Nah.

ROCHDALE.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—This week the boards are occupied by the Rochdale Amateur Operatic Society in aid of local charities. The comedy opera Merrie England has been selected for this season's performance.

CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Lee.—The George French troupe of acrobatic comedy cyclists evoke roars of laughter with their clever and amusing tricks; the Snow Family of expert skaters provide a mirth-provoking turn. Other turns are submitted by Arthur Gilbert, comedian; Sidney Dolf, vocal trickster; Mlle. La Tosca, artist's model; Condon and Preston, comedy artists; Lynn, the singing newsboy; and Vernon's animated pictures.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Cullen and Carthy, with Little Cluley, are a trio of clever comedians; the Lannons are smart pedestal dancers and vocal duettists; Madge Daly is a pleasing comedienne; Linton, the Mexican wonder; Dolly Harmer, comedienne; Johnny Worman, comedian; U. C. Ugo, in magical scena; and the Empire bioscope complete a capital programme.

RUNCORN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. H. W. Caddick.—After what one might call a run of musical weeks, we have again reverted to drama as presented by Mr. Howell Webb's company in the interesting plays, entitled The Price of Pleasure and The Convent Bell, the former of which was staged on Monday. Mr. E. Hartington creates a distinctly favourable impression as Gilbert D'Armand; Mr. Howell Webb provides an admirable reading of Sir James Featherstone; a like remark applies to Mr. C. E. Howell, as Charles Mordaunt, the solicitor; Mr. Richard Harris, as Sidney Roberts, a man with a past, is forcible; Tatters is well presented by Mr. Harry Clements, a versatile artist; Miss Lily Clarke is a charming Lilian Mordaunt; Miss Mara Collings appears to advantage in the rôle of Alice Rivers, and Miss Emily Huby does creditable work as Biddy.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Mr. Jarman's company is appearing here this week in Under the Czar. The many exciting incidents, including the execution by hanging of the Chief of the Russian Police as a supposed traitor, were closely followed by a large house on Monday evening. As Nicholas Yeroslaff, Mr. J. Hare gave much satisfaction; Miss C. Cavanagh was very successful in the trying part of Sonia Gregorovitch; Mr. W. H. Riley was a forbidding Russian Major of Police; Mr. C. P. Omalia was well placed as Count Nesseldorf; and Mr. L. Weston as Paul Ignat, and Mr. L. Brien as Alexis Petroff furnished some acceptable comic business.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—The Ten Loonies, in a Lunatic Asylum sketch, keep the house in roars with their eccentric performance; Payne's Little Vagabonds, in their comedy act, Old Daddy Watchman, are promising young vocalists and comedians; Michel and Polo's hand balancing and gladiatorial performances receive much applause; Kloff and Ramsay are comical in their musical novelty; and other acceptable items include Denby and Dent, in their tonsorial act; Andie Caine, smart dancer and comedian; Blanche Marion, comedienne and dancer; Evelyn Taylor, comedienne; and some amusing pictures on the Bioscope.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—An amusing sketch, entitled McKenna in Love, is the principal item of the programme here. Mr. Edwin Garth, as Michael Ryan; Mr. Joe English, as Timothy McKenna; Mr. Walter Childs, as Tim McKenna; Mr. W. G. Wesley, as Greenleaf B. Kent; Miss Amy Knott, as Mrs. Ryan; and Miss Hettie Lind, as Miss Mary Ellen Ryan, are the principals. Enigmarelle, presented by Frederick Ireland, is a scientific sensation; Wallace Whitney, character comedian, is very funny; Sisters Petrams show some clever marionettes; and good singing is contributed by Beattie Foster.

SCARBOROUGH.—PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman.—Curtis Leo (and his black piccaninny) in his conjuring and juggling act is the centre of attraction here this week. Miss Lottie Poole, serio and dancer, sings and dances in capital style; Syd Herman, Hebrew comedian, is well received; George Bernard is an old favourite here, and is accorded the applause he richly deserves; Frank Weir, comedian, in Who is it? is very humorous; the Brothers Hannaway score as patter comedians and dancers; Mlle. Rosini's dogs also appear; Vernon's Bioscope retains its place in a popular programme.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. George Zalva.—Good houses and a popular programme are the order of the day at this house. Stanley's Urchins have good voices, which are heard to advantage in part songs; Counsell and Mills are talented vocalists; Dunningarto, with his card tricks, amuses the audience; May Lloyd, comedienne, sings and dances with much grace; and Mlle. Du Roche is a vocalist with an excellent voice; the living pictures are also an attraction.

SEACOMBE.—IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Mr. E. Lockwood's company is proving a powerful attraction here this week with Sergeant Brue. The title-rôle is skilfully enacted by Mr. J. Harold Carson. Michael Brue finds an excellent representative in Mr. Frank Wilson; and Aurora Brue is prettily played by Miss Gertie Fawcett. Mr. Harold Godwin presents an important and capable Inspector Ooringe; whilst Mr. F. Laceby plays Mr. Crank with refreshing originality. Mr. Albert James comes distinctly to the front as Crookie Scrubbs; Miss Reydon Daltas sings and plays charmingly as Lady Bickenhall

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. C. Harrison.—Mr. Robert Perris's company is here this week with A Fight for Millions. Tom Manley is powerfully drawn by Mr. Perris; Hudson Rivers finds a capable exponent in Mr. P. George Beresford; the cool villainy of Richard Dudley is successfully shown by Mr. Watkin Wynne; as Willie Neverwork and Solomon Moses Mr. Frank Sutherland and Mr. Karl H. Edwards are very good indeed; Robert Mackenzie is satisfactorily drawn by Mr. George Hodges; as Peare Rivers Miss Eva Purcell finds great favour; Helen Dudley is played with spirit by Miss Elma C. Turner; Miss Audrey Canning is well placed as Mrs. Rivers; Betty is vivaciously portrayed by Miss Lottie Pearce; and Little Madge is sweetly presented by Miss Audrey Sutherland.

SHEERNESS. — PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor, Mr. P. Reymond.—A capital variety company is submitted here this week. The Kendalls, in their pleasing comedy act, The Masquerade Ball, are entertaining; the Two Daniels, negro comedians, provide plenty of mirth; the Sisters Charlton, duettists and dancers, are also received with much favour; Joe Long, bone soloist, contributes a pleasing turn; Miss Lillie Gainsley, burlesque artist, is well received; and Mr. Leonard Royal, descriptive vocalist, also scores.

SHEFFIELD. — LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—A delightful and interesting programme was placed before the patrons of the Lyceum on Monday by Mr. John Hart. First came Offenbach's tuneful and vivacious opera-bouffe, The Rose of Auvergne, with that great local favourite, Miss Stella Gastelle, as Fleurette, supported by Mr. Broughton Black and Mr. H. Scott Russell. Miss Gastelle acted with her accustomed charm, and her cultured vocalism was enthusiastically applauded. The scenery and dresses were thoroughly artistic, and the whole performance gave unalloyed pleasure to the large audience. The talented burlesque artists, known as The Follies, brought the entertainment to a merry close with their humorous skits and a funny burlesque of Hamlet, which caused great hilarity.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. W. Turpin.—The stirring transatlantic drama, Human Hearts, a piece replete with homely pathos, thrilling incidents, and humorous scenes, is being played to well-pleased audiences this week by Mr. C. W. Somerset's company. Mr. George Silver acts with manly vigour as Tom Logan; and other characters are cleverly represented by Miss Minnie Silvestre, Miss A. Pearson, Miss L'Estrange, Miss Rena Robertson, Mr. W. H. Tams, Mr. Ben McDale, Mr. Arthur Estcourt, and other capable artists.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—The first visit to Sheffield of the American play, At Cripple Creek, has been well heralded, and there was a big house here on Monday to welcome Miss Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's powerful combination. Mr. Hilliard Vox, in the picturesque rôle of Joe Mayfield, acted with great force and convincing sincerity. The two villains, Martin Mason and Manuel, were depicted in bold colours by Mr. Walter Thornton and Mr. Douglas Carlyle. Plenty of fun was provided by Mr. Will Hook as Reggie Harwood and Mr. Albert Rogers as a "coloured pusson." Mr. A. W. Layland was a striking figure as the Indian chief; and Miss Vera Fordyce, as Dynamite Ann; Miss Daisy Carlton, as Maggie Mason; Miss Ella Dixon, as Belle Gordon, and Little Freda, the clever representative of the child, Tatto, were all successful.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Proprietors, The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—There was a packed and enthusiastic audience on Monday to welcome the new-comers, headed by the great ju-jitsu wrestler, Taro-Myaaki, and other Japanese athletes, who were received with great applause. Mr. Harry Leybourne was very successful in his funny impersonations and quick-change business; and a notable contribution to the programme was the smart sketch, invented and played by Mr. Rex King, a clever protean artist. The Sutcliffe Family excel both as performers on the stirring pibroch and as active and graceful acrobats. The well-known Northern Troupe of Dancers were heartily cheered; Helene and Emilon do a daring and novel aerial act; Mr. J. Alexander's company caused laughter in a lively comic absurdity; and Derenda and Green, juggling comedians; Miss Jessie Merrilees, comedienne; and Miss Kate Trail, a refined entertainer, were deservedly applauded.

GRAND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—Mr. Fred Sothern's company, including Miss May Emery, in The Blind Mother; Allis and Cassiti, comedy merchants; Mr. Martin Henderson, blind vocalist; Miss Fallowfield, vocalist; Mr. Joe Olive, comedian; and Pallister's Bioscope, with the latest topical films, delight the patrons of the Grand.

CENTRAL HALL.—In addition to the animated pictures, the following performers are successfully appearing this week: Messrs. Nelson and Thomas, comic duettists and patterers; Miss Flo Warner, comedienne; Sydney Reid, vocalist; and Saxo, in a clever musical act.

SMETHWICK. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—The return visit of The Village Blacksmith is proving very popular here. Mr. Sam Livesey fills the title-rôle with success. He has an athletic appearance, and in the wrestling scene, which is cleverly done, he looks every inch the character. He is ably assisted by Miss Laura Walker, a charming and clever actress; a pretty child's part is that of Harry Strong, portrayed by Miss Bertha Hanbury; Mr. Joseph Carter is well placed as Capt. Leo, an athlete and rogue. The company also includes Miss Maggie Edwards as Ruth Parkins, Mrs. T. C. Livesey as Sal Perkins, Messrs. Edwin Maydew as Lucas Marlow, George Wilton as St. John Harman, Thos. E. Marshall as Jeremiah Parkins, and George V. Campbell, who causes merriment as Billy Twigg.

SOUTHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton.—Mr. Cyril Maude's company is paying a successful return visit here with Beauty and the Barge, which is highly appreciated. The representation is a capital one, and the mounting of the play admirable.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Nacnaghten; Manager, Mr. William Trussell.—The principal attraction is the Yags and Mary Trio, who excel as trick cyclists; the Frantz Troupe of lady and gentlemen acrobats are clever and well appreciated; Beattie and Blanche are dainty dancers; and Tom and Marie Motramo create great hilarity with their musical act, Do You Reverse? Lina Verdi is a clever mimic; the Two Errolls are wonderful jumpers; Lambert and Glover; Barrington, musical expert; and

Mr. Arthur Mervyn gave an excellent impersonation of the Rev. John Audley; and Mr. Claire Vera acted the part of Gilbert Westwood with marked effect. Mr. Clifford Spencer made the character of Simon Peter Muggs an amusing one; and Mr. Frank Stuart as Sergeant Snipe was most successful. Miss Hettie Jeffries as Dick acted delightfully; and Miss Rosa Mervyn gave a charming portrayal of Mabel Verner; whilst Miss Winifred Stuart filled the part of Katinka Vodsky with ability. Miss Agnese D'Aragon was a capable Mrs. Muggs.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—In addition to a capital array of talent a strong attraction is presented here this week in the appearance of Miss Elias Lims. The Arundels are exceedingly funny in their sketch The New Office Boy; Smiler Lee, comedian, relates amusing stories with success; and the Five Casino Girls, in their musical act, are pleasingly greeted. Lilian Trevelli, vocalist; Charles Russell, comedian; and Sam Dalton, comedian, are entertaining; and Bishop and Hanlon, knockabout comedians, provoke abundant laughter.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manageress, Miss L. H. Dale.—Wilson Barrett's last play, Lucky Durham, is here this week. Mr. Edmund Kennedy is a capital actor, playing the titular part with great success. The cast also includes a local lady in Miss Frances Wolviston, who appears in the rôle of Lady Mountfallen, a character she impersonates in excellent style.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—W. Selkirk's juvenile spectacle, All Scotch, performed by one hundred local children, is an admirable performance; Albert Athas and Lizzie Collins are good in their speciality; Henry Carlton presents a really funny absurdity, entitled One Night Only; and the Four Figaros, vocalists and dancers; Violet Morgan, in her impersonations; Rebla, the eccentric juggler; Maude Vera, descriptive vocalists; and the Boston Twins, comedians, are included in a really excellent programme.

HIPPODROME THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. George and Robert A. Nicholson; Manager, Mr. Wm. Ainsworth.—The Aurora Troupe of cyclists are topping the bill here this week; Flockton, Foster, and Co. present a comedy sketch, Ferdie's Ma-in-Law, which causes roars of laughter; Carlo and Maie are a pair of clever acrobats; Mons. De Lil, illusionist, mystifies his audiences; Harry Carmen, in his scena, Silent Jemmy, is good; and Kay's Komedy Kompany; Daisy Lane, comedienne; the Three Rubies, acrobats; Prof. Hulbert, ventriloquist; and Harry Hayton, merriment maker, are all well received.

STOKE.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—A capital house greeted Miss Harriett Vernon on Monday, when her songs were received with great appreciation; Goggin and Davies, in their turn, consisting of dancing, acrobatic feats, &c., are a distinct success; Francisco is a juggler of extraordinary ability; Mr. Harry Morris as a mimic is capital; Miniature Marie in her imitations scores most successfully; May Moodie, piccolo soloist, is talented, and her contributions are pleasing; Leslie Race sings a capital song admirably; York, Mac, and York, in their comedy act, A Widow's Troublesome Boys, are successful. The pictures are, as usual, entertaining.

STOURBRIDGE. — ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—Mr. Jack Cromo and his Pierrot Serenaders are fulfilling a week's engagement here. Mr. Cromo on Monday, in conjunction with Miss Amy Randolph, rendered several pretty duets. Mr. Harry Harcourt proved a capable comedian, while Miss Ella Rose sang her songs most creditably; the ventriloquial performance of Mr. Charles Chiff was excellent, as were the pianoforte solos of Mr. Francis Knowles.

SUNDERLAND.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—The Walls of Jericho is the attraction here this week. Mr. Herbert Bunston gives an admirable impersonation of Jack Frobisher; Hankey Bannister finds an apt exponent in Mr. George A. Brandram; Mr. Lawrence Hanvay makes the most of his opportunities as the Marquis of Steventon; and as Lord Drayson, Mr. E. F. Meads leaves little to be desired. As Lady Lucy Devenham Miss Molly Carron acts with chic and subtlety; and the Lady Alethea Frobisher of Miss Florence Jackson is excellent.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hemingway.—Mr. Morton Powell's company in Darkness (suggested and founded on "When it was Dark") is drawing crowded houses here. Mr. T. A. Shannon gives a masterly rendering of the Rev. Basil Gortre; Mr. Bonhote Wilson plays with power the difficult rôle of Constantine Schawbe; Mr. Henry Heller is good as the Rev. Mr. Byars; and Mr. Edward Valentine is seen to advantage as Sir Robert Llewellyn. Miss V. St. Lawrence is a pleasing Gertrude Hunt; and Mrs. Morton Powell makes a charming Helena Byars.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. John H. Stringer; Treasurer, Mr. Alfred Browne.—Sam Elton, the popular comedian, heads the bill, and is accorded a flattering reception. The Redferns, lady banjoists; Kent and Keith, comedy duologue artists; Maud Esmond, burlesque actress; Marguerite Ismay and her Piccaninnies; George Ripon, comedian; the Burnells, musical comedy artistes; and Selby and Myers, comedians; all contribute acceptable turns. The admirable entertainment winds up with an up-to-date show of animated pictures.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Captain Clayton; General Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—The attraction here this week is Ediscope and Barnum Animated Pictures and Variety Co. On Monday the whole entertainment went with a bang, the audience thoroughly enjoying it, and showing their unstinted approval. Lulu, the lady instrumentalist, plays some popular airs on the rope bells, mandoline, and various other instruments; the Two Ver-Vains, duettists and dancers, came in for loud applause; and the Two Allies, English and Japanese jugglers, perform some exceedingly clever feats; Mons. Aecrice, gymnastic equilibrist; Lyons, Irish humorist and ventriloquist; Vie Vernie, whistling comedian; and Miss Queenie Vane, speciality dancer, also contribute.

SWINDON.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners; Musical-Director, Mr. Fred Lucas.—That successful play, The Christian, has lost none of its popularity. Mr. Wentworth Croke's company, under the acting-management of Mr. Frank Brandon, is a fully competent one, headed by Miss Grace Chalmers, who appears with exquisite grace and finish as Glory Quayle. She is strongly supported by Mr. Frank Tennant, who is remarkably fine in his study of John Storm. Lord Robert Ure has an excellent exponent in Mr. T. Renaud Lockwood; Mr. Jackson Wilcox submits an effective portrayal of Horatio Drake; Mr. Stanley Ratcliffe is seen to advantage as Father Lamplugh; the part of Polly Love is in the hands of Miss Vashti Wellborne, an earnest piece of work; and the part of Mrs. Callander is undertaken with commendable judgment by Miss Molly Haydon.

TORQUAY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. Smerdon; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse. Mr. Leigh Lovell's company is making a welcome return visit this week. In the Duke of Killicrankie Mr. Guy Cary acts with distinction and ability in the name part; Miss Octavia Kenmore makes an admirable Lady Henrietta; the Mrs. Mulholland of Miss Celia Gordon is full of interesting by-play and detail; Mr. Lovell's acting as the M.P. is productive of considerable amusement; Miss Ethel Saville is an agreeable Countess of Pangbourne; and the other parts are satisfactorily filled. Sowing the Wind was played at the end of the week.

VENTNOR.—PIER PAVILION.—The Oddfellows, refined entertainers, under the direction of Mr. Squire Day, have become popular on the pier here The comedians, Messrs. Squire Day and John Graham, are undoubtedly gifted with more than average ability; Miss Elsie Edwards is a charming soprano; and Mr. Sydney Leon is capable at the piano.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr. W. H. Kirby's company is appearing here this week in the musical play, Somebody's Sweetheart. Mr. Percy Maitland is effective as Stephen Leverton; Mr. E. H. Bertram give an admirable portrayal of Stanvin Ashleigh; and Mr. Geo. P. Lester is successful as Leon Lee. Mr. W. H. Kirby's clever rendering of the part of Martin Blabbs keeps the house in continuous merriment. Miss Dora Condor is well suited as Freddie Ashleigh; Miss Cordelia Knight capably fills the part of Zora, and Miss Dot Reeves makes a charming Lulu.

HIPPODROME. — Lessee, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucas.—The programme this week comprises Miss Cissie Sullivan, a clever clog dancer; Bert and Dora, comedy artists, in an interesting turn; Miss Georgie Heaton, male impersonator; Miss Mabelle May, vocalist, who dances delightfully; the Fordyces (Jennie and Willie), a couple of smart juvenile duettists and dancers; Mr. A. P. Boswell, chair balancer; Reg Bolton, patter comedian; and A Terrible Tomboy, well presented by Mr. Alfred Woods and Charles Gould's Combination.

WALSALL. — HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—A good variety company here includes Miss Madge Grey, the clever dialect comedienne; Russell Wallett, "The Lady in Black"; The Skandias, an exceptionally clever quartette of gymnasts; Taylor and Danby, in their speciality Coal; the Greys, vocalists and dancers; Fred Lerry, a first-class comedian; and the Vandyke Troupe in Sensations. The pictures by the American Bioscope are interesting.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Miss Grace Warner and company are here this week in the thrilling drama The Scarlet Clue. Miss Warner in her enthralling portrayal of Scarlet Sal is much appreciated; Mr. George Gordon must be complimented on his Michael Stanton; Mr. J. Leighton Leigh doubles the rôles of the twin brothers, Jack and Harry Esmond, in a clever manner; Mr. Jack Clarence does well as Sir Desmond Lisle; Mr. V. T. Raymond as Billy (with songs), Mr. John Campling as Croker, and Mr. J. E. Tomlinson as Crazy Jim all display much ability. Miss Lizzie Palmer makes an admirable Elsie Dane, Miss Phyllis Massey as the boy Reggie, and Edith Rutland as Little Polly act commendably.

WALTHAMSTOW.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. Adney Payne; Manager Mr. Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Slatter.—One of the prettiest, cleverest, and "smartest" entertainments presented here for some time is that of Miss Alice Digby and her quartette of International lady dancers. Dances, with appropriate songs and national costumes, represent Spain, Japan, Holland, and the U.S., and the whole "show," artistically lighted, is received with rapturous applause that it thoroughly merits. The Sisters Silcott sing well in unison, and do some really clever dancing of the energetic order; Mr. Arthur Melrose is a good singer, and a wonderful whistler. A very pretty scena, The Carnival of Toys, is contributed by Miss Ida Kathrena. The bewitching little lady sings and acts after the manner of Alesia in La Poupée, reproducing the movements of a wooden doll with much humour. Her dancing is especially clever, and her singing sweet and refined. Great laughter attends the quaint doings of Rumbo Austin and his juvenile assistants; the Stella Troupe are an octave of dancers who do wonders, their performance on the swings being particularly novel and effective; Miss Ethel Arden, Mr. George Abel, and company appear in the popular farcical episode, Three of a Kind, which, acted in the truest spirit of farce, goes with a roar from beginning to end. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope shows some more than usually interesting pictures.

KING'S THEATRE.—Modelled on the lines indissolubly associated in the minds of older playgoers with the Adelphi Theatre, Conscience and Crime, written by Mr. Alfred Stafford, which is the attraction for the last week of the season at this house, is an admirable specimen of the class of play to which it belongs. The author, in conjunction with Mr. A. Murray, brings a capable company to interpret his work. Mr. George Wallace gives a powerful rendering of the old miser, Simeon Wolfton; and Mr. W. R. Winning is a bright and buoyant exponent of his son Mark. Mr. R. F. Stacey plays with discretion as Tom Cranleigh; Bill Markham is excellently portrayed by Mr. J. Myrom-Howard; Nobby Rutter, a nondescript, is cleverly rendered by Mr. John A. Stimson, whose songs enliven the piece. Other male parts are all safe in the hands of Messrs. H. Renshaw, P. Wells, and John Ward. Miss Maude Elliott is picturesque as the gipsy Agatha; Miss Dorothy Wallace is pretty and intelligent as Belle Redvers; Miss Lily Prescott is an engaging Mary Hazlecroft; and Miss Elsie Mesnard is a lively and tuneful Polly. The drama is capitally staged, the scenery being of unusual excellence. Mr. A. Murray is general-manager of the company, and Mr. J. A. Stimson the stage-manager.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—Miss Ada Wallis and company are here this week in the musical play The Major. Mr. T. C. McQuire in the title-rôle is the personification of humour; Mr. Nelson Silverne scores as George Goodman; and a clever character sketch of Jeremiah Stoney is submitted by Mr. Harry Vernon; Mr. G. Whitney is good as Ezekiah Stoney; and Mr. A. B. Allen, as Thomas Twickham, is a typical waiter; Miss Ada Wallis, as Angelina Touchemup, is the essence of vivacity; and Miss E. Tooney does well as Miss Emma Gampney. On Wednesday evening Sweet Marie was staged.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmot.—Another capital list of turns are billed here this week. Bonnie Goodwin and her Picks score in their vocal scena, and their coon dancing is rapturously applauded; T. E. Hughes is a comedian with a style peculiarly his own, and he makes many friends; Miss Masters is a capital vocalist; and the Lulaine Darrell Trio are novel gymnasts; J. H. MacCann is an expert roller skate dancer; and Burdon and Waite are original duettists; Hector and Sultan in their comedy acrobatic act are amusing; and the pictures depicting the recent football tie at the Crystal Palace are well received.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manager, Mr. W. J. Cranston.—Mr. Fred A. Marston's company, in the musical domestic comedy drama, The Silver Cross, is proving a big draw here this week. The parts of Ned Heron and Jack Fudge are successfully undertaken by Mr. A. Verner and Mr. Edward Bond respectively; Mr. Syd Bazley is responsible for the comedy part of Tompkyns Quinton; Mr. Frederick A. Marston does excellent work as Ben Adams; the rôle of the Rev. Nicholas Frewin is characteristically portrayed by Mr. Douglas Howard; Miss Lilian Rignold is warmly appreciated for her admirable rendering of Ida Adams; and as Laura Beechcroft Miss Ida Hender is seen to advantage. As Sally Beedles Miss Cissy Cleveland proves herself a capable artist.

WEST BROMWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore.—Mr. Arthur Carlton's No. 1 company in the drama The Span of Life is the attraction here this week. Mr. Sanderson Moffat successfully portrays the rôle of Richard Blunt, Mr. R. S. Trelawney submits a clever study of Dunstan Leech, Mr. Walter Dale makes the most of the part of Nutty Brown, Mr. Edwin T. Kisby does well as Joshua Gurnet. Miss Phyllis Hamilton is most effective in the character of Kate Heathcote, Miss Mary Moffat is decidedly good as Cecil Blunt, and the same adjective applies to the acting of Miss Kitty Russell as Shrove Tuesday. The Almo Trio work hard, and fully deserve the applause given.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Stanley Theatre Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Mr. William J. Miller and company are here this week in the romantic play called The Throne of Terror. Mr. Wm. J. Miller as Robespierre gave a good performance; Captain Eugene de Lisle was admirably portrayed by Mr. Roy Milton; Mr. Frank Fuller and Miss Kath Maude Davies ably embodied the parts of Comte de Roqueforte and Marguerite. Peppietta and Joujou (Miss Russell and Mr. Bert Ellis) were responsible for the comedy parts; Miss Ethel Maude was a capital Victorine D'Almonte; Mr. Chas. Fernleigh, Mr. W. Williams, Mr. Pallister Acock, Mr. W. Russell, Miss Irene Vane, Mr. R. Bowman, Mr. Renton Sax, and Mr. Henfield in their respective rôles also did creditable work.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Raws; Responsible-Manager, Mr. David Williams.—Lehmann's British Empire Animated Pictures are the attraction here this week. The following artists are also engaged—Professor Lehmann (shadowgraphist), Mr. Walter Norman (ventriloquist), Miss La Clair (descriptive vocalist), and Little Doris (a pleasing song and dance artist).

WEYMOUTH.—ROYAL JUBILEE HALL.—Manager, Mr. H. J. Nobbs.—The Youngest of Three has proved a powerful attraction here. Mr. Maltby had a most enthusiastic reception as George Wendover; Gerald was ably represented by Mr. Henry Hargreaves, and Mr. Wyn Weaver capably impersonated Philip Radford; Joshua Pynne was excellently played by Mr. Ernest Noble, and the Samuel Johns of Mr. Ralph Hutton was especially good, as were also Mr. W. Reginald Favel, Mr. Geo. Mortimer, and Mr. Ernest Noble as Loke, Hickey and Paul respectively. Mr. Geo. Laidlaw played carefully and well as Perkins; Miss Mabel Mellor and Miss Mara Maltby as Anne and Lucy Dulley were very graceful; Miss Beatrice Marsdene scored as Florence Dulley, while Miss Nancy York capitally undertook the part of Jane.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Lovers of the sensational and tragic in drama have had the opportunity of gratifying their tastes during the week in witnessing Mr. Lingford Carson's play The Power of the Cross, by Geo. A. De Gray. The uncanny and mysterious character of Baron Curzola is ably impersonated by Mr. Geo. A. De Gray, and the part of Gerald Fairfax is skilfully enacted by Mr. Fred W. Goddard. The humour in the situations created by Timothy O'Dowd is admirably illustrated by Mr. Richard E. Nugent, and Benjamin Hawke, a shady solicitor, has a clever exponent in Mr. Edgar L. Hocking. The part of Rita Lascelles, an adventuress, is played with forced subtlety by Miss Cissie St. Elmo, and Miss Lilian Ross as Blanche Kingsley; Miss Etta Turner as Dolly Gray and Miss Stanley Burt as Margaret Seaton portray their respective rôles very effectively.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Menotti, described as the Stockholm wonder, in addition to being an expert shot with the rifle, performs marvellous feats with the bicycle propelled at the rate of forty miles an hour, on a wire running in the opposite direction, and driven by an electric motor. Kelly and Ashby are very clever bounding billiardists; and Shawlene, champion whistler, and Maxford and O'Neill, repartee comedians, all meet with excellent receptions. Other acceptable turns are provided by John Ross, Oldham vocalist; Brady, Johnson, and company in the sketch, Turning the Tables; George Edney, character actor-vocalist; Marie Weston, vocalist, banjoist, and dancer; Von Etta, lady illusionist; and Little Dando.

WOLVERHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Lessees and Managers, Mr. E. H. Bull and Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Percival.—Messrs. Matthew W. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is appearing here in The Still Alarm. The principal characters are well portrayed by Mr. Matthew H. Glenville, Mr. Cecil du Gue, Mr. John Bird, Mr. Tom Beasley, and Miss Mabel Veriton.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Bernard; General-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—Lew Lake's comedy company is the principal item in this week's bill, and their absurdity, The Bloomsbury Burglars, is very amusing. The other attractions are Sanford and Lyons, patterers and dancers; Jack Pleasants, comedian; the Grosvenors, vocalists; Irene Rose, vocalist; Tom Shenton, sand dancer; Welda and Wynne, jugglers; and the Three Seymores, equilibristic artists.

THE HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lennox Barry.—Turpin's Ride to York is the principal feature here this week, the same being performed by Mr. Fred Ginnett and company. The programme also includes Lennie and Hast, in The Sea Nymph; the twin Sisters Edwards, skipping-rope performers; Russell Carr, ventriloquist; Beattie Mayer, comedienne; the Melroses, vocalists and instrumentalists; Ruby Norton, vocalist; and the Hippodrome pictures.

WORCESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; assistant-manager, Mr. F. Le Wards.—Under the somewhat curious title The Girl who Lost Her Character, a production from the pen of Mr. Walter Melville, of the sensational melodrama order, is this week meeting with generous support in the cheaper parts of the house. Miss Madge Haines takes the part of the heroine Molly Vernon very pleasantly, and generally the piece is admirably presented by the following:—Miss Marie McAdlay, Marion Franklin; Miss Ethel Bracewell, Rose Seymour; Miss Daisy Maynard, Isabella Jones; Mr. Frank Adair, Geoffrey Caversham; Mr. Wingold Lawrance, Jack England; Mr. George Gaisford, the Rev. Robt. Everton; Mr. G. H. Asquin, Dick Punch, &c.

WORKINGTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—On Monday night Miss Evelyn Moore's company presented The Crimson Club to a good house. Mr. R. Fenton was excellent as the hero, and he was sympathetically partnered by Miss Sidney Barrasford as heroine; Mr. F. G. Kay was a satisfactory villain; as Julia Miss Florence Delmar played with success, her dramatic style and commendable enunciation securing marked approval; Mr. P. J. Shaw supplied the comic element as Reginald Garside. His clever whistling solos were applauded.

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Miss Rose Moncrieff and company are here this week in Fun on the Bristol. Mr. George Tearle as the Widow O'Brien is excellent; Miss Grace Rosaire is a capable Nora O'Brien; Miss Rose Moncrieff as Dora McAllister is all that can be desired, her dancing being much applauded; Miss Lena Collier is a typical coloured girl as Bella Thompson; Miss Maurice capably enacts the character of Florence Washington; Mr. Hal Collier breezily portrays the part of Captain Cranberry. Too much praise cannot be allotted Mr. Sam. Poluski, jun., as Tom Cranberry, his comicalities thoroughly delighting the audience; Mr. A. Bodies as Count Menaggio does well. Herr Seebold, ever ready to improve this theatre, has, by lowering the proscenium and placing the orchestra in a far better position, not only increased their comfort but also that of the occupants of the stalls.

WREXHAM.—PUBLIC HALL.—Secretary, Mr Geo. Bevan.—On Saturday and Monday evenings Mr. Wm. Lucky Dobell and a well-selected company appeared at this hall and attracted good houses. On the first evening A Mockery of Marriage was presented, and on Monday East Lynne occupied the boards. Miss Norah Baker and Mr. W. L. Dobell filled the principal parts in a most capable manner.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This week Les Louberts, in their acrobatic sketch, entitled Uninvited, prove a big attraction. Mr. Hyam Long (comedian and dancer), Mr. Eugene Brant (eccentric), Cecil Terry and Vera Snowdon (duettists, dancers, and cross-talkers), Little Doris (quick-change artist), and the Empire animated tableaux complete a capital programme.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The Shop Boy is a flimsy morsel wound round Mr. Harry Pleon, but as it affords this clever artist ample opportunities to display his talent, it serves. Miss Celia Kent has made a careful study of the rôle of Blighted Birdie.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Sidney Brooke.—The company this week is one of all-round excellence. Mr. H. V. St. Clair's patriotic and topical songs find great favour; Howard and Collinson give an amusing and clever absurdity; Fanny Robina's success is undoubted. She sings clever songs in first-rate style. The amusing antics of the Bros. Durant are no less amusing than their gymnastic display is clever, and the Great Vincent does some clever acrobatic feats from high tables. Dan Agar, Florrie Cooper, the Revell Troupe, and the Bioscope complete the bill.

A VOLCANO ON THE STAGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—With reference to the paragraph in your last issue regarding the autumn production at Drury Lane, I desire to state that some time ago I completed a drama entitled Gone Wrong, in which the big sensation is an eruption of Mount Vesuvius. This play was finished before the last calamitous disturbances occurred, and the scenario submitted to several prominent managers in the early part of last year.—Faithfully yours,

CHARLES DARRELL.

54, Gurney-street, S.E., May 1.

WE regret to hear that Mr. Fred G. Locke, the prolific pantomime librettist, is now completely prostrated, and it is feared will never be able to do more work. His masonic brethren in Glasgow have interested themselves in the case, and any aid that may be forthcoming, and is sorely needed, will be received by Bro. Crichton, 9, Bridge-street, S.S.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

SYDNEY, MARCH 13. — The Brough-Flemming comedy at the Criterion is once more applauded. Little Mary is in the bill, and surely it would be hard to cast J. M. Barrie's three-act conceit better than it now is acted. Miss Beatrice Day as the Countess of Plumleigh looms largely in the piece, and each of this lady's impersonations serves to increase her popularity and value. Miss Winifred Fraser brings out all the points of Moira, the crank granddaughter of the author of the stomachic reform. Miss Gordon Lee is a mischievously pretty Lady Milly. The actress Eleanor Gray fell to the lot of Miss Emma Temple with satisfactory results. Mr. Herbert Flemming adds another success by his polished portrait of Sir Jennings Pyke, M.D., F.R.S. It is a scholarly piece of acting. Mr. Philip Leslie is a natural schoolboy as the Earl of Plumleigh; and Mr. John Forde is of inestimable value as Deighton. Mr. Carter Pickford gives character to Lord Rolfe; and all combine to tell the improbable story with the greatest amount of footlight plausibility. Tom Gallon's "one-act episode," entitled Aurora's Captive, preceded the comedy, and Miss Emma Temple scored strongly as Aurora Petunia Emma Gibbs; Mr. Norman McKeown was an admirable burglar, and Miss May Millward completed the cast of principals as a well-made-up elderly spinster. Mr. Harry Whaite was responsible for excellent scenery.

"THE SILVER KING" was revived by the Knight-Jeffries company at the Palace for four nights and a matinée. The cast was as before, with Mr. Harry Plimmer in his polished impersonation of the Spider. Miss Maud Jeffries and Mr. Julius Knight finish Mr. Williamson's season here on the 15th and 16th with The Lady of Lyons, in which Miss Jeffries will be the Pauline. Mr. Knight, Claude Melnotte, and Mr. Plimmer, Beauseant.

MR. GEORGE COPPIN, the veteran actor and manager, lies very seriously ill. He is now eighty-five years of age.

SYDNEY, MARCH 27.—Dr. Wake's Patient is a charming play of simple human nature, and as acted by the Brough-Flemming company at the Criterion evokes an unexpected amount of enthusiasm. On the 24th Mrs. Robert Brough made her first appearance in Sydney since her return as the Countess of St. Olbyn, and the lady's reception was extremely hearty. Miss Beatrice Day exhibited much charm as Lady Gerania. Miss Bessie Major's portrayal of the simple old Mrs. Wake was most effective. Miss Emma Temple gave a forceful embodiment of Mrs. Murdoch. Miss Kate Gair was a handsome Janifer; and Miss May Millward made a good deal out of the small part of the Gipsy. Miss Winifred Fraser imparted to Harriett Bronson genuine natural charm. Mr. Herbert Flemming's Andrew Wake will take front rank amongst his excellent portrayals of character. The Earl of St. Olbyn was a dignified personage as represented by Mr. Norman McKeown. The Dr. Forrester Wake of Mr. Carter Pickford was a capital performance. Mr. Phillip Leslie's Duff Wynterden was made thoroughly enjoyable. Laughter followed every speech and action, and the Bishop of Selby could not have had a better exponent than Mr. John L. Forde.

THE TIVOLI has just now an extraordinary bill. The new arrivals are Mr. Bert Danson and Mlle. Nada Moret, who are first-class artists, who leapt at once into popularity. The Miles-Stavordale Quintette, Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, the Barnard Marionettes, Miss Lily Cole, the Three Lees, Mlle. Ada Cerito, the Dancing Gilberts, Mme. Leon Caron (a fine soprano), Rochfort and Hart, and Martinetti and Grossi. These are all in Mr. Rickards' current programme.

MR. J. F. SHERIDAN is having huge success in New Zealand, and he does not propose to return to Australia yet awhile.

MELBOURNE, MARCH 14.—PRINCESS THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. William Anderson).—The lively and gorgeous pantomime, Sinbad the Sailor, attracted another large house on Saturday evening, and, judging by appearances, the short season of twelve nights should prove a highly-successful one for Mr. Anderson. The pantomime will only run for two more nights, the season closing next Friday evening.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. George Tallis).—Though weather conditions were decidedly forbidding on Saturday evening, a large audience witnessed Leah Kleschna, as played by Miss Tittell Brune and the capable company supporting her. The performance throughout was followed with the closest attention, and the frequent outbursts of applause left no doubt as to the audience's approval of the representation. Leah Kleschna will run till further notice.

THEATRE ROYAL (Lessee, Mr. Bland Holt; Business-Manager, Mr. Christie Simonsens).—Hall Caine's powerful play, The Prodigal Son, which is now in its last week in Melbourne, was on Saturday night again appreciated by an enormous house. Mr. Bland Holt thoroughly understands how to present Drury Lane drama in a convincing fashion, both as regards acting and stage accessories, and Melbourne playgoers are not slow to demonstrate approval of the stirring piece nightly offered to them at the Royal. The Prodigal Son will only run for two more nights. On Saturday evening next, Messrs. Meynell and Gunn will produce The Fatal Wedding, a play said to have caused a big sensation in America recently.

OPERA HOUSE (Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon).—Yet another novelty has been provided for patrons of the Opera House in the shape of the Scottish Meisters, a comedy quartette of glee singers, who have made a most favourable impression on Saturday evening. Their programme includes nearly all the old Scottish folk songs, which everybody knows and loves. The Scottish Meisters are a welcome addition to the company. Among other artists who contribute successful turns were Miss Fanny Powers, in her imitations; the Two Bells, in songs and dances; the Eight English Primroses, Tambo and Tambo, and Miss Alice Raymond.

MELBOURNE, MARCH 21.—PRINCESS'S THEATRE (Lessees, Messrs. Meynell and Gunn).—The laughable comedy, There and Back, was played on Saturday evening by Messrs. Meynell and Gunn's comedy company, and was most enthusiastically received by a packed house. Mr. J. J. Dallas was seen at his best as Henry Lawson. The part of Marie Antoinette Smith was played by Miss Florence Lloyd; who portrayed the character with vivacity and dash, her tasteful rendering of "Sue" in the second act elicited hearty applause. Mr. Aubrey Mallalieu as William Waring was well placed; while other characters were presented by Miss Florence Redfern, Miss Maud Chetwynd, Mr. Gregan McMahon, and Mr. Fred Camburne. There and Back will only be staged for a short season.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. George Tallis).—The popularity of Leah Kleschna shows no signs of waning, and another large audience was present on Saturday evening. The piece presents some strong points of interest, and the characters are most successfully interpreted by Miss Brune and the capable company supporting her.

OPERA HOUSE (Sole Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon).—Mr. Harry Rickards made his reappearance on Monday evening for a brief farewell season of five nights and one matinée. The popular actor-comedian has been many months off the boards, and his return on Monday evening was welcomed by a bumper house. Amongst the latest London coster and character successes which Mr. Rickards placed before the audience may be specially mentioned "The best, best world" and "Give my regards to Leicester-square," both of which he gave in his own inimitable style. Mr. Rickards received a perfect ovation. It is understood he shortly leaves for England, so his short season here will certainly be a record one. Other artists appearing at present include the Scottish Meisters, the Eight English Primroses, the Two Bells, Bitie Williams, Alice Raymond, and Tambo and Tambo, all of whom present interesting and novel turns.

GAIETY THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. Frank Clark).—Mr. Clark's folly company appeared in a complete change of programme on Saturday evening. The attendance was large, and the various artists each obtained a cordial reception. Miss Lucy Levinia and Miss Katie Kerr, serios and dancers, made their first appearance, their respective turns meeting with approval.

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. Ascherberg have issued a number of new works. Hugo Reinhold, in some characteristic pieces for the piano under the title "En Voyage," indulges in the usual freedom of Teutonic composers when attempting to be descriptive. He opens his series with "A Ride in a Boat," continues with "A Remarkable Meeting"—possibly he met a mermaid. Next we find him in a rose garden, where "Margaret Waits"; then a piece is called "Remembrance." Other items are "Bird upon the Branches," "At the Wedding," "Quick Resolution," &c. The subjects are capriciously chosen, but the musical setting is undoubtedly clever and artistic. The minuet "At the Wedding," might have been signed "Haydn," it has so much vivacity of style.

"I Need Thee" is a sacred song by Conrad King. It is an appeal à miséricorde to the Saviour, and has much expression. "The Madcap," by Cyril Burgess, is of a different character, telling of the pranks of a lively maiden who slides down the bannisters in a sheet to startle a visitor. She rightly calls herself "a merry girl." The great name of Rubinstein attracts us in a volksleid, which has many of the peculiarities of the composer. The pianoforte portion is by no means easy. Original part songs are by various composers, some of them famous, Meyerbeer being among them. Others are arranged from popular melodies, for example, Balfe's "Killarney."

"Serenata," by Theo. Bonheur, has great merits. Teachers of the pianoforte will welcome the piece, a capital study for youthful pupils. "It's the little things that tell," the homely philosophy of Mr. C. H. Bovil, finds appropriate setting in the genial music of Mr. Cyril Burgess, the combination being quite agreeable. The advice given by the author to the fair sex is not likely to be overlooked. The same writer and composer join forces with satisfactory results in "Sour Grapes" and "The Latch-Key." "A Southern Wine Song," words by Stanhope Gray, music by Paul de Loetz, is spirited, and some rattling arpeggios in the accompaniment add to the effect of the second portion of the melody. Napoleon Lambelet has displayed a lively vein of melody in his "Intermezzo Patrol." "The Choristers," set to the words of Clifton Bingham, by Bernard Phelps, has merit, and the arrangement by J. Airlie Dix for organ or harmonium is cleverly done. Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter are the publishers, as they also are of the following:—"Peggy O'Neil," a lively waltz, by H. B. Blanke, with a distinctly Hibernian flavour; "A Barn Dance," by H. Pether, entitled "Teasing," evidently justifies its title in the portrait adorning the title-page; Celian Kottaun, in his "Dance Poupée," has produced a very animated ballet air. The name of Celian Kottaun will be familiar to patrons of the Mohawk Minstrels, both as a player and composer.

Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter are also publishers of the under-mentioned works: "Jumper Johnson," a rag-time conceit, by T. W. Thurban. "Jumper Johnson" has the merit of extreme liveliness, a quality which will be a strong recommendation to many amateurs who consider classical music dull and slow, which "Jumper Johnson" certainly is not. "I Love You" is a vocal waltz by Luke Cavendish Everett, with a title-page representing two lovers under a trysting-tree. The melody is pleasing and tuneful. "My Ladye Fayre" is a medley suite of waltzes by Karl Kaps, based on popular airs. Karl Kaps is no novice in this kind of work. Francis and Day's "Scale Manual" for the pianoforte is worthy the attention of all teachers, and it has secured approval from many musical authorities. "Gertana" is a Spanish waltz by Chauncey Haines, who may be credited with a very

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA—1850-1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, April 26. — Arthur Schnitzler's drama Der Einsame Weg has been revived at the Lessing, after an interval of several years. With a magnificent cast the play made a profound impression, its subtle, psychological points being interpreted to a nicety. The interesting piece—which is considered by many to be the talented Austrian author's best work—was detailed in your columns on the occasion of its production. It depicts the erring side of humanity with almost Ibsen-like genius, while the touches of humour which occasionally glint through it are very bright and effective. Notwithstanding its good points, however, the play is not of a kind to become popular, and with any other cast but an unusually good one it would hardly score at all. Fräulein Lehmann and Fräulein Triesch, as Irene and Johanna, gave exceptionally fine impersonations, and the rôle of Von Sala is one of the best in Herr Bassermann's repertory. Herren Reicher, Sauer, and Stieler completed the list of principal artists, each giving a faultless account of the character entrusted to him.

WITH the close of the present season Herr Reinhardt gives up the management of the Neues Theatre, which he has run for the last two years together with the Deutsches. The latter theatre has always had a leading place, and has risen under the present management to a very high standing. Herr Reinhardt finds two of the same class theatres too much responsibility, so he has handed the Neues over to Herr Schmieden, who will continue the same kind of répertories.

HIS EXCELLENCY BARON HULSEN, the Intendant General of the Imperial Theatres, left for Wiesbaden last week to put the finishing touches to the "Kaiser-Spiele," the run of plays and operas to be given during their Majesties' sojourn at Homburg. The handsome Court Theatre at Wiesbaden receives a number of selected artists as "guests" for these performances (usually chosen by the Kaiser himself), and the acme of taste is brought to bear upon the representations down to the smallest detail.

THE Belle-Alliance Theatre has passed into other hands—it has seen many vicissitudes during the last few years—and will, with the opening of next season, be re-christened. Its future cognomen is the Lortzing Theatre, and, as the name implies, it will be an operatic house. Light opera and good-class operettas will be given exclusively. The admission prices are to be popular ones, within the reach of all, and a good all-round company—without stars—is promised. For the south-west of the city, which is destitute of any theatre of this description, the Lortzing should be a welcome acquisition.

AT the Opera House at Frankfort-on-the-Maine the four-act opera, entitled in German Die Fischer von Saint Jean, by Mr. Widor (director of the Paris Conservatoire), met with distinct success last week. So good are the reports of the music that it is highly probable the work will be produced in Berlin next season. The book is very simple, the plot being insufficient, say the critics, for four acts. Jean Pierre, a wealthy ship-owner, has a beautiful daughter, who loves and is loved by one Jacques, a pilot in her father's employ. The father will not consent to a union of the lovers, but in a storm Jacques succeeds in saving his life, and Pierre, in gratitude, opposes no longer. That is all the plot, but it is said to be well padded out by incidental episodes, while the scenes, including a launch and accompanying festivities, are exceedingly effective, both from a musical and structural point of view. The orchestration is said to be unusually fine and imposing, if with occasional reminiscences of Richard Wagner. M. Widor had not to complain of his German reception; he was called before the curtain at the close of each act, and enthusiastically applauded. The interpretation was, as is mostly the case at the Frankfort Opera House, extremely good.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, MAY 3.—The change in the bill of the Komische Oper had been eagerly anticipated, and good things were reported of the forthcoming work. It met, too, with a very cordial reception, and the composer was called before the curtain at the close in response to hearty applause. Truth, nevertheless, compels me to say the music is disappointing, and it is doubtful whether—in this as in so many cases—first-night cordiality is to be trusted as an omen for the future. There is very little originality in the music, and as little system. It is a confused mingling of marches, waltzes, student and volk songs, while reminders of familiar compositions are everywhere distinctly audible. One or two of the melodies are very pleasing, particularly Nina's aria "Es soll mein Leben untergraben sein," in the second act, which was applauded—having been admirably rendered by Frau Felser—by open stage. But these numbers are exceptions, and the music is, on the whole, noisy and expressionless. The book is drawn from episodes of the working classes, as is usually the case in a volks opera. Nina—whose raven locks have gained for her the sobriquet of "Black Nina"—is the pretty daughter of an innkeeper named Nicolo. She has had no lack of lovers, but with Hans—a factory hand—she has had a more serious liaison than with any, and when he turns the cold shoulder on her Nina's wrath and jealousy are boundless. She loves Hans genuinely, and he has cast her off for Grete, the burgomaster's daughter—his ideal and lode-star. So the girl swears vengeance, and for a time gets things all her own way. She stirs up the workmen in the factory, and promises herself freely to anyone who will kill the traitor Hans. At the last moment, however, as Michel is about to stab him, Nina throws herself between them, and receives the fatal thrust instead. With her dying words she confesses that she has worked upon the factory hands to revolt, and expires, after Hans and Grete have accorded their forgiveness. The interpretation was somewhat uneven, Frau Felser making a great hit in the title-rôle, while the part of Grete was far from satisfactorily given. Herren Mantler, Spielmann, and Buers gave excellent renderings of their respective rôles; and Herr Moris staged the work very finely, fully deserving the call he received along with the composer and artists. Herr Lango conducted with his customary fiery temperament and unquestionable skill.

GRILLPARZER'S famous comedy Weh' dem, der lügt (woe to him who lies) was revived at the Schiller O. on Thursday, with tremendous success. The large house was filled almost to the last place by an enthusiastic audience, and the exquisite humour of the piece was brought out adequately by the artists. Herr Kainz delighted in playing the cook's boy Leon, many critics considering it among his best rôles; and Herr Paeschke trod in the great actor's footsteps without losing any of his own individuality. He played it quite delightfully, with Frau Becker as an equally good Edritta. I do not know whether this piece has ever been done in English, but there is little doubt that it would prove a successful experiment.

A NEW three-act comedy by MM. Xanrof and Carré, the German title of which is Liebeskunst (the art of love), was produced with good results at the Residenz on Saturday. The plot is a familiar one; it has much in common with that of Der Prinzgemahl and several others. A young married woman, innocent and unsophisticated (in this particular case it is a Queen), fails at the opening to chain her husband's fancy. His youthful majesty finds his spouse less attractive than the queens of the half-world; so she goes to an authority in such matters to learn the piquant subtleties of love. Needless to say, she succeeds in winning her husband back with éclat. The part of the Queen was charmingly acted by Fraülein Dewal, the star of the Residenz, if such a word may be used in connection with such an all-round good company. Herr John was capital as the King; and other rôles were sustained in excellent style by Frau Brahms, Frau Gabri, and Herr Seldeneck. Herr Alexander—manager and actor—was for once missing from the cast, but Herr Seldeneck proved, in the part of the M.C., a most humorous substitute.

THE Royal Schauspielhaus revived last week Grillparzer's classical play Sappho, affording thereby two new artists an opportunity of making their bow to a Berlin audience. Fräulein Rominger confirmed the favourable impression she made at this theatre in the part of Gretchen in Goethe's Faust. The young actress gave the rôle of Melitta—the slave of Sappho—very sympathetically, earning much and warm applause. The second "guest" of the evening was Herr Geisendörfer, who will probably be engaged here as Herr Christian's successor, the latter popular artist quitting the Schauspielhaus and Berlin in a short time. Herr Geisendörfer possesses quite sufficient talent to stand alone, and it would be more gratifying were his performances not so palpably an imitation of Kainz's superb art. When the new artist learns to be himself he will be more likely to satisfy his audiences. His impersonation of Phaon was, nevertheless, a thoughtful piece of acting, and brought him a "call." Fräulein Poppe gave the name-part in her customary able manner. The remainder of the cast was adequate, and the mounting excellent.

A NEW play was produced at the Deutsch-Amerikanisches Theatre on Sunday, the author being Herr Adolf Philipp, the popular actor and manager of this theatre. Herr Philipp has repeatedly proved that he can write amusing farces and burlesques, but he is far less successful when he attempts a serious piece. Arme Mädchen is the title; "three scenes from the people," the author terms it, and the action passes in New York. It is confused and pointless, the scenes are very unconnected, while the sensational effects are far-fetched and unconvincing. The piece was fairly well acted, but neither that nor the interpreters appeared at home on the boards of the usually merry little theatre.

A TWO-WEEKS season of comic opera and operetta by the Hamburg "Operetten Ensemble," opens at the Berliner to-night. The opening performance is Franz Lahár's new operetta Die lustige Wittwe. There are a number of well-known artists in the company, one of the foremost being Herr Leopold Deutsch—frequently mentioned in your columns on previous occasions—who is among the very cleverest of vocal comedians. A second "première" this evening is Die Tragödie der Liebe, at the Neues.

AT the Lessing, Hauptmann's whimsical play, Und Pippa tanzt, is still being given several times in the week, and proving an attraction. Die Weber and Der Biberpelz having been revived, it is a Hauptmann monopoly this week.

THE Moscow Artistic Theatre Company have been performing at the Court Theatre at Wiesbaden, by the Kaiser's special invitation. Their Majesties were present last week at a performance of Czar Feodor, by Alexis Tolstoi, the powerful play witnessed twice by the Kaiser and Kaiserin during the Russian company's season here a few weeks ago. The Kaiser conferred upon M. Stanislewski and his brother manager the Order of the Red Eagle.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, April 30,
The Drama, in Five Acts, by Horace Stanley, entitled
"THE 10.30 DOWN EXPRESS."

Now in the seventh year of its tour, this sensational drama of Mr. Stanley's received a most cordial welcome in Marylebone, on the occasion of its return visit this week. The whole bearing of Mr. Charles Burdon as Jack O'Malley is an excellent one, in addition to which he speaks his lines clearly and well. The rascally James Inderwick finds a capable exponent in Mr. George Arthur, who infuses plenty of originality into his acting; Mr. Francis Serle makes a good impression as the alert Huntley Mason; Mr. Alaric Burton gives a careful rendering of Cuthbert Leigh; Mr. Tom Roydan is well made up as Seth Coombes; whilst Mr. Horace Stanley as the jovial Sam Wagstaffe, A.B., plays with a broad vein of comedy and clever touches of humour, to the great delight of the Maryleboners. Miss Elsie Capell enacts Bessie Leigh with much grace and charm, thus quickly securing the sympathies of the house; Miss Evelyn M. Walton provides plenty of amusement with her grotesque portrayal of the would-be fascinating Letitia Leigh; Miss Clara Santley is painstaking as Olive Coombes; and Miss Kate Kilpack is full of vivacious energy as the lively Peggy Potts. The piece is well staged and mounted, and quite deserving of the warmth of its reception.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, April 30,
the Domestic Comedy, by A. W. Pinero, entitled
"SWEET LAVENDER."

There has been quite a succession of what may be termed homely plays at the Dalston Theatre recently, and Sweet Lavender, which forms the attraction this week, can be classed among those which have been most keenly appreciated. The members of the company do full justice to the opportunities the comedy offers. The interesting and amusing character of Dick Phenyl is played with genuine art by Mr. W. F. K. Lancy. Horace Bream, the young American, is depicted to the life by Mr. Robert Minster. Mr. J. Nelson Ramsay is Geoffrey Wedderburn, the banker, who, although his acquaintance with the audience is brief, creates just the right impression of interest. Mr. H. Tripp-Edgar as Clement Hale, the hero of the piece, gets on the best terms with the audience; and Clemmie's charming sweetheart, Lavender, as represented by Miss Edna Godfrey-Turner, is equally popular. Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner is pleasing as Minnie Gilfillian; and Miss Eugenie Vernie as Mrs. Gilfillian attractively represents the widow. Miss Ethel Verne scores as Ruth Holt. Mr. Charles R. Hann as Mr. Bulger is provided with a part which offers opportunities for the display of dry humour of which he is not slow to take advantage. Mr. E. C. Matthews as Dr. Delaney and Mr. Walter Maclean as Mr. Maw complete the efficient cast. The comedy is preceded by the one-act play, entitled Lady Fortune. The management of the theatre, on behalf of Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton, is still in the capable hands of Mr. W. R. King.

ABOUT THEATRE CHAIRS.

CHAT WITH MR. A. LAZARUS.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

A comfortable seat in a theatre or music-hall, especially in the cheaper parts, means increased enjoyment to the spectator of the play or the listener to the song. Messrs. H. Lazarus and Son, the well-known chair experts, of 21, Great Eastern-street, E.C., have a patent automatic tip-up seat, the principle of which, we venture to predict, sooner or later, will be in evidence in practically every theatre and music hall of importance in the United Kingdom. The principal advantage of this seat lies in the fact that when not in use it remains elevated at an angle of about 40deg., so that even should the sitter forget that the seat springs up when he rises, it subsides when he goes to sit down, thus preventing the possibility of an accident. Additional benefits accrue from the use of Messrs. Lazarus's tip-up chairs, in that there is a saving of 5in. between rows in complying with the London County Council regulations, the patent contrivance being approved by that body; seats give the utmost space when pressed against for passing by; prevent ladies' dresses being crushed, and as they work by themselves, and require no handling, they save the labour of attendants.

In view of the increased comfort and economy of space to be derived from the installation of the Larazus patent automatic self-rising theatre chairs, the furniture of the firm cannot be too strongly recommended to theatre proprietors. These seats are specially suitable for circles and balconies, where the saving of space is a consider ation. The chairs can be made to any design, and carried out according to any particular style or period. Mr. Lazarus states that wherever these chairs have been fixed, the seating accommodation has been increased by 15 per cent. Some of the places of entertainment where they have been supplied are the King's Theatre, Glasgow, the London Coliseum, the Manchester Hippodrome, the Liverpool Olympia, Glasgow Coliseum, Holborn Empire, and Ealing Hippodrome; and orders are now in hand for the Edinburgh Theatre Royal, the Croydon New Palace, the Douglas Palace, and the Fulham Town Hall.

In conversation with Mr. Lazarus we learn that the firm has been in existence for close upon forty years, and for the greater part of that time theatre chairs have been their speciality, no less than 200 theatres and music halls having been by them supplied with seating equipments.

With a dash of humour and a touch of business, Mr. A. Lazarus says, "We have found that experience teaches, and we have learned a good deal in our time. In these go-ahead days we have made it our business to produce tip-up chairs to suit the requirements of all managements. 'Comfortableness, cosiness, and fine in appearance'; yes, that may be put down as our motto. When we turned our attention to theatrical work, one of our earliest patrons and customers was Mrs. John Wood—who had then just had the new Court Theatre built—and we made all the chairs to her own idea, namely, for visitors to sit in or upon in a position that gave the general impression that they were happily settled as in a library chair reading a book, with a foot-rest."

Some of the biggest contracts that Messrs. Lazarus undertook and completed were in connection with the "seating," as the technical phrase is, of the ball-room and the circus of the Blackpool Tower, under the direction of Mr. Frank Matcham, the seats in the car of the Great Wheel, and the seating of the gigantic Empress Theatre at Earl's Court. On the Continent, too, Messrs. Lazarus have done a large trade, and in France and Germany their automatic chairs, which the laws of those countries insist upon, have always been in great demand.

As we chat Mr. Lazarus incidentally remarks that they furnished the Biggarsberg Masonic Hall, Dundee, South Africa, a few months previous to the Boer War. A battle took place in the district, as we all know, but up to the present the building remains intact.

A regular playgoer, Mr. Lazarus has many pleasant reminiscences of past players of prominence, and his genial conversation makes the time fly with agreeable tales and laughter. But he returns to his muttons now and then, although the business of the day has gone to rest with the sun. He has business in his eye and on his hand, and we cannot help appreciating the enthusiastic way in which he expatiates upon the "quality, desirability, and uniqueness" of his wares.

"We have the chairs for all parts of the house, and—shall I quote from the catalogue?—in every shade of velvet, in every kind of wood, nicely furnished and upholstered. Well, but there, you can see for yourself. As I have already remarked, theatrical upholstery is our speciality, though we travel into other departments."

So we travel into other departments, and soon see that every requisite for theatrical use is provided and also for private convenience. Then, too, tableau curtains and proscenium borders are supplied, and also box drapery and curtains. Music stands, conductor's desks, and practically everything that is necessary in any hall or theatre are "on hand."

MR. CHARLES FRY'S revival at the Royal Court Theatre this afternoon of The Winter's Tale will have incidental music by Arthur Fox. Mr. Fry will impersonate Leontes, and will be supported by Miss Olive Kennett and Mr. Patrick Munro. This will be the first of Mr. Fry's Shakespearean matinées. The Merry Wives of Windsor will be revived on Saturday next, and King Richard the Third on Saturday week, May 19.

"ONLY HUMAN," a play in a prologue and three acts, by W. H. Harrison, was produced for copyright purposes at the Avenue Theatre, Sunderland, on the 25th ult.

"THE CRIMSON RAMBLER."

A Play, in Three Acts,
by Catherine Clilverd-Young,
Produced at Cripplegate Institute Theatre, on Saturday Evening, April 28.

Henry Sumners	MR. HERBERT BIRD
Sir Phillip Westland	MR. T. ORTON ROBERTS
Count Alberto Corregia	MR. CHARLES MOORE
Tomkins	MR. C. V. REYNOLDS
Lady Mabel Sumners	MISS INA ROYLE
Dolly Sumners	MISS LALA PELHAM
Hon. Clarice Knutford	MISS BEATRICE CHESTER
Dobson	MRS. FORRESTER
Maid at the Hotel	MISS ELIZABETH SCOTTIE
Mary Spindler	MISS ADELA WEEKES

Even if we were not acquainted with the name of the author of The Crimson Rambler it would be perfectly easy to tell that it was the work of a woman. Over and over again it affords evidence of the feminine temperament; but although the play shows considerable weakness in construction, it has some good points, which may be brought out to better advantage after the process of pruning to which Mrs.—or Miss—Clilverd-Young's playwriting effort should most certainly be subjected. There are occasions in the play when the authoress scarcely seems logical, let alone probable. And when, on other occasions, we do feel somewhat inclined to sympathise with her, the incident or the character is not described or drawn with sufficient forcefulness to carry us thoroughly into the situation. But, as we have already indicated, there is something in the play which might be turned to good account.

Henry Sumners is a factory owner, whose wife was at one time a famous society beauty, and even now is not without great personal attractions. As a girl Lady Sumners had had many admirers, but if she did one wise thing in her life it was in choosing Henry Sumners, who proved to her a worthy husband. Latterly her ladyship, who seems rather inclined towards a butterfly existence, has become estranged from her husband. The idea of his being in trade rankles in her mind. A friend of theirs, Sir Phillip Westland, is staying in the house. Sir Phillip was an old worshipper at the shrine of Lady Mabel's beauty, and she now seems to prefer his company to that of her husband. Sir Phillip, however, is really in love with the Hon. Clarice Knutsford, a poor relation of Lady Sumner, and he leaves with her ladyship's daughter Dolly a note to be given to Clarice, requesting the latter to meet him in the garden. Seemingly out of pure mischievousness Dolly hands the missive to her mother—though it passes one's comprehension why the authoress should make the girl act in such a manner—and Lady Sumner accepts the note as if addressed to herself, and, of course, some slight complications ensue between husband and wife. Meanwhile, Dolly, emulating the none too conscientious example of her mother, arranges to elope with one Count Alberto Corregia, also a former courtier of Lady Sumner. Dolly intimates that she yearns to go to London and be a grand lady like her mother, and succeeds in getting away with the unscrupulous Italian, and together they arrive at the Empiric Hotel in the Metropolis. Fortunately, they are closely followed by a maidservant, who has just been discharged by Lady Sumner for having been seen kissing the Count late at night. She warns Dolly of what may happen if she does not set her face resolutely against the Italian's overtures, and the marriage that has been arranged must on no account take place. A little later Lady Sumner and her husband, as well as Sir Phillip Westland and Clarice, make their presence known at the hotel, after a hot chase in a motor-car. Lady Sumner recognises that her own conduct has been responsible for her daughter's faults, and the thought of what her bad example might have resulted in brings her to a realisation of her faithlessness towards her husband, and a reconciliation takes place between the two.

With the exception of two of the ladies all the actors were amateurs—the Forbes-Robertson Dramatic Club—and it must be said to their credit that the play was on the whole extremely well handled. Miss Ina Royal was haughty and imperious as Lady Mabel Sumners, and her acting showed good style and an adequate appreciation of the requirements of the character. Particularly commendable was the Sir Phillip Westland of Mr. T. Orton Roberts, his portrayal of a man who had "roughed it" in other countries being notable for its breezy manliness and easy naturalness. Mr. Herbert Bird was scarcely convincing as Henry Sumners In the first place, he was not "made-up" sufficiently well to give the impression of approaching middle age, and he might have been the sweetheart or husband of Dolly Sumners instead of her father. Nor did he seem able to throw off certain youthful mannerisms which accorded ill with one's ideas of a more settled period of a man's life. Miss Lala Pelham was pleasing and spirited, if hardly childish enough, as Dolly Sumners, and Miss Beatrice Chester submitted a dignified portrait of the Hon. Clarice Knutford, and gave evidence of considerable ability. Mr. Charles Moore is to be congratulated for his amusing and characteristic study of an Italian count, and Miss Adela Weekes furnished a sympathetic interpretation of the rôle of Mary Spindler. Mr. C. V. Reynolds was exceedingly comical as the butler, Tomkins.

The Crimson Rambler was preceded by an amusing monologue, entitled Married a Month, by Miss Clare Shirley. It told the state of mind of a young wife whose husband's temporary absence from home leads her to imagine all manner of things are happening. Miss Louise Cordell agreeably acted the part of the wife

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, April 30,
the Operetta, in Four Acts, entitled
"THE DAUGHTER OF JERUSALEM."

The operetta, The Daughter of Jerusalem, as essayed by the members of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company on Monday, was in every way a complete success, and reflected great credit on all concerned. A strong chorus rendered the various numbers with admirable effect, and the management displayed their usual efficiency in the mounting and staging of the piece. Madame Zwiebel was a commanding and handsome Tirzah, in which part she used her powerful voice with skill and judgment. Her acting also throughout the progress of the play was in every respect of a high order. Mr. J. Scherman, a great favourite with the audience, distinguished himself by his humorous exposition of Abdon, and, with the capital assistance of Miss Bruh as Macha received great applause for some delightful singing and dancing. Mr. Scheck presented a manly appearance as the shepherd Namo, and gave a vigorous representation of the part; while an artistic character-sketch of the nurse Keturah was given by Mr. Axelrad. Mr. Schapira was entertaining as Prince Maasjuhi, and Mr. Goldsmith showed special adaptability as Azrikom. Good service was rendered by Mr. Katz as a high priest, Mr. Chizick as a heathen priest, and Mr. Landau as a stranger. During the week, satisfactory performances have been given of The Worst Woman, The Jewish King Lear, The Hero of Jerusalem, Benhador, and Mirella Efras.

MR. EDITOR.—SIR,—In yesterday's Era you ascribe to me a part in London by Day and Night, at the Grand Theatre, Islington. I was not playing there, but at the Crown Theatre, Peckham, in Human Nature.—Yours faithfully, IRENE ROSS, 23, Kildare-terrace, Bayswater, W., April 29.

SUCCESSFUL DRAMATISTS.

MISS CLOTILDE GRAVES.

My first dramatic work, says Miss Clotilde Graves, whose play The Bond of Ninon was produced recently at the Savoy, was a ponderous Egyptian tragedy in blank verse, written at the age of twenty-four, and produced by the generous kindness of the late Sir Augustus (then Mr.) Harris, at Drury Lane, November, 1887. The Christmas following, the late Mr. Blanchard being seriously ill, I wrote the pantomime Puss in Boots, and the children's version of the story, which was given away in picture-book form, was also from my pen. I had written most of the lyrics for the previous pantomime, and the choruses for the ballet with which the Empire Theatre of Varieties opened. In 1890, a little one-act play, Death and Rachel, was produced at the Haymarket Theatre, under the management of Mr. Beerbohm Tree; and Mr. and Mrs. Kendal produced in the United States, and toured with, a three-act comedy-drama, entitled Katharine Kavanagh, adapted by myself and Mrs. Oscar Beringer from a novel of mine, published by Dalziel and Co., entitled Dragon's Teeth. In 1893 the late Mr. Augustin Daly produced at Daly's Theatre, New York, a one-act play, of romantic mediæval type, The Knave; and that supremely gifted artist, Miss Ada Rehan, honoured me by creating the title-rôle. In November, 1894, Mr. Forbes-Robertson and Miss Kate Rorke produced at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, my three-act comedy, Dr. and Mrs. Neill, and Miss Rorke took the piece on tour, Mr. Brandon Thomas playing the part of the doctor. In 1896, my three-act farce, A Mother of Three, had a successful production and run at the Comedy Theatre. A Matchmaker, written in collaboration with Miss Gertrude Kingston, followed at the Shaftesbury; and, in 1900, The Bishop's Eye was a failure at the Vaudeville. In 1902, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal produced at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, a comedy written by me in collaboration with my friend Lady Colin Campbell, St. Martin's Summer, and afterwards toured with the piece. In 1903 my one-act Richelieu play, A Maker of Comedies, was produced at the Shaftesbury, Mr. Fred Terry making a big hit in the part of the actor; and the production of The Bond of Ninon at the Savoy is the most recent dramatic work that I have done.

My journalistic work has occupied the greater part of my time since, as a girl, I was received upon the staffs of Fun and Judy by the genial and kindly brothers Dalziel, and for sixteen years I have been a constant contributor of stories to the World. For the St. James's Gazette, in the palmy days when Mr. Sidney Low edited it, I wrote a great many articles; and the Lady's Pictorial, Sporting and Dramatic News, Pall Mall Gazette, Sketch, and Windsor Magazine have published a great deal of my work. The March number of the National Review contains a one-act drama from my pen, which will shortly, I hope, be produced at a West-end theatre.

GREAT QUEEN STREET THEATRE.

On Friday evening, the 27th ult., Hans Andresen's excellent company scored another success in the three one-act plays by Sudermann, classed under the title of Morituri. Teja, the first of these, depended largely on the acting power of Franz Schönemann, as Teja, and Else Gademann, as his Queen, Bathilda. The story, which is certainly concise, runs thus: The camp of the Goths is in a state of siege, surrounded by the enemy, their only chance of getting provisions being the arrival of ships, which are expected hourly. According to the Gothic law it is necessary that Teja should take a wife, and he complains bitterly at having to get wed at such a time. A message comes that the ships are lost or captured by the enemy, and Teja declares that the only thing left is to die fighting. After cautioning his men not to see their wives and children, Teja retires to rest. His wife, Bathilda, comes to him with food, which he divides amongst the soldiers, himself sharing a crust with Bathilda, in whom he confides. He tells her of the loss of the ships and the men's resolve to die, and she receives the news bravely. The King learns that his soldiers have disobeyed him, and have told their wives that they are going forth to die; but the women were just as brave as Bathilda, and sent their husbands off with their blessing to death. Franz Schönmann's Teja was an excellent piece of acting, possessing just the right amount of intensity. He was ably seconded by Else Gademann as Bathilda, her modesty and subserviency to the King being indicated with admirable delicacy. The three old warriors, Eurich, Theodemir, and Athanarich, had little to do, but that was done well by Willy Klein, Richard Starnburg, and Ottomar Bloss respectively. The minor characters were well sustained.

Fritzchen, the next play, offered a contrast in the fact that time has passed to the present, and the scene opens on Major von Drosse, a retired officer, and his niece. His son Fritzchen, a young lieutenant, who is manœuvring in the neighbourhood, comes on a short visit. He is secretly betrothed to Agnes, and when questioned by his father as to a scandal recently arisen with regard to a liaison with a Frau von Laski, he tells him that the rumour is true and that he has come to bid his family farewell. Having been found out by Herr Von Laski, a duel is going to be fought, in which the young officer is certain to be killed, as Von Laski is a crack shot. Von Drosse informs Agnes of the contemplated tragedy, and she bids the man she loves good-bye. Fritz promises his unsuspecting mother, who is in a dangerous state of health, that he will shortly return on a long furlough, and then goes out to his fate. Franz Schönemann again scored as Fritzchen, and acted with a nicety that was fully appreciated. Johanna Becker looked charming as Agnes, and her acting was very meritorious. Richard Starnburg, as Von Drosse, added another character to his varied list, and played it in that peculiarly thorough style of his own. Ida Weiss was good as Frau Von Drosse.

Das Ewig-Mannliche, which formed the third of the series, tells of a Queen who, tired of the fulsome flattery of her courtiers, endeavours to fascinate an artist to whom she is sitting for her portrait. Tempted and flattered by the Queen, the artist at length confesses that she is lovely, and she then allows him to kiss her hand; but he tells her he is a man, and will have all or nothing, inviting her to seal the compact with a kiss. The Queen is angry, and the Marshal, who is in love with her majesty, entering at this moment, tells the artist he must fight a duel. It is arranged that in order to test the Queen's love the Marshal shall pretend to be the vanquished one. The plan is carried out; the Marshal falls, apparently wounded, and hears the Queen speak of him in terms of contempt, while pardoning the artist his indiscretion. The Marshal then rises; and the Queen, seeing she has been imposed upon, banishes him from the court. The Marshal is grateful to the artist for disillusioning him, and they go out together, leaving the Court Chamberlain in future to represent the eternal masculine. This piece was delightfully played. Else Gademann acted charmingly as the Queen, the coquetry of the character being cleverly indicated. Franz Schönemann, as the artist, played with an ease and grace that well became him, and Paul Wind looked the Marshal to the life. Two Marquises were made extremely ridiculous by Ottomar Bloss and Georg Baselt.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, April 30,
the Farce, by Cosmo Hamilton, entitled
"THE MOUNTAIN CLIMBER."

One could not wish to have a better proof of Mr. Huntley Wright's versatility than to witness this popular artist in The Mountain Climber and in The Little Father of the Wilderness, the characters he sustains being totally dissimilar. In the former piece we see him as we have always understood him to be—a comedian with genuine fun-making powers. In the latter his extraordinary command of pathos takes his admirers quite by surprise and proves him to be a real actor. Mr. Wright appears at the King's this week under the auspices of Mr. Charles Frohman, who was far-seeing enough to retain the services of so brilliant a comedian for a long period, the first appearance under Mr. Frohman's banner being made in The Mountain Climber. The fun, mainly owing to the efforts of Mr. Wright in the character of Mr. Montague Sibsey, is fast and furious, and though the farce is built on a slight foundation, it is useful enough to show off his ability to the utmost. The company in support is an exceptionally strong one. Mr. W. R. Staveley makes an excellent Samuel Midgham, and Mr. Montague Elphinstone is good as Dr. Charles Midgham. The Arthur Lydbook of Mr. Eric Maturin is a distinctly clever performance, and Mr. T. McCausland Stewart as the enthusiast, Sidney Ketton, is successful. Mr. J. Sebastian Smith, as the editor, Watson Frimley, plays carefully, and Mr. Leslie Victor as Otto Jones excites laughter. The Swiss guides, Oscar and Sepp Rheinthaler, are exceedingly well rendered by Mr. Algernon Newark and Mr. Leslie Victor. Admirable indeed is the portrayal of Mrs. Montague Sibsey by Miss Kate Mills, a very painstaking actress, and charming performances of Alice and Betty are given by Miss Christine McGill and Miss Dora Barton. Lena is prettily undertaken by Miss Ivy Hertzog, and the maid Mary is brightly represented by Miss Amy Thomas. The Little Father of the Wilderness, to which we have before alluded, is a strong and beautiful playlet—one of the best we have seen. In it Mr. Huntley Wright displays marked ability as Père Marlotte, and he is ably assisted by the members of the company. The scenery, dresses, and appointments are most artistic.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, April 30,
the Drama, by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE PRODIGAL SON."

A great treat is provided here this week in the engagement of the great Drury Lane success, The Prodigal Son. The company is a powerful one, being, with a few exceptions, the same as that which appeared at the "Lane." It is mounted and staged with all the sumptuousness of the original production as to dresses, scenery, and effects, and its presentation here has created quite a sensation. The title-rôle, Oscar Stephenson, is impersonated by Mr. Norman Partriege, an able actor, whose work is at all times that of a thoroughly practised artist; Mr. Henry Renouf's impersonation of Magnus Stephenson is extremely good, every opportunity being utilised to the full; Mr. Henry George receives due recognition for his skilful performance as Stephen Magnusson, Governor-General of Iceland; Mr. Frank Collins succeeds admirably as Oscar Neilson; and Mr. Fred Grove is no less successful as the Pastor. Miss Lily Hall Caine deserves high praise for an exceedingly sympathetic, restrained, and artistic rendering of Thora Neilson, the trying and difficult scene with her sister in Act 2 being powerfully sustained. Miss Cecil Cromwell capably assumes the characteristics of Helga Neilson, and shares with Miss Caine full honours in the great scene in Act 2. Miss Alma Murray presents an admirable study of Anna, the Governor's wife; and the lighter element introduced by Miss Mima Renouf as Aunt Margaret receives clever treatment at her hands. Other performers who deserve mention are Mr. Phillips, Mr. H. Hewetson, Mr. H. Russell, Mr. B. Daly, and Mr. P. Gromer, all of whom very creditably fill their respective parts.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, April 30,
the Comedy, by Tom Taylor, entitled
"STILL WATERS RUN DEEP."

This week we have again the pleasure of a visit from those popular players Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, who are delighting large audiences by appearing in a series of their most successful plays. On Monday evening it was pleasant to note the warmth of their welcome, and the ovation they were accorded at the fall of the curtain. Tom Taylor's comedy, Still Waters Run Deep, was the play chosen for the opening night, and, though it is decidedly artificial in its construction, it nevertheless serves to give Mr. and Mrs. Kendal opportunities of displaying their talents to the utmost advantage. In the character of Mrs. Sternhold we again find Mrs. Kendal at her best, giving one of those finished and artistic performances which have always been so admired. Mrs. Kendal plays with such an ease, that no gesture or effect is attained by any forced acting. From the moment she appears she secures sympathy, and holds it throughout. As John Mildmay Mr. Kendal has a character which suits him excellently, and which he portrays in a finished and polished manner, giving a fine delineation of the quiet, self-possessed man, whose real strength of character is overlooked by those around him. Mr. Bassett Roe is most effective in the part of Captain Hawksley, and his acting leaves a marked impression. Miss Elise Clarens is most charming as Mrs. Mildmay, a somewhat weak woman; and that quaint old gentleman, Mr. Potter, is amusingly embodied by Mr. Ernest Hendrie, who again proves his skill as a character-actor. It is an altogether delightful little portrait. Mr. Metcalfe Wood is decidedly good as the Irishman, Dunbilk; while Messrs. Burnett and Denniston lend valuable assistance as Langford and Markham. Mr. W. M. Rutherfurd and Mr. F. C. Pool complete the cast. During the week, in addition to this play, The Housekeeper, A Scrap of Paper, The Elder Miss Blossom, and The Ironmaster have also been presented.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, April 30, the Drama, in Prologue and Three Acts, entitled
"PROOF."

This week Mr. John M. East takes us quite away from the usual English drama when he presents Sir F. C. Burnand's adaptation from the French, produced at the Adelphi some thirty or more years ago as Proof: A Celebrated Case. The foreign scenes and costumes come as a welcome novelty and surprise. The career of the unfortunate Pierre Lorance, whom we see in the prologue wrongly accused of the murder of his wife Madeleine, torn from his child and condemned to serve as a convict, until in the last scene his innocence is proved, is followed with intense interest. This is insured by Mr. Ernest Leicester's powerful impersonation. As Madeleine, the distraught wife, Miss Katherine Clarke rouses the audience to excitement by her realistic acting in the struggle with the actual murderer, Lazare. Later, Miss Clarke is seen to advantage as Adrienne, the daughter, and gives a remarkably finished performance. Mr. George Delaforce as Chamboran, the self-appointed guardian of Adrienne, submits a capital impersonation of the faithful, unreasoning servitor. As Lazare, the evil genius, Mr. J. C. Aubrey worthily earns the execrations of the audience, which are fully bestowed on him. Mr. Paige Lawrence, evidently by his reception a favourite here, is effective as Victor. Mr. Harry Crane makes a pompous Duke D'Aubeterre; and Messrs. H. Rhodes, Paul Peters, L. Stanislaus, C. Harrison, and J. C. Thompson, make the most of their respective parts. The experience and talent of Miss Ethel Carllyon as Valentine are very evident, and the character could not be in better hands. The finished acting of Mrs. B. M. de Solla and Miss Daisy England is of great value in the parts of Madame Deprets and the Duchess D'Aubeterre. In the small part of a French maid Miss C. Murray is decidedly chic.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, April 30,
the Play by the late Wilson Barrett, entitled
"THE SIGN OF THE CROSS."

Mr. William Greet's No. 1 Company is providing excellent entertainment at the above theatre this week in The Sign of the Cross. The dresses, scenery, and general appointments are exceptionally good, and the fall of each curtain was the signal for many recalls, the reappearance of the principals being demanded four times at the end of the third act. Mr. Wm. F. Grant as Marcus Superbus was a picturesque exponent of the licentious patrician, won over to the path of virtue through love of Mercia. Mr. J. Boyd Pearson's portrait of the vacillating Nero was full of skilful touches, revealing the real character of the brutal Emperor. Mr. Charles Aldred gave a clear and concise rendering of a hard Councillor, and Mr. J. Wetherall, if a trifle indistinct, was bluff and soldierlike as the Ædile, Licininus; the bibulous Glabrio of Mr. Frank Wood was always good comedy, and Mr. Harry Jones was an efficient aid as the effeminate Philodemus. Mr. H. Thurston Harris was vehement and realistic as the spy Servillius, and made the character a despicable creature enough; whilst Mr. Bernard Russell well supported him in the same calling as Strabo. Viturius, the Captain of the Guard, found a fine impersonator in Mr. E. Yaldwin; Favius and Titus, the two Christian patriarchs, were impressively rendered by Messrs. Walter Fleet and Geo. Stanton; and as the other Nazarene, Melos, Mr. R. Chapman did his little well. Miss Ivy Millnis made the suffering boy, Stephanus, a pathetic study. The honours of the evening were undoubtedly due to Miss Marie Leonhard, whose sweet presence and air of innocence made even the silent pauses in the part interesting. The merry Dacia and the stately Berenice were cleverly acted by Miss Cissie Carlton and Miss Alma Bolton. The singing of Miss Lillian Dacroy as Mitylene was of a high order, and the dancing of Miss Dorothy Stafford was good. The wanton Ancaria was vividly depicted by Miss Frances Irving; and Mesdames Lillian Gosling, Effie Dane, Beatrice Felstead, and Roberta Pulleyne were well dressed and efficient as bacchanals, slaves, and Christians.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, April 30,
the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled
"IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND."

It is an old saying that "good wine needs no bush," and it is equally true to-day that a good moral drama like the one presented here this week needs no puff. Although the prison system, around which the book was written by the late Chas. Reade, has long since been abolished, the story of the play is so thoroughly interesting, and preaches such a good moral sermon, that at every performance the Shakespeare, from floor to ceiling, has been packed with an appreciative audience. Mr. John M. East has got together a representative company, and their interpretation of the piece is very successful. Mr. W. S. Hartford shows considerable ability in his delineation of the reformed thief, Tom Robinson, and the coolness and resourcefulness of his acting are very pronounced. Mr. Cecil Calvert is a manly George Fielding, his vigorous manner and earnestness being well suited to the rôle. Mr. J. A. Rosier is responsible for a sterling rendering of the Rev. Francis Eden, and his stirring words, delivered with quiet dignity, in the prison scene, evoke considerable applause. Mr. W. P. Sheen is admirably suited as the rascally attorney, Peter Crawley, and his peculiar mannerisms cause much laughter. In the rôle of Mr. Meadows, the corn factor, Mr. Fred Dobell is seen to advantage; and Mr. R. A. Beeton ably depicts the selfish uncle, Mr. Merton. Miss Hettie Chattell, a winsome Susan Merton, acts her part with expression and sincerity, and altogether contributes a pleasing performance. Another good performance is that of Miss Jessica Black as Josephs, her pathetic acting in the prison scene melting many of the audience to tears. Mr. Kenneth Black is thoroughly effective as Isaac Levi, and Mr. W. Goddard does all that is possible with the part of William Fielding. A capital character-sketch of Jacky is given by Mr. Willie Purney, who keeps the house in uproarious laughter by his clever acting. The brutal prison governor, Mr. Hawes, is capably impersonated by Mr George Claremont. Mr. H. H. Young and Mr. T. Adams as the turnkeys, Fry and Evans, are very good indeed; and commendation is due to Mr. C. Clive as Abner, Mr. Tom Ellison as the village constable, Mr. C. M. Thomson and Mr. H. Smith as bushrangers, and Miss C. Edwards as Mary.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, April 30,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Maud Hildyard and Russell Vaun, entitled
"THE GREAT AWAKENING."
